LEADERS OF ECONOMY URGED BY LEADERS OF L. O. S. CHURCH

Conference Hears Advice to Stop Spending for Liquor and Tobacco, and to 'Keep Out of Debt'

SALT LAKE CITY, April 6.—Plea to stop spending money for liquor and tobacco and 'keep out of debt' were sounded by officials of the Latter Day Saints church at its annual conference in the tabernacle here today.

Reed Sinott, a member of the council of Twelve Apostles and for 20 years church president of the Utah district, urged members of the church to 'live within our means' while Don B. Colton, former church president and now president of the Eastern states mission of the church, described the expense of liquor, tobacco, and coffee in the 'starting'.

U. S. Condition 'Starting' Mr. Sinott termed the present condition of the national government as 'starting' but added he was not criticizing or flogging fault with what had already been done.

It is hard to keep out of debt, the former senator told a large gathering of church members, unless we live within our means and keep out of debt we cannot expect to have peace of mind and happiness in the home.

Turning to national problems, Mr. Sinott called attention to a federal report showing $2,750,000,000 in national debt while at the same time the national debt had increased from $200,000,000 at the close of the world war to nearly $2,000,000,000 at the present time.

It never dawns that following the world war this government went to bed within our means and as this he declared, 'Unless the providence of God intervenes this present debt situation will lead to utter chaos.'

Amelia Repenstien He assailed foreign nations who have failed to pay their debts and declared 'Neither a dollar in anyone in this audience will be seen in the next morning unless he has paid his debt.'

New Deal's Shortcomings Charged Against F. D. R.

ROANOKE, Va., April 6.—A direct attack upon President Roosevelt was made by the Hon. J. P. Dickson, public leader, Senator J. P. Dickson of Iowa, with a declaration that the 'shortcomings of the new deal' were being charged to the brain trust.

His direct arraignment of the Democratic line of attack against the state that degraded the Democratic ranks to being to Herbert Hoover in 1928, pointed out a number of times that fees of the new deal swung from attack upon that line to place responsibility for what he termed the failure, upon Mr. Roosevelt.

Those in favor of such a course have argued that the present has been every day of the new deal in any event if a campaign is to be effective it must be directed at the brain trust.

Asked in the national capital whether he had aspirations for the Republican presidential nomination in 1936, he was quoted as replying: 'I have nothing to say. I am going to seek re-election to the senate. Anything that happens along national lines will have to be over and above that ambition. My fate is in the hands of the Republican party.'

INCREASE SHOWN IN BANK DEPOSITS

Federal Officials Report Three Billion Dollar Rise in Half-Year

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—A three billion dollar increase in bank deposits in the last six months of 1934 was disclosed today by officials of the federal deposit insurance corporation.

The corporation gave no explanation of the increase in deposits but persons familiar with banking and business trends contended it was due largely to heavy government expenditures for emergency purposes.

Total bank deposits in the United States on December 31 were put at slightly less than $50,000,000,000. The corporations reported that deposits of $3,994,264,000 on the date in the 14,135 insured banks.

Mortimer J. Fox, chief statistician of the corporation, estimated deposits of mutual savings banks, not included in the report, amounted to $1,000,000,000 while the 1,000 insured banks had deposits of $500,000,000.

Total of $49,994,264,000 compared with a total of $46,972,119,000 on June 30, last, for all banks, as reported by the auditing corporation in his last annual report.

Insured bank deposits rose $1,200,000,000, while bank deposits jumped $1,000,000,000.

"An important factor in these increases was the year-end accumulation of checks deposited but not yet collected," said Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the corporation.

Total cash and funds due from banks rose 20 per cent during that period. Banks increased their holdings of government securities by $1,400,000,000 or 14 per cent.

There was also an increase in "other securities" held of $250,000,000 or four per cent. As compared with the mid-year figure loans and discounts were reduced by $800,000,000, a drop of four per cent.

The statement showed stock purchases were made in 5400 of the insured banks by the reconstruction finance corporation. These purchases amounted to $82,200,000.

