Some Jobsess Turn Homesteader To Tide Out Depression

Millions of Acres of Government Land Lie Idle—Most of It Unfit For Purposes of Agriculturists

Lure of Pioneering Pursuits Still Appeals to Thousands of Almost Destitute Americans Bent On Evading Charity Despite Hardships of Times

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19—There's still land for homesteading—170,000,000 acres of it. Of course, the land is gone when every thousandth of an acre is taken up by a homesteader. Millions of acres of government land are still available in search of a home, but many will not be interested in acquiring government acreage.

Officials estimate that the area of homesteads first applied for during the past fiscal year—before it was 4,000,000—was 11,000,000. Many of the applicants are believed to be persons seeking a place to "ride the wave" of the depression. The total available for homesteading is in addition to any acreage that has been reserved for the administration's program to spend $2,000,000,000 for a back-to-the-land movement.

In this plain subsistence homesteads, or small plots sufficient to support a family, are being made available to play a large part. In some cases, farmers who are homesteading may have part time as a nearby factory. In others, they may form part of a "self-sufficient community," developing part of his time to farming and part to some other gainful occupation.

Much Dwindled Land

Practically all of the present public land is situated in the western part of the country. Most of it is not suited to farming, a large part lying in the region of the 100-mile rainfall and much of it being desert.

On the other hand, officials say, a large proportion is fitted for stock-raising, and cattlemen rank high in the lists of would-be homesteaders.

They are also interested in the 400,000 acres of land for 400 acres each.

Some Sensational Death Mysteries

At the same time, there are still parts of the public domain where it is possible to raise vegetation.

Blades in Out

The chief effect of the depression on homesteading has been to bring out persons who had a place to "ride out" hard times, department of the interior officials say.

A typical instance is that of a chemical engineer who found himself unemployed. His only income was a $12 a month pension from the Los Angeles pension board. He had a wife and two children. He had a small plot of land in the mountains where the climate is mild and where the fruit-cropper never comes.

Veterans Take Sites

Around Phoenix, Arizona, a number of ex-soldiers have found a cheap to homestead a few acres where they can grow their own vegetables. They hope that some day irrigation will make it possible for them to raise citrus fruit.

Many are also taking advantage of the new law that some day irrigation will make it possible for them to raise citrus fruit.

The lure of homesteading is not yet waned. Scenes like that pictured here—hundreds assembling for the opening of the Cherokee Strip, Oklahoma, to homesteaders in 1891—belong to history, but persons still are interested in acquiring government land, 11,000,000 fitting applications during the fiscal year ending in 1932. On the map the shaded areas in the western part of the country show the location and comparative areas of this public domain. The shaded portion in the east represents the approximate extent of the vacant public lands in continental United States, Alaska excluded.

was reached, and last Saturday agricultural adjustment administration officials recommended to Secretary Wallace that the project be abandoned unless producers could agree among themselves.

Accordingly, separate conferences started Monday and continued until it was decided to meet as a committee of representatives of areas affected by the farm act. Philippines and Cuban delegates were excluded under the agriculture adjustment act. The quotas for them would be left to administrative action.

Plans in Making

Plans already are in the making at the state department to work out a new economic policy toward Cuba to assist in the local republic reconstruction program. This is the fundamental consideration.

The war department probably will be asked to fix a workable quota for the Philippines. The problem of unrestricted imports from the Philippines, intensive opposition was maintained by Philippine representatives at past negotiations to suggestions that the Philippines be given a quota of about 855,000 tons.

Although an official pronouncement so far has been made on the new proposal, it was understood the Philippines would be given a quota of about 300,000 tons; domestic cane, 375,000 tons; Hawaiian cane, 275,000 tons; Puerto Rican cane, 275,000 tons.

The domestic consumption has been estimated at approximately 8,500,000 tons.

Collects testimony Mrs. Bassett indicated she will have the testimony of witnesses and the statements signed by the physicians ready for submission to the society within a few days.

Mrs. Schaeffer told Mrs. Bassett her suspicions were aroused when two women called and asked about the percentage of a baby offered them for adoption for $100.

After Mrs. Bassett was advised, an investigation was begun that showed four children—all born of girl—were available for adoption in the fashion over a period of a few weeks.

In each instance, Mrs. Bassett said, the mother of the child had advised her mother she would release her of the responsibility of caring for the child.

