Light Summer Menus Have Infinite Variety In June

With June comes the climax in our gradual tapering off from the heavier diet of winter to the type of menu we will prepare for several months to come. Menus in early June take their cues from new, home-grown supplies of fresh vegetables, peak quality in spring fruits and the opening of the fresh fish season. It is easy to sap our energy by over-activity in June for our zest for living rises and our appetites diminish. Nature provides an abundance and variety of appealing and lighter, yet nourishing, foods with which to fortify our systems.

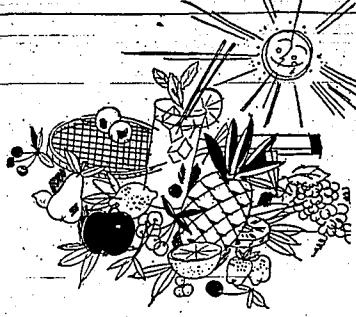

Trout and mackerel season opening this month brings new interest to menu-planners as well as sportsmen. Probably there is nothing so refreshing as fresh broiled trout or brook trout, served with mustard sauce.

New wax beans, green string beans, new potatoes, carrots, beets, green peas and cucumbers are available in profusion. Dandelion greens and beet tops rate with spinach at the moment, and other "greens," such as mustard, turnip tops and chicory, are also popular.

Cucumber Citrus
Do you know what to do with long green cucumbers now in the market? Don't confine this good vegetable to slicing and serving with salt, pepper and vinegar. The Russians make delicious salad of them using sour cream. Clean and slice 12 young cucumbers, cut into thin slices and salt slightly. Crumb three hard-boiled egg yolks and add sour cream, vinegar and dash of pepper. Pour over cucumbers. Chill and serve.

A famous salad chef recommends dressing cucumbers in salt for three

For That Royal Thirst

A ROYAL thirst is the kind that develops on a hot, dusty day after a long bike, a prolonged game of tennis, a loquacious party, baseball, or something like that. On that principle many of us who are far from being royalists still develop many a royal thirst these torrid summer days.

However, as the above parody points out, we have many more means of alleviating those thirsts nowadays than even the mightiest monarchs of the past.

Nimrod's Skill Demands Equal Art in Cooking

"Open fishermen" luck is home-maker's "headache." The housewife who is inexperienced in the preparation of fresh fish is apt to regard it as a huge, unmanageable task. Yet with proper methods it can be made comparatively simple. Almost any time after May, one is liable to be presented with a string of fresh trout or other catch by a proud fisherman. It is up to the home-maker to rise to the occasion and accept as a compliment the fact that the fish have been entrusted to her preparation.

The size of your fish will determine what method you will use in cooking it. If it is a large fish, plan to bake or broil it. Smaller fish are fried, broiled, steamed, or broiled separately in cornmeal or flour. Perch are best prepared by rolling in beaten egg and crumbs, and cooking in deep fat.

Broiling is a far more healthful method of preparation than frying, while steaming has a decided advantage over simmering. Cooking fish in simmering water not only loses valuable juices and flavors, but causes the fish to break up, making serving difficult. If you follow this method, be sure to add lemon juice or vinegar to the water so the meat will not lose its shape. By placing the fish in a enameled chafin during the cooking period, it is easier to lift it from the pan.

When you choose to bake your large fish, you can make a delectable dish of it by splitting the fish and stuffing it with a crumbly bread, oyster or tomato dressing. Dot your fish with shortening and season with salt and pepper before placing it to bake. Or, laid it by laying a few pieces of salt pork or bacon over the top. Do not add water to the pan in which you bake your fish, as this produces steam, which extracts the juices which impart good flavor. Allow 40 to 45 minutes for baking.

Menu Henry
In planning a menu around fish, remember that the salad should be light, with a sharp or sour dressing. Sliced cucumbers combine well in the fish menu often a cucumber sauce is used in place of the better-known fish sauces such as Tartar, Hollandaise, Bechamel, egg or tomato.

The following menu for a trout dinner and suggested garnishes you find of assistance in your planning:
Baked Trout with Cucumber Sauce
Craned New Potatoes
Hot Roast Beef
Fresh Fruit Salad
Washington Cream Pie
Figs, Casserole
Oranges, cups or slices
Parley, minced or chopped.
Olives, stuffed, whole, chopped or sliced
Eggs, hard-cooked, sliced, stuffed with ketchup
Lemon, cups, halves, sliced and sprinkled with minced parley or paprika.
Tomatoes, cups sliced, small ones dipped in French dressing.

