HEA WAVE ASSAULT BOOSTS DEATH TOLL AND BURNS FIELDS

Fatalities Reported at 236

As 20 States Fall—Hair
To Superheated 3 Days;
Snow Falls in Colorado

(By The Associated Press)
Another assault from a powerful heat wave yesterday boosted the death toll to three blistering days to calamity proportions and burned more havoc in the nation's fields.
One hundred and thirty-five more deaths were reported as the heat wave progressed far past normal July figures in 20 states. The toll for the super-heated three days stood at 236.
Only the northern border and the West coast were spared. New York City, comfortable at 77 degrees on Friday, sweltered in a temperature of 104 in Miami, 100-plus readings were common.
While the rest of the nation simmers, another toll in Colorado climbed. In several minutes after the first rain since July 4, minute particles of snow fell in downtown Denver from 6,000 ft. to 8,000 ft. m. today.
But the sun blazed most fiercely in heat drought-blighted Middle West, where the heat wave was only a hotter interlude in a 30-day siege for which weather officials contain no parallel this side of 1901.
Temperature 104.
Mitchell, South Dakota, reported a temperature of 114, the highest official reading in the baking Middle West, and at Watertown, South Dakota, 112 degrees broke a 30-day record.
For the second day it was 108 degrees in Oklahoma, Iowa; Springfield, 107; in St. Paul, the mercury jumped ten degrees over Friday's high to 102. Hottest places in the belt were Hannibal, Missouri, at 100.
In Cincinnati the day brought a high of 108 degrees, in Jefferson City, Missouri, 107; and in Topeka, Kansas, 106.
Weather observers, surprised by the heat wave, explained it partly upon the drought, explaining:

WARSAW IN PATH OF FLOOD WATERS

Hundreds of Persons Work
Desperately Along
Bank of River

WARSAW, July 21 (AP)—Flood waters of the Vistula river, which have risen to 200 feet in southern Poland, swept into Warsaw today, forcing many citizens from their homes and flooding the streets.
The Vistula, whose rampages have already caused damage estimated at $200,000,000, rose to a level 10 feet higher than the normal 4-foot reading here, and the water reached the gates of the presidential palace.
Seven nearby villages were inundated and Lusa park, huge amusement center was under water. Boats were used in suburban areas.
Hundreds Work Desperately
Hundreds of persons, including police and volunteers, worked desperately to strengthen the levees on the left bank of the river which showed signs of weakness that endangered the heart of the capital.
Reports from the devastated areas to the south showed that the farmers were in serious distress due to the loss of homes, crops and livestock. The government was rushing aid to the stricken territory as rapidly as possible.
Bismarck had been unable to open the willow dam yesterday because they could not pass under the bridge.

Clouds Slack Rigors Of Indians' Annual Sun Dance

POCAHELLO, July 21 (AP)—Dancing under cloud-blanketed skies with their half-naked bodies colorfully decorated by paint and feathers, Indians of the Snake and Shoshone tribes entered the second night of their annual sun dance on the Fort Hall reservation west of here tonight.

The dance started at sundown Friday, accompanied by the first rain in this section in almost a month, and if any of the dancing boys were weary of the physical assistance from the sun's rays, those rays filtered through a grey mist which continued until late today. The clouds finally broke and permitted sunshine to reign over the willow dance enclosure for a short while before sunset, when the dancers passed for ceremonies called "the sun god to cleanse the earth."
As darkness fell, the braves, although there are probably not more than 100 actually dancing,

Posse Organized To Capture Dillinger! Outlaw Still Absent

CULVER, Ind., July 21 (AP)—A "tip" that John Dillinger, Indiana's notorious outlaw, might appear at a lakeside cottage near here, put police on the alert. A posse was organized here today but nothing came of it.
A posse was organized here under the direction of Colonel Robert Roscoe, commandant of cadets at Culver Military Academy, when it was reported the Culver Exchange bank might be robbed, and they, along with a member of the state police force, kept a close watch throughout the day.
AMBULANCE KILLS PATIENT
DENVER, July 21 (AP)—Crushed beneath the ambulance which was carrying to a hospital, a man named Griffin was instantly killed here tonight.
Mr. Griffin's death was the fourth and the 66th of the year here.

