STATE ASKS RULING ON TAX COLLECTION

Disagrees With Koelsch On '50-Cent' Schedule for Sales Taxes

BOISE, May 25 (AP)—J. E. Martin, legal adviser of Governor Ross, announced today that the state will appeal from Judge Charles F. Koelsch's decision last night in the sales tax injunction suit.

Almost simultaneously, James F. Albaugh, Jr., attorney for the group of merchants who were the plaintiffs in the action before Judge Koelsch, announced he will file a counter appeal in their behalf.

Commissioner Board. Incidentally, Martin announced that the defendant, the group of finance and administrator of the sales tax law, is bound by Judge Koelsch's writ of injunction.

Under the terms of the injunction, the state is prohibited from collecting a 50-cent tax on any schedule other than the so-called "48-cent" schedule approved by the legislature.

"We are thoroughly satisfied with Judge Koelsch's conclusions as to the constitutionality of the law and with his ruling on the referendum question, but we are not in agreement with his views relative to the amount of tax which the state can collect," commented Martin in explaining why the state will appeal.

Attorney Ross today said he will have no comment to make on the court's interpretation of the tax law. He said the state will appeal to the supreme court finally this week.

Asked whether he thought approval by the high courts of the state's sales tax law would be a special legislative favor, he said he would be called to enact other revenue raising measures, the governor said.

"I will have to determine first how much money can be raised under the schedule approved by the courts, and then the state will determine the amount of tax which the state can collect," he said.

EDUCATOR SPEAKS TO FILER SENIORS

Thirty-Six Students Graduated From Rural High School at Exercises

FILER, May 25.—Dr. Robert O. Stevenson, Postville, professor of special science at the University of Wisconsin, delivered the commencement address to 36 filer-rural high school seniors in the auditorium of the new building of Twin Falls county fairgrounds here last evening.

By superintendent of schools Ray Ramsey presented the class and Ed Reichert, member of the board of education, presented the diploma. The class was accompanied by the school choir and Charles Bruce played a trombone solo. Richard Puffenberger, a soloist, sang the national anthem.

Francis Drake sang a solo and a selection from the choir by the choir chorus. Rev. A. B. Hubbard pronounced the benediction.

CONTROL OF WHEAT ACREAGE ENDORSED

By 120 to 60, the eastern standard time, the returns had soared to 139, 184 in favor to 24,383 against.

Primary returns from the far west, where Washington, Idaho and Oregon are among the heaviest producers, showed no reversal in the trend at the west coast of the nation.

Kansas, which fills one-fifth of the country's bread-basket, had rolled up a total of 60,225, a vote compared with 9,375 against as midnight passed.

Not all of the heavy producing states showed such favorable trends however, although in all instances the majorities were substantial.

In Nebraska, for instance, a vote of 14,417 to 3,043 had been recorded in the early morning hours. Ohio, at the same time, stood with 3,872 against 1,784.

Thousands of ballots remained uncounted today. Returns from some of the 27 states that have not yet cast their votes for a final count even to the heavily recorded states the returns were far from certain.

There were no early returns, for instance, from Pennsylvania, where some looked for a possible unfavorable reaction to the program.

Steel-Laden Runaway Car Deals Death On Wild Dash

ARLEE, Mont., May 25 (AP)—Conductor G. F. Wilkinson shakily told a grim story last night of his thunderous ride with death down a mountain side yesterday morning as the clung desperately to a runaway flat car with the body of his friend, F. A. Lombardi, Missoula, and Alfred Markert, Arlee, and how they were killed when they tumbled to their deaths.

"I kept trying to apply the brakes," Wilkinson said, "but the car seemed to gain momentum and finally something snapped and down the mountain she went. I kept at the brakes, but faster and faster it went, and I knew it would be suicide to jump."

Alone aboard the flatcar, the Missoula conductor attempted to allow the car to coast into a position on Eravo hill near here, but was unable to make the brakes function.

