48-PLANE ARMADA POISED FOR FLIGHT TO MIDWAY ISLAND

Preparations for 1,323-Mile Hop Begun Suddenly at Pearl Harbor Base; Fleet to Play Undiscovered Part

(By The Associated Press) HONOLULU, May 8.—Preparations for an unprecedented mass flight of 48 naval planes from here to Midway island starting at dawn tomorrow were begun today by the Pearl Harbor navy base today, signaling the first step of American fighting forces toward linking by air the United States far-flung Pacific territories.

Although naval authorities would not talk about the undertaking, it was known that the armada, greatest over-water air armada ever assembled, would take off from the morning of the 1,323-mile flight, barring unfavorable weather.

It was learned also the big squadron planned to be absent from Pearl Harbor for the next 10 days, during which strength reports that some of the craft would fly from Midway, a small island in the north and west of here, to the Aleutian islands, some 1700 miles away.

Fleet Plays Secret Part Somewhere in the North-Pacific the United States fleet, assembled for the maneuvers in the big triangle between the mainland, Hawaii and Alaska, was playing an undisclosed part in the ambitious plan.

It was previously made known that flights might be made from the Aleutian island chain to Midway and back in connection with the fleet operations.

LIGHTS AND SHADOWS In Day's Events

(By The Associated Press) Ruled Out—SPOKANE—Long distance divorces were declared again today by Superior Judge William A. Peabody after returning from George R. Peabody, Los Angeles. Peabody, who said in a petition for divorce filed by Peabody, still a legal resident of Spokane, sued his wife, Cora A. Peabody for divorce in 1931, but did not proceed with the suit until the divorce petitions were accepted because he was working in Los Angeles. "If it should be established as a settled practice that the plaintiff in a divorce suit is permitted to prove his case by deposition, the door would be thrown wide open for fraud and deception upon the court."

Campaign Launched For Early Building Of Bruneau Project

South Idaho Delegations Vote Endorsement Of Perrine-Hollister Plans

Enlisted in a campaign for immediate launching of the reclamation-of-the-1,000,000-acre Bruneau project, west and north of the original Twin Falls irrigation project, were 100 persons, including delegations from many south central Idaho towns, at a meeting in Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce club rooms last night.

Unanimously the meeting endorsed a resolution approving the plans of H. L. Hollister of Chicago and I. B. Perrine of Twin Falls for reclamation of the Bruneau, and calling on the state commissioner of reclamation to approve the plan and issue permits for the project.

Half of the number in attendance at the meeting pledged themselves to circulate petitions addressed to Governor C. Ben Ross requesting his assistance in securing official approval for the project.

Within 30 days after issuance of the permits, spokesmen for the plan said here last night, construction will begin on diversion of waters from 200 lakes to irrigate approximately 300,000 acres of the Bruneau project in Owyhee county, and that work will be completed within 18 months.

Crowd Hails Amelia At Long Flight's End

Aviatrix Completes 2100-Mile Hop From Mexico

NEWARK, N. J., May 8.—Amelia Earhart, tired but happy, brought her red monoplane across the 2,100 miles between Mexico, D. F. and Newark airport today, making the first nonstop flight from the Mexican capital to the greater New York area.

Her face and hands were dirty but she grinned as she brought her ship to ground at 8:28:50 p. m. eastern standard time, and within 22 minutes she was on the ground after her perilous takeoff, with a three-mile runway.

She landed as one of the greatest aviators in the world. As she stepped out of the cockpit, airport shouted and screamed their cheers and struggled against an inadequate crowd of 50 policemen, asked to the field for the emergency.

So great was the crush, so mad was the enthusiasm of the men and women to catch a glimpse of the woman, who has conquered two oceans by air and made numerous long-country flights, that minutes passed before the police could get her safely to a national guard hangar.

SENATORS PROPOSE COMPROMISE MOVE IN BONUS BATTLE

Supporters of Inflationary Bill Listen to Suggestions to Give President Choice of Payment Plan

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, May 8.—New talk of compromising the cash bonus issue sprang today from fears of some senate advocates that the Patman $2,000,000,000 new money plan could not be passed over a threatened presidential veto.

Supporters of the inflationary bill complained that several days' delay they could muster the votes needed to override Mr. Roosevelt's veto. They listened, nevertheless, to proposals advanced by Senators Clark (D-Mo) and Gore (D-Okla) to give the president the choice between payment in new currency, payment by orthodox borrowing, or from the $4,880,000,000 war-relief fund.

Motion On File To get the companion to the president, the senate could have to reconsider the 55 to 33 vote by which it passed the Patman bill yesterday. A motion for reconsideration was on file from Senator Thomas (D-Okla) for purposes of delaying consideration of the bill in the White House until the maximum down-money strength could be mustered.

Administration leaders maintained confidently they could sustain a veto of the Patman bill and discounted possibilities of a compromise. But others said a final decision might await developments in the vigorous drive for a handful more votes needed to make the measure law without Mr. Roosevelt's signature.

Father Coughlin Aids Veterans Leaders of veterans' organizations were reported planning to carry the fight directly to the White House. Aiding the effort was another generally credited with having helped pass the Patman bill, Father Charles E. Coughlin. He said in Cleveland that "President Roosevelt is too clever a politician to veto the bill and admit that his own 'would be political suicide."

