CONNECTICUT CRASH VICTIMS RECOVERING

Thousands View Scene of Smashup Where Seven Persons Were Hurt

BETHLEHEM, Conn., May 30 (AP)—Seven persons injured in the crash of a plane from New York were recovering today as officials of the United Air Lines began an investigation into the accident.

The other five passengers were shaken or slightly hurt when the all-metal monoplane cracked up in a crash landing early in the morning.

An effort to determine why the plane was so far off its course from Albany to New York was made by Capt. Hurlburt, a United Air Line official from Cleveland.

Hurlburt talked with Pilot John W. G. of New York, who is in Danbury hospital with a severe scalp injury, but said afterward he was unable to account for the plane's position.

Wolf said that although the plane was equipped with a runway indicator, it was unable to communicate with any sign.

Thousands of Connecticut residents viewed the scene of the crash in a shallow ravine on a hillside, five minutes' walk from the main street of Danbury.

The plane where the craft crashed is in a densely wooded section three miles from the Danbury airport.

It was said the condition of Lorenz Lusk, co-pilot with Wolf, who was not injured, is such that he is unable to participate in any of the company's operations.

Both of Lusk's legs were broken and his skull may be fractured, hospital attendants said.

Quintuplets Have Good Chance to Live, Says Doctor

CORRBEL, Ont., May 30 (AP)—A baby born only 30 hours old, the first of a quintuplet family, is doing well, a physician announced tonight.

Although still frail, the babies weighed only four pounds apiece at birth. Dr. A. R. DePoo said they were gaining strength and with good care would continue to show improvement.

The babies were little about the size of a small dog, and the first of the five would receive good care.

An old fashioned hot water incubator was on its way from Chicago, together with a quantity of human milk sent by air mail by the nurse of the Chicago city medical department.

The five babies are under the care of a graduate nurse, a practical nurse, and two friends of a 24-year-old mother.

Five morning quintuplets were given names: Cecile, Yvonne, Madeline and Joseph. They had to be kept in a warm bed for a few days. No one knows which was the first born or the order in which the others were born, and when someone thought of doing it they were all in the same basket and no one could tell them apart.

The babies continued to accept milk, corn syrup and water through an eye dropper, and received their full time for one of the attendants. It takes so long to feed them the first time that has finished, the first is hungry again.

Dr. DePoo said an effort was being made to have young neighbors, whose mothers feed the Dionne babies, help him believe they would gain strength sooner with natural feeding.

Peacetime Service Memorial Day Theme

Henry C. Dworshak, Burley Publisher and Former American Legion State Commander, Sounds Challenge with Tribute

An appeal to Americanism "which has inspired history's glorious pages of wartime achievement" to peacetime service "that will forever preserve America as the home of those who cherish the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" marked the long drawn notes from our bugles will linger a few seconds.

The speaker paid a glowing tribute to the Unknown Soldier whose body is enshrined in a tomb at Arlington National cemetery, and then referred to "those gallant disabled comrades of the dead."

They were comrades in service and sacrifice, comrades in suffering and pain, comrades in all but death, he said. "They are the disabled who were called upon not to give life itself, but those things which make life worth while—strong, health and opportunity. We find them in hospitals with blinded eyes, maimed bodies, mangled limbs, shattered minds and weakened constitutions."

They are the living victims of a war and we must not forget the dependent parents, the widows and orphans. These should be the first concern of a grateful nation for whom they made sacrifice.

Today we are attempting to honor the living victims of a war and we must not forget the dependent parents, the widows and orphans. These should be the first concern of a grateful nation for whom they made sacrifice.

MURDER SEEN IN DEATH IN FLAMES

Father of Virginia Johnson Seeks to Prove She Was Slain by Flend

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 30 (AP)—Bill insisting that his pretty 22-year-old daughter Virginia did not commit suicide as police concluded, but was "murdered by a fiend," Charles C. Johnson, state treasurer and candidate for governor, engaged E. O. Heinrich, criminologist, today in an attempt to prove his contention.

The grief-stricken father asked Heinrich, a noted hunter of criminals to restate in theory the bizarre death scene in a detached private garage near the Johnson home from which the scorched body of the girl was taken Monday night.

