OSHSING, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP)—After a long fight to escape the electric chair apparently lost after three reprieves, Mrs. Anna Antonio was put to death today in a cell tonight in a stoned silence.

"For 50 years you have given tireless, skillful and unselfish service here in this great city," President Roosevelt told the brothers.

Today Supreme Court Justice O. Bryon Brewer of Elizabethtown, N. Y., again dismissed the plea to have another jury determine the woman's guilt or innocence.

PLAINS SHAPED FOR 'NEW DEAL' TILTS

Primary Results in West—Virginia, Missouri—Clear Issue

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—A clear cut "new deal" issue in the primary elections in West Virginia and Missouri, where Democratic leaders say they expect to pick up in the November elections, was certain today as a result of Tuesday's nomination.

Democrats in both states nominated advocates of Roosevelt policies to contest two old line Republican candidates.

A youthful liberal, Bush D. Holt, backed by a powerful West Virginia labor union, won the Democratic nomination in the state's largest electoral district. He will face Senator Hatfield, Republican, who was re-nominated.

Missouri Democrats selected Harry S. Truman, the Kansas City Pendergast machine candidate, to run against the incumbent, Governor W. W. Hearnes, who was re-nominated and opposed for the Republican nomination.

Democratic Votes High

Referring to recent predictions by Postmaster General Farley that Democrats would make gains in several states in November, Democratic leaders pointed to returns from Missouri and West Virginia. In Missouri, Democratic candidates won up to total seats substantially in excess of those cast for Republicans in the primaries.

In Missouri, where the total vote in 1932 ran around 1,800,000, Democratic senatorial nomination candidates yesterday polled approximately half this number, with nearly a fourth of the precincts unopposed.

Incomplete returns from West Virginia showed that Democrats won the vote about 70,000 more than those cast by Republicans in the senatorial primaries.

In Kansas, however, where Governor Alf M. Landau, was re-nominated by Republicans, the aggregate Democratic vote ran about 100,000 less than that of the opposing party. Omar B. Ketchum, Topeka mayor, is the Democratic choice to oppose Landau.

In surveying the Missouri primaries, the Democratic National Committee said that the victory of the Tom Pendergast candidate as an endorsement of the Roosevelt policies of the Democratic representatives Cochran and Milligan, who ran second and third respectively, constituted a victory for Roosevelt in congress even to being to sustain the president's veto of the veterans relief bill.

Republicans See Gains

But some of their principal supporters are predicting gains for Republicans who have produced the largest gains in the primary contests. Missouri returns showed that the Republican vote was about 100,000 more than that of the Democrats, running in large sweep those border-line states, Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky, where the Democrats, since then the states have been redistributed.

Indiana's primary, in southwest Missouri, the Republican vote was about twice as large as that of the Democrats. In Kentucky, where candidates polled larger primary votes than Democrats in the seventh congressional district (Louisville), also generally Republican, still was in doubt.

Charge "Political Purpose"

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 8 (AP)—President Roosevelt was asked by a committee of citizens today to intervene in the strike of Minneapolis truckers' strike.

The Minneapolis Protective association, composed of residents who are not in the strike, telegraphed the president, asking citizens were being held in the strike, and that the military control apparently was exercised "for political purposes."

"We are satisfied," said the telegram directed to the chief executive, "that the present agreement between employers and employees could be reached were it not for the interference of the military force of citizens known to be communist sympathizers who are being supported by the United States government in the attitude of the government."

The telegram also asked dispatch of new troops and requested to recognize the needs of all citizens.

Interest, meanwhile, centered on the truckers' meeting Monday morning when an injunction against Governor Floyd B. Olson's martial law order was being sought.

The potential revolt originated last Saturday when 19 of 22 truckers in the district (Louisville), also generally Republican, still was in doubt.

NRA LIFTS CODE ON SMALL BUSINESSES

Baking Industry: One of 15 Specifically Exempted From Obligations

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Small-town employers in 15 retail trades and services were exempted by Hugh S. Johnson today as falling within President Roosevelt's order lifting NRA code obligations from certain little business enterprises.

Price fixing was one of the code requirements lifted and one of the 15 specifically named by Johnson was the baking industry—subject of a recent statement by Senator Coughlin (R-Ohio) opposing more costly bread.

