JAPANESE EXPANSION

Japan is voracious, but doesn't bite off more than she can chew and doesn't chew more than she can swallow. Bite by bite, she is eating her way west and south on the Asiatic mainland.

Japanese forces are now in control, and the Chinese government—what there is of it—is yielding. China's face will be saved, and outwardly there will be little change for a while, but the new rulers will be responsible to Japan, the new policies will be made in Tokyo.

All this is awkward for the United States and the other world powers that have always insisted on, and until recently enforced, the "open door in China."

An American war with Japan for China would be foolish. We cannot fight to save four hundred million people who will not fight to save themselves.

STATE CO-OPERATION

At a recent meeting of state governors in Biloxi, Mississippi, several governors talked of regional compacts between states as a means of accomplishing uniform action on important matters without federalization.

When asked whether South Carolina would join New England to preserve wage standards and prohibit child labor in the textile industry, Governor Johnston replied, "I think we would."

There are many serious problems in the nation's life which can be solved only through some kind of united action. With our free tradition and dual system of government, it is well for the states to handle everything they can for themselves.

The states should neither be running to Washington for help, nor having Washington arbitrarily solving their problems for them. But Washington may always have to do for them such essential things as they fail, for any reason, to do for themselves.

RADICAL GREAT BRITAIN

As the "right little, tight little isle" of Great Britain slips gently again into the hands of the Conservative Party, Americans may overestimate the degree of conservatism represented. The two countries are rather far apart in the meanings they give the words "conservative" and "liberal." We usually think of the British people as more conservative than we are; yet Great Britain and other British countries are in most public matters now further to the left than we are.

Ramsay MacDonald, former head of the Labor Party, who presided over the non-parliamentary cabinet these last few years, was a Labor man and a Socialist, though somewhat tamed lately.

Lloyd George, former Prime Minister and latterly a free lance, has been more radical in his policies than William Jennings Bryan ever dreamed of being.

Calling themselves Conservatives, and solemnly warning the country against "udden and ill-considered changes," the new heads of the British government, if closely examined, may be found doing a surprising number of things that no liberal administration in America has yet dared, or had the authority, to try.

We Americans are inclined to talk wild and act tame. Our British cousins do the opposite; they talk tame and, according to our notions, act wild.

BRIEFLY BETTER THAN HIS FIGURES

THE REVISED PLANS

For the quiet and admirable statement made by the president of the National Industrial Conference Board and deserved praise, industrial leaders have hastened to pledge to him the cooperation which he outlines.

To point now to the contrast between his plans as announced and the speech which he made to the Washington correspondents last Friday would be a superficial and ill-timed.

Passage of the new bill for prolonging its life on a month-by-month basis attended by dangers in congress. There are always members who want to punish somebody or confiscate certain kinds of property.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. MCINTYRE

New York, June 19.—Probably no new excitement in years got away to such a start as the one which took place last night.

Albert Hagedorn, 20, victim of cancerosis which means his life is slowly turning to stone, works in a Martine, Calif. store, to raise money to attend the University of California to study medicine.

He was reputedly worth nearly $1,000,000. The combination of trying to start a league in opposition to organized baseball and John D. Rockefeller's financial debacle struck him down to the proverbial thin dime.

Today, rotund and beaming, he is the front man in his latest experiment, peering over the shoulders of waiters to see that service runs smoothly.

Speaking of names—there's the book name of Punch. Acute reviews as a rule. This time it noticed something by Willa Cather and praised it without condescension.

Bus Beer, attended by a very elegant waitress in a morning dress at a South street eatery, was asked: "May I reimburse your coffee?"

One of the Beer yarns was a stock story of Arnold Day's years ago. It was told, Beer was in the sports room of a newspaper where at the time he was a comic artist.

A sidewalk meanderer buried deep in his newspaper did a cute bit of peeking at the newspaper ahead of him, and exploded a snort of laughter.

Turning To Stone

For some years past it has been the fashion among young people to be "hard-boiled." There are signs that the craze for "hard-boiled" is passing, but some of the causes for it still exist.

It is considered rather smart to scorn patriotism or to make fun of school or college spirit. Enthusiasm for a cause and hero-worship have been some of their old vices.

