BULGARIAN ACTION SEEN AS LINK IN FRANCE'S DEFENSE

Nations Listed in Projected Alliance Would Touch Every Border of Germany To Isolate Nazi Power

By STANLEY G. THOMPSON (Associated Press Staff)

The coup d'etat in Bulgaria, placing in power a group considered pro-French and removing their regard as influenced by Italy, was looked upon in most European capitals Wednesday as furnishing the one link needed to isolate Nazi Germany in the middle of a military alliance.

While the agreement has been signed, it is expected that friends of France has been widely discussed. It carried out the defense chain would touch every border of Germany and would be the strongest European combination since the Holy Roman Empire.

NRA CHIEF PLANS NEW SERVICE CODE

Johnson Outlines Rationalization of Rules for Some Industries

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Under vigorous pressure from coded industries for continuance of their agreements, Hugh S. Johnson has come to the conclusion that no code can be abandoned outright by NRA, despite the grief some have caused the administration.

He has laid before President Roosevelt his plan for a plan for "nationalization" of the service code—hotels, restaurants, beauty parlors, barber shops, dry cleaners, etc., which sell service but not goods—and he still hopes to cut down the great number of miscellaneous code groups by merging all similar groups into the last general groupings which can economically be formed.

He repeated again that retail trades which act instead of service will continue as they are, and observed that those codes had caused little or no trouble and complaint.

Johnson declined to say just how the simplified procedure on service trades would be operated, pending the president's acceptance of the proposed policy, but it definitely will take off NRA the job of trying to enforce price provisions and similar arrangements into the last general groups do not want to comply.

Joe K. manager of the Roxy theatre has booked the latest picture of the "Hippocorin"—hard-riding—hard-shooting Ken Maynard, King of Cowboys, called "Gun Justice." It will be seen here tomorrow and Saturday. In "Gun Justice" Ken outdoes his performance in "Strawberry Roan," and to do the "post western picture" made in the past few years. Pitted against not one set of plains hoodlums but two, who want to get control of a ranch willed to him, Ken gives plenty of trouble. He ropes men, shoots more men, stops ranchers from driving herds through his property, does plenty of investigating, brings the crooks to justice against great odds, and—Last but not least, he wins the beautiful Cecilia Parker for his own—no saying of a ranch he treats.

And is Tarzan there? You bet—and backin' up Ken in every move he makes. "Gun Justice." John Barrymore featured in "Long Lost Father," heading the final "Guest Ticket" program is showing last time today.

ORPHEUM TO PRESENT LANNY ROSS PICTURE

"Melody in Spring" brings Lanny Ross to the Orpheum theatre screen beginning tomorrow. Lanny is the second radio crooner to be hailed as a movie find, and like Bing Crosby, he brings, in addition to a rich and popular voice, a refreshing new personality to the screen. "Melody in Spring" is a lulling romantic comedy, gives him an opportunity to sing and romance, playing an ambitious young actor who pursues a famous radio advertiser, Warren Blodgett (Charles Farnsworth), to a quaint New England hotel. He seizes his chance of making an impression by catching Blodgett who is a "collector," removing a George Washington bed-knob and hating him as a thief. From that moment the war is on. Lanny wins pretty Jane Blodgett (Ann Southern) over to his side, but Mary Boland (Mrs. Blodgett) stands by her frate spouse. The picture marks the fourth time Charles Ruggles and Mary Boland have been teamed and they supply the picture with plenty of laughs. Lanny Ross brings three new songs to the part of the Tennessee adagio—the title song, "Melody in Spring," "Edging With a Kiss" and "The Open Road." George Meeker, Herman Bing and the Gale casters are featured in the supporting cast.

ASTOUNDING FIGURES

A condition of affairs in Idaho which is truly deplorable is presented in the statement that twenty per cent of the entire population of the State is now on the government relief rolls and that over five hundred thousand dollars a month is required to carry on the relief program.

Up to now the average man has surveyed the situation with something of complacency. Federal aid was a necessary thing, and there was much to be thankful for in the fact that money for such purposes was available.

The figures must come with something of a shock to those Idaho is a very small state and there are forty-seven others. If conditions throughout the rest are in any manner comparable to those in Idaho the Federal relief program is going forward on a scale which almost staggers the imagination.