Breaking from his control, the heavily laden car careened down the canyon side around curves at a speed estimated from 70 to 80 miles an hour. It crashed into a motor car, speared, and continued its crazy rush onward.

Behind Wilkinson most of the ride the body of Markert, hurled aboard the flat car from the speeder.

Mrs. Markert, from the door of her home near Arlee, saw the runaway car swing around a curve bearing the grim freight the later learning the body of her husband. Beside the right-of-way lay the broken body of Lombardi.

Wilkinson cried frantically as he sped helplessly through the cuts. His cries successively warned Robert Condon, signal maintainer who rode, speeder in the path of the car. Condon leaped to safety but before the steel-laden juggernaut smashed his car into it.

The car raced a mile onward when Wilkinson saw his two friends ahead. He cried. They did not hear him. There was a crash, the splintering of wood and the twisting of steel. Markert's body tumbled through the air and landed on the flatcar beside Wilkinson.

"As the car bore down on Lombardi and Markert I yelled all the warning I could, but they did not hear me."

Wright Seminary, exclusive girls' school.

They based their conclusions on the story of Mrs. Thomas E. Moffitt, a friend of the Weyerhaeuser, that she had seen young George at about that time in front of the seminary. She said the boy walked around the back of her car as she drove up to her mother's.

While distracted parents of the boy stayed close by their home, more and more was learned about the runaway. The flat car in which it was recovered bore a scrawled youthful signature presumably that of little George.

It contained a threat of death to the little victim if the authorities interfered.

Altogether it indicated the writer considered himself quite a personage who figured he had the situation well in hand but there were obvious signs that the masked officers had obtained a good picture of the situation.

California Plates on Car

Pollen began a hunt for an automobile reportedly seen containing two men and a boy near the scene of George's disappearance yesterday. The car was described as having California license plates.

Some of the revealing things about the kidnap note were: It was written on note paper such as a woman would choose—a type generally easily traced to its source of supply.

The six-hour lapse between the disappearance and the mailing of the letter offered a possible clue. The writer held off six hours for a good reason, that might give an indication of the distance of his hideout from the scene of the crime.

From the palatial but grief-palled Weyerhaeuser home a white beach-suit fluttered indignantly as it swung as a signal, possibly to the kidnappers. Its appearance was not explained.

Everybody officially connected with the immediate phases of the case maintained a rigid silence. Except for the fluttering beachsuit that could be seen for a long distance over Puget Sound, there were no signs of anything unusual at the Weyerhaeuser home.

Although the window blinds were drawn, George's little sister, Elizabeth, 12, was allowed the freedom of the two and a half-acre estate. Her appearance once in a riding habit.

Her face showed anxiety, and she swung as a signal, possibly to the curious persons in the street.

The home appeared not to be guarded.

Justice department agents in Washington, reminded for communication at those on the job.

WEALTHY TACOMA FAMILY REPLIES TO KIDNAPER'S NOTES

(Continued From Page One) moreover, that department of justice agents, of whom there was a small army here, do not intend to enter the case with every recourse at their command until George is restored to his parents.

The ransom note gave the Weyerhaeuser five days in which to post the $200,000 ransom. One day has passed already.

Police, meanwhile, pretty definitely fired the hour and the place of the kidnaping at about 12:30 p. m. yesterday in front of the Annapolis.

CATTLE AND HORSE GROWERS TO MEET

Pocatello Sessions to Deal With Federal Grazing Regulations

The Idaho Cattle and Horse Growers' association will hold its annual convention in Pocatello June 4 and 5. E. F. Rinehart, acting secretary of the organization, announced.

In former years, Rinehart said, the Idaho Cattle and Horse Growers was the largest livestock association in the state. In recent years it has been inactive. It is now reorganized and represents the best cattle industry, which is the second largest livestock industry in the state, being exceeded only by sheep.