"The girls agreed because they had been betrayed and were at a low ebb, and because they were so desperately poor they could not pay hospital costs and care for the children," Mrs. Bassett said.

The public utilities will have their findings regarding probably late Monday and after timber interests are heard.

A renewal of the annual battle over assessments has already been promised by the board, which has been suggested with a presentation of evidence tending to show farm property is valued at less than the per cent each year, with utility lands have been placed on the tax roll at valuations allegedly considerably in excess of 100 per cent.

Others who have followed the Ford philosophy over a period of years suggested today that in his present attitude regarding the automobile code he is but giving another manifestation of his "go it alone" policy. This was his attitude in 1918 when Ford sought to buy out all his early partners in the Ford Motor company, and made it a purely family corporation.

SOUTHERN BRANCH PREPARES TO OPEN

Acting Executive Dean Completes Organization for School Year at Pocatello

POCATELLO, Aug. 19 (Special to The News)—With the return of the Acting Executive Dean Ernest J. Baldwin, organization has been completed to carry forward the work of the University of Idaho southern branch. According to a statement made public today, the dean is in charge of the activities threatened by the death of Dean John P. Dyer, but has been bridged by the action of the board of education and by the loyalty of faculty members who have sacrificed their reactions to the work of preparing for a second student body may go forward unimpeded.

"It has been my experience," Dr. Baldwin said, "that the spirit of sacrifice and cooperation evidenced by such calamities as Dean Dyer's sudden death is commendable. An institution for the tragedy of a great individual loss. We anticipate a successful school year."

Dr. Baldwin Interviewing Prospective Students

Dr. Baldwin is interviewing prospective students and renewing contacts with students who had been in correspondence with Dean Dyer earlier in the summer. Meanwhile, large blocks of work have been taken over by faculty committees. Registration details are being worked out by a committee under Professor Thomas F. West. Other faculty members under Professor Victor E. Jones, long in close touch with the employment office at Pocatello, are conducting a door-to-door canvass for part-time students.

Campus life will be regulated by a faculty body that probably will receive the disciplinary committee of which Professor A. C. Gough was chairman for many years. Dean Gertrude A. Dyer will continue to supervise women students.

Football plans have been completed by the athletic committee. Six games will be played in Idaho and with the promise of a strong team, Coach Paul "Puddin'" Anderson, one of the liveliest years in the history of the school. Four home games, featuring one Utah and two Montana teams, will be scheduled.

Actual conduct of instruction has always been under the direct supervision of directors of various divisions, all of whom will continue in their former capacities. Dr. Baldwin directs the division of letters and science, the largest unit at the university. Professor Eugene O. Leonard, director of the College of Pharmacy, and Professor George director of the division of engineering, will continue to supervise their curricula as formerly.

Increased Activity

Various important departments also are looking forward to increased activity. Professor Ethel O. Redfield, former state superintendent of public instruction, will continue the southern branch courses in education and maintain close relations with the Pocatello schools for purposes of teacher training. It is probably the first time in the history of the department that nearly half of last year's graduates obtained positions in spite of the depression.

Plans for the renovation of the Southern Branch plant were completed, according to school authorities, before Dean Dyer's death, and are going forward under the direction of the grounds and buildings department. The largest unit, which was closed during the economy program last winter, has been renovated and prepared for occupancy. This fall, four dormitories have been completely redecorated and "beehive" arrangements for boys are being approved. The campus was completely landscaped under Dean Dyer's direction.

Applications for registration are being received by Elaine Stone, registrar. With the last date for many applications set at September 11, Miss Stone urges interested students to take their applications to her as early as possible. Registration will start on September 11 and all classes will open Thursday, September 21.

Roger W. Babson Applies Character Test To People In Explaining Work Of Administration's Recovery Act

Success or Failure Depends On Answer Given to Question Propounded by Necessity of Statistician of Bay State

By ROGER W. BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass., Aug. 19—Here is a personal question for each reader to consider: "Suppose your vital supply of coal is being sold at $9 to $10 a ton by a coal dealer turned up under the National Recovery Administration with an insignia over his door and if you can buy the same quality at $7 per ton from a non-member of the National Recovery Administration, from whom would you buy your coal?"

Commodity hoarding. The real crux of the code lies not in the shorter work week or the minimum wage of $14 per week, but rather in the agreement to do your trading and to purchase your goods only from members of the National Recovery Administration. It is going to be a tremendous temptation to purchase at the lowest possible price, irrespective of the wages paid.

