

$140,000 GOES TO ROUTINE NEEDS OF RELIEF SET-UP

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The relief committee set up by the president's works allotment committee today recommended distribution of a relatively small sum as it grappled with the question of finding projects for many of the states.

The times it submitted to President Roosevelt's committee at meetings at the White House—a list totaling $140,000,000 was to be used to carry out the relief program in connection with handling the $400,000,000 program.

It disclosed it would ask the work relief administration for $400,000,000 for the relief program in connection with handling the $400,000,000 program.

How soon a billion dollars worth of projects already approved would be available was not stated.

Meanwhile, in another administration, the $18 to $24 a month wage scale for most of the work relief program was being set.

Some recalled, however, extensive powers vested in Cooke to carry out the program, as well as the fact that the electric industry, labor families might come from federal bond developments or municipal plans.

NEW RESERVOIR PROJECT APPROVED

North Fork Reservoir to Provide Supplemental Supplies

BOISE, May 24 (AP)—The U. S. Commissioner of Reclamation last night announced plans for the North Fork reservoir on Snake river have been approved, and that formation of the district including the lands to be watered has been completed.

The project is designed to provide a supplemental water right for lands in Fremont and Madison counties which for several years have suffered because of water shortages. The original cost is to be borne by the federal government and is to be repaid by the settlers in 40 years, through the agency of the newly formed district.

The state department recently approved the permit for the water, provided in final plans approved by H. A. Parker, irrigation engineer, the project will cost approximately $2,250,000 in its initial stages. The liability of the district is limited to $4,000,000.

The plans call for construction of a dam on the North Fork to suspend 114,000 acre feet of water; construction of a canal from the North Fork to connect with the southern branch of the Fall river canal and enlargement of the Fall river canal and the building of one or more small reservoirs on tributaries of the Fall river and a dam on the Teton river in Teton basin.

THE ALASKA EXPERIMENT

The question as to whether or not the group of midwestern farmers transported by the Government into Alaska can succeed in becoming self supporting citizens in their new environment is one which time alone can settle.

Opinions are of course divided on the subject but it would seem that there are many sections of the country where land could be obtained with greater promise of success than the Alaska experiment offers.

In the meantime it is interesting to learn from current news dispatches that the settlers, upon arriving at their destination, cheerfully carried water for camp from a point two hundred yards distant and that all and sundry uttered no single complaint when called upon to walk a half mile to the community mess hall.

The dispatches referred to of course represent the Eastern viewpoint. It is hardly fair to set up these people in any such light. If the tasks referred to are really hardships what in the world will become of 'em when Winter sets in?

THE PRESIDENT SPEAKS

President Roosevelt's veto message constitutes a magnificent gesture, futile it is true as far as the House is concerned, but nevertheless a document which commands admiration and respect.

In its larger aspects, apart altogether from the question as to the wisdom of anticipating by ten years the settlement arranged for the Service men and approved and accepted by them at that time, the address constitutes a splendid example of clear and lucid thinking. Reading it one finds it difficult to disagree with the President's views and it is noteworthy that prolonged applause followed its delivery— notwithstanding the fact that immediately afterwards the House went on record as totally disregarding both the spirit and the letter of the message.

The Senate has taken a different view of the matter. Payment of the Bonus is, at the present time, a thing of the past. As a result the President has materially strengthened his position with the American people.

PRACTICAL PACIFIST

Among today's pacifists are many men who served in the World War. One of these, an American, who enlisted early and who later received three medals for conspicuous bravery, expresses some forceful thoughts on the subject in a current magazine:

"I won't go back," he writes. "I have seen one war in twenty years have not made me forget. I may be ridiculed, pilloried, jailed and even shot. I will laugh at them all and gladly die grinning in their faces. I love my country, but I question its one more just to kill my fellow-men."

"I demand in our leaders and our solution—one more just and sane. I demand that steps be taken now to settle amicably existing differences between nations; that every effort be bent toward that end before the world's aflame.

many and complex—must be understood so that they may be eliminated. The difficulties of slaying out of a war need to be studied and thoroughly understood in advance, so that a nation wanting to remain at peace will not be stamped into war by crises that arise.

"CHEMURGIO" (Detroit News)

Here is a new word for agriculture to conjure with. It is "chemurgio." It comes out of the confluence of industrial, scientific and agricultural representatives held at Dearborn, Mich., in the heart of Fordland.

Notwithstanding participation in the conferences by representatives of the farm bureau federation and the national grange, who were supporters of the prevailing AAA program, the meeting was obviously under the control of industrial leaders, who insisted on stipulating that progress in the "philosophy of science," although every last man of them practices the same philosophy under another name in the conduct of his own business.