Friends of the bill, passed by the senate 55 to 33 yesterday, were hopeful the Detroit priest in his address tonight would help rally the few more votes needed for a veto-overriding majority—two thirds of all votes cast.

Senator Thomas (D-Okla), leader of the Patman force in the senate, acted quickly to hold up the bill temporarily when Mr. Roosevelt indicated to his press conference a veto message would speed the measure.

Half Minute For 125 Words Called Normal Reading

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., May 8 (AP)—If you read this in half a minute, you're going at proper speed, C. Gilbert Wren, assistant Stanford registrar, says. "Because he believes most people do not read correctly, Wren has made an exhaustive study and has determined the length of this item—125 words—as of proper half-minute length. "If your aiming is off, it may be due to fixations, Wren believes—fixation being the brief concentration on an important word. In such a sentence as 'the little girl went into the house with her mother,' 'little girl,' 'house' and 'mother' are fixation words, Wren said.

Wren said he had been back to the eye and failure of the lines to jump accurately from line to line are other causes of speed trouble in reading. Wren contends.

MURDER TO COLLECT INSURANCE CHARGED

Candy Shop Proprietor's Confession Says He Killed Stranger

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 8 (AP) A confession that he murdered a man whose identity he did not even know in an effort to defraud an insurance company was obtained today, according to Assistant District Attorney W. G. Andrew, from Frank D. Stasio, 31, Reroc candy shop proprietor.

The confession was announced shortly after Dr. Stasio and his son, Anthony, 23, were indicted for murder in the first degree.

According to Andrew, the elder Dr. Stasio said he expected the victim's body to be identified as his own and that the son would benefit through $12,000 insurance on his life.

Body in Burned Car Body-related that Dr. Stasio said he knew the victim only as "Dan," a man he picked up in Boston and took for a ride to Hudson.

There the body was found Monday in Dr. Stasio's burned automobile, so badly charred that police said they could not identify the body. A medical examiner found that the head had been crushed, legs and arms broken, probably by being run over with an automobile, but that there was evidence life was not extinct when the oil-soaked victim was consigned to the flames.

COUGHLIN APPEALS FOR CENTRAL BANK

Speaker Declares Eccles Bill Would Make President Financial Dictator

CLEVELAND, May 8 (AP)—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin addressing a special session of the National Union for Social Justice, tonight pledged the new program set up in the campaign to replace the federal reserve banking system with a central government bank.

"The National Union," he said, "rests upon its doctrine of solidarity and fortified by the constitution of our nation, which specifically points out that congress has the right to coin and regulate the value of money, demands the expulsion of this prostitute, this federal reserve bank, from the midst and the establishment of a central government bank, owned by the people and controlled by the people directly through the congress of the United States."

Motor Workers Vote Down Management's Proposals For Reopening Of Plant

UNIONS DECIDE TO TAKE STRIKE VOTE ON PACIFIC COAST Secretary of New Maritime Federation Announces Result of Meeting Held by Affiliated Organizations

(By The Associated Press) SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—Unions affiliated with the new maritime federation of the Pacific announced through a federation official tonight they had decided to call for a nationwide referendum on whether to walk out in support of some 12,000 striking oil tanker employees.

The announcement was made by P. M. Kelley, secretary of the federation which represents 35,000 marine workers in all major branches. Among the affiliated unions are the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners during last summer's paralyzing longshoremen's strike.

Kelley said the executive committee of the federation as a whole would make a final decision on the matter and that the order for the strike vote did not yet come officially, but that machinery for the vote was all ready.

"Only Alternative" "At a meeting of organizations affiliated with the maritime federation of the Pacific coast," Kelley said, "it was decided that inasmuch as the mediation board has not acted, we must either accept a walk-out, or our only alternative is to take a strike vote of the whole federation."

He charged the mediation board, appointed by Secretary of Commerce Clegg, with "obstructionism."

Walker's Division Ready to Consider Work Relief Construction Plans

WASHINGTON, May 8 (AP)—Director of Public Works Harold Walker said today that the doors would open tomorrow for work-project applications under the month-old $4,000,000,000 federal work-relief program.

Frank C. Walker, head of the application review board, said that directors of his national emergency council would "coordinate all federal work activities, including PWA work-relief projects."

All projects, including $100,000,000 in non-federal applications already approved by the public works administration, must pass through Walker's division before reaching the allotment board, which advises President Roosevelt on actual cash disbursements.

Special Treatment During the day, Mr. Roosevelt received the financial aid requests of states and communities would receive special treatment.

Secretary Ickes meanwhile said that bonds secured only by project revenues—such would make possible loans to many cities which have never could raise the required financing capacity—could be used as PWA collateral.

The allotment board will begin tomorrow its session at the White House on Monday. By that time Walker's division was expected to have cleared the first applications for work-relief projects.

The board has not yet received from Harry L. Hopkins, progress director of the program, the $200 work areas to be created.

Officials said most of the present activities will be retained until the new program gets into its swing, while the relief administration planned to continue to supply work for those not included in the main activity.

A possibility was seen in some quarters that state relief administrations would be completely decentralized on July 1, although Hopkins said no exact plans had been made.

"More than that," he added, "it plans to secure the ownership of the public utility system in the hands of its present owners."

