House Delivers 11 to 1 Majority for Stop-Gap NRA Resolution; Debate Deals With Anti-Trust Clause

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, June 14.—In almost stop-walk resolution, the "stop-gap" NRA resolution swept through a listless house today by an 11 to 1 majority, and a matter of minutes later was signed by President Roosevelt.

The legislation could extend a "lease" and "bob-tailed" remnant of the recovery unit until April 1, 1938.

Vice President Garner and Speaker Byrnes signed the resolution almost immediately after passage by the house. Mr. Roosevelt apparently is waiting with his pen raised, and affixed his signature without comment as soon as it reached the White House.

In both houses there was some protest from Republicans about "gap" but neither the minority members of the Senate nor the majority of the house took any action.

The Senate amendment was known as the Harrison-Borah anti-trust law enforcement, and the Republican House measure was called the "Midget Blue Eagle" bill.

Home Town Folks Fail to Recognize One-Time Usher

WESTBROOK, Mo., June 14 (AP)—He stood on the main street of his home town, camera in hand, and recognized a familiar scene. No one recognized him.

He walked the theater where once he worked as an usher, he snapped his camera. No one clapped to get near him.

He was Rudy Vallee—just another local boy, home to see the folks.

PRESIDENT'S PLEA HALTS COAL STRIKE

Miners Agree to Stay on Jobs Temporarily on Present Basis

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—The threat of a soft coal strike Monday all but vanished today when the miners voted to accept Roosevelt's plea that they stay at work.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, promised Mr. Roosevelt immediately he would withdraw his strike order if production would be permitted to continue.

Congressional delay in the consideration of the fuel coal stabilization bill led the president to ask for a quick decision.

Mr. Roosevelt told news correspondents he was in general agreement with the measure and hoped that a majority of congress would act on the bill.

KITCHEN-EERING becomes Joyous Art in June!

Plenty Of Food Advised As Picnic Season Opens

June brings the universal exodus to the great out-of-doors, and officially begins the picnic season. The fascination of eating in the open air, every year with the first fine weather. Plenty of good food is a most important factor of a successful picnic. Good judgment and clever planning are important, because they simplify the problem of carrying food and preparing it in an open campfire or outdoor stove.

Whether the picnic is a family outing or one attended by children will make a considerable difference in packing and in the type of refreshments carried. To children, a picnic is tantamount to an occasion for active play and sport as for eating, and they will prefer simple refreshments, easily prepared, which will satisfy ravenous appetites in the shortest possible order. Food for the children's picnic often may be prepared entirely at home. Lemonade takes the place of coffee and sometimes it is unnecessary to build a fire unless for roasting wafers and marshmallows on sticks. Paperware plates, paper table covers and napkins and other utensils which are strictly necessary will meet the approval of younger picnickers.

"Sponge" Favored As Frozen Dainty

Especially suitable for children's desserts is the sponge, a lighter-than-air combination made of well-beaten egg whites sweetened, flavored and frozen. In the first warm weather it makes an appropriate dessert for the entire family, being refreshing and easily digested. Preparing egg whites to make the sponge is the most important step of frozen desserts.

Apple and Carrot Sponge
 1/2 cup raw grated carrot
 1/2 cup drained apple sauce
 1 1/2 cups lemon juice
 4 eggs, confectioner's sugar
 2 egg whites
 Most carrot and apple sauce through coarse wire strainer, add lemon juice. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold in sugar. Combine the two mixtures and beat lightly but thoroughly. Place in individual paper cups and freeze on tray. Serves four to six.

Tutti-Frutti Trifle
 1/2 cup pineapple
 1/2 cup mixed cranberries
 6 marshmallows
 2 1/2 cups maraschino cherries
 2 1/2 cups maraschino juice
 6 eggs, confectioner's sugar
 Cut grapefruit and orange in

DO YOU KNOW?

Leftover angel or sponge cake can be cut in squares, topped with fruit and marigold and baked 5 minutes in moderate oven. Baster a festive dessert.