Nobody pretends to question the necessity for such relief-but conditions throughout the state are revealed in a new light just the same. That public spending will have to be curtailed somehow is apparent.

T. J. Lloyd, Public Relations director, makes the statement that it will be necessary to cut the lists down to those absolutely in need if the available money is not to be increased. Something less than three hundred thousand dollars is actually available to cover the requirements for May which are estimated by the relief administration at over half a million dollars.

These are facts which are worthy of serious consideration.

DUST AND DESERTS

The recent Minnesota dust storm, which swept in a prodigious cloud several hundred miles wide, eastward to the sea, followed by only a few days a similar storm on a smaller scale in the lower Mississippi Valley. There have been many such phenomena lately, growing in scope as the drought increased in area and intensity.

Thus deserts are made. If the vast region between the Mississippi and the Rockies were ever to be transformed into a Sahara, it would be in that fashion. The Sahara itself, geologists and historians say, was once watered and fertile. It is incredible what a total lack of rain can do to a fruitful land in a few weeks or months, or a gradual diminution of annual rainfall in a few decades.

We need fear no such fate as is here pictured, for the region in question. Recent weather conditions are doubtless transient and accidental, soon to be corrected and not often repeated. But the lesson cannot be lost on the intelligent population of that or any other area, nor on the federal government itself.

Even the weather can be modified somewhat to produce more rainfall, as experiments have often shown, by forestation programs and the creation of large, permanent bodies of water in dry areas. That is impractical, there is still much that can be done to save the soil and prevent the blowing away of the rich top layer. The force of the wind can be broken by trees and bushes and by planting grain and other crops in ridged rows against the prevailing wind. Erosion and abnormal drainage, too, can be controlled. All such protective devices should be promoted by these dust storms.

WE MIGHT AS WELL TRY IT. Step-by-step a new and improved status is being provided by Congress for silver. In the East, as ever, any program designed to raise the price of the white metal is regarded as a means of encouragement to silver speculators and hoarders and a political stopgap in the interests of a powerful group of much political consequence. The East has never looked kindly upon any move in the interests of increased prices of silver, and probably never will.

But the silver mines of the West would supply a new source of prosperity if their product could be sold at a price to warrant the expense of operation and the West today stands just as badly in need of new sources of wealth as any other section of the country. Added to which a reasonable price for silver would open new markets for American goods through the unlocking of the vast stores of the metal in the possession of Oriental countries the populations of which have literally no buying power under present conditions.

Silver legislation designed to restore to silver a place in the monetary system of the country need not be regarded as any very radical departure from established standards. Silver occupied such a place during many years in the history of this country and may be said to have re-occupied it at intervals since, with no particular ill results.

It is not necessary to accept permanently a dual monetary standard providing for a coinage of silver on a fixed ratio with gold but it would seem to be a sensible move to attach an arbitrary value to the white metal in terms of accepted money and then trade for it with those countries which can buy American goods in no other way.

Possibly it would have the effect of raising prices for American agricultural products—nothing else so far tried seems to do it.

Conservatives say we're drifting into Communism, and radicals say we're drifting into Fascism, so maybe we're drifting along in the middle of the road.

Yes, it's intolerable for those foreigners not to pay their debts. Just look how all of us pay ours.

LOUISIANA UNSOLVED MURDER

Twenty-one murders were committed in the city of London, last year, and only one went unsolved. London has more than eight million population. In St. Louis, with approximately one-third as many inhabitants, there were 114 murders and homicides in the same period. The latest international crime statistics, for 1933, show an average homicide rate of 10.6 to the 100,000 population for the thirty-one largest American cities, and 15.8 for St. Louis alone. The rate for Canadian cities is 1.6 for London, England, 4 for Amsterdam, Holland, 3 in Toronto, and for Alexandria, Egypt, 11.9. Only one large foreign city, the City of Mexico, had a higher rate than St. Louis.

Forgetting comparisons as to police efficiency in solving these crimes, about which still less can be said for the American record, here is absolute proof of the cheapness of life in the United States. Men and women are killed here in cold blood, not because the climate induces to such crimes, but because Americans are less religious, or more emotional, but because society takes an easy-going view whenever the killer offers any kind of trumped-up excuse. It is virtually impossible to convict a woman of a capital crime.

