FRANCE CALLS FOR SUPPORT OF DRIVE TO PREVENT ARMAMENT

Unexpected Demand Brings Clash of Opinion Between Delegations at Inaugural Sessions of Stresa Talks

(By The Associated Press) A French effort to get united support for her appeal to the League of Nations against Germany's rearmament produced differences of opinion at Stresa yesterday.

German officials voiced the opinion the Stresa conference already was killed. The proposed Franco-Russian mutual assistance pact... to keep 600,000 men under arms for the present have killed hopes for Stresa.

Germany Demands Equality A German foreign office spokesman, who said his summary of conditions for Germany's participation in future security and disarmament negotiations represented "the absolute official policy of Adolf Hitler," asserted that Germany would take part only if she is assured complete arms equality.

Matching Armaments BERLIN—The foreign office official said: "If the others want heavy guns, we want heavy guns. If the others want bombing planes, if the others cut their armaments, we will cut, too."

PARIS—Official quarters said the Little Entente nations, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Rumania, as well as Turkey and Greece had approved the principle of the Franco-Russian pact.

MOBOWCOW—The official Russian news agency said that the Russian government had received reports that France and Russia had reached an agreement in principle on the Stresa declaration. It said, it would be concluded "in the very near future."

WALKER—Barlow, Amastillo, grain elevator operator, estimates the wheat crop damage in the Texas Panhandle is between $18,000,000 and $20,000,000 based on current prices.

Express Train Hits Maryland School Bus; 13 Known Death Toll

Railroads Spend Millions to Keep Out Dust, Heat Impact Instantly Follows Whistle's Scream

(By The Associated Press) ROCKVILLE, Md., April 12 (Friday)—An express train last night crashed into a school bus, bringing a death toll estimated by police at 13.

Physicians and police placed the known death toll shortly after the accident at 13, but the Baltimore offices of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, whose train was involved, announced the death list was between 19 and 23.

Through Rain and Fog The wrecking train said it and fog made visibility low. Police reported the view of the crossing normally was good.

The injured were rushed to George Washington, D. C. hospital, while others made ready to treat more. "Twenty-eight pupils of the Williamsport, Maryland, high school, the driver, and Miss Louise Funk, a teacher, were on the train."

WRECKAGE CRYED FOR The train, eastbound from St. Louis, caught the wreckage of the bus and carried it about a mile before it could be stopped. Railroad men said the train was not derailed and was proceeding to Washington.

Search for Bodies Many rushed to the scene, carrying lanterns and flashlights, searching for the mangled bodies strewn along the tracks to a quarter of a mile.

All rescue squads in the county were called out as the search was carried on in a drizzling rain. The injured and dying children were rushed to various nearby hospitals.

Bodies Badly Mutilated A Rockville physician said shortly after midnight that the bodies of six boys and three girls "about 14

Setback for Townsend Plan Marks Stormy Launching of New Deal Security Program

Public Works Looms As National Fixture Harsh Words Traded In House Debate On Gage Rule

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, April 11—A row in which harsh words were exchanged, a peace-making which ended in flat-tory, and a stunning old-age pension bill which may start the administration's social security bill through the house.

When the turmoil was over, a leading advocate of the Townsend plan—Representative McCreary (D-Calif.)—virtually conceded defeat.

How Over Gage Rule The row over whether "gag rule" was being applied. Leaders said, with vehemence, it was not; those favoring liberalization of the administration bill argued, as strongly that it was.

The debate waxed so vigorous that Chairman Clegg of the Rules committee, one of the Democratic leaders, turned out in the face and shouted "order" to the speaker, Representative Monaghan (D-Mont.), who was making a demagogic speech for his constituents on the Townsend plan.

BURLEY, April 11 (Special To The News)—Apparently worried over family affairs, Mrs. Margaret Mercer, 50, wife of Howard Mercer, Burley merchant, sought "death for herself" and year-old daughter in the family garage here early this evening. They were overcome by carbon monoxide fumes.

CROP LOSS MOUNTS IN HARRIED AREA

Dust Storms Spread Devastation in Parts of Four States

(By The Associated Press) Out of the choking clouds which still hung like a pestilence over thousands of square miles in the Southeastern United States, a few rays of light were seen in the driving spot of big dust storms—reports emerged Thursday night of rapidly mounting losses in wheat, "the money crop."

Piece by piece the gloomy picture came from the areas where the storm concentrated—southern Colorado, southwestern Kansas, northwestern Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle.

AAA Takes Hand A.A.A. was hampered in part by the dust element. The big wheat area of north central Kansas maintained its favor and the AAA officials here held hopes in the northwestern part of states.

At Washington, the AAA ruled plans for full benefit payments to drought-harassed farmers who plant no wheat. In the grain markets, wheat rose nearly four cents.

Wheat—Barlow, Amastillo, grain elevator operator, estimates the wheat crop damage in the Texas Panhandle is between $18,000,000 and $20,000,000 based on current prices.

LIGHTS AND SHADOWS In Day's Events

FOUR-BL Whiskey—Whisky at 50 cents a pint will be placed on sale at Oregon liquor stores today, Adm. Frank Jack Allen announced last night.

The working man has asked for a deeper grade of whisky and we have reduced the alcohol content of our own brand, 25 per cent, Allen said.

ORLAND COULDEE DAM, Wash.—Ninety-four years old and claiming to be the oldest lumber on any PWA project in the country, Charles P. Daskam went about his work at the Grand Coulee damsite yesterday as spry, using his own words, "As a 29-year-old."