"If you analyze this new bill, now being sponsored by Mr. Roosevelt, you will discover that it is nothing more than a marriage license between a prostitute who has wrecked our home and the government who has deserted his wife, the American people."

"The National Union will not give its benediction to this unholy alliance."

The speaker emphasized that the Union is "a new political party."

"The National Union will be organizing any effort on its part to establish a third, fourth or fifth party, wherever it is currently represented in politics insofar as politics happens to be the expression of moral principles and of social justice."

The Rev. Fr. Coughlin charged that the press generally had been subservient to the American Private Corporation.

"I need not repeat to you that the United States is the only nation in the world that does the federal lobby or the federal barber shop. It is a private corporation, a trust, a group of private individuals for the purpose of privately printing and controlling the money of the United States."

Woman, 90, Asks Judge Ben Lindsey To Grant Divorce

LOS ANGELES, May 8 (AP)—Married forty-eight years and now 90 years of age, Mrs. Julia A. Friedrich, a great-grandmother came to court today to say she couldn't make it to the end of the trail with her husband, August, 71 years of age. She asked for a divorce on the ground of cruelty.

Almost blind but possessing an active mind and a ready answer, the great-grandmother told Superior Judge Ben Lindsey about her trouble with her "youthful" husband, and the judge indicated the couple would wait a few days to think the case over, took the matter under submission.

Mrs. Friedrich began her testimony after expressing some embarrassment about talking in front of her son, the children and their children's children.

As a result of the workers' decision and according to previous statements of Edward P. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, federal mediators will attempt to resume negotiations between the management and union members immediately.

Police End Disturbance While shutting by employees of the Toledo Chevrolet plant on company property a strike, and a strike drive to a car outfit, officers and leaders of the Independent Workers' Society were arrested.

Fred Selger, president of the independent group, and most of his companions were taken to each brick and stone; were buried at their cars.

"They sought refuge in police headquarters," he said, "but the police disturbed to an end but no arrests were made. In a separate case, four men were arrested for disturbing the peace and were released on bond.

Bricks, Stones Fly In Attack Upon Independents

Parleys Continue (By The Associated Press) TOLEDO, Ohio, May 8 (AP)—Production workers of the Toledo Chevrolet plant today rejected the management's proposals for the reopening of the plant.

The vote was 1,251 for rejecting the proposals and 605 for accepting them.

The result of an all-day session, conducted in the hotel building by the U. S. labor department, showed a victory for the United Automobile Workers Federal union, which went out on strike April 23 and still refused returning to work under the company proposals providing for a wage increase and working conditions.

HOUSE DEADLOCKED ON ILLINOIS RELIEF

Plight of 1,200,000 Jobs Continues to Border on Desperate

SPRINGFIELD, OH., May 8 (AP)—In spite of Illinois relief efforts, the state house of representatives today failed to meet in its stand against emergency approval of the three-part sales tax.

After a bitter partisan debate the lower house voted to suspend the measure on the measure it halted last week and once more Democratic administration leaders will attempt to win the 102 votes necessary to meet the federal relief requirements for immediate enactment.

Illinois relief commission has declined to comment on the setback to the bill which was intended to meet the ultimatum of Harry Hopkins, federal emergency relief administrator, that Illinois must bear one third of the cost of unemployment aid to receive federal funds; enroute on April 30.

SOLDIERS OF CUBA KILL REBEL LEADER

Former Official Shot Down as Troops Break Up Miniature Revolt

HAVANA, May 8 (AP)—Government soldiers, an unimpeachable source said, smashed a miniature revolt today by killing Antonio Gutierrez, American-born radical leader who was backed against the army by a small detachment of the navy.

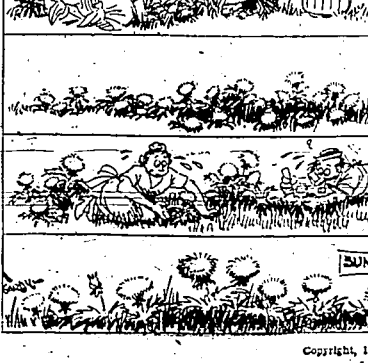

Soldiers' bullets struck down the young former secretary of the interior, war and navy after a grim battle in the mouth of Matanzas harbor, 63 miles east of Havana.

Four soldiers and a follower of Gutierrez were slain. It was learned and a large amount of the kidnap ransom bills in the $300,000 kidnapping of Eulimio Falls. They were found near the body of Gutierrez. The government had charged the former secretary with the kidnapping.

Gutierrez, it was known, had long controlled a large part of the navy, which he once directed, and persuaded his troops to assassinate to aid him in escaping to the United States.

Army And Navy Develop Secret Defense Devices

WASHINGTON, May 8 (AP)—With rapid-fire navy guns, a new high speed armor piercing turret, and powerful explosives to the forefront, the nation's military forces were reported today to have developed in secret a lengthening list of deadly defense devices.

Guarded jealously from public scrutiny, the new weapons reportedly were nearer perfection as the result of costly post-war experiments.

Officials were reticent even to name some of the weapons and scientific devices now being developed. They said they had in mind some of these new assurances against foreign invasion.

Notable French 75 MM gun of the World war.

Small arms and automatic rifles for doughboys with three times the firing speed of the standard Springfield rifle.