But children need it. Falling to get it in school or today, where teachers and books often insist on a cut and dried version of facts, forgetting the dreams of youth, they turn to gangsters and impossible heroes of incredible modern fiction.

Of course, youth is human, and some greater than themselves whom they can adore and admire. The men just by very strong, the women beautiful and well-dressed, and financial success is usually the criterion of their importance.

It is a pity that the "hard-boiled" and "scots at romance and loyalty" day by day he hears and sees sentiment, love and loyalty abandoned for the sake of a few dollars.

(NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS)

WASHINGTON.—By HAY JOHNSON.—DUEL. Hay Johnson cannot bear to quit the Washington scene where he has been hounded and gored as a "hard-boiled" man.

His country in the years just ahead will be deciding in "what sense" the word "conservative" and whether it shall control the exploitation of human beings and of natural resources or whether it shall succumb to the maelstrom of economic forces which are loosed in the absence of those controls.

CHART. In the next depression and for the balance of this one—the federal government will know what kind of projects provide the most man-hours of direct and indirect employment.

QUARREL. Secretary Ickes has been reeling on his own motion to strip the department of agriculture of control of birds, forests, soil erosion and other conservation projects.

BURFLUS. Federal paymaster is calling the check-writing machines which have already disbursed almost $1,000,000,000 for substituting.

SECRET. Reports of the testimony caused consternation at the department of agriculture. They mean the crop and seed trust government should become only a "research" department.

EXCESSIVE. Wallace's scout insists that Mr. Ickes has mobilized his famed OGPU in this quarrel.

OBJECTIONS. Quite unintentionally the Democratic National Committee is flooding the country with New Deal propaganda.

WHENEVER. Cabinet members make a habit of appearing before the press to praise their department's achievements.

CONTROL. President Roosevelt has apparently backed away from his tentative suggestion for constitutional revision. But he is still talking about it.

WAR ON CRICKETS IN 19 COUNTIES

Entomologist Leading Fight Declares Poison Dust Attack Effective

NOISE, June 19.—A hundred men now are battling to exterminate millions of crickets that infest 500,000 acres of land in 19 Idaho counties. Dr. Claude Wakeland of Moscow University of Idaho extension division entomologist, said here today.

Little damage to the growing life has been done by the crawling mass of insects, and there is relatively little danger, he observed.

"We don't know what the crickets would do if we ignored them; that they were in the field to eliminate them as best we can with the funds and men that are available," he said.

Battle Fronts
The counties in which men armed with "poison dust guns" are operating are Idaho, Adams, Blaine, Ada, Camas, Blaine, Clark, Fremont, Teton, Bonneville, Bingham, Caribou, Blaine, Bear Lake, Franklin, Oneida, Owyhee and Power.

The battle is being directed by Dr. Wakeland, whose field forces consist of Idaho emergency relief administration workers and county agents.

Only about $20,000 in federal funds is available for the work, and that amount "is hopelessly inadequate for the territory to be covered," he declared.

The entomologist was quick to declare that the general impression that there is no effective means of fighting the masses of gardens and fields is erroneous.

"Sulfur arsenate dust mixed with kerosene and applied at the volume of five to 10 pounds an acre with dust guns," is highly effective, he declared.

Proof of Effectiveness

"A recent investigation graphically revealed that the poison method is highly effective. On one acre of land more than 2,000,000 dead crickets were found."

"The idea that the state's drive to exterminate crickets and to grow, which prey on other more valuable birds and crops, will be increased by the increased population of crickets is unfounded."

"The migration of the crickets will be back for this year in two or three weeks, and the extension division now is attempting to coordinate all interests in a drive to eliminate the pests next year."

"Work to gain that objective must be started in the year—during the egg hatching time between March 25 and May 1."

"The migration of crickets first was noted in Idaho at Fort Hall four years ago. There have always been crickets in Idaho, but their numbers have been increasing. Bands of them travel a quarter to a half mile a day in various directions when they begin migrating, and the weak who die on the way are consumed by their sturdier comrades."

"During periods of low population they can always be found in natural breeding areas—the higher foothills."

Concern Exaggerated
"The higher population cycle comes every 15 years, and they reach their migration stage in 1935. There is no scientific evidence of the cause of fluctuation in population—just theories."