San Francisco, April 11 (AP)—Silver miners jubilate over U.S. price advance

Silver Miners Jubilate Over U.S. Price Advance

SAN FRANCISCO, April 11 (AP)—Silver mine areas took a "new interest" in life today under the stimulus of the overnight 8 1/2 cent boost in the government's price for the newly mined white metal.

Ghost towns from the Sierra to the Rockies and from the Canadian border to Mexican line stirred hopefully. Miners danced with jubilation. Some of the old-time glint returned to the eyes of hard-bitten silvermen in Tonopah, Nevada, some saloons were closed and "the house" was to celebrate the event.

Mining and metal stocks turned over as the price advanced. Exchanges from New York to San Francisco, silver mine operators predicted a further upsurge of the already awakening industry.

Exponents of silver as a monetary factor hailed the move as heralding the "broadening and strengthening" of the nation's credit structure.

Peace Of Europe May Hinge On Stresa Conference

ROME, April 11 (AP)—The peace of Europe in the balance, the leading diplomatic representatives of England, France and Italy were to meet at Stresa, Italy, to determine what action to take in answer to Germany's violation of the Versailles treaty.

The conversation appeared likely to be dominated by the right about the conference. The Italian foreign secretary, Fulvio Sita, Italian under secretary for foreign affairs, Pierre Laval, French foreign minister, and Sir John Simon, British foreign minister, were to be present.

Roosevelt's 'Contact Men' Push New Deal's Program

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—He then attended the last White House conference that President Roosevelt had with congressional leaders before his bill was brought to the house floor, and today there were indications that more would be put on the job.

Officially, West works for the PWA credit work. Reports were that another man might be put on the job to represent Roosevelt in the mind of President Roosevelt—to talk over privately with the members of the House of Representatives in the hope that the controversial AAA amendments might be put through.

Much mystified by some of its features, the junior high school student body attended a program of scientific demonstrations and stunts presented by the Twin Falls High School Science club Wednesday afternoon. A delegation from the Pine-high school science club also viewed the experiments which were the second presentation of the local club. They appeared previously in a high school assembly program.

Following introductory remarks by the advisor, J. E. Tomlin, and the club president, Delbert Robinson, a human skull on the stage took charge of the program. The skull which was surrounded by stencils, announced all of the numbers. A public address system and a club member, Jack Pence, behind stage made the effect possible. First announced was a stenciled opinion lecture on "astronomy" by Robert Nelson. Dick Powell gave the next lecture on the microscope, illustrating by making a revolving disk appear to stand still.

Daniel Langenwaller demonstrated simple chemistry in the use of acids and bases to change colors in a phenolphthalein solution. Next by the use of a formula including hydrogen and oxygen, a gas was produced which will contribute $125 for that purpose. This is the second scout of Buhl's quota of three to be cared for, the American Legion having made arrangements for the first boy.

The Rotary club also decided to hold its annual meeting at Castleford the last week in May. About 12 couples from the Buhl club are planning to attend an "electricity" dinner dance at Declo, April 17.

INTERESTING LEGISLATION

The Wisconsin assembly has just passed a bill forcing restaurants to serve butter and cheese with every meal costing twenty-five cents or more. This, of course, was done in the hope of boosting prices of dairy products. Farmers of the state specialize in these commodities.

If enacted it will be interesting to see how such a measure affects the dairy industry and whether the idea will not be broadened to include various other commodities. Quite conceivably growers of other types of produce may demand similar laws to stimulate a demand for their wares.

Idaho farmers, for instance, might launch a movement in behalf of potatoes, beans and sugar as well as dairy foods while poultry raisers could insist upon cage owners serving eggs to patrons at every meal. Within the bounds of possibility, too, would be a request for horticulturists for the dispensing of various forms of fruit.

More elaborate menus would, of course, mean higher prices for meals. If restaurant patronage did not dwindle as a result the plan might have merit by increasing producers' incomes and buying power.

YOUTHFUL PUNISHMENT

That old-fashioned methods of punishment still wield a potent influence on youthful behavior was proved the other day when a Los Angeles man gave his twenty-year-old son a spanking and received the boy's promise never to drink liquor again.

Haled into court on a drunkenness charge the youth was given his choice of a jail sentence or a public spanking administered by his parents. However, when the parent told the jurist he had already inflicted corporal punishment in private the matter was dropped. The boy promised to be good and as long as he keeps that pledge he will be safe from the law.

All through history corporal punishment, especially when inflicted publicly, has held considerable terror for victims. In Colonial days culprits were flogged before crowds at the whipping post. Usually one dose was enough. Few repeated an offense. The humiliation and disgrace attendant to such events, which often had wife beaters as central characters, were almost beyond the limit of human endurance. Even private whippings seem to bring results nowadays.

STARVATION DIET

It's a deplorable situation expounded by Anna Steese Richardson to a reporter the other day.

"From the beaches of Florida to the mountains of Washington," she declared, "the majority of middle-aged women have starved until they are just ugly, haggard skeletons. Doctors try to tell women get that way from smoking and drinking, but they can't make me believe it. The trouble is dieting. Women who have either social or matrimonial ambitions starve because husbands or admirers don't like them fat."