Johnson sought particularly to check up against the police conclusion that Virginia, strangled from a brain lesion which brought dread spells of coma, drenched herself with kerosene, applied a match and then lay quietly on the floor for an age while the roasting flames took her life.

Heinrich accepts task Heinrich, who makes a specialty of using instruments of science to reconstruct graphically and minutely such scenes as these, came from his Berkeley laboratory to the Johnson home this morning and conferred privately with the state treasurer.

Rejecting not only the police conclusion but also the same theory accepted by Mrs. Johnson and their living daughter, Mrs. Clark Fitzgerald, the state official deemed it impossible that his daughter would have obtained the jug of kerosene and a handful of matches and then have walked three blocks to a strange vacant garage to burn herself to death.

"The whole theory of suicide as concluded by the district attorney is preposterous and fanciful," said Johnson. "We who lived with Virginia can best determine the girl's nature and character and it is our conclusion she could not, could not, have done such a thing. There are persons right here in the house which she could have taken."

Unfinished Note Against Johnson's contention the police pointed to a note which Virginia started to write a few hours before she died. "Dear Charles," it said "I am trying to live for you but there's a..." It was at that point that Mrs. Fitzgerald saw the note in her hand and she threw it away.

The six unburned matches found at the death scene were the same kind as those in the Johnson home. A neighbor told police he saw Virginia carrying a jug of kerosene liquid up an alley a short time before the body was found. There were long, tapering finger prints on the jug, similar, officers said, to those that Virginia's fingers would have made.

Johnson contended the fragments of the note was not conclusive and that it merely indicated Virginia's anxiety over Mrs. Fitzgerald, who is to become a mother.

He used the proposed amendments to a vehicle to amend the "principle of the continuing extension of regulatory powers over every business activity."

Chesler Davis, farm administrator, conferred with Senator Byrd twice regarding the amendments.

Byrd, however, indicated his stand had not changed, although Chairman Smith (D-SO) of the agriculture committee said changes that had been made removed some of the objections of the measure.

The farm administration argues the bill is needed to prevent a breakdown in the enforcement of marketing agreements under the farm act.

BYRD STRIKES AT NEW REGULATIONS

Virginian Sees Dictatorial Powers in Farm Act Revision

WASHINGTON, May 30 (AP)—A strong indictment of regulatory policies of the Roosevelt administration came last night from Senator Byrd (D-Va) with the assertion "we have a bureaucracy being rapidly built up here in Washington to control the daily activities of people such as you and me before we know it."

The Virginia senator said in a radio address over the National Broadcasting system the bureaucracy was being built up in the faces of assurances in the Democratic platform.

Previously, Byrd had assailed proposed amendments to the farm act—the grounds they gave dictatorial power to the secretary of agriculture.

He used the proposed amendments to a vehicle to amend the "principle of the continuing extension of regulatory powers over every business activity."

Chesler Davis, farm administrator, conferred with Senator Byrd twice regarding the amendments.

BURLEY GRADUATES HIGH SCHOOL CLASS

Outstanding Students Speak At Commencement Exercises

BURLEY, May 30.—Twenty-ninth annual commencement of Burley high school was held Tuesday evening in the L. D. S. tabernacle. The theme of the commencement program was "Youth Preparing for Life through the Schools." James Arthur Higgins, president of the graduating class, presided at the exercises that opened with a procession of the graduates in caps and gowns to the playing of "Festal March" by Mullock, by the high school orchestra, directed by Clifford Mullikin.

The invocation was given by Margaret Hogan followed by the salutatory address by Dorothy Rose King, Superintendent. George E. Denman then made the presentation of Junior and senior honors. The Junior receiving honors were Charles Coleman, Henry Dvorahak, Ruth Edmondson, Oscar Shaver, Billy Paulsen, Victor Blakes, Della Jane Willnell. The highest ten per cent of the senior class received honors: Louise Patterson, Dorothy R. King, Doris Helton, John Leonard Oskall, Virginia McDonald, Pearl E. Stocking, Verma Helen Fulton, Brian Williams, Ida Mae Hammer and James Arthur Higgins.

