PARTY DECLARATION MARKS MID-WEST REPUBLICAN RALLY

Enthusiastic Over Chances to Regain Leadership in 1936, Delegates Leave for Homes in 10 States

(By The Associated Press) SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 11—Armed for the fight with a unanimously approved "Republican creed" some 5,000 delegates met here for the Grand Old Party left for their homes in ten prairie states tonight, enthusiastic over their chances to regain the Midwest in 1936.

Without comment, the final session of their two-day "grass roots" general in state and the national Coliseum, adopted as the views of the corn belt branch of the party and left for mid-western states with new deal policies, a comprehensive "declaration of principles" offered by the resolutions committee headed by Edward A. Hays of Decatur, Illinois.

For a Balanced Budget The pronouncement declared for a defense of American institutions, a sound currency based on gold and definitely stabilized by congress and international in character, a balanced budget "by the honest method" of bringing the expenses of the government within the limits of its income, and state's rights.

To labor was given an approval of the new collective bargaining "wage" consistent with American standards, the outlawing of child labor and protection for women workers.

Justice was promised the veterans all wars and the right to the establishment of "old age and unemployment reserves" was recognized.

Head from the flag-draped podium as the important as well as final business of the officially estimated 5,000 delegates from Iowa, Illinois, Kansas, Oklahoma, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Indiana, Missouri, Nebraska, and Nebraska, and accepted a vote of a single dissent by about 500 persons gathered in the "grand old party" at the old scene, the statement tacitly approved some fundamentals of the A.A.A.

LIGHTS and SHADOWS In Day's Events

(By The Associated Press) Tamas Tornados—LINCOLN, Neb.—The 1935 model tornado tamer is on the market and just when Nebraska needs it most.

Falls Into Tar—DENVER—John Lang Smith, 40-year-old, fell into a vat of molten tar today. The clothing was burned from him, but he came out alive.

Treasure Hunt—ARCADIA, Calif.—Treasure hunters fever gripped this quiet little city tonight, as excavators went to work in the hills west of Arcadia to find another treasure-trove built in the days of the mission fathers.

Tribal Council Accords Place to Former Co-Ed

PORT WASHINGTON, Wyo., June 11—The former Isabelle Baker, a hair-blood Shoshone, still lives. The mother was a daughter of Jim Baker, early day Indian guide, and was known as "Mary" because she had married to Denver.

Club Women Declare for Birth Control Education

DEPTFORD, June 11 (AP)—The General Federation of Women's Clubs, which delegates termed the most radical action since it gave support to a measure approved by its members, the dissemination of birth control information through scientific and practical methods under the direction of qualified and reputable physicians is essential to the health of the nation.

Equal Rights Urged Organized opposition to the resolution announced by its sponsors failed to materialize but world court adherence, which most of the affiliated clubs previously had approved by proxy became a burning question when Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley of Washington offered a 40-word amendment.

The amendment would have placed the federation on record as opposing the code of laws administered by the world court shall not contain any inequalities based on sex.

DEATH TO HOLDING COMPANIES OKAYED Senate Votes: 56 to 32, for Law to Eliminate 'Unnecessary' Units

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—Impelled by President Roosevelt's campaign today to abolish "unnecessary" public utility holding companies was swept through the senate today by a vote of 56 to 32.

White House Instruction The 43 and 44 vote rejecting this amendment was the first time (D-Mont) had read a pencilled note from President Roosevelt holding out the possibility of further recommendations, foretold a further battle over the same provision in the house.

YOUTH CONFESSES INSURANCE MURDER Farm Boy Declares Slaying Planned by Mother and Family Physician

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 11 (AP)—Lloyd Robinson, 18-year-old farm boy, today confessed to slaying his mother, Mrs. Mary Robinson, 49, and their family physician, Dr. W. F. Schaeffer, 50, in a double murder.

Nazis Seize German Emigrants' Property

BERLIN, June 11 (AP)—The heavy hand of Nazism fell today upon 38 emigrant Germans, confiscating their property and depriving them of German citizenship.

Danzig Gets Offer of Aid With String

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, June 11 (AP)—Poland has agreed to lend financial aid to this distressed free city, it was reported tonight, but it is a condition that the Nazis may find it hard to break.