An excellent garnish for a casserole can be made by cutting long-baked crusty rolls of the type used in restaurants, into round slices and frying them until they are a golden brown.

Egg balls will add beauty and food value to the consommé. Rub the yolks of 2 hard-boiled eggs through a sieve, add 1/2 teaspoon melted butter, 1/2 teaspoon salt, a speck of pepper, mix together with a slight amount of raw egg yolk. Flour palm of hands and shape paste into tiny balls. Drop into hot soup and boil five minutes.

Everything Goes — In Russian Salad

If you want to serve a salad that keeps the guests guessing, try a Salad à la Russe one of these times—but first visit the butcher, the grocer and the truck gardener. The following is possibly the best recipe for the revolution Russian, and you don't have to wash it down with vodka, either. Needless to say, this is a hard to find.

Put cooked fresh mushrooms, white turnips, string beans, peas, carrots, salmon sausage, boiled ham, smoked ox-tongue and lobster, all of which are cooked in olive oil. Add appropriate amount of green peas and bind with a very plain mayonnaise. Decorate with strips of pickles, smoked tongue and anchovy fillets. Finish with a little caviar in center.

Is it any wonder there was a revolution in Russia, when those who had the wealth, in contrast to their cabbage soup and black bread, had the wealth of a revolution brought them salad days. There is a story that one of the early "Reds" of Russia, contemplating his position as first head of a revolution book of the aristocracy, and as he read, his appetite grew, and he had a revolution.

If you fear a gastronomic revolution from the above salad recipe, take the word of the woman who contributed the recipe. In answer to the query concerning a follow-up of "liberality" and "austerity" she said: "I've never not you could eat it on an ocean voyage without ill-effects."

National Jelly Week Observed By Girls of Local Camp Fire Units

National Jelly Week, June 17 to 23, is being observed by local Camp Fire Girls, in conjunction with groups throughout the United States. The girls are preparing to make jelly for the summer camping trip to be held in July. In addition, a number of the girls have signified their intention of making jelly to sell and turn the proceeds over to the camp fund. Bunnies is an ideal time of year for the girls to earn money craft honors, including picking and canning and jelly-making. Many of the girls will make the produce which they will can for the winter season.

The National Camp Fire organization has suggested the following recipes as among those sufficiently easy for young girls to employ.

Sparkling Strawberry Jelly
 4 cups (2 lbs.) berry juice
 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 8 cups (2 1/2 lbs.) sugar
 1 bottle fruit pectin
 Measure sugar and juice into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and boil 10 minutes. Add lemon juice and bottled fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil one-half minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 10 glasses (8 fluid ounces each).

Whole Strawberry Jam
 4 cups (2 lbs.) strawberries
 1/2 cup (3 lbs.) sugar
 1/2 bottle fruit pectin
 Measure sugar and strawberries into large kettle, mix well, and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire and boil 10 minutes. Add bottled fruit pectin and boil 10 minutes. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 10 glasses (8 fluid ounces each).

Strawberry Jelly
 About 3 pounds fully ripe cherries
 Do not pit. Add 1/2 cup water, bring to a boil, cover, and simmer 10 minutes. Place fruit in jelly cloth or

NOT GOOD. It seems rather a pity that the Thursday evening band concert together with the very pleasing Flag Day ceremonies should have been marred by the antics of apparently uncontrolled groups of children.

For years past lovers of music who appreciate the weekly summer band concerts and who attend for the purpose of listening to the programmes have been forced to put up with the shouts of noisy children by way of accompaniment. This sort of thing is not permitted during band concerts or other public entertainment programmes in other cities and there seems no good reason why it should be allowed here.

It might be a good idea to set the curfew law ahead an hour or so on Thursday evenings during the summer and apply it in the case of any and all children attending band concerts not accompanied by their parents.

A good many people would appreciate some such action.

FOUR OF A KIND. Four human beings may not equal a straight flush, but surely a set of American quadruplets deserve more appreciation than they have had, in comparison with the glory of that Canadian quintet.

