throughout the years what one thing has given so much pleasure, so much satisfaction Today the Governor of North Carolina says to the Governor of South Carolina— "Have a cigarette" TODAY people all over the world use tobacco in one form or another. They chew it, they smoke it in pipes, they smoke cigars and cigarettes, and here is what an eminent physician said about cigarettes: "I have been something of a student of cigarettes, and it is my belief that they offer the mildest and purest form in which tobacco is used." Yes, nowadays the cigarette is the most popular form in which tobacco is used. A good cigarette certainly gives men and women a lot of pleasure. Have a Chesterfield— For one thing—they're milder. After an hour or more of debate on kindred subjects, he declared the session adjourned. Minutes of the meeting disclose that as a parting shot at the real lawmakers, he said in his closing "third house" speech: "Gentlemen, your proceedings are so exactly similar to those of the convention which preceded you. You have considered subjects which you know nothing about, you have every subject before the house, and voted, without knowing what you were voting for or having any idea what would be the general result of your action. I will adjourn the convention for an hour, on account of my cold, to the end that I may apply the remedy prescribed for it—the same remedy, gin and whiskey. ROBINSON ASSAILS GILDED GATEWAYS

Senate Majority Leader Hits Townsend, Long Proposals

New York, March 21 (AP)—Senator Joseph W. Robinson of Arkansas tonight assailed the Townsend old age pension bill and the Long share-the-wealth plan as "gilded highways to economic paradise."

The Townsend measure he called a "wild scheme" that would cost upwards of $19,200,000,000 a year to finance and Senator Long's plan he denounced as fundamentally communitarian and "dishonest."

The senate majority leader, addressing the drug, chemical and allied trades branch, picked the two proposals apart, point by point, and said:

"Neither is consistent with reason, experience or sound argument. Both are violative of fundamental and generally accepted laws."

But because of the distress in which so many of our people find themselves they are both looked upon with favor by many for the magic which they promise the imprudent and unfortunate.

Senator Robinson's speech was broadcast over the NBO network.

Equality of Misery

Reviewing what he termed the "Utopian program on which Senator Long proposes to run for president" he said:

"Self-respecting citizens cannot approve of any policy that denies or stifles their independence. The incentive to provide for themselves and their families, four walls and a roof above, is itself the very foundation of our present civilization."

"Take from our people this worthy influence and the economic and social system which we have built up will totter and eventually disintegrate; and the only equality we will have will be the equality of misery."

The first result of the plan, which he described as "closely akin to Socialism," would be, he said, "the breaking up of the major industries and the maintenance of the structure of going concerns, the discontinuance of operations, and the increase in unemployment beyond the power of anyone to anticipate or overcome."

GRAVE CHARGES. In addition to giving Idaho a sales tax the Legislature also provided a referendum bill which provides, upon presentation of a petition carrying signatures amounting to ten per cent of the vote cast in the last election that any law may be referred back to the people to be voted upon at a special election to be called for that purpose.

Trickery, coercion and worse marked its (the sales tax bill's) passage. The 23rd legislature and the third term of Governor C. Ben Ross will go down in history as a regime that lived taxes from the larger corporations of the state, and saddled them upon the shoulders of the common man, the poor man, the very man on the relief rolls in whose name (shame be it) the sales tax law was passed.

So that this final record may be clear for the referendum fight which is almost sure to come, The Capital News declares that it has information direct from Washington that Governor Ross has ordered the FERA a Monday night to stop all relief activities until the sales tax bill was passed. The permission was tacitly granted, but yesterday, while the sales tax bill was under debate, FERA executives in Washington ordered committees on tracks and in storage in Idaho notified so people on relief, would not go hungry.

Relief workers and a few senators were deluded into believing that unless the sales tax was passed all relief in Idaho would cease. That, and many other arguments, implications and innuendoes used to force the bill through, were false. The News has all along contended that Idaho did not need and should not have a sales tax. The necessary relief funds could have been raised in some other way which would place any additional tax involved where it belongs and not upon the shoulders of those least able to pay it.

willfulness to co-operate in any class? High school pupils can be fooled only part of the time. KEEPING HISTORY AT HOME. A quiet excitement has been stirred up in the little old village of Boreham, Essex, England—over the prospective removal to America of one of its historical buildings. It is the famous Bull's Cottage, in which Anne Boleyn stayed when Henry VIII was at New Hall near by. This cottage was bought by Henry Ford, the American who once said that history is bunk—but who has since developed the hobby of collecting antiques and historical relics, including buildings.

In America, Mr. Ford bought the old Wayside Inn at Sudbury, Mass., restored it and placed in it many authentic furnishings of the period of its greatest activity. It has become a most charming historical museum. Perhaps the English people who sold Bull's Cottage to Mr. Ford thought he planned to restore it in the same way. It may be he does intend to do that. But word has gone about the British Isles that he is going to remove the building to America. That is why the Essex Branch of the Council for Preservation of Rural England has joined with the Society for the Preservation of Ancient Buildings to take steps to keep Bull's Cottage in Boreham.

It might mean something to somebody to have that cottage on view at Dearborn, Michigan, but hardly enough to compensate for the loss its removal would leave in the English village. A replica would serve the purpose just as well on this side. The original belongs where it was built and has been used there four hundred years and more.

