D. Worth Clark Asks "WHY NOT?"

The Federal Government is spending millions for the protection of its timber resources in Northern Idaho. Uncle Sam is fighting the White Pine Blister Rust at his own expense.

The agricultural resources of Southern Idaho are even more important. They are being threatened by NOXIOUS WEEDS, WIRE WORMS, and WHITE FLY.

Why not Federal appropriations to destroy these pests and save our farms? WHY NOT?

If sent to Congress D. Worth Clark promises an intelligent, fearless fight to secure these appropriations. HE'S A DEMOCRAT. WHY NOT SEND HIM? Vote at the primaries Aug. 14th, 1934. This ad is paid for by friends of D. Worth Clark.

YOU'LL enjoy this pleasing "Energizing Effect" When you've used up your energy at work or play—smoke a Camel and notice how soon you feel your flow of natural energy snap back. This experience, long known to Camel smokers, has now been confirmed by a famous New York research laboratory. Camel smokers enjoy a positive "energizing effect"—a healthful and delightful release of natural, vibrant energy. Millions have found this to be true. A typical Camel experience is this: Ellsworth Vines, Jr. speaking—"Championship tennis is one of the fastest of modern sports. After four or five sets, you sometimes feel that you just can't take another step. That's when a Camel tastes like a million dollars. Not only does the rich, mellow fragrance appeal to my taste, but Camels have a refreshing way of bringing my energy up to a higher level. And I can smoke all the Camels I want, for they don't interfere with my nerves. So, whenever you want a "lift," just smoke a Camel. You can smoke them steadily. For the finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS in Camels never get on your nerves.

CAMELS Costlier Tobaccos never get on your Nerves. "Get a LIFT with a Camel!" Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

FRANKLIN GIRARD REPLIES TO DRAYS

'What Kind of a Trade Are You Offering to Make?' Idaho Official Asks

BOISE, Aug. 6 (AP)—A circular from the Allied Civic Forces, dry organization, today brought a reply from Secretary of State Franklin Girard that he would answer it when the officers of the organization let him know how the 40,000 voters they claimed to represent would react.

The reply of the secretary, a Democrat seeking re-election was sent to Rev. C. F. Burgess of Boise, president of the dry organization. The questionnaire asked:

"Do you stand for the repeal of the prohibitory amendment to Idaho's constitution?"

"Do you stand for the return of the license saloon and the licensed liquor dealer in Idaho?"

Girard, replying, quoted the questionnaire as saying "more than 40,000 citizens already on the waiting line await your answer," then commented that he, as secretary of state, "can do no more than say private citizens toward amending or repealing the amendment of the constitution, or returning or preventing the return of the licensed saloon in Idaho."

Ready to Talk Business

"While my personal views are, perhaps, not of a great deal of influence to you, if you have 40,000 votes at your disposal I am ready to talk business with you, and in case my answers are satisfactory, what do you propose to do about it?"

"Do you intend to support me in the primary election and the general election, if my views coincide with your own? What kind of a trade are you offering to make? There are five other candidates for the office to which I aspire. If my answers are, in your judgment, correct, will you oppose the other five and support me? Will you go forth among the 40,000 and ask them to vote for me?"

"I am deeply interested to know what your response to the above answers are satisfactory—and await a definite proposal from you."

"Do not try to fish without bait."

On route they found Kansas and Nebraska exceedingly dry and conditions poor. Parts of Iowa have prospects of fair corn crop, especially if the heavy rain been according to the visitors.

Malignant Tendencies In Government

By O. J. CHILDS

By O. J. CHILDS

FILER, Aug. 6 (Special to The News)—Just ten years ago this month one of America's greatest statesmen suggested trying to look ahead thirty years in the light of the tendencies in government during the preceding thirty years. Unless we call a halt to them...

"There will be an officer for every ten persons in the republic. Every conceivable activity of mind and body will be under the direction and surveillance of a bureau. Inspectors and spies will keep upon the citizen from every street corner and accompany him hourly in his daily avocation. Taxes will be a hundred dollars per capita. Four per cent of the national income will be demanded for public expenses.

"We will still have a republic in name but bureaucracy in fact—the most wasteful, the most extravagant, the most demoralizing and the most tyrannical of the nations. God has never permitted to torture the human family."

