Mayor Declares Emergency
When Negotiations Fail;
Situation Grows Acute at San Francisco, Portland

(By The Associated Press)
SAN FRANCISCO, June 14.—A strike of the longshoremen, which was proclaimed officially in Seattle today because of a breakdown of negotiations to end the longshoremen's strike and the situation reached a crucial state in San Francisco and Portland as the outgrowth of commercial paralysis brought on by the longshoremen's strike.

Announcing the failure of a small-ship-owners' association to negotiate peace in San Francisco, Seattle's newly inaugurated Mayor, Charles L. Smith, declared the existence of an emergency at 2 p. m. and personally took command of the police force with the avowed intention of opening the port.

Road Still Hopeful
Efforts by Mayor Angelo Rossi to negotiate peace in San Francisco met with a refusal of the waterfront employers to accept a peace proposal.

"I am still hopeful of the situation," Mayor Rossi said, after Thomas J. Ryan, representing the employers, had refused him the proposal for a "closed shop."

Direct intervention by President Roosevelt was urged in a message telegraphed by the industrial association of San Francisco to California senators.

Radical Element Shifts
The message further stated that waterfront business is at a standstill, farmers' crops cannot be moved, and they are faced with "suffering losses."

It declared the "radical element in control of the waterfront" is in control of the waterfront and is a "settled" element.

Baer Smashes Way To Championship In Savage Ring Battle

52,000 Thrilled Spectators Witness Defeat
Of Huge Primo Carnera In
Eleventh Round Of Fight

(By The Associated Press)
RINGSIDE, MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, BOWLING GREEN, N. Y., June 14.—All the savagery and drama of Jack Dempsey's conquest of Luis Angel Firpo—something the prize ring might never be equaled—rocketed out of the past tonight to awe 52,000 of the faithful again as Max Baer crushed his way to the heavyweight championship over the battered body of huge Primo Carnera.

Eleven times in 11 rounds the massive Italian, biggest man ever to hold the title, crashed to the floor from Baer's blows, twice in the last round; before Referee Arthur Donovan stopped the fight after two minutes, 16 seconds of wild, amid such chaos and tumult as the ring had never seen.

"I Fight Good And He Fight Good"—Carnera
RINGSIDE, MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, BOWLING GREEN, N. Y., June 14 (AP).—Apparently uncomprehending his defeat, Primo Carnera strode like a mechanical man down "long" and "windy" aisle of cheering spectators to his dressing room.

He merely turned glittering, almost stupid eyes on his backers who accused him of "laying down" under the savage attack of Max Baer.

"I no lay down," Primo said. "I fight good and he fight good." Primo lumbered into his dressing room and lay on a table. There were plenty of anxious hands to help the fallen champion, but he jerked himself away. He sat there dejectedly, occasionally looking at the car to the left in the direction of Baer's quarters, where a celebration was going on.

"Ugh," the big man mumbled and pointed to his right foot. "That foot is hurt. I got hurt there."

"I sprained it in first round and it's still sore," he said.

Convicts Seize Boat For Escape
Two Desperate Inmates of McNeil Island Prison Make Getaway

TACOMA, Wash., June 14 (AP)—In the most sensational escape at McNeil Island federal penitentiary since Roy Gardner made his successful bid for freedom 14 years ago, two desperate inmates broke from the main cell block this afternoon, commandeered the pilot of a prison motor boat and made the mainland safely as burning craft churned the waters of the sound.

The escaped prisoners, now believed by authorities to be hiding in the woods of the Port Lewis military reservation, are William L. Fitzmaurice, 34, and T. M. Audette, 32.

Fitzmaurice was sentenced to prison February 18, 1922, from San Francisco to serve 10 years for counterfeiting. Audette was received from Portland February 14 of this year under sentence of five years for violation of the Dyer auto theft act.

Doctor Says Hay Fever Comes From Contacts of Life
CLEVELAND, June 14 (AP)—A new explanation of hay fever, showing that it may come from the crowded contacts of modern life, was reported today by the American Academy of Allergy.

In these contacts the body meets an increasing bombardment of dust and develops allergic powers of resistance. But it becomes so accustomed to fighting the germs that it sometimes mistakes harmless things like dust and pollen for enemies and its protective mechanism "goes into action against them."