"Boiled Dinner" Now Is Steamed

Tender young cabbage leaves, spring carrots and new potatoes of the finest quality suggest a new English "boiled dinner" for the week-end.

The warmth and heartiness of a steaming platter of "boiled dinner" are not usually associated with spring weather, but ingredients of this dinner are never so perfect as in the months of May and June. They are always cool days when steaming fare is timely and desirable.

The celebrated New England "boiled" dinner of our Early American ancestors is no longer "boiled" but steamed. There is a notable improvement in the flavor and appearance of the meat and vegetables when they have been steamed instead of boiled in a quantity of water under a tight cover for they retain food elements and flavor which were lost in Grandma's deluge.

2 pounds corn beef
7 medium head cabbage
6 medium carrots
2 medium sliced green beans
6 medium potatoes

Cover the corned beef with cold water and heat to the boiling point. Drain off water, cover again with cold water and bring to the boiling point. Then skim and simmer the meat until tender, allowing 25 minutes to the pound. Add vegetables, whole or cut in halves or quarters, allow them to cook until both meat and vegetables are tender. Allow 45 minutes for the potatoes and carrots or parsnips; half an hour for quartered cabbage and sliced turnips.

Allow two pieces of each vegetable for each serving unless there is a wide assortment of vegetables; measure each vegetable as usual; a piece of lean saled pork or very lean bacon strips may be substituted for the corned beef.

TOMATO WINS AGAIN

Called the love-apple many years ago and believed to be a poisonous and nourishing vegetable, full of those mysterious health-giving elements known as vitamins. Raw or cooked, it is a delicious food. Canned or fresh, it retains its nutritional qualities as vitamins. Raw as tomato soup in warm weather, will convert it into jelly, as soon as it arrives in the market, is appointed.

Tomato Juice Jelly
1½ cups canned tomato juice
1 cup lemon juice
1½ cups grated onion
5 cups (2½ lbs.) granulated sugar
1 bottle fruit pectin

Measure juices, onion, and sugar into large saucepan, and mix. Bring to a boil over hot water and add at once and the liquid fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and hot hard is done. Remove from heat and pour quickly into clean hot jelly glasses. Cover at once with a ¾ inch layer of hot paraffin, and when cool cover with glass with a tin cover or tightly pasted paper. Makes about 3 glasses of fluid ounces each.

HOW GOLF "WIDOWS" GET HUSBANDS HOME

After the eighteenth hole, the most ardent golfer wants to get to a stirring room or a bar. A golf widow may be less of a widow by hearing the art of the "widow" lunch and during the afternoon home with the promise of food which harmonizes with cold, bottled beverages.

Popular after-golf sandwiches are liver sausage, salmon, ham, cold veal, chicken lard and smoked tongue; Swiss cheese on Swedish bread and eye crisps, luncheon on pumpernickel, Roquefort and ripe old American cheese on rye and whole wheat bread, toasted or plain.

KIMBERLY GRANGE MEETS
KIMBERLY, June 7.—Kimberly Grange will meet Monday evening at the Kimberly Christian church. A flag day program is planned.

WATERMELON'S RIPE

Within the past few days watermelons from California have found their way to Twin Falls. They are a vegetable shelves of local grocery stores.

Watermelon need not always be served as a nutrient, in wedges or slices with the rind on. The bright red flesh against the green rind or uncolored makes an appealing treat to the eye, as well as to the inner man, but one may use blocks of watermelon with other colorful fruits that are fruit cups in place of its decorative effect, obtained by using fruits of contrasting colors as well as flavors that go well together.

An especially good dessert combination is watermelon cubes with pineapple. Either fresh or canned pineapple may be used. The vivid red of the watermelon and the bright yellow of the pineapple make a gay color scheme which might be carried out with a centerpiece of red or uncolored flowers, in pink, shade, or pink or pale yellow summer flowers.

Other good fruit combinations with watermelon cubes or canned suggested: Watermelon with cantaloupe, watermelon with sliced oranges or with sliced apple and peaches or barlett pears. These combinations may also be used, like fruit cup, for an appetizer course. In small portions.

The watermelon should be chilled for several hours, a ¼ inch cut up at least an hour before serving time. Remove the seeds and keep cold. Cut the pineapple in convenient sized pieces and chill as well. It hardly needs saying that any juice from the pineapple can be utilized for summer drinks or jelled desserts. Put the watermelon and pineapple together carefully on the plates so as not to break the pieces, and do not use too much.

PRICE CUTTING

Consumers have not been so alarmed as business men and economists at the threat of price-cutting in these first days following the announcement of NRA. The public could endure quite a little of that, with incomes where they are now and people needing so many things.