These charming young ladies celebrated their twentieth birthday on June fourth, so shortly after the quintuplets' birthday that on that score alone they might invite comparison. They have never sought publicity. They may go on a tour during the summer, not as freaks but as self-respecting musicians. They have turned down offers to go on the stage and into the movies. They have just finished their sophomore year in Baylor University at Waco, Texas. Their primary interest is getting an education.

Nobody wants to be unfair to those roly-poly quintuplets, and nobody can deny their charm and appeal, individual and multiple. At the same time, in view of their ancestry, it requires a considerable stretch of imagination to picture them ever taking much interest in education.

AUSTRALIAN SILLY SEASON. A town in Australia is going to enjoy a public holiday for the sole purpose of watching two men begin their settlement of a wager.

One of the men is going to push the other in a wheelbarrow fifty miles down a hilly road for a wager of one hundred dollars. The thing started somehow or other during a motor tour in an argument about the grades on the road.

The pusher is a garage proprietor, forty-five years old, six feet tall, weighing one hundred ninety-six pounds. The pushee is fifty years old, six feet tall and weighs one hundred eighty-two pounds. The articles signed permit the rider to take a rubber air cushion, an umbrella and ordinary clothing. But provision for his comfort is not carried to an extreme. He is bound to take his seat in the wheelbarrow day or night at the other man's option. The pusher, while being allowed to say when the expedition shall go forward or when it may rest, is required to wheel the vehicle, not slide it, all the way. They are allowed 8 days to complete the trip. In training for their venture, the rider is practicing exercises specially designed to avoid muscular cramp. The pusher is taking the heavy weight jaller for a two-hour wheelbarrow ride every evening to harden himself for the main show.

Well, some Americans push peanuts up...

Piko's Peak with their noses. And we have flagpole sitters, marathon dancers, and other foolish folk. The Australians are said to be more like us than other Brits, which may explain the wheelbarrow stunt.

MORE PARDON BOARD FRUIT

It will be observed that news dispatches of today which tell of the capture at Salt Lake of two of the Weyerhaeuser kidnapers, from whom confessions have been obtained, are the two of the members of the gang are convicts who were paroled from the Idaho penitentiary.

As a result of the confessions obtained federal authorities are hot on the trail of William Mahan, the asserted "brains" and leader of the gang of kidnapers. He, particularly, stands out as a finished product of the foot loosening of the Idaho pardon board. He entered the Idaho penitentiary on September 24, 1927, after having been convicted of the robbery of the Rathdrum State Bank at Rathdrum, Kootenai county, from which he obtained $28,000 in cash, bonds and other securities. He was sentenced to serve a prison term of twenty years straight. But, seemingly, he must have proved to be a good boy or something. In any event, the Idaho pardon board liberated him on the first day of June, 1933.

Thus it is that the Idaho pardon board, because of its insane policy of liberating vicious criminals almost as rapidly as courts could convict them, must accept its share of the responsibility of the Weyerhaeuser kidnaping. Just through what process of reasoning he was liberated by the Idaho pardon board it would be impossible to guess. The point we are attempting to make is that if he had been kept where he belonged that he would not have been struck upon the head nor would the Weyerhaeuser child have been kidnaped.

Thus it is that the Idaho pardon board, because of its insane policy of liberating vicious criminals almost as rapidly as courts could convict them, must accept its share of the responsibility of the Weyerhaeuser kidnaping.

TIME FOR FAITH

Since the founding of this nation, the American people have been waiting for a right answer to the question raised by the President in his talk to the newspaper correspondents last Friday.

It is inevitable, even before this prediction was made, that the American people should continue to debate the question which in one form or another has been asked them time and time again by the constitution-drafted federal form of government.

Meantime, because the supreme court has declared in the case of NIRA that congress now lacks power to regulate the wages paid by an employer who does not participate in interstate commerce and is not engaged in activities which directly affect such commerce, it is necessary to take a dark view of the outlook either for social progress or for an effective contribution by the national government to the achievement of economic recovery.