OFFICERS BELIEVE IOWANS SLAIN BY PHANTOM KIDNAPER

Authorities Abandon Search
For Policeman and Secretary of Davenport's Western League Club

(By The Associated Press)
DAVENPORT, Ia., June 14.—Authorities tonight abandoned search for Policeman Elmer Schleuter and Al Schultz, secretary of the Davenport Western League baseball club, and said they believed the two men, missing since early today, possibly had been slain by the phantom kidnaper who was threatening them.

Police stated that they believed it possible both men were killed before the kidnaper met Dr. W. H. Pilon, Davenport veterinarian, who disappeared after leaving a house at a farm home near Blue Grass.

They said they based their conclusions on the fact that the car in which Dr. Pilon was driving, a coupe, was too small to hold all four men, especially if one armed and threatening the others, was anxious to get away.

Dr. Pilon's car was seen speeding westward on a highway toward Iowa city after his disappearance was reported.

The frantic vanishing of the three men without a trace had police here completely bewildered, they admitted.

She tossed the children to safety and tried to get out of the car, but flames enveloped her body. None of the other passengers of the car was hurt or burned.

Justice Department Eyes Mortars, Bombs, Bound For Bolivia

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—An investigation has been ordered by the department of justice to determine whether $400,000 worth of munitions, new and old, were sold in New York and Norfolk, Va., to the government of Bolivia.

The shipments, which were made by four or five American companies, include mortars, aerial bombs and special trucks for military use.

The justice department has called on the manufacturers for their contract terms of sale and all pertinent papers to the transaction in order to determine if title had passed at 4:30 p. m. May 28, at which time the presidential proclamation, stopping the sale of arms and munitions of war in this country, was expected to move out for the Chaco war front within the next week.

If title had not passed, however, the justice department was prepared to seize any munitions goods as evidence and proceed with criminal charges against the manufacturers.

Promoted GERMANY DECLARES PURPOSE TO CEASE INTEREST PAYMENT

Reichbank Excuses Moratorium on Grounds of Low Gold Supply and Foreign Exchange, Upholds Mark

(By The Associated Press)
BERLIN, June 14.—Germany told foreign creditors today that they will receive no interest for at least six months on medium and long-term obligations, including the Daves and Young loans, to the payment of which the "full faith and credit" of the Reich government was pledged.

The moratorium was not unexpected, but the announcement placed the problem of what to do about the financial condition of Germany squarely up to her creditors.

The position of Germany, as outlined in a communique of the Reichbank announced the moratorium, is that transfer of payments out of the country is impossible because of the low supply of gold and foreign exchange and that there would be no profit to anybody in defaulting the mark.

The mark, now almost wholly a national currency, has been held firmly on the "gold standard" basis, although the gold coverage has dropped below 3.7 per cent.

The Reichbank statement, dealing with all obligations except the Daves and Young loans, and was followed by an announcement from the ministry of finance that interest and amortization on these would be suspended "for the time being until further notice."

Payments on the other obligations were suspended for six months beginning July 1, 1934. The bank statement said these payments already had been suspended.

The total saving in foreign exchange during the six months was estimated to amount to $100,000,000. The bank statement said that the 245,000,000 marks is represented by private loans and the remainder by the Young and Daves obligations.

Johnson Asserts NRA Nearing End Of Code-Making

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator, today said the NRA was coming to the close of code making and that the entire organization soon would be thrown into the task of administering the new code.

"We are not going to overturn any existing codes," he added at a press conference called especially to deny a published report that the administration planned to put all industry under 30 to 25 percent cuts.

"There is not a word of truth in that," Johnson said. "We're trying to work out a code that will be fair to the many small industries for adoption and let them later propose fair trade practices. We want to get through with code making."

Plan To Settle Strikes Assailed
Administration Proposal Draws Fire Of Business Men, Labor

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—A sharp objection to the administration's draft of a bill to provide new methods of settling strikes was voiced today by business men, labor and Republican senators.

The objections urged as the administration sought to settle strikes by arbitration, a measure which would give the president power to name an investigating board which would have the power to hold secret elections to elect arbitrators.

Henry I. Harriman, president of the United States, called the joint resolution sent to Capitol Hill from the White House "the most dangerous measure."