LITTLE BROWN SUFFRAGETTES (Lawton Tribune)

No, the least noteworthy feature of the Philippine case is not the fact that the islanders took their first step toward independence by ratifying the constitution of the forthcoming commonwealth government, was that it marked the first time in the history of the far east that women were granted the privilege of the ballot.

Being as the United States retains sovereignty over the islands, the extension to its population of American political freedom is logical and laudable. What will happen when this country withdraws is another question and an interesting study for the future.

WHAT DID THE PENGUIN MEAN? (Idaho Falls Post-Register)

It may never be possible to establish complete historical accuracy as to what was in the mind of one of Admiral Byrd's penguins, transported from the Antarctic to Washington when it muttered "phooey" and waddled indignantly back to the cooling room of the expedition's ship to take a comfortable stand on a coil of ice.

A New Yorker At Large

By JAMES S. BESTON

NEW YORK—The New Yorker theater, from which the movies stemmed, is fast becoming no more than a trial ground for Hollywood.

Two of the town's bits are partially owned by Warner brothers, Celling Zero and Three Men on a Horse. And now Max Gordon, who presided over the success of the great Waltz, is dickering with Metro Goldwyn-Mayer.

Brook Pemberton, who presented Celling Zero, scarcely needs Hollywood's backing, however, judging from his success this season. Celling Zero is the star of the great other is Personal Appearance.

This one is Gladys George. She has played in stock all over the country for years, but was unknown here. Now she is giving one of the best performances on the Rio.

The success of Kind Lady, a charming mystery play, has meant temporary failure of lotterizing old John MacAdams, the blind pencil peddler on his blind alley.

SYNOPSIS: Alison Reddy's step-mother is Dr. Daphne Sumner. Daphne not only has persistently mistreated Alison, but even her father that there was something peculiar in Guy Western's actions the night he was shot. Dr. Daphne sent Alison to a house in Sumner. And the mistake is Daphne's! Alison and Guy are on their way to lunch.

Chapter 22 MORE MYSTERY

Alison told Guy the entire story. The telling took some time, since Alison had to tell everything from the beginning, from that first letter from her father, her doubts and difficulties in the train, her going to the bus at Waverly, right up to her father's sudden change of front last night.

Afterward a card at to Alison, they chatted and ate; but to Alison, at least, the strange dishes that were flavoured with paprika might as well have been seaweed. Alison's intent on telling her story, she put spoonfuls of soup, macaroni with cheese and over-sweetened fruit into her mouth as they came along, tasting nothing, hardly noticing what she did.

"Do you think she really mixed those telegrams by mistake?" "I don't know," Alison admitted reluctantly. "She has never done that sort of thing throughout her life, not to say anything unkind against Daphne." "I suppose it's possible."

"I don't quite see what point there is in doing it on purpose, do you?" "No," he seemed not quite certain. "What did you say her name was?"

"Mrs. Sumner, Daphne Sumner. Why do you know her name?" "No," he had never heard the name before. She fancied for a moment he had recalled before saying that "your father hadn't known her."

"No," he only met a few weeks ago by the way. It was out in Nick. He said nothing but his hand went suddenly up to his mouth as if he were about to sneeze. It was as if he had been looking through her at something behind her. He had seen her in the woods. It was his whole face seemed to set afire.

"I don't know," Alison confessed. "She didn't say it to me, only to your father. I gather she thought that you were a crook and after my father she started to send the word cut off her lips, that fatal flash rising and flooding her face. It was as if she had been looking at me with those eyes, and I see. His whole face seemed to set afire. It didn't mean that to nothing that she had spoken to hide her own embarrassment. Hurtled on with no other end. "Can you make her out of all of it? I mean, the telegrams and everything?"

"I don't know..." He said it slowly, still abstracted and upset. Rose suddenly. "I say, let's get out of this!"

He rode the hill; when they were in the car he turned up North, drove straight toward Regina's Park in silence. Alison, watching him wonder why he was looking at her, his story had worried him but he did not like to ask. They were half way round the arm of Hamilton Place park when he spoke.

"When your father getting married?" "I don't know. In about six weeks, I think he said."

He considered that soberly, as if it made a great deal of difference. He said slowly, "I'm not out of this, sure what to make of all this."

"I'd like to think over it. Will you do one thing for me?" "Am. Of course!" she agreed readily. "What?"

"I want you to say nothing about our lunch today. I mean to tell your sister, and you do like to blurt."

"Yes," she promised at once. Then, "Can you tell me why?" He hesitated.

"I see," then doubtfully, "What about my father?" They had reached the gate out into Baker Street before he answered.