Lightning Burns Imprint Of Beads In Neck Of Girl

SALT LAKE CITY, July 21 (AP)—Louise Glaser, 18-year-old daughter of a Salt Lake City family, was burned when lightning struck a necklace she was wearing, during a storm here late today.
Miss Glaser took shelter under a tree when rain began falling. She said the lightning flashed several times before she felt a burning and severe pain in her neck. When she arrived home, the imprint of three beads had been burned in her neck. Otherwise she was not injured, although she complained of a pain in her head for some time.

GOVERNOR EXTENDS REPRIVE—GRANTED TO JEROME MAN

"There Are Other Inmates
In State's Prison Who Should Not Be There,"
C. Ben Ross Declares

(By The Associated Press)
BOISE, July 21.—With the statement "there are other inmates in state's prison who should not be there," Governor C. Ben Ross today indefinitely extended a reprieve granted May 2 to Earl Olson of Jerome. His action followed a pardon board hearing to which several Jerome county, and city officers and residents were subpoenaed to give testimony. Final disposition of the case awaits appearance of three other witnesses.
Olson entered a plea of guilty to a charge of assault with a deadly weapon in the Eleventh criminal court at Jerome and was sentenced to serve a one-to-two-year sentence which began on February 30, 1934. At a pardon board meeting May 2 he was reprieved and, because of conflicting stories, the board instituted action for varying county officials involved in the case before the board for personal examination. The case arose in February when Jerome county and municipal officers were requested by a neighbor of Olson on a farm near Jerome to arrest him for alleged threats against his wife late one night following a dance on which Olson allegedly returned home intoxicated.
Marshall Signed Complaint
While arresting Olson at his home near Jerome a butcher knife other dropped from Olson's pocket or was removed by him when he related arrest. W. M. Milligan, then acting Jerome city marshal, signed a complaint charging Olson with assault with a deadly weapon upon an officer.
Witnesses who testified today included Olson, "Frenchie" Conrad, Jerome absecon; Henry Hall, Jerome county absecon; James Davis, Jerome county sheriff; Milligan, and Mrs. Edith Smith, wife of Olson. The board also heard testimony from Jerome county and municipal officers.
Under questioning by Bert H. Milligan, general, and member of the board, Milligan, when asked: "Did you believe Olson got a 'rotten deal' in this case?" replied: "Yes, I don't like to see anyone break their promise. When I talked to the sheriff I got the idea that Olson had been promised a parole if he would plead guilty to the charge."
"Would you approve his pardon?"

STRIKERS REJECT NRA AGREEMENT

Arrangement for Return of Blue Eagle Emblem
Voted Down

HARRISMAN, Tenn., July 21 (AP)—Sixteen of the Harrison County miners today voted to reject an agreement under which the Blue Eagle would be returned to the miners if they closed after the emblem had been removed.
W. M. Hannah, attorney for the strikers, who denied that A. R. O'Connell, NRA official, had any authority from General Hugh S. Johnson or from the union to make the settlement that was announced Thursday night.
The union, Hannah declared, "ought to stand ready to comply in every way with every order and decision made by General Hugh S. Johnson. And while the union would regard the settlement as worse than no settlement at all, yet if Hugh S. Johnson approves it, which the union believes he will never do, we will nevertheless go along with him."
Boone, Sullivan
Named Captains
In Marine Corps
WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—Secretary Stimson today announced that he had approved recommendation by the marine promotion board for promotion of 22 captains to majors and 89 first lieutenants to be captains.
The president's approval came by radio from the U. S. S. Houston, now in the Pacific. The list had been sent to him yesterday by wireless.
First lieutenants recommended for promotion to captains include: Leo Sullivan, Berkeley, Idaho, at Fort Benning, Florida. Ronald A. Boone, Twin Falls, Idaho, at Quantico.