The navy—five and six-inch rapid fire guns with greater range and armor-piercing power, more than 250 of which are being manufactured at the naval gun factory here.

Greater fuel efficiency for boosting the striking cruising radius, and automatic turret elevators that fire further and makes torpedoes more deadly.

New chemical warfare defenses: diving bells for rescuing crews of sunken submarines; sound detectors for locating enemy submarines; new types of armor-piercing guns; armor-piercing and lighter armor; gyro control for range finders.

Air services—faster and more powerfully armed planes; larger machine guns firing more penetrating bullets; more destructing bombs; new types of armor-piercing guns; fire control; greater efficiency in power drive bombing; development of new types of torpedoes; improved aviation radar interference; jetting gears for aircraft carriers.

JOLSONS TAKE LAD FROM ORPHAN HOME

Blackface Comedian and Actress Wife Adopt 'Sonny Boy'

CHICAGO, May 8.—Ruby Keeler, screen actress and dancer had her first opportunity tonight to play a maternal role over the baby (Boy) Jolson Jr., her son and Al Jolson's by the aid of the courts.

The Jolsons obtained the seven-week old boy from a local orphanage and adopted him legally.

Said Ruby before she started west for Los Angeles by train.

"The baby can't swim naturally yet, but he swam beautifully."

"Sonny Boy" met his parents for the first time yesterday when Al slipped in from New York to greet Ruby and make arrangements for the adoption. The baby made a good impression and the blackface comedian who has gone far in setting the excitement of the general love to music was described as "highly pleased" with his first sight of the youngster. The couple promptly named him Albert Jolson Jr.

Jolson, sr., had to rush back to New York for an engagement and his wife went to comply with the legal formalities before County Judge George H. H. Krenzel, who was parked, of all places, with the sheriff while the necessary papers were signed.

Soon after the obtained legal possession of the baby Ruby objected to photographs with the assertion: "It's too young yet."

Sonny boy was put in a white portable crib in a room on the train (Santa Fe Chief) for his trip to his new home. Over him was watched, Ruby's nurse, Ruby's sister, Helen, and Mrs. Jolson's sister, Christ, 4, who was much excited over the whole affair.

"Isn't she scrumptious?" asked Ruby. "His daddy thinks so too. I think he takes after Al a little, with that dark hair. We love him a lot and want to make something out of him."

MISSOURIANS WIN PULITZER AWARDS

Zoe Akins, Winslow Johnson Score With Play and Novel

NEW YORK, May 8.—The Pulitzer prizes for the best original American play and the best original American novel for 1934 were bestowed last night upon Zoe Akins, "The Old Maid" and Josephine Winslow Johnson, "The Story of a Girl."

Announcement of the awards to journalism and literature, ten in all—representing the highest recognition in these fields in America—was made by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, at the annual dinner of the alumni of the Pulitzer School of Journalism.

The prize play award, given for an original American play staged in New York, carried an award of $1000. The novel award also amounted to $1000.

William H. Taylor of the New York Herald Tribune won the $1000 prize awarded for a distinguished example of a reporter's work with his series on the international yacht races last September off Newport, R. I.

Arthur Kroeber, Washington correspondent of the New York Times, was given the $500 prize at Washington or foreign correspondence with the finest record of distinguished service.

Winning Cartoonist

Rosa A. Lewis of the Milwaukee Journal won the $500 award for the most distinguished example of a cartoonist's work with a cartoon entitled, "Bure, I'll work both sides," published September 1, 1934.

Charles McLean Anderson won the $200 prize for the best book of the year on the history of the United States and his work, "The Colonial Period of American History," published by the Yale University Press.

The $1000 award for the best American biography teaching patriotic and unselfish services to the people went to Dr. Douglas Southall Freeman of Richmond, Va., for his four-volume biography of Robert E. Lee, entitled "R. E. Lee, A Biography," published by the Scribner's Sons.

"Bright Ambly" volume of poems, won for Audrey Wurdeman the $1000 prize for the American author of the best volume of verse. "The Sacramento Side of Escarpment," Cal., was awarded the $500 prize and medal for the most distinguished and meritorious publication by an American newspaper.

Jackie Coogan at Funeral Services Despite Injuries

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., May 8.—(AP) Jackie Coogan, the screen "kid" of long ago, today arose from a hospital bed to attend the funeral of his father, Jack Coogan, sr., who as business manager of the youthful actor had made millions.

The elder Coogan was killed Saturday night in an automobile accident near San Diego while on the way to Trent Junior Durkin, intimate friend of Jackie and also an actor, as well as Robert Horner, screen and radio writer, and Clarence Jones, Coogan ranch foreman. Jackie, seriously injured, was the only one of the party to escape alive.

"I'm going to attend by day's funeral. I'll walk out of here in my pajamas if I do not give me my chance to see Jackie Coogan," he was brought to the hospital. Finally his physician, Dr. H. G. Westphal, released and young Coogan, lightly taped, his face betraying his pain, was taken to the Church of the Good Shepherd in Beverly Hills to have the Requiem high mass for the man he described as his "best pal."

When he arrived unexpectedly at the church, accompanied by his nurse, Judith Hazling, he went at once to his mother's side and kissed her. Both were crying. They entered the church behind the casket, which was accompanied by six black-robed altar boys, carrying candles. After the service Jackie returned to the hospital. He did not see the burial in Calvary cemetery.