The action taken by Johnson was an interpretation of the president's order issued May 15 which exempted employers engaged "only locally in retail trades or local services industries who operate not more than three establishments in towns of 500 or less, from code and presidential requirement agreement requirements hours, pay, prices and assessments.

The NRA administrator named eight bakeries and confectioneries within the scope of the presidential decree and listed others which he said did not belong for various reasons.

The 15 trades and services affected in the small towns were: barber shops, motor vehicle storage and repair, bowling and billiards, cleaning and dyeing, laundries, shoe rebuilding, hotels, bakery industry (bakeries for retail sale of bakery products at retail in covered thereby), retail food and grocery, retail jewelry, retail tobacco, retail trade (including retail drug and bookstores), retail brokerage, restaurants and confectioners' stores.

The president's order leaves only child labor prohibitions in effect on barber shops, motor vehicle storage and repair, bowling and billiards, cleaning and dyeing, laundries, shoe rebuilding and hotels. All fair trade practice provisions, including price fixing, had been suspended previously for them.

Policies Explained By Head of AAA In Idaho Address

IDAHO PALMS, Idaho, Aug. 8 (AP)—Chester Davis, AAA administrator, in an address here tonight compared agricultural conditions of the present with those of pre-war days and outlined the present administration's human relief philosophy to official recognition of the government's responsibilities to the needy.

The prevalent theory of government in the matter of relief finds its first application on a less extensive scale in the administration of President Hoover, who has made federal funds for relief of the distressed, Davis said.

Part of present day's agricultural difficulties, Davis declared, are due to continuation of that industry at the pace and on the scale necessitated by the great war when this country's exports rose far above normal.

"Markets became glutted by over production and diminishing consumption," as a consequence, he pointed out.

If this nation is going to trade with outside countries it must be prepared to balance its account, he stated in his supporting his contention that exports fell off rapidly when creditor nations became unable to pay their obligations.

He outlined previous plans for farm relief that were unsuccessful and compared them with the present administration's effort.

Murray, biological survey director who had written a paper on the use of the humane society for permitting clubbing of rabbits in drives, had written a letter to the humane society suggesting that the bunnies were dispatched without pain.

The clipping, from a central Idaho newspaper, commented that Murray was in the vicinity "observing" the rabbits were being dispatched in the mountains.

To the clipping, Benedict attached a note saying:

"I have a very old boy. This will get you a well deserved medal from the East Lynne humane society. Do you use ether, and will your next step calomel or cyanide?"

FARMERS ASSURED OF TARIFF SAFETY

Wallace Issues Statement In Connection With Pending Pact

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Secretary Wallace today appeared only sought to re-assure farm groups regarding pending legislation which will sacrifice the industry of agriculture in order to help other groups.

Representatives of the American Farm Bureau Federation and other farm organizations concerned in tariff matters, that concessions in tariff pact would injure particular agricultural interests.

The formal statement issued by Wallace said that the tariff pact was concurred in by Secretary Hull.

It apparently set at rest any suspicion that the American cottons in a tariff pact would be made to aid industry.

Officials pointed out, however, that the tariff pact would injure other farmers was still a possibility.

Some of the American cotton producing groups, including the Philippines, have asked that there be no further reduction on the Cuba product.

Wallace reiterated that the choice lay between opening up markets for farm products or taking millions of acres out of production.

There was no reassurance for some industries that the tariff pact would be made to aid industry. The president power to negotiate the tariff pact without Senate ratification.

Wallace said "the welfare of farmers continues to be dependent more than that of any other major group on foreign markets."

Asked if it meant that some small industries would be sacrificed in the new tariff pact, Wallace said "I do not believe we have no malcontent feeling toward any interest." He added, however, that it might be necessary for the tariff pact to be made to aid some "small industries" might be damaged.

Before Mike Moss' financial enterprises struck the rocks, he was a close business and personal friend of Senator Weis, Long's political foe.

During the United States senate committee's investigation of Senator John H. Overton, a Long associate, James Long, Huey's brother, testified he had seen Mike Moss hand Huey Long large stacks of money which Long would shove in his pocket.

Tong War Threatens Over Spoils of Lottery Games

Sen Suey Ying in Oakland, and Mrs. Suetling Suey, Sings in San Francisco.

Police said the income from the lotteries amounted into thousands of dollars each year.