The critic probably exaggerates a little. (Who can say honestly that most of the middle-aged women we see are "just ugly, haggard skeletons"? Yet there is a tendency that way—and it's a great pity, in what it does to women's health and women's looks. It's also a pity what such artificial starvation does to the food industry, and especially to the farmers in these times when they need their full, normal market. There are many women, sad to say, who can't afford to eat enough nourishing food. If those who could afford it would do it, business tempers and health would all be better.

FRANK HOOPER'S SPEECH

Gov. Hooper's speech continues to find favor among his auditors in a mystery which we cannot solve. His Honolulu address Friday evening so shot through with incongruities that it seems no member of his audience could be so unfamiliar with current events in Idaho to fail to detect them.

The Governor's fiscal statement is $100,000,000 per month. Without discussing the question as to whether this sum could not have been provided from other sources—indeed, it was ever necessary—it is worth recalling that Governor Ross said at Honolulu that the sales tax was "forced" upon him. And yet, shortly after he had made this statement, he introduced a sales tax which would provide the state with $1,500,000 of net revenue annually. How can you reconcile his declaration that the sales tax was absolutely necessary with his next declaration that the new income tax will raise enough alone to provide for regular payments for the cash, again?

If Idaho did not have to furnish money for relief purposes, the sales tax could make it so the ad valorem levy would be $5,000,000 less. The Governor knows a great deal more about mathematics than Blain if he thinks that 1,500,000 from the sales tax for relief will displace $5,000,000. That's fifth or sixth dimension figuring.

Anyhow, Idaho never has had a five million dollar ad valorem levy. Here's the record, dating back to 1927:

1927 levy per biennium.....$4,700,000.00
1929 levy per biennium.....4,800,000.00
1931 levy per biennium.....4,600,000.00

Of course, half a million is hardly worth mentioning. The Governor himself has talked glibly about "saving" a million and nobody ever has been able to find it.

Moreover, he has apparently had in mind that the institution of a sales tax for ad valorem levies is something further to give us pause. Elimination of the ad valorem levy will mean that the railroads, the telephone companies, and other utilities will escape without taxation in Idaho. The only tax they pay is on property.

(Portland Oregonian)

Shakespeare observed in his time that music had charms to soothe the savage breast. And human nature has not changed since then. Indeed, no incident of recent weeks has done more to break the international tension than that managed at the railroad station at Moscow when Gwalter Anthony Eden, stooped with the white man's burden, alighted for his conference with Stalin and Litvinoff.

We do not know whether it was an order from some clever fellow in the Kremlin, or the bandmaster's inspiration of the moment, but anyhow, when the band completed "God Save the King" and "The International" it broke into a march to the "Big Bad Wolf" and a chuckle ran through the world.

A band can accomplish much at such psychological moments—a fact of which there is a nice example in our own history.

John Brown, when Cornwallis felt compelled to surrender the British army to the combined American and French forces, he and his officers complained of the terms offered. These terms were that the army should march out of the fortifications with colors caed and that the bands should not play French or American tunes. The American and French negotiators explained that the British army had marched through the British when they captured the American forces at Charleston, refused to permit the Americans to play British or German music.

So when the proud army of the British marched out between the ranks of the ragged Continental Army and the British, they heard "The World Turned Upside Down." It was an adroit choice, was that of the sordid band at the Moscow station.

WORDS TO FLOWERSHARES

(Lawton Tribune)

Larry Johnson, 31, of Volin, South Dakota, did not need a crippled pair of legs nor an inverted stomach to get his general attention. All he did was ask for a team of horses at the fair. His younger brother could help their dad run his heavily-mortgaged farm.

It happened that Larry wrote the war department to see if you have an old team of artillery horses, that are too old to be of any use that you could give away. Not long afterwards Private John A. Nelson, of battery D, third field artillery, delivered to him Reno and Judge, the gift of a number of officers and men of the field artillery, and which Larry claims are "beasts."

Larry's father's farm is not the only heavily-mortgaged ranch in the country nor is Larry and his brother the only youthful helpers to their dad. But in some way his appeal struck a chord that vibrated in the hearts of many men. Army regulations do not contain any provision for donating veteran horses but Major George Johnston, Jr., chief of field artillery, was listening when Larry made his request. Quietly he started a subscription list and along with Reno and Judge went the general's letter to this effect:

MAY YOU AND MANY MANY, MANY OTHERS like you, who are interested in the welfare of our country today, continue to bring help, hope and encouragement to our American dads.

So, two old wheel-horses that have been pulling guns and caissons are now pulling plows back in South Dakota. And perhaps Larry and his younger brother may have a few more events can be beaten into plowshares and spears into pruning hooks.

WASHINGTON
By George Durso

INSPIRED. Word reaches this column that Lawrence Rice, who is Herbert Hoover's confidential secretary and who maintains a Hoover office in Washington, reported between 3500 and 4000 letters the other week. Almost without exception they are reported to have cheered the former Republican President in his recent declaration against the Roosevelt New Deal.

The question those who know about this tremendous influx of mail are asking is whether it was directed to Rice by interested citizens, or whether they know him as Mr. Hoover's confidential lieutenant, or whether a large part of it might have been in answer to letters which the Hoover organization sent out.

There are skeptics in Washington who remember their historic precedents who can't get it out of their heads that the sage of Palo Alto is a receptive candidate for both parties' Republican nomination—this to the face of semi-official assurance that Mr. Hoover wants only to exercise a veto power in the 1936 convention.