As in February, 1927, he commented that little had occurred since to change that unpleasant prospect. It was still the retrograde logic of the present drift of things. He stated that it was true that there had been several happenings to encourage the belief that an awakening was not wholly impossible, but that the disease was still heavily upon our body politic. In this connection this able statesman called attention to the fact that just the other day some of his colleagues were bitterly proposing a federal commission to take over and control professional baseball because they had read that some of the players had been involved in scandalous events, pointing out that this instance was strikingly illustrative of the difficulty of effectively checking the habit of trying to do the legislative nostrum for every public and private ill.

"We again find this able citizen saying, 'It isn't taxation, it isn't the national growth that need worry us. It's the growing tendency to let Washington do it, in all indifference, removed by a growing and an evil political life. There is always some one ready to suggest that the Federal government take charge of our every activity, from birth to death.'

"The problem is one of public education. The people must be taught that in concerning the centralization of their affairs in Washington they are digging the grave of the American Government as it was conceived by the Constitution-makers. "They must learn that, in looking to the national capital to cure all their ailments, they are weakening the fiber of true citizenship by breaking the self-reliant spirit of Americanism without which the republic cannot endure.

"If some humanitarian cause calls to us from one corner of the country or economic distress sounds a note of alarm from another, those in public life, apparently not knowing what else to do, propose some change in the structure of the government and amend the Constitution. It is like the case of which Burke spoke when he said: 'Politicians who do not understand their trade sell their souls.'

"This clamor for change merely for change's sake, this haphazard founding of legislative affairs, is nowhere and in no way more pronounced than in the gradual but certain destruction of the states and the centering of all governmental power in Washington. In this irresponsible random, the dignities of Hamilton and the apostles of Jefferson join hands. No political party in Washington seems willing to stand against this subtle revolution, against this American, un-American program.

"As a result of well-organized propaganda on one hand and sheer political expediency on the other, we are building up a condition which every conceivable thing relating to human activity is being given over to regulation by bureaucrats from Washington. This results in waste and inefficiency touching all local or state affairs, which in itself is burdensome and bad enough. But its capital offense is that of undermining the confidence and destroying the capacity of the citizen to assume and meet the duties and obligations of citizenship.

"If there ever was a real struggle for popular rule and for the preservation of the popular voice in politics and government, it is this effort to conserve for the people the right of control and administration of local affairs in accordance with local wisdom and local conditions.

"Times we must ever ways, there will not be a custom, practice or habit that must be censured from Washington. There will be nothing in all the relationship of parent and child, of family and home, sufficiently private to exempt it from the furrow of a federal foot. I venture to say that coming generations, when they awake to the deliberate robbery and wanton devastation of their her-

BEANS: It is quite apparent that a very considerable divergence of opinion exists with respect to the advisability of Idaho bean growers entering into agreement, as suggested by Federal representatives, as to price and marketing arrangements to govern the coming crop.

The question appears to be not so much as to the character of the agreement to be signed but as to whether, in effect, any agreement whatever should be entered into.

A series of public meetings is now being held with a view to providing a solution of the bean problem and before these are concluded growers should gain a thoroughly comprehensive understanding of the entire situation and the steps proposed by the Department of Agriculture for solving it.

It should be borne in mind that, normally, drought conditions throughout the country are such as to warrant the hope of vastly improved prices for beans and every other agricultural commodity.

Idaho farmers want and should have better prices, in common with the farmers of the whole country. Just how much this increase should amount to without increasing actual hardship among consumers remains to be worked out.

The situation is one which should be very closely watched.

YOUTH HOSTELS

America occasionally gets a good idea from Europe. One which hasn't yet taken root here, but should by another year, is the "Youth Hostel" movement as it exists in England, France and various other countries.

Boys or girls travel on foot, or on bicycle, or even in bladders, and find at the end of the day a plain little serve-slip inn, with beds and blankets and means of cooking their own meals, and doing what little washing they need.

This idea started in Germany before the war. It has grown until there are more than three thousand such places in the country, with other thousands in neighboring countries.

fly like birds. Their gliders are supposed to have had wide, spreading wings, made of storks' feathers. There are also pictures of something akin to goggles, doubtless worn by pilots to protect their eyes...

The human race seems to forget its great achievements as the centuries pass and to begin over in different places and ages. Perhaps that makes life more interesting for individual races and civilizations as they get their turns.

A REFINANCING PROBLEM (Idaho Statesman)

When Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau returns to his desk Monday after a month's vacation he will be faced with the fact that the treasury's deficit is growing more than twice as fast as it was a year ago.

The government spent $244,283,898 more than it took in between July 1 and 31 of this year. For the same period last year the deficit was $101,260,234.

An Associated Press dispatch revealing the figures says: "The treasury view is that this is not ground for worry. The situation is considered a temporary one, involving emergency outlays designed to promote recovery."

