President Predicts
Rising Cost Of

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—A rise in the value of department store sales to the highest point in three years was indicated today by federal reserve board figures for the first nine months of 1934.

That did not necessarily mean, it was pointed out, that a larger volume of goods was being sold because prices also were higher than at any time since 1931.

The value of sales for the nine months was 75 per cent of the 1925 average, compared with 66 last month.

year, 1922 to 1932 and 95 in 1931. Prices in the last named year were close to those obtainable in 1922. The annual compilation showed that the decline in prices was not indicating a drop in sales volume since then:

Although conclusive figures were not available on the rise in retail prices, the gain in value of sales in areas benefitting from government farm payments has been so large that it was considered to represent an increase in the volume of business.

The cost of living will be higher, enough by July 1, when the next price index is published, to indicate a price level increase, the president declared. He does not expect it to be as high enough by the end of this year as it was by the end of 1931.

This, however, was balanced by declines in three of the four most important industrial areas.

Vote-Baiting

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP).—The sharp political controversy over the use of federal relief and emergency funds reached new high points today with Democratic statement that "hunger is not debatable" and a Republican charge of vote buying directed at the White House.

Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, gave the first answer. He said if feeding the hungry was "playing politics" he would "plead guilty."

The Republican senatorial-congressional campaign committee almost simultaneously issued a statement citing what it termed "two more incidents in the administration."

Surveys have disclosed that the nation is suffering from a severe shortage of food.

Last Mad Hours Of World's Fair Attract Throngs

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 (AP)—A Century of Progress rushed through the last hours of its existence tonight, and the city was again the scene of the most successful American fair in history.

The sixteen millionth patron of the 1934 season was admitted this afternoon, bringing to more than 10,000,000 the number of people who have entered the grounds since the fair opened May 25, 1933.

The farewell was a pyrotechnic administration had advanced $292,428 in relief funds to Maine alone, close after a Republican charge that the state had "stuffed the ballot box" which was voted indicative political use of the federal funds.

His aides explained Maine had been sent out when $235,000,000 was distributed to the other 47 states because Governor Louis J. Brannan's estimates of the state's needs had

The self-administrator then jumped into the controversy with this statement:

"With the same complicity which apparently goes with the chairmanship of the national Republican committee, Mr. Fletcher selected an aftermath that will last for months.

But today the 325 acres of far ground, treed with them and, who knew no tomorrow.

Throughout the day preceding the Halloween high jinks, cannon booms, trumpets, blared, whistles shrieked and built rang. Though the din grew in volume and worked to a crescendo marked by a dazzling display of fireworks.

"I got even with Robinson," he explained, "the 'ghost' of Mr. Service's poem is in the 'ghost' of my poem." He got a better tally than he expected—on the middle of the stream itself was to take place. But the same fish did not eat the same man twice. INSULL'S DEFENSE SKETCHED IN COURT

Attorneys Picture Former Magnate Fighting to Save Stockholders

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Defense attorneys filed a salvo of opening statements in the $100,000,000 mail fraud trial today and cleared the way for Samuel Insull to testify for himself tomorrow.

Led by Floyd Thompson, they collaborated in a picture of Insull as a man as battling to retain control of his once vast utility empire for the protection of his thousands of employees and stockholders. They began their statement soon after Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson directed verdicts of acquittal for the 15 Insull associates on trial with their chief.

Insull and his son, Samuel, Jr., had been indicted, they asserted, to present their case before the jurors and defend counsel tonight declared that, in the view of the Insull himself, would relate the story of the business deals which had brought him to the witness stand when the trial resumes in the morning.

Hard upon Judge Wilkerson's decision that the government had not sufficiently established the 15 defendants' knowledge of the alleged scheme to defraud, Thompson traced Insull's rise from his humble birth in London to domination of the utilities of the United States, a Florida Alper motif of a poor boy's success clouded by the more somber story of his downfall.

Thompson blamed the crash of 1929 and attempts by outsiders to gain control of the Insull operating companies for the events which led to the formation of Corporation Securities Company of Chicago, with Judge Wilkerson and the Insull family as promoters.

The only thought in the minds of Insull and his associates in forming Insull Utility Investments Company and later the Corporation Securities Company, asserted Thompson, was to prevent the Insull operating companies from falling into less able hands.

Insull, Thompson continued, had sovereignty of his empire might be snatched away. To avert it he and his associates organized a holding company to control Insull Utility Investments Company.

Such was the public demand for Insull's services that the company went to outsiders, the attorney asserted. The next step, he said, was to acquire the Corporation Securities Company, the purpose of which was to keep Insull in control, he added.