Milton H. King, president of the Burley Rotary club, presided at the National Honor society presentation. Thomas Eames, John Leonard Oskall, Ida Mae Hammer, James Arthur Higgins, Margaret Hogan, Dorothy Rose King, Joseph Prestwich Lambert, Jarvis Estel Love, Virginia McDonald, Dale Dean Parham, Mont Louis Patterson, Pearl Elizabeth Stocking, Robert Stancliff Van Hook, Edwin Catherine Whitehead, Sullivan Evan Williams, Jesse Earl Wood and Marjorie Lucile Yelton, all members of the graduating class. Mr. King was in charge of the presentation of honorary societies and specifically of the National Honor society, the qualifications in receiving of which are the emblematic significance of the pin.

James Arthur Higgins, acting as representative of the senior class, presented an address to the graduates of 1934, a message that looked toward the installation of drinking fountains in the high school building. Carl Wilson played, as a violin solo, "Sole de Haiti" by de Beriot.

Four outstanding students of the senior class have addresses. Virginia McDonald, member of the National Citizenship; Huland Evan Williams brought out the necessity of developing efficiency and energy in each one's life work in "The World of Work"; Marjorie Lucile Yelton talked in "The Learning Time Station"; John Leonard Oskall spoke on "Relative Values."

Lorin Lewis, president of the school board, spoke briefly on civic involvement of $11,450 in the class of 1934 and what was expected from the investment beyond the presenting the diplomas to the students.

Following the presentation of the diplomas the senior class chorus composed of Fern Johnson, Dorothy King, Wanda Croft, Josephine Barker, Chas. Bingham, Phyllis Boyer, Isabel Stocking, Helen, Alta Smith, Dick Gudmundson, Harry Eames, Carl Wicklund, Jarvis Love and Willard Selby, sang "Song of the Vikings," "Fanning," and "Moonlit Meadows." Chubuka, Mona Louise Patterson, valedictorian of the class, then gave her address. Following Miss Patterson's valedictory the mixed quartet sang, by request, "The Heavens Resound," by Beethoven.

The benediction was pronounced by Joseph Prestwich Lambert and the recessional march of the graduates was accompanied by the school orchestra playing "War March of the Priests" by Mendelssohn.

Following the commencement program a number of parties and dances were given for various members of the graduating class.

CHURCH'S LEADERS PROTEST PICTURES

Presbyterians Say Movies Harmful Influence in Missionary Work

CLEVELAND, May 30 (AP)—A criticism of American motion pictures as harmful influences on missionary work in foreign lands, and the filing of two protests by fundamentalist leaders, dominated the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A. today.

The indictment of motion pictures was delivered by the Rev. Daniel O. Buchanan, missionary to Japan.

One of the greatest detriments to missionary work is the type of motion pictures exported from the United States," he said.

"People in foreign lands, seeing these pictures, get the idea that gangster warfare and immorality are standards of American life, and they are copying the lives as portrayed in the films."

Against Assembly

The protest by the fundamentalists was against the assembly's adoption of a plan of merger with the United Presbyterian church of North America.

A report ordering all Presbyterians who are members of the independent board for Presbyterian foreign missions to resign from that board or face ecclesiastical trial.

Both protests, to be signed by fundamentalist committees, were placed in the record by the Rev. W. McAllister Griffiths of Philadelphia, principal leader of that group in the assembly.

Cincinnati was chosen for next year's meeting of the assembly on the invitation of Edgar Lewis, Jr., who described that city as "formerly the worst governed in the country, but now the best."

More than 400 commissioners attended this year's assembly, the 16th in the church's history.

Two Idaho lakes, near the great Payette, will be christened in honor of Col. and William Bowman, Jr. of Boise. The christening ceremony will take place at the convention of the National Association of Business and Professional Women's clubs, pictured above in their Richmond, Virginia home. Thomas, Speedball Ace Of Los Angeles, Continues To Lead In Pitching Records

LOS ANGELES, May 30 (AP)—Fay Thomas, Los Angeles speedball ace, continued to command the lead in the unofficial pitching standings of the Pacific Coast league today although he was driven from the mound on his last two starts.