The National Consumers League, a most worthwhile group, have been fighting human nature along these lines for forty years with very little success. It is still possible to buy goods with the National Consumers' label in every department store of the land; but unfortunately these stores sell a very small percentage of the nation's merchandise. People are just human enough so that they will not pay the slight additional cost. Union labor has tried the same principle by having goods stamped "Union Made," but even members of the unions themselves do not demand goods with this label. They seek cheap goods to save a little money.

So long, therefore, as the blanket code is voluntary it will result in a tremendous amount of bootlegging—that is, bootlegging of commodities. This will be especially true in large cities where goods are made in thousands of holes and tens of thousands of homes. In other words, selfish people will see a great opportunity to undersell competitors by not joining the National Recovery Administration. These bootleg goods will get into stores and finally reach the ultimate consumer who will never know under what conditions they were made. Hence, the insignia may become in some communities a "red-flag" to buy, or rather an unmistakable mark of higher price. Therefore, say this new blanket code will be a real test as to the unwillingness of the American people. I am convinced that manufacturers and employers in general will be willing to make a personal sacrifice and pay a little more for goods manufactured under decent working conditions. I sincerely hope you are.

Possible Amendments

There is one feature to the code which I feel should be added, namely: it will be necessary to make some arrangement for the employment of young people just out of school—less than the minimum wage. Otherwise it will be very hard on boys and girls who are to get their first job, and on other inexperienced and inefficient people. Every employer is willing to agree to a minimum wage of $14 per week, but he is not willing to pay this to boys and girls just out of school who can get experienced people for $14 per week. This means that unless the law is amended, it will result in a large number of people being thrown out of work and more efficient people employed in their place. Perhaps this is part of the Administration's plan, but I can not believe it. This defect could, however, be easily remedied by providing for an "apprentice wage" for these young people out of school less than two years. There should be some amendment to help the small store-keeper who is the real backbone of most American communities.

I should like to see the code amended in another respect. Most of us are not keen to do business with a man who makes a promise and then fails to keep it. Hence, I believe that those employers who sign the pledge and receive the insignia and then fail to live up to the terms of the code should be handled severely. Their punishment should be more drastic than the mere revocation of their badges. Plans now call for the insignia to be displayed in a conspicuous place. I should like to see a pledge found guilty of not living up to his agreement the insignia should remain hanging in a conspicuous place, with the word "Cancelled" written across the face of it. There are two ways in which the blanket code may not work. First, it may not be endorsed by a sufficient number of employers; second, many of those who do endorse it may not live up to it. While we are conquering the first, we should make every effort to protect ourselves against the second.

An Unethical Movement The actual decision whether or not industry will cooperate with the government does not depend upon the big fellows, but upon the small, unscrupulous corporation, gigantic chain stores, or great public utility systems; it depends upon every individual including small employers in all parts of the United States. The government through political pressure can force big business into line but can never exert the coercion necessary to control millions of small employers. Everybody, therefore, should realize the crucial necessity of cooperating with the government. The quicker we get on the bandwagon the better off we will be. I am strongly of the opinion that employers do not endorse the code, or do not live up to it, provided they will eventually find some far more radical scheme taking its place. Therefore, I am in full sympathy with this experiment with the blanket code. It is a courageous step on the President's part, and the real test of the character of the American people.

Business, as regulated by the Babson-Moorehead, blind president of the University of Dublin, was elected president of the British Medical Association and delivered a 40,000-word inaugural address almost verbatim with the printed copies prepared beforehand.

There are two ways in which the blanket code may not work. First, it may not be endorsed by a sufficient number of employers; second, many of those who do endorse it may not live up to it. While we are conquering the first, we should make every effort to protect ourselves against the second.

An Unethical Movement The actual decision whether or not industry will cooperate with the government does not depend upon the big fellows, but upon the small, unscrupulous corporation, gigantic chain stores, or great public utility systems; it depends upon every individual including small employers in all parts of the United States. The government through political pressure can force big business into line but can never exert the coercion necessary to control millions of small employers. Everybody, therefore, should realize the crucial necessity of cooperating with the government. The quicker we get on the bandwagon the better off we will be. I am strongly of the opinion that employers do not endorse the code, or do not live up to it, provided they will eventually find some far more radical scheme taking its place. Therefore, I am in full sympathy with this experiment with the blanket code. It is a courageous step on the President's part, and the real test of the character of the American people.