"In many communities, residents have almost become hysterical because of the movement of crickets, but their concern is exaggerated."

"The crickets are a nuisance, all agree, but up to the present time they have done relatively little damage."

"Our chief interest is to see to it that these millions do not increase if they should produce damage that could be like it has been in a few states."

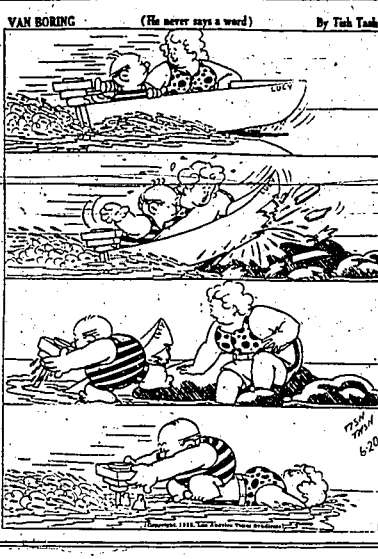

Dr. Wakeland now is mapping the infested areas of the reserves and public domain to aid in the campaign next year.

ORCHARDISTS ADVISED TO USE LEAD ON MOTH

Third crop spray to combat codling moth in Twin Falls district orchards should be completed by June 29. W. E. Wilcox, horticultural inspector, said here today. The announcement said: "The codling moth are emerging very steadily. The ground temperature is very heavy. The trap catch indicates that the third crop spray should be completed by June 29. This spray should consist of three pounds of arsenate of lead to the 100 gallons of water. It would also be good insurance in view of so many eggs out at this time to use 1 per cent of summer type oil. We have had reports of a few."

HERDS TURNED INTO RANGES OF SAWTOOTH

FAIRFIELD, June 19.—Approximately 1000 head of cattle have been admitted to the Sawtooth national forest in this section within the past few days. The Camas unit entered the bulk of the 1000 permitted, and the remaining 700 head, with a few stragglers still to be gathered.

Fred Moser of Gooding has been herder for the latter unit for several years, and Frank Down, old-time cattleman, is acting as herder for the Camas unit. He has cared for the cattle ever since the Camas Unit Grazing association was organized in 1922, excepting last year when Willard Vanderhey herded.

The annual cattle roundup near the Twin Lakes reservoir five miles southwest of here, was held Sunday, with about 50 persons attending. After the serious business of gathering and cutting out was accomplished and picnic lunches enjoyed by the families present, some of the more ambitious men rode wild steers.

READY MADE WIFE

Chapter One
TWO WIDOWS

HOPE you will have a very good time, Mrs. Moore. You deserve a rest. I've been working you hard these last weeks."

Laurie Moore looked at her employer, her blue eyes softly bright with gratitude. "It is so kind of you to give me the extra day, Mr. Albery." She smiled. She shall be able to see my little sister's first night on Easter Monday."

"That all right, Mrs. Moore. Miss Dixie will be back on Tuesday. She's had a bad time, poor woman, but you've taken her place splendidly."

There was a hint of regret in Mark Albery's voice, as if the return of his invaluable confidential secretary after an illness did not cause him the satisfaction that it should.

He looked at the girl who had replaced her, coming from one of the other departments of the company of his great airplane factory. Her moved voice and shining eyes pleased him. In the few weeks that she had been doing his personal correspondence he had often been struck by her unusual combination of business efficiency and an emotional appeal. She was, he had decided, the most absolutely natural young woman he had met in his office life.

"You are very fond of your sister, Mrs. Moore?" he asked. He wanted to keep her in his office a little longer although their work was done and she was ready to go home.

He knew all about Laurie Moore, for she was the "old" widow of Mrs. Moore, the airman, who had lost his life in an attempt to fly the Pacific, that she and her young sister had been stranded in Australia, penniless, and that a friend and business colleague of his had looked after them and sent them to England, where a letter brought him the head of the firm that produced the machine in which the airman had met his death.

That was two years ago. Of course the firm had done everything that could be done. They would have looked after her, without affecting her work, but she wanted a job and would take nothing else. By now she had worked her way into a good position, but it was only in the last few weeks that Mark Albery had come into personal contact with her.

He found himself interested in her. She had brains. He could not tell what she was doing, but he was pretty certain that she was not, but sometimes looked beautiful, when her blue eyes shone and the expression of her own face changed from moment to moment in its emotional vitality.