"The activities of Corporation Securities—termed 'rigging' in prosecution testimony—was declared by Thompson to have been motivated by a desire to avert a further slump in the market at a time when Insull and his associates believed the securities greatly under-valued.

The voting of a dividend in September, 1929, when the government claimed Corporation Securities already was insolvent, was called by Thompson an attempt to prevent further depreciation of market values.

The decision, he said, may have been unwise, but it was honest.

The final result, he said, was Samuel Insull turning over what remained of his fortune to pay debts he had contracted for the benefit of his companies. Insull now, he said, has no income and is dependent with his wife upon the income of his son, Samuel, Jr.

Thompson cited also Insull's contributions to religious, education and charitable institutions and social service agencies.

Attorneys representing the other defendants followed Thompson with statements that their clients were honest business men, of known reputation for integrity.

Ginger Rogers and Lew Ayres To Wed

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 31.—The engagement of Ginger Rogers, vivacious screen actress, and Lew Ayres, also a prominent screen star, was announced by Mrs. Lela E. Rogers, the actress' mother.

The announcement came after Miss Rogers, whose real name is Virginia Katherine McMath, had reportedly denied a romance but had proudly displayed to her friends a large diamond ring.

Ayer full name is Lewis Frederick Ayres.

The marriage will take place November 10 or 11 in a Hollywood church, said Mrs. Rogers.

"We didn't want to say anything until everything was all set, over, but I'm so happy," said Miss Rogers with a wide smile.

Ayres, too, was smiling, but he had nothing to add to the words of his bride-to-be.

The two have been "going together" for the past year and a half, and have appeared in one picture together.

RECIPROCAL TARIFF DEFENDED BY POPE

Senator Sees No Effect on Agriculture in Slash of Sugar Duty

PAYETTE, Idaho, Oct. 31.—Senator James P. Pope declared in a speech here tonight that the reciprocal tariff policy is "the best governmental reform that Idaho agriculture could ask for."

The Democratic senator, coupled this with an assertion that due to the AAA, farmers have received in the past two years a net increase in income over and above the cost of living of 25 per cent.

Taking up the tariff issue in a speech in behalf of the sugar tariff, the senator said "our policy in the past has not been a tariff policy. It has been a game of 'give and take' between manufacturing and agricultural interests in which farmers have invariably the 'taken'."

It was obviously necessary at the outset of the new deal that farm surpluses had to be reduced. That can only be done by limiting production or by selling surpluses abroad. Our foreign trade had declined away until it was negligible and crop reduction was necessary as a means of expediting the recovery of agriculture. That it is working now cannot be disputed. Farmers have received in the past two years a net increase in income over and above the cost of living of 25 per cent.

The reciprocal tariff program, he said, has brought about a reduction in the tariff on Cuban sugar. This immediately gave rise to much criticism, "on the ground that the administration is reducing the tariff on farm products. As a matter of fact imports of sugar from Cuba are not by law and are not restricted. That tariff reduction, of course, will have no effect whatever upon American sugar producers who have secured the United States substantial reductions in tariff rates on land, iron, wheat, flour and many other farm products."

There being no limitation of their exports to Cuba, the treaty will, of course, enable the United States to import more agricultural commodities from Cuba. A similar policy will be followed in all foreign treaties.

He said a survey of results would disclose that the balance of trade had swung in favor of the United States. Other criticism of the administration, he said, was directed at the AAA and the New Deal.

A review of the facts in both these administrations will show that they have more than justified the support of the American people.

FILMDOG INVOLVED IN CALIFORNIA CAMPAIGN

FilmDOG, known in Los Angeles as "The Dog," was specifically mentioned by Harry H. Hopkins, chamber president, was quoted as saying the "Dog of Socialism" mentioned by Sinclair's nomination for governor on the Democratic ticket had been a "dog in all respects since the primaries."

"The action," said the announcer, "but reflects the deep concern with which the race generally is watching the outcome of the election."

Attorney Asks Probe

FilmDOG became involved in the voting campaign crossfire when David Sokol, an attorney, writing on Saturday headed "The Law Enforcement Committee of the County Central Committee on the Democratic ticket" asked the Los Angeles district attorney's office to send him an investigation of alleged threats that movie studio employees would be "punished" if they voted for Sinclair.

Sokol asked that Miss Hopkins and the heads of the eight large studios be summoned. He also said he would ask later for subpoenas for Douglas Fairbanks, Clark Gable, Will Rogers and other screen personages. He alleged studio employees earning more than $100 a week had been asked to give a "day's pay" back to the Republican campaign fund.