LINDBERGH KIDNAP LAW INKED BY FEDERAL AGENTS

Government Files New Charges Against Weyerhaeuser Suspects But Leaves Way Open to State Prosecution

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, June 11—J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the federal bureau of investigation, announced late today that charges of violating the Lindbergh kidnaping act would be filed against the kidnapers of little George Weyerhaeuser.

Those to be charged he listed as Harmon Waley, 24-year-old former convict, and his wife, Margaret, now in custody at Salt Lake City, and William Mahan, former convict who was the object of an intensive manhunt near Butte, Mont.

Spikes Premature Reports At the same time, just before midnight, Hoover spiked published reports (not carried by Associated Press) that additional arrests had been made, including that of Mahan.

You are authentically say those reports are fictional," he said. "All announcements in this case are being made from here and our men have made only two arrests. I don't know, of course, what outside police may have done."

Hoover said the decision to proceed with federal kidnap charges resulted from an investigation which disclosed that the kidnapers "drove out of Washington and into Idaho" while transferring the nine-year-old victim from his home at Tacoma, to Spokane, Washington, scene of the hideout.

Way Open to State Earlier in the day Hoover said that complaints charging violation of the federal extortion law had been received from Tacoma, Wash. At that time he indicated that prosecution might be under Washington kidnap laws, which carry a death sentence.

HOPE OF AVERTING COAL STRIKE FADES Leader of Miners Silent on Question of Withdrawing Walkout Order

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—Only a slim chance of averting a soft coal strike next Monday was seen by coal men here tonight after a survey of the legislative situation.

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—The Pittsburgh coal company, a Mellon interest and one of the largest bituminous coal operators in the country, today withdrew its support of the Guiffey coal stabilization bill.

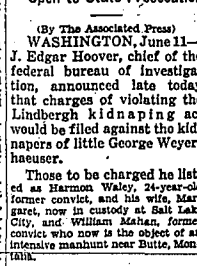

Danzig Gets Offer of Aid With String

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, June 11 (AP)—Poland has agreed to lend financial aid to this distressed free city, it was reported tonight, but it is a condition that the Nazis may find it hard to break.

While official quarters refused to confirm the reported agreement, it was believed it would be announced in a few days as possible when the volatile flower house in Danzig is closed.

WALEYS FACE REMOVAL FROM SALT LAKE CITY TO TACOMA AFTER THEIR ALLEGED CONFESSIONS REVEAL $90,700 IN CACHE

SEARCH FOR FUGITIVE THROUGHOUT WEST DEVELOPMENTS AT A GLANCE

SALT LAKE CITY, June 11 (AP)—Federal agents prepared for removal to Tacoma of Harmon M. Waley and his wife after recovery of $90,700 of the $200,000 Weyerhaeuser ransom as a result of the alleged confessions of the couple.

WASHINGTON—Department of justice indicated belief the kidnaping was a two-man job aided by a woman—Mahan's early arrest predicted.

SALT LAKE CITY, June 11 (AP)—While government agents were believed to be closing in tonight on William Mahan, confident his capture would expedite the solution of the George Weyerhaeuser kidnaping, he and Mr. and Mrs. Harmon M. Waley, arrested as his confederates in the case, were faced with charges of violating the Lindbergh law.

The new charges were filed today in Tacoma, Washington, scene of the kidnaping, while the Waleys remained here under close guard of department of justice agents. Preparations were complete for their removal to Washington today except for a formal court order, the final step was still unmet when court officials and attaches left their offices for the night.

The delay apparently was unexpected by department of justice officials other than those in the bureau of investigation, who understood that a complaint charging the Waleys with conspiracy to use the mails to defraud was received here last night and assumed that it would be acted upon promptly today.

Then came the announcement from J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the bureau of investigation at Washington, of the discovery in a cache a few miles from the city, of $90,700 more of the ransom bills, buried there by Waley. They said he admitted having destroyed $40,000 more of them when the pursuit became too hot, and that he and his wife had spent some $300 additional.

This afternoon E. J. Connelley, chief of the department of justice agents on the Weyerhaeuser case, sent two of his men with a party of newspaper reporters and photographers, to point out the spot, in Emmet county, where the cache was found. The cache was wrapped in a black cloth. He disclosed also that it was in various denominations.