As for the effect of the court's decision on the outlook for recovery? What reason is there for disappointment or concern? Most economists have long since concurred in the conclusion, reached by the Brookings commission, that the social climate of NIRA, on the whole retarded recovery, and that "the retarding effect... has been substantial. It was correct and proper for the President to point out that the return to competitive prices in some trades may reduce profit margins for certain unfavorably placed industries. But lower prices should within a short time encourage an increased volume of buying, and hence a larger volume of production, more employment and better wages. The senate itself had reached this conclusion, even before the court's decision was announced, and had passed a resolution which would have ended NIRA in one month or thereabout. The termination of this experiment of the constitution which it developed, need not be an obstacle to recovery. Voluntary co-operation can salvage much that is worth saving and turn it to advantage.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 14.—I have been collecting autographed pictures to decorate a room—pictures of old established friends of whom I've especially fond and whose talents I admire. Some of the messages scrawled across them are warming. I scribbled others a bit insulting.

I asked for no one's photograph whose friendship I did not value. I gave a test. They were racked in a basket where, when my ship comes in, I expect to spend much time in leisurely writing and philosophic cogitation. It will be a room with an open fireplace that burns real logs.

Shuffling through them before they went to the framer's can be pardoned as a glow of pride. With one or two exceptions all are around my age and all started from scratch. There are no silk stockinged or soldier spoiled heads. All had chances American democracy bestow and took advantage of them.

Guiding Your Child

By ALICE CLARIBSA RICHMOND

LACK OF UNDERSTANDING. The father is seeking to go to the county. Ten-year-old Mary was preparing her family for the trip.

Also that blithe of blue days when the whole existence seemed a blameless. Gladly and uncomplainingly she despairs made the future again. Things would never be quite again. In almost telegraphic succinctness she came a cable from London.

That, that lonely first day, when rather fat job had just been shot from under me, I was trying for a loose chair in the easy chair of the Evening Mail. About quitting time I loved offervescing enthusiasm and vitality came over and introduced himself. He didn't, of course, have to tell me he was the best known cartoonist of his time, Rudy Goldberg, or did he have to invite me to ride uptown in his stumpy green roadster. But he did. And unthinkingly renewed my waning courage.

WASHINGTON. By Ray Tucker. CHARTERS. Practical New Dealers think they have discovered a substitute for NRA. They are keeping quiet about it until ready to spring it. But several subtle moves show how they are trying their hands at a "federal incorporation bill."

Melton lawyers have been the chief objectors to several reciprocal tariff agreements already signed. Most of the concessions given to foreign nations permit importation of Mellon products. This was Mellon's idea of the agreement recently signed with Belgium. But Melton's counsel argued against every item in the agreement, but with little success.

PROBATION. The gentle Cordell Hull is the real dictator of the Roosevelt program. He is giving plenty of enemies—Ray Moley, George Peck and Claude Swanson—and they are all his. Soon he may crack down on a couple of European dictators—Herr Hitler and Benito Mussolini. Germany and Italy are not behaving nicely in their relations with America. They talk a lot about negotiating but they are stalling. They are discriminating against American goods. Mr. Hull put them on probation some weeks ago. Now he may have to spank them hard and send them to a reformatory.

FEES. Except for a few pet—J. Bruce Kremer, ex-Governor of Missouri, and a few others—Washington lawyers have soured on the New Deal. They resent suggestions by Secretaries Tamm, Wallace and Clegg that the government who enters a government building is a lobbyist. It gives the profession a bad name, they say.

MAZARENE PASTORS TO LEAVE GOODING. GOODING, June 14.—Rev. and Mrs. Earl L. Perry, pastors of the Nazarene church of Gooding for the past two years, returned from the state meeting at Nampa this week and will move to their new church at Harper, Oregon, soon. Rev. Frank Stinette of Nampa will be transferred to Gooding. He will arrive soon with his wife and two children. Charles Carter, dragged from Moscow, is spending this week here bringing with him his wife and two sons, Charles and Jerry. For a visit to the Jerry Carter home, and with his sister, Mrs. M. L. Roberts, and family. Mr. Carter is president of the state pharmaceutical association and is expected to stop in Boise for the state meeting. Sherman Carter and wife, who spent some time here visiting at the Jerry Carter home, left recently for their home in Millan, Idaho.