FINAL TRIBUTE PAID FORMER SCHOOL HEAD

SHOSHONE, May 8.—Funeral services for Jack E. Weson, 40, for four years Shoshone superintendent of schools, were held this morning with Rev. Turner of Blackfoot officiating. He died Sunday in Billings, Montana.

He was born December 2, 1894 at Fortstock, Texas, and was married to Miss Juanita Sharp, May 4, 1918. In the fall of 1918 he came to Shoshone as superintendent of schools and after serving in that capacity for four years he was employed by the Caxton Printers of Caldwell. Since that time he has been employed by the World Book company and at the time of his death was associated with the Allen Book Co. company.

He was a member of the Masonic lodge of Shoshone and special rites were conducted by the Masons. Pallbearers were W. H. Murphy, A. W. Hansen, Edwin Grose, all of Shoshone; George Falligan, Orono, and Perry Oxley, Boise. One day, Jerome, sang two songs.

He is survived by his wife, a son Dick, his mother, Mrs. Eugene Weson, all of Shoshone; a brother, Richard Weson, Texas.

TALENT APPEARS IN MUSICAL OFFERING

Funds From "Flame Song" Expected to Boost Swim Pool Fund

When the Junior Chamber of Commerce presents "Flame Song" this evening, a matinee performance at the Orpheum theatre this evening for benefit of the municipal swimming pool fund, "Flame Song" will see some of the best vocal, dramatic and dance talent available in southern Idaho. Intensive rehearsals have brought the production to the point of perfection that is unusual in amateur offerings.

The curtain goes up at 8:15 o'clock this evening. A matinee performance at this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock will introduce the production. The matinee is being played at reduced prices especially to enable school children to see the production, and to "do their bit" for the swimming pool, which will become a year-round recreational center when completed. The pool will be converted into a skating rink in winter.

One of the most spectacular performances of the entire production will be the musical numbers by Jack Delaney. He sings his four numbers exceptionally well, according to those who have attended rehearsals. Reginald Jenkins, a member of the original chorus which appears to advantage throughout the play, will dance in one of the two recent tragedies that cut deeply into film ranks.

The 17-year-old star—died—Baturay in an automobile crash, near the Mexican border, and which also killed John Coogan, 46, father of Jackie Coogan, and two other men. In a hospital but a few days from the chapel where Durkin's funeral was held, Jack Coogan, youthful actor and close friend of the dead John Coogan, was hurt to the same accident.

Despite his fearful plea to leave his bed for a last farewell to his chin, Coogan was refused permission by his doctors to attend the funeral.

Father A. Burch, retired Catholic priest, officiated at the services for Durkin.

Surrounded by friends, the young actor's two sisters, Grose and Gertrude Durkin, sobbed audibly. The three, brother and sisters, were orphaned.

Durkin was buried on a plot of ground known as Sunrise Place. The grave of his mother, who died 10 years ago, is next his.

COMPLICATED ECONOMICS

Economic and governmental problems are simple if you look at only one side. They become more complex when you look at both sides. And still more so when, as often happens, there are more than two sides. Take the processing tax, for example, as applied to cotton to save American cotton-growers from ruin. The cotton mill pays the tax and the growers get the money, and the latter are able to make a living again. But manufacturers now, in New England and the southern states, are in distress—mills closing and spinners and weavers thrown out of work. They have not been able to sell their manufactured cotton, in the present state of the American market, at prices covering the processing tax on raw cotton and leaving enough for labor's wages and capital's profit. The enlarged incomes of the cotton-growers did not help general business enough for that. If the processing tax is abolished, those distressed planters may go on straight federal relief. But we want to abolish the dose. The manufacturers could get a better price for their cotton cloth, they say, and might keep their mills going, if it were not for the Japanese goods competing at lower prices. There is doubtless something to that argument. There is Japan's side, too. The Japanese have been buying from us general merchandise worth one hundred million dollars more a year than what they have sold us, and have been paying us interest on about four hundred million dollars of Japanese bonds held in this country. If we shut off Japanese imports, we might lose our favorable trade balance and our bond interest. And so it goes. Could Solomon himself solve these many-sided modern economic problems?

THE PENSION DECISION

The supreme court decision invalidating the railroad pension act does not apparently nullify the proposition that an employer and his employees may by voluntary agreement build up and administer any sort of pension or retirement fund. The decision strikes at an attempt by a third party—the government—to compel and dictate such an arrangement. It does not necessarily affect any provision of a social security program where the right of the persons involved to accept or reject is not impaired. It would be unfortunate if at a time such as this, when retirement and old age pension provisions are regarded as one of the most important of contributing elements to a solution of the unemployment situation, corporations and business generally were to be deprived of the power to enter into pension agreements with employees. If social security means anything at all for provision for support in old age should be an important feature. There is little room for doubt but what a comprehensive old age pension plan will eventually be worked out if only for the reason that it has to be. In the meantime, voluntary pension agreements as between employer and employee are not affected by the decision.