GIVE THE GENERAL AN EDGE. Voluntary scoutskeepers in the great billingsgate debate agree that up to now General Johnson seems to have an edge over his two opponents, Senator Long and Rev. Coughlin. The general spent some time among army mine skimmers and thereby acquired a vocabulary. To be sure, the senator and the clergyman are using some witty terms and expressions of their own. They do well, within their limitations. But Old Groat leads.

The clergyman in his latest address characterized General Johnson as a "political corpse." He called the general also a "chocolate soldier." He addressed the general directly, with reference to "you and your West-Weaver-Brazier-Whitcomb-Young-Connolly." He invoked the mercy of his hearers upon the general as "a figure to be pitied." That last, considering what had gone before, was quite a touch. But mark the general's snappy comeback. Hardly had "you" been used as a pointed though brief public denunciation of Coughlin and Huey Long as "public political enemies numbers one and two." It took Old Crackdown to think up that nifty. There it is, a rung belt, not to be unrun by any pert rejoinders the general's opponents can think up.

Mining is no romantic dream. The Arabian Nights, Jason and the Golden Fleece and the Pot of Gold at the Foot of the Rainbow make fascinating reading, but to the hard-rock miner there is more substance in the less romantic rosy belly and beans.

Mining is the romantic industry in point of the string-and-alluring events it can boast, but in actual reality it is likely to be costly if approached in other than a sane and serious business proposition. Mining is not a romantic dream.

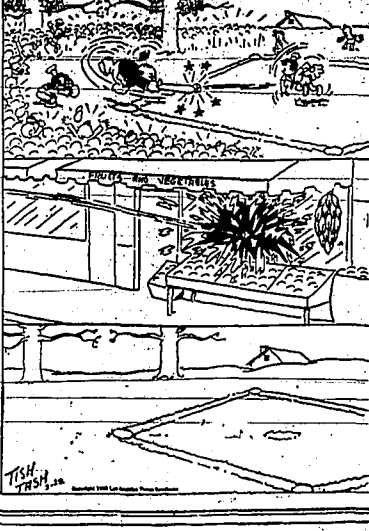

Facing the rock-ribbed breast of the machine in solid gold, the plugging bolts with a wrench drill does not impress the miner as the steel, all romantic and only drama may be of the farm his will by when he strikes it and so can live in daylight.

Breakfast Food. Examination Howlers. A catamount is the thing on the top of the rooster's back.

STATESMAN. A statesman is supposed to be familiar with all public questions. He is called Senator Babbler, but not necessarily with all the answers.

NATURE NOTE. "What does a bat do in winter?" "It sleeps if you don't let it."

VAN BORING By Tish Tash

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG (NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS)

WASHINGTON By George Durso. BEAT. Perhaps consumers of bituminous coal should start hitting up against a hard summer. The big fellows controlling what are known as "captive mines" are doing it. That might reasonably indicate to the public the probability of a general walkout in the coal fields on April 1.

CARE. If the miners walk out it will be "supper" not a "strike." This is a technical difference that means a lot to the United Mine Workers. Walter Dammrich, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Mrs. J. West Roosevelt, Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Harkness, Mrs. Eleanor Whitner, Adlai Stevenson and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Thomas are to be seen.

CHOICE. More gossip from Congressional office buildings has Jim Farley resigning as Postmaster General as soon as Huey Long stops shooting. Senators and Representatives alike have figured it out that Parley will devote his time to the chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee after retiring from the cabinet.

SQUEEZE. But there's a funny angle to all this. It's intimated by insiders that some of the biggest operators in the so-called central competitive field—which includes Western, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio and Indiana—would just as soon see the Roosevelt bill as they would the first of next month. The idea is that they would benefit from the provisions of the Cuffey bill allocating future production and shutting off new production.

Opinion is prevailing that Senator Cuffey's measure will get a vote even if Senator Wagner's doesn't. Government representatives of the consumer don't care much for this bill. They force that it would squeeze the consumer between the operator and the miner.

TRACK. It is amazing how gossip percolates on Capitol Hill that President Roosevelt will choose a new running mate—supplementing Vice President John Vance Garner next year. The rumors get coming direct from Senatorial offices which frequently know what they are talking about.

CUBA. There's always the shadow of European intervention whenever Cuba throws a revolutionary party. The United States and the British are said to have appealed to their governments for protection against threatened burners and bombings. Direct action by foreign powers is no longer fashionable since the United States invented the notion of intervening to prevent others from doing so. It conditional become intolerable the United States will be asked by other governments to do its us.

American military experts will aid the Philippines in organizing their defense system in anticipation of independence. The Senate intends to find out who monkeyed with the cotton market on March 1, when the bottom dropped out. Senator Copeland has introduced a bill to make divorce easy through the District of Columbia. With the gladdening advent of spring, many of us are renewing friendly relations with wild creatures. An abundance of song birds, ever hopeful, no matter what their winter or other hardships, and unforgotten friends in the springtime strikes a note of distinct charm and hope, calling us out and beyond drab winter's confinement into the open, beckoning spaces of wood, calling us out and beyond drab winter's confinement into the open, beckoning spaces of wood, calling us out and beyond drab winter's confinement into the open, beckoning spaces of wood.

THE CAMP FIRE GIRLS of this locality, ever vigilant, under inspiration of the National Fire Protection Association, are planning to take a census of all birds possible within a certain prescribed area. The latter part of April, some conservation leader under constant supervision, will obviously not only play a part in developing a greater and more definite interest in bird study in southern Idaho, but will, properly recorded, become a source of reliable information, and be an aid in the stimulation of intelligent bird conservation activities. In my "Bird Lore" (national organ of the Audubon Society), which I receive as a member of the New Jersey State Audubon Society, I have noted that Lewiston was the only locality in Idaho reporting in the last 1925 Christmas bird census, 30 species—many common in our section as well.