Just how no need to worry. The treasury will not keep spending and spending and presently soon the Republicans will regain power. It will be up to them to devise ways and means of overcoming the deficit.

THE WATER SITUATION (Minidoka County News)

The last of the water for the North Side Minidoka project, so far as is known at this time, went into the canal Tuesday.

With a scarcity of water facing them during the entire season, the directors of the Minidoka Irrigation district and the water manager have handled the situation in a manner that demands credit.

While it cannot be accurately estimated at this time just how much damage will result from the water shortage here, it will be considerable, especially in the sections where the soil is sandy.

The problem of the directors of the Minidoka Irrigation district from this on will be to obtain a permanent water supply adequate for the needs of the project.

SWIFT JUSTICE (Caldwell News-Tribune)

Martial law has been described as just the reverse of the civil procedure. Under civil law, the defendant is held "innocent until proven guilty"; under martial law, the prosecution is one of "guilty until defended."

But martial law has its uses. Austria demonstrated one of them Tuesday when two Nazis, charged with slaying Chancellor Dollfus, were tried, found guilty and hanged the same day.

MORATORIUM "DUNK" (Caldwell News Tribune)

Mortgage foreclosures in Canyon county have increased sharply in the past months or more. And it has been reported that Governor Ross released his "moratorium."

The Governor might just as well get over making this gesture. Everyone knows, or at least all the mortgage and insurance companies know, that it doesn't mean a thing.

It would be gravely unfortunate if Idaho were to be subjected to an epidemic of foreclosures such as the state witnessed at the heart of Africa, in concluding his remarks, he said:

"I thank you for your kind wishes regarding my welfare on my long journey to Africa. I want you to know that when I am far away, surrounded by grinning, savage fauna, I shall certainly think of you."

BREAKFAST FOOD

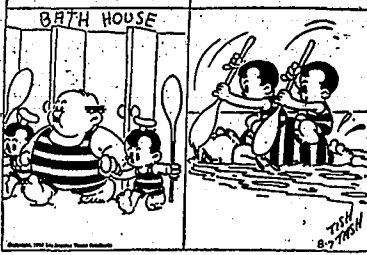

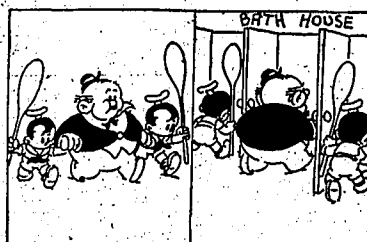

SOMETHING TO REMEMBER THEM BY: As a long journey into the heart of Africa, in concluding his remarks, he said:

"I thank you for your kind wishes regarding my welfare on my long journey to Africa. I want you to know that when I am far away, surrounded by grinning, savage fauna, I shall certainly think of you."

LIKE FISH: "What has happened to these sausages, Nora?" "Well, ma'am, you told me to fry them like fish, and when I cleaned them out they weren't much left."

EVERLASTING: "This is the tenth time you have had this note renewed." "Yes, sir. I fear that note is the only immortal thing I shall ever write!"

WASHINGTON: It's better to pull slowly uphill than ride a roller coaster.

Moffett himself is busy denying that he told newspaper men at his first conference he would give 3,000,000 men back to work. Although he was widely quoted to this effect he insists he was misunderstood.

COMEBACK: Washington Republicans - never over-friendly to Herbert Hoover under the surface - are indulging in a lot of family speculation over the purpose behind his weak and jittery. Credit expansion is a flop. Business refuses to heed the siren call of a Hoover, it is understood.

From Palo Alto has come word the serial will contain "nothing controversial" but will review the political movements as Fascism, Communism, the Nazis - the regimentation. Men of his own party are wondering what Mr. Hoover is going to say about regimentation and what lies back of his decision to become accessible.

DYNAMITE: Another member of the Hoover family is appearing currently. The book of his erstwhile secretary, Theodore Tullin, called "Hoover Off the Record," has just started in serial form.

Those who have read proof say it is closing chapters contain "a lot of dynamite" concerning the final sixty days of the Hoover administration.

NEW YORK - Being a roving reporter in the biggest town in the world at this moment is largely a matter of going through your mail. With the thermometer tucked up on Central Park and the sun beating down daily highs, the folk whose names make news have done their tip-top and are enjoying themselves in the mall basket.

Merian Hopkins writes from Hollywood that she has just bought a desert ranch, although she already the owner of a villa in Beverly Hills and a mansion overlooking our own East river.