VINDICATION. Growth Cleveland was the President who went out of office and then returned him a Mr. Hoover's statement demanding a return to the gold standard—followed by his general call to arms of the Young Republicans—a reliable information had come back to Washington that our only living ex-President was conducting a very heavy correspondence from Palo Alto and his Washington office calculated to keep him in touch with G. O. P. leaders.

Mr. Hoover's closest friends insist he is merely trying to chart the Senator and their methods of doing business which should be put so many miles of pile in 1936 for the Senate.

It is a pity that the Senate is literally hundreds of unrepresented senators into the Congressional Record which is privileged under the libel laws.

BAHOYAGH? How England Democrats are getting plenty of history and plenty of news about the cotton textile situation.

It is a pity that the Senate is literally hundreds of unrepresented senators into the Congressional Record which is privileged under the libel laws.

The whole situation—irrespective of merit on either side—is going to make it tough for the administration's efforts to revivify NRA and get AAA amendments through Congress.

Both Republican and Democratic, is most apt to vote no.

DRAFTING. Some days ago this column suggested that Frank Walker, erstwhile original Roosevelt National Democratic Treasurer, and first Director of the National Emergency Council, might come back into the work-relief picture in a most important position.

The Senate is going to get a crack at Mr. Roosevelt's chief work-relief administrators through the right of confirmation or rejection of these appointments. House and Senate members have indicated they are gunning for Secretary of Interior Harold I. Ickes, but unless Ickes can be able to touch Rock.

REPUBLICANS. Out in Des Moines, on the 27th of this month, the professional writers get together for a political conference that is fraught with possibilities—to say nothing possibly of woe and grief for the Democrats.

The interesting feature of the meeting will be who emerges as leader of the caucus, and whether a large part of it might have been in answer to letters which the Hoover organization sent out.

There are skeptics in Washington who remember their historic precedents who can't get it out of their heads that the sage of Palo Alto is a receptive candidate for both parties' Republican nomination—this to the face of semi-official assurance that Mr. Hoover wants only to exercise a veto power in the 1936 convention.

ACCUSATIONS. The Halcidopole King of Louisiana continues to make frequent and lengthy political speeches on the floor of the Senate that are going to do no good for quite a few Senators coming up for re-election next year.

Senator Long doesn't abide by the rule that "he knows about a skeleton in another politician's closet he brings it out and rattles it until the disjunct bones run all over the floor and he looks for a quiet tombstone."

In recent weeks Long has placed a lot of dynamite in the Congressional Record that may well come back to explode under any of his colleagues next year. Nobody answers if it is humanly possible to restrain, and they know it. So he proceeds merrily making highly damaging statements about other

TWO HIGH SCHOOL CLUBS NAME STAFFS

The science club chose the following: President, Jack Fetter; Vice President, Granville Fetter; Secretary, Robert C. Nelson; Treasurer, Robert C. Nelson. Dale J. Waken and J. E. Tomlin are the faculty advisers for the respective organizations.

Bears Come Off As Rain Hits Nebraska

WALLACE, Neb., April 11 (AP)—J. P. Phipps has come to the rescue of the wheat growers of Nebraska and farmers who voted not to share until their territory had a good rain. Favored with 1.0 inches of rain today, the members are honing their razors for the big shave Saturday. The elimination of the "wind" order which has been in effect for about two weeks will be preceded by a "big feed" Friday night.

Tiny Oregon County Offers State Money

PORTLAND, Ore., April 11 (AP)—Oregon's smallest county, Sherman, has offered to lend to the state relief committee, without interest, $2000 it has saved through economical use of its monthly state liquor fund allotments.

The Sherman county relief committee made the offer when it learned that Oregon relief projects must be closed until next fall. Sherman county has a population of 2367 and only 20 families are on relief rolls.

The state committee declined the offer with an expression of thanks, inasmuch as federal money is expected momentarily.

Two Convicts Die At Hands of Posse

QUAMDEN, S. C., April 11 (AP)—Two escaped convicts were killed and a third seriously wounded early yesterday near here by a posse which cornered them after a three-day chase.

Capt. H. K. Keeler of the state penitentiary guard said the dead are Cornell Williams of Spartanburg and Willie Jackson of Charleston. James Wilson of Spartanburg was seriously wounded.

Only two of the six negro prisoners who seriously wounded guard Gilbert Mahaffey and overpowered two unarmed guards Sunday in breaking from the state prison farm near here, with guns snatched from the penitentiary arsenal, confessed at liberty.

Quiet Birthday For Secretary of Labor

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—Madam Secretary—But Miss Perkins. The labor department chief has a group of photographers know this quiet birthday: one of them is "Madam Perkins" to turn ninety while she is posing for birthday pictures.

In private life Miss Perkins is Mrs. Paul Wilson. Her husband was 33 years old yesterday, she spent most of the anniversary in conferences on the rubber strike situation.

The only cut-of-the-ray event at her office were receipt of a likeness carved on a wooden plaque by Phillips Liberator, Washington publisher, and a huge bunch of lilacs on her desk.

Idaho Falls Mayor Opposed at Polls

IDAHO FALLS, April 11 (AP)—Mayor E. C. Crowley, who is serving consecutive term as mayor of this city, will be opposed by William Meppen, the Citizens' party choice, in the election here on April 23.

While Mr. W. F. Hanson, incumbent, was chosen to retain the race for the post of city treasurer, being opposed by Mr. Henry Johnson, Citizens' party nominee.

