DOOR OPENED TO APPLICATIONS FOR RELIEF PROJECTS

Harry L. Hopkins Reports Decline in Number of Persons Receiving Help; Roosevelt Drafts Speech

WASHINGTON, April 27—With cash decreases reported in relief rolls, the door was opened today to applications for job-giving projects to be carried out under the four billion dollar works program.

High up among developments of the day were reports that the relief population had reached a peak in January and between January and March had declined 200,000.

Secretary Ickes sent word to FWA engineers to begin accepting applications for funds for non-federal projects.

President Roosevelt drafted the speech in which tomorrow night he will explain the country how his relief set-up will work and outline what he expects congress to do in the remainder of the year.

The speech is to be broadcast at 8 p. m. M. S. T. Frank C. Walker geared his relief applications to the work proposals that already are coming in.

Engineer Considered Morris Llewellyn Cooke, a Philadelphia engineer, was given consideration for the post as chief of the division of rural electrification.

A complete surveyance of the work of Rexford Guy Twigg as head of the division of rural settlement from the department of agriculture was worked out.

350,000 Leave Rolls The relief administrator said the peak of the relief population was reached in January but that since January 25,000 persons had gone off the rolls. He planned to keep a close check on relief rolls during coming months in an effort to clear them of all persons able to work.

Idea, who combines with Hopkins and Walker the triumvirate created by the president to prosecute the works program, telegraphed FWA engineers that applicants for work projects might use for the time being the old application forms, with the understanding that regulations would be announced shortly.

Already the FWA has $1,000,000,000 of applications for projects but it has been said most of these would have to be re-studied. Meanwhile, in a score of more government bureaus work was going forward in shaping specifications for a wide variety of other works, ranging from the construction of dams, bridges, canals and public buildings to the building of an unemployed census and making special studies on which to base future activities.

NAZI GOVERNMENT ADMITS UNDERSEA CRAFT CONSIDERED

Details of the construction law, completed some time ago, are expected to be announced soon, it being forecast that the announcement may come in connection with the celebration of German Labor Day May 1.

Some Germans 25 years old and older already have been notified to appear for short periods of "brushing up" on military essentials, while factory workers and unemployed or relief also have been informed when they shall report.

London, April 27 (AP)—Confirmation from a German defense ministry that U-boat construction is a part of the reich's armament program joined Europe today and night in the possibility of new power conferences to consider a new violation of the Versailles treaty.

The most immediate subject of speculation here was the effect that submarine construction would have on the forthcoming Anglo-German naval talks. In some quarters it was feared they might be abandoned altogether.

The suggestion was advanced in a semi-official quarter, that Hitler might be taking time by the forelock, feeling that there was a possibility the naval conversations might fail, thereby giving him justification for proceeding with his construction plans.

Germany was understood here to feel that the naval clauses of the Versailles treaty are just as dead as the military and air clauses which she scrapped with the sudden announcements of March 16 which brought the German army and air force into the open.

The British were faced with two alternatives, first to pursue the scheduled technical talks during the second week of May and get a full view of the German naval policy before making plans on how to deal with the situation; and secondly to cancel the conversations and take whatever steps might be agreed upon between France and Italy.

One diplomatic source expressed the opinion a new effort might be made by France to get the three powers to agree on a program of economic sanctions against Germany as one method of trying to halt Germany's increase in the manufacture of armaments.

The same diplomatic circles expressed the opinion that the powers hardly could permit Germany to continue to spring new sensations week after week without doing something about it. It was felt in southwest of Utah last Wednesday morning. He lay patient at Twin Falls county general hospital.

These quarters that economic and financial conditions were the only good news available, and that British plans was given as an example.

It was noted that the British government's temper gradually had been getting shorter with Germany. Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's recent criticism and that British plans was given as an example.

Camp Fire Girls Will Report To Audubon Society on Bird Census

Fifty enthusiastic Camp Fire girls yesterday completed the first southern Idaho all-bird census, identifying 33 different species. In spite of the inclemency of weather conditions, among the more interesting species identified were the warbling vireo, ash-throated flycatcher, Cassin purple finch, canyon wren, Goldenrod woodpecker, violet-green swallow, helican, Forster's tern and tit-lark. After assembling at the city park at 8 o'clock, a message received from Kermit Roosevelt, president of the National Audubon society, was read and received with zeal. Miss Fannie Arney, in charge of the field work gave instruction as to the kinds of species that might be found.

The compiled data will be locally recorded and forwarded to the National Audubon society for publication. Mrs. Alice W. Ebert, who was instrumental in organizing the census, was unable to go on the hike. The groups returned to the city park for a picnic lunch at noon.

CHAPTER 49. GLOVEY

Leslie ahrank back into a convenient closet among the dust pans and mops as she heard a swirl of skirts coming long the corridor.

"Right in here, ma'am. He's waiting for you. I'll have him here in two minutes," Leslie heard her knight errant say.

