ATTORNEY GENERAL GIVES EXPLANATION OF MAHAN PARDON

Former Idaho Prison Inmate Sought As Kidnap Suspect 'Was Legally Eligible to Pardon,' Miller Declares

(By The Associated Press) BOISE, June 29—William Mahan, former Idaho prison inmate, now sought in a nationwide manhunt as a suspect in the kidnaping of a nine-year-old Tacoma, Washington, boy, "was legally eligible and entitled to a pardon" from the state pardon board freed him March 21, 1933, Attorney General H. Miller declared here tonight.

Miller, a member with Governor Ross and Secretary of State Franklin Clark, of the board which acted on Mahan's application, made his statement at the conclusion of an exhaustive two-weeks investigation by his office into the circumstances surrounding Mahan's release.

The attorney general set forth a section of Idaho law precludes the pardon board from considering prisoners previous penal records when granting clemency; the only basis for denial is and not to parole, he declared.

Served Time in Montana Mahan had served time in prison in Montana before he was received in the Idaho institution. The governor and Miller voted to liberate him; Clark opposed them. Evidence uncovered here by Federal Department of Justice operating in Mahan's name was wanted for robbery in a "detailed" which asserted had been filed by Washington state officials with the pardon board prior to his release, prompted Mr. Miller to note that: "Washington state officials might never have appeared to claim Mahan. There is no record of their having been notified of his release. The business of the pardon board, but is purely a ministerial function. It is not a judicial function, and it is not a matter of public concern. It is a matter of public concern only between states. If he had been pardoned in Montana, Mahan had served more than the minimum time here in state prison which would have qualified for robbery a bank at Rathdrum.

LIGHTS and SHADOWS In Day's Events

Mother, Omelet Home

OAK PARK, Ill.,—Four "youngsters," only a week old hived all night for the return of their mother. They were kept in a "wire," a fox terrier, owned by William Goeltz, who said the mother fawn, after being let out of the basement last night.

Parliamentary

PHOENIX, Ariz.,—Phonographic records causes poultry to lay soft-shelled eggs in early summer. The American Association for the Advancement of Science was told yesterday that "fly breaker" disease is caused by eating ground flies. The cure was simple—keep the flocks cooped up during the last week of May and the first of June.

Kindness Pays

CHICAGO—Treat your livestock with kindness, especially when shipping to the slaughter house. Dr. H. Preston Hoisinger, veterinarian, said yesterday. Bruises, caused by rough handling, must be cut from carcasses, he said, causing large annual losses.

Wind, Floods, Quakes Bring Deaths, Terror To Many Countries

Storm's Toll in Japan 71 Dead; Tornadoes Ravage Europe; Mexico Shaken

(By The Associated Press) Nature's dread manifestations spread death, destruction and terror in many parts of the globe yesterday. Wind and flood killed 71 in west Japan, stifling heat, tornadoes and thunderstorms ravaged Europe, the earth shook under Mexico and the Hawaiian Islands and observers watched fearfully lest Mana Loa, the famed Hawaiian volcano, be made active.

Japan's richest industrial area, that around the populous cities of Kyoto, Osaka and Kobe, suffered heavily in storm winds and raging floods that did damage estimated at $11,000,000 or more. It was the region's second disaster in less than 10 months. A typhoon killed 2,500 the last.

Portugal, Italy, France and Germany all were visited by death in the shape of cloudbursts, electrical storms and record heat. An unexplained number of Portuguese died in wild and floods which laid waste crops; nine Italians succumbed to a sunstroke as suffocating west winds sent thermometers to record high; three persons died at Milan, France, where the thermometer climbed to 120 degrees Fahrenheit, while lightning killed six in east Prussia.

Japanese Move Seen As Taunt To Soviet

Italy Sets Aside Billion Lire For Military Expense

ROME, June 29 (AP)—Italy, gathering her forces for possible hostilities with Ethiopia, will spend an additional billion lire (about $22,000,000) on her colonies, army, navy and air force during the last six months of the coming year.

The official gazette today announced this expenditure had been budgeted in addition to the ordinary defense budget and the special sum of 1,000,000,000 lire (about $22,000,000) for the renovation of 127 military airdrafts.

The new appropriation will be divided as follows: 500,000,000 lire for the navy, 100,000,000 for aviation, 100,000,000 for the navy and 200,000,000 for the army.

CAPITAL EXPECTS SPECIAL SESSION

Governor Declines to Affirm or Deny Report of Early Call

BOISE, June 29 (AP)—Rumors that a special session of the state legislature will be called in a proclamation to be issued by Governor Ross next week leaked out here today.