Business, as regulated by the Babson-Moorehead, blind president of the University of Dublin, was elected president of the British Medical Association and delivered a 40,000-word inaugural address almost verbatim with the printed copies prepared beforehand.

CONTINUE HOMEWARD TREK

DUBLIN (AP)—The homeward trek of Irishmen is continuing. Official figures show that last year 26,689 persons landed at Cobh, Galway and Merilla. Embarkations totaled 17,023. Within two years 268,000 persons have come from America to reside in the Free State.

FOR THE BEST AND FRESHEST TRY BAILEY'S HOME MADE CANDY

Ford's Motor Company, Dearborn, Mich.

About this matter of minutes and miles

Henry Ford, Dearborn, Mich.

The speedometer is a little thing, but can be a big source of wrong conclusions.

On a recent test, two cars of different makes, with speedometers set at 0, were given each two gallons of gas, and driven the same road till they stopped. The top car won 7 miles farther down the road than the low car, yet the low car's speedometer showed that it had gone farther than the top car. Paper miles and road miles may be two quite different things.

It is easier to build a speedometer that will read 70 miles an hour than a car that will go 70 miles an hour.

A Detroit man who has a summer home in Northern Michigan, began several months ago to drive his first Ford V-8. He says:

"My watch tells me that I go up north in less time than I did before, but my Ford speedometer says that I go at slower speed, and the trip registers fewer miles. In my former car the speedometer speed was higher, my mileage greater on this trip, but with my Ford V-8 I go in less time and use less gas."

There is no mystery about that. His former mileage, speed and gas consumption were delusions. He figured by a speedometer that did not measure accurately, and was not meant to. All his costs—operations, repairs, upkeep—were calculated on a wrong basis. A wrong speedometer misleads on all these items.

Some car manufacturers justify this practice. They say it is just as well for a driver to think he is going 70 miles an hour when he is going only 62. Well, let that pass as to speed; does it justify telling every driver that he is getting more mileage out of his car than he really is? A speedometer measures speed AND mileage; should it cheat on both?

Spending up a clock cannot create more hours any more than spending up a speed-meter can create more miles. An hour is sixty minutes long. A mile is 5280 feet long. Ford mileage and Ford speed are accurately measured—they are there—you get them—no one gets more.

Anyone can buy speedometers and have them "fritted" anyway he wants them. We deal with manufacturers who know our strict stand on accuracy and are glad to meet our specifications. The limit of variation in Ford speedometers, a limit that cannot be avoided in manufacture, is 2 1/2 to 3 miles.

We get our speed and mileage out of our engine and wheels, not out of our speedometer.

FRACE IN COAL
If the NRA can get some measure of peace and order into the coal situation, that alone will be worth all the money that has been spent.

THE MAIN DIFFICULTY IS THAT, so greatly augmented. Unemployment, wages far below any normal level of subsistence, strikes, shut-downs, the most of the day at work everywhere. Company stores in some places have been virtually enslaved. Now has the plight of operators been happy one. Two often the mine have been operated at a loss.

SOME OF THE MINES WILL HAVE TO close. Whose and human standards in the others will have to rise. Some plants must be closed. The men thrown out of work must be fed. The whole unit is one of the hardest NRA will have to crack. But a showdown and general strike might have been avoided in part for a long time. The main fact that the problem is being attacked in the open is hopeful. The further fact that some of the big operators are joining with organized labor in the effort to improve the coal situation is a fact that they may yet be able to feed the country without a guilty feeling of stalling in the exploitation of those who provide it.

AN OFF NEGLECTED DUTY
Most of us know that as the situation when sounded by an alarm or the fire or police department, we rush to the emergency. How often that the same happens in the balance when the siren sounds.

None of us knows where are all well defined rules governing the conduct of the motorist. In the time when the siren sounds, we are to turn to the curb or side of the road to clear the path for the siren sounder's unimpeded, speedy passage on an errand of imperative urgency.

THE UNBREAD SCHOOLMAN
A man in a Pennsylvania town, who has been a director of the school board for seventeen years and treasurer for twenty more, was recently notified in court recently that he could not read, nor write, had never attended school, day in his life.

Being without educational advantages in youth may cause an appreciable delay in the full and complete development of the young people of this country.

On the other hand, school affairs sometimes conducted by wholly untrained people in such a way as to retard the progress of the child.