It is the purpose of the Camp Fire group's objective, the unquantified, the ruthless, and the indifferent can appreciably establish a new bird census, with these little objects of our affection, admiration, and protection—the birds who will give an added richness and certain satisfaction in human experience—which will lack eloquence of expression. Very truly, ALICE W. ROBERT, Twin Falls, March 21.

For Mayor and Councilmen Ed. Landon Bert Sweet H. H. Hedstrom FOR COUNCILMAN FOR COUNCILMAN FOR COUNCILMAN These men have had no quarrels with the men who will control the relief money in Idaho, as the present mayor has had, over personal political appointees, and so they can cooperate fully and effectively with all county, state and national officers on relief matters, as the present mayor cannot.

ROOSEVELTS' PRESS SESSIONS COMPARED

News Conferences Unique in White House Annals

(Editor's Note: The president and Mrs. Roosevelt have made precedent in dealing with the press. Their methods are here contrasted by a veteran correspondent of the capital.)

By BESS FURMAN (Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press) WASHINGTON, March 21—At the president's press conference all the world's eyes are turned to the White House. Mrs. Roosevelt's press sessions are a new thing in the annals of the White House. They are a cross section of current thought from conservation to communism, and he became a brilliant actor, rising to his own role.

Swiftly she points up the drama of this day—a "grave" notion of outlining the American "good neighbor" policy as an answer to imminent troubles in Europe. "Right laugh" at the expense of an aide engaged in a relief run in Ohio. More than a hundred reporters are present, many of them on odds and ends of papers pulled from pockets—and are gone. It took less than an hour today, usually lasts fifteen to twenty-five minutes.

Conducts Class Mrs. Roosevelt's room full of newspaper women, and she conducts a class on scores of subjects, always seeing beyond her immediate horizon to the "big picture" of the country, with whom she would share the quickening thoughts.

Both their conferences are unique in White House annals—the president's for his frequent question method; Mrs. Roosevelt's for its very existence. These situations are of their own choosing. For one, consider President Roosevelt's courtesy for postponing a verbal question target, even though he may possibly realize he has a gift of dominating verbal tournaments. For phrases turned in print, have powerful personalities in the lives of presidents.

RADIO ENTERTAINER SUGGUMBS AT PAUL

RUPERT, March 21—The body of Mrs. Gladys Ruggles, 39, wife of Bert Ruggles, who died at their home west of Paul Monday afternoon following a two-week illness from complications of pneumonia and influenza, lies at the Goodman mortuary here. Removal of the body to Prairie City, Iowa, will improve health of two of her children, Russell and Franklin, confined to their beds with the same trouble. The family including the parents, a little daughter, Rosalie, and the two boys, came here from Iowa last November. The parents and daughter Rosalie

Boom In London's West End Night Life Traced To Advent Of American Chorine

LONDON, March 21 (AP)—Some-where in the middle of London's brightly-lighted West End, where the orchestras play loud and the champagne flows—dressed, they probably will erect a statue one of these days to the American chorine who has brought it to a white-hot flame.

That is, they will if there is any gratitude in the hearts of London's restaurateurs and night life operators. They owe a debt to the little girls from Broadway, Hollywood, and play-stations that they can never really repay. They should be glad to settle for a statue.

Greatest Boom Since 1913 London is enjoying its greatest night life boom since before the war. Hotels, night clubs, "bottle" clubs and theaters are turning 'em away. More money is being spent in London than in any other city in the world. There's a stiff shirt bouncing around in the back of your head, and all of it can be traced directly to a little band of American chorines who came to London two winters ago. This amusement magnates, admitted they admit at least, they supplied the original spark, and

That preceding briefs of "Broadway play-ers" and "Hollywood" chorines have brought it to a white-hot flame.

'Vest Pocket' Stills Problem For Agents

SPOKANE, March 21 (AP)—"Vest pocket" stills were described here today by federal alcohol tax unit officers as their latest problem in curbing moonshining.

Not since prohibition days when stills made from teakites were common have the agents found one as small as they set in a suburban house this morning. It held only a few gallons of mash and apparently was designed for home use, the agents said.

Carelessness With Money, Jewels Puts Woman in Hospital

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., March 21—A 30-year-old woman who identified herself as Mrs. Isabel MELLIE of Hammond, Indiana, was placed in a hospital here today while police held for questioning her car and jewelry valued at $1,500 in currency which she carried with her in a railroad coach.

Train officials asked that she be taken from the train after they reported she attempted to stuff part of the money into a coach ventilator. The currency, together with the jewels, which officers said might be worth as much as $500,000, was being held tonight by Police Chief Hugh Gordon for safekeeping. The jewels consisted of a number of rings, brooches, necklaces and watches, which Captain Herbert Block of the railroad detective force said had not been formally appraised.

Police Chief Gordon said he received a communication from Mrs. Mellie's husband, saying she was Mrs. Mellie's daughter and would arrive here tonight.

In papers carried by the woman, police found the name of Elmer Mellie. At the office of Mellie, publisher of the Hammond Times, it was determined that the city's school divorce proceedings between the couple were pending and that a property settlement had been effected.