Waley Lead Way Mr. and Mrs. S. Andrew Jackson, residents of a nearby summer cottage, told of witnessing part of the activities of the government agents in uncovering the hidden money. They said the Waleys accompanied the federal men to the spot at 1:30 a. m. today and that the cache was found by the aid of automobile headlights and flashlights.

Under Car's Lights Awakened by the arrival of three automobiles, Mrs. Jackson watched from the window of her cottage while the lights of the cars were turned toward a hillside and a number of persons accented a trail. She said she heard a woman's voice, indicating that Mrs. Waley was a member of the party.

WOMAN POWER TO BE CO-ORDINATED

Representatives of sixty thousand business and professional women are meeting in Seattle, Wash., today for the biennial convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. July fourteenth to twentieth, will follow a "middle of the road" course but will go to the extreme right and left. The fact that they are invited to meet with their presidents of other prominent national groups of women, indicates that they are watching those trends that would try to stop the progress of Women in America.

Mrs. Celine MacDonald Bowman, president of the national federation, said last week "Political forces, which would swing either to the extreme left or the extreme right, the body politic of our country, would seriously and disastrously affect the status of women. Business and professional women are alert to this fact. Members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women believe that women have a definite contribution to make to American life and that trends that would limit their participation in any phase of it are inimicable to the progress and well-being of the nation."

When meeting in our biennial convention in Seattle, we plan to discuss frankly and honestly the need to be on guard so that we may lend our influence to step sides that would tend to restrict the opportunity of women as citizens and as participants in the economic life of this country, to share responsibilities and rewards of our national life.

Invited to meet with us, and as our special guests of honor, will be representatives of other influential national groups of women. These leaders among the women's activities in America will be asked to discuss with us possibilities of finding ways and means to co-ordinate the woman power of this country so that the influence of women in the many changes that are taking place—now increasing rapidly—be incalculable into the political and economic life of the United States.

"SOFTNESS" ENTERS SPORTS SIMPLICITY STRESSED IN SHEERLY-FROCK PATTERN 2212

by Anne Adams

It seems that girls will be girls this season—even in the field of Sport. And most welcome too, is the return to femininity in color. That flattering quality is most often achieved through the softness of petersham (as you see in this model) or easy freedom of line like the pleated blouse with its casual drape. But Anne Adams has cleverly contrived to retain every important unloved detail that makes the shirtwaist look so universally becoming. How she tames the collar—how neat the front closing—how simple the pocket! Make yours of sport silk or cotton.

Pattern 2212 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 20 is shown. Includes full length. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTY CENTS (15c in color of stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Please include name, address and city number. BE SURE TO WRITE ANNE ADAMS SUMMER PATTERN BOOK IN READY TO PRINT. These are taken in the form of a book. The book is available in French, Spanish, Italian, German, Japanese, Chinese, Russian, and Swedish. Write to: Anne Adams, 100 West Broadway, New York, N. Y. Pearl Buck and Publisher Marry After Divorces

RENO, Nev. June 11 (AP)—Pearl S. Buck, noted novelist, and Richard J. Walsh, wealthy New York publisher, were married here today after each had figured in divorce trials.

The novelist and Mrs. Ruth Abbott Walsh, whose husband had died in 1928, were married in Reno, Nev., after each had figured in divorce trials.

Mrs. Walsh obtained a divorce at a private hearing before Judge Thomas F. Moran on the charge of cruelty.

Mrs. Buck also charged cruelty in a brief hearing before Judge Benjamin F. Carter, who granted her a divorce from John L. Buck.

The ceremony was performed at the home of the Rev. Brewster Adams of the Reno Baptist church, who was absent from the city.

The newlyweds left immediately, but did not disclose their destination.

The Lovel Temperance Legion of the Hekel district will meet in Harmon park Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The Scribblers' club will meet Friday at the home of Mrs. Roy Martin, near Rogerson, for a pot-luck luncheon and program. Cars will leave at 8 o'clock Friday morning from the city park.