The trouble first arose, Inspector Mantion said, when agent Lee Hing died two months ago. His estate was reported to be $250,000, most of it representing an interest in the dispute over the lottery control.

His son, Tom Lowe, secretary of the Chinese Six Companies, a San Francisco member, Mantion said, then joined the Suey Sing Tong and advanced a claim to the estate of his father, who also was a S. Y. S. member. A Sen Suey Ying member, Yip Lock, also claimed an inheritance, police said.

"About 12 years ago the lotteries were driven out of San Francisco and located in Oakland, Mantion explained.

Games Baffle Police "The drawings are held there and the results distributed in San Francisco. If Tom Lowe wins in his claim for the holdings of his father, the lottery control would be returned to San Francisco.

Police have made repeated attempts to stamp out the lotteries but they said the game of chance still is carried on extensively in underground rooms which dot the narrow alleys of the Chinese district where some 15,000 Chinese live in an area of about 15 square blocks.

Mantion said thousands of persons played the game each week, gambling anywhere from 10 cents to several dollars for the tickets.

In years ago by, Mantion recalled, long "hatchet men" cut down their rivals in outbreaks of deadly warfare, but today the long men use modern revolvers.

FDR VISITS ONE OF FAVORITE PROJECTS AND HONORS MAYOS

Governor Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota, and Secretary of War Deming had covered almost the entire distance to Winona when the circus came upon the Minnesota lock and dam. He stopped for fully five minutes, chatting interestedly with Major Dwight, engineer in charge, and making many pertinent questions regarding problems of construction and progress of the work.

Leaving Rochester in mid-afternoon following his speech at exercises in honor of the Mayo brothers who were honored with presentation of citations for their medical work for humanity and was veteran in particular, Mr. Roosevelt drove past thousands of persons, rich and poor, well dressed and poorly dressed.

Waves of the hand greeted him as he passed. Several times, when passing through small villages, he was great enthusiast and was very pleased.

Briefly he expressed his pleasure at being there, his regret that he pressed necessitating immediate departure and assured that the very Mississippi development is getting along so well.

Through Cheer Lustily Winona, the entire populace of the various towns turned out to greet him, cheering the chief executive lustily after he finished his terse talk.

Rolling along without delay, the entourage stopped at the Minnesota dam, where he continued into Winona, where thousands had turned out to greet him. From there he sped down to the Mississippi river banks, where a reception committee, headed by M. J. Karn, greeted the smiling chief executive. He went directly to the depot and boarded the waiting special train.

NATION ON-THE-GO

It was foretold last winter that this was going to be a great travel year, but as the season advances the figures become more impressive.

Billions are being spent in this country by citizens dashing all over the map in their own motor cars, in railroad trains, busses, boats and airplanes.

More people would travel at home this year, it was said, because of the unsettled conditions in Europe.

Traveling is pretty much on a cash basis. Very few travelers go into debt for vacation expenses.

BRIDGES AND TUNNELS

First the British, then the Americans, have been the world's greatest builders since ancient Rome.

"The wonder of your tunnel will only come into mind after reflection. Who can reflect without awe that the will and power of man, which in our time have created the noble bridges of the Thames, the Forth, the Hudson and Sydney Harbor, can drive also tunnels such as this, in which many streams of wheeled traffic may run in light and safety below the depths and turbulence of tidal water bearing ships of the world?"

"Many hundreds have toiled here and the work of many thousands all over the country has helped their toil. I think all those whose effort has achieved this miracle. May those who use it ever keep grateful thought of the many who struggled for long months against mud and darkness to bring it into being."

Here are thought and sentiment worthy of the matter. May our orators do as well by the builders and the toilers when the great bridges in San Francisco Bay are finished, and Boulder Dam is completed, and newer and larger tunnels are driven under our mountains and rivers.

DIRTY CITY STREETS

An honest little Dutch girl, one of a group of young Hollanders who have been on a good-will visit to New York City, asked her American guide the rather tactless question, "Why is your fine city so dirty?"

No one in the great region west of the Hudson River need laugh scornfully at New York. American cities are almost all suffering from the same lack of order and cleanliness. The situation has been worse in recent years, as city funds have diminished and city officials have cut down such services as street-cleaning.

A great deal could be done to clean up American cities, without spending any money, simply by an educational campaign arousing public spirit from its apathy in this matter. A New York judge the other day sentenced several persons found guilty of tossing litter in a city park to spend a certain amount of time cleaning up rubbish in the same park. It was a good idea and might well be followed in other communities.