WHEAT CROP LOSS

SPURS PRICE RISE

Traders Bid Futures Contracts Up to New High Levels

CHICAGO, April 11 (AP)—The blizzard-aggravated dust storm was converted into cash terms today as wheat prices bounded upward.

Spurred by a seasonally low government estimate of the prospective winter wheat crop, traders bid wheat futures contracts up to new high levels. Gains of nearly four cents a bushel were recorded shortly after the market opened and so spirited was the trading that prices on the blackboard lagged behind those in the pit.

Billings for profit absorbed off some of the day's gain, but May wheat closed at 97 1/2 to 98 cents a bushel and September at 95 1/2 to 96 1/2. Wheat missed the dollar mark at one time by just 1 cent.

No Cheated News

Destruction of winter wheat and abandonment of land in western Kansas and Colorado was reflected in the Department of Agriculture forecast for 433,000,000 bushels of crop, 55 million bushels short of the latest estimates by private crop experts.

The figures, released yesterday, caught the trade by surprise after wheat prices had already risen 2 1/2 cents on the Wednesday market.

Today there was no cheerful news to counteract the bullish report. The worst dust storm of the season was still blowing wheat right out of the farmer's front yard. There was some rain, but no appreciable precipitation in the affected region and the crop report left the impression with the traders that wheat prospects in the belt west of the 100th meridian might not be foregone.

Front-loading cut the day's gain down to 1 1/2 to 3 1/2 cents for wheat. While wheat was gaining, however, there were "spreading" sales of corn that brought a loss of 1/2 to 1 cent a bushel, although slightly higher at the start.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NAMES BUHL OFFICERS

BURLEY, April 11.—At the annual meeting of Buhl Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday a new set of by-laws was adopted and nine new directors elected. Three were elected for a three-year term, three for two years and three for one year as follows: three-year term—Stanley Webber, Al Kirchner and Jack Frost; two years, Will Stridbaker, Ole Smith and Roy Stridbaker; one year, Jim Gibbs, O. M. Pickard and Lawrence Van Riper. This new board of directors will meet soon to name the new officers.

The report of the secretary, Lee Howard, and the treasurer's report were also read. The treasurer showed a total of $1641 handled during the year with a deficit of about $60 which will be wiped out when some outstanding accounts are collected.

Other interesting reports were given by Otto Parry, who spoke on the better housing bureau and its work; J. H. Barker and Harry Barker, who discussed the irrigation project.

There was also considerable discussion of the proposed liquor retailing system. A vote was taken to see whether the business men present favored a dispensary or a state store, the latter winning by a big majority. Most speakers seemed to feel that as long as liquor would be sold only on way another, the store would be more desirable.

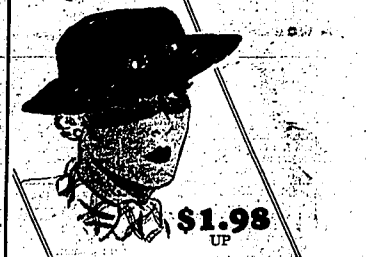

THEMANNUS CLUB MEETS

BURLEY, April 11.—Themannus bridge club met at the home of Mrs. X. A. Reed on Wednesday afternoon for a two o'clock dinner luncheon and cards. Four tables were in play with awards going to Mrs. Rankin Rutherford, high; Mrs. Ormond Thomas, guest prize, and Mrs. Albert Steiner, low. Color scheme of pink and green were carried out in the table decorations for the luncheon.

SILVER DEALS BOOST TRADING AT SPOKANE

SPOKANE, April 11 (AP)—The Spokane stock exchange today reported a high record for two years. Demand, and the stocks of two producers, the Sunshine and the Bunker Hill, and Bullion mining and concentrating, were in demand. Sunshine, one of the largest producers in the nation, jumped 66 cents to $1.50, an all-time high. Bunker Hill advanced 75 cents to $3.

NO DECISION IN BEET GROWER-LABORER TIFF

SPOKANE, April 11—Beet Growers and laborers in the Willamette valley from 3 to 6 o'clock in the First ward L.D.S. church, held a lengthy discussion relative to problems connected with difficulties between laborers and growers. After two hours' deliberation no decision was reached and a further discussion was planned for the near future.

SEATTLE, April 11 (AP)—Business men here today ordered a two-ton totem pole. The pole was placed in Galtman's store before the building was finished and to get it out for shipment was the problem that brought wrinkles to his brow.

The old Indian symbol is 38 feet high, studded with carved nooses of various shapes and hues and six pairs of various colored eyes, supposedly those of birds, beasts and fishes. The pole was hewn from a cedar tree and is about three feet thick at the base.

FARMER-LABOR PARTY INVADES GEM STATE

BOISE, April 11 (AP)—E. S. Rathbone of Boise, farmer-labor party national committeeman for Idaho, was making preliminary arrangements today for a meeting at which he said the party's organization will be set up in Idaho.

ALAMEDA, Calif. April 11 (AP)—On its first test flight before training a trans-Pacific route to China, the Pan-American Airways airplane "Pioneer Clipper" was aimed for a series of navigation targets off the California coast today.

Under blind-flying conditions, caused by dense clouds and fog, the big four-motored craft hit one target, the steamship Malolo 350 miles out at sea, just three minutes behind the schedule set by the Pan-American radio station here.