FIRE PROTECTION DISTRICT LAUNCHED

Committee Chairman Announces Action for Suburban Area

Definite steps toward organization of an independent fire protection district which promises fire protection and reduction of fire insurance rates in a 40-square mile territory surrounding the city of Twin Falls will be taken this week when petitions for the district are to be circulated. Claude H. Detweiler, chairman of a Junior chamber of commerce committee, announced last evening.

Residents of the proposed fire district will circulate the petitions during the next few days. It is expected, the petitions will be ready for presentation to the county commissioners. Under terms of state law providing for fire district organization, commissioners will set a date for hearing on the district, and if sentiment seems favorable, will thereafter organize the district, or submit the question to the voters at a general election. County commissioners would be the fire district's governing board.

Pronounced Feasible

The proposed fire district, which would be the fourth in Idaho, has been pronounced "entirely feasible" by the Idaho Surveying and Rating Bureau, which also stated "it is apparent of the proper type is provided it should contribute materially to the protection from fire of property within the district."

Twin Falls Mutual Fire Insurance Association through W. F. Alworth endorsed the district organization, stating "if properly conducted the district should be of considerable benefit to property owners within the district and should eventually tend to reduce the cost of insurance materially."

Savings Estimated

On a basis of $3,000,000 property valuation in the proposed district, the surveying and rating bureau figures the saving in insurance resulting from the district's organization would be at least $2500 a year, and that the district would reap a six cost in four or five years besides reducing fire loss and affording protection not measurable in dollars.

Offsetting the district's cost the bureau promised a 10 per cent reduction in insurance rates, a 25 per cent and 30 per cent reduction in insurance on property in subdivisions adjoining the city.

Outline Procedure

The surveying and rating bureau, in a letter to Mr. Detweiler, recommended these steps in connection with the proposed fire district:

1. Organize the district under state law's provision.
2. Provide an equipment an automobile pumper conforming to standard specifications with 300 to 600 gallons per minute capacity, 200-gallon booster tank, 750 feet of 2½ inch hose and 1000 feet of 1½ inch hose.
3. Provide one full paid man and two volunteers paid on response to alarms.
4. Twin Falls fire chief to be the district's fire chief.
5. Equipment and men to be housed in Twin Falls fire station under contract between the district and city, the city to be allowed use of the district's equipment on second alarm fires.

The proposed district's $2,500,000 valuation is sufficiently high, the bureau advised, so that none of the district costs will be burdensome. In event of full payment for the equipment when purchased a three-million levy the first year, with a one-million levy thereafter was recommended.

MOTORISTS-URGED TO OBSERVE STOP SIGNS

State and city traffic officers last night urged co-operation of motorists in heeding the new stop signs along the recently completed Twin Falls traffic lane.

It was especially urged that drivers stop at both ends of Main avenue as it enters the highway.

Delegation Greet 'Jason Lee Special' In Salt Lake City

SALT LAKE CITY, July 21 (AP)—The "Jason Lee Special," a motorcade covered wagon following the trail taken by Lee, a Methodist missionary, in his historic trip from Boston to Salem, Oregon, in 1834, arrived here today and was greeted by a large delegation of churchmen.

It is fitting that Utah and Idaho participation in the Jason Lee centennial celebration should come when at Utah and Southern Idaho people are honoring the courage, men and women whose achievements, in the face of handicaps, far distances and pioneer conditions, were the cornerstones of our present well-being. Dr. C. J. Brown, professor of American history at the University of Idaho and a member of the "special," said tonight.

A special church service will be held here tomorrow night, commemorating the achievements of the famous missionary.

Before you buy any car at any price DRIVE one of our FORD V-8's

If you are judging the Ford car on the basis of price, you are making the mistake of your car-buying life. Ford—with a V-8 engine in a low-priced car—has shattered all "price class" ideas.

When you sit behind the wheel of a Ford V-8 (the only car with a V-8 engine selling for less than $2,500.00) and feel its tremendous wealth of smooth-flowing power... when you feel the easy riding comfort of free-action on all four wheels... when you feel the security of a Ford's extra-large, positive mechanical 4-wheel brakes... then you realize that here is a car that cannot be judged on the basis of price.