Senate Republicans, to whom Democrats have introduced the bill, said it would give the president power to name an investigating board which would have the power to hold secret elections to elect arbitrators.

HITLER, MUSSOLINI EXCHANGE VIEWS

Conversations Deal With Disarmament, League, Economics

VENICE, June 14 (AP)—Europe's two most colorful leaders, Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini, exchanged views today on disarmament, the League of Nations and economic matters.

The two men, after being given a rousing demonstration, met in the Villa Capra, near here, to discuss official relations to state outside, shut the door and exchanged their views without even the benefit of an interpreter.

The conversation was carried on in German, a language which Mussolini learned to speak when he worked as a bricklayer in Switzerland before the war and has studied since.

It was learned the conversations took place in the Austrian hotel, the Grand Canal, toward the League of Nations and economic matters, among them Italy's recent trade alliances with Austria and Hungary.

It was said also that it was learned the conversations took place in the Austrian hotel, the Grand Canal, toward the League of Nations and economic matters, among them Italy's recent trade alliances with Austria and Hungary.

With regard to disarmament it was stated that Mussolini and Hitler were in agreement that a long way toward inducing Hitler to return to the Geneva conference had been made.

It was said there will be no announcement on this subject because Germany's final action is dependent on whether France can be induced to make sufficient concessions.

After the 145-minute conversation, Hitler motored back to his hotel on the Grand Canal here, and Mussolini drove in to return the call, a formal talk which required only a few minutes.

There was nothing lacking in the way of pagantry for the visit of the German chancellor for a conference which will be an important effect on the history of the world.

Two meetings are planned for tomorrow.

SENATE VOTES TO ENDORSE TUGWELL

"I am not," he asked.

Butley insisted his ideas were substantive, Byrd held the same attitude.

Smith said he didn't think Tugwell knew enough about farm lands to do the farmers justice.

Regular-Republicans who helped the little group of Democratic lamb-Tugwells, let fly a few verbal barbs at the administration's policies in general.

Tugwell told the senate agriculture committee today he is a thorough believer in the constitution and democratic principles of government.

Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, was not recorded in the voting. Neither was Senator Borah (R-Idaho) double-Tugwell's testimony and Dickinson (R-Idaho) said today.

Senator Norris said Tugwell's opponents were using Samuel Insull's old formula: "Don't discuss the issue—just yell belleva."

BOISE, June 14 (AP)—Statehouse officials will be closed tomorrow, Pioneer day.

Although Governor C. Bon Ross, now in eastern Idaho, did not issue a proclamation, the practice will be followed in accordance with legislative provisions enacted by the previous session.

Governor H. C. Parsons, state auditor, who probably will visit friends in his home town at Twin Falls; Bert Miller, attorney general, who went with others to Postville to attend funeral services Wednesday for Congressman T. C. Coffin, and Franklin Olmstead, secretary of state.

IDAHO PATRONAGE DECISION DELAYED

Postmaster General Farley Considers Three Alternatives

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—Postmaster General Farley will hold decision today as to who should control postmaster patronage in the Second Idaho district, where representative Thomas C. Coffin, died last week.

In the meantime, Senator Pope (D-Idaho) has been the center of the situation at Idaho Falls, where the late Representative Coffin's choice of W. B. Snyder for the position had met with opposition.

This opposition brought a charge from Coffin that Pope and T. A. Wallcut, Idaho's present chairman and assistant secretary of the interior, were attempting to control the patronage of the post office.

Some of the telegrams received in the senator's office suggested that an election be held at Idaho Falls to suggest the name of a postmaster in the same manner Representative White (D-Idaho) settled the problem at Moscow, He held the central committee hold an election to suggest the person to be appointed postmaster from the three eligible submitted by the civil service commission.

At Idaho Falls, Pope said, the county Democratic central committee unanimously recommended an applicant and looked on Snyder as a defunct.

At the senator's office today it was said the postmaster general would decide whether Pope would take over the patronage for the district or whether it would be assigned to either the state chairman or the national committee from the state.

The labor board's "revised" Wagner bill, suggested as a peace move, did not get to the floor. Rank and file said it was all right "except it would have to have a few amendments" and "Tight-termed it" to "Chinese puzzle."

Derry was reported to have wanted to explain the measure in his suggested address.