Samuel J. Hopkins writes from New York that she has just bought a summer theatre, a suburban "In Port Chester." Mrs. Thompson writes from New York that she has just bought a summer theatre, a suburban "In Port Chester."

Mary Roberts Fincham, saying also may live abroad for awhile, tells on a North Cape cruise. "I've been there."

One is to give business its present "confidence" by removing most of the New Deal restrictions and give capital an incentive by whipping it up to bigger and better profits.

The other is to go all the way for socialization and inflation-deflation. The latter is the more popular.

Guiding Your Child

BY ALICE CHARLES BROWN

LOOKING OUT: There is a system of education often called "progressive" which in reality is very old.

But if the children are given "book-learning" not even reading, until they are eight, but are instead guided toward the world outside themselves and taught to look at it, study it, and grow thoroughly familiar with it.

To some extent it is a natural way of "approaching education," going out what can be felt or heard toward what can be only an abstract concept.

Butler, awaiting the re-opening of "Dodsworth," is getting a Bermuda sun tan. Miss Rose, accompanist in the orchestra, has been sent to Europe with the avowed intention of hiring Josephine Baker.

It's too hot even to read the mail, so let's stroll over to that sidewalk cafe on a Park avenue corner and see if some news has trickled in.

Those stripes of lawn in the middle of the avenue look cool and refreshing. At last, the city is paying some attention to them and seeing that they don't become scorched piles of burned grass.

And nice, too, is this Oriental lass strolling across. It's Mrs. Ann Wong, most famous of Chinese actresses, but she has never seen China.

JOE-K BAYS: "The theory that it is never too late to show a marked desire to learn, whether he be four or alpha. But too often the child who learns early in life is not encouraged to learn and love the physical world. He loses a very valuable part of his education and one which he is not likely to get later in life. There are hundreds of interesting, self-sufficient human beings at large who never see anything outside of their own brains. They miss the beauties of the landscape, the absurd antics of animals, the changing expressions on the faces of those about them. Shut in on themselves they are worse off than horses with blinders. Children are very sensitive to outside impressions. To nights, sounds, the variations of life and death. It is this ongoing life of their nature which should be developed early in order that their lives may be rich and complete."

'American Sahara' Feared In Making Unless Wind-Blown Soil Is 'Moored'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—The area which geographers of a generation ago called "the great American desert" may be slipping back to the sand and dust from which it was retrieved by irrigation and the science of dry-land farming.

At federal emergency drought relief headquarters it is estimated that the land upon which three million citizens depend for support is losing from 10 to 20 inches of wind-blown soil in eight or nine mid-west states again is tied down with grass roots. It is believed an American "Sahara" may be in the making.

Fears of over-grazing by livestock and improper cultivation placed the land at the mercy of accumulating drought. When the wind storms started last November the soil was blown on in crates like those of a volcano or swept broadside into deep banks along fence rows and farm buildings.

WHERE SAND AND DUST ADD TO DROUGHT'S WOES.

Loose soil blown away by wind storms are adding to farmers' worries in the drought area, a map of which, as of July 26, is shown here. The emergency areas are dark; the secondary areas are in lighter shading. To the right is a scene in North Dakota, showing deep soil drifts around farm buildings.

Tons Of Dust Blown

Thousands of tons of dust and sand were blown half way across the continent during the recent blinding deeper into the denuded fields. It is estimated that five million tons of farm land in the central and western states has been abandoned during the seven years of drought.

More than 100,000 acres of low range land, which during water on a hot stove, have been taken from five to seven years ago. The present cycle of dry years is the longest on record. It has continued for 25 years, the longest in the history of the United States.

It generally is understood that less than 12 inches of rain in a year eventually will produce a crop. In the drought area, rain generally will make land suitable for grazing purposes only. Precipitation of more than 20 inches annually is regarded as suitable for farm crops.

Three-Quarter-Inch Rainfall

Three-quarters of an inch of rain during the first three months of the year, in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Nebraska only one or two years out of the last 10 have brought normal rainfall. The federal government is buying up surplus cattle in the drought area for resale to farmers in the south. Those which have been so long without feed and water that they are unfit for shipment are paid for by slaughter where found.

Thousands of head of cattle were dying in the western sections of the Dakotas, Nebraska and Kansas, and eastern fringes of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico, and parts of Minnesota, Wisconsin and the Texas Panhandle when the government's purchasing program began.

It's Smart To Be Wearing Sheep's Clothing If It's Found On Karakul

Have you ever seen a broad-tail carcass or Persian lamb coat walking around, looking for something nice and green to eat? Well, it's quite a sight.