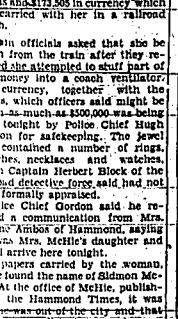

The currency was in denominations as high as $100,000, Gordon said. A packet of bills dropped to the station platform, but was recovered, and $201 was found in the compartment the woman occupied.

Train employees said she boarded the train at Dearborn street station at Chicago, and carried a ticket for Montreal.

He Weed died here in 1927, had made Rupert her home since 1918. Her maiden name was Mary Ann Hamilton. She was a native of England. She was born April 10, 1866.

Following the service, the body will be sent to Salt Lake City where interment will be in the city cemetery on Saturday, and the Payne mortuary, Burley, in charge.

RUPERT LAYS PLANS FOR JUNIOR CHAMBER

He plans calls for the organization to take place next Tuesday night. Rupert Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the organization and a committee was named to visit Twin Falls to extend an invitation to the Junior C. of C. there to be present at the organization meeting. You do 80% of your driving within 25 miles of Home

Constant starting, stopping and accelerating waste your money if your gasoline hasn't these 3 different kinds of power

THE average car today is continually DASHING BACK AND FORTH within a few miles of home or office... It's starting... stopping... warming-up—time after time! This calls for 3 kinds of power in your gasoline... POWER for quick starting... POWER for acceleration... POWER for steady runs. Unless these 3 types of power are present—and in PERFECT BALANCE—your short runs can waste many dollars of your money. Super-Shell is THE FIRST GASOLINE to have these 3 different kinds of power in perfect balance. That's why Super-Shell cuts your driving costs IN 3 WAYS:

- Can save up to a cupful of gasoline on every "Cold" Start. In summer or winter, Super-Shell starts instantly, often warms up in half as long as ordinary gasoline. So there's less chocking and you use less gasoline. 16 cupfuls saved, remember, amount up to a whole gallon!
- Can save up to a cupful of gasoline in 10 minutes of Hard Pulling. Because of its even reliability, you can accelerate rapidly on each gear or up hills in high gear—on less gasoline! And what's more, you avoid that knocking which in a few minutes can waste up to 10 per cent of your power.
- Can save up to a cupful of gasoline in one hour of Steady Running. Every drop of Super-Shell vaporizes more completely at every engine temperature. In addition to saving on short trips, many motorists report mileage increases on long runs equal to a saving of a cupful every hour.

THESE THREE BIG SAVINGS of gasoline naturally result in more mileage per tankful—big monthly and yearly savings! Super-Shell is on sale from Coast to Coast at more than 30,000 neighborly Shell stations... at no extra cost!

PARLIAMENT TOLD REICH ARMAMENT MOVE LEADS
ULTIMATELY TO WAR

The presentation of the French and Italian protest notes, which the Reich government "deliberately took the most effective measures to compromise the fate of this (the League) security negotiation" and the latter asserting the Reich's decision to "assume particular seriousness especially for the state of emergency which it entails."

Ambassadors of both powers, Berlin dispatches said, expressed surprise at publication of an official communiqué saying Germany had refused to "consider" the notes and intimating von Neurath had all but ejected them from his office.

While unofficial British quarters said the Reich government's defiant action might bring another crisis, Simon insisted before the house of commons that "he would continue striving for an inclusive European security system including Germany, even though he voiced grave doubts whether an agreement with some of Germany's neighbors could be possible" if "British parties in the big army program."

Assaya Motive

Loud cheering, in which party lines were ignored, greeted Simon, Lugabury and other speakers. The French labor leader, after warning of the war peril, said:

"Germany blames the Versailles treaty, the French something else and the Russian government which in spite of what some people say I am quite sure does not want to fight outside of Russia — defends armaments on the belief that they fear an attack from the East or along the Baltic sea."

Balotrochi's reference to Italy's state of armed preparedness brought equally loud cheers in the Italian chamber of deputies, shouts of "viva il Duce" and "viva l'Europeo" (long live the army) greeting his declaration that Italy's present military class will be kept under arms and present conscription terms maintained.

Hold Under Arms

The whole military class of 1911 had received cards ordering its members to be ready for service, the under secretary of war said, while the military class of 1913, now in service, will not be demobilized.

Reduction of the term of conscription from 18 months to one year previously decided upon will not be undertaken until the moment is opportune," he added.

Premier Pierre Blaine Plaudin's government continued striving with all its force to keep Germany any further rearmament in violation of the treaty or, falling in this, to avoid war with an armistice of allies.

FIGHT OR PARLEY,
REICH ULTIMATUM

have created an issue of great moment. It was recalled that in 1910 between France and Germany was declared when the latter refused to receive the French ambassador.

For Home Consumption

While the German propaganda ministry insisted that the protests would be rejected and no answer would be given, the two embassies concerned said the ambassadors visits, two hours apart, had been cordial with no indication whatsoever that the notes had been summarily rejected or that they would not be answered.

The strong attitude taken in official communis, it was suggested, was intended solely for home consumption.

Newspaper headlines in flaming red and French protest rejected. These, some quarters believed, are intended to give Germans the confident feeling that Adolf Hitler is trying through his determination to make the nation respected by big foreign powers.

Von Neurath, it was learned on the last authority, told the French and Italian envoys:

"The arguments adduced (in the note) do not take the actual situation into account, wherefore the German government must decline to entertain the protest."