Democratic leaders made an appeal for support of the administration measure, named to a committee of the Republican delegation—a score of proposed changes, which would have resulted in at least five amendments to the joint resolution.

The Democratic leaders were fearful that an attempt to push the measure would result in a complete defeat. This they did not want; it would block an early adjournment.

Meanwhile, Hugh H. Johnson reported that the negotiations for peace in the steel industry.

"I don't see anything more I can do," he told reporters.

Johnson denied published reports that he had been removed by President Roosevelt as mediator. He said he had acted only to assist the steel code authority in peace efforts; that he never held the post of an arbitrator.

The White House supported this with a statement through the press secretary, Stephen T. Early. The formal denial said the published report was "without any foundation in fact."

Some of the heaviest objection to the bill by Senator Wagner (D-NY) was aimed at a section to create the American debt reminders before the state department with the approval of the president may describe such rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this resolution.

Borah Sees Trouble Breeder
Senator Borah of Idaho, an Independent Republican, objected to this particular provision in addition to declaring generally that the intent of the resolution would "make for trouble rather than industrial peace."

The regular Republicans in their conference consideration of the resolution, were reported to have at first inserted a provision definitely mentioning the closed shop argument and then to have modified it with a subsequent proposal.

The section covering the holding of secret elections was virtually untouched by the committee of five Republicans named by their colleagues to write the report on the amendment.

The section providing for a $1000 fine, one year imprisonment or both for violators was changed by the Republicans to insert the words:

Blackfoot Man, Hit By Automobile, Dies

BLACKFOOT, Idaho, June 14 (AP)—Charles Wickstrom, 64, died here last night of injuries suffered Monday when he was struck by an automobile while crossing the state highway near his home.

Martin Thurston of Springfield, driver of the car, was not held, but officers ordered him to keep himself subject to call for further investigation. Officers said apparently both the pedestrian and driver became confused, both going the same direction.

SLAYING, SUICIDE
CHARGED TO POISON

Booth and committed suicide.

Summoned to the hotel by Wilson, Booth responded and drove him to an airport. When they arrived at the field Wilson offered Ted Morrill, Reno aviator, a drink but he refused.

Morrill said Wilson had been driving the cab.

Plunges in Power Dive
Wilson rented Morrill's plane and he and Morrill went up together.

Morrill said Wilson took the controls and immediately plunged the ship into a power dive.

"I got the controls away from him and landed the ship," Morrill said. They walked back to the car and Morrill noticed Booth slumped over in the front seat, apparently unconscious.

Morrill said he returned to Reno with Wilson to get the money for the plane ride. Wilson failed to get it at the hotel, Morrill said, and he went to headquarters to complain to police.

When he mentioned that the taxi driver was unconscious, police became suspicious. They started on a hunt for Wilson and learned he had headed the taxi toward Lovelock, about 90 miles east of Reno. They notified Sheriff C. A. Chapman there.

Offers Sheriff Drink
Sheriff Chapman reported. Wilson stopped his car near the Lovelock city limits. The sheriff said he approached the car and Wilson promptly offered him a drink.

When he refused, Wilson tipped the bottle to his lips, took a drink and slumped forward, unconscious.

Wilson died en route to Lovelock while the sheriff was driving to a physician's office.

While the sheriff was driving to a physician's office, Sheriff Chapman said two hitchhikers had been given a "lift" by Wilson and both had been offered drinks, which they refused.

Wilson threw the body of Booth out of the car near Derby, about 17 miles east of Reno. After an all night search by officers, the body was found early today by members of a highway construction crew.

BASEBALL COMPETITION

Baseball is one industry in which supreme excellence is penalized by financial loss, as Connie Mack, veteran leader of the Philadelphia Athletics, has demonstrated so convincingly. Mack has twice had to break up his teams because they got so good that their winning streaks became monotonous, and fans lost interest in the whole contest.

In no other sport that comes to mind does this condition exist. In prize fighting the customers throng to see the unbeatable champion. Consider John L. Sullivan, Bill Tilden, Bobby Jones, University of California football team, and Man of War are other examples of the drawing power of unimpeachable. Of course, it is the long season in professional baseball which makes close competition necessary if interest is to be maintained.

May there always be plenty of room at the top here.