One hundred and fifty Karakul rams, ewes and lambs, the "makings" of fine fur coats, graze at the Addis Kelly ranch near Twin Falls, Idaho. The Karakul is a breed of sheep apparently well-aware of the nice things stylishness, aware, too, that some of their American relatives have their pictures in the most recent issue of Vogue, as exponents, along with blue-eyed fox, mink, leopard and a few other furs, of this season's "best sellers."

Karakul sheep are not new to the world of fashion, but they are new to the agricultural realm of southern Idaho. This purebred band of Karakul, the first to be introduced into this section of the state, was brought from Bonesteel, South Dakota, last week by Lawrence P. Kelly, Rupert, and Addis Kelly, Twin Falls, well-known livestock breeders.

"Fit for Kings"

Karakul were introduced into this country, from their native land, Bokhara, in Asiatic Russia, over the protestations of the Mohammedans. For religious reasons—and $14,000,000 in importations of furs from these animals, averaged approximately $16,000,000 annually, furs from these lambs have been the special badge of oriental royalty from times as far back as recorded history.

The offspring of these imported sheep are now widely scattered throughout the United States and Canada, the greatest numbers of both grades and purebreds being in Texas, New York, Michigan, Colorado and South Dakota. They are especially adapted to arid or semi-arid districts, and can subsist in drought areas where goats would starve to death.

"Fay Their Way"

Skins of the Karakul, utilized as fur, are commercially known as broad-tail, Persian lamb and Karakul, according to Mr. Kelly. The first is most valuable, but the percentage of this type of skin produced is very small. This is a flat, black, light-weight fur with a water-repellent pattern, lustrous and beautiful.

The second grade of fur produced is Persian lamb, the close-crikkled silky variety. The pelts must be removed from the lambs before the quality of the fur is reduced, or while the curl remains tight. Skins are then tanned and dyed.

A blend of rich spices aromatic leaves and seeds for all pickling purposes.

Methodists Stage Special Services

BURLEY, Aug. 6.—E. W. Sporth, League and the evening service of the Methodist church were held jointly Monday evening. The theme of the evening was "Western Travel." The songs and scripture were appropriate to the out-of-doors theme.

Rosinbaum of Chicago, who showed motion pictures of western scenery, the Black Hills country of Dakota, Yellowstone park, Columbia river highway, California, and the Olympic games. Reverend Walker gave the lecture, "Observations of Western Travel," based on his conclusion drawn from a recent trip to California. After church, the young people had a taffy pull in the P. E. Swanson garden.

Misses Margaret Grohowsky, Lola Cleveland and Rila Cramer left Saturday evening for Chicago, where they will attend the Century of Progress exposition.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. King and Mrs. E. Corrine Terhune drove to Twin Falls Sunday evening to meet Mrs. Mary Catherine Terhune and Miss Aruth King, both of whom are coming to Burley from San Francisco for their vacations.

E. A. Rosinbaum of Chicago is visiting with his sister, Mrs. Frank O. Heffield of Burley. He is accompanied by James Dubinski, also of Chicago. Rosinbaum and Dubinski are leaving this week for Yakima, Wash.

WATER SUPPLY GOOD ON GOODING TRACTS

GOODING, Aug. 6.—Present indications are that the Gooding tract will have irrigation water until October 1, with the head reduced as demands for the water become less. Manager E. T. Baker reports several acre feet of water in Magic reservoir.

Withdrawals of Snake River water at Millner are about 150 second feet more than on July 1, and totaled 1100 second feet the latter part of last week, he said.

Gooding tracts have had an abundance of water from Snake River, all season, the average head being 100 per cent, he said. This has been greatly appreciated by the farmers. The tracts obtaining their water from Magic have received an average of 30 per cent all season.

E. F. PRATER FOR SHERIFF

I earnestly solicit your support in my race for the nomination for Sheriff on the Democratic ticket. I feel that my experience as an officer in Twin Falls county has placed me in a position to serve you more efficiently and economically than ever before. Experience is just as necessary in handling the many problems of a criminal, in a sheriff's office as it is in any other endeavor. Would you hire an inexperienced man to run your ranch, store, bank or machinery? Do you realize what the civil work consists of in a sheriff's office: attachments, executions, sales, etc., together with criminal matters which make it necessary that the sheriff should be experienced.

Expenses of the sheriff's office have been cut to the minimum, without impairing efficiency. Your consideration respectfully requested.