Her eyes were the color of lupines, a dark, misty blue, and her hair was red-brown, like a glossy ripe chestnut. She had a high spirit, and was a quick temper. And she was not a "yes girl."

He liked that especially in her. As the head of a great business, he had to deal with many "yes girls" and "yes men" to deal with. Even the indispensable Miss Dixie was a bit of a "yes" woman, agreeing invariably with everything he said.

But Laurie Moore had contradicted him several times. And only last week, over that tiresome matter in which he was up against the Government, she had most unexpectedly made a suggestion that criticized his own handling of the case. It was a piece of feminine guts. Of course, she could not understand the technical issues, but her instinct told her that his treatment of the situation was wrong, and she turned out to be right.

Yes, Mark Albery was definitely interested in young Mrs. Moore. He was not at all certain that he was not falling-in-love with her. But that would be another matter. He was forty-five, and she only thirty. Marriage had never entered his thoughts and was not likely to now.

"You miss Gladys very much, don't you?" the girl said. "And she hasn't been in London for three months."

"She is a dancer, isn't she?"

"Yes, and she's getting on splendidly." Pride rang in Laurie's voice. It was plain to the man that the girl was the apple of her eye. The manager of the troupe thinks a lot of her. I shall never forget that it was your kindness that made it possible for her to take lessons, Mr. Albery. You have done so much for us both, you could not do too much for Rex Moore's widow," the man said.

Laurie was looking away from him.

"I sometimes wonder if you still hope—against hope?" he said quietly. "That he might come back? No trace of him or his machine was found, in spite of the most intensive search. Do you?"

"Oh, no!" It was a kind of choked cry that came from her lips. She was still looking away from him. Her face was white and there was a sudden deep emotion. It looked almost like fear.

"I'm sorry, I should not have said that," Albery said. "It was stupid, unkind. Forgive me, Mrs. Moore. The last thing I want to do is to cause you pain. I want you to be happy. I cannot help being interested in you. You are so brave. You put up such a good fight against your troubles. But I mustn't keep you any longer. Would you accept this little present—as an Easter gift? It is only a trifle, but I should like to show my appreciation of your work."

The trifle that he put into her hand was a handkerchief with toilet requisites, daintily embroidered.

Laurie's pale face flushed with pleasure. She had one of her beautiful moments as she smiled and thanked her thanks.

"You are too kind, Mr. Albery. I don't deserve it. What a perfectly gorgeous bag!"

Laurie's heart beat a little faster.

PLANNERS PROPOSE BUILDING ERECTION

New Cassia County Court House Suggested Under Public Works

BURLEY, July 19—One of the outstanding items of business to come before the Cassia county planning board when it meets Tuesday of next week at 2 o'clock in the afternoon in the district court room will be the proposal to erect a county court house, according to Arthur D. Pierce, Malia, chairman of the county planning board.

The county already owns a half-block of ground, directly south of the city hall, on a line with the federal building. The city hall has been shared with the county for its offices since the removal of the county seat from Albion in 1918. More space has long been needed by the county. The court house site is owned by the city of Burley in fulfillment of its pledge made as an inducement to secure the removal of the county seat to Burley. In addition the county was given free rent for ten years since which time the rental has been $200 per year.

Under the PWA set-up, 45 per cent of a court house would be borne by the government. A bond issue for the other 55 per cent would be necessary. Payment of the bonds could be distributed on an amortized basis over a long period of years, stated Chairman Pierce, who is also a member of the county board of commissioners, and the cost to the county in rent on the city building would almost pay the annual payments for both principal and interest over the term of the mortgage at present, with nothing to show in return.

ITALY PLANS CONSTRUCTION OF VAST AFRICAN ROAD

ROME (AP)—A highway from the Atlantic ocean to the Red sea, running along the northern shores of Africa, will be completed within a few years as a result of appropriations made by the Italian government.

The road will be 3280 miles long, of which 1250 miles are in Italian territory.

The Italian section will join French North Africa to Egypt. It will follow the ancient Roman route along the coast, and pass near the once flourishing cities of Sabrata, Cyrene and Lepid Magna.

The road will also have military importance, since patrolling of the coast will be rendered easier.