TOLERANCE

A reader wrote to a newspaper book reviewer to ask for the names of a few books from which he could get "an unbiased idea of Nazism in Germany." He had heard such a lot of contradictory statements and partisan debates that he felt utterly confused.

The reviewer's reply, published in the paper, not only named but described seven books which he believed came as near as any to filling the need.

The interesting fact about all this is the fair play, the desire to get at an honest picture of a regime which is much in the news as a highly controversial subject. Emotions for and against Nazism have been violent. There is too much propaganda on each side. Most people, perhaps seek only prejudiced views, to support their own opinions. It is rare that some one searches for a dispassionate, truthful statement of such a situation.

This incident reveals intelligence and enlightened tolerance. Their cultivation is the only sound way to combat prejudiced propaganda.

SUN-POWER

At a recent gathering, scientists were asked by Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors, to tell what would be the future development in their various fields. Many will be interested in the answer of Charles F. Kettering, the great automotive engineer. He predicted the mechanical use of sun-power, through devices taking the energy directly from sunlight, and the control and re-radiation of this energy from plants on the ground, so that aircraft will pick it up and use it as they fly, without carrying fuel. That is a fascinating vision.

The power is certainly there in the sunlight. "Everything that has ever moved on the earth," he reminds us, "has been moved by the energy which comes directly from the sun." The same sunshine that manufactured our petroleum and stored it underground for us may be utilized more directly.

Perhaps the best sun-motor devised up to date is the human body. We get the solar energy indirectly through food, and directly from air and sunshine. This is a good time to year to remember that fact and store up a personal supply.

THE NEGATIVE APPEAL

One of the big motor companies has just completed a most interesting experiment in "the art of human understanding." Two hundred questionnaires were sent out, and two revisions were made in the copy and the questionnaires were again submitted to the same correspondents. But this time one hundred letters invited reactions and included stamped, self-addressed envelopes for reply, while the other 10 asked merely for perusal. The letter concluded:

"We wouldn't think of asking you to bother with another one and are not even enclosing a return envelope."

Of the first group there were but 21 replies, but of the second group, the uninvited ones, there were 72.

Company officials term this process "the negative appeal" and say it has its place in salesmanship.

WELL JUSTIFIED ATTACK

(Antioch, Wisconsin, Journal)

Governor Schmideman does well to attack attempts on the part of several states to prevent the natural and normal exchange of commodities by passing laws, virtually amounting to embargoes, against the importation of products from other states. As he comments:

"Our several states are only a part of our great nation. Our welfare depends not upon the welfare of one state at the expense of the other, but upon the welfare of all the 48 states constituting the nation. It is only along the lines of co-operation between states, and not mutual antagonism fostered by local greed and ignorance that we can hope to bring back real prosperity."

Embargoes might have a logical basis if a state could exist without selling any of its products outside, but no state is in such a position. What would New York or Illinois do with their manufactured products, West Virginia with its coal, Wisconsin with its dairy products, if they could not sell them outside their borders? Exchange of products is essential to their continued life, and embargoes, of what amounts to them, would lead to realizations in kind that would disrupt all business.

Embargoes are also to the ideals of our national constitution, and a throw-back to the preceding unworkable confederacy, under which the states raised tariff barriers against each other. If state-line barriers were wrong then, they are even more out of place now, when the major industries are keyed to the scale of nation-wide consumption.

From another aspect of the embargoes are a reflection of the self-sufficiency ideal, which has developed to the greatest degree in the exaggerated nationalism of Europe. There, it has brought about a proliferation of international trade, with consequent economic distress. Applied to the states in this country that doctrine would have even more lamentable consequences.

THE SIX MOST FAMOUS WORDS

(Portland Oregonian)

Outside of the Bible, says William Lyon Phelps, the words "to be or not to be" are the six most famous words in all the literature of the world.

Also, it should be noted that "to be" is repeated. This most famous passage in literature, outside the Bible, contains only six of the letters of the alphabet but only four different words. It is a sentence of superb Anglo-Saxon simplicity. Only a few shorter sentences could be composed with six words. And yet into it is packed most of the wisdom of mankind.