Jane was in the cloak room... at last. As at last: The boy scout fled. Jane turned round to see the door close behind her, heard the key turn in the lock, she raised the door knob, pounded on the dirty panel.

"What does this mean? Who's out there?" Jane cried frantically.

The key was removed. "If means," Leslie said, "Miss Julia is here. I'm sure she is. She's in the Pen-room office," he went on. "She came from Topka and naturally is interested in Kansas. She writes my wife and I a letter every week. She's a good social lady in Washington. She says it is most unusual for a congressman's wife to go away to see around here's coming home to run for governor. He's got his eye on the senate. They tell me that he's a man that smart boys in Washington sit up and take notice. Well, none of us around here are surprised. We knew she was a social lady from the time he was a kid."

"The cousin, as Miss Julia called him," was enormously impressive. He had read out Congressman Stinson's letter.

"My wife has a sister in the Pen-room Office," he went on. "She came from Topka and naturally is interested in Kansas. She writes my wife and I a letter every week. She's a good social lady in Washington. She says it is most unusual for a congressman's wife to go away to see around here's coming home to run for governor. He's got his eye on the senate. They tell me that he's a man that smart boys in Washington sit up and take notice. Well, none of us around here are surprised. We knew she was a social lady from the time he was a kid."

"Oh, Leslie's all right. She's a fine little woman and of course she'll be glad to see you," said Congressman Stinson, but she can't hold a candle to his first wife. There is a smart woman in the office of old man Northrup who owned those elevators alongside the railroad and a million or so besides. It was a great pity they split up and got a divorce, for with her brains and her money and all she would have been a great help to Jim. How long has he been married to this one?"

"How long has he been married to this one?"

"My wife is a while—the kids are all here. Funny how a smart man like Jim came to pick her out. She was an old maid, too, when he married her but the woman just like kinds away on her before he married his first."

"My wife is always telling me that the wives of most of the famous men make them," said the cousin, who was a woman and a little person. "I judge you don't think you're like Congressman Stinson made him?"

"Leslie make Jim? What an idea!" laughed Jim.

"Do you think women ever do make or break men?" persisted the cousin wistfully.

"Naw," said Jim, yawning, "never except in books. Come on down the street and I'll introduce you to Jim."

"Did you hear that, Molly?" asked Miss Julia wistfully.

"I surely did, Miss Julia. Ain't men the bestest? Ain't I got to say to you, I ain't nothing but a ole black nigger woman without no learning, but I didn't know more'n some of the men in this town 're bluish my self while."

Coyote and Rodent Control Called Menace to Wild Life

Wholesale Poisoning Campaigns Declared to Be Gradually Denuding the Recreation Areas of the State of Fur Bearing Animals and Both Game and Song Birds

For many years I have observed the pernicious activities of the Biological Survey in its wanton destruction of wild life in Idaho in an abortive attempt to exterminate predatory animals, especially coyotes, and of later years, the various campaigns against poisoning and submitted to this poisoning and submitted to this poisoning and submitted to this poisoning...

The result has been, to date, the virtual extermination of such fur bearers as fox and marten, while the coyotes remain about as plentiful as ever.

The rodent poisoning, while admitted a necessity on farms, has nothing to offer for excess in the higher elevations except the word of the woodworker that rodents are destroying the forage on the range...

Mr. T. A. Burns assisted by Mrs. Charles Gleaser and Dr. Parkinson will conduct a course in first aid at the Burley-Cross chapter, beginning Thursday evening, April 26.

Man cannot disturb the balance of nature without paying the penalty. Every year the howl goes up from the woodworkers of the degradation of our wild life...

Again I charge that ninety per cent of all kinds of alleged kills are due to the neglect of the herders. For six years while I was a forest ranger on a grazing district it was a rare occasion when I found a herd with its flock.

I charge the Idaho State Game department with having at one time attempted the extermination of the common black bear and of not giving them adequate protection at the present time, all because of the greed of the men who have raised their heads.

I have spent more than thirty-five continuous years in the mountains as hunter, trapper, guide and forest ranger, yet I have never in all that time seen one sheep-killing black bear.

The Biological Survey as represented by T. B. Murray, district agent at Boise, through the columns of The Haldy Times, denies that... was thrown in the sage brush when there was a squirrel hole there or no. For over two weeks I watched the area without finding a dead bird. The following year while clearing out some thick willows in this general area I found the first running spring. It is like a hot Murray which killed these birds.

I know of two places where five years ago sage hens and duck grouse were plentiful. These places are beyond the reach of hunters who travel in flocks, and too far to reach by walking. Five years ago one could shoot the sag hen in the first running spring. It is like a hot Murray which killed these birds.

On my ranch one cannot sleep in the morning because of the music of the feathered songsters. On the poisoned areas the morning silence is painful and the chirp of a song bird is rare.

I charge the Biological Survey with having hired cold-eyed killers who have no respect for wild life for the rights of individuals. I charge them with placing the deadly poison at the discretion of persons who have no conscience.