The trouble is that lowering prices, a good thing in itself, usually leads to so many things that are not good. It is wholesome socially only when prices have been too high, when producers have been making too much profit, and thus lower prices can be made without forcing other changes.

The workers, in turn, with their lower pay have less consuming power. The market is narrowed. This sort of thing, repeated in many industries, brings renewed depression and panic.

SAN DIEGO'S FAIR

Colorful San Diego, southernmost seaport on our Pacific Coast, which boasts of the first school, first church, first irrigation ditch, first tiled-land and first American flag in California, has just opened her California Pacific Exposition, which may rival the recent Chicago Fair.

It celebrates about a billion dollars' worth of great modern building enterprises, for the coast and adjacent territory, including the Boulder Dam, Los Angeles aqueduct, San Francisco's Golden Gate Bridge, the Grand Coulee power project on the Columbia River, and waterfront developments in various coast cities.

This is, very properly, a far-western exposition. Visitors from the populous regions eastward of the Rockies, will probably be especially interested in such things as the Palace of Travel, Gold Gulch, the Hollywood Motion Picture Hall, the House of Pacific Relations, the Model Town and others of a distinctive character.

If this sounds like a publicity blurb, what of it? All America congratulates San Diego on her enterprise and wishes her success.

FRENCH MONEY CRISIS

The governmental crisis in France shows there is a limit to the amount of deflation that nation can endure, just as there is a limit to endurance of inflation. Premier Flandin's government was overthrown because the French people wearied of the struggle to preserve the gold basis and the value of the franc.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 7.—Pursue personal life: I never wanted to go to school until I passed 30. I'm now writing daily for 14 years without selling a line. But has no thought of quitting. Most of the credit goes to my editor, Dick Crabb, publisher: John Morgan.

Rebecca West tops all descriptions of Elizabeth Lewis with: "A red-haired, raw-boned, slanting Jack-o'-the-box. S. S. Van Dyne looks as a writer of murder-detective mysteries should—'Meh-phisht'—obscene."

When Ralph Waldo Emerson visited England early in the nineteenth century he called on William Wordsworth, the poet, who showed much interest in America.

Supreme Court (Ogden Standard-Examiner): In a study of the makeup of the supreme court a writer sees a paradox. He finds that the average age of the justices is 70 years.

Another talented: Russell Bennett heard a tune—once and score it for full orchestra. Arthur Samuels is rarely slumped when asked to play any tune mentioned.

The last time W. G. Fields played on Broadway he was presented with an electric refrigerator for his dressing room by Rae Dooley. It cost him $200 a week to keep it stocked for droppers-in.

It is a little strange that the four "liberal" members of the supreme court come from the "conservative" east, from the big cities and the big private universities of the capitalistic centers of America.

BASEBALL LOSES HER GREATST (Baker, Ogden Democrat-Herald): So old Babe Ruth is through as a ball player, washed up as the saying goes.

Well, it is time for the Babe was being out home runs before many of the modern players of today were born. Ball player's active careers are usually short. It is a young man's game and not many survive long after the 30 mark in the upper levers.

Babe Ruth is the greatest figure American baseball has produced. There were Cobb, Speaker, Wagner, Chance, McGraw, Mathewson, Johnson and others, but the Babe surpassed them all in sheer sensationalism and in the drawing power of a compelling personality.

Ruth was great because he was more than a great ball player. He had a human appeal. He came from an orphanage and he never lost the human touch. Notoriously loopy at remembering names and faces, he was never too busy to autograph baseballs, visit hospitals, and do innumerable kind deeds for unfortunate.

American baseball probably owes more to Ruth than to any other. It is fitting that he should retire with a fortune from his earnings. The public would not want him reduced to the extremity of capitalizing on his past fame in order to extract a livelihood.

BREAKFAST FOOD

AMBITION REALIZED: Editor's Son: "Did you ever have a great ambition when you were a boy my age?"

Editor: Certainly. My one wish was to wear long pants. I got my wish, because, if there is anyone else in this county that wears his pants longer than I do, I'd like to meet him.

OR: The judge was trying to secure a jury for the trial of a criminal. A man was being questioned as to his fitness for jury service.

"Do you believe in capital punishment?" asked the judge.

"Yes," replied the man. "It isn't too severe."

WELL-TIMED: "Jumpson's address was well-timed, wasn't it?"

"Yes, two things the audience had just watched on before he uttered."

SALAD COMFORT: Mrs. Jones: "I don't believe in standing over a hot stove in the summer."