All of our aspects of pondering of the hereafter are summed up in that crisp sentence, "To be or not to be." President Roosevelt can repeat it, and so can all there is to say of the New Deal. Maybe yes, maybe no. The theologian, the engineer, the statesman, the philosopher, the bank robber, the love-lorn youth, the parakeet jumper, the lonesome striker, the scientist, over his last tuba, and the physician over his patient, can only say, "To be or not to be."

In these words are the mystery, the beauty, the tragedy and yearning of life and death. They cannot but ring down through the ages, until the last loe has mown the last city, man upon the ruins of the Empire State building, wondering as he stares at the sky, "To be or not to be?"

THE BAD CRIMINAL LAWYER

(The Milwaukee Journal)

When the American Bar Association convenes in Milwaukee this summer, among the things it will consider will be "some code of ethics for criminal law which can be suitably enforced. Laymen will watch the association's proposal in this direction with special interest, for laymen have long been impressed with the need for effective measures to curb the activities of the type of lawyer who has come to be known by criminals as a "mouthpiece" the type of lawyer who gains his whole livelihood deftly and practically abetting acknowledged criminals.

It is true of this type of lawyer that he must have his day in court, but it is not all clear to the layman why a lawyer should be permitted to stoop to the most questionable tactics in seeking to clear a guilty client and thus to defeat justice. If a lawyer sees to it that his client has a fair trial and such share of the "breaks" as may be possible, he is certainly doing his full duty. When he commences this line of client to produce false testimony and false alibi, he is surely going too far, for, under the law, he has a duty to the court as well as to his client, and it is only by strictly balancing these duties that he should be allowed to practice law.

What the bar association can do to discipline the bad criminal lawyer remains to be seen. It is gratifying to know that at least some of its members are the need for disciplinary efforts.

BREAKFAST FOOD

PRECISE

An American sugar planter in Hawaii took a trip to the States to the edge of a volcano. "That crater is 7000 years old," he remarked. "How do you get the exact age?" asked the newsmen. "I can understand the 7000, but where do you calculate the four?"

"Well, I've been here in the Islands for four years, and that crater was 7000 years old when I arrived."

FOOLING THE HORSE

A country caddy, on coming to a hill, got down and violently hoisted the door, to the consternation of the fair lady who was seated in the car.

"Why, sir, it's to make the horse believe you got out," whispered the driver.

Young Miss: "That's just about a year since our honeymoon, when we spent that glorious day on the hill."

Tom (globally): "Well, little thought than we'd be spending our first anniversary on the rock."

The man who brags "I run things in my house" usually refers to the lawn mower, washing machine, vacuum sweeper, baby carriage and the errand.

WASHINGTON

By George Durne

CRISIS: Veterans of the union labor movement are following the struggle in the steel industry with mixed emotions.

"One group of oldtimers that grew up with the American Federation of Labor is cheering the battle of the Homestead Bank and File committee. They feel that some aggressive leadership is being given the work after a lapse of too many years. They are happy to speak for the element which thinks William Green has been too pacifistic in his direction of the labor cause."

Another group views the situation with grave misgivings. They mind go back to the bloody Homestead strike of 1922 wherein the radical element took charge and public sympathy turned against the workers. They are afraid history may repeat itself.

The first school of thought raises a cynical eyebrow in the direction of Mike Tigue, veteran president of the Amalgamated Steel and Tin Workers. They say Tigue has lost to many fights he is far too ready to conciliate and compromise. Their sympathies are with William J. Spang and Earl Forbeck, who are spokesmen for the Rank and File committee.

Other men, equally well versed in organized labor history, say Spang and Forbeck lack essential qualities of real leadership. They advise that Pat Kueh, spokesman for the radical Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers, has been battling to shoulder with Spang and Forbeck in the preliminary negotiations. Kueh was active in the Homestead strike and in subsequent labor disorders.

These conservative-minded card-holders do not see how General Johnson was able to differentiate between Spang and Forbeck on the one hand and Kueh on the other. All three have been demanding the same thing—recognition by the steel barons on threat of strike.

Many service-stopped unions men are grating their teeth at the unwritten a repetition of those walk-outs.

Not a line appeared. He had to announce the arrival belatedly himself.

FISCAL: Treasury officials remain mute on the possibility of a further reduction of the dollar currency in the New York half of this summer.

Secretary Morgenthau will say only that he does it significantly that the treasury is operating on a "cash basis." He declines to speculate on what may happen in the monetary field.