"CLOUDS"

By LOUISE KREGEL

Polly giggled happily out into the June sunshine. She was glad that it was warm; the feel of the sun slipping into her hair and through her clothes and all over, and about her made her want to sing, and she did. It was a queer little thing of her own making, without much of a tune except a little hummel, melody, but she always sang it when she was happy. The wind blew merrily about her, and she went down the lane, dancing and whirling, pretending she was a wind fairy.

MILLIONS BY THE THOUSAND

The biggest appropriation in the history of government in America, four billion, eight hundred million dollars, will shortly be available for government expenditure in a final effort to bring to a close one of the most disastrous depressions to which this or any other country has ever been subjected.

The amount is staggering. Four thousand eight hundred millions constitute a sum which is comprehensible only on paper. It means, literally, millions by the thousand. This gigantic amount will be poured into the avenues of trade and commerce by various means. Direct relief will claim a part, public works projects of all kinds will be organized to provide a means for spending a few thousand millions more.

There is little room for doubt but what the programme will lead an impetus to business which will be felt in every avenue of activity. Money should become distinctly cheaper, which is to say that retail prices will rise along with commodity prices.

But it must be remembered that government today is travelling in uncharted seas and the end of the voyage is not yet in sight.

THERE IS A CHANCE

Out of the billions now rendered available for public works projects some millions will in all probability be spent for the establishment of a military airfield and equipment somewhere north of Salt Lake City and probably not farther west than Boise.

The army programme with respect to development of air forces as a part of a secondary line of defense which will pass somewhere close to Twin Falls, calls for the establishment of an air depot with accommodations for a concentration of aircraft. Such a depot would include hangars, repair shops, hospital facilities and barracks.

It is impossible to offer a prediction as to the probable location of such a depot but there are a number of points which lend strength to the idea that the Twin Falls country is apt to be accorded serious consideration. Within a few miles of this city it is possible to secure land in every way suited to such purpose and where there are no natural obstacles.

It may be months or years before there are tangible developments in connection with the project but it seems altogether likely that eventually the army programme will be carried out. Anything which can be done to focus attention upon the advantages of this section for such a project is quite apt to prove of value when the matter comes up for final action.

AIR MAIL REGULATION

A bill now being considered in Congress would authorize the Interstate Commerce Commission to fix air mail rates and to Increase them up to a maximum of 20 per cent above those now in effect. It would make the rate-of-pay findings of the Commission effective as of March 1, 1935, thereby offering promptly much-needed financial relief. The bill also seeks to prevent the paralleling of existing air-mail routes by lines not having air-mail contracts on those routes. It would give the power of cancelling contracts to the Interstate Commerce Commission, to be used only after due hearings.

Sensible regulation of this business is greatly needed. The volume of our air mail is increasing rapidly. In December, 1934, the amount carried was 41.72 per cent more than in December, 1933. The total poundage was the heaviest for any single month in air mail history.

Further legislation will be necessary to put the business on a really sound basis, but the bill in Congress is considered a step in the right direction and is approved by a majority of the air-line.

PHILATELIC FARLEY

The now historic imperator stamp gifts of Mr. Farley reveal the postmaster general as the best salesman the department has ever boasted. Mr. Farley, like his predecessors, is regarded as a politician first and a postmaster general afterward.

The present postoffice administration has gone in far more heavily for commemorative issues than any other of its predecessors. It is estimated that the department has issued more than 100 commemorative stamps since Roosevelt went in and Farley took over. Stamp album makers have had to go in heavily for the loose-leaf system.

A white back we thought Mr. Farley ought to resign. Now we are not so sure but that he ought to be retained for a few more years. He has done a good and faithful servant. Especially well done are the stamp collectors.

IN THE NEWS AGAIN

It's a poor year in Idaho when the state asylum at Blackfoot doesn't break in on the front page at least once. This year is no exception.

For some reason, this institution is in a class by itself for its record of scandals, abuses and improper provision for inmates. It is our recollection that $100,000 was appropriated two years ago for a new building there to meet the crowded conditions and this structure is now in use.

