Governor Silent On Question of Special Session

"BOISE, June 6 (AP)—Governor Ross was non-committal today when asked whether or not he would call a special session to amend the state highway laws which were construed in third district court here recently to prohibit the state from building highways in incorporated municipalities with federal aid.

"Can we say you intend to call a special session to amend the highway laws to permit the state to build roads or subways in incorporated towns or cities, or for any other purpose?" the Governor was asked by a newspaperman.

"No," he said. "I don't intend to call a special session."

The governor was back at his office today after several days away on a fishing trip.

CHIROPRACTOR VICTIM OF QUIN IN PATIENT'S HAND
HUTCHINSON, Kas., June 6 (AP)—Dr. R. E. Ross, 44 chiropractor, and Mrs. Pearl Whitlock, operator of a rooming house, were shot and killed here last night by George Pennington, 50, a negro, who terrorized the rooming house with his wild shooting.

20 Girls Faint As Blazing Sun Hits Portland Festival

PORTLAND, Ore., June 6 (AP)—A scorching hot sun was too much for 20 girls who fainted in the ornamental parade of the Portland Rose festival today.

All went through their drills without flaw, but standing at ease in the kiddie stadium boys' witnessing subsequent phases of the ceremonies was too much for a number of youngsters watching the workers were kept busy.

The temperature at Portland was 86, breaking the year's record of 90 set the day before.

Galem also saw another new high when the temperature reached 92 and Eugene witnessed a temperature of 92.

An inconspicuous note was seen at Hood River as fruit growers reported unseasonal frosts in the upper valley caused considerable damage to strawberries. Apples are in the higher lands, along the river had sweltering temperatures.

While a snowplow ground into huge piles of dirt on the McKenzie highway between Bond and Eugene, it had reported temperatures of the central Oregon basin ranged from 82 to 87.

Pendleton had 95-degree weather, the year's hottest, further damaging wheat.

Story of Crash Intended to Test Girl's Affection

ELLIS, Kas., June 6 (AP)—J. C. Mason of Cobb, just wanted to find out if his sweetie really loved him but the unromantic police frightened him out of town before he learned the answer.

Registered at a hotel under the name of W. R. Mason, Mason sent his wife to the young woman at Cobb.

"Abruptly crashed near here," J. C. Mason killed. Plane demolished.

Then he went back to the hotel to await developments. But this is what developed. The telegrapher was curious about the reported crash and asked the news editor of Cobb. A reporter asked the police who asked the funeral director, the funeral director asked the hospital, the hospital asked the sheriff and the sheriff asked the telegrapher. Then police called on Mason.

Admitting he had sent the telegram, Mason declared his purpose.

"I knew if she was in love with me she would hurry here. I could tell by her reply whether she cared or not."

Ellis police weren't at all romantic nor sympathetic. But there was one thing they did do. They notified the next freight out of town.

So neither he nor Ellis knows the answer.

THE NAMPA CASE

Considerable interest is being manifested in the situation which confronts the city of Nampa as a result of a recent court decision which prohibits the use of funds for public improvements within the limits of Idaho towns.

In the particular case referred to an Injunction Bill issued upon the request of Nampa property owners who claimed that the building of a proposed subway would adversely affect the value of their property.

It may be that the situation warrants the calling of an extra session of the Idaho Legislature as a means of ridding the State of the law complained of. Certainly, if this is not done it is perfectly evident that Nampa may not be the only town to suffer.

MAIL MEN NOT TO BLAME

The president of a branch of the National Association of Letter Carriers recently made a public statement which is worth repeating. It followed complaints of many chain letter victims who accused postmen of stealing the fortunes they expected in vain.

"Every chain letter that is mailed is going to be delivered if it is properly addressed and has the proper postage on it. The reason people aren't getting chain letter money is that they've been taken in, and the quicker they get used to this fact the better it will be for them and their mailmen."

FEWER MOTOR DEATHS

It has become commonplace to find in the newspapers on Monday, and on the morning after any holiday, stories about the number of traffic fatalities and serious injuries occurring on the public's day off.

It is therefore both surprising and encouraging to have the National Safety Council announce that traffic deaths for the entire country were one hundred eighty fewer in April 1935 than in April 1934.