BUSINESSLIKE SIMPLICITY EASILY ACHIEVED IN SOFTLY TAILORED MODEL PATTERN 2230

by Anne Adams

We might address this to Young Business Women, so perfectly and simply does it meet the needs of their busy days. The tidy collar is a fittingly simple feature for the young face—the easy yoke and sleeve in one another note of simplicity. Remembering that Fashion dictates softness everywhere—Anne Adams achieves it with bodice darts and softly padded sleeves. What you'll like most about it is that it can be worn just as charmingly to dinner "After Office Hours" as it can from 9 to 5! Any number of fabrics are suitable—favored or geometrical—a silk print, shantung, pastel sport silk, a dainty voile or sturdy seersucker.

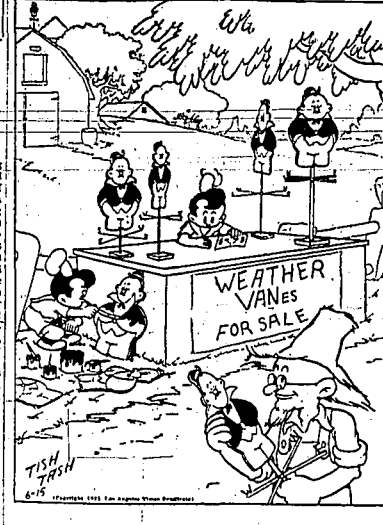

Pattern 2230 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32. Size 18 takes 2 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write quantity, name, address and city number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

AND NOW! ANNE ADAMS SUGGESTS THAT YOU BUY THIS PATTERN. It covers the forty pages of the new book "HOW TO MAKE YOUR OWN CLOTHING." It is a book that is worth your money. It is a book that is worth your money. It is a book that is worth your money.

VAN BORING (He never says a word) By Tib Tash

terior representatives and the senate and house authors of the coal bill, told newsmen:

"The president—after canvassing the legislative situation—said that in the public interest he would request the operators and miners to extend the structure of the wage agreements in the bituminous industry until June 30 and save the country the expense and inconvenience of a suspension.

"The president expressed hope for early enactment of the Cuffey bill. D. C. Kennedy, chairman of the Appalachian joint wage conference, and I agreed with the president that we would recommend to our respective interests acceptance of the president's suggestion."

"I agree with everything Mr. Lewis has said," added Kennedy.

Issues in Dispute

Lewis ordered the strike two weeks ago after the collapse of negotiations between Appalachian operators and the union on terms for new wage and hour contracts to replace those expiring Sunday.

A large group of operators maintained they could not make new wage and hour commitments without assurances that they could fix coal prices at a level high enough to guarantee sufficient income to pay the wages called for by the contract.

These operators said that only the Cuffey bill, to create a "little NYA" for the soft coal industry, could give them this assurance.

Another group of producers opposed the regulation the Cuffey bill would impose, offered to renew their contracts with the union with certain adjustments and urged the extension of the marketing agency plan to insure the industry against competition that eventually might depress wages.

This group, mostly from the south and west, plans to test the constitutionality of the Cuffey bill in the courts as soon as it is enacted.

ALMOND'S KISS

ALMOND
"You just wait till Guy Lumley comes, then the other side?"

"Guy Lumley told he himself, there were two bright pink spots in Almond's cheeks, and he said that you had whisked your husband off in an airplane because you were afraid."

"How?" "That's his story. The story he told everyone." Daphne was tragically patient. "That I wanted to—to finish what I'd begun and get carried by husband away! It never seemed to strike Lumley that apart from anything else I'd no much motive, considering that his death left me a beggar!"

"You didn't know about the annuity until your husband was dead?" Almond flung that at her. "You're kidding me?"