Ability of the Angel batsman and his relief workers saved him his unblemished record of ten straight wins and no defeats. Thomas, however, ran his streakout total to 70 to outshout any other hurler in the circuit in this department.

Jack Ward, leading pitcher of the loop last season, who came back to the Angels after an unsuccessful venture in the big league, stands second with 2 victories and no reverses. Four other mountaineers follow with one triumph each, but J. Millard Campbell, also of the league, leading Los Angeles club stands out as the second best hurler of the West with ten wins and two defeats for a .533 total.

MOSCOW, Idaho, May 30 (AP)—The University of Washington collected 17 hits off three University of Idaho pitchers and took advantage of eight Idaho errors to win the first of a two-game baseball affair here today.

Whitman before Husky sluggers, Mustang was replaced in the second inning by Newton after letting six runs and Newton moved out for Brubaker in the eighth inning, the score being 13 to 8.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30 (AP)—Our private fact finding bureau has uncovered one of the roughest spots in the world for the manager of the Ogdon Standard-Examiner. He traveled 20,000 miles, from the Pacific coast to the middle west last basketball season as manager of the Ogdon Boosters.

One year he took a basketball team to Honolulu next October to play on taking the Boosters to Manchuria and Japan. The Japanese team should make for a handicap of say fifteen or twenty players on the floor at one time, because the Ogdon team players average 6 feet 8 inches in height. The center stands 6 feet 9 1/2 inches.

DWORSHAK IN RACE FOR CONGRESSMAN

Burley Publisher and Former Legion Commander, Announces

BURLEY, May 30 — Henry C. Dworshak, Burley publisher and former Idaho American Legion commander, today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for congressman.

He has decided to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for congressman in the Second Congressional District.

"I believe in those fundamental principles enshrined in the Constitution of the United States, being firmly convinced that more permanent progress may be made by complying therewith, than by adopting various expedients designed largely to capitalize politically on the misfortunes of our people."

"I am opposed to a ruthless and wasteful arbitrary at Washington, which arbitrarily controls our destinies by abrogating the legislative branch of the federal government, and ignoring the rights of the individual."

"If elected, it shall be my constant endeavor to safeguard and promote the interests of the agricultural, livestock and mining industries of Idaho, under the protection of a tariff guaranteeing to both labor and capital an opportunity for equitable returns, and the maintenance of American standards of living. Conservation of our water resources is of vital importance."

"Rehabilitation of silver — I believe that the rehabilitation of silver must be effected by giving it a broader use as a metallic base in our monetary system."

"I favor curtailment of the federal budget as the only means of reducing the public debt and curbing the devastating burden of interest payments. I also favor higher tax rates on large incomes, and on inheritances."

"Believing that under-consumption and not over-production, is the problem confronting us today, the ultimate solution is contingent upon the stimulation of employment in private industry with resultant enhancement of purchasing power."

"I favor national government to a high plane of efficiency. Dishonesty, demagoguery and corruption must be banished from public office."

"The position of representative in congress affords distinct opportunities for service, if nominated and elected; it shall be my aim to serve my country and party with all the energy and ability at my command in the era of reconstruction confronting this nation. I shall be guided by a desire to preserve the safeguards of liberty in accordance with American ideals of representative government."

BEE-TWOERS WATCH WHITE FLY INVASION
BURLEY, May 30 — Sugar beet growers on the Minidoka project are watching their fields closely for white fly. It is reported that many fields are seriously infested and that farmers may lose up to 50 percent of their crop if not checked in time.

Some good fields are harvested, but the white fly, only about one-tenth of a cent, is causing serious infestation, by individual farmers. Where resistant varieties have been planted, the loss of good fields will be markedly increased.

General Edward R. Chrisman

MOSCOW, May 30 — Unveiling of a life-size portrait of General Edward R. Chrisman, the university's oldest faculty member and one of the state's leading citizens, will be an unusual feature of the 39th annual commencement exercises at the University of Idaho, June 9-11.

Three times during his army career General Chrisman has served as commander of cadets at the University of Idaho. He first arrived in 1894, when the university was only two years old, with less than 100 students.