On the Idaho ranches and ranges are half a million head of cattle, from which 100,000 choice beef animals are shipped to market each year. Part of Idaho—the western third, from Elmore county west—is now included in the land controlled by the Taylor grazing act. The public domain of this large area, classified as district No. 1, will now be under controlled and regulated grazing. This, as well as the problem of grazing on the national forest and state land will receive attention at the Pocatello meeting. In addition, the proper method of breeding, management and marketing will be discussed.

List of Speakers

A list of speakers at the association's meeting includes Albert Campbell of New Meadows, president of the association; F. E. Mottin, secretary of the American National Livestock association; Harry Peirle, chief of the AAA cattle and sheep section; Clyde Bacon of Twin Falls, president of the Idaho Wool Growers' association; R. H. Rutledge, forest service supervisor; Archie D. Ryan, acting chief of field operations department of the interior division of grazing; I. W. ## San Diego's Exposition Looks to the Future But Sneaks in a Glimpse of the Romantic Past

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 25 (AP)—An exposition of the future instead of the past, attempting to tell what has ahead rather than what has gone before, is nearly complete here.

It is the California Pacific International exposition which will try to show the automobile of the next few years, the machinery and engines being developed but not yet being sold, the electrical equipment and tools before it is ready for the market, but destined, in the near future, to become the matter-of-fact transportation of the future.

U. S. Home 10 Years Hence "The exhibits will show the American home as it will appear five or ten years from now," said Zack L. Farmer, general manager of the exposition. "and schools and factories and whole cities that are coming, but not yet here, will be forecast by the displays of the great industrial firms that have taken space here."

At the same time, memories of the past will be included to some extent, in the exposition.

One section of it will pay tribute to the miners of 1849, who developed the gold rush in a natural canyon of San Diego park, where the exposition is located, a reproduction of a miner's camp has been created.

"Golden Quarry" is called. Another goes even deeper into history, reproducing a celebrated Indian pueblo of the southwest. The whole visual motif of the exposition is historic, with its buildings done in the classic colonial Spanish architecture, and its grounds overlooking the bay where the Spanish adventurers, Balboa, Cabrillo and Coronado first appeared.

But in art, science, transportation, education and agriculture, San Diego's displays will be aimed at the years lying ahead.

An international city of the future has been given over to an international city in which more than a score of nations bordering the Pacific ocean will have exhibits. Each country has erected its typical architecture.

Adjacent to this is an exhibit prepared by an American automobile manufacturer, in which practically every type of roadbed in existence is duplicated. The exhibitor will demonstrate performance of the new model automobiles over each roadbed. "No matter how many people are visiting the exposition at any given time," says Farmer, "the atmosphere we believe, will be perfect. We tried to get as far as possible from the carnival and show business hurry-hurry."

At any given time," says Farmer, "the atmosphere we believe, will be perfect. We tried to get as far as possible from the carnival and show business hurry-hurry."

While the beautiful architecture of this terrace is beyond the reach of most people, its decoration is not. And the decoration is really what makes it a place for enjoyment of the out-doors with indoor comfort.

Against the white of the plaster walls and the columns, the decorator, Mrs. George Talmer, has used leaf-green lattice work and green and white striped awnings. On the stone floor are rugs in green and tan.

The furniture is bamboo, with cushions made of a rubberized material, some of which are solid green, some green and white and some in a yellow and green figured material. A few wrought-iron plant stands and tile-topped tables complete the scheme.

The entire arrangement is practical, as well as attractive, since it will stand all sorts of weather conditions.

Harmon Field Grows Out Of Development of Ideal

Twin Falls Playground Result Of Local Men's Diligence Plus Donor's Generosity

By J. LYNN DUKE
HARMON FIELD, ON WHICH THE city's playground pool, probably would not be the pleasant playground it is had not a circular mailed to The Twin Falls News been sent from the wastebasket in March, 1924.