"Did Dr. Lumley say that?" Daphne seemed almost shocked. "You know, I don't believe there's anything that he could say that he hasn't said and that I've not found a convincing liar! And he hates me like poison. Why he's even been down to Scotland yard, trying about anything to find out the whole hold of any gossip about me! And then coming down to my house the other night!"

"You know perfectly well that you sent him there!" Almond could not hold herself in.

"That's my dear, why on earth should I?" Daphne was almost bland. "Do be sensible, Almond! You may dislike me, but you can't believe that I'd be such a fool as to send a man who hated me to pick up gossip to use against me!"

"You're a very nice woman, but because you hoped I'd get killed."

"Almond!" Her father thundered that.

A reproachful little cry from Daphne. "Almond! You promised me you wouldn't tell any more lies if I told you the truth!"

She turned hurriedly on Robert. "That's what I mean! Bob, he's absolutely poisoned the child's mind against me, so that she believes anything I think it is her duty that I meant to kill you or kill her, she'd believe that! He's taught her to look on me as a sort of monster."

"Almond doesn't believe anything of the sort," her father answered her.

"No," her father answered her.

"But it does," declared Daphne. "That's all I know. I've heard of things I'd had, just because of him! Everywhere I went, I'd settle down, and then I'd be taught that I was an old story'd start over again. I got so desperate, Bob, that I'd have gladly gone to the Home Office, asked for my annuity and then I'd have been glad to face even that sort of publicity rather than go on like this."

"Then why didn't you get an ex-husband?" Almond spoke harshly, bitterly.

"Why, Almond! I see, my husband unfortunately, you see, my husband always been terrified of being disgraced, so that he made me promise to cremate him."

"Very convenient," Almond's eyes were flashing.

"That's all," Daphne said to Robert, placidly. "That's what it's been like, always. I'm judged without evidence, found guilty!"

"My dear, forget it!" he pleaded.

"Can't," she said. "She's crying. I've been so desperate that I've been driven to lie, even to you! Her tone dropped to a whisper, a slow, rustling whisper more laden than tears. "I'm not defending myself! I know I was wrong! But, oh my dear, when you came along, I could hardly dare to think that you were really true!"

"That's the way," he said. "It was impetuous as he was endeavoring to her. Trust me and forget all this. Daphne, put it behind you! I don't want to hear the rest of it. We were thinking of it—and if anyone tries to—his glance at Almond bared that trust. "I'll see they don't touch you."

"You don't know what you're saying. Ask her what she said to me just before you came to me."

"What did you say?" He was terrifying when he looked so stern, Almond's if he had been a tiger.

"Almond answered him without waver." "I asked her if you knew her real name! I asked her if you knew that her real name was Peyton."

"But Daphne now did not blink or show least she had been deeply wronged."

"You see? He's even pruned the child with that!"

"I don't care," he said, puzzled.

"Don't you see that Daphne is really, truly, you see, that is my real name. I lied to you, Bob, I didn't dare to tell you. It was too afraid. You might have heard those stories. You might have realized that I was Mrs. Peyton, who was supposed to be a murderer!"

"My poor darling!"

"So I went back to my maiden name, Almond. With a return of resignation she slid Robert's diamond ring off her finger, held it out to him. "I'm almost glad, Bob, that she's found out!"

Almond caught her breath. Her father had gone.

"Daphne!" He caught her to him, pleading. "Daphne, darling, don't talk like that! Do you suppose I care what people say?"

"Oh, Bob..."

Daphne swayed suddenly towards him; his arm closed round her, and she fell forward.

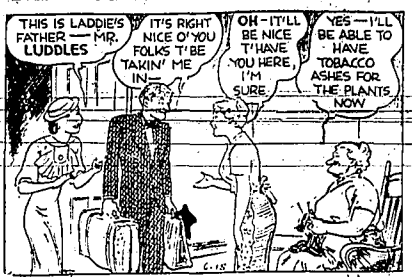

"Father! Please! Don't believe her! She's lying! She sent those telegrams to me!"