Outlaw Horses Signed For Fair's Attraction

Two Montana Outfits Combine to Stage First Rodeo At Annual County Exhibit

A rodeo comparable to the big wild west shows at PERTH AND CROWLEY is to be staged in connection with Twin Falls county fair on the Fliler (airgrounds, September 10-13, members of the fair board announced last evening after signing a contract with Leo Creme of Shavmut, Montana, whose outlaw horses and wild bulls and steers are to be competing with those of R. A. Richter of Bozeman, Montana, for the rodeo performances in connection with Ogden's Frontier days, July 21-23, and subsequently throughout the season.

Selected Livestock

Out of a string of 400 outlaw horses, Thomas Parks, fair board president, said last evening, the rodeo contractors will select for the performances at Fliler, 50 top horses for bucking contests, 12 wild horses for bareback riding, 12 saddle and gaited horses, 10 long haired Scotch cows, 10 Scotch calves, 10 imported Mexican steers, 10 Brahma bulls and steers, three Scotch sters, and any others that may be asked for to complete a rodeo second to none.

There are no rodeo performers on the contractors' payroll, but many of the best-known western riders and ropers follow their rodeos to participate in contests for the purses. Contests are open to any entrant on payment of an entrance fee which goes into the final day's purses.

different rides, eight shows and 20 novelty concessions, will furnish midway attractions and also two free attractions at the fair.

Silver Caravan

Hildebrand's travels this season in its own silver caravan fleet of 40 trucks and semi-trailers, a part of the new equipment that was purchased following destruction of its old outfit in a fire at Phoenix, Arizona, last winter.

Plans are made to be furnished under the contract are a 10-foot slide into five feet of water, and a high-wire act in which the performer is 90 feet above the ground.

'MURDER IN THE FLEET' COMING TO ORPHEUM

Mysterious crimes, an amazing feat of detective work, and broad-ing bewilderment mingle with hilarious comedy in a unique blend in "Murder in the Fleet," the new story of crime on a cruiser which comes to the Orpheum theatre starting Friday.

Trills blend into laughs and vice versa, as a naval lieutenant follows a criminal amid a crowd of civilian visitors and a ship crew, including Jean Parker, heroine of "Gequinta," heads the cast with Robert Taylor, Gus Merkel, Ben Henderson, Tom Healy and Jean Harlowe are all members of the supporting cast.

This screen attraction opens at the Orpheum on Friday, following the Junior Chamber of Commerce Dance Revue being presented at the local theatre today and Thursday.

Rev. and Mrs. A. B. Hubbard and daughter Beverly expect to leave Monday for Colorado Springs to attend the Northern Baptist convention to be held in that city. They expect to be away two weeks and before returning home will visit relatives at Denver.

SYNOPSIS: Alison Rede and Guy Lacey at last have straightened out the tangled mess between them. They have determined that Daphne Sumner, who is marrying Alison's father today, is the same woman who seduced Guy's father on the Riviera, and killed her former husband in the bargain. Guy is just finishing his explanation of the woman's presence in Daphne's vacant house in Geneva.

Chapter 39 RACE
"I really meant to tell you the whole truth the first time we were together," Alison said, "only you said something—"
"I mentioned Daphne?"
"Yes. Her name was Daphne Poynter. So I thought I'd go warily and find out a little more first about Mrs. Daphne Sumner and whether she was the same woman before I said anything."
Alison nodded.
"Did I say you meant to tell me, the next time we met," he went on, "but when you told me it was her and how your father was her brother and that he was marrying her in six weeks, I saw suddenly why she might want me out of her house. And I didn't want to frighten you."
"Then you're pretty sure she is that woman?"
"Alison pushed back her chair, stood up. The world was real again and it had darkened suddenly.
"But then," the words came in a scared whisper, "but then you think that she may mean to do the same thing as she did to my father?"
"I'm afraid so, if she marries him."
"But she is marrying father now, today, at one-thirty!"
The bronze-faced clock over the archway of the stairs pointed to ten minutes to one.
"Come on!" Guy jumped to his feet and fled towards the stairs, digging in his pockets as he ran. The cashier said, "Your bill, sir!" But he threw a note down on the desk without waiting for change.
"They rode up Southampton Street and scrambled breathlessly into the car."
"What are they?"
"I don't know," admitted Alison. "He was to fetch her from his flat, but I don't know when she might be there."
"Well, they're there!"
"He'll try it first, anyway."
In his chair and the car gathered speed down hill, Alison, holding on tight as the speedometer mounted and Alison's car rocked, said, "I'm afraid father won't believe you!"
"I'm not counting on that. I'm going to see her and bluff!"
A policeman's hand was going out as Guy tried to dodge between two cars moving in opposite directions; he missed them both by landing on the island, tried to back off and found his way blocked by a lady in blue attire.
"Driving to the danger," said the policeman grimly. "I'll see your license, please!"
"Oh, please," Alison leaned forward, "we didn't mean to do anything wrong! But it's terribly urgent. It's—it's a matter of life and death!"
The policeman was sympathetic but unyielding.
"Sorry, miss, I've got to do my duty. I'll see your insurance, too, sir, please."
He was a large policeman, even as policeman go, and he was leisurely.