Those aboard the plane, the station experts said, had no contact with the ship and did not know it was below them until a radio-directed descent brought the surface vessel into view.

The course was laid for the plane to pass over the Malolo at 2:12 p. m. It passed over at 2:15 p. m.

After contacting the Malolo, the clipper plane was sent another 100 miles westward on a six-hour course before turning back toward land.

Officials at the radio station, said the entire "mass" flight today was charted and directed from land. The crew of the plane had no idea of what course would be followed when it took off at 1:18 a. m., carrying a load which exceeded the 12,000-pound record of its sister ship, "Brazilian Clipper."

The seaplane, which skinned off the water with its 25,000-pound load, including nine persons, in a second run, carried sufficient gasoline for 3,200 miles. The distance to Hawaii, first stop of the projected trans-Pacific route, is approximately 2,500 miles.

Pan American officials declined to discuss the nature of the radio direction system for the present but stated that it was unlike the radio compass device recently tested at the Oakland, Calif., airport by department of commerce and army experts.

SYNOPSIS: After the death of the Stinson within James Stinson was $500,000, and he decides to spend most of it on a long trip. He and Jane have been drifting apart, but on their return from their second honeymoon everybody in New Concord decides they are as good as dead. They are all going to be happy. But it is not so, and the Judge is telling Miss Julia, who helped to bring Jane into the marriage in the first place, just what he thinks of Jane as a wife.

Chapter 25 EXPLOSION

"Manage him right! Yes, Jane's managing him all right," roared the Judge, bringing one fist down with a bang into his open palm. "She's managing him straight to hell."

"What Jane was really out for was a million of an orphan's home and God help the orphan! You know, Miss Julia, that James Stinson isn't a clothes horse or a numskull. His sensitive and delicate like a harp and has to be handled like a harp and not like a trained pig."

"The Lord—Mighty didn't make James orderly and He didn't make Jane practical, but He made her a woman. I was over there last night and James dropped some clear ashes on the floor like any man would in his own house and you should have seen the look she gave him."

"She told him there was an ash tray at his elbow. In the same way she would have told a stray dog to take his dirty bone out of her parlor."

"What did James do?"

"He didn't do anything but shut up and never set natural again all evening. 'Tid like to see you with a man that'll get about week so that I could tell her what I think of her. It would take just about that long. I was mad I went home and didn't sleep a wink."

"Miss Julia tried to stand up for her young friend, but the Judge was in no mood to listen."

"You want to keep your eyes about to the truth or you would not talk that way. It's plain enough to anyone who wants to see it. The trouble is that Jane is a born old maid with the most boring looking eyes I ever saw."

"She acts as if her husband were a naughty little boy. Fate or the Devil had whisked on her to bring up and she hasn't sense enough or judgment enough to wipe his own nose or wash behind his ears."

"What was over to the millions for dinner last week along with James and Jane and when Bill Miller asked James whether he would have his next best friend, Miss Julia snarped out before James could get his mouth open, that he liked it well done. James never said a word and she what was given him, but she liked it happen to know that he likes his beef rare."

"Seems to me that James better learn to stand on his own feet occasionally instead of letting Jane do the leading. Every body doesn't realize just how much things sound."

"There's just one way to manage a woman like Jane Northrup and that's with a—chub's—prowled the Judge rudely. "I never said James was perfect—he isn't. But if he added wife-beating to his list of qualifications I wouldn't be able to find a flaw in him. As it is I'm worried—worried sick."

"Oh, papa," said Miss Julia. "You're talking pure nonsense. She sent her old friend home somewhat comforted, but she probably worried and uncomfortable herself."

James meanwhile was asking himself a dozen times daily just what had happened to him and Jane. Things had gone so well for a while after their trip East, he had plunged into his work expecting soon to make another five thousand dollars and take Jane on another wonderful trip. But he hadn't made the five thousand or in fact much more than usual and in a few weeks Jane began again to appear discontented, bored, later to complain of her health, or worse still to complain over sulky silences in his presence; to look at him as if she hated he were not there.

During the next year what little love there had been left between them seemed to die a rapid and natural death. Their relations went from bad to worse. They had come to the point where James crevined with one warm Spring evening with peculiar poignancy as he hesitated at his front door, waiting to fit his key into the lock and open it.

"The house was still Jane's and Jane's alone and he never felt completely at ease in it. His long ago dream—the dream of his early married life—of some day moving back to the Mansion, he had never so much as dared mention to his wife, although she had long since begun to complain of feeling cramped in the Tyler House and longed to remodel it or to buy a large place where she could more fittingly entertain."

"The Mansion was large and spacious, but every mention of it or even of past Stinson glories was almost certain to provoke Jane into accusation of caustically sarcastic remarks that ended in a cold stare more than anything else."

James indeed made heroic efforts to remember just what subjects did not set Jane off, but for the most part he was unsuccessful. He sighed wearily as he turned the lock, hoping that this evening would not be one of the long ones."

Jane proved somewhat sulky and tired and had little to say as they ate their dinner and James after an attempt or two at conversation, ate silently and rapidly as was his wont. Her large bulk seemed to fill the front porch, all silent, and it was a relief to both of them when Mr. Northrup's large bulk seemed to fill the front porch at the foot of the steps."

Jane jumped up and kissed her face affectionately and then stepped forward the largest, most comfortable porch rocker, almost ran into the hall for about week so that I could tell her what I think of her. It would take just about that long. I was mad I went home and didn't sleep a wink."