"I don't know. What do you think?" "If I tell him, he's going to tell her," said Alison decisively. "I won't if you don't want me to."

She smiled suddenly at her. "I'm asking rather a lot of you, am I not?" "No!" she smiled back. "I trust you."

"At a moment his expression startled her; he looked so terribly upset. Profoundly, painfully moved. "I wonder if I'm being fair to you?"

He looked round at her with a sharp turn of the head, as if he had not made up his mind. Then, starting to get into his car, he turned out into the Edgewood Road. He said as if there were no more to be said. "Look here, will you give me a week—no, say ten days?"

"Yes," she met his eyes firmly. "You know you're rather a difficult person!" For an instant his left hand dropped from the wheel, no more than touched her in silent thanks.

Allison did not answer. She could not speak. "I was just sort of by chance."

He said, and she thoughtfully and a page or two. "And in the end he declared, 'I still don't understand. What's she got to do with Waverly?'"

"It's her house." "He gave a little nod as if he had expected that; set starting at the talk. Drumming softly with his fingers, deep in thought. After a while he looked up and his eyes were fixed on Alison.

"Do you think she really mixed those telegrams by mistake?" "I don't know," Alison admitted reluctantly. "She has never done that sort of thing throughout her life, not to say anything unkind against Daphne."

"I suppose it's possible." "I don't quite see what point there is in doing it on purpose, do you?" "No," he seemed not quite certain. "What did you say her name was?"

BODA SPRINGS MEN ASK FOR RESERVOIR PERMIT

BODA SPRINGS MEN ASK FOR RESERVOIR PERMIT
BOISE, May 23.—An application for permission to store 11,000 acre feet of irrigation water in a reservoir to be built on five mile acres of five miles east of Boda Springs was filed today by D. J. J. E. Lau and G. A. Gilliam of Boda Springs at the Department of Reclamation. The plans call for construction of the reservoir with public works funds at a total cost of $2,342,000. It would provide a supplemental water right for 2,360 acres of land now suffering from water shortage. The reservoir's acre feet of water would be drawn from Tule lake and 8,000 from Formation springs.

FARM FORECLOSURE CLAIMS RESISTED

Mortgagor Charges Land Bank With Compounding Interest

Mortgage foreclosure suits brought by the Federal Land Bank of Spokane against E. C. Davis and others involving two Twin Falls county farms will be resisted on the grounds that the bank seeks to recover interest on deferred payments, and on the further grounds that it is not entitled to recover attorney fees. It was disclosed when lawyers to the two foreclosure suits were filed in the district court here yesterday.

Dismissed and filed by Turner K. Hagerman, Twin Falls attorney, these answers allege that amortization payments, which the bank alleges are delinquent, are not in arrears in interest at the rate of 5 1/2 per cent, and that the bank in its foreclosure suits seeks to recover an additional 8 per cent interest.

The answers refer to an act of congress made effective in 1931 reducing interest on federal land mortgages from 12 to 4 1/2 per cent, beginning July 12, 1933, and appropriating federal funds to reimburse the bank for this interest. The right of the bank to recover attorney fees in the foreclosure suits is denied on the grounds that the attorney who filed the suits is a "salvaged lawyer in the bank of the bank," and that the bank had not paid or agreed to pay attorney fees.

WATER DELIVERY ON SALMON SCHEDULED

Ten-Day Run for Season's First Irrigation Begins Tuesday

HOLLISTER, May 23—A ten-day run of irrigation water during the season will be delivered throughout the Salmon River project's canal system beginning next Monday, May 27, according to Salmon River Canal company superintendent, announced this evening.

A canvas lately completed by the canal company indicates that water can be used to best advantage at this time and is being applied to fields on which beans are to be planted.

Previously the canal company directors had authorized this season's first irrigation water delivery to begin May 23, or as soon thereafter as conditions as deemed by water users' applications, might require.

In Salmon River reservoir yesterday there had accumulated a little more than 30,000 acre feet of water, the gauge reading 23.10 feet as compared with a maximum reading last year of about 11 feet, the superintendent said. Water was still rising in the reservoir although not as rapidly as it had for some time.

The accumulation of water in the reservoir yesterday was sufficient to meet the canal board's recent allotments of three tenths of an acre-foot per share of canal stock, the superintendent said.

BAPTISTS WILL OPEN BIBLE SCHOOL MONDAY

Vacation Bible school at the Baptist church will begin next Monday morning at 9 o'clock, and all children between the ages of four and 12 are invited to come. JURORS VIEW SCENE OF FATAL COLLISION

Defendants Offer Testimony After Court Overrules Non-Suit Motion

District court jurors who for two days had heard testimony at trial in the district court here of a wreck which claimed 60 damages from the Standard Oil company of California, and John A. Balch, jr., local oil distributor, on account of fatal injuries that Arnold Ebeling received in an automobile collision last November 28, were taken late yesterday to the scene of the accident.