It has been eleven years since The News received the circular, which stated that William E. Harmon, millionaire Ohio real estate dealer would, that year, present fifty playgrounds to cities of at least 3,000 population which had shown a thirty-per-cent growth since 1900. But with the press of other affairs, The News has little space for playgrounds at the moment, so will practice aim, the circular hit the wastebasket with a plip of finality.

The letter, though contained in the communication stayed, the folder was retrieved and sent over to the Chamber of Commerce, which at once appointed a Park committee of three: the president of the school board, Mayor Shad L. Hodgins, and Burton W. Harmon, architect, who at that time was active in an organization sponsoring supervised child play.

The late Charles Dwight was at that time secretary of the Chamber and the idea at once appeared to him. Mr. Dwight undertook all of the earlier correspondence in connection with the offer and served as secretary to the committee having the matter in charge. Much preliminary work was necessary. With this disposed of, Mr. Morse accepted the post of chairman and the committee promptly went to work to arrange for compliance with the various conditions of the offer.

Two sites were selected for the proposed park were tentatively selected, one on Locust street, just north of the city hall, and the other the present Harmon field, which then was an apple orchard. Figures, plans and a preliminary estimate of the determination to prove that Twin Falls was eligible to receive a grant from the Harmon Foundation.

The plan was to purchase 156 other cities had similar notions and forthwith made applications for themselves. But, there were fifty parks to be given away that year, hardly enough to go around. The Foundation eliminated seventy cities, leaving in the final assembly, thirty-six others were fled away under "Future Business," and the remaining fifty were told to go to it and prove that they were worthy of receiving a grant for their park sites. Twin Falls was twenty-fourth on the list.

Obstacles Materialize
Mr. Morse and his committee began work in earnest. In October, 1924, an option was secured on the five-acre site between Eighth and Ninth east. On January 6, 1925, the Foundation informed the committee that Twin Falls was to receive its grant. The requirements were quite simple. The city would receive little more than the money to erect a park for the first year's maintenance and $200 a year for the following four years. That seemed a fair price, since Mr. Harmon was donating $2,000 at that outset. But there were obstacles.

With disappointment, the committee learned that the city could not make expenditures that were not included in the budget at the outset for the financial year. Also, the city could not accept the property until any consideration where it might have to deed it back to the city, it could not legally do this without a vote of the people, which, to say the least, is at most times uncertain.

Necessary Funds Raised
The committee met again, deliberated and departed. When it reconvened, both sides of Main avenue had been thoroughly canvassed. Three hundred dollars in donations for the first year's maintenance were placed in a local bank, and the Park Corporation had been created by the city.

Price Moves Upward
The city eventually appeared and fully informed the committee that his selling price was one thousand dollars more than his father had asked; take it or leave it. The committee may have passed, but it did not hesitate.

Final acceptance of the offer by Harmon field was made on August 10, 1925, and the Harmon Foundation forwarded its check for $2,000 to purchase the 3.2 acre.

A decade has drifted by since that day. Although seven or eight thousand years didn't bear as much fruit in the way of improvement as the original apple trees that inhabited the place, today town folks can "twain with price" when referring to Twin Falls' only public playground.

These past two years have been not only a successful drive for an swimming pool, thanks to the assistance of the Chamber of Commerce, but many improvements in the grounds, such as covering the ditch which ran in front of the property; construction of a driveway with lava retaining wall; erection of rest rooms which will soon be completed; two new concrete tennis courts; and a soft ball field.

The city's youngsters watch critically and anxiously as their new pool takes shape and swimming days approach. It will be theirs forever, just as Mr. Harmon insisted it should when he made the gift, with no restrictions as to race, creed or color.

Unnoticed by most visitors to the park is the small house plaque set in lava in its obscure corner near the left entrance; an inscription which fulfills unspoken dreams of countless children who have deserted alleys and vacant lots to find the carefree pleasures which are rightfully theirs:

HARMON FIELD
This playfield was made ours through the assistance of the Harmon Foundation
1924
Dedicated forever to the plays of children, the development of youth, and the recreation of all.
"The Gift of Land is the Gift Eternal."
Wm. E. Harmon.