'Madame's Millions' by Harvey O'Connor

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—For some time past the literary world has been hearing that Andrew V. Mellon, his progenitors and related connections have been buying up two books, both of which have been published as one under the name of 'Madame's Millions'.

'This story is the story of what Mr. O'Connor calls the largest fortune in America. The other is an analysis of Andrew V. Mellon's character and characterizations, and a research into his life, designed to show why Mr. Mellon is what he is today.

'The book is elaborately documented with more than 500 pages of footnotes and appendices, and is accompanied by a series of illustrations and tables of figures supporting the facts and figures in the book.'

'The figures are startling particularly in a year when poverty is so rampant and the public mind is so full of a desire for a new order of things. Mr. O'Connor's figures, the industrial and banking interests were $1,000,000,000 in 1911—a sum to stagger the imagination.'

Washington, Aug. 19.—Whispering 'little flower' the parents of Florio LaGuardia of New York, said in midday when they were in the city on that day.

'And now that LaGuardia is a candidate for mayor against the incumbent, it is not surprising that the press is full of reports of his political activities in the city of New York.

'The main difficulty is that, so greatly augmented. Unemployment, wages far below any normal level of subsistence, strikes, shut-downs, the most of the day at work everywhere. Company stores in some places have been virtually enslaved.

5000 Persons Obtain Positions Through Government Operations

BOISE, Aug. 19 (Special to The News)—John W. Foreman, Pocatello, Idaho director of re-employment, estimated today 5000 persons had been put to work in Idaho through operation of the NRA program.

As to the number who eventually will be on the registration list, he said, he would be open to estimates, commenting that various sources indicated the unemployed in the state would total 10,000 to 20,000.

Although the public works program makes little provision for women, Foreman said, the committees will register unemployed women as well as men with a view to finding them work in industry.

"This list are to be open not only to those expediting employment on public works but those seeking jobs in industry," he said. "We expect to have the very best service possible for industry seeking help. The qualifications of each person registered will be listed with his name and he will be given work by the committee," the director said.

As to the number who eventually will be on the registration list, he said, he would be open to estimates, commenting that various sources indicated the unemployed in the state would total 10,000 to 20,000.

 NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The Giants' championship aspirations received considerable encouragement today as they opened their "crucial" contest with the Chicago Cubs in one of three strong Western invaders, with a 5-1 victory.

The triumph, coming while the Pittsburgh Pirates were losing to Boston, gave the Giants a lead of six games over the second-place Cincinnati Reds and second over the Cubs, who are third.

The Giants' fashioned their victory largely through the home run as Carl Hubbell failed to last the full distance after six innings on the Red Sox' Old without two circuit drives, his sixteenth and seventeenth of the year, and Frank (Tuffy) O'Dowd pitched for the standard knocked in six of the Giant runs against Lou Warneke, the Cubs' second baseman, and two successful.

 ST. LOUIS, Aug. 19.—Al Crowder, scored his twentieth victory of the season in defeating the St. Louis Browns 4 to 0, here today to give the home team their eighth consecutive triumph, but it wasn't Jack Burns' fault.

The big bryans first baseman knocked two of Crowder's offerings into the stands for home runs, driving in all three runs for Rogers Hornsby, who was the victor.

The victory gave Joe Cronin's pitchers a commanding lead of 81 games in the American league pennant race, as the Yankees' only competitors, stumbled in an extra-inning game to the White Sox.

The Senators landed on "Bump" Hadley for four runs in the first inning, and then coasted to victory. Hadley's Max Baer hit for the lead, driving a triple in the first and a circuit drive in the seventh.

Cyclists Compete For Special Place In Legion Parade

Twin Falls merchants have donated a number of pocket knives, flash lights, wrist watches, and similar useful articles to be awarded as prizes to the cyclist who is most effectively decorated by the American Legion parade which is to be staged in Twin Falls next Friday as a feature of the Idaho American Legion National Convention, J. L. Rodgers, state committee chairman, announced last evening.

Entries will be judged on the riders' appearance and the decoration of his bicycle. Boys entering the competition are to register at Mr. Hogan's office in the Bank and Trust company building before Wednesday, August 23. Only 20 boys will be selected from among those registered, and these selections will be assigned to a special position in the line of march.

Arrangements for the parade are almost completed, the committee chairman announced, stating that a growing list of Idaho promoters is applying that will do credit to Twin Falls.