This time conditions are said to be so appalling that an epidemic of typhoid is feared. And if newspaper stories of the conditions there are accurate, there is ample reason to be concerned.

There is no adequate fire protection at the nearest fire plug is 1200 feet from the new building and that the water supply in the structure itself isn't adequate to flush the toilets. What might happen under these conditions in the event of a night fire is so staggering that it defies imagination.

WASHINGTON By George Durso POLICY. Washington political observers for the most part agree that President Roosevelt's New Deal will finally make or break on administration of the $4,800,000,000 work-relief bill.

It will spending of the huge sum proceed along the same slow and careful lines Secretary Ickes has laid down so far. FWA or will there be a flurry of fast spending designed to get as many men in jobs at once as possible regardless of the merits of the work done?

CLUB. Continuation in the lumber industry resulting from the government's retreat creates a critical problem of a different sort. For many months those who have consistently violated the code have mostly been operating in the black.

BREAKDOWN. If you observe Congress in action these days, and then talk privately to members, you can hardly escape the conclusion that the system is once more about to be "investigated."

A great many members profess to be in a whirl over the increasing magnitude of the New Deal setup. They protest they are being overruled. If by nomination and waiting unprecedented influx of mail dealing with a myriad of subjects.

BLOCKED. Senator Wagner goes away on his labor dispute bill. He is a member of the Federal Reserve Board. He is knocking the bill, claiming that it turns over all industry to the Federal Reserve Board.

The truth is that organized labor is deeply distressed, disturbed with the administration, and waiting for a favorable opportunity to strike. Better times would precipitate a strike.

NEW YORK—Marion Hopkins seems always to make the town a little happier when she returns to her quaint old house at No. 13 Sutton.

Her capacity for happiness is infinite. She can laugh at anything. For example, she is supposed to be recuperating from pneumonia. Well, now, but she says, "I'll wager I had only a bad cold. Pneumonia sounds dreadful and the doctor got me easily cured. After a few days I'll send you a big bill for it."

Guiding Your Child

By ALICE CLARIBIA RICHMOND

DISILLUSIONED Mrs. Jones was an eastern woman who, after marriage, settled in a midwestern town.

His feelings when he finally went to the city were not very different from those of the young man who had just been discharged from the army.

The tastes of adults and children differed in the matter of individuality very so widely, that it is generally unwise to fill a child with eager anticipation of something which he will not receive.

It is a good plan not to over-stimulate the child's imagination with dreams of future events which may or may not come up to his expectations.

TOM KOTO DIES AT JEROME HOME

Veteran Southern Idaho Restaurant Owner Summoned

JEROME, April 6.—Tom Koto, 50, Jerome resident since 1930 and restaurant proprietor for Twin Falls and Jerome since 1908, died at the family home in Jerome Friday evening about 11:30 o'clock, following a short illness.

Koto was perhaps the most widely known restaurant owner in this part of the state. He was born in Japan and came to the United States in 1906. He operated the restaurant known as Tom's cafe in Twin Falls until 1920, when he came to Jerome and established a similar business. Although he has been ill on different occasions during the past two years, his death came as a surprise.

Surviving are his wife, Kie, of Jerome; three children, Tom, Jr., and Ernest, both of Jerome, and James, of Los Angeles; a brother, Earl, of Buhl, and a brother, Tom, now in Japan, who was for some years connected with the restaurant in Twin Falls; a sister, Mrs. Tom Tokuyasu, of Los Angeles, and two sisters residing in Japan.

The daughter, June, of Angeles, and his sister, Mrs. Tom Tokuyasu, also of Los Angeles, are expected to arrive in Jerome later this week to attend the funeral, details of which has not been arranged. The body rests at the Jerome funeral chapel.

GREAT RICHES

By Michael H. Farnham

SYNOPSIS: James and Jane were the beginning of their married life, although both had had mistresses, before the ceremony. But after two years there have arisen definite points of difference for one thing, Jane looks the youthful spirit of her mother; for another, James is a little weary of so much of Jane's family, "the wealthy Northrup family," with a new "thingy" and comparative calm, both James and Jane are in good spirits.