Administration officials are watching with interest the treasurer in which gold stocks have jumped on the exchange in the last week. They are watching the British pound much closer.

Morgenthau was a disappointed man the other day. Last Saturday, 5,000 ounces of silver purchased in London arrived at New York. It was one of the largest shipments in history.

The secretary had vainly headlined the following morning, selling of the big purchase.

Not a line appeared. He had to announce the arrival belatedly himself.

NOTES: Not much campaign stuff developed on either side of the Tug-of-war between the direct and direct appropriations and authorizations of the Federal Reserve Board.

PWA funds have practically unlimited money for emergencies.

Many signs indicate further devaluation of the dollar after summer.

One of the new active secret services is Secretary Kueh's band of assistants who acquire the sum clearance before real estate agents can boost prices. SPENDING. The informed interpreter Mr. Roosevelt's request for $250,000,000 for drought relief is a significant story of our federal spending which will make the proverbial seller look like a schoolman on a desert island. They point out that the government has 3 1/2 billion available for spending between now and January and could easily have taken the drought money out of that modest nest-egg if it didn't have definite plans for pouring the cash out elsewhere.

SEAGULLS NOT UNCOMMON

The Twin Falls News.

Gentlemen—Regarding the article about sea gulls in the Sunday News, my father moved here in December, 1910 on a farm joining the Murtagh lake, and I have been on the place every year but one (war time) and I do not remember a year that sea gulls have not summered at the lake here.

"Which is the present time, where I am irrigating on big grass pasture, about 500 or 600 gulls put in the day long angle worms. I have counted till they flew and estimated the number from the ground that they covered."

Yours Truly,
P. V. MORRISON,

A New Yorker at Large

By MARK HARBON

NEW YORK — Travelogue of a New Yorker at large.

Broadway goes sentimental even in its gayest moments. There was a party in one of the better known cabarets last evening where the "gals" were mostly from the stage and screen. Around and about it glimped Gertrude Nissen, Claire Windsor, the Doctor, Jimmie Moran, Lew Brown, Mack Gordon, Lew Alter, Marc Leachman, D. W. Griffith, Marion Marsh and a score of others.

At one table were the mother and father of the late Texas Guinan, and her brother, Tommie. It was the first time they had been seen in public since Texas' sudden death. Immediately the party turned to the cheerful, generous hearted Tex, the queen of Manhattan night life. One after another of the fringe people names arose and told of the good deeds of Texas. It was a festive "join joy" and Texas, and one which I imagine Texas would have liked. He did get so much fun out of life!

Just after the opening of the new hit mystery murder melodrama, "Invisible Man," a Kuyper, I ran into Ben Shum, the producer. "Why didn't you help me like you did 'Dracula'?" he chided.

"I didn't," I replied, "because the cheerful, generous hearted Tex, the queen of Manhattan night life. One after another of the fringe people names arose and told of the good deeds of Texas. It was a festive "join joy" and Texas, and one which I imagine Texas would have liked. He did get so much fun out of life!"

While discussions will embrace all phases of industry's relations to government. They will focus on the theme that Washington's main job henceforth is to encourage "private initiative in every possible way as the only sure road to employment and recovery. This of course will imply less regulation through NRA and especially greater freedom of employers to deal with labor according to their own lights. The conference really is to get somewhere with their recommendations because of the new viviparousness of the industry's views recently shown in advertisement.

SEAGULLS NOT UNCOMMON

The Twin Falls News.

Gentlemen—Regarding the article about sea gulls in the Sunday News, my father moved here in December, 1910 on a farm joining the Murtagh lake, and I have been on the place every year but one (war time) and I do not remember a year that sea gulls have not summered at the lake here.

"Which is the present time, where I am irrigating on big grass pasture, about 500 or 600 gulls put in the day long angle worms. I have counted till they flew and estimated the number from the ground that they covered."

Yours Truly,
P. V. MORRISON,

SHORT BEET CROP LIMITS OPERATIONS

Amalgamated Company to Operate Only Factory
At Burley

Due to an indicated short crop of sugar beets this season, the Amalgamated Sugar company is planning, provided tonnage holds up to present indications, to mill all of the beet crop in its southern Idaho district at its Burley plant this year. E. M. Tallman, Idaho district manager for the Amalgamated company, announced here last evening.