That's why we say "Before you buy any car at any price, drive one of our Ford V-8's." A phone call will bring a demonstrator to your house... no obligation... no charge.

100-MEN FIGHTING LITTLE FORK FIRE

Season's First Serious
Blaze Sweeps Idaho
Timber Land

CHALLIS, Idaho, July 21 (AP)—One hundred men tonight are battling a fire on the Little Fork of the Salmon river, 65 miles from Stanley, A. V. Larter, Challis national forest ranger, said tonight. It is the first serious fire of the season, he stated.

Sixty-five men, he said, packed into the isolated fire district during last night at 9 o'clock when the blaze was discovered and 25 more were moving toward the front tonight. The nearest road is 18 miles from where the fire is burning.

Blazes have been established at Salmon and Louisa creek ranger stations.

Humidity is low and a wind was blowing toward the northeast tonight.

Reports from the fire line indicated that the blaze would be under control. It is burning in heavy timber and some grass and brush land.

A successful attempt was made last night to obtain planes to carry men and equipment. The dispatcher announced.

McCall Fire Under Control

McCALL, Idaho, July 21 (AP)—After burning for approximately 200 acres of grass and timber land in the Grass mountain district of the Idaho national forest, 20 men have the blaze under control. R. R. Brown, fire dispatcher, announced tonight.

Men and equipment were transported to the scene approximately 50 miles northwest of here.

The fire, Brown stated, is one of the worst of the present season.

Emergency Restrictions

BOISE, July 21 (AP)—Guy Malin, supervisor of the Boise National forest, tonight announced that emergency restrictions promulgated by R. H. Rutledge of Ogden, regional forester, to cope with the timber fire.

There now exists on the Boise, Challis, Idaho, Lemhi, Payette, Salmon, and Snake river national forests, in Idaho, extreme drought conditions, making the forest cover highly inflammable and creating emergency conditions because of extreme fire hazard. Rutledge's order reads:

"Whereas, he continued, "smoking, building of camp fires and other acts, including the use of matches, are building up a serious fire hazard, and many man-caused fires have occurred and great damage has been done thereby, the following restrictions are invoked:

"Smoking is permitted: (a) while traveling on roads, provided matches and tobacco are deposited before being discarded; (b) in camps and at places of human habitation; (c) at other places free from inflammable material, provided the smoker absolutely stops traveling while smoking and entirely extinguishes his tobacco before resuming travel. Smoking is prohibited elsewhere, or under any other conditions on the above named forests.

Rules for Camping

"Prohibit the going or being upon the above named national forests for the purpose of camping, except on improved or designated camp grounds, provided, however, that under written permit signed by a forest officer, camping is permitted at places other than improved or designated camp grounds.

"Prohibit the building of camp fires and the use of the above named national forests, except in accordance with a written permit signed by a forest officer; provided, however, that camp fires may be built on improved or designated camp grounds without such permit.

Those persons operating under national forest special-use, grazing and timber permits are exempted from the requirements with reference to camping and the building of camp fires necessary in operating under the terms of their permits.

The order is effective beginning July 25.

THE GUMPS—THE PLAIN SUBSTANTIALS OF LIFE

SPITE MARRIAGE

by Katherine's Handmaid-Taylor

SYNOPSIS: Because Bob Taylor had found out that his father had married him to pay off Godfrey Tarleton, with whom she had thought herself in love until he introduced her to "the new Mrs. Tarleton," the Powers housewife is shattered. Bob and Martha are back in Vernal to get a divorce—and now Martha realizes that she loves Bob far more than she ever had loved Godfrey.

Chapter 23
NEW TRAGEDY

Bob sat, long, lean, hunched over. He was too big to accommodate easily to the average small car—staring moodily ahead. The lap of his arms, folded loosely across his chest, made Martha close her eyes.

"They had swung her so easily from the floor, those arms, and she, though gentle, had been so firm. It seemed close to incredible that, only the day before, he had picked her up to settle her with him in a big chair before the fire. So incredible that it was a thing to smile over weakly while the cold creeps over and deep.