Analysis Scrap-of-Paper

Both envoys, reliably described despite their embassies' statements as feeling that they had carried "another scrap of paper to the wastebasket," immediately sent lengthy reports to their government.

A qualified spokesman said the German government considers it "ridiculous to present paper protests" merely because the veil has been lifted from Germany's rearmament.

"They've known for a long time that we are rejected and said 'Protests now are valueless.'"

"There are only two things they can do: Either they can continue on the march or decide to negotiate with us as equal powers."

While an attitude of supreme assurance surrounded the German strasse, nevertheless the foreign office was watching closely French, Italy and Russian moves toward unity of action.

Great Britain, in the belief of most observers, remains the key to the situation diplomatic quarters expect that Hitler will go far to let Simon lead the German when the two consult Monday and Tuesday.

The entire country, meanwhile, has forgotten its economic troubles during the last few days to swap Hitler's office with enthusiastic letters of telegrams to the German for his reinstatement of military training.

Idaho Attorney General and Finance Commissioner Clash On Operation Of Sales Tax

Figure that he's making just four-tenths less in profit on his 20-cent sale, and continue to sell that item at 30 cents.

The customer who buys it will be paying not only freight, light, heat, and other overhead costs when he purchases the 20-cent item—he'll be paying freight, light, heat, other overhead costs and the four-tenths of 1-cent sales tax he is required to pay for it.

Customer Meet Pay

"We're acutely interested in getting 42-cents every $100 of sales. It's up to the merchant to decide how he's going to collect it. It must be paid out of his pocket," he declared tonight.

"They want to abide by the law, but they are confused in many instances as to how to do it."

"We've met that law here only a few hours—it's difficult to interpret its intent and ramifications in such a short time."

"We're making progress."

Order to Printers

The Commissioners said orders were given to printers today to print 25,000 copies of licenses which must be purchased by all businesses coming under the law at $2 each, and that 25,000 copies of the sales tax act will soon be off the press for distribution by persons representing the commissioner to all businesses which must collect the tax.

Mr. Diefendorf explained that collectors of the tax must submit reports of their total sales at the end of each month and accompany their reports with checks covering 100 percent of the $100 in sales.

If the merchant raised his price more than necessary to cover the tax, that charge unnecessary to meet the tax is regarded as profit to the merchant, Mr. Diefendorf said.

"There isn't much danger of any merchant turning in more than $2 per $100 of sales tax," he said.

California Schedule

Merchants in Boise today set about charging 1 cent tax on all sales between 10 cents and 25 cents. This is the schedule in California, they said.

In Utah, which has virtually the same law as Idaho, the 2-cent tax usually is collected on sales of not less than 25 cents.

A penalty will be imposed only when the collector of tax does not remit $2 for every $100 in sales.

Violations of the act permit institutions of a number of heavy fines, if offenders are convicted.

Commissioner Diefendorf—this morning said he would like to determine officially whether the tax applies to services such as medical and dental. He said that the law works without using any material. "Or hand I think it does not," he said.

"We do know it applies to sales to merchants in all lines of business, to theaters, restaurants, automobile dealers and such stores of businesses—but not to wholesalers who sell to retailers.

Retailers Not Yet Invoked

Up to tonight the referendum law had not been formally invoked to upset provisions of the tax act. Representative Harvey Harn (R-Clark) contended, however, that it would be "sometime within the next 10 days."

By report to the referendum law, opponents of the act, felt they could make it inoperative.

The opinions of attorneys differed as to the application of the referendum.

The article only added to the general confusion that has grown up around the law which caused much bitterness and contention before it was passed by the extraordinary session which concluded its labors last night.

Law's Definitions

The act defines a "retailer" as a person doing a regular retail business in tangible personal property including the rendering of utility service, entertainment, amusement, recreation or meals taxable under the terms of this act.

The term "utility service" or "service" means "the retail sale of electrical energy or water for domestic or commercial consumption; the retail sale of transportation, except movement of intra-state freight and express."

The term "retail sale" or "sale at retail" means a sale of tangible personal property by wholesalers to retail merchants, jobbers, dealers or other wholesalers for resale and does not include a sale by wholesalers to users or consumers, not for resale.

These definitions left little doubt but that tickets to various entertainments—boxing matches, theatricals and so forth would bear the tax.

OREGON GOVERNOR SIGNS "NEW DEAL" MEASURES

OLYMPIA, Wash., March 21 (AP)—The "new deal" majority in the Washington industrial recovery and unemployment insurance acts, were approved today by Governor Clarence D. Martin.

They were among 19 bills signed by the executive. To date he has enacted 155 of the 177 bills passed by the 1935 legislature. Fifty-six were signed yesterday.

Measures signed today included one authorizing construction of a bridge across the Snake river between Clatsop, Washington, and Lewiston, Idaho, subject to a satisfactory agreement between Idaho, Washington and the federal government.

GREAT RICHES

By Mabel Hove Farnham

SYNOPSIS: James Gilman, III, the "catch" of New Concord, Kas., is being held in Judge Holcomb's office. And the ladies of New Concord have picked out his future wife for him—Jane Northrup, daughter of the richest man in town. But Jane unconsciously prefers Leslie Harris, the printer's daughter. Mrs. Northrup tells Jane that Leslie undoubtedly has fallen in love with something that makes him think Jane no longer cares for him.

Chapter 16
LESLIE, VILLAINESS

"I don't know that I ever did," Jane asserted proudly. "And now that I know his taste in women, I care less than before."