Coach Expects World's Records To Stand At Big Meet

Hamilton Believes Marks Will Survive Attack At Berkeley

'Much Will Depend On Conditions,' Says California Mentor As Famed Track And Field Athletes Assemble

By RUSSELL J. NEWLAND (Associated Press Sports Writer)
BERKELEY, Calif., June 19 (AP)—The country's finest track and field athletes with few exceptions will match strides and strength in the National Collegiate A.A. championships here Friday and Saturday but in the face of this array of athletic might Brutus Hamilton of the University of California expressed doubt today any world's records would be broken.

Hamilton, scholarly coach who recently figured out a table of ultimate performances for track and field, does not see eye to eye with many other members of the profession in the matter of setting new marks. "There are some mighty good records in the books now," Hamilton explained. "We've reached the point where a new record should be considered a real feat, not an every-day occurrence.

"Perhaps I shouldn't say so, but I will be surprised if any records are broken in the meet. Much will depend on conditions. It may be that the conditions will be so good that some records will be broken. Possibly some will be beaten."

"Jesse Owens of Ohio State should be able to beat the 100-meter world record anytime he jumps. And he won't have to run alone in the sprints as he has done most of the season. He'll meet there will be some boys right at his elbow. There is a bare possibility Owens has reached his average mark.

Close Races Loom
Every race with the possible exception of the mile and two mile runs, shapes up exceptionally close. Ray Sears of Butler has impressed observers as the standout in the mile and two-mile. An older and more experienced runner than the rest, Sears is in top condition when as his keenest rival, Don Lash of Indiana is nursing a bad arch neck which may be out of commission.

Sears has a 4:15 mile to his credit this year while Lash, Big Ten champion, elapsed one-tenth of a second of the Butler entry's best time.

The 150 yard high hurdles world's record of 1:25 seconds has been broken in the opinion of Coach Hamilton.

"There are three or four boys knocking in," he said. "Either Phil Pope or Roy Statler of Southern California may win. It may be a dead heat between the two, but I think the odds favor Statler."

Major Surprises Mark Wimbledon Tennis Drawings

Perry Accorded Top Position While Naming of German for Second Post Causes Sensation Among Fans

LONDON, June 19 (AP)—Two major surprises were registered today as the draw was made for the Wimbledon tennis championships starting next Monday.

The field, made up of representatives from sections of the globe, included an even dozen players from the United States—five members of the Davis cup team and four other men and three women stars.

Jack Crawford of Australia was named second No. 3 followed in order by H. W. (Bunny) Austin; Wilmer Allison of Washington; and Bill Johnston of New York. Czechoslovakia and Christl Bousava of France, the two women placed Perry and Nessel in the first quarter; Crawford and Wood in the second; Bousava and Austin in the third and Allison and von Gramm in the fourth.

The second surprise, this one in the nature of an enigma, was produced in the draw for the women's singles. Katherine Sturtevant of Canada's third ranking performance and only player so far to halt to Mrs. Helen Wills Moody's comeback campaign, was seeded ninth—two notches below Mr. Moody.

Dorothy Round First

The Golden Bears from Berkeley carried the American colors to triumph in the last two Olympics at Amsterdam and Los Angeles. They are ambitious now to make it three straight at Berlin, on their third try for the crown.

"Pretty Lucky"
"A lot of things can happen by this time tonight," cautioned Carroll (Ike) Bright, head coach of the Bears, who brought his victorious crew to town today for an overnight round of recreation before heading westward tomorrow for the Long Beach invitation regatta.

"We naturally hope to develop another Olympic crew but it's always a gamble in boat-racing. The crew that clicks is the one that wins. I guess we have been pretty lucky. We're fortunate to come on again next year. Our boys will be doing the best they can. We plan to be back for Pontiac, as well as the Olympic trial."

Brown Bomber 'Ain't Never Shaved Yet' Commissioner and Physician Examine

Joe Louis Figures Night He Wins The Heavyweight Championship Will Be Soon Enough

BY JOHN STATHI (Associated Press Staff Writer)
POMPTON LAKES, N. J., (AP)—You don't have to shave very often, do you, Joe?
"Ain't never shaved yet."
"Suppose you'll blow yourself to your first shave the night you tackle Primo Carnera, eh?"
"Huh—uh—the night I win the championship," came the answer (with about the same amount of hilarity he might be expected to register in deciding not to take a walk around the block).