The number of entries of industrial and manufacturer's floats is not sufficient to assure a separate industrial section in the parade, the chairman said, but the mechanical section, as indicated, is a brilliant display of color and design, with almost every Twin Falls merchant providing a display of some sort for that section.

Color And Music Distinguish American Legion Convention

THREE THRILLING DAYS AHEAD FOR TWIN FALLS FOLKS

Bugle and Drum Corps Play Big Part in Annual Assembly of Idaho's World War Veteran Organization

Triumphs that bare and drum that roll and play with colorful uniforms marching men composing Idaho's American Legion bugle and drum corps will bring to the American Legion department convention in Twin Falls this week.

It is expected that Twin Falls people have never before witnessed as many as the three convention days, beginning early Thursday morning and continuing until Saturday afternoon, the largest and most important part a prominent part in convention events.

The first section parade on Thursday afternoon, the bugle and drum corps will be in line along with the parade on the Lincoln field, that is to be illuminated for the occasion, the bugle and drum corps will compete in a spectacular annual contest for state honors.

Bugle and drum corps on Thursday evening will summon guests to the "Night in Paris" convention banquet which will sound an early morning reveille to rouse convention delegates and visitors, and it is expected almost all of the convention nights during the three convention days one or another of the bugle and drum corps will be in line.

In addition to bugle and drum corps of American Legion posts at Boise, Lewiston, Ruyter, Pocatello and Idaho Falls which already have made reservation for the Twin Falls convention, it is expected that the Emmett corps will be on hand. The Boise corps will be headed by C. H. Hodel, but year ago state honors at Pocatello, and placed for national honors at the Portland convention.

Women's Groups Feature

Boys and girls of American Legion bugle and drum corps will be in line at the convention, as well as the state contest, as well as in other convention events. It is expected that the girls' organization will attend and take part in the parade and Twin Falls convention events.

Bugle and drum corps and women's marching bands will make a distinctive contribution to the American Legion convention program which includes the largest number of more than ordinary interest to the general public.

The first of these events is the parade, forming in four sections at 8:30 P. M. Thursday, to move on promptly at 9 P. M. with bands playing and colors flying through Twin Falls principal streets.

The bugle and drum corps contest which is to be held on Lincoln field Friday evening is the second of these events and will be a public joint session of the American Legion and Auxiliary meeting the convention opening at the Olympia theatre at 10 A. M. Thursday.

Boys Leads

The convention will be at Twin Falls one of the national leaders of the Legion and Auxiliary, as well as many of the outstanding members of both organizations in Idaho and neighboring states.

Hay Grove, Iowa, chairman of the American Legion national legislative committee, will attend and take part in the public joint session Thursday morning.

Frank E. Samuel, Indianapolis, American Legion national chairman, will attend and address Saturday afternoon sessions, and Mrs. C. H. Hodel, American Legion Auxiliary western division vice president, is to be a guest of the Auxiliary convention on Friday.

"A Night in a Night Club" that will take the Legionnaires and their ladies back to the cabaret life of Paris is the "pam" that the convention banquet program will serve at Danerand pavilion on Thursday evening. Other convention events include a second Idaho Legionnaire and banquet and a Navy banquet on Friday evening, a "Navy and Eight" luncheon at noon, and "wreck" in the evening of the second convention day.

ALBERT RECALLS FIRST CONVENTION

Veteran Leader of Idaho Legionnaires Comments On 1920 Sessions Here

Lester P. Albert, Boise, Idaho American Legion department chairman, who will today open state convention headquarters in Twin Falls today, recalled the first Twin Falls convention for the week, has served as the Idaho Legion's adjutant continuously since it was chosen for that position at the Idaho Legion's first convention in Twin Falls in 1920.

Recalling the first Twin Falls convention, and indicating subsequent developments, Mr. Albert, in an address before the state of the Idaho Legionnaires, said:

"More than 13 years ago to be exact, I was on April 12, 1920, and drove into the city of Twin Falls to attend the first real convention of the Idaho Legion. Officially it was the second convention. We will never forget the sight that was revealed to me as I entered the city of Twin Falls. The streets were lined with hundreds of doughboys, glee and cheering, and a crowd of men in uniform—sawing staves from every corner of the state, and some friends and acquaintances."

"No Auxiliary in those days, so our women folks were superfluous. They spent their time trying to keep us out of trouble, but we were young and strong and soon left them behind. This was probably the reason for our organizing."