All this is far because the United States is "new." Canada is far more in the raw than ourselves. Justice is swift and sure there, as it is in England and Europe, because public sentiment demands it. In face of this showing, what story to brag about our national railroad trains, 60-story buildings or billion dollar business corporations? Civilization is rated on something else.

DELINQUENCY PAYS HIGH RETURNS

John W. Condie, Idaho state superintendent of public instruction, after a visit to the industrial reform school at St. Anthony, expresses feelings of regret that it requires some form of truancy to make a student eligible for the industrial school and contrasts the well-equipped and extra-comfortable quarters provided for delinquent boys and girls with those poorly equipped and ill lighted district schoolhouses where teachers struggle against odds to give pupils that more favored students have. Mr. Condie's thought is directed to point "the need of state support for district schools, or, of course, he means more support. There is food for thought in the situation the state superintendent points out but we do not like the implication that the people are or have been lacking in support for the public schools. Such support has been and is generous almost beyond human understanding. The situation would seem more pertinent as an example of the amazing ingenuity that makes a term in the reform school so much like a reward of merit rather than the punishment of lawlessness or delinquency. After all reform schools are penal institutions. If delinquency pays high returns, we, however, are willing to agree with Mr. Condie that it should not be at the expense of the district school.

DISCRETION. The sudden defection of the House of Representatives in treating the Louisiana Kingfish is part of the session's entrance upon its final stretch.

Only a few weeks back it appeared his colleagues were ganging up to squelch Huey Long from several important angles.

Today the irrepressible liberal expects to get just what he has long wanted. Leaders have decided discretion is the better part of valor.

The combination of a high-pressure newspaper editor and a parliamentary politician, despised by generations of laity gentlemen is a new word.

Word has been passed from high quarters, so the clockwork world runs to lay off Huey for the moment.

The White House—and ranking Democrats are reported to be leaning long will meet up the remainder of the administration's program if he is crossed further.

They fear one man filibusters and another filibusters. The speaker of an irate Senator has at his command to get the parade out of step. From past experience their fears are justified.

SHIFT. Public Works of Art, which has been keeping our starved artists busy, will meet up the remainder of the Public Works funds, has been running under direction of the Treasury Department. The money allotted to about $100,000,000.

The other day Assistant Secretary of the Treasury L. W. (Chip) Robert asked the Public Works Board for an emergency $100,000 to carry on the work until Congress appropriates additional funds. He is now a member of the Board himself.

Although the Board can retire a $100,000,000 proposition in five minutes, it is not so simple as it seems. Some were for, and some weren't.

A compromise finally was put up to President Roosevelt. The Public Works of Art moves out of the Treasury and directly under the control of Public Works Administration.

SET-UP. Administration now snuffed suspiciously when word came in over the cable that France was preparing to stop higher tariffs on electric refrigerators, auto parts and machine tools.

French imports of these commodities come largely from America. Paris is getting ready to bargain with us over the tariff. France was preparing to stop higher tariffs on electric refrigerators, auto parts and machine tools.

Guiding Your Child

A generation ago, readers, whether old or young, quite naturally look for their fictional heroes men of honor and high ideals. Today it is hard to find the old-fashioned heroes in the same books, so often the villain of the story is their "bad" ideal. His ruthlessness and rebelliousness are a part of the hero's character and his chivalry and uprightness of the central figure.

Perhaps life has grown too dull and unexciting for the children of today, seeking vicarious thrills. Perhaps too much emphasis has been laid on the latest adventure.

It is not possible, however, that parents have ceased to hold up abstract ideals to children? Perhaps they are afraid of the old-fashioned honor, truth, faith—which means so much in their youth.

They do not wish to influence their children by showing fearful or gloomy impressions or inhibitions that hinder self-expression.

IN THE old-fashioned kitchen of yesterday the kitchen clock tolled away a woman's life. A roaring fire, kept burning to heat the water and cook the next meal, smothered the room under a blanket of hot motionless air. Each day was but a repetition of the day before... a monotonous routine commanding woman's time, demanding her presence and shutting out all but a brief hour or two she could call her own. Time was not measured by minutes or hours, but by drab days... days that left the inescapable marks of kitchen toil.