And so we give you one of the oddest ambitions in the history of sports—Louis' determination to become Italy's first beardless world's heavy-weight champion.

Which gives, also, an idea of how thoroughly this Brown Bomber's meteoric 11-month record of 18 knockouts, four decisions in 22 fights, has convinced him, himself.

Only less than a year ago he was fighting for nothing—or as near to nothing as amateurs ever fight for—as a Detroit Golden Glove, subsequently as the champion-to-be of the National A. A. U. tourney in the light-heavy class.

Now he's up here in the Catskills preparing for a match which, if it wins, must lead directly to a shot at the world's heavyweight crown.

That 11-month record has by no means convinced the experts—especially those who haven't seen him fight—but that this smooth-faced boy who was just 21 in May is ready for that kind of a spot. The record is packed full of names that have a most unfamiliar sound.

But the manner of scoring, all things considered, "reads" as if it were the very least, and the way he is beating around a flock of Garrahan-type negro sparring partners is the least of it.

Louis' date with Primo Carnera is a date that is not to be taken lightly. Carnera is a former champion of the National A. A. U. tourney in the light-heavy class.

Can He Take It?
Whether he "can take it"—the question that has been the pre-occupant of many spectators—hasn't been answered yet. Louis' great string of knockouts began to impress the general fighting public is still a moot one.

But there certainly is no doubt that he can hit it out.

DETROIT, June 19 (AP)—The Yankees took a doubleheader from Detroit and defeated the Tigers down into fourth place today in a long battle that had all the elements of a dime novel.

After chugging out a 12 to 3 triumph in the opener, the league leaders had to go to 12 innings to win 7 to 6 in a finish that kept the crowd of 27,000 on edge until the last man was relieved.

Tommy Bridges, who had won his last nine starts on the mound, finally hit his string shattered after a long duel with Vito Marcuzzi and Pat Malone in the second game.

As they went into the tenth inning, Ben Chapman gave the Yankees the lead for the third time with a home run but Pete Fox again tied the score.

BOSTON, June 19 (AP)—The Boston Braves and the Chicago Cubs divided two hard-fought games here today, the Braves winning the first by a 2-1 margin and the visitors taking the second 3-0.

Bob Smith hooked up with Lonnie Warlick in an old-fashioned pitcher's duel in the first encounter. Smith allowing seven hits, while the Braves were held to six.

Big Bill Lee collected his seventh victory of the year in the nineteenth inning off the McKeebine clan with five scattered hits.

CLEVELAND, June 19 (AP)—A home run outburst, featuring Hal Trosky's tenth and eleventh circuit drives of the season enabled the Indians to defeat Washington 10 to 5 in the second game of today's double header after they had today's victory scratched away from them in the last two innings of the opener.

The Senators won that game, 11 to 8, scoring four runs in the eighth and seven in the ninth after Thornton Lee had held them to six hits in the first seven frames.

Golden Bears Ambitious to Win Third Classic at Berlin

By ALAN GOULD (Associated Press Sports Editor)
BERKELEY, June 19 (AP)—California's conquering oarsmen, spurred on by their latest triumph in the classic Poultice regatta, are already having their eyes on the 1936 Olympics.

Propagation Of Idaho Wild Life Shows Sharp Increase Qualifying Scores To Determine Partners In Golf Tournament

State Official Finds Grouse, Geese And Pheasants Plentiful

'Sage Hen Only Fowl Which Seems Doomed To Extinction,' Director Of Biological Survey Reports

BOISE, June 19 (AP)—Propagation of nearly all types of wild life is showing a marked increase over last year and shooting seasons on migratory waterfowl are unusually promising, T. B. Murray, state director of the biological survey, stated today upon his return from a field trip into southwestern Idaho.

"The outlook for ducks this year is not quite as bright as it was in 1934," Mr. Murray commented, "but they are nesting more freely and should not decrease greatly; however, the remarkable nesting activities of geese are very promising and from my observations, I would say that there will be a notable increase in their numbers, particularly along the Snake river from Hagerman valley to Welser.