They had adjoining rooms, and she had had unlocked her bags he went into his room and closed the door after himself. Alone, she made her way toward a long mirror to study her reflection in it.

Before she knew Bob, she had been inflexibly certain that a clever woman who was beautiful could do as she liked with any male. This certainty had been dissipated by new wisdom; if she could reach Bob, thus, which she doubted, she knew it would be to hold him for but a little time.

The time done, he would loathe himself for yielding, and loathe her for having made him yield; and in his mind "would" be turned into "must" with a vengeance.

She realized he was anxious to avoid the table "a-tete with her" and she answered, "I'll have something here."

"I'll have it," he said. "I'm not hungry now."

"You felt the worry in his eyes, and she drew a quick, sharp breath. She still mattered a little to him; her comfort; her health still mattered a little to him."

"You ate no luncheon," he reminded her.

"True," she said, "perhaps you best try." She wanted him at case about her and she craved ardently to have within him as much peace and composure could be. "You'll dine downstairs," she questioned.

"I suppose so," he hesitated. She waited. It was obvious that he wanted to say something more.

"I wish—" he faltered.

"Oh, nothing. Anything I can do for you before I go down, or while I am down?"

"No, thank you so much. I was used to taking care of myself; I suppose I may as well grow used to it again." She managed to smile at him after her words but he could not answer her smile.

Tarleton, Bob supposed, would one day take care of her and the idea of Tarleton's caring for any woman, was Bob thought, a somewhat blasphemous jest.

But she would understand Tarleton's manner of caring. It was, patiently all that she wished; some one who would look well with her in public, some one who would cheat, but now Bob was touched by her loneliness.

"Is there anyone," he asked, "whom you would like to see?"

"Oh, heaven forbid!" she responded quickly and almost harshly. She laughed mirthlessly. "Pussy Aunt Gertrude at this moment!" she said.

His face split. He didn't want that for Martha; the enforced companionship that had drained her, weakened her, irritated her.

"You want her to consider your aunt," he prompted; "I don't want you to go back to her."

He left her then and without switching on the lights she wandered to window from which she stared down and into the street. Motors, motors, motors; going coming, hurrying, to fill the time. Time... she turned her wedding ring; her engagement ring that Bob had slipped on her finger only a few short minutes before they were married.

"I think," she said aloud, "that it began then."

Her words echoed in the empty room; she turned, covered; she was, she found, desperately afraid of this empty room. It was a symbol for the endless stretch of level ground that lay before her. She needed him. Bob, who had told her how lonely she had been, by his companionship, she whispered "Bob!"

Then a cold and a quiet minute—the smile, futile. It was, to call him, to try to cry for him any more. He was dining downstairs so that he might not have to sit near her, whose need for him was agony. And even that need of hers wouldn't lead to one so unusually kind that because—she hated her—loated her!

At five on the following afternoon Martha laid down a book she had tried to read, failed to read. Bob had been gone so long.

She looked at the room that had been sent her, who was masquerading as having "a slight cold." On the card that had come with the room was written in an old, muffled, steady script, "For my very dear daughter (Child, come to see me. I am not afraid of catching colds). Your loving, Mother."

And on the reverse of the card was written: "I do not like to have you and Robert stop at an hotel. I shall reason with him. Will you, too, please, dear? I do so want you both with me."

Some day, of course, she would dwindle, dim, Martha reasoned. Aches must, or people couldn't love on as they did now.

The small clock in the leather case she always carried with her told five light, silvery notes. Where was Bob? He had been gone so long.

Then she heard his step in his room; his stride, always long, around the room, he sat tense from listening. After an interval she heard him move again and after that came his tap upon her door.

She called "Come," he entered. She saw that his look of strain was deepened, that he did not trouble to avoid her eyes. He seemed unaware of her.

"May I sit down a few moments?" he asked. Something had happened, she realized, that had drained him of his last strength.

"Please," she answered.

He settled on a chair that faced her. "Things have changed," he faltered. "It's pretty bad. It will be hard for you. I've been to see mother. She—she—"

"Rates me and is deeply hurt," Martha supplied, levelly. Again she glanced toward the roses that had come with that card of dear and warning message.