SCIENTIFIC PUZZLES

When the chemists of America convened recently in New York they promised a good many surprising developments in the future, including interplanetary travel in about one hundred years. An observer at the convention was surprised, however, not at the promises of marvels to come but the candor with which the ten thousand chemists admitted how little they knew about some supposed commonplace and simple phenomena. According to an authority from Massachusetts Tech., although bricks have been made for seven thousand years, "the phenomena of the surfaces when brick and mortar meet are as yet unsolved." The layman doesn't know precisely what is puzzling the scientists, if he is willing to tell them what he knows, which is that the two stick together and a wall becomes possible. But perhaps that's not the problem. There are other unsolved puzzles it seems, in familiar things. At least, scientists are admitting that some of their previous solutions proved inadequate and others have so far eluded them. But why be amused at the uncertainties of scientists who make bold long-range promises? Isn't it a common human trait to be pretty sure about something far off, but to find great gaps in our knowledge of something closer at hand?

STILL MASTER OF ITS FATE AND CAPTAIN OF ITS OWN SOUL

(Bellingham, Wash., Special) J. A. McNary, publisher of the Anacortes Daily Mercury, quoted by a Seattle newspaper as hinting that Anacortes is entitled to orchids or something for "not seeking largesse" in constructing its new $150,000 port commission warehouse. No part of the money is to be sought from Santa Ana. The city has its cash reserve of $10,000, and pay the balance out of port earnings. So Mr. McNary says: "When a community decides to spend its own money instead of asking Uncle Sam for help, it strikes me as unusual in these times."

A New Yorker At Large

NEW YORK—It is more than a possibility that the Rialto's legitimate theaters will be open Sunday night next season. The governor and the legislature have agreed that the legitimate theater should have all the rights of the movie houses. Now all that remains is to convince the Rialto's and actresses that it's a good idea, which, at the moment, does not seem likely. At least two of our best players oppose the proposal. They are Katharine Cornell and Lucille Howard. Miss Cornell, of course, owns her own company and drops a note to say that she will not play on Sunday. And Howard usually plays part of the show in which she plays the part of the woman against the Sunday show will hold for any company in which she happens to be playing. This is the attitude of most of the players; they do not believe the theater's salvation lies in closing it one night and opening it another.

UNFAIR BURDEN

"That maid of mine is so dumb she would be coming in when it rains," said the woman in a series of comments Mrs. X ever was heard to make about her servant. Now she has had to make such remarks in the presence of a small daughter, who came to look on Mrs. X as little more than feeble-minded. But when Mrs. X went out she did not hesitate to leave her child in charge of this same maid for days at a time. When she was not such a stout, she never paused to think it did not occur to her that she was placing her child's safety and welfare by leaving her with someone whose control and authority she herself had undermined. It is unkind and unfair to the maid, and what is more, unsafe for the child to undergo an authority in this way. There are many occasions when a child must obey quickly, or when it must accept a decision from an older person. All kinds of emergencies may arise during the parents' absence, and the mother has the best right to the child. If she has not trained the child to obey and respect the person who is left in charge, she is not doing her duty. It is really stupid and unfit for the post, she should be dismissed; she should be treated with respect and never criticized or scolded in the child's hearing.

IDAHO'S PIONEERS SET STAKES FOR EMPIRE-BUILDING

Credit for First Impetus to Irrigation Given by Engineer to John
Hansen, Frank Riblett

First impetus toward development of irrigation in southern Idaho was given by two of its pioneer residents, John E. Hayes, Twin Falls engineer, who was actively identified with the building of the Twin Falls irrigation system, and John E. Hansen, whose death in 1929 ended a career of more than 50 years of public service for Idaho, and Frank Riblett of Malba, Cassia county's first county surveyor. Mr. Hayes has abetted his pioneer contribution to Idaho's reclamation in the following article—"Let Us Forget."

Forgotten Men
In writing the history of any locality, many of the most potent forces and individuals which determined the destiny of Frontier America, wherever it was, from the shores of the Atlantic to the shores of the Pacific, have been forgotten.

These individuals and forces were known and duly recognized at the time but the memory of them has been submerged by the "Bandwagon" element in the time of final accomplishment, and the paean of praise and credit for their lives given to those who craved the gate at the time the golden spike was driven, the corner stone laid, the tunnel holed through, or the dam completed.

At such times the dreamer whose "dreams come true" the designer whose designs were carried out, and the builder who built, are generally forgotten and set aside by the politician, publicity seeker, and self-advertising addict.

Looking Toward Idaho

To illustrate—in the year 1876, while Idaho was still enjoying the benefits of its rapidly declining mining boom, but not yet recognized as a desirable place to build a permanent home, two men came in from Kelton, Utah. One in the spring, in a hairy leather brocade stage coach, the other in the autumn, in the hurricane deck of a cayuse, but both of them looking toward Idaho, as a place to settle, and to find resources for a permanent livelihood. One of these men was John F. Hansen, whose death in 1929, ended a career of more than fifty years of public service for Idaho; the other was Frank Riblett, still living at Malba, in the Raft River Valley, not far from the river which he rode in the fall of 1876.

They gave freely of their time, money and talents; they educated Governor, Congressmen and Presidents into a sympathetic attitude, but when the great day came to celebrate the results of their efforts and labors, the politicians and professional orators grabbed the show, while the dreamers of the dream, the real workers in the vineyard were at the best only "amongst those present."