A REAL DICTATOR

While we've been engrossed in the activities of foreign dictators, we seem to have overlooked something. The boldest autocrat in the world is not in Europe, but in Asia. He is Chiang Kai-shek of China.

The others dictate to the men, which is fairly simple, but Chiang dictates to the women. His latest ukas orders them to wear sleeves to the elbow instead of sleeveless upper garments, and full-length stockings.

Moreover, the hair must be combed straight back and there must be no bangs. That sounds reasonable. Chinese hair won't curl anyhow; and as for bangs—think of saving 200,000,000 women from looking as American women used to look half a century ago.

This is the greatest question-and-answer era in the world's history. And the more people answer questions, the more they get 'em wrong.

A New York police judge has the brilliant idea of making park-litterers clean up their own messes. But it takes cops to see that they do it.

The public's reversal of opinion about Hindenburg in recent years from the opinion it held during the World War might teach us not to go to extremes of condemnation of individuals in the future. But it won't.

WHAT MINNIE MOORE MEANS

When a great warship slips down into the sea a bottle of wine is broken across her bow and a great furor goes up from assembled thousands to cheer her on her way. That vessel may have cost $30,000,000, but in a few days it is a pile of junk. Its only chance to render service is to destroy in case of war.

When the cornerstone of a great building is laid various trinkets are buried in the stone in the hope that, in the dim future posterity may wonder and speculate over the trinkets. But the building may in a few years crumble into dust, or its maintenance become a heavy strain on those who erected it.

But if a big mine is opened a far different picture is presented. Here is something that will give profitable employment to an army of men. It will contribute to the permanent wealth of the nation; and when the proceeds of that mine are not carried away to some bank or university in a pile they will contribute immensely to the welfare and happiness of the community in which the mine is located.

This is what gives special significance to the little ceremony attending the official launching here of the Minnie Moore mine at Bradford Saturday. The possibilities of good here, appeal to the imagination and arouse the sincere hope that a high degree of success will crown the man who is able to give profitable employment to the faith of President Roosevelt is the faith that removes mountains. It is deserving of complete vindication.

TWIN FALLS TO THE FRONT

From Idaho, whence come many good things, including Idaho, steamed and potatoes known around the world, an example of good citizenship, laudable tolerance and political brotherhood has been announced. At a meeting held in Twin Falls, representatives of the local candidate for congress, subject to the will of Democratic voters of the Second district, John B. Robertson, prevailed.

Four of the other candidates for the same position happened to be present, all of whom he introduced to the audience, which gave them each a respectful hearing.

Guiding Your Child

By ALICE OLARIBIA RICHMOND

SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH The baby had been for some time trying unsuccessfully to fit a box and its cover together.

Finally an older person in the group took pity on his ineffectual efforts and accomplished his aim. "You are so helplessly naive," she said, "it's having such a hard time!"

Ten seconds later the cover was off the box and the child was again at work putting it on.

It is not the accomplishment but the doing that interests children. They are unconsciously making scientific experiments most of the time, and to come to their rescue with the adult's skill and experience defeats nature's end.

It must be discouraging for a child to be on the edge of the discovery of a scientific fact important to him—and then have an outside person solve the problem with perfect ease. The child who is constantly lifted over hard places in this world often loses all ambition, and ceases to show initiative.

The least help and guidance given a child during his age of discovery the better. When he is tired of trying, let him rest. When he is at a loss, let him take up another, but not until he has for the moment satisfied his curiosity. Nature is the child's best guide at this period and the wise parent—having removed the hindrance of the adult's hand—will let him try for the most part all by himself.

The child who is vainly struggling with a task beyond his powers is not being helped. He is being frustrated and stimulating time, and should be allowed to enjoy it in his own way. The child who is constantly lifted over hard places in this world often loses all ambition, and ceases to show initiative.

MRS. WILLIAM J. MARSHALL, Jr., of Long Beach, California, traveled a long way to catch this fish but it was worth it. She hooked the 75-pound, four and one-half foot long bonita at Old Point Comfort beach, Virginia, 40 miles after arriving.

A New Yorker at Large

By MARK BARRON NEW YORK—Among the varied communities that go to make up New York are the floating neighborhoods. An interesting section of this is the tubboat colonies, and then again there is the elite fleet of small yachts and houseboats anchored in Long Island Sound.