"Listen, Guy, I'll get a taxi and go on. I'll try and keep her!"
"Not you must go near her—it's not his!"
But his protest was lost. Alison was already out of the car and running to the pavement.
"That's number 13," she called back to him as, waving she hailed a taxi.
She was getting into it as Guy leaped out and tried to follow. A hand held him in a white glove fastened on his arm and dragged him back.
Guy was not a light weight. He gave a shove. The policeman recoiled, his helmet did an undignified somersault into the road but he held on.
With one word "Assault!" he summed up the case and blew upon his whistle.
Guy found himself staring after his shoulder as a taxi's tail-lamp as it vanished while two large policemen propelled him none too gently in the direction of the nearest police station.
Alison, in the taxi, had seen none of these last events.
Nine minutes past one! Would she be in time? Not far to go but the taxi-driver had no romantic urge to hurry.
As the taxi drew up, Alison tumbled out. She ran up one flight of stone steps, through a short, dark passage and found a door which opened to a little hall-glass door set cornerwise and marked in brass "13."
A maid-looking servant of a maidervant answered the bell.
"Mrs. Sumner can't see you no one now, she's packing." The maid stood in the track of the door and held the light.
"But I must," Alison was desperate.
The maid took her head.
"It's the installment people, she said you was back tomorrow and you can take the stuff away."
"It's nothing to do with money!" Alison almost wailed. "I've come from Major Rede, who's marrying Mrs. Sumner!"
"If you said that at first," grumbled the maid and opened the rest of the door, letting Alison into a narrow hall.
"She's in there," said the maid, pointing a grimy thumb towards the first door. Considering that this information was given as she went down the passage, leaving Alison to find her way in alone.
The door gave on the sitting room, which she had seen once before, but it was "exceedingly untidy." A small white dog, a hillock of tissue paper and a trunk occupied the middle of the floor and Daphne was on her knees trying to get a trunk shut. She did not look around.

"Ethel, come and sit up this," she ordered.
Alison sat down on the trunk; Daphne, her head bent, heaved. The lock clicked and she sat back on her heels in triumph.
"Yes," said Alison. "It's me."
"I see it! Daphne rose, dusting down her dress. "You've changed your mind then?"
"I've come to see you," said Alison.
"Oh! Daphne reached out for a label, one of a pile which lay addressed on a low chair. "I'm afraid I haven't time to listen now," she got to her feet and went to a table in a quarter of an hour to the registry office. If you want to talk, why not come along with me."
Alison had come into the room feeling rather frightened but the cool tone of the woman's comment, the brace of the fact that she was the centerpiece of Guy's story, made her forget her fear in a rush of anger.
"All right," she said, "if you like, she flung it at her, "but if you won't listen to me, I'll have to tell father, that's all—Mrs."
The silence lasted while a person might count five; then Daphne put on her hand, took a cigarette from a pack which lay open on the chair and lit it slowly, looking steadily at Alison above the flame.
"You want to say?"
"Only this," Alison faced her standing. "I've found out all about you—I don't want to be beastly but you can either clear out now and leave a note for father saying that it's off, or I shall have to tell him the truth. I'm not going on my own word either. I've got someone else to prove what I'm saying."
"Dr. Lumley, of course," Daphne gave a faint crouch of laughter.
"Yes, Dr. Lumley! Alison was not back now. She felt she should be here at any minute to back her up—and at all costs—she must keep Daphne's secret. She felt she had about you—and the anonymous letters that you wrote—and everything."
Daphne drew. "Everything? Be a little more explicit!"
"All right!" involuntarily, Alison's eyes flew to the clock and she locked on the oval writing table. One twice... "If you want me to tell you the truth, I'll tell you the truth. My husband, and that's late him because you wrote to all his patients telling stories about him to get."