Deputy District Attorney Daniel Brecher announced he had sent an Investigator to question Miss Hopkins on whether she had been "intimidated." Her studio said she probably would not be available for comment tonight and that she had not yet been informed of the subpoena request.

Proceedings halted

The supreme court decision halted proceedings under which State Attorney General U. S. Webb, a Republican, had sought to restrain 24,139 persons from voting in Los Angeles county on the ground that they had registered illegally. Investigators had reported nearly 100,000 allegedly illegal registrations there and proposed additional additional that would be in the making which the court decision halted.

Webb announced that in view of the ruling, other similar cases would be filed.

Sinclair's accepted 95 per cent of those questioned in the registration proceedings were Democrats.

The law of the decision a second suit designed to restrain 24,139 moviegoers was withheld in Los Angeles. Assistant Attorney General James H. Hogue announced in Los Angeles.

At the same time attorneys representing forces opposed to Sinclair announced in Los Angeles that local voters believed to be illegally registered would be challenged at the 1934 in the approaching election.

The supreme court decision was a setback for the Los Angeles county from expelling the president, announced in the attorney general's suit.

The lower court was barred from expelling anyone not "truly" active with voters. The attorney general said the suit would preclude local action before election because persons thus served would be entitled to 10 days to answer.

HALE AGAIN RAPS SUGAR SITUATION

Congressional Candidate Accuses Democrats of "Stalling"

BURLEY, Oct. 31.—Attempts are being made to bring the issue involving the proposed transfer from Idaho to California of about 10,000 of Idaho's sugar beet production quota, Herbert Q. Hale, Republican candidate for congress, told a large audience here Wednesday evening.

"Men in this state, with their hands on the national administration, that they can do nothing else, are attempting to stall this unjust discrimination against one of Idaho's most important industries until after the election," the speaker declared. "It is their political friends who are trying to save, not the Idaho sugar beet industry. In the words of Senator Hale, 'I do not want explanations. I want sugar beet saved. And I wish to tell the people of this state that my hands are not tied.'"

Would Destroy Industry

Hale declared that the AAA action in transferring Idaho sugar acreage to California was but the first step in the administration's admitted intention of destroying the sugar beet industry.

"This statement," he continued, "is amply sustained by the expressed declarations of the officials of the department of agriculture, which are repeatedly recorded in legislative hearings. Even the head of the sugar section of the AAA said that sugar should not be produced in the United States because removal of the protective tariff would destroy it."

The crowd straggled quietly away.

Hunger March Ends

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 31.—New York's hunger march ended in police court tonight and the federal relief administration began an inquiry into the marchers' claim with police who barred them from the city yesterday.

The PERA asked the New York state relief administration also to find out why more than 100 marchers, some of them wounded, slept on a sidewalk hillside all night.

George Clark, district officer of the state PERA, went to police court to witness the arraignment of 74 marchers. Clark said he had been asked to make a report of the incident.

The treasury's regulations are directed at the law limiting the borrowings of any one individual or corporation to one tenth of a bank's capital and surplus. Under the new rules, more extensive advances may be made if repayment of the extra is guaranteed by the Reconstruction corporation of the Federal Reserve banks.

This modification was understood to have been suggested informally by several leading bankers here last week at the annual convention of the American Bankers association.

No Bids Were Asked, No Estimate of Cost Requested

As against this the Buhl Herald, awarded the work on a competitive bid basis, delivered 16,000 General Election ballots and 1600 sample ballots for $281.00.

The 13,200 Primary Election ballots, which includes the sample ballots, cost the taxpayers $37.00 per thousand when printed by the Times, while 17,600 General Election ballots printed by the Buhl Herald cost the taxpayers $15.96 per thousand. The fact of the matter is that the Times charged the tax payers approximately two and one half times as much for the primary ballots as the Buhl Herald did for the election ballots and the County Commissioners let the Times get away with it.

If This is Not Extravagant Use of Taxpayers' Money, WHAT IS IT?

If the facts were incorrect and constituted an attack upon the Times, as alleged by that Democratic organ, why did not that newspaper call this to the attention of the Republican County Central Committee and give to the committee the actual facts before printing the paid advertisement.

night, a month after the Lindbergh was Hauptmann's.

Hauptmann goes on trial January 2 before Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Breckinridge and a jury. Whitney reported today—Hauptmann is now reading—William Reber's "Chicago—The World's Bad"—a book on natural history.

Baby Will See Father

Mrs. Hauptmann will return here today, but the baby, who is ill, will stay here until Sunday, his first birthday. He will see his father for a few minutes.

Thereafter, Sheriff Carlisle said, the child will be permitted to see Hauptmann only on Wednesdays.