"A common little thing like Leslie," it is impossible that Jane should be in love with her! I never did trust her. You'd think to meet her that butler wouldn't mind in his mouth that she's a sly, double-dealing little mix."

"Look how she acted when you brought her any more up here," said Mrs. Northrup. "She always has been jealous of you. Save my words, she said something to Janet's prejudice in the last year."

"The mention of the army officers was unfortunate. A few months before Jane had managed to wrangle membership in the Fort Leavenworth club and promptly and triumphantly carried four of the most attractive and eligible young gentlemen of the Fort for a week end of unprecedented and lavish entertaining."

Her guests had repaid Jane by sending Leslie dancing with her, and Leslie, flirting with Leslie, slipping off to call on her every time Jane's back was turned. And now it was Leslie who was contented to get to come down to the Fort and very very seldom Jane.

"Jane dashed her mother and her heart by burning into passionate sobs. . . . Jane who even as a child almost never cried."

"You're a little more than a little spoiled," Mrs. Northrup said soothingly. "It isn't worth crying about. I'll see that your father gets you that diamond and pearl jewelry that I have a doubt that poor James is secretly calling his heart out and running around with Leslie all the while. Why, you know how to lift your little finger to get him back."

"Jane had already lifted more than a finger, but she didn't tell her mother that. "I don't want him back," she sobbed. "I despise him. But it's all so humiliating. I would have as much money as I like in the world, but I can't bear to have that miserable sipping little creature over my shoulder and laughing away at me. . . . only really eligible prospect in this. . . . this eligible little boy."

Mrs. Northrup's mouth trembled, but there came a dark vindictive gleam in her eyes. Jane, for all her breath and blarney, was in love with that wretched, wailing, James Gilman. Mrs. Northrup never altogether forgave James for that moment when her darling broke down and cried in her arms.

Jane was proud, and extremely jealous of her dignity. She had few secrets from her mother, but she felt she would rather let anyone else guess that James meant any more to her than Nappy, his only brother.

So she gave a dinner and included James and Leslie and seated them next to each other at the extreme end of the table, by putting one of the army wives and her husband from Fort Leavenworth, Jane was sure that another officer, for herself—not one of the four who had visited her—and as he was a Southwestern on a good show at her end of the table.

But between laughter and gay sallies she kept her eyes on James and Leslie. Up to this moment she had believed that Leslie had deliberately ensnared James for no other reason than to spite her—Jane.

Leslie did not neglect the man on her left. If anything talked more to Jane's ears it did James. But Jane caught the look that Leslie gave James when he was turned away from her. She saw the glances that flashed herself in love with Governor Gilman's grandson!

Not that she actually thought of marriage in a family that would move here thought of recognizing her father and mother that they would have thought of inviting the garbage man to their table. If the girl had any sensitiveness, any delicacy, she would have done so.

"Child, you're not doing your duty to the stranger within your gates," said the young captain who sat on her left.

"Duty? Do you think it's a duty?" laughed Jane. She looked no more at Leslie and James. She had believed in James, believed that he was made of finer stuff than the other village chisellers. Already he had shown his feet of clay.

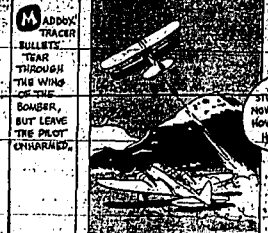

Good thing for her she had found out time that he was after all just a country bumpkin. With his ugly red hair, his gawky way of standing and sitting—she felt sure she had loved in James, believed that he was made of finer stuff than the other village chisellers. Already he had shown his feet of clay.

"All the while Jane was conscious, she could see that she was after all just a country bumpkin. With his ugly red hair, his gawky way of standing and sitting—she felt sure she had loved in James, believed that he was made of finer stuff than the other village chisellers. Already he had shown his feet of clay.

Jane was aware that a strong body masculine hand was seeking hers. And promptly she found and held and pressed it warmly. There was comfort in that warmth and masculine strength.

She blushed and did not for a moment or two withdraw her hand. After all there was no food there—better fish. . . . But after Captain Henderson had

Cinema Directors Say "Ideal Miss" Is Below Average

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., March 21 (AP)—"Miss Ideal America," as articulated by the International Beauty Shop Contest association, would have a hard time getting a job in the movies.

Several days ago, the beauty expert, dimensionally gave, as the first—dimensions for—a beautiful girl—height, 5 feet one inch; weight, 100 pounds; and eyes, blue.

Studio casting directors, who are supposed to know beauty when they see it, were startled at this dimension.

Only one first-ranking star fits these measurements.

None of the "good" players, or younger actresses being groomed for stardom, fit them.

James Cagney, diminutive Fox studio player, is 5 feet 1 inch, weighs 100 pounds. He is, according to the association's description, therefore the only "ideally proportioned" player.

The average of the 100 or more top-notch actresses in the studios is 5 feet 4 inches—height, and weight between 112 and 120 pounds.

"They're bigger now than they used to be," Fred Datig, casting director at Paramount, said. "Handsome, beautiful-looking—that sort of babyish type has passed out of the picture completely. Taller and generally bigger women are popular."

Datig said it might be the "Mac West" influence.