Asked if they were well founded, the governor replied: "I don't know what to say at this time." Asked if he had heard rumors to that effect, he said: "Yes, you can say I have heard rumors. There is no news to be told. He did not deny them.

The Associated Press sources of information came from usual reliable informants outside the statehouse. They declined to be quoted.

Increasing Pressure During the past few weeks, since Judge Charles F. Roelich ruled in Third district court here that the state cannot go into municipalities with populations of more than 2,500 and spend federal money for improving the motor traffic arteries.

The hysterical hundreds who were caught in the collapse and escape injury were running wildly through the park when officers arrested all were seeking relatives of friends.

Emergency calls brought ambulances and doctors from all nearby towns.

How such a collapse should occur and yet cause no deaths was, one official said, "unexplainable."

NEW DEAL'S CHIEF FACES TEST IN VOTE ON UTILITIES BILL

Democratic House Prepares For Showdown on President's Demand For 'Death Sentence' Clause

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, June 29—Ripped wide open by internal insurgency over President Roosevelt's demanded "death sentence" for utility holding companies, the Democratic house adjourned a bitter session today on the verge of a vote that will test administration strength Monday.

The big test will come on a teller vote on an amendment to substitute the senate approved provision to outlaw utility holding companies in seven years for the longer interstate commerce provision leaving their fate to the securities exchange commission.

It will be followed by Representative Eicher (D-Iowa) of the interstate committee. A record vote on the amendment will be impossible at this stage but administration men are preparing to check the Democrats as they file through the committee. While House pressure may be used on the dissenters.

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, June 29—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, tonight called off the soft coal strike set for tomorrow night at the request of President Roosevelt.

Lewis agreed with Duncan Kennedy of Charleston, West Virginia, spokesman of Appalachian producers, to continue the mine operation at present wages and hours through July 31 if operators accepted. Kennedy had no power to bind the operators to any agreements, but he predicted they would accept it.

NEW DISTURBANCES TAKE OFFICERS TO OKLAHOMA MINES

Fighting Breaks Out Across State Line As National Guardsmen Restore Order In Kansas Sector of Field

(By The Associated Press) OKLAHOMA, June 29—Fighting broke out in picket lines in the strike-troubled field and some mines of northeastern Oklahoma today when order was restored by national guardsmen in the Kansas sector of field.

Oklahoma officers seized 16 loaded rifles and shotguns and four pistols in a pool hall at Hockerville, Okla.

Owen Watts, assistant attorney general, who led five state operatives to Kansas, said Oklahoma miners are being picketed in the strike of union miners for better working conditions and recognition in collective bargaining.

Plenty of Unrest Governor E. W. Marland ordered 10 of his 12 state highway patrolmen to the Oklahoma area of the Oklahoma-Kansas border today. "We had three fights on the picket lines this morning. There is plenty of unrest," Watts reported.

JURY NAILS FRAUD ON UTAH OFFICIAL

SALT LAKE CITY, June 29 (AP)—Milton H. Welling, secretary of state, was indicted today by a jury of eight men of leasing a fraudulent claim for a woman man not employed by the state.

Secretary Welling was brought to trial on a charge of authorizing a check of $100 for Mrs. G. O. Richards, wife of Harold P. Richards, a former employee of the mine which department of the secretary of state's office. The official had consented to the check's release for Mrs. Richards' assistance to her husband during road trips, but the state charged the secretary gave the check to Richards, who had it endorsed and returned to Welling where the money was eventually held to help defray expenses of maintaining visiting secretaries of state who were here for a conference.

Welling contended also that he never saw the check after it had been turned over to Richards, but the empaneled jury did not believe him. Welling had asked that it be returned by Mrs. Richards and she had refused to do so. He had also asked for this act, Richards declared the secretary of state told him to "peddle" his expense account to the extent of $100 to make up the money which he wanted to go to Mrs. Richards.

Sun Dance Calls Indians To Petition For Health

PORT HALL, Idaho, June 29 (AP)—When the sun sets behind the western ranges tomorrow, stock and raising Indians of the Shoshone and Snake tribes will give a sun dance. The Indians are petitioning for health care and to be allowed to begin their traditional three-day sun dance, including the sun god to drive the evil spirit from their broken bodies.

The sightless, the aging, the crippled, the lame and the blind, with faith the great spirit will bring them relief if they but show their courage and endurance in the sun dance. To the monotonous thumping of heavy sticks upon the skin-covered drums, the sun dance is a series of blanketed squares and to the rhythmic noise of shrill whistles carried by the dancers, the ailing Indians stuff their feet with a mixture of sticks and the skull of a buffalo.