BREAKFAST FOOD

A young man walked rather nervously into the village post office. "Hello, Mr. Postmaster," he asked the postmaster.

REAL STRATEGY

Officer: "Now tell me, what is your idea of strategy?" Private: "It's when you're out of ammunition, but keep right on firing."

THE STYLE

Two ladies were attending a concert at the town hall. They looked about them.

UN-MONKEY IMMIGRANTS

California, the state which does the most advertising of any state in the union to encourage settling of its expansive plains and valleys, has set up immigration restrictions.

This is the first instance in America where the foreign states have sought to establish immigration restrictions. Should the senate accept the assembly's bill, and if Governor Merriam should sign it, the United States supreme court might have before it another ticklish question.

The precedent California seems likely to seek to establish in one which holds much interest for the nation. It might conceivably be duplicated in many other states.

QUO VADIS?

That miserable misbehavior sales tax is still tangled up in the courts. It may be said as was said of one famous inmate:

"It wiggles in and it wiggles out, leaving the people still in doubt as to whether the tax will be on the books."

THE CHANGING VETERAN

Col. Charles M. Fernald, governor of the national soldier's home at Atterbury, is lamenting the passing of the Civil War veteran comments on the difference in type of survivors of the last three wars who were housed at the home simultaneously.

Nearly all had a smattering of skill at many trades, and were able to support themselves on a few acres of land or a few cows.

Thirty years ago the disabled Civil War veterans were almost exclusively the residents of the home. Their numbers have diminished from several thousand there at one time until now there are a scant dozen, their average age more than 90 years.

Natural laws will take the last of these within a year or so at most, and when they are all dead the American era will have passed. It would be interesting if Col. Fernald would elaborate and preserve his studies of these splendid troopers he has had such a fine opportunity to study and to know.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 6.—Through his window, West End avenue, New York, June 6, 1935. The sun is shining brightly on the city.

The mandolin man's struck down in the early 1920's. Ed Womel, mandolinist, died in a hospital in the city.

Incidentally, the bicycle has never been so evident as it went out in this summer. Central Prospect and Bronx parks are fairly awash with them.

One of Peter B. Kryn's grander stories concerns the greasy old coder who sat on his high perch during the passing of a circus parade.

The cathedral of St. Trophime in the ancient city of Arles supplies the design for France's latest in a new series of stamps.

Where the narrow streets of the old city are crowded with people, the streets of Arles are wide and open.

Poland's mourning stamp for her man of power, the late Joseph P. Kamp, was issued shortly after the marshal's death May 12.

It never rains but it pours. The cathedral is named for St. Trophimus who founded the bishopric of Arles (as Arles was then called) in the first century. It's on the Rhone in southeastern France.

Guiding Your Child

By ALICE CLARISSA RICHMOND

FOREIGN: Mothers must develop vivid imagination if they are to have the advantage to their children.

Eighteen-month-old Tommy is put into the garden to play. He is in his path, and therefore safe. Because he is quiet, his mother's mind is at rest and she goes about her work with an easy conscience.

Another mother lets a couple of children of kindergarten age play alone out of doors. The grounds are safe, the youngsters have been trained to stay within bounds.

Children should be left alone and taught to be independent. On the other hand they must be guarded until they have learned to avoid dangers and to take care of themselves in an emergency.

Locomotive in Local O. S. L. Yards to Be Explained by Engineer

The week of June 10-15 has been designated by western railroads as "Railroad Week" and the entire territory from Chicago to the Pacific coast and from Canada to the Mexican border will make a concerted effort to acquaint the public with the advancement and improvements that have been made in railroad service during recent years, in spite of adverse economic conditions.

Between plants and facilities of the rail carriers will open to visitors at points where they are located. On the Oregon Short Line at Pocatello, the shops, one of the largest in the west, will be open to the public Monday, June 10. Conducted tours, starting at 9 a. m. for one hour, will be made through the locomotive and car shops, round house, power plant, motor and shop and battery-charging plants will be open each day from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Arrangements are also being made at Pocatello to lift a large locomotive with 200-ton cranes and have it suspended in the air for a change of wheels Monday afternoon.