What a contrast there is between that old-fashioned kitchen and the modern All-Electric Kitchen. Today a youthful hand that defies the years, touches a switch and a brilliant room is flooded with light. Clean, beautiful, efficient... this new kitchen is arranged to save woman's steps. Magic electric servants work for her... she directs and they do. Her days are her own... her hours are free.

Time no longer rules the modern housewife... she now rules time. Her kitchen is no longer a place of dreary drudgery. She is free from the shackles of monotonous routine.

In the All-Electric Kitchen an endless thread of golden power performs the three major functions of housekeeping: COOKING... WATER HEATING... REFRIGERATION.

An electric range eliminates stuffiness, odors, greasy walls, soiled curtains, blackened pan bottoms. In their stead it gives you cleanliness, speed, efficiency and economy in cooking. It will cook an entire meal, without watching, while you are miles away doing some of the things you've never before had time to do.

An electric water heater is constantly on the job. Silently and automatically it performs its function of maintaining an ample supply of hot water, ready at the turn of the faucet, every hour of the day and night to supply hot water whenever it is needed.

An electric refrigerator stands guard over the family's health and household budget. It preserves food perfectly for days and weeks... makes possible new economies in the purchase of food... keeps a supply of ice cubes on hand and opens up a new avenue of frozen salads and desserts.

In addition to the three major appliances there is the toaster, percolator, food mixer, ventilating fan and many other small labor-saving devices that add to the convenience of this modern kitchen.

Hundreds of Idaho Power Company customers have already installed complete All-Electric Kitchens and thousands of others have one or two of the three major appliances.

You can buy an electric range, water heater and refrigerator, all at one time, and make your kitchen All-Electric or you can start your All-Electric Kitchen on the step-by-step plan... purchase one appliance now, and add the others later on. The important thing is to make the start. Begin NOW!

The Ambling Alp Aims High

If you were to hang by your heels from the very ring lights of Madison Square Garden's Long Island bowl next June 14 you'd get no better cleavage of Primo Carnera's right upper than you do in this unique camera snail, snapped while the heavyweight champion was training at his Pompton-Lakes, New Jersey, camp for his title match with Max Baer.

The former member of Barrow's southwest gang, working with the authorities, had promised him protection at this home.

Then the officers towed Barrow's car with the bodies into Arcadia. Barrow's head was hanging out the window and the army officer was bent as if he had been trying to duck the officers' fire.

Americans In Strategic Position To Take Golf Crown

British Experts Eliminate Pair Of U. S. Players

Johnny Fischer and Jack Westland—Defeated In Hard-Fought Third Round Matches at Prestwick

By GAYLE TALBOT (Associated Press Sports Writer) P R E S T W I C K, Scotland, May 23—America lost two more stout contenders for the British amateur golf title today. Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati and Jack Westland of Chicago bowed to members of the University cup team in hard fought third round matches, but Americans still remained in a strategic position for the fourth round tomorrow faced the stiffest opposition in 23-year-old Jack McLean, the pride of Prestwick, who played out Fischer in a sensational all-par-3 and 2 and 1.

George Terry Dunlap, Jr., American amateur champion, the other foreign survivor in the upper half, has a tough assignment to handle in the return. Jimmy Watson, returning wetters, edged the slender American appears to have clear sailing until Friday's second round.

The young U. S. open titleholder, Johnny Goodman of Omaha, and the husky, stern faced Californian, Steve Little, showed in the thick of the skirmish in the lower bracket. Goodman has no apparent chance to meet Jim and his somewhat loutish little, who is matched against Louis Mann, the Irish golfer, in the return round. Mann's opponent is a controversial Goodman's next opponent was to be one Jack O. McCullum.

Vandals Outslug Conference Leader In First Game Of Series

MOSCOW—Idaho, May 23—The University of Idaho outslug the conference leader, the University of Oregon for an 8-to-7 baseball victory here today in the first of a two-game series. Nexton, Idaho sophomore pitcher, was replaced by Paul Anderson, sophomore left fielder, in the second inning after the Webfooters had touched Newton for six runs. Anderson held the visitors to one run in the fourth inning, shutting them out eighth time support for five innings.