"Thank you. Thank you very much," said Mr. Northrup benevolently, biting off the end of his cigar and looking at James with an air of triumph. "I am putting you to a great deal of trouble—I am afraid so indeed, I do not doubt to you. I am glad to hear of James my congratulations. Your mother assured me that morning would do as well, but I tell I would—would—would—would you both of the gratification, the extreme gratification, Mr. Preston's."

"Mr. Preston's offer of office?" asked James, quickly. "I haven't heard anything about it."

"That surprises me, surprises me very much. But I was told by Ellison that you had accepted it. Mr. Preston of Kansas City had himself informed him that he intended to engage James as counsel after hearing the case, I think it was. It was mere chance, one in a thousand, Ellison assured me, that Mr. Preston into the court room. Opportunity at last has come knocking on James' door. He has secured a fine Presidential washwoman's case. I fail to see the fine distinction that keeps you from taking Mr. Preston's case. It is because Sally was just a lap or two ahead of the poor house and couldn't pay a cent, while Mr. Preston would be sure to be good for two or three thousand dollars—perhaps more."

"You mean he hasn't yet offered to engage you?"

"Yes—oh, he offered to, but it wasn't as case I could take with a ten-foot pole. As far as I could find it is trying to get rid of his wife and has nothing to base his case on except that she is old and fat and hasn't been able to adjust herself as rapidly as he to their rise from nothing to five millions. Personally, I believe there is another woman in the background egging him on."

"Do you know that—or is it just surmise?"

"I know he hasn't any grounds to surmise on."

Negotiations Down To Where 'I'll Give In', Joe Gould Confides

Heavyweight Championship Defense Slat- ed For Long Island Bowl in June; Baer, Braddock Ready

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, April 11.—It looks as if there's nothing left to arranging the next heavyweight championship fight except three days delay, a few more arguments, and the formal announcement Monday.

By all probability, James J. Braddock, the Jersey Irishman who gave Art Lasky the licking of his life, will square the Garden's Long Island bowl midway through June.

"We've got the negotiations down to a point now where the Garden has offered me 15 per cent, and I'm asking for 17 1/2," whispered Joe Gould, Braddock's manager, in a confidential tone that could be heard from Times Square to Columbus Circle. "If I have to, I'll give in, and the match is made. We ain't drunk."

Not Yet Ready.

The Garden, punch drunk from the toughest opposition it has faced since Humbert Pugilist annoyed Tex Rickard for a few seasons with outdoor promotions, has not yet decided to have Braddock for the title match from Mike Jacobs, Richard's rival New York associate, who has tied up Barney Ross, Jimmy McLarin, Lou Ambrose, Baer for a September date, Primo Carnera, and Joe Louis, all along with Braddock.

The situation is complicated by recurring rumors that the Garden again is open to bids for its boxing privileges—and that the window of the Garden's monopoly on the heavyweight title situation with Baer's completion of his contract with him in June, also will wind up Jimmy's boxing career as head of the boxing department.

Must Choose Monday

Things come to something of a climax Monday when the Garden must name Baer's opponent under the terms of the contract. John Latta daily to Max Schmeling, and Jimmy McLarin to Max Baer, the Garden seems to have broken his American boxing monopoly. Jacobs, and couldn't very well come over anyway because he has signed for another match with Benjamen Gold, his favorite chopping block, in Berlin in July.

Jimmy Won't Talk

"I'm not going to do any talking until Monday," says Johnstone subborbly. "I'm going to be feeling like a Bear's opponent, but the Garden seems to have broken his American boxing monopoly. Jacobs, and couldn't very well come over anyway because he has signed for another match with Benjamen Gold, his favorite chopping block, in Berlin in July."

He was all alone in that thought, however, as Mike Jacobs, the promoter, headed for Chicago to iron out with Barney Ross details for a lightweight title test, against Alvin here in May, and a welterweight championship bout with Jimmy McLarin the third week in July.

The boxing commission has given the Garden until Tuesday to announce Baer's opponent—in June and will award the outdoor dates, then.

Jew-Confident He Can Defeat Louis

'Brown Bomber' Scheduled for Ten-Round Battle With Roy Lazer

CHICAGO, April 11 (AP)—A 31-year-old Jewish heavyweight, Roy Lazer of Paterson, New Jersey, will attempt to stop the amazing surge of Joe Louis, brown brawler of Detroit, in a ten round battle in the Chicago stadium tomorrow night.

Lazer, undefeated in thirty-five professional bouts, is confident that Louis is overrated and that he is the better fighter. He expects to enter the ring upon the year. That is exactly what it would be if he succeeds in defeating the Detroit Negro, who checked up seventeen straight victories in his short career, winning thirteen by knockouts.

Lazer expects to enter the ring near the 188 pound notch which will give him practically an even shake with Louis in the weighing, the latter figure to be at 197 pounds tomorrow, according to his trainer, Jack Blackburn, old time welterweight star.

Preservation of Ducks And Geese Sought By Isaak Walton Officials

Chicago, April 11 (AP)—America's wild fowl will become museum specimens unless prompt and vigorous measures are taken, says John H. Baker of the National Association of Audubon Societies, presented today before the annual convention of the Isaac Walton League of America.

Baker, executive director of the society which Kermit Roosevelt is president, declared that wild ducks and geese are headed for extinction under present conditions and urged a national closed season for 1935.