THEATER OWNERS MEET AT BURLEY

Independent Motion Picture Exhibitors From Four States Convene

BURLEY, May 25.—Independent theater owners operating in Idaho, Utah, Wyoming and Nevada, met for a monthly session at the National hotel here Tuesday. G. E. Hula, president of the Intermountain association, presided. Mr. Hula is an operator of several theaters in Utah and Nevada.

Other notables in attendance were: John Barker, Intermountain, Park City; and Attorney G. H. Hula, Salt Lake City; Joe Lawrence, one of the Utah directors; Stanley Rich, Montpelier; A. W. Johnson, St. Anthony; and L. E. Harris, Burley, Idaho directors. Other members included owners from Rigby, Idaho; Pella, Rupert, Tuba City, Nevada; Brigham City, Mo.; and Salt Lake City and Ogden.

Among the various matters discussed was the matter presented by Herman Brown ofampa, an independent exhibitor, who stated the difficulties he has had under the motion picture code of securing fair treatment. He has taken his case to the highest code authority, he said, without result. Bitter opposition was expressed by the members on the opportunity of the code on independent theaters and he emphatically condemned the New Deal set-up of the organization, and the alleged trilateralization of the motion picture industry for the benefit of large chain circuits.

Other topics taken up for an airing were: Personal opinions, designation of preferred playing time, use of Ross federal checks and other subjects pertaining to the end of the business. The Pettigall bill, now before congress, was discussed. Both merits and disadvantages were seen, depending upon the individual theater owner and his method of operation. The bill will be reviewed by the members and is supported by Allied, a national organization of independent exhibitors.

POPE FEARS SPREAD OF NAZI PAGANISM

Pontiff Declares Sterilization Program Menaces Entire World

VATICAN CITY, May 25.—Pope Pius XI today declared the international hospital congress Friday that "incalculable damage will result for the whole world" if Nazi Germany's program of sterilization and paganism extends to other nations.

The pontiff frankly told the delegates, among them several Americans, that he was not pleased over the fact that the topic "Eugenics and Sterilization" later on this program, has been postponed for discussion at a larger congress.

He also expressed his displeasure that one delegate had asserted the hope the Nazi idea would be adopted by the whole world.

"We know Germany, we have many friends there," his holiness said, "but we must realize that if the German program of paganism is extended to and accepted by other nations, incalculable damage will result for the whole world."

"The Pagan world, which has given us so many masterpieces of sculpture, literature and painting, also has given us the most terrible depravation which St. Paul recognizes."

Pope Pius said the church's idea concerning sterilization "has been abundantly disclosed in our encyclical 'Casti Connatus' which has received the approval of the highest medical authorities."

56,244 Germans Sterilized

BERLIN, May 25.—The German ministry of justice today announced that 56,244 German males and females were sterilized up to December 31, 1934.

While telephone lines were still buzzing with inquiries as to whether this figure was the total amount of sterilization since the inauguration of the law or was only the operation during 1934, the government suddenly forbade the German press to publish any further figures and declined to answer queries.

The statistics revealed that 84,225 suggestions for sterilization had been sent 203 German "health courts." Of these, 64,499 cases were decided and 20,226 are still pending.

In 8,219 cases, the doctors involved protested against being sterilized, according to the announcement, which added that only 377 of those protesting won their pleas.

The reasons for sterilization were feeble mindedness, split personality, epilepsy and chronic alcoholism.

Lawson Little Wins Sensational Struggle For Amateur Crown

24-Year-Old San Francisco Sharpshooter Triumphs Over British Physician On Wind-Swept Course

By GAYLE TALBOT (Associated Press Sports Writer) ST. ANNE'S-ON-SEA, England, May 25 (AP)—W. Lawson Little, jr., the colossus from California, fixed the mantle of golfing greatness more firmly on his shoulders today when he defeated Dr. William Tweedell, a 38-year-old British physician, one up, in 36 holes and won the British amateur golf championship for the second straight time.