Locomotive on Display

Locally, the Oregon Short Line will have an exhibition Wednesday and Thursday, one of its locomotives. The public is invited to come to the railroad yards, near the coal chute, where a locomotive engine will be in charge to explain and show this iron horse from cab to pilot.

During the week, officials will be in Twin Falls and speak before civic and service clubs on various phases of modern railroading and its recent developments.

ENGLAND STILL SEARCHING FOR WORLD WAR 'MISSING'

LONDON (AP)—Although the great war ended almost 11 years ago, England still is searching the battlefields for her dead and reinterring them in military cemeteries.

Since 1921, when the work of searching the battlefields was closed officially and no visible sign of isolated graves remained, more than 25,000 additional British graves have been found and the bodies moved into cemeteries.

There is no sign that the end is in sight. A report of the Imperial Graves Commission says that 1,248 bodies were recovered last year.

Approximately 300,000 British soldiers who crossed the channel still are registered as "missing."

SOILS DISCUSSED AT MEETING OF ROTARY

RUPERT, June 6.—A. K. Frisen, as guest speaker at Rupert Rotary meeting Wednesday noon, gave an interesting talk on soils on the Minidoka project.

Aided by a government map, Mr. Frisen pointed out the location of the various types of soil telling that the soil on the North Side extension, unfinished portion of the project, is inferior in quality. He asserted that it is far superior to any soil on the present project, this statement being backed by soil surveys, made by the government.

Mr. Frisen urged co-operation in an effort to reclaim the land. "The soil on the extension, I believe, will produce more abundant crops than any soil in Idaho," he told Rotarians.

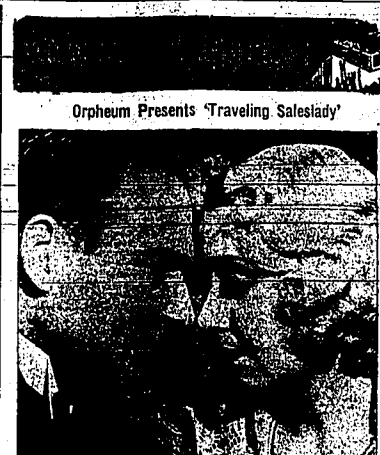

Dr. Raymond Snyder, Norman McCarty and H. E. Weisel of Albion Normal school and Rev. Leroy Walker of Burley were guests. Arthur Burson had charge of the meeting in the absence of Clyde Isenbure.

PRODUCE SHIPMENTS DWINDLE
BOJAE, June 6 (AP)—Idaho produce shipments are dwindling if State Department of Agriculture inspections are an indication.

During May, 1935, the total in carloads, was 1,003.

Last year it was 2,299.

The decline was attributed by department officials to the weak potato market this year, and the late spring vegetable season.

Appointive Posts

The Twin Falls city council on Tuesday passed a budget appropriation ordinance for the fiscal year 1935-36. This places into ordinance the appropriation for the new school which will amount to $250,000, including general fund, bond retirement and all other items of city expense and overhead.

Van T. Lew was appointed night policeman to succeed Hal Cunningham, who has served for four years. Tom Wilson was named park superintendent, succeeding S. L. Frasier, who held over from last year. The job calls for yearly appointment.

A new ordinance is being prepared to make license fees in the city of Twin Falls a year for bottled beer and a year for bottled or draft beer. This conforms with the new state law, which now permits higher license and also the never met beer. Under the new ordinance, which is to be passed at the next council meeting, it will be a misdemeanor to sell beer to any one intoxicated.

It was thought that work on constructing the swimming pool would start at once.

Vast Markets Await Revival of Heavy Industries, Business Statistician Declares

By ROGER W. BABSON
BOSTON PARK, Mass., June 6—In view of the recent supreme court decision on the NRA, the Frasier-Lemke act, and other matters, I believe that we are definitely headed into a period of either credit or monetary inflation. Although the supreme court has headed off the administration in some of its most important New Deal experiments, yet these decisions do not change the desires of the American people for a short cut to prosperity.