Severs Important

Our country's destiny was not determined by the picturesque, noted and notorious characters we mostly read about but its course was fixed by men of judgment, vision and unselfishness, who laid the firm foundations in education, organization, law, religion and the arts, who were to be found in every new community, leading, directing and restraining, and by precept and example setting standards of conduct and the ideal.

It is the sovers not the reapers who were important; it was the imaginations, not the mere furnishers of capital and reapers of profit who were important. Many of these whose portraits adorn our public buildings were less important or influential than are those early pioneers whose vision and constructive efforts furnished the first impetus toward development of irrigation in the Southern Idaho Empire.

Key Signal Role

As we study the dawn of irrigation in Southern Idaho, I mention these two men because both of them played signal roles in the initial promotion of the idea that our portion of Southern Idaho would some day become the irrigated empire, which we now know it to be.

When Cassia County was organized in 1879, Frank Riblett was made county surveyor, and the two men associated up to that time in the teaching of pioneer schools in Goose Creek and Marsh Creek basins, continue their friendships and mutual interests in the development of Idaho, for a short time in placer mining along Snake river, and later in engineering, surveys and investigations as to the possible use of Snake river water for irrigation of the south Idaho desert.

Mr. Riblett's duties as county surveyor did not consume all of his time, but he had caught the vision of irrigation with the waters of Snake river, and as early as 1881, made surveys for an irrigation system to water what is now become the South Side Minidoka project.

Plans Adopted

Like a good many pioneers, he was disappointed in his first venture, but his plans for the Minidoka Project were practically identical with those adopted by the United States Bureau of Reclamation which took over the development of the project twenty-five years after Mr. Riblett ran his first survey.

All times and funds permitted, Mr. Riblett continued to run reconnaissance and preliminary canal sur-

IDAHO'S PIONEERS SET 'STAKES' FOR EMPIRE BUILDING

Very diverting from Snake river. In 1867 he ran a preliminary line of survey from Starbuck near the old Gilman Ferry about thirty-five miles up stream from American Falls. This line traversed down through the Fort Hill Indian reservation, along the foot hills southwesterly, crossing Flat river and continuing on to the mouth of Snake county near Rock Creek. This to say the least was an ambitious undertaking—most pioneer settlements being in the vicinity of the Snake river and the irrigation of the lands south of the river. As early as 1838 he ran lines hoping to provide irrigation for that vast area now known as the "Bruneau Tract." These preliminary lines, so far as they are concerned, do not vary much from those in use today and did much to attract the attention of private citizens and Government officials and to direct a more thorough survey and investigation, as to the possibility of large irrigation from Snake river.

force for Unity

A letter from Fred T. Dubois, then delegate to Congress, states that Mr. Ribbitt's reports and surveys of this south-Idaho territory—which were embodied in a report made by Territorial Governor A. F. Stevenson, had been of inestimable value in preventing the abandonment of the Idaho territory, which at that time was strongly urged in congress.

Territorial governors, sent out from the east to administer the area called Idaho, had not been sending back flattering reports to Washington, some of them found it a most unpleasant task to hold their office under conditions which they found here, and one of the frequently repeated reasons given for the proposed abandonment of Idaho as a separate territory, was the unlimited stretches of valueless desert land, that very area which those early explorers had come to prove could be irrigated from Snake river.

Difficulties in carrying out their projects, however, did not dim the vision which these pioneer engineers saw so clearly and the persistent reports to Washington and elsewhere, that Southern Idaho might become a vast irrigated empire, by the use of Snake river water, seem to have had some effect and from time to time brought interested inquirers as to how this could be accomplished.

Knows Snake River

From time to time John F. Hansen had been associated with Mr. Ribbitt, making subsidiary surveys, lines for ditches for individual water users, and on some of the river diversion surveys.

Mr. Hansen knew Snake river thoroughly, having spent a season in 1878 and 1879, plumb minding up and down its course, and in 1892 he became convinced that plans already proposed for watering the south side of the Snake river valley, involved too great a length of canal, and that by the construction of a diversion dam, a more favorable line could be cut, and that the Cedar, now known as Milner dam site. He persisted with the thought that a diversion at this location, would make a suitable use of the great volume of spring water which enters the river channel in the American Falls basin and crowd stream, and that the use of the same source of supply which now forms the nucleus of the Twin Falls South Side project water rights.

With the financial help of E. A. Jordan, a pioneer friend on Dry Creek, he perfected a preliminary survey for a canal, leading out of Snake river at "The Cedars." His survey following almost exactly the same alignment as does the present Main and High Line canals of the Twin Falls South Side project.

Files on Waters

So convinced was Mr. Hansen, that this would prove an economical proposition, that he posted claim in June, 1894, appropriating such waters of Snake river as might be diverted near the present Milner. He made an effort to raise capital among and through his Altus associates, as he was at that time 1894, probate judge and county superintendent of schools, residing at Altus, but capital for such a venture was not forthcoming. Interest in the proposition did not cease, however, and he found evidence of revival from time to time. Few strangers came to town without hearing of the strange dream, to replace as a young man's start with verdant fields and glowing orchards—by the magic of water from Snake river.

In the old files of the Altus project may be found the names of Norman Leachman, Cahley pioneer, in which he predicted the building of a bridge over the river, the construction of the projected irrigated Empire on the south side with that on the north side of the river.