"Ruffed grouse, blue grouse, ptarmigan, the foot hen and Franking grouse are all reproducing very well. Probably the only fowl which has no hope of increasing and seems doomed to extinction because of the growth and disease is the sage hen. Thousands of them have died within the last year from some unknown disease and they have completely vanished from some spots where they formerly thrived. They have showed the worst hatch this year since 1916.

"Pheasants are doing very well. Their nesting is progressing slightly better than usual and there should be plenty of them this year.

"Deer and antelope show marked signs of improvement, both in their condition and numbers.

New Species Appears
The Richardson ground squirrel which has flourished in some sections of Idaho a few years ago is rapidly disappearing but a new species is taking its place. Taking wild life as a whole, conditions seem greatly improved over last year and with plenty of moisture this summer, it should increase accordingly, just as it decreased during the drought.

Besides making an inspection of the grouse, ptarmigan and other wild life, Mr. Murray checked with Civilian Conservation Corps workers and the forest service on rodent control.

Mel Cosgriff Leads Field For Medalist Honors

Decision to name partners in the Twin Falls News' second annual Southern Idaho best ball tournament according to scores submitted in qualifying play was made last evening by Fred Stone, starter at Twin Falls Country club, and the sports department of the News.

The tournament, to be conducted over the country club course, at match play, will begin officially, Thursday, June 23, following the completion of qualifying round play over 18 holes Tuesday evening, June 22. Ten entrants have already paid their entry fees and are ready for the gun. Two have completed qualifying play and six others have played half of the required 18 holes to date.

Leading the field to date for medalist honors, which will include a soft statue trophy, is Mel Cosgriff—who last night completed his qualifying round by shooting the last nine holes in a 39, which added to his 40 of yesterday gives him a 79 as qualifying score. E. W. McElberta Tuesday shot his qualifying round in an 82.

Buhl Man to Answer TO BURGLARY CHARGE

Accused in a felony charge of first degree burglary, Charlie Roberts, 27, of Buhl, was held under $1000 bond to answer to the charge in the district court after he waived preliminary hearings when he was arraigned before Guy L. Kinney in the probate court here yesterday.

In the complaint Roberts was accused of entering a granary on the Walker Roberts farm at Buhl with intent to commit larceny during the night of last June 12, he was arrested by Buhl police and a deputy sheriff.

BICYCLIST SUES FOR COLLISION DAMAGES

Sued by Norman Falson for $457.50 damages from W. T. The accident was reported to have occurred at the intersection of Fourth avenue and Third street east last October 16.

The cyclist claims damages for lacerations of the face and right arm and hand, broken ribs and hernia. He asks compensation also for loss of four weeks employment and damage to his wheel and clothing. E. M. Sweeney, Twin Falls, is his attorney.

Canning School Invites South Idaho Homemakers

Under the sponsorship of the Twin Falls News, the Kerr Glass Manufacturing Corporation will hold a series of demonstrations of correct methods of food canning and food preservation next week in Twin Falls, Buhl and Burley.

Mrs. Ethel M. Pope will be in charge of the daily programs which will be held in the high school auditorium Wednesday and Thursday of next week. Similar sessions will be held at the Cozy theatre in Buhl Monday and Tuesday and in the dining room of the National hotel at Burley on Friday and Saturday.

The entire gathering and preparation, including the preparing of fruits, vegetables and food of all kinds will be carried on in all its details with illustrations of every phase of the work. Mrs. Pope comes to Twin Falls as the special representative of the Kerr Corporation. Necessary electrical equipment will be installed in the auditorium for her use and a wide variety of methods for the preserving of foodstuffs will be demonstrated. There will be no admission charge.

The program will open at 3 o'clock each day and last until about 4 o'clock. A free gift distribution to those attending will be a feature of each of the sessions and all are cordially invited to attend.

In addition to the ordinary forms of the preserving of fruits, vegetables and meats Mrs. Pope will demonstrate the latest methods of making jellies, conserves and pickles. The equipment to be used will be similar to that to be found in the average home and every effort is made to make the lessons in every way practical.

The Kerr Glass Manufacturing Corporation maintains and operates experimental kitchens at a number of points throughout the country and as a result of the work thus constantly carried on the very latest and best methods of preserving in all its branches are determined and the results transmitted to the field representatives of the various districts where demonstrations are held.