Miss Margaret Andrews and William Kerzhnik of Burley were bridesmaids. The living room of the Hunter home was converted into a bower with colorful garden flowers, the bridal party taking places before a bank of flowers.

Following the ring ceremony a buffet supper was served and the bride left by auto on a honeymoon trip. They were accompanied by two cars of young people as far as possible.

Most riotous comedy. A story about a typical American business man whose life has been all work and no play up until the time his wife persuades him to sell the drug store and learn to play. The efforts that Rogers makes at learning to play are what make "Handy Andy" the great fun show that it is.

Gehrig's Record Shows .383 Batting Average And 36 Home Runs Iron Man Ahead Of Pace Set by Bambino In 1927

Of Pace Set by Bambino In 1927

Ory of Heavy Hitting by Lou Recalls Injury Suffered in Exhibition Game at Norfolk on June 29

By EDWARD J. NEILL
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—If you see an ambitious young ball player deliberately trying to get his head in the way of somebody's fast one, don't send for the man with the butterfly net. The young fellow may only be seeking the secret of Lou Gehrig's phenomenal home run hitting spurt.

The burly Iron Man of the majors has 36 homers to his credit today, and he stands five days ahead of the pace Babe Ruth set in 1927 when he popped exactly 60. Lou has hit 10 home runs since he was named home land at the stadium. Not content with home runs, Lou has hit his batting average 20 points to 25 in 25 games.

Going back to June 29 for the possible cause of it all, Gehrig was parked peacefully at the plate in an exhibition game in Norfolk, Virginia, when Ray White, young right hand farm hand of the Yanks, lost control and hurled a ball that struck Gehrig on the forehead. The ball was downed by Lou's durable skull and down he went for a long count.

A Hitting Mania

Most people would have come up with a brain concussion after a head full of cobwebs, he had an eye like Don's Boobe and a heart of 47 miles long. He is a hitting mania. He's been a hitting mania ever since.

"It didn't do me any good at the time," says Lou ruefully, "but it couldn't have done me any harm."

The figured bare him out. He had 20 home runs when White booted him five days later. In 1927, when he had played since, and in that time he has hit 16 more. The fastest pace ever hit in baseball was set by Gehrig in 1927 in the closing month to set his grand record.

Two Ahead in 1917

On August 3 of 1917, the Babe's great year, Gehrig hit two homers and set a new record for a single game. He hit two homers and set a new record for a single game. He hit two homers and set a new record for a single game.

ON THE SIDELINES

by Edward J. Neill

Mickey Walker sort of started something when he decided that he'd mainly take the middleweight championship he gave up some three years ago and defend it against George Caribout out on the Pacific coast.

He reasoned publicly that he never lost the title had merely given it up voluntarily, that it was his actually until someone "whipped him, and took it away from him." That's the reasoning of the ancient ring, and it doesn't fit the case. As a matter of fact there never was a poorer middleweight champion than Walker. He won the title from unfortunate Tiger Flowers on an occasion. He never would have the title if he had not done so. He has agreed to do so writing when Flowers gave him the title chance in 1924.

He has given up the crown, after every powerful commission already had taken recognition away from him because of his "retirement." He has given up anything but an admirable champion. He fought Tommy Loggins at Los Angeles and the light and weight titleholder was so weak at that weight that he wasn't good for a couple of years afterward.

Youthful Stars Out-Ride Thomas Hitchcock, East's Celebrated Polo Player

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—It is one of those things that you have to handle a bit gingerly in sport, just as it was such a disastrous one for Babe Ruth on the down-grade only to have him bob up with a new outburst of score on hitting, but eastern entire asias today are faced with the fact that the celebrated Thomas Hitchcock is about to be eclipsed.

He may stage a come-back before the 1934 polo season is over, to counter his critics and revive the contest of giving the west's all-star a battle this September, but his play so far has been well below his old standard. He has not even started in his first job at Hazelton as a shock to most of the experts.

His disappointing exhibition yesterday, when he was out-riden and outplayed by a quartet of youthful stars in his first job at Hazelton, was a shock to most of the experts.

They have not been seen in action since his arrival at Hazelton, and his presence alone was sufficient to make the easterners a favorite. He has not even started in his first job at Hazelton, was a shock to most of the experts.

EARLY LOSSES IN STOCKS REGAINED

Shares on New York Exchange Resume Quiet Course

MARKETS AT A GLANCE (By The Associated Press.) NEW YORK: Stocks irregularly; metals lead modest rally. Bonds heavy; U. S. government bonds, rails edge. Curb lower; specialties heavy. Foreign exchange steady. German mark dips. Cotton higher—dry, hot-weather Western belt; firmness grain. Sugar quiet; commission house liquidation. Coffee lower; European selling. CHICAGO: Wheat strong; feverish speculative buying. Corn higher; crop damage increasing. Cattle weak to 25c lower; top $2.35. Hogs strong to 5c higher; top $5.15.