Bruin Coach Schedules Season's First Track Workout

Missouri Valley And California Cagers Gain Semi-Final Round

Three Lettermen Form Nucleus Of Squad For 1935

First Cinder Path Practice to Be Held Next Monday If Weather Permits, R. V. Jones Announces

As winter continues to cover Lincoln field with a blanket of white, spiked shoes cast of the track and field are scheduled to clear a path beginning Monday, if the plans of R. V. Jones, Twin Falls high school mentor, go through unimpeded. The 1935 track season is ready for its initial unveiling.

Following announcement yesterday by W. B. Smith, superintendent of schools, that Jones would again assume the post of head track coach, the Bruin tutor said that workouts would begin Monday, weather permitting.

In an effort to recapture laurels last won in 1929 when the Twin Falls men won the state title, Jones sets about his work with three lettermen from last year's squad ready for the gun. These three are Ted Crockett in the pole vault, Barton Northing in the sprints and hurdles, and Elmer Mallon in the javelin and broad jump.

Expect Heavy Turnout Jones, however, expects a heavy turnout and said that while his squad will be composed mostly of green and inexperienced material, he has several boys who have shown up well in past years and may turn out to be record breakers. Of these the most likely candidates are Jack Long and Clyde Douglas in the half-mile run, Glen Ezzert in the mile, and Pete Smith in the hurdles, sprints and broad jump.

In the meantime, Jones is spending some little time in search for a high jump artist who can also toes the weights.

Art Lasky Rules Favorite in Bout With Aging Boxer

Classy Minneapolis Fighter and Veteran James I. Braddock Stage Third Duel in Garden Series

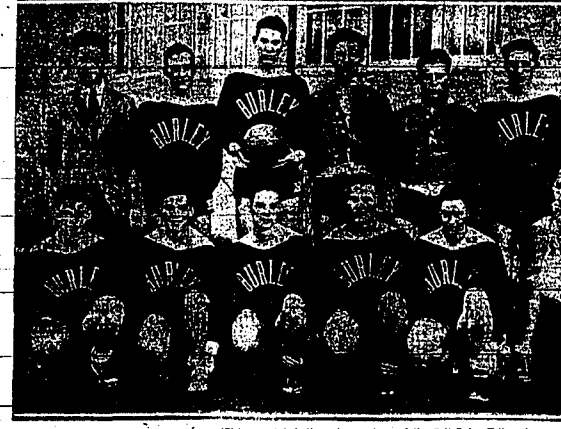

By EDDIE BELTZ (Associated Press Sports Writer) NEW YORK, March 21 (AP)—Another heat in Madison Square Garden's new and hooped-out elimination tournament will be run off tomorrow night with Art Lasky of Minneapolis and the veteran James I. Braddock tangling in a 15-rounder.

The 45 only third move in the tournament inaugurated more than five months ago with the idea of retiring a contender for Max Baer's title. Steve Hamas, former Penn State collegian, won a 17-bout decision over Lasky in the opener and then paralyzed his title chances by going all the way to a 10-rounder with the latter to a 10-rounder to take the title. Lasky, however, did a rough but thorough job of eliminating Ray Impellitteri in the first round.

Speedy Flannery vs. Slagter: "Tomorrow night's engagement promises to be a battle between a speedy, smooth-working puncher who can take punishment and a two-fisted slugger with one of the hardest rights in modern ring history. Lasky rules a favorite because of his ring polish and general boxing ability. He admits that if the aging Braddock, who was in his heyday ten years ago, ever connects solidly, that right is to be good night for the opposition.

Braddock's showing in his training camp caused Lasky's odds to be shortened from 7 to 5 to 4 1/2 to 2 to 1 today. The Garden will try to match Carnera with the winner.

Steve Hamas Punches Former Crown Prince

By GUENTHER O. BEUKERT (Associated Press Foreign Staff)

BERLIN, March 21 (AP)—Steve Hamas, who today is a living, and ex-Crown Prince—Wolheim, to whom boxing is a hobby, engaged in a bout today—the former to show he has recovered from his beating by Max Schmeling in the latter to prove he can take his own medicine.

The match was held in a beautiful palace, opiate with porcelain, rich with tapestries, on Berlin's famous boulevard, Unter Den Linden. The palace now serves the Hohenzollerns as an official residence.

Steve, head-bank in exile but otherwise apparently entirely recovered after ten days' rest in a sanitarium outside Berlin, spoke of his meeting with the ex-crown prince and their boxing bout as "working."

"Inquires About Health" The royal sportsman welcomed the American in the lobby of his sumptuous dwelling. The prince inquired solicitously about Steve's health and asked him to sign a letter to the American in the lobby of his sumptuous dwelling.

"Then followed hours of conversation with Hamas about boxing and sport in general. This led to more direct action. The prince jumped up, rolled up his sleeves to show his biceps, then hurt a challenge in ringing tones. "Punch me there," he said, pointing to the solar plexus.

Hamas, smiling the episode afterward, asserted he had given the prince "my hardest punch, right in the belly."

"Of course it wasn't as hard as some of those I gave Schmeling," the American added. "You see I'm not in training now."

"The prince, Hamas said, seemed satisfied with the demonstration. Steve Corsetta Prince Addressing the boxer in perfect English, the former crown prince called him "Mister Hamas" but the American corrected him once.

"My name Steve," said the fighter and "Mister Steve" he was henceforth.

"Mister Steve, you ought to have a chance to fight him again in Germany," said the prince, referring to the possibility of a return bout between Hamas and Schmeling.

"That's what I'm hoping for," replied Steve. "I think I can lick Schmeling if he hit him once."