These decisions may even result in the president's relaxing his firm attitude against currency inflation. He may turn to it as his only method of quickly bringing back good times. Producing prosperity by currency inflation, however, is like showing a good bank statement by falsifying the books. On the other hand, if the president takes his cue from the court and swings toward the right he may create enough confidence among business men to get credit inflation under way. Hence, I believe we may be approaching one of the biggest booms in American history, and eventually we must face the day of reckoning. I am optimistic for the next few years, however, owing to the great potential market which exists today.

"Do Over" Factories
In the first place there is replacement of worn-out machinery, back in the prosperous twenties, expenditures for machinery averaged $6,600,000,000 per year. In the course of the depression this total was slashed to $2,700,000,000 annually. The machinery trade has estimated that it would take $10,000,000,000 to make up this deficit and to put American industry back on an efficient operating basis. Being conservative, I would put the figure at $10,000,000,000. The same situation exists in all branches of the heavy or capital goods industries, such as construction, railroad equipment, and the like, where the total deferred demand is estimated at about $10,000,000,000.

The railroad industry is very interesting from this angle. It is estimated that 15,000,000, or seventy-five per cent, of all freight cars now in use in the United States are more than twenty years old. Since 1929 only 100 locomotives have been ordered annually compared with 1,000 in normal years. The same situation holds true of passenger cars. In fact, the large percentage of rolling stock today is hopelessly antiquated. The great savings possible by use of efficient rolling stock would go a long way toward paying the railroads back on their feet. Radical new designs of all railroad equipment, as typified by streamlined trains, are creating a tremendous market. The "if" in this situation is the fact that the railroads are as poor as church mice.

Markets For Construction
Then there is the building industry. Volume of construction per year in normal times is figured at over $6,000,000,000. In the last three years it has averaged only a little more than $1,000,000,000 and fifty per cent of this was publicly financed. There are still unlimited possibilities for public works such as prevention of soil erosion, reforestation, flood control, and the like. These are now being tapped by the $4,800,000,000 emergency relief program. The federal power commission reckons that $300,000,000 of new generating capacity is necessary to prevent a shortage of electric power when industry gets back to normal.

With the automobile becoming a constantly greater factor in American life, we have only scratched the surface of the potentialities of road building. A deficit of about 200,000 miles per year has accumulated since 1929. This means that at the present time there is a shortage of over 1,000,000 dwellings, which, figured at the average cost per house built in 1934, means a market of $5,400,000,000. Furthermore, a large percentage of existing homes, as revealed by a recent survey, need a complete overhauling. Growing shortages of single dwellings and apartments are reported in half the leading cities.

Chapter 15
DEFEAT

"You must be mad!" Dawn's mouth forced itself into a smile; her heavy, darkened eyelids fell, hooding her eyes. "I wouldn't have said anything, Allison could not keep her voice steady only well, it seemed to him to be a father."

"You've told this story to your father?" It was an incredulous question.

"No, not yet." She made herself bring that out bravely.

"Let's get straight," Dawn leaped forward, both hands gripping each other tightly on her knees. "You say you saw me kissing Mr. Gompertz?"

"Yes!" Desperate now, Allison did not hesitate.

"My dear child, you're quite cracked!" Dawn was almost tolerant. "I haven't even seen Gompertz for two years!"

"But-but I saw you!" Allison had a sense of complete bewilderment. Dawn's tone had been so calm, so utterly certain, surely she couldn't have made a mistake!

"I don't know what or whom you saw, but it wasn't I," Dawn stated it with flat conviction.

"It was only a few yards off!" On the next she would be playing. "You made it pretty clear that you don't like me, that you're jealous of me and that you'd like to make your father break it off. But if you think you can do that by making up these horrible, quite impossible stories about your father..."

"It was you! You were wearing that navy dress with red on it!"

"Remembering one tale with another doesn't help." There was a grave reproach in Dawn's flexible voice.

"If you think you go to your father with this story after noon, I'm going to tell him myself!"

"You kissed that man. And you're sure it wasn't me?"

"At him just now. And she's clinging to the one fact in this sea of words. Perhaps you would like to know that I mean the entire afternoon she day before yesterday at my dressmaker's and that I had a friend with me."

"I should ask Allison?" Dawn shot a playful look at her.