Jurors were taken to the accident scene at the intersection of Blue Lakes boulevard and Heyburn avenue upon request of defendants' attorney after District Judge, Adam B. Barclay at the beginning of the day's proceedings overruled their motion for non-suit and after a number of witnesses for the defendant had been called to the stand.

Trial is to be resumed this morning.

Defendants' witnesses included two eye-witnesses to the fatal collision, Marvin Mathison, driver of the truck that is alleged to have struck the car in which Ebeling was riding, and Mrs. James Miller who was riding with W. H. Sherlock in another car that collided with Ebeling's car shortly before the accident by the truck.

Other defense witnesses included Margery Esther Carr, who lives near the scene of the collision; Harold William Merritt, engineer; W. A. Piner, photographer; and Henry C. Olvina, deputy sheriff.

HOLLISTER SENIORS RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

Fourteen Students Graduate at Annual Commencement Exercises

HOLLISTER, May 23—A class of 14 seniors received diplomas at Hollister high school graduation exercises in the high school auditorium this evening. Members of the class are Charles Ross, Goldie Dobbs, Helen Gardner, Anthony Hartman, Ruth Hickey, Edna Hobbs, LeVone Hupfer, Grace Hupfer, Mary Jull, Willie Lansing, Merle Parsons, Miss Frazier, Mae Ross and Enola Swain.

Class day was held Tuesday, with the mothers of graduates present. The history of the class was read by Helen Gardner, the class prophecy was given by Julla, Patricia and Grace Hupfer, the class will be read by Mary Jull. A dialogue representing the four school years was depicted and the program closed with the singing of the Alma Mater song.

Mothers of the seniors attended the annual breakfast Monday morning in the basement of the Presbyterian church. Table decorations were in the class colors, gold and blue. The program was given by Miss Elizabeth Atlier, Raymond Butler and facilities of grade and high schools. A luncheon and service were held at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening with Rev. G. L. Clark, Twin Falls, delivering the sermon.

JUST KIDS
 YEP! IT IS GRANDA!
 THIS IS THE GOOD OLD DAYS!
 ME TOO!
 I COULD DIRECT YOU TO THREE OF 'EM WITH NO EFFORT!

THE GUMPS - THE OUTCAST
 I CAN'T GET OVER THE NERVE OF THAT LADY TRYING TO KEEP ME
 AWAY FROM MY OWN FAVORITE
 TREATING ME AS A TRESPASSER - RELAYING TO YOU THAT SHE WANTS TO GET IN THERE AND STEAL MY SHIRT THE WAY SHE ACTS

THE GUMPS - THE OUTCAST
 I'LL FIND OUT WHAT'S HAPPENING
 OVER THERE. YOU'VE BEEN ME OUT - I WOULD HAVE DONE ANY WAY IN YESTERDAY IF I HADN'T BEEN THINKING OF THE BUNNY - I
 IMAGINE 'KEEPING HIS OWN FRIENDS OUT OF THE HOUSE WHILE SHE PLAYS AN ANGEL."

THE GUMPS - THE OUTCAST
 AND YOU KNOW WHY SHE'S DOING
 IT? DON'T YOU? SHE'S WANTING TO KEEP US OUT OF HER MAMMA'S
 FAVOR, AND THEN SHE DIES!
 WHAT? TIDY SHELL? SHE'S
 SHE MAY BE AN OLD LADY,
 BUT SHE'S GOT YOUNG IDEAS -
 SHE'D KICK UP HER HEELS PLENTY
 IF SHE COULD GET HER HANDS ON BUNNY'S
 MONEY -

THE GUMPS - THE OUTCAST
 I COULD DIRECT YOU TO THREE OF 'EM WITH NO EFFORT!

THE GUMPS - THE OUTCAST
 I CAN'T GET OVER THE NERVE OF THAT LADY TRYING TO KEEP ME AWAY FROM MY OWN FAVORITE TREATING ME AS A TRESPASSER - RELAYING TO YOU THAT SHE WANTS TO GET IN THERE AND STEAL MY SHIRT THE WAY SHE ACTS

The store that trades in Twin Falls, and it is hardly an exaggeration to say that Twin Falls trades at this store. The old fashioned, friendly neighborhood spirit permeates this institution side by side with the most modern fixtures, equipment and methods. Not forgetting what was good in the old we have attempted to lead with the best of the new. This store is locally owned. It has always backed Twin Falls and Twin Falls enterprises to the very limit.