By FREDERICK GARDNER (Associated Press Financial Writer) NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Overhead-veiled in speculative interest by the rising grain market, stocks resumed a quiet course today after a short-lived early burst of selling. Most of the early losses were regained on a moderate rally in non-ferrous metal shares. After the close of the market General Motors directors ordered a 50 cent extra dividend for 1933.

Strength in grain prices, with wheat climbing 3 1/2 to 4 cents and corn 1 1/2 to 2 cents, caused speculation in discussion of inflation prospects in the financial community although the rise there gravitated to a discussion of the extent of drought damage. Nevertheless, a runup in non-ferrous metal stocks soon developed. U. S. Smelting, American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, Howe Sound, McIntyre, Alaska Juneau and Dome Mines rose 1 to nearly 6 points in active trading.

Monthly general selling and the late flurry in metal shares contributed chiefly to an increase in the volume to 78,828 shares compared with 65,910 Friday. Bulls Recency Losses Santa Fe, Union Pacific, New York Central, Pennsylvania and other important railroad shares declined about 1 to 4 points to new 12 1/2 levels after the opening. The Saturday decline was extended sharply. Rails recouped most of their losses before the finish, however, New Central rallying to finish nearly a point higher. Industrial shares on the average held their ground above the recent lows, although Montgomery Ward, U. S. Steel and a few other important issues showed new low levels for the year before the rally set in.

Prices on the whole were little changed, the Standard Statistics company average for 90 stocks showing a gain of only one-tenth of a point at 101.18. Wall Street continued to look to commodities for speculative action and a number of commodities advanced in the grain market. May wheat in Chicago sold above 81 1/2 a bushel. Corn, oats and soybeans advanced, with the latter a bushel with wheat as growth in the middle-west and crop prospects had excited heavy speculative buying. Cotton was firm, closing 10 to 30 cents higher and rubber, silver and other commodities advanced. A talk did not help the bond market and a steady advance in U. S. government issues was extended. The dollar, however, was steady in foreign exchange dealings.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP)—The general cotton market closed steady at net advances of 2 to 6 cents. Silver steady, unchanged at 47c.

GROWERS, DEALERS DIVIDE ON FEDERAL RULE IN BEAN DEAL

Farm Administration Hearing Brings Out Opposing Views on Proposed Regulation for Industry

A proposed license, as well as a proposed marketing agreement for the edible dry bean industry, according to Associated Press dispatches from Washington last night is to be included in a hearing before a seven-man delegation representing the federal farm administration which will enter its second day in Twin Falls today.

Members of the delegation yesterday heard expressions on the part of growers and dealers opposing as well as favoring any regulation of the bean industry. A Twin Falls attorney and landowner, John W. Orraham, told the commission that he declined to repeat the statement when the commission chairman asked him to make it under oath and his remarks were given in confidence. Orraham sought to show that bean dealers under license by the farm administration would not be permitted to buy beans from growers who did not subscribe to the proposed marketing agreement. "Only a small percentage of 3000 bean growers in this district are registered in this hearing," he declared. "You are attempting to make it appear that any action taken by this group is representative of all of the growers," he charged.

Others who spoke in opposition to any form of regulation through marketing agreement included E. N. Peterson of Hansen, president of Idaho Vegetable Growers Incorporated; W. H. Detweiler of Hazelton and C. Skugrave of Jerome, members of a committee organized by growers some weeks ago to arrange for hearing on the proposed marketing agreement; H. O. Buhli of Twin Falls, and George Watz of Buhl. George M. Baxter of Buhl proposed a resolution adopted by Fairview grants opposing the proposed agreement, but said another form of agreement would be favored.

Speakers for the Pomona growers of Twin Falls and Jerome counties, Luis V. Escobar of Buhl, made a strong argument at the forenoon session for federal regulation of the bean industry, and during the afternoon suggested a number of amendments to the proposed agreement which was under consideration, section by section. Attorneys for bean dealers, J. Paul Thomas of Weiser, Harry and Marshall Chapman, also suggested amendments to the proposed marketing agreement in the interests of their clients.

Proponents of federal regulation, who were heard first under the commission's order of procedure, included besides Sooner, a number of individual growers in the district; a representative of a Younging bean growers' organization, and a representative of the National Grain Growers.