"What?" Robert was frowning now.

"Nothing," said Allison.

"That won't do!" Dawn's tone cut like a knife. "You'd better report to your father what you said to me."

"I thought Dawn was—was in love with someone, this all she mumbled the words incoherently. "I thought I saw her kiss him. And—well, I was mistaken!"

She heard him catch his breath, saw Dawn's hand go out and his close on it.

"I think we'd better leave this till we get home," he said with this decision.

"But better," agreed Dawn; she was leaning forward on both arms, the light from the stage fell on her face and she was looking downward at a child's smile at the end next of the third row of stalls.

Allison said nothing. She had fallen.

They drove back in complete silence from the theatre, the girl and Mrs. Sumner sitting together, with Robert opposite.

There would be another row of course when they got back. Allison realized wearily. It would be no good trying to make her father understand that she had seen Dawn unmoving. She must let things take their course.

On the steps of the house, Dawn hesitated.

"I think I'd rather get off home," she said.

"Of course you may come in for a moment!" Robert said faintly.

"But for one moment then, Bob. Dawn yielded gracefully to his arm. "I really am tired."

But her step was springy enough as she walked across the hall and picked up some letters from the old coat chest.

"This business from the paper," she went on towards the library with Robert but Allison did

Semi-Pro Baseball Player Scores 71 To Top Famed Shotmakers On First Day of Championship Meet

(Associated Press Editor)
OAKMONT COUNTRY CLUB, PITTSBURGH, June 6 (AP)—Making the only successful attack on Oakmont's famed par after one of the most calamitous openings days in the history of the United States open golf championship, Alvin (Butch) Krueger, 29-year-old semi-pro pitcher and a golf professional at Beloit, Wisconsin, today led an international field of shot makers with 36-87-71, one under par.

The red-headed Wisconsin entry, a "dark horse," was the only player among 175 starters who was able to crack par for the full round over a course that failed havoc with some of the most famous figures in American golf.

Mrs. Moody Rallies To Reach Quarter-Finals of Net Tourney

(Associated Press Writer)
WESPERIDGE, England, June 6—Helen Wills Moody was forced to use all her tennis guile and summer every stroke in her bag before she could subdue 21-year-old Mary Hardwick, apple-cheeked English girl, in the quarter-final round of the Mrs. George's Hill tournament today.

Harassed equally by a court made slippery by a drizzling rain and by her opponent's accurate, tenacious game, Mrs. Moody dropped the first set in quick order and was within two points of defeat in the second when she began pulling the match out of the fire.

Mrs. Hardwick, needing only two lining shots to gain sudden fame, finally overpowered the baseline after a long rally and then rallied to lose the golden opportunity for Mrs. Moody, gradually getting her own magnificent game under control, never gave her another chance and won out at 4-6, 7-5, 6-3.

Conservative Trojan Coach Lists Only Six Counters in Broad Jump and Three in Quarter-Mile Event

(Associated Press Sports Writer)
LOS ANGELES, June 6—United States' conservative track situation is so discouraging that Coach Dean Cromwell scarcely had brought the I.C.A.A.A. championship relay team today before he had taken pencil in hand and figured how they could win the national collegiate title June 22.

"We haven't a sure first place on the squad," spoke the veteran Trojan coach with scarcely a trace of regret in his voice, "but I can see where we should score 59 points and that should be enough to beat Louisiana State, California, Michigan or anyone else who has a chance.

Versatile, at least "My boys scored in 11 out of 18 events back at Cambridge, and when you look at the way they did in competing in the other three you can safely say that while we're not going to be—maybe—we at least are versatile."

DUTCH EXCAVATORS BARE ROMAN HISTORICAL FACTS

URBICHT, Holland (AP)—Three of ancient Roman fortified camps were unexpectedly brought to light by excavations for traces of a medieval church here.

Excavated a man full of clay, two strata of the Roman occupation were laid bare; the first dating back to A. D. and the other to the second and third century following.

Archaeologists found confirmation of the story of Tacitus, Roman historian of a great flood which came after the destruction of the Roman camps by the Batavians (ancestors of the present Dutch). The latter tempted to throw off the Roman yoke.