"We didn't know what it was all about—just kinda watched the parade go by. But the young folks were laid aside their fun and pleasure to buckle down to serious business. And what a revelation. The future of our organization was at stake and that gang of irresponsibles knew that as they swore so loudly they were going to 'conserve' the foundations for the building of the future of the Idaho department were of the future."

"Yes, we were there. We ran for our first office of any kind and fortunately, or unfortunately as the case may be, we were successful. We have been the beneficiary of the fundamentally sound deliberations of that group in 1920. Year after year we have watched the basic principles unfold into fine comradeship and worthwhile progress."

"But 13 years is a long time, and even as that infant of 1920 has grown in power and stability, so has a striking change taken place in its membership. We again drive to Twin Falls to attend the first Idaho Legion convention more, but we go as deliberate, mature men and women. Our hair is gray, our infirmities and pains burdened into our hearts during the years will be evidenced by the thoughtful and deliberate actions evolved from our sessions."

"Yes, it will be like coming home."

BALLOTS SHOW METHOD OF "DRY" LAW VOTING

Samples of the ballots which will be used at the September 10 election show that voters will not cast ballots through the use of a ballot box. The 19th amendment, which provides for repeal of the Eighteenth, The ballot lists 21 candidates under a heading: "For Ratification."

These candidates, it elected, will vote for ratification of the twentieth amendment, which means repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, as the coming state convention. The ballots list 21 candidates under the heading: "Against Ratification." These candidates if elected will vote

BLACKSMITHS CONSIDER ORGANIZATION OF UNION

Preliminary plans looking toward the organization of a blacksmith and machinists union in Twin Falls were outlined at a meeting attended by a majority of workers in those trades in Twin Falls, held last night at the Fredrickson and Knudsen farm, opposite the White City garage, on the Kimberly road. NEW ECONOMIES In Utility and Fast Hauling

THE new Ford truck offers a greater value than ever before in truck history. The dollar invested today in Ford equipment brings a return in fine materials and construction, and in fast, economical, ever-reliable service that far exceeds anything in past experience. Ford trucks are designed and built and priced to meet present conditions. They are backed by a proved record of long economical service. Nearly half the trucks of two tons capacity or less in use today are Fords. The Ford truck fits 90 per cent of all truck needs.

FEATURES OF THE NEW FORD TRUCK

The new truck work and sector steering cast 17 1/2 ton automatic bearing adjustment, rugged three-point mounting. Rear axle is of the three-quarter floating type, with heavy-duty, double roller wheel bearing beneath the load center. The four-speed Truck transmission selection sliding gear type, heavy-duty single plate dry disc clutch. The two-inch tubular shaft coupling shaft. Front universal has bi-parallel feature, permitting easy removal of coupling shaft. The straddle mounted pinion gear in the Ford Truck axle assures constant mesh between the driving gears at all times. The new semi-elliptic rear springs, 30" long; freely shakable, support frame 21 1/2" behind rear axle.

NO effort has been spared to build unflinching reliability in the new Ford truck chassis. It is designed throughout for truck service. Mechanical excellence has been brought about by careful engineering, by the use of the finest materials and by precision manufacture. Strength and stamina have been built into every part. For example, the extensive use of steel forgings and electric weldings, the judicious selection of 23 various roller and ball bearing types to obtain the greatest efficiency for each particular need, the fully shakled semi-elliptic rear springs for full body support, the tubular steel drive and coupling shafts, the 3-4 floating rear axle with straddle mounted driving pinion, the rugged frame, the full torque tube drive with tubular steel rear radius rods, the heavy duty enclosed universal joints, the improved steering—and other important structural features all bear the mark of the most painstaking engineering design and workmanship.

FOR greater power and increased speed the new 75-horsepower 8-cylinder engine meets every requirement of economy and dependability. The high torque and horsepower of the V-8 engine give the new Ford truck remarkable performance under all operating conditions. The torque reaches its maximum of 148 pounds-feet at the low engine speed of 1200 r.p.m. Still more important, the torque remains relatively constant over a wide range of engine speeds, being in excess of 140 pounds-feet from 750 to 2200 r.p.m.

Owing to the inherent characteristics of the new Ford V-8 engine it is sturdy, compact and simple in design. Its adequate power output to handle peak loads as well as to operate fully loaded trucks at higher speeds over long distance hauls insures maximum efficiency and economy providing the utmost in available power plant for commercial transportation. In all parts of the country, fleet owners and individual operators have proved the superiority of this unit in solving their trucking problems.