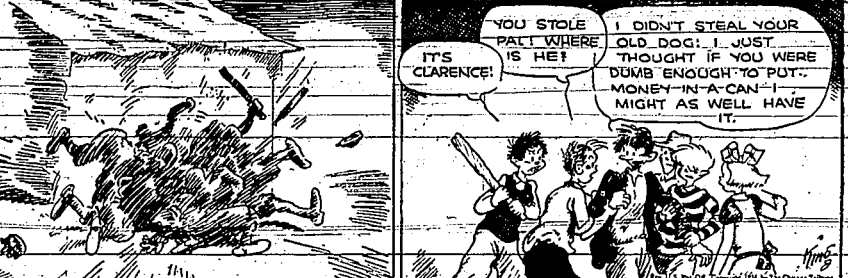

Ordered away to the Spanish-American war in 1898, he was sent back to Idaho in 1902. Three years later he was ordered away again, but in the Philippines, North Dakota, Alaska, New Jersey, Panama Canal Zone and Puerto Rico, where he was in command of all military forces when the World War ended. His last tour of duty at Idaho dates back to 1919. Two years ago he was permanently retired from the army, after 24 years of service.

Plan To 'Draft Money' Bobs Up Again

Senate Munitions Probe Covers 'War Tax'

By CARL C. CRAMER
WASHINGTON, May 30 — The idea of "drafting" money as well as men in war time is due for another airing before a congressional committee.

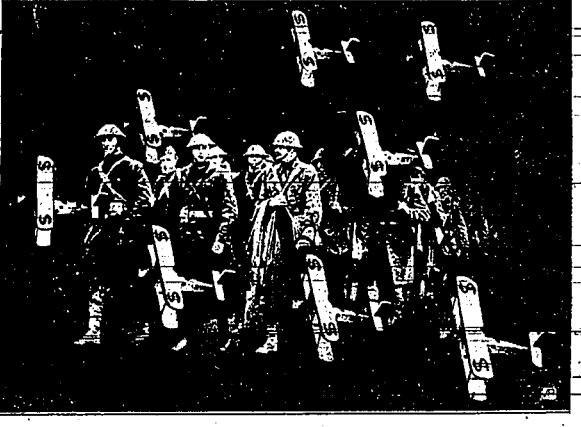

It has cropped up in congress several times since the World War ended, bearing such titles as "national draft" and "conscription of capital."

This time the proposal is to levy a 98 cent tax on all incomes of more than $10,000 a year in case of war. The senate adopted a resolution by Nye and Senator Vandenberg and it is said to have remained in the senate committee authorized to investigate the feasibility of the war tax.

President Harding, in a speech at Helena, Mont., in 1921, urged the starting of all of capital, all of industry, all of agriculture, all of commerce, all of talent and energy of every description in war time.

The name principles were written into the democratic national platform in 1924 and in the republican platform of 1924 and 1928.

Then, in 1934, the war policies committee in time of war through heavy income taxes, war profits taxes or surplus profit taxes. More radical proponents have urged the taking over by the government to conduct a war. Such peace advocates as David Starr Jordan have contended the motive was of prime importance as a war cause.

Money would be 'sent to war' along with fighting men under a proposal by Senator Nye of North Dakota to put a 98 cent tax on incomes over $10,000 in wartime. It will be investigated in the senate's recently authorized munitions probe. The idea has bobbed up several times since the World War, and even Abraham Lincoln is reported to have suggested "drafting" money and "conserving" men.

Contented Sacrifices Alike
During the last war many advocated a "pay as you go" policy, which would have meant that the government would not bring returns quickly enough to finance a war, would deplete prices and security markets and disrupt the capital market when the government eventually was forced to resort to borrowing.

TWIN FALLS JOINS MEMORIAL TRIBUTE

Veterans' Exercises Climax Annual Observance Of Holiday

War veterans and women of their auxiliary organizations were joined by national guardsmen and hundreds of appreciative citizens in public exercises yesterday commemorating America's war dead which climaxed Twin Falls' annual Memorial day observance.