"No, not that," he answered. He drew a deep breath, and was on his feet, and then went on.

"She's ill," he stated flatly, "very ill; it's cancer. I could not tell her. You can imagine how she would feel over my telling her we were to be divorced. She has been, I know, too happy over thinking I had you."

He rose abruptly, dropped the match to a tray; settled over more spoke again. "Afterwards told me about her—let's see, I think of St. James Hospital says she can live no more than a year—she went on to tell me of how happy she is to know I have you."

He puffed hard on his cigar. There was silence; "I couldn't tell her!" he broke out; "couldn't! I couldn't bear the thought of hurting her and the shock might have been too much for her."

Martha inferred the rest of his statement. "I did not ask for a divorce," she said, "nor do I want one until you do, and I hurry away. And if I can help you, and help your mother, I do so want to!"

She saw his eyes brim. She asked to draw his head to her breast and to hold it pressed tightly there as she did her best to soothe him, help him.

"It is a great deal to ask of you," he murmured wearily.

"No," she contradicted. (Copyright, 1934, by K. Hayward-Taylor)

SUGAR MILL PLANS WIND-UP IN COURT

Receiver for Cooperative Company Files Final Report, Account

The conclusion of a cooperative sugar plant promotion that was launched in the Twin Falls district shortly after the World war period but had never progressed beyond the stock selling stage, was scheduled when District Judge Adam B. Barclay of Jerome, yesterday assigned for hearing in the district court here next Friday the final report and account of P. R. Cox, receiver since March, 1922, for the Idaho Cooperative Beet Sugar company.

The company's assets consisted of promissory notes given by some 350 persons in payment for stock subscriptions, the receiver's report says. Many of the notes, it says, have largely at all times denied the liability of the company and the receiver found that notes were taken from "a large number of persons who could not be financially irresponsible."

The receiver brought as separate actions for recovery on these notes, and collected some on a compromise basis.

Since November, 1928, the report says, the receiver collected $200,000 and disbursed $200,000, largely on account of receiver's and attorneys' fees and court costs.

Receivership was secured by the Great Western Mortgage and Loan company which held a large proportion of the stock-subscription notes.

Makers of 110 of these notes, the receiver's report recites, brought suit for cancellation of the notes and obtained judgment in the district court which was reversed by the supreme court. The supreme court's decision "largely held" that the receiver's claims were inferior to those of the note makers, hence, the receiver's action was not compromised and dismissed.

Order for dismissal of the note makers' suit was signed by Judge Barclay yesterday, upon stipulation by their attorney, Harry Benson of Twin Falls, with Porter and Witham and Frank L. Stephan and C. A. North, attorneys for the receiver.

Salmon Gets Water For Domestic Use

A 27-foot run of water for domestic use in each of four divisions under the Salmon River canal system was started from the Salmon river dam yesterday, the Salmon River Canal company announced last evening. The delivery was delayed as long as possible, a member of the canal board said, and was started on short notice when gauge readings of the past few days showed rapid fall of the river.

The run is to be made on Monday in No. 1 and No. 17 lateral; Tuesday in lateral No. 15; Wednesday in No. 2 lateral, and Thursday in the A system.

ROSS TO SPEAK AT BUHL, TWIN FALLS

Governor O. Ben Ross, candidate for the Democratic nomination for re-election, will next Saturday evening, July 28, address public meetings in the city parks in Buhl at 7 o'clock and in Twin Falls at 8:30 o'clock. It was announced here yesterday.

A number of other candidates for Democratic nominations for congressional, state and county offices are expected to join the governor's caravan.

STEPHAN PLANS TO-DAY TRIP TO NORTH IDAHO

Frank L. Stephan, Twin Falls attorney and candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, will leave today for northern Idaho to spend 10 days at Coeur d'Alene, Sandpoint, Lewiston and other centers of that region. It was announced here last evening.

Mr. Stephan returned late last week from southeast Idaho where he spent several days, and where he said he found much encouragement for his candidacy.