"She tried to kill me!" The words came tumbling out. "Oh, please, listen to me! Don't you see? I'm frightened, terrified!"

"Hold your tongue!" her father ordered roughly. "Haven't you done enough?"

"But Almond would not let her go. You just wait, she picked. "You

FLAG DAY SERVICES

PLANNED AT BURLEY
BURLEY, June 14—Burley's annual flag day ceremonies will be held Sunday by the local Elks' lodge in the next park. The program will be in charge of William Dehler. The lodge ritual will be given by the officers and former Mayor Harry L. Harper will be the speaker.

Hosea Stout's orchestra will furnish music for the ritual and the Odd Fellows' band will play. Boy Scouts will present the flag of various nations. At the close of the program the cream will be served to the children present.

KIMBERLY WOMAN HURT

IN FALL TO BASEMENT
BURLEY, June 14—Mrs. Grace Ehrlich met with a serious accident at her home in Kimberly, Tuesday evening. Mrs. Ehrlich, 57, retired, was sitting in her room when she brought her clock to her room and without turning on the lights attempted to go to the kitchen after it.

Two doors, one leading to her room and the other to the basement, were side by side and instead of opening the door to her room she opened the door to the basement and walked into a place full of the basement floor. She sustained two fractured ribs, besides being badly bruised and shaken.

Mrs. Mammie Goolley of Burley, a friend and nurse, went to Kimberly Wednesday to care for her. Mrs. Ehr-

Baer Agrees To Meet Winner Of Carnera-Battle For Twin Falls News Annual Golf Tournament

Dethroned Champion's Hands Injured, X-Ray Examination Reveals

Braddock, Slated to Defend Heavyweight Title Against Schmeling, Collects Approximately $30,000

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, June 14 (AP)—As Jimmy Braddock basked blissfully today on top of the heavyweight heap, with no fighting to do until he tackles Max Schmeling a year from now, Max Baer, defeated champion, came out of the shortest retirement on record to accept a match this September with either Joe Louis, Detroit Negro, or Primo Carnera, former champion, he once dethroned.

Baer, who X-rays showed that he had suffered injuries to both hands last night as Braddock, in an astonishing upset victory, battered the heavyweight crown from his head, will fight for the 20th century club, his second fight since he was knocked out by Carnera's punch, announced late this week his opponent will be either Joe Louis or Primo Carnera, match scheduled for June 25 at the Yankee stadium.

Thus Baer set up the future line-up of the heavyweight on the two sides of the promotional war and removed himself as the only possible challenger to the title.

The reward then, too, was a championship chance, and that victory Baer got his opportunity to blast

Betting Proves Fight on Level

NEW YORK, June 14 (AP)—Despite the high odds against Jimmy Braddock's chances of winning the heavyweight title from Max Baer last night, betting companies said the fight was on a level.

At the most, they said, not more than $10,000,000 hands here in New York, although the odds were as high as 10 to 1.

CEREMONIAL MARKS HOUSING CAMPAIGN

Motor Parade Leads to Site of Modern Home to Be Dedicated

Marking the beginning of a campaign that has for its goal 100 new homes under construction in Twin Falls by August 1, Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce has arranged a demonstration today that will include a motor parade along Main avenue at 1:30 o'clock and a ceremonial breaking of ground for the first Twin Falls residence to be built under the national housing act insured under the plan.

This residence, a 5000 ultra-modern dwelling to be owned by Howard Speer at the corner of Shoup and Filmore streets, is to be open to public inspection during construction and after it is completed. Plans will be on exhibition during the ceremonial ground breaking.

The ground breaking ceremony will be turned by Duncan McD. Johnston, Twin Falls mayor. A program of speaking also will be arranged last evening in which a portable public address system that is to lead the parade, is to be called into play.

Three Others on List
In the same neighborhood also three other building sites on which national housing act homes are to be erected will be dedicated today. Owners of these properties are Jack Dunn, H. H. Stokes and Russell Robertson.