One difficulty about living in these boat colonies is finding your way home after an afternoon's night ashore. All boats look alike in the dark, and there are no street signs to guide you.

A pair of galanis, who were week-end guests aboard a craft anchored off Larchmont, forwarded an amusing experience that happened to them. Taking the dinghy from their cruiser, they rowed ashore and spent the evening reducing collars on beer steins in a nearby tavern.

They set their course for home through the darkness, but a clear weather state, but they knew their boat was a long, white cruiser with a white dinghy tied aft. The heavy pair rowed and rowed from one anchored craft to another, but nowhere could they find a white white cruiser with a white dinghy.

Finally, their noise woke up the skipper of one craft and he came on board to discover what the disturbance was all about. "You're in now," he roared. "You're in now."

"Your boat didn't have two dinghies, did it?" asked the skipper. "No, only one," was the answer. "Then your cruiser can't have a dinghy," he roared. "You're in now."

Considerably embarrassed, the beer-buddled mariners took up their search again, this time looking only for a white cruiser WITH-OUT a dinghy, but to no avail.

Too, from the same fleet comes

Every bottle is Brew-DATED

NOW—
The Exact Age of Blatz Old Heidelberg Beer Is Guaranteed

EVERYONE has always known—that to be good—beer must be aged. Many indefinite claims have been made as to the age of beers—but now Blatz announces the greatest advancement in the brewing industry in 20 years—and guarantees the exact age of every bottle of Blatz Old Heidelberg Beer. It requires millions of dollars in equipment—row upon row of huge ageing vats—to make this guarantee possible.

Every one of these vats carries the date on which its contents was brewed. When fully aged, when it has reached that exact time when the beer has all that is best—the satisfying richness of flavor—the full body and strength—then it is bottled, and there is shown on every bottle the exact date that beer was brewed.

It is your guide and guarantee that Blatz Old Heidelberg Beer is fully-aged.

SCHROEDER PAINTINGS PRESENTED TO SCHOOL

BURLEY, Aug. 8 — Four oil paintings have been received by George E. Demman, superintendent of Burley schools, from the TETA office at school, from the late George Eugene Schroeder just prior to his death. They have been placed in the high school auditorium.

These pictures were an assignment given to Mr. Schroeder, representing activities of the Crook county in the development of the state under irrigation. One depicts a detail of the boys constructing a dam on the other a CCC camp housed for the winter season. One is of Jackson Lake, the storage reservoir of irrigation waters. Another shows an irrigated farm on the borders of Snake river.

Schroeder was one of the pioneer artists of southern Idaho. He studied his art in the east, and in foreign lands. Much of his time was passed sketching in the wilds of Idaho and Wyoming, in the Sawtooth mountains and among the Teton. His canvases have been hung in various eastern exhibitions, and at one time many of his pictures were reproduced on calendars.

SCOUTS RETURN FROM CAMP INDEPENDENCE

BURLEY, Aug. 8 — Boy Scouts and their leaders, returning from a week's annual outing at Camp Independence in the mountains south of Oakley, report a successful trip. There were 78 boys in attendance, nine scoutmasters and patrol leaders, and Scout Executive Amby Frederick of the Snake river area. Troops represented were four from Burley and one each from Twin Falls, Oakley, Declo and Kimberly. The newly reorganized Kiba troop visited for one day and attended the camp meeting. From time to time visitors were entertained from neighboring districts.

The boys took one daytime hike and one overnight hike to the Chain of Lakes. Much of their time was devoted to preparing for and undergoing scout tests. W. B. Auvitt, forest ranger, gave instructions in many phases of forestry, nature study, pack saddle packing and tying the various pack hitches, and outdoor lore. He dwelt on the value of appreciation of the forest advantages and explained methods of fire protection.

A principal feature of this year's outing was the change from a regular camp cook and mess hall meal, to the plan of each troop or patrol cooking its own meals, the members taking turns in the necessary duties of camp cookery.

The camp is located in a pine forest, along the banks of a mountain stream. It is well equipped for camp purposes, having such buildings as are necessary, and equipment for heating water for daily baths.