Wilhelm democratically helped the Americans into their overcoats and wished them "good luck." "I hope I see you again," on their departure. Hamas plans to leave for Paris tomorrow.

Pennsylvania Golfer Plays Flawless Game to Shatter Bar

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 21 (AP)—Henry Picard today cracked for the second successive day and moved into a two-stroke lead over the field in the $2,000 Charleston open golf tournament.

The Hershey, Pa., professional finished flawless golf for 69 which, with his opening 66, gave him a total of 135 and a two-stroke advantage over Harry Cooper of Chicago who stepped into the challenger's position with a scintillating 67 after his first round 72.

Johnnie Newell of Milwaukee, who matched Picard's round on the opening day, found trouble on the second and slipped to a 73.

Harold McSpaden of Kansas City hit his second 70 and moved into second place with a total of 140 as Willy Cox of Brooklyn, who opened with a 70, slid to a 74.

Campbell Quits Daytona Beach

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 21 (AP)—Sir Malcolm Campbell's speed Arago ended today—successful as far as records are concerned—after a complete workout for the man who will never rest until he has set an automobile at the rate of 300 miles an hour.

He walked along Daytona's sands where Marvin T. he sent his mighty "Thunderbolt" to a new world record of 278.81 miles an hour and shook his head for the last time this season.

"It's no use," he said. "The beach is just right. Pack up old Lady Durrant and let's go home."

So tonight his mechanics were pulling the gallant thunder-wagon apart, after seven discouraging, often hazardous weeks here crating and packing her tires and accessories for the trip back to England and then a month's delay in the light-problem that she never will run again on this beach, regardless of what Campbell does about speed records in the future.

This trip has convinced the 50-year-old titled Briton of several things—and the most important is that there are definite limits to the speed that can be accomplished on a sand beach.

National League Talk Swings To Terrymen

Brilliant Array of Players Combined with Fighting Spirit in 1935 Giants

By EDWARD J. NEILL (Associated Press Sports Writer) MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 21 (AP)—Take the finest all-around pitching staff in the National League, back it up with sturdy if not brilliant catching, a glittering infield, a swift roving outfield, mix with oodles of fighting spirit—and the answer should come close to describing the 1935 champions.

Think of the New York Giants this season, and Bill Terry says the answer is—the champions.

Whenever you go in the southland, among the baseball pastures, National League talk swings instantly to Terry's Terriers, the club of destiny in 1935 conquering the Washington Senators for the world championship, the team that blew a nice game lead in 1934 and personally held open the door for the recent world series triumph of Frankie Frisch and his Cardinals.

At great cost, and with all the courage and sacrifice of John McGraw, Terry has plastered up during the past winter the holes in the dyes that let last year's pennant slip through.

He got the shortstop he's been acting for—Pepper, scrappy Dick Bakula—from the Phillies and with him he brought back George (Kid) Davis, whom he frankly admitted he

MINE STOCK BUYER CHARGES SWINDLE

Gordon Stuart Faces Prosecution for Alleged Fraud

Accused of accepting $250 from Crawford Ott last August 22 for stock in a mine that he assertedly represented was his property, Gordon Stuart was arraigned before Judge Guy L. Kinney in the probate court here yesterday on a felony charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. He called for preliminary hearing, which was set for next Tuesday, and furnished $1000 bond to secure his appearance at the hearing.

The complaint asserted that Stuart claimed to be the owner of the Morrison City mine when he induced the complaining witness to pay $250 for 500 shares of stock in a company he was forming to develop the property. It was ascertained later, the complaint said, that Stuart was not the owner of the property and that the stock was worthless.

William P. Boehlke and Henry G. Schaefer furnished Stuart's bond.

DAMAGES AWARDED MOTORCYCLE RIDER

District Court Jury Takes Vacation After Returning Verdict

District court jurors were excused until next Monday at the opening of the court day yesterday when a jury returned its verdict after all-night deliberations, awarding $1500 damages to K. D. Hodge, former member of the United States navy, from W. W. Holmgren, on account of injury to his arm that he received when the motorcycle he was riding assertedly collided with Holmgren's truck on Addison avenue, east of Twin Falls, on October 18, 1932. Hodge sued for $20,000 damages.

He alleged the truck, without warning, turned suddenly across the road in front of the motorcycle.

Witnesses in Hodge's behalf included his former shipmate, L. W. Morris, who was riding with Hodge on the motorcycle when the accident occurred, and who came back from San Diego to testify at the trial this week.

On motion by defendant's attorney, Judge Adam B. Barclay granted a motion for judgment on the verdict, and Hodge contended, was jointly liable for the damages.

POTATO GROWERS SUE UPON DEALER'S BOND

J. Chambers and F. A. Meteler started suit in the district court here yesterday to recover $1500.07 from the Idaho Sales company of Kimberly on its produce dealer's bond on account of alleged failure to fulfill a contract to purchase 18 1/2 carloads of potatoes in June, 1932. Named by the company as a defendant is Lewis W. Ensign, receiver for the National Surety company, which wrote the produce dealer's bond.

The complaint asserts that the Sales company agreed to purchase 18 1/2 carloads of potatoes, and accepted and shipped five carloads, but refused to take 10 1/2 carloads. On account of lateness of the season, the complaint says, the potatoes could not be sold after they were turned down by the Sales company. Chambers and Chapman are attorneys for Chambers and Meteler.