After a service over the graves of interred veterans in Twin Falls cemetery, where from early morning until late evening scores of people gathered about flower strewn graves of loved ones.

But one venerable veteran of the Civil war, Jesse M. Lynch of Hinton, was on hand this year to take part in the Memorial day observance.

During brief, solemn exercises at the Memorial cemetery in the cemetery, the exercises had been joined among older women of the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Through unfortunate misunderstanding, the exercises had been brought to a close before the arrival three minutes later of Harry O. Dwarshak, Burley publisher and former American Legion state commander, who was to have delivered the Memorial address here, after fulfilling a similar engagement yesterday at his home town.

Officers of Twin Falls American Legion post J. L. Hodgins, commander, and Wilton Peck, chaplain, read the reverent periods of the Legion's Memorial day services and address—the Legion commander read a part of the Grand Army's ritual—General—Legion—general order prescribing the observance of the first Memorial day and J. H. Blanford, Legion vice commander, read Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

Twin Falls band, which led the march that preceded the exercises, played four numbers at the cemetery, including one number "Wild Flowers" by a brass quartet composed of Charles Ralcliffe, Frank Beerna, Rex Thomas and Larry Bassett. Led by Dr. O. A. Fuller, the band played Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata," "Waiting for the Sunrise," and at the close of the exercises—The Star-Spangled Banner.

A national guard squad commanded by Lieutenant W. H. Beavers fired the three-volley salute, and national guard buglers sounded taps.

With Captain John Rasmussen as marshal, his parole of national guardsmen, war veterans and auxiliaries moved off from the city park a few minutes after 10 o'clock following the address by patriotic organizations of a Memorial monument erected by the Daughters of the American Revolution on the court house lawn.

Exercises at the cemetery included the placing of—nearly a—dozen wreaths by representatives of veterans organizations and auxiliaries at the foot of the Memorial monument erected there by Twin Falls American War Mothers chapter.

Castleford Farmer To Use Legacy In Payment of Debts

Thomas A. Reed, Castleford farmer, last night said that he had received no official word that he was the recipient of any bequest from the estate of his brother, the late Ernest R. Reed, New York merchant who died March 25. However, he said that he had unofficially been notified that he had been remembered in the will.

Reed made the announcement following a press report from New York which described the estate as of over $200,000 when it was offered for probate in the surrogate court of New York City, Tuesday. The farmer at Castleford, the report alleged, the recipient of a $10,000 legacy while his son, Ernest Dandy Reed, a musician in the RKO studios in Hollywood, is reported to have received $200,000.

When asked what he was going to do with the money, Reed said, "I guess I'll spend it the same as any other person if I get it. I plan on paying off my debts and I am going to try to invest the rest of it wisely." He went on to say that he was glad to lose his brother and that he had not given the idea of receiving a legacy a thought.

Reed was for many years a resident of Twin Falls where he operated a cigar store and for a time was steward for the Elks' club. A few years ago he moved to his farm home near Castleford.

ROSS LAYS PLANS TO SALVAGE CROPS

Governor Confident Early Relief Allotment Will Be Supplied Idaho

BOISE, May 30 (AP)—Confident that an early allotment of drought relief money would be supplied Idaho, Governor C. Ben Ross said today he had arranged for engineers to begin work at once in virtually all southern Idaho counties to lay plans for augmenting water supply to salvage thirsty crops.

All the 34 counties in southern Idaho have been designated as "drought relief" counties in compliance with a request of the secretary of agriculture.

Not all land in the counties is drought ridden, he said, but explained that in each there was some territory needing aid and for that reason designation of each county was necessary.

Men already assigned to make engineering and emergency survey work include R. J. Wood of Weiser for Owyhee, Elmore and Camas counties.

Several of the appointees are county surveyors, while others are watermasters or experienced irrigation workers, the governor said. Other appointments will be made later.

In a telephone conversation with Arthur Williams of the relief section in Washington, Governor Ross said he was advised money would be available, although the amount was not stated. Idaho asked $1,000,000, both for relief of arid farm lands and to develop emergency water supplies to rescue crops.

He said he requested $350,000 to be made available at once, but encouraged to believe all the state asked would be allowed.