Dennin, who started on the mound for Oregon, was replaced in the fourth inning by Bucknum. W. Geraghty started Idaho scoring with a home run in the first inning and C. Garabaly capped another homer in the third. The fourth was Idaho's big inning when Thierman, Shadde, and the home team's two men on bases and Wheeler, substitute left fielder, provided another homer.

With Idaho trailing by one run in the fifth Katslomes reached first on an error, second, reached third on another error and tied the score on a sacrifice by Anderson. Shadde scored the winning run on a squeeze play. Oregon pinch hitters got only as far as first base in their last turn at bat.

Manly Greenberg, until recently was handicapping the horses for the old Bulletin twenty-five years ago. On the other side he got out a weekly tip sheet, telling the fans how and why to bet.

Manly's chief selling point was that he gave customers a much better tip for the following Saturday if his selection did not win on this Saturday.

One Saturday Manly's selection lost by a nose. He had sold 1200 sheets, consequently had to give a free tip to that many on the next Saturday.

ON THE SIDELINES by Edward J. Neill

One of the smartest and best newspapermen in New York thought and thought a little. He was called Jimmy McLarnin to flatten Barney Ross—he has all the other little fellows, good and indifferent, who have defied his thunder and perennial weight advantage?

Or should he realize, in advance, that he is a great fighter, no matter how good or how long it's been running, and that Ross, young, fast, clever and indifferently, who ever stepped into the ring, is exactly the type calculated to outpace and outbox the ring-rusty Irishman?

Must Keep Out of Way It's all in that one short, simple sentence, Ross will be out there in full as far as he goes. He's got the power, the youth, to go the full 15 and still be out there—the first lightweight champion in history to step into a ring and add his welterweight regions to his own realm.

But anywhere along there, beaten off every second, possibly up to that time, is the threat of McLarnin's tremendous punching power. And what does it profit a man to win 15 rounds if the end of the 15th when they pay off, finds him accepting peacefully in the arms of his handlers?

That's the tire to buy for your Decoration Day trip

Goodyear has licked problem that baffled the tire industry—with the new "G-3". See it here!

IT TAKES a better tread to keep its grip on modern high-speed highways—with faster cars, quicker get-aways—more powerful brakes. All these strains grind away ordinary treads too fast. But now we've got the answer! A tread that keeps its grip 43% longer—gives 43% more non-skid mileage. Grueling, grinding road tests show that it keeps its grip twice as long as competitive tires!

Read that list of extras in this new "G-3" All-Weather tire—and remember, you have to have "NON-SKID" before you can have "NON-SKID MILEAGE"—you have to have GRIP where you see it on this tire—in the center of the tread—if you want the extra miles of safety which you get in the "G-3". It costs no more!

SOCIALIST PLEADS CAUSE OF SCHOOLS

Lena Morrow Lewis Finds Educational System Preparing for New Order

American public schools are preparing for a new social order growing out of necessary capitalistic development and should be safeguarded at all costs. Lena Morrow Lewis, Socialist woman speaker and well-known audience of about 50 persons in the district court room here last evening. The announced subject of her address was "The Permit Capitalism to Destroy the Public School System."

Dr. H. Freudenreich, Twin Falls plumbing and electrical inspector who has been for many years identified with the Socialist movement, introduced the speaker.

Mrs. Lewis quoted from educators' statements and from teachers' work programs in support of her statement that the schools are "changing for the new social order." She referred to "materialistic ideas" which she found in a teachers' work program, one of which she said tended to arouse curiosity as to distribution of profits in the aluminum industry.

The capitalist system, she said, "has reached a point today when all the 'hills' are taken off, and stagnation results."

Popular education, she said, was an outgrowth of the capitalist system which required educated people to build, operate and improve machines. It was desired by the workers because of their understanding that knowledge is power to be put to use in gaining freedom from a "dominating upper class," and because of desire for cultural advantages. Enemies of the public school today, she said, are those who "attempt to solve our pressing problems today at the expense of future generations." Destruction of the public school system, she said, would bring about a "dictatorship of capital."

Tragedy of the present relief system in this country, she said, is that it destroys moral fibre. "We are not ready to enjoy leisure, and that will require a reorganization of society and of character."