Hansen's Heritage

Idaho had been a bridge on the Oregon Trail," as Byron DeFolshack calls it, a span to be erected to get farther west, it had known the French advance of grand seekers for gold who tilled the streams between 1800 and 1820, but it remained for the pioneer ranchers and irrigators to build the nucleus of Idaho homes, and especially in this Snake Idaho section, which Captain Fremont in 1845 had declared would not produce enough fodder to provide even a stepping place on the trail.

The emigrants brought very little to Idaho; the miners took out millions and millions of dollars, but it remained for the pioneer irrigators to find the true source of its wealth—the fertility of its desert soil—give it a high tribute to the irrigation ditches and farms—and share that tribute—with those pioneer teachers, John F. Hansen and Frank Ribbitt, unrequited—uncompensated yet whose vision and persistence had done so much to make possible the reclamation of three-quarters of a million acres of arid land, granting to us, the vast heritage of this Southern Idaho Empire.

CITY COUNCILMEN INCREASE BUDGET FOR COMING YEAR

Estimated Expenditures Advance With Improvement Plans and Provision for Compensation Insurance

Twin Falls city council last evening passed a general fund budget of $1,174,775 for the year ending April 30, 1936. The budget for the past year was $1,048,550 while actual expenditures totaled $1,025,525.

When all commissioners confer in the week commencing May 14, they will submit the budget called for approximately $1,174,775 but careful editing reduced the amount to the $1,174,775.

Budgeted amounts in the fire, administration and street funds were reduced, while increases were made in city buildings, police, water, sewer and park funds. Special estimates were almost entirely eliminated.

Street sprinkling was estimated at $112,000; street lighting, $15,000; library, $11,000; band, $12,000; bond interest and fund, $40,000. An increase of $1100 was voted for IRECA workmen's compensation in order to assure the city's participation in the benefits of government-provided and -operated insurance.

Police department budget was increased from $134,460 to $145,630 with the employment of an additional patrolman and the assistant, Jess Carlton, was named patrolman at an annual salary of $2,200 and William Vonde was selected as deputy assistant at an annual salary of $900.

Water department budget was set at $179,295 as compared with a budget of $143,190 and expenditure of $142,000 last year. Chief among the increases was the addition of $1000 for meters, boxes and repair parts.

Swimming Pool To Share In Proceeds Of Auxiliary Dance

Legion Memorial Hall will be transformed into an orchard of blossoms for the annual spring dance Friday evening, arranged by the American Legion Auxiliary, Mrs. W. O. Sloan and members of the decorating committee.

Twenty per cent of the proceeds from the dance will go to the municipal swimming pool. Mrs. W. L. Aah, in charge of the sale of tickets, announced that a number of clubs are buying blocks of tickets and are planning to attend the dance in groups.

HIT AND RUN DRIVER DRAWS FINE IN COURT

Accused of colliding with two cars on the highway between Hansen and Murray streets Tuesday afternoon, William Taft Howard, 26, of Hansen pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of failing to stop after an accident, and was sentenced in Justice of the Peace Guy T. Stoppel's court yesterday to pay $100 fine, in one of the accident collisions, officers said, a license plate was knocked off from Howard's car.

Hospital Plans To Observe Day With Open House

In observance of national hospital day, commemorating the contribution of Florence Nightingale to advancement of nursing and hospitalization, Twin Falls county general hospital will welcome the public to an open house next Sunday, May 12, at 2 p. m.

Emphasizing importance of bringing consciousness of our hospital and what they mean to the community to the people of Idaho, Miss Emily Pine, superintendent of St. Luke's hospital, Boise, who is state chairman for national hospital day in Idaho, said in a recent letter to the Twin Falls hospital management.

COUNCILMEN GRANT BUILDING PERMITS

Three building permits were granted by Twin Falls city council in its special session last evening. R. G. Hunt was granted a permit to erect a dwelling, valued at $2300, from Flter to lots 28 and 29 of block 8 in the Blue Lakes addition.

HUNDREDS VIEW WORK OF SCHOOLS

Junior-Senior High School Annual Department Exhibit Staged

Industrial, home-making and art exhibits were represented in the largest exhibit in the Twin Falls high school gymnasium, opening at 8 o'clock and continuing to attract visitors throughout the evening.

Attracting the most interest were the stoves, island table, top and bottom objects of furniture and numerous "gadgets," the products of the manual training departments of the high school.

Home-making classes of Miss Juanita Sutcliffe, senior high school, and Miss Mildred Gilbertson, junior high school, offered a wide range of garments, womenware and other needlepoint and handkerchief items.

AGED CATTLE MAN CLAIMS PROPERTY

A Three Creek Idaho cattle man has filed suit in the county court here yesterday to press his claim for possession of deeds and bills of sale that he says to two of his sons, B. V. Dunn and Alvaro Dunn, when he was seriously ill in a hospital here in October, 1928.

He and his wife, who died in November, 1930, were parents of 16 children of whom the two sons and two daughters survive, he testified today. Deeds and bills of sale in question, he said, were given on condition that the two sons were to continue operation of the ranch property, and pay off debts approximately $40,000, and pay to their parents a stipulated monthly amount for their maintenance.

Chapman and Chapman of Twin Falls are attorneys for the aged stockman and the two sons, and Alvaro Dunn, are represented by John W. Graham and Charles A. North, Twin Falls attorneys.