Mrs. Smith: "Yes, there's nothing like salad comfort."

SUN BATHING: Tropical and semi-tropical climates have, by long and often painful experience, learned the dangers of sunbathing. The danger is not in the sun, but in the sun's rays, which are so penetrating and so penetrating themselves to it.

After all, a turtle is stream-lined. Once a year, even Porter and I spend an evening in the ten-cent-a-dance halls and have we begin to puff! I'm wearing halos for 1935; Mac West, Max Beer and the Dean Brothers. At 75 an inch wide, I'm heavy, but I'm streaked through my hair in a week's time.

Unforgettable equidie foedery: Frank Sullivan's essays on Aunt Sarah Gallup; Frank Tinney talking to the orchestra leader; Florence in the musical "Milk and Honey"; Ring Lardner's early You Know Me All stories and Frank Fay in those long runs at the Palace.

Another talented: Russell Bennett heard a tune—once and score it for full orchestra. Arthur Samuels is rarely slumped when asked to play any tune mentioned.

WASHINGTON: CRACKED! Don't expect any mad reply from the President when he calls for a streamlined Congress to replace the horse-and-buggy version of the White House's government.

Such diverse advisers as Attorney General Cummings and "Young Bob" La Follette counsel caution. They argue against precipitate presentation of stopgap legislation or a constitutional amendment.

Political lions have cracked comment, fumbling the IRA dissolution. Southern Democrats are rejecting against the thought of federal control of the IRA.

Even Progressives are divided. Candidate Vandenberg refuses at the prospect of plugging the holes in the flagging Constitution against the New Deal.

STRAIGHTLY: Mr. Roosevelt spoke out against the IRA decision before he was permitted to fear-see some less appealing figure might lead the charge. He has asked loyal Democratic senators to refrain from discussion on or off the floor.

That method is meant to keep alive the issue through the next Congress and the campaign it restricted. The President will have a mandate for his philosophy. He will apply "them" to Congress, leaving it to the people to influence legislators.

Thomson Attains Half-Way Mark With Two '73's

Sarazen Trails Long Beach Star By Three Shots

LEADS FIELD

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)
WANNING OF THE CLUB, PITTSBURGH, June 7—Blond, curly-haired Jimmy Thomson, Scottish-born professional from Long Beach, California, emerged from the storm-cellar tonight to survey a vast amount of golfing wreckage and move confidently toward the final half of the United States Open golf championship tomorrow with a two-stroke lead over the field.

After one of the wildest and most hectic days in the history of the tournament, marked by a terrific gale that ripped property as well as scores to pieces, Thomson, who led at the head of the badly battered shooting army with two 73's for a 36-hole total of 141 only two over Oakland's justly celebrated par.

"Dark Horse" Second
The California "alge gun," who has been alternately very hot or a little cool for two rounds, took the lead from the faltering but still constant Alvin "Butch" Krueger, "dark horse" from Beloit, Wisconsin. Krueger added a faulty 77 to his sub-par 71 for a total of 148 and occupied an undisputed hold on second place.

Trailing Thomson by three shots was the tournament favorite, Gene Sarazen, who today was not good enough for third place and close enough to keep him very much in the running. The gentleman farmer from New Connecticut, who is the holder of both American and British titles flattered away, on the home course, but he was not so confident when he came to the magnificent course to go out in front.

Three under par going to the ninth, Sarazen encountered his first real test—on the hole. Subsequently he was wild off the tee and three-putted two greens in a row, the 14th and 15th, but made a bull dog finish.

Being Even on Sarazen
Thomson may be hard to overhauld, judging from the bold confidence with which he is playing and due to the terrific power he gets out of his muscular 180 pounds. But the betting was even money tonight that Sarazen would win. Gene was five strokes behind at the start of the tournament when he last won the title at Pebble Beach in 1932.

However, he can't afford to card any more strokes.
The pursuit of Thomson, who had the good fortune to finish his second round before the elements broke loose so furiously, was hopeless in the storm that buffeted the course, Oakland is tough enough to make a 30-minute rain and downpour of rain to contend with on the side. It was not only raining but there were also strong and temporary showers around the clubhouse were equally risky. A small refreshment tent was blown down by the wind and the rain.

A handful of players, mostly early starters, managed to stay within the clubhouse.

Helen Wills Moody Sweeps English Girl Aside With Brilliant Exhibition as Fans Show Enthusiasm

By GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
WEYBRIDGE, ENGLAND, June 7.—Unleashing a powerful attack that was reminiscent of the old days, Helen Wills Moody crushed Blly Yorke, English girl, 6-1, 6-4, today and stormed her way into the final round of the St. George's Hill tennis tournament.