TRANSPORTATION TO SCHOOLS DECREASES

BURLEY, Aug. 8 — Reports of George E. Demman, superintendent of Burley schools, and James E. Wood, garage and transportation foreman, show that transportation of rural pupils to and from school has decreased progressively from year to year. During 1933-34 the transportation cost amounted to about six cents a child each day, or 30 hundredths of a cent to the child mile for the 93,483 miles the fleet of 10 trucks traveled. This is believed to be the lowest cost of bus transportation of school children in the United States. The bus fleet is owned by the school district, together with a well appointed and spacious garage and shop. All repairs work as well as the handling of new bodies for truck buses, is done in the school garage. Drivers are employed on part time basis, the drivers making two trips averaging 1 1/2 hours to the trip.

Total transportation costs for the past school year amounted to $10,853.

Of this amount, $1,861 was for two new truck chassis, and $1,920 was payment on garage building. The operating cost was $7,931, with $1,014 garage and transportation foreman operating cost. There were 820 children transported, making a total of 4,346, 837 child miles for the 93,483 miles traveled. The cost per mile was 8.5 cents; cost per year per child, $10.81; average cost per child per month, $1.21.

The child-mile cost for 1931-32 was 29.2 hundredths of a cent; for 1932-33, 27.4 hundredths of a cent; for 1933-34, 30 hundredths of a cent.

MASTERS ASSAILS BIG MONOPOLIES

Congressional Candidate Charges Trusts Cause Unemployment

Charging that "trusts and the great monopolies are the cause of unemployment" and that "freight and utility rates in general are hindering the progress and development of Idaho," Mrs. H. H. Barnes, Republican candidate for the Democratic nomination for Second district congressman, addressed an open house audience of about 200 persons in Twin Falls city last evening.

A former Twin Falls resident and newspaper owner, Masters was introduced by James D. Whelan, then editor of Masters' paper here. "We need a representative in congress who has the grit and gumption to fight these great monopolies," he said. "I have appropriations to carry forward the reclamation and irrigation projects for the benefit of Idaho," Masters declared.

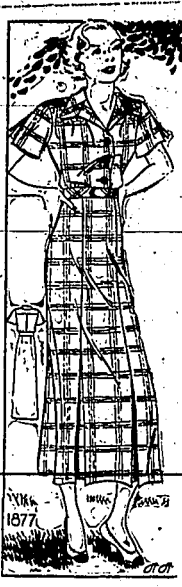

"Nearly 40,000,000 persons are living in the United States and these people should be given jobs and a chance to earn an honest living and enjoy the fruits of civilization as well as the necessities of life in the old age pension and unemployment insurance," Masters said.

"Trusts and the great monopolies are charged with causing unemployment, and the power trust is charging an exorbitant rate for electricity energy. The farmer is penalized when he ships his grain to market by high freight rates, and he is penalized again when he buys manufactured products from the eastern markets."

Mrs. J. H. Barnes and her daughter, Miss Edna Barnes, violinist, were presented in a musical program arranged by Mrs. D. E. Regan.

COURT OF APPEALS UPHOLDS RIGHT TO IMPORT 'OLYMPUS'

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)—The right to import James Joyce's "Ulysses" was upheld by the United States District court of appeals in a decision sustaining a ruling of Federal Judge John M. Woolsey. "It may be that Ulysses will not sell as a substantial contribution to literature," said the court in dismissing the federal government's charge that the book was lewd, immoral and obscene, "and it is certainly easy to believe that in spite of the opinion of Joyce's laudators the immorality will still remain, but the same may be said of the current works of art and music and many other serious efforts of the mind."

ON THE SIDELINES

Here's a story of a race horse and horse racing that I heard from the lips of an owner the other day—that is, a former owner—and it might be well to listen if you like to drop a bet in there now and then on the following horse.

There was a fine young two-year-old filly racing in Florida this winter, and if I could only tell you her name the yarn would be far more important, but somebody probably would be ruled off the turf, and that's a nice thing to do, isn't it?

She couldn't run, needed rest and lots of treatment, and the stable that owned her wasn't willing to bother. So the young man who told me the story, a man who loves horses, managed to acquire her. He took her over to a training center, and she was trained there for a few weeks.

She was trained there for a few weeks, and she was trained there for a few weeks, and she was trained there for a few weeks, and she was trained there for a few weeks.

She was trained there for a few weeks, and she was trained there for a few weeks, and she was trained there for a few weeks, and she was trained there for a few weeks.