I charge the Idaho State game department with having full knowledge of the whole matter and of aiding the Biological Survey in its pernicious activities.

Sub-District Records Give Edge To East End Athletes

Jesse Owens Thrills 18,000 Track Fans With Burst Of Speed

Results Compared As Tracksters Gird For Contests At Burley

High Jump Struggle Produces Outstanding Mark In Eastern Division Meet; State Records Challenged

With the annual South Central Idaho district track and field meet nearly a week away, dopsters are already making their predictions by comparing results of Friday's trio of sub-district contests at Twin Falls, Burley and Gooding.

To make this a bit easier for the potential "winner pickers," here are some comparative figures that tend to give the edge to the boys from the East End.

Probably the outstanding mark set in sub-district competition was the struggle for high jump supremacy in the Burley meet, between three actors: Mainord of Burley, Craven of Rupert and Pierce of Malia. All three cleared the bar at 5 feet 11 inches. Only two were able to clear the district meet and in the jump-off, Mainord and Craven jumped with leapt of 5 feet 11 1/2 inches, one-eighth of an inch under the state record, set in 1924 by Kramer of Wallace.

Millard of Shoshone leaped 5 feet 9 inches at Gooding and the second place is yet to be decided. Craven, however, led Lagerman and Jenkins in Jerome. Turner and Crockett, both of Twin Falls, are the remaining entries.

Slater Tove Javelin Star. Although Jimmy Demers' 1925 state record in the javelin, set when the Olympic star was a kindergarten high school boy, may never be cracked, Slater of Filer came the closest of anyone in some seasons when he tossed the spear 132 feet 12 1/2 inches. Other entries in the district, none of which came near the state mark, are LeRoy of Twin Falls, Frewett of Hagerman, Hartwell of Wendell, Neil of Aegula and Smith of Malia. Demers holds the record at 200 feet 10 1/2 inches. Jenkins of Jerome stands out for a first in the high hurdles, covering the mile in 22:20. Other entries are Craven of Rupert, Smith of Burley, Crockett and Turner of Twin Falls and Crockett of Jerome. The state record is held by Mitchell of Parma and Hewitt of Boise in 18 seconds flat.

Craven, Turner and Jenkins of Jerome hold the best sub-district time in the low hurdles, covering the mile in 22:20. Other entries entering the district are Schow of Rupert, Mallon and Smith of Twin Falls and Cooper of Jerome. Bill Powers of Filer holds the state record of 25:2 seconds.

Top crews on the 300-yard dash race at the Olympic meet at Burley, who skirted the distance in 10 seconds 1/2 flat, Friday, Mainord of Burley has a tiny margin over Craven of sub-district competition and may also prove a threat. Other entries are Smith of Twin Falls, LeRoy of Rupert, Hart of Shoshone and Pasberg of Glenns Ferry. Timm of Twin Falls and Kernall of Boise hold the state record of 99 seconds. Honors in the 200-yard dash appear to be in the wake of Mainord, whose mark in the district meet at Burley, Friday, Others who will be at the start are Nordling of Twin Falls and Queen of Burley, Ferguson of Rupert, Pasberg of Glenns Ferry and Walker of Jerome. Moon of Glenns Ferry holds the mark in 21 1/2 seconds.

Leads in 440 Brockle of Rupert looms as the district's star 440 man. He skirted the course in 54 1/2 seconds and it is doubtful anyone other than him in the district. Others qualifying for the distance are Craven of Burley, Nordling and Taylor of Twin Falls, Sumler and Crawford of Glenns Ferry, Paul Tucker of Caldwell holds the state record 51.8 seconds.

Macfarlane of Albion is out in front for 180 yards with a mark of 2 minutes 11.8 seconds. Other qualifiers are Evans of Burley, Estinger of Caldwell and Traylor of King Hill and Albert of Glenns Ferry. Bowler of Gooding is tops in the state with a record of 2 minutes 21 1/2 seconds. McCloy of Rupert is heralded to be head and shoulders over all the other mile runners in the district. He made the course, almost unopposed, Friday in 5 minutes 8 seconds, but has not been challenged in any other practice. Other entries are all of Burley, Billies and Rutherford of Kings Barker and Doh of King Hill. Staffie of King Hill holds the state record in 4 minutes 31.8 seconds.

Top Vaulters The district's pole vaulters have not yet been forced to extend themselves, but comparative figures show that Craven of Burley tops the heap at 10 feet 9 inches. Other entries include Smith of Malia, Gentry and Crockett of Twin Falls, and Wiklund of Hagerman. Others tied in the Gooding meet for second place and the entry has not been determined. Benecke of Nampa record of 11 feet 1 1/2 inches stands in the pole vault. Frewett of Hagerman heads the list of shot putters at 44 feet 9 1/2 inches. The remainder of the entry list is composed of Craven of Glenns Ferry, Kelley of Twin Falls, Morse of Bull, Bell and Keaton of Burley, Johnson of Troy holds the