The demonstrations are especially appropos to the season, now that local strawberries are on the market at most reasonable prices. A few gooseberries are available for canning. Bing cherries have already appeared on local fruit counters, and rhubarb of superior quality is ready for canning. By next week, many fruits and vegetables will be at their prime for canning.

Especially valuable to the farmer's wife will be the demonstration in canning of meat, poultry, game and fish. Discussing home-canning of meat, Mrs. Pope gives the following reasons why this is advantageous:

"You not only save time, labor and money, but you automatically save your menus for months ahead while doing your home canning, and you give to your meals a variety that would otherwise be impossible. The old-fashioned methods of curing meats at butchering time have long since been found too limited and tending toward a monotonous diet. You can serve fried chicken in the dead of winter, roast duck in midsummer—and other tasty and unusual dishes at all seasons of the year."

Home-makers of Southern Idaho are urged to become "canning conscious" and to attend these worthwhile demonstrations next week.

HOME LUMBER BUILDS MODEL OFFICE ROOMS

Highly polished oak floors throughout the offices strike a keynote in the current program of improvement at the Home Lumber and Coal company yards at the corner of Third avenue and Second street south.

"We like to show our friends and patrons how floors can be improved and inexpensively with hardwood," Herman Huisa, manager, said last evening. A part of the office floor has been laid in the manager's private office.

Other improvements include the installation of new display windows on two sides of the building, at the corner.

Pointing to sheds and rooms filled with lumber and other building materials, Mr. Huisa said that owing to the present demands of the building campaign under way in Twin Falls calls for almost immediate replenishment of many lines.

RESIDENT OF COUNTY FARM SUMMONED

William Markham, 76, died at 9 o'clock last evening at the Twin Falls county general hospital, where he was taken from the county farm. He has no known relatives. The body rests at the White mortuary chapel.

MONTANA AUTHORITIES IN QUEST OF HOBBER MILES CITY, Mont., June 19 (AP)—Authorities turned toward Glendive and Wolf Point today in their quest of robbers who procured several thousand dollars in negotiable paper and $1400 in cash from Bowman, North Dakota, and brass establishments and were traced through here in their flight.

Small safes taken from two establishments were found near Mayn, Montana, and in one, apparently overlooked by the thieves, were two government $1000 bonds and a diamond ring.

... say automotive engineers

Measuring cylinder wear with a precision gauge accurate to a hundred-thousandth of an inch.

Motorists who know these facts will save money:

Motor oils refined by the usual methods have some oiliness and film strength, but they may form carbon and sludge, which lead to expensive motor repairs.

Other oils may form almost no carbon and sludge, but are so over-refined that they are robbed of oiliness and film strength they need to prevent motor wear.

Germ Processed Oil is refined to eliminate carbon and sludge troubles and then the Germ Process adds extra oiliness and 2 to 4 times more film strength than any straight mineral oil, as tests on the Timken machine have proved.

Only the oil with the "Hidden Quart" will stay up in your motor and cut down this starting wear!

Here are the facts: Oils not Germ Processed drain back into the crankcase when your motor is idle. Bearings, pistons and cylinders are dry when you start. Even in warm weather your motor makes at least a thousand revolutions before the quickest flowing oil can reach all parts. Bare metal grinds against bare metal—destructive wear occurs.

Conoco Germ Processed Oil cuts down this costly starting wear! The patented Germ Process—adding concentrated oily essence to highly refined oil—makes it penetrate and combine with metal surfaces. That penetrative film, forming the "Hidden Quart", becomes part of the metal itself and never drains away.

Hundreds of dry-crankcase runs have proved the "Hidden Quart" lubricating value. Cars using Germ Processed Oil were driven 15 to 75 miles with the crankcase empty but without motor damage!

Germ Processed Oil protects your motor another way. All cars built since 1931 have greatly increased pressures and must have oil of extra high film strength for safe lubrication. Straight mineral oils have no more film strength than they had 10 years ago—some have less!

Conoco Germ Processed Oil, with 2 to 4 times the film strength of mineral oils, gives modern motors the lubrication they need. Only Conoco Germ Processed Oil gives full motor protection—when you start, while you drive. You will cut motor wear if you use it!