In general charge of today's parade and ceremonial is Captain J. W. Porter, chairman of Twin Falls Better Housing committee. Expected to take part in the program also is Edward Dutton, Jr., of Boise, executive assistant of the federal housing administration, who has been in charge of commerce officials here for several days assisting applicants for national housing act loans.

Announcing the Better Housing committee's objective of 100 new homes in Twin Falls this summer, Mr. Dunn said last evening there have been received here applications for approximately 500,000 of national housing act loans.

Route for today's motor parade was announced to start from the corner of Main avenue and Third street north, moving along Main avenue to Third street east, then back on Main avenue to Third street north, and on out to the corner of Filmore and Filmore streets where Twin Falls first home, under the insured mortgage plan, is to be built, and where today's ceremonial will be staged.

In today's demonstration Twin Falls joins with towns and cities throughout the nation in observance of National Better Housing day. Announcement given out by the federal housing administration at Washington, relayed here last evening through the state housing administration, said that work will begin on 34,436 model homes in a thousand cities and towns today as a part of the observance of the day.

This number, local representative of the housing administration said, is almost as great as the total of houses built in this country during the entire year of 1934.

BANK'S AID PLEDGED TO HOUSING ACT SALES
Guest of 21 Stewart-Warner dealers of Twin Falls at a meeting at dinner at the Park hotel Thursday evening, Roy Painter, cashier of the Security National bank, told the dealers the bank is ready and enthusiastically willing to cooperate in facilitating sales under provisions of the national housing act.

BUHL MEN APPEAL FROM JAIL TERM SENTENCES

That kid's folks are on relief, and he gets cheese and crackers and sardines even when his mother isn't playing bridge."

Willard Lorenzo Hansen, 35, served notice of appeal to the district court. They were convicted at trial in the probate court here Thursday and were sentenced yesterday by Probate Judge Guy L. Kinney.

RAILROADS BIDDING FOR NEW BUSINESS

Oregon Short Line Agent Speaks to Commerce Directors

On a strictly competitive basis, American railroads are bidding for business with faster, more efficient and more comfortable train service. E. H. Hirsch, Oregon Short Line agent in Twin Falls, told Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce directors and guests at a meeting at luncheon in the chamber's club room yesterday. A Railroad week program had been arranged, and a miniature stream-line train was the centerpiece at the luncheon table.

Mr. Haasch discussed stream-line train construction, pointing out that the Oregon Short Line is a heavy taxpayer, he said. "Every business day we have to take in $70 to pay taxes before there is a dollar of revenue for the railroad company."

He spoke also of a $500,000 advertising campaign in which Western railroads have joined in a bid for new business.

WOODMEN OF WORLD IN SESSIONS HERE

District Convention Brings 300 Delegates From All Over State

Woodmen of the World are assembling here today for a district meeting. Members from all camps in Idaho are expected to attend, and Boise degree and drill team will be present.

A street parade will be staged at Falls mayor who was a guest, predicted Idaho municipalities will develop sufficient sentiment to insure call for a special session of the state legislature to amend state laws in order that federal funds may be spent for improvements in towns and cities.

Other guests were Guy H. Shearer, president of the Security National bank; J. M. Leinen, Ralph B. Smith, A. S. Gilbert and Roy A. Read.

Children Offered Numerous Prizes For Parade Entry

Launching the IERA summer playground project, sponsored by the Parent-Teacher association, a parade will be conducted next Monday morning, starting from the city park at 10:30 o'clock. All children of Twin Falls are invited to participate.

The following prizes will be awarded: First and second prize, most artistic girls' costume; first and second prize, most artistic boys' costume; first and second prize, girls' funniest costume; first and second prize, boys' funniest costume; prize for most interestingly costumed group of children; prize for oddest pet; best trained pet; biggest pet; bluest pet; best decorated pet; first and second prize for best decorated bicycle;

First and second prize for best decorated vehicle other than bicycles. Prizes will be awarded by Rowles-MacCormack company, C. C. Anderson, Van Engelen-Mood, J. C. Penney, Idaho Department store, M.