Chapter 31 CELEBRATION

At the end of their second year of married bliss James and Jane gave a little dinner to celebrate the occasion. As was usual at Jane's dinners everything was beautifully and elaborately done.

There were squabs, champagne, a new handbag called an article which nobody but Jane knew how to eat. The artichokes were the hit of the party, though the ice cream in the shape of wedding rings made quite a sensation.

Nappy with great grace and ceremony opened the front door and welcomed on each side Jane's mother and three of the available bridesmaids their made over primrose frocks. The guests were almost hysterically gay (due perhaps to the champagne).

Jane was in great form and told some of her funniest stories and everyone agreed afterwards that it was a wonderful party—everyone, that is, except James.

On James' right. "How do you like it, Jane?"

"Has James grown a moustache? I never noticed."

Some of the women and Jane's wives and daughters of various small towns and county representatives who had been present at the reception in Topeka given by the wife of the governor, which Jane attended with James.

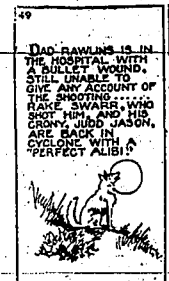

James during this recital, squirmed and giggled, coughed and tried unsuccessfully to change the subject. Some of the women were mentioning by name were names of men who wielded enormous political influence men who were making the greatest trouble to him as friends.

James win as his mind then and James never had taken the greatest trouble to him again—if he could get out of it. He was relieved and glad when the little dinner party was ended and the guests were gone.

And If You Want The Best Advice

is composed of hundreds of parts that are constantly subjected to strain, friction, vibration and heat. If any single part becomes worn or out of adjustment during such treatment, it cuts down your motor efficiency and economy. Trouble and repair bills follow.

Your Brakes...

are the most important of all the safety devices on your car. Without attention, they naturally wear out or become rusted and clogged. After that you are taking chances every time you drive. You will not be equipped for emergencies or even regular traffic driving.

Your Fenders...

You will be pleasantly surprised at what our body man can do with those bent, crumpled fenders. The cost, too, is surprisingly low. Bring your car in and let him give you an estimate on the cost. It may save you buying a new set of fenders for your car.

Other Parts...

on your car, such as springs, ignition and lighting system, radiator, steering, transmission, clutch, differential, and lubrication... all need regular attention if you are to get the most in performance, the easiest of riding and the maximum economy out of your car.

P. T. A. GROUPS GIVE ACCOUNTING

Associated Charities Funds Expanded in Diversified Channels

Parent-Teacher associations of Twin Falls have given funds from the Associated Charities for many worthy activities, according to a joint report from the four associations, recently submitted to the Associated Charities board.

Twin Falls junior-senior high school Parent-Teacher association has conducted a fair project throughout the year as part of the health program. Pupils of all schools are eligible. A woman supervisor, assisted by an efficient high school nurse, has been in charge of the project. In addition to paying these charities, the association has purchased soap, disinfectant, wash cloths and towels and has paid the laundry bills. Bales are given three days each week throughout the school year to pupils who do not have the sanitary facilities at home.

The funds were used to provide meat, fruit and candy and wearing apparel for the baskets distributed at Christmas; for X-ray plates in connection with tuberculin tests; for glasses and eye corrections; for dental work on children whose parents could not afford this service; for pencils and paper for junior high school pupils; and for 88 yards of cloth for the distribution of 222 sets of a study group. The cloth was made into wearing apparel.

Basket portions of the Community Chest, appropriation helped to provide milk for pupils after the Edwatts project had concluded; for 266 lunches, including sandwiches; for clothing at the time the 1222 was inoperative; and for part-time payment of the lunch cook during that period.

Lincoln school, through similar funds provided hot lunches; provided eye corrections for four children and purchased seven pairs of shoes. The hot lunch program of the Washington school was carried out with funds from the Associated Charities.