J. N. (Ding) Darling of Des Moines, Iowa, political cartoonist and chief of the U. S. Biological Survey, did not reject a closed season on ducks next fall, but declared that migratory water fowl regulation changes, if any, are made, would be on the side of the duck, rather than on the side of the hunter.

The hunter, Darling said, has had the better of it for several years.

The Homestead team also shattered the world mark, being timed in 4:14.

Jack Medica of Seattle, who breaks a record almost every time he goes into the water, shattered the American mark for the 200 meters tonight, swimming the distance in 3:18.4. The second of 3:18.4 was set by James Gibbons, Detroit Athletic club.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—Stocks: Strongly bullish; metals firm. Bonds: Mixed; U. S. government securities easier. Curb: Uneven; mining issues active. Foreign exchanges: Quiet, rates narrow. Cotton: Firm; advance in all-weather. Sugar: Higher; trade covering. Oil: Quiet; steady. Wheat: Quiet; strong; bullish crop estimates. Corn: Lower; unding. Live stock: Steady; top $15.00. Eggs: Active; 5 to 10c higher, top $0.40.

By FRANK McMEILLEN (Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—The financial district detected a silver lining in some of its clouds today but appeared to suspect the lining was only a thin one.

There was a minor rush for the silver mining issues which it was revealed that the government was advancing the price for newly-mined domestic metal to 71 1/2 cents, an ounce from the old price of 64 1/2 cents which has been in effect since the nationalization of the white metal in August 1934.

Shares of the few companies standing to benefit from higher silver prices were immediately bid up by traders with extreme glee, driving them from around 1 1/2 to 6 points each.

The final gain for U. S. Smelting Co. 1/4 point at 106, while others lifted from 1/4 to 1 point or more, included Cerro de Pasco at 47 1/2, American Smelting at 36 1/2, International at 32 1/2 and Howe Sound at 46 1/2.

The boomlet in the silver shares, however, failed to engender any enthusiasm for the balance of the list, and stocks were on the average a little lower at the finish.

Enthusiasm for some of the silver shares led to the greatest activity of stocks. The Associated Press average for 60 stocks was 2 1/2 of a point lower at 37.6, turnover 18,000,000 shares.

The usual bell-wethers of the stock list were mostly fractions to a point lower. In this class were U. S. Steel at 30 1/2, American Telephone at 10 1/2, Allied Chemical at 13 1/2, Bell Telephone at 25, Chrysler at 35 1/2, General Motors at 34 1/2, and Union Pacific at 30 1/2. A few issues were fractionally higher, including Woolworth at 5 1/4, American Tobacco

WHEAT ADVANCES IN BUYING RUSH

Slashed Winter Crop Estimates Results in Sharp Gains

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN (Associated Press Market Editor) CHICAGO, April 11 (AP)—Seasonally slanted government estimates of the United States 1935 winter wheat crop swept the wheat market early today, sending prices to a new high.

The official crop figures showing unexpectedly immense damage done by dust and drought were generally taken as closing the chapter on a winter wheat crop that market analysts had long predicted.

SILVERITES PRESS
TOWARD NEW GOAL
 276-10-1 Bill Reported in Senate on Heels of Price Hoist

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—Gauging the economic consequences of future governmental silver buying, Washington economists tonight forecast primarily an increasing prosperity in the sections which mine that metal.

If treasury plans work out in coming months as they have in the past, they thought the effect upon the domestic situation as a whole would be only slightly inflationary.

In the longer run, however, they saw complications arising which made prediction difficult.

Meanwhile, on the heels of the treasury's 4% cent increase in the price of silver, congressional inflationists and silverites were encouraged to push again their ancient 16-to-1 and free coinage battle standard.

They rallied behind a bill by Senator Wheeler, which the agricultural committee approved during the day. It would direct the treasury to buy at least 50,000,000 ounces of silver a month until the market price of silver reached $1.29 an ounce. The real value of an ounce of pure gold equals that of 16 ounces of silver; or twenty times the amount of silver.

When the metal was nationalized last year, the order applied only to silver then in the country and those were quite a few exemptions. Moreover, at the same time, opponents of the silver purchase act authorizing nationalization, a profits-tax on silver transactions and regulation of silver trading.

All the Wheeler bill provisions except that of free coinage and the 16-1 feature were contained in last year's silver purchase act; save that it left the rate of purchase to the discretion of the president. The Wheeler measure would make the monthly acquisition of 50,000,000 ounces mandatory.

Treasury Buying Heavy

Despite the optimism of the silverites, Democratic leaders minimized the possibility of enacting such legislation. They contended too that the treasury had been buying silver at a rate far greater than that stipulated in the measure.

Senator Pittman (D-Nev.) took a staunch silver man and administration supporter, told the senate today, in praising President Roosevelt's management of the silver problem that, the treasury had already purchased about 50 per cent of the silver needed to reach the 16-to-1 per cent ratio.

bill the treasury's monetary reserves contain 25 per cent silver and 75 percent gold.

"Upon the attainment of any of those objectives, the entire percentage of silver would become effective."

The present ratio based upon the new coinage value of 71 cents an ounce for silver and the statutory value of 35 cents for gold is 49 to one. If and when silver reaches its market value of $1.29 an ounce, the ratio will be 27 to one.

"At the same time," in a letter to Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) Secretary Morgenthau suggested the possibility of a new silver nationalization order "in the event that a tendency should arise to withhold that metal from non-industrial purposes."