What must have sounded like sweet, familiar music in the ears of the former world champion were the gasps of astonishment and the continuous applause as she swept Miss Yorke aside and qualified to meet Mrs. Gaisie Goddard Pittman, last year's winner, for the title tomorrow.

It was the enthusiasm which her latest victory occupied Mrs. Moody still occupies a large spot on the tennis fan's mind. She has played since a back injury forced her to default to Helen Jacobs in the final round of the American championship in 1932.

For the first time this week, Helen appeared to have full confidence in her game and regaled the crowd with a beautiful repertoire of strokes. The length and speed of her shots down the sidelines often made Miss Yorke appear nervous as many as five or six consecutive points.

Champion Excuses Listless Boxing 'I'm Under Doctor's Orders Not to Use My Right Hand,' Says Baer

At the conclusion of his listless boxing here this afternoon, Max Baer, the heavyweight champion, excused his performance with this statement: "I'm under a doctor's orders not to use my right hand. So I'm in one only with my left and that's why the boys come along and play tunes on my chin. I've been taking baking and electrical treatment for several days and perhaps will continue them right up to the day I meet Jimmy Braddock. The doctor confidently says my hands will be right for the fight."

Baer went three rounds with dynamite Jackson Bob Frazier, Paul Sawyer and Eddie Houghton. He stepped one with Al Truhaman. All of the boys walked into Baer and left almost at will.

Challenger Celebrates Birthday—Retires At Small Hour Of 10 p.m.

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
LOCH SHELDRAKE, N. Y., June 7 (AP)—Jimmy Braddock, whose career really begins or all but ends next Thursday night in a big prize ring on Long Island, celebrated his 29th birthday today as if it were a national holiday.

He came all but to the light of work for his fifteen-round, heavyweights title chance against Max Baer. He had a birthday cake which he wasn't allowed to eat, a party that he attended only for a moment, and as a special concession he was allowed to stay up until the wee small hour of ten p. m.

"Plenty of time for you to get cake after you win that title," said his manager, Joe Gould. "I'd rather have about a barrel of lager beer," stashed Jimmy wistfully. "Beer, nothing," announced Mrs. Elizabeth O'Toole Braddock, "championship and plenty of it, there's nothing too good for the Irish." Jimmy's mother is here with him to that pier, but they may not make it, much as he'd like to. He's a night watchman on pier 15 over in Hoboken, New Jersey, and he goes to work at midnight. He's taking a night off to see the fight. Jimmy says, Joe not only won't go back to that pier, but they may have trouble finding him for work.

If Braddock loses, well, someone in the family has to have a job. He's a night watchman on pier 15, and he's a night watchman on pier 15. He's a night watchman on pier 15. He's a night watchman on pier 15.

Brooklyn's Casey Stengel Picks Giants to Win Flag

BROOKLYN (AP)—Maybe it's the hall pen. That's generally here, but Casey Stengel, whose Dodgers took such delight last fall in knocking the Giants out of the National League playoffs, is picking the Manhattan rivals to trim the St. Louis Cardinals.

"It's that pitching staff of Terry," Casey says. "Adding that to the fact that the Cardinals are the big four he already has made it possible for Terry to use Carl Hubbell for relief duty between starts and armaments, which is what Bill is doing."

"When a team starts hitting Parmelee, Schumacher, Fitzsimmons, or Gasterman—which is seldom enough—Bill has to go in give Hub the nod and he comes in from they did a year ago."

CHICAGO, June 7 (AP)—The White Sox pounded their Detroit pitchers for 16 hits, including Zeke Bonura's tenth homer, hero today and needed every one of them to withstand the Tigers' persistent bombardment of Ted Lyons, 9 to 4. The victory enabled the Chicagoans to retain second place and gain a game on the leading Yankees, who now lead them by two games.

The Tigers, going down to their second defeat in nine games since last year's tallies, banged out 15 hits on their own account, including a pair of home runs by Gerald Walker and one by Ernie Foss. Lyons, however, went the route for his sixth 1935 victory.

Tip Radtchik, with four singles, and Luke Appling, with a double and single, led the Sox attack. Besides G. Walker, Henry Greenberg, with two doubles and a single, and Manager Cochrane, with three singles, led the counter-attack that scored five runs to win 11 to 5 over the San Francisco Seals, who made five errors.

The Sox wiped out an early one-run Detroit lead with a five-run rally in the second.