Thus the burly, 24-year-old San Francisco shotmaker became the first player in history to win three consecutive national amateur golf crowns and the third man ever to register a "double" in the 50 years of this championship.

During a sensational struggle which saw the lanky holder of the British and American simon-pure titles three up at the end of the morning round, only to be brought back on even terms with six holes to go in the home stretch, Little played some of the grandest golf in his career. He withstood paralyzing pressure over the final, wind-swept passage to subdue Tweedell, the winner of the 1927 championship, who made a bold bid to restore the crown to England on the last nine holes.

Desperately needing a four on the final-hole to assure victory, the American skillfully got off one of the most testing shots of the tournament, a 100-yard drive in three strokes by a gallery of almost 10,000 which had veered on various conduct over the prospect of witnessing Little's downfall.

Standing on the 18th tee, Little was dornie one, Tweedell, having the honor of virtue of winning the previous hole, nudged the ball with a 230-yard drive. Earlier in the day Little had been betting the ball from the tee fairly consistently about 300 yards.

Down the stretch, he was hard pressed, and sacrificed accuracy for distance. He sliced his drive into an swarm of spectators standing in the rough and the ball settled on a bare spot.

His fore-caddy, with a stick flying an American flag, rushed to the spot and fell on all fours, attempting to prevent the rampaging American from trampling on the ball. Little slowly ambled up to the ball and with characteristic impassiveness viewed the situation without a sign of emotion. One hundred yards distant was the green, with two yawning traps in between. It took the mainline five minutes to move the crowd back to permit Little to get a free swing at the ball. He chose a spastic miscalculation, the pellet beautifully cleared the traps and it came to rest on the green 28 feet from the hole. Tweedell planted his approach three feet inside of Little's.

That recovery had a revitalizing effect on the champion. For the first time during the final match he smiled. He took less time than usual in lining up the putt and then rolled the ball "stone dead" for a sure putt, putting the pressure on Tweedell and, as it turned out, blighting the challenger's hopes. Facing the most difficult operation of his career, the medic saw his 25-foot putt, which made would have taken the match at least an extra hole, slide past the cup. Rusefully but grimly, Tweedell tapped Little's ball into the cup and conceded defeat.

The gallery, which had cheered Tweedell's magnificent uphill fight cheered equally for the victorious Californian.

Rosemont, Ridden By Idaho Jockey, Wins Over Omaha

William Dupont's Thoroughbred Defeats Favorite In Sixtieth Running of $11,250 Withers Mile

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP)—The famous stretch drive that carried William Woodward's Omaha to easy victories in the Kentucky derby and the Preakness failed to get results today as the chestnut son of Gallant Fox bowed to William Dupont's Rosemont in the 60th running of the Withers mile at Belmont park.

Meeting Rosemont for the first time, Omaha found his stretch drive matched stride for stride as he dropped the decision and the purse of $11,250 by one and one-half lengths for his first major defeat of the year. 2000-year-old Whinnery's Plat Eye was another one and one-half lengths to the rear while stretched out behind the three leaders were six other top third-year-olds.

Meves Up From Sixth The crowd of 20,000 made Omaha the 1 to 2 choice and as the chestnut filer swung around the sweeping bend leading into the home stretch it appeared as if his confidence would be justified. The derby and Preakness winner, running in full stride, had moved up from sixth to third place and was rapidly cutting in on the advantage held by the pace setting Plat Eye.

He was still third at the turn for home, a quarter of a mile from the judges, but Rosemont, with Wayne Wright of Idaho Falls, Idaho, riding one of his famous finishes, was now winging along in front with one and one-half lengths to spare. Another sixteenth of a mile and Omaha had passed Plat Eye but there was no catching Rosemont.

Ira reported to be primed for a comeback. Stevens, former Kimberly mound ace, will perform the hurling operations for Twin Falls this afternoon with Donald being the plate.