"Somehow, somewhere, it was missing first! As she spoke, Alison could see that Daphne was smiling, light-tipped, unkind smile. She said lightly, "When you've quite finished repeating all these lies, perhaps you'd let me speak? You don't know I suppose, that you can get two years in jail for repeating lies like these, please!"
Alison did not believe it but even if it was true she did not mind. She was worked up now to a pitch when nothing mattered any more.

BURLEY JAYGEES ASK FOR SPECIAL SESSION
BURLEY, June 11—A resolution was passed by Burley Junior Chamber of Commerce here Monday evening at a session held in the court house urging the governor to call a special session of the legislature for the purpose of authorizing the expenditure of funds by the state highway department for highway construction through cities.
Similar action has been taken by the senior chamber and the city council, and it is in line with the resolutions passed by organizations of other Idaho cities following a recent adverse court decision in the department of legislature which expenditure of funds in a subway construction project in Nampa.
D. J. Peterson, local government forest supervisor, addressed the junior meeting. He spoke of the forest service program and the development of the Minidoka forest as a recreational center. A general discussion was entered into by the chamber members regarding the facilities to be developed in the Minidoka national forest, and an effort will be made to work out a program with the forest service. A committee to study the bill before congress with respect to the transfer of the forest and park service from the department of agriculture to the department of the interior was appointed by President Howard Pickett. This committee is headed by Bob Werner, chairman.
A resolutions committee, headed by Dan McGrath, was also appointed in the President Pickett's report. Resolutions to be presented to the state junior chamber of commerce meeting to be held at Hazel on July 20 and 21.

Freitas, Herrmann, Lombardi Star At New York

NATIONAL LEAGUE SCORES Cincinnati 4-2, New York 1-1, St. Louis at Boston postponed, rain.

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—For the first time this year, the New York Giants lost both ends of a double header today when they fell before the Cincinnati Reds 4 to 1 in the opening contest and 3 to 1 in the second game.

After Tony Freitas had set the league leaders down with seven scattered blows in the first game while the Reds were handling Clyde Clifton in the second, Herrmann, making his first big league start, limited the Giants to five hits in the eighth inning.

The Reds picked up their string in the first game, the last coming in the eighth when Earl Lombardi found one of the offerings of Al Smith, who had relieved Clyde Clifton in the seventh, for a home run. The visitors took the lead in the second and went out in front again in the fifth after the pitcher had had the score in the fourth on a walk to Mel Ott.

ANYBODY WHO CAN KICK TEN SUITS JAMES BRADDOCK AND JOE GOULD; CHALLENGER UNABLE TO POST FORFEIT

(Associated Press Sports Writer) NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—The inevitable holler about referees broke out today to spice the preliminary maneuvering—and incidentally kept interest alive—in Max Baer's heavyweight title defense against Jimmy Braddock in Madison Square Garden's bowl on Long Island Thursday night.

An old situation in a new setting, Anell Hoffman, manager of the champion, tore into the New York state athletic commission today and demanded that one of his list of five eligibles be named.

Slatkin-Softball Team Tops List

WILEY MEN DROP FAST NATIONAL DIVISION ENCOUNTER BY 8 TO 5 SCORE

SOUTHERN LEAGUE STANDINGS National Division

Slatkin's brilliant softball combination came through after a fast struggle last evening to remain unbeaten at the top of the National League.

Opposing the men of Slatkin were the boys of Nancy Lyle, six-year-old English girl tomorrow, but on Thursday she probably will be called upon to face Katherine Stammers, ranked no. 2 in Great Britain.