The Burley plant has been chosen because of its smaller slicing capacity, which is more economical for the company, and the Twin Falls plant which last season sliced 181,000 tons of beets during a 109-day campaign, will not be operated this season, according to present indications, Tallman said.

Relative to unfavorable crop indications, the district manager's statement said:

"The unusually small tonnage this year is attributed to the late planting and the lack of proper moisture at that time, and the early infection of leaf hopper in certain sections of our territory has had a more serious effect on these beets than on the ones planted earlier. The water shortage that has developed is also playing some part in the reduced tonnage."

JURY FAVORABLE TO RANCH WORKER

District Court Pannel Finds
Henry Harris Entitled to
More Than Asked

A jury in the district court here yesterday decided that Henry Harris, Negro cattle ranch worker, was entitled to considerably more than he claimed as wages due from Louis Harrell, his employer for nearly 20 years, when he sued for $1380.

During the trial today, Judge W. A. Babcock permitted Harrell's attorney to amend his complaint to allege that he had been hired for $15 a month. In previously amended complaint Harrell had raised the wage rate from $40 to $50 a month.

The jury did not return a verdict, but submitted its answers to four interrogatories for the court's guidance in arriving at judgment. The jury found that Harrell had been hired at $10 a month from February, 1912, until December, 1918, and thereafter until January, 1922, at $30 a month.

The jury found further that there had been a settlement as Harrell alleged between Harrell and his employer in October, 1927, and that a $500 check that Harrell introduced in evidence had been given to Harrell in December, 1920, in payment of a loan and not as wages.

Witnesses, besides Harrell, a resident of this region for 54 years, included a number of other early settlers, including William Trotter, W. H. Cramer, W. H. Van Eaton, G. A. Ross, Carl J. Domrose.

Charles Harris, nephew of Henry Harris, and Clinton T. Harrell, son of Louis Harrell, were called to testify regarding questions at issue in the case.

Would you put Buttermilk on your cereal?

Buttermilk for some things—sweet milk for others—and you don't use one for the other. For the same reason, don't try to use the same coffee for either drip maker or percolator. There's a special coffee for each. Here's the reason.

In a Drip Coffee Maker, boiling water drips only once through a coffee specially prepared to yield in flavor quickly. While in a Percolator, the water continues to pass many times through a coffee prepared to yield in flavor slowly. The same coffee can be used for both methods, but like a "Jack-of-all-trades" it is "master of none"—neither drip nor percolator. In one or the other, little things happen. It's a little weak, or a little strong, or a little cloudy, or it has a little less flavor. It's these little things that make or mar good coffee. Be sure to use the correct coffee for each method.

Your grocer has two Schilling Coffees, identical in flavor, but each is specially prepared for its purpose—each one different in blend, roast and grind.

LARGE ENROLLMENT REPORTED AT ALBION

ALBION, June 14.—The highest summer school enrollment since 1929 at the Albion "New" school was reached Tuesday, the last day of registration, when the figures reached 170 students. In 1929, 165 students were enrolled for the summer session. "I anticipated," said President R. H. Snyder, "that counting the second term increase, enrollment will exceed 200." The summer session is ten weeks in length and the second term begins July 9.

Interest in the summer school work, according to President Snyder, is centered in the securing of certificates by out-of-state teachers, the renewal of county certificates, and doing of advanced work by graduates from two-year courses. The newer courses being offered the first time at the normal are: Social, political, and economic implications of the new deal; the recent history of the psychology of the exceptional child; problems in industrial relations; and the American public school system.

A large number of excursions and picnics have been planned, including trips to the top of Mt. Harrison and to the City of Rocks, according to President Snyder. Two of the special features of the summer session are assemblies and entertainments also include the fake public singers on the campus July 11, and a report on the research on the recent earthquake here by A. C. Thorsen of the geologic survey, Burley.

There are 125 members on the summer school faculty.

NEW YORK, June 14 (AP)—Trading in stocks ebbed today and the market turned easy. Traders waited developments in the grain market and steel strike and the threat of a new ground around announcement of the German surrender of its eastern districts, although German bonds were the only securities to show any response of movement to the news. Most of them rallied for net gains before the close of trading.