Welterweight Go Opens Big Season Of Outdoor Duels

New Twentieth Century Club Offers Greatest Threat To Garden's Supremacy Since Days of Fugazy

By EDWARD J. NEIL (Associated Press Sports Writer) NEW YORK, May 25 (AP)—The opening gun of what should be one of boxing's greatest seasons of outdoor warfare will be fired in the Polo grounds Tuesday night with Jimmy McLarnin of Vancouver, B. C., striving to slave off the bid of Barney Ross of Chicago for the welterweight championship.

There probably will be 25,000 persons in the National league ball park, and there are expectations that 50,000, a mob of customers, if the weather is pleasant, will launch the new 20th century sporting club on its futile way.

The greatest threat to Madison Square Garden's supremacy in the big time fight field since Humbert Fugazy fought a losing battle for control with Tex Rickard finds Bill Carey, former Garden president, lined up against his old associates as head of the new organization that controls boxing at both the Polo grounds and Yankee stadium.

On the night of June 18, in the bowl on Long Island, the Garden pits Max Baer against Jimmy Bradstock in defense of his heavyweight title. After that the new organization takes the field again with a heavy-weight match between Primo Carnera and the latest Negro sensation, Joe Louis, from Detroit. All three of the big features are scheduled for 15 rounds.

Fight headquarters reported today that tickets were selling faster than last June, when the first match between McLarnin and Ross drew $104,000 and Ross added the welterweight title to his lightweight championship. Their second match, last September 8, which McLarnin, by an equally close decision, won back his throne, brought in $16,000. This time Ross is an 8 to 5 favorite.

Shortstops ordinarily are not leading hitters, but the runs-batted-in leadership in the National league for the first month of play was shared by two shortstops, Artie Vaughan of the Pirates and Lonny Frey of the Dodgers, with 23 each.

Out: Davis, sensational pitcher for the Phillies last year, when he won 19 games, has been seeking treatment for an ailing arm all spring.

George Selkirk, the outfielder who was hailed as the step-into of Babe Ruth's shoes, was removed from one spot and replaced by the pinch hitter was a pitcher, Red Ruffing.

Cougar Track and Field Team Captures Rocky Mountain Laurels

BALT LAKE CITY, May 25 (AP)—Leaving the task of unmaking records to their opponents, Brigham Young university's well-balanced and polished team came through with flying colors in the Rocky Mountain conference track and field meet here today.

Although five conference records tumbled into oblivion during the two-day games and another mark was tied, the Cougars devoted their attention to point-getting. They piled up 66 1/2 markers to retain their conference championship, but they were pressed until the final event by Colorado university, which was second with 55 1/2.

Coach Harry Hughes' Colorado angles came through to nose Utah out of third place by winning first and second in the hammer throw, the final event of the day. The farmers tallied 41 1/2 points against Utah State, 17 1/2; Greeley State, 9; Denver U., 7; Colorado college, 2; and Colorado Mines, 1. The other schools failed to score.

Four important links in the girls' basketball chain will be missing next year, Irene Stuydvin, Annabelle Ziegler, Nedra Nelson and Alina Kooloff, being among the graduates.

Harold "Whitney" Jenkins, one-man track team for Jerome, will be missed next spring when thoughts turn to the high and low hurdle events, at which Jenkins was a maver.

FOUR BOISE TRAPSHOOTERS TIED WITH SCORES OF 98 IN CHAMPIONSHIP CONTEST

BOISE, May 25 (AP)—Four Boise marksmen were tied with scores of 98 each on the first 100 targets in the contest for the Idaho singles championship at the close of the second day's events of the Idaho state trapshooting tournament tonight.

The four men who are tied are J. C. Gray, W. H. Arant, W. A. Stevens and A. E. Bopp, Jr. They were not high pins, however, as J. A. Wade, Boise professional and H. W. Carpenter of Pullman, Wash.,