MAYOR CALLS FOR SPECIAL SESSION

Idaho Municipalities Rallied in Move for Amendment to State Law

View president of the Idaho Municipal Officers' association and mayor of Twin Falls, Duncan McD. Johnston said here yesterday that he had appealed to governing bodies of all Idaho municipalities to support a movement to secure a special session of the Idaho legislature to re-visit state laws so as to permit amending of federal and state funds for improvement of municipal boundaries.

"A mistaken impression seems to be prevalent," Johnston said, "that the law we seek to amend operates only against improvements in cities of 6000 or more population."
The fact, he said, is that it "not only prevents spending of 100 per cent of federal funds for municipal improvements, but it prohibits the state sharing highway costs $9-50 in place under 6000 population."
He argued the cost of a special session is justified in view of the fact that $4,000,000 of the federal grant is involved, and that a recent district court decision "definitely has prevented the expenditure of that sum in Idaho."

POCATELLO HIGH SCHOOL CLASS PLANS REUNION

A two-day reunion of Pocatello high school's class of 1930 at Pocatello and Lava Hot Springs next Saturday and Sunday was announced here last evening by Paul Rider of the Idaho Typewriter Exchange. The program includes a dinner-dance on Saturday and a dip at Lava the next day. Members of the class in this vicinity were requested to get in touch with him.

WHEEL CHAIR NEEDED FOR INVALID YOUTH

Summertime, playtime and vacation time for most of us, is an arduous time for a 15-year-old Twin Falls boy who is suffering from such an acute heart malady that his attending physician has informed his mother he must not exert himself even to the extent of standing or walking.

A wheel-chair is imperative, as his condition is more aggravated in warm weather, his mother told Adj. Dert J. Stack, of the Salvation Army yesterday.

"I am asking anyone who has a wheel-chair to loan or donate, or who will aid in providing such an article, to communicate with me, telephone 749-W," Adj. Stack said last evening.
The boy has been unable to attend school for the past five years. He has been given instruction at home by his mother.

Dancing School Presents Revue For Pool Benefit

"Continental Cruise" is the theme of the third annual dance revue of the Marie Dunn Helm dancing school, to be presented at the Orpheum theater this evening and tomorrow evening, under the sponsorship of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The chamber's proceeds will be turned over to the municipal swimming pool fund.

Ray Jennings, as the "captain" will be master of ceremonies. The revue will include 50 brilliant, brilliant dance numbers by 100 students. Dazzling fabrics, incorporated, New York City, designed the distinctive costumes, which were made by Mrs. Al Smith.
The dances and ensembles are by Mrs. Helm, and the settings are the design of Charles J. Helm, Stanford Howels arranged the orchestral score.
Chuck Helm and His Continentals will play the orchestral music for the show.

Special committees to assist Mrs. Helm in the presentation were appointed by the Junior Chamber of Commerce at yesterday's business meeting.

DIRECTORS MEET TO FURTHER POOL PLANS

With net proceeds from the dance and floor show held at Shadownland in Kimberly last Saturday night (estimated at $1100), Twin Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce directors met yesterday noon to outline a program for spending the money on construction of the new municipal swimming pool.

Workmen have completed the grading of the pool at Harmon park and are now laying rock. Another rock haul for chamber members will be held Sunday morning with all eligible meeting at the Firestone service store at 8:30 o'clock.
Additional funds for pool construction are expected to be realized

● ONE GREAT advantage of the V-type engine—as Ford builds it—is that eight cylinders use no more gasoline than a four!
You get the smoothness of eight cylinder performance without paying any penalty for it... Better than that, you actually save money... Because the 1935 Ford V-8 is the most economical car to run that Ford has built during 31 years of building economical cars.
Lift up the hood of a Ford V-8 at your Ford dealer's. Ask him to explain the simple dual carburetor which splits the fuel needed by a four into eight equal charges... Ask him to show you how the new crankcase ventilation assures better year-round oil eficiency, cutting wear and repair... Note the aluminum cylinder heads which eliminate carbon and allow premium performance on regular priced gasoline.

This rugged power plant is simple and compact—yet it develops 85 honest horsepower. At 50-60 miles per hour this engine is not racing—it is actually running at ease! Like the whole new Ford V-8, from its welded all-steel body to its welded steel spoke wheels, this engine is built to live up to the Ford tradition of low cost, dependable transportation.