Section by section discussion of the tentative marketing agreement yesterday covered organization of industry and coordinating boards under the proposed agreement and entered upon the proposed plan for control of surplus bean crops.

Discussion will be resumed today, taking up provisions for establishment of minimum prices. Representatives of the Great Northern producing region, will go from here to hold a similar hearing at Billings, Montana. They are James A. Kennedy, chairman; Whiton Brown and E. S. Haskell, economists of the general crops section; D. D. Humphries of the consumer council; William Kiers, attorney, and William J. O'Mahoney, clerk.

ARRINGTON AGREES ON RIGHT-OF-WAY

Permission Granted for City to Cross Land With Flush Line

The final step in the city's attempt to secure easements and right-of-way for the removal of the present flush line from the Twin Falls municipal filtration plant from Rock creek to a new location was made last night when the council entered into an agreement with C. N. Arrington, South Park farmer, whose land it became necessary to cross in order to gain an outlet into the Blagist tunnel.

Arrington agreed to granting an easement and right-of-way to the city and the city, in turn, promised to maintain the flush line on his land and agreed to keep free from waste materials. Arrington agreed to allow city employees to enter upon his land and to care for the ditch. Charles McElwain, city treasurer, reported $76,158.31 in the city treasury August 2.

Arrests Reported
Chief of Police S. B. Elrod reported 47 arrests during the month with 21 complaints investigated and 447 assessed in fines. Miss Jessie Praser, librarian, reported an average daily circulation at the city library at 223 books and said that 2242 books had been issued during the month. Seven books were donated to the library and 41 new books were bought. New readers numbered 124 during July.

H. E. Friedlander, city electrical and plumbing inspector, announced that he had made 33 plumbing inspections with four condemnations and 33 electrical inspections with four condemnations. He collected 146 dollars during the month. Jack Bell, fire chief, reported nine alarms, five complaints investigated, and 300 inspections made. L. H. Benton, weighmaster, collected $242 from the city scales during the month.

PORTLAND MAN TELLS OF CAMPAIGN ISSUES

A big factor in the Portland, Ore., municipal campaign is the federal government's Bonneville power project, according to R. E. Julian, assistant commissioner of the Portland department of public utilities, who with Mrs. Julian and C. Edwards, Portland municipal ownership speaker, is in the city at the home of his cousin, E. L. Rayborn, Twin Falls attorney. The question, Mr. Julian said, is whether Portland, which now is supplied with power by two private-owned concerns, shall undertake distribution of power from the Bonneville project. Interested particularly in power service in Idaho counties, Mr. Julian said last evening that he had found on his visit here some evidence of a strengthening bond between Portland and Idaho communities. This bond, he suggested, is to be strengthened by development of commercial relations. He mentioned an opportunity now neglected for sale of Idaho's Red Mexican beans in the Portland market.

HALE GIVES VIEWS ON RECOVERY PLANS

Congressional Candidate Asks for 'Square Deal' for Farmers

Heber C. Hale of Boise, candidate for the Republican nomination for congress, is visiting among friends in Twin Falls. He has completed a canvass of southern Idaho congressional district and expresses himself optimistically over the outlook for success. When interviewed by a representative of the News, he said:

"Today is a day for practical men with practical ideas, who have understanding minds and human hearts, and who are possessed with courage and a willingness to work. This is not a land for breeding Socialists, Fascists and Nazis; but a land for Americans, to be governed by Americans, in the American way.

"In my humble opinion, the greatest project immediately ahead for this nation, is the recovery of our self-reliance, our self-respect and our personal integrity. We must at once take steps to check the present trend, and recover the waning morale and personal independence of the people. It is our duty to free people under constitutional government. The stability and permanency of our future depends largely on how soon and how well this government can get away from temporary remedies and get over to permanent and lasting institutions operating in harmony with our constitutional government, before we are too far spent. Human liberties vouchsafed to us by our American independence are cherished as the great achievement in constitutional government of all time. These must be preserved to this nation.

WANTS 'SQUARE DEAL'

"Another thing, Idaho is a great agricultural state; but Idaho cannot prosper until the farmer and the livestock man prosper. So far, they have been getting the worst of these conditions can and should be remedied. The kind of 'deal' we want is a 'square deal' and we should have had it when other industries were getting theirs."

Hale is a pioneer of Idaho and has been connected with irrigation development in the state for many years. He was present at the time of the opening of the Twin Falls tract and the Twin Falls township as registrar for the state land department. He has been connected with all Carey act projects in Southern Idaho.