This flood deposited a layer of mud over the whole region.

HAYES, England (AP)—Workmen digging next feet down to lay foundation for a new radio wave here, came across a statue.

It was about 20 inches high and resembled a man with his hands crossed on his chest and a serene look on his face. The workmen found that it made an excellent door-step for the Dutch church.

Then two archaeologists happened along, and now the statue is in the hands of the British Museum. The latter is said to be an authentic relic of ancient Egypt, belonging to the third or second century B. C.

Pirates And Tigers Climb Toward Top

Pittsburgh Defeats World Champion Cardinals 2-1

PITTSBURGH, June 6 (AP)—The Pirates climaxed a climb from fifth place in the National league standing to second in a little over a week today when they turned back the Cardinals 2 to 1 in a half game ahead of the losers.

"Guy Bush, rated as something of a veteran among the hurlers, hooked up with Jess (Pop) Haines, who is some nine years older, in a brilliant mound duty that was settled in the first two innings. Bush granted only four hits in the full route to gain his third victory of the season.

Half of the Cardinal blows were made in the first inning and took down the club's only fan, Burgess Whitehead, mounding for Manager, Frankie Frisch at second base as the Cardinal pined under a charity horse, opened the action with a single to left. Jack Rothrock doubled home, then Bush bore down and began retiring the Cards.

Whitehead got another single in the third but did not score while Pop Haines' error on a two-bagger in the sixth. The Cards threatened to tie the score in the seventh when Jim Collins drew the only walk in the inning, but Virgil Davis' grounder, Tommy Bond's error, and Frisch's misplayed ball to left, bringing Whitehead back to Asky Vaughan Collins was thrown out at the plate.

DETROIT, June 6 (AP)—Schoobey Rowe blew up in an amazing manner after pitching six hitless innings today but despite their sky-rocket ride the Tigers managed to defeat Cleveland 10 to 9 in ten innings and move into a tie with the Indians for third place in the American league standing.

The loers-sloped behind the idle Chicago White Sox and only a heavy rainstorm prevented the possibility of further changes in the standing. The teams were scheduled for a doubleheader to settle yesterday's first second game but rain which had threatened all through the open began to fall heavy after the finish and the afterpiece was postponed.

BRITISH COURTS GROW COLD

LONDON (AP)—The courts of London are growing cold in murder cases as receiving increasingly good receptions in England's courts. In many instances they are being discharged upon instructions from the bench.

One of the most curious crimes of the day, the Lord Stewart of the criminal appeal, referred to it as "the usual makeweight" in dismissing a recent appeal from a murder conviction.

"I notice the prisoner-rated the defense that his mind went blank," said the British judge, "marked Lord Stewart."

Jim Braddock Wins Approval Of Bill Brown

LAKE SHELDRAKE, N. Y., June 6 (AP)—State Athletic Commissioner Bill Brown, who a year ago almost blasted the Max Baer-Primo Carnera bout off the boards with his charge that Baer was "in no shape for a title fight" today looked in on Jimmy Braddock and found nothing amiss with the current heavyweight challenger's physical condition.

"Braddock seems in almost perfect condition physically," said Brown, "and I can't see how he could be pressed also by his confidence and easy manner. Too, he's boxing much better with his left hand than I've seen him before, but he's having himself pretty open for a right hand swing."

Braddock weighed 195% after today's session, exactly the same as he weighed yesterday, which led him to predict he'll enter the ring at 200 much under 194 pounds, it is about heavier than he was when he beat Art Lasky last March to earn his unexpected chance at the title.

Concerned for his opinion, as a physical expert, as to the soundness of Braddock's theory that he had day-laborer himself into better shape on the Jersey docks than he'd ever been able to do by regular training methods, Commissioner Brown said it was decidedly feasible.

Braddock added should Braddock win the title in the June 13 battle in the Long Island bout it would clinch a comeback "without any precedent in ring history."

"It isn't impossible," he said, "to expect a fellow who was first class six and seven years ago and then lost all those fights, to second and third-rate, that Jim did, to then find his stride again to the extent of becoming world heavyweight champion. But it isn't impossible."

Tomorrow is Braddock's birthday. He'll be 29.