MERIDIAN, Miss., June 29 (AP)—Weathering temp and overcom-ing the blaze of a fire, Al and Fred Key, the long-distance endurance fliers, today winged their way past 600 hours of unbroken endurance.

SAILORS TAKE UP ONE-SHIP BLOCKADE

Picket Lines Prevent Efforts to Unload Vessel At San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29 (AP)—Sailors took up the one-ship "blockade" here, which has forced the Marine Corps to cancel the unloading of last year's bloody waterfront strike, after another marine unit withdrew its pickets.

Longshoremen, who had previously refused to pass through the picket line, said today that the sailors appeared to press the case.

The temporary lifting of the blockade on the California seaport Point Clear came when Handolph Merivether, secretary of the Marine Corps, said today that he had announced withdrawal of that unit's pickets.

Before unloading could be put to work unloading the vessel, which has been tied up since its arrival from the Philippines, the pickets, the sailors appeared to press the case.

Thomas G. Plant, president of the San Francisco waterfront union, declared that he had threatened to terminate the agreement which the union had made with the Point Clear was unloaded, renewed his charge that radical union leaders were responsible for the dispute.

The miners, however, held out for a 30-hour week instead of the present 28 hours and will increase average 10 per cent.

PACKERS JOIN WAR AGAINST AAA TAXES

'Big Four' Neutral-White Smaller Concerns-Wage Battle in Courts

CHICAGO, June 29 (AP)—The "big four" held to the sidelines tonight as nearly two score smaller packing concerns joined an upsurge of protest against the AAA tax and millers against AAA proceedings.

With the next installment of the collections, from which farmers are paid corn and cotton benefits, due July 1, several of the injunction proceedings seeking to further tax payments were scheduled for hearing in federal courts over the country today.

Some of the concerns ask a refund of taxes already paid. Government officials have estimated that nearly $600,000,000 in processing taxes have been collected to date.

Scott at Attack
At Washington farm administration authorities notified at the triple-headed attack on the taxes and charged rumors of widespread strikes.

The big Chicago firms of Armour, Swift and Cudahy, which turn in approximately $100,000,000 a month to the AAA, took no steps toward withdrawal.

For the suing packers, it was said unofficially in trade quarters here that the action of the federal government is being followed in San Francisco yesterday probably summarized the general trend.

No Funds Available
That concern alleged that continued enforcement of the AAA tax would result in a loss of business.

Trade authorities here explained the necessity of the processed meat must be held by the packers as long as 10 months.

Ida, of $60,000 in cash and securities the attorney general said.

Records showed, after Washington authorities had indicted him for the robbery of the Mahan store in Wash., and had released him until trial on a $10,000 bail bond.

At the time of his release, George Rudd of Parker, Idaho, was warden and Tom Feltus was clerk, with Crubbin as his assistant.

Attempted to Escape
"My record," Mahan declared, "which was prepared by Thomas and Crubbin showed Mahan's conduct was 'fair' but had been in the department for 'attempts to escape, forfeits any and all deductions for good behavior to which he might have been entitled, but for such offense."

"Accordingly, Mahan had forfeited his right to deductions."

The penalty for robbery is imprisonment for not less than five years and may extend to life. The state of Idaho has what is known as the indeterminate sentence law, which means that the law provides an uncertain period of time, the service dependent upon the conduct of the incarcerated person.

"Mahan" was sentenced to a "flat 20 years" and at the time of his application and pardon and release had actually served in excess of five years.

Matter of Courtesy
"Investigation now discloses that on or about November 10, 1931, Warden Wheeler received notice that Mahan was wanted in the state of Washington. Information that there was notice to hold Mahan probably never came to the knowledge of the board of pardons, a matter that concerns the board inasmuch as it is addressed to the warden and is solely a matter for his consideration. It is a matter for one officer for another in separate states is a matter of courtesy."

ROUND-UP OF AUTO DRIVERS SCHEDULED

Law Enforcement Department Sends Out Agents To Issue Licenses

Agents of the state law enforcement department in Twin Falls tomorrow will begin receiving applications and conducting examinations of applicants for license under Idaho's new driver's license law, which is to go into effect July 1.

In preparation for this work, 18 men named by the law enforcement department and all of the state traffic officers were called to Boise for two days schooling that closed yesterday. In charge of the school were Emmitt Pfost, commissioner of law enforcement, and three physicians. Instruction regarding required examinations of applicants dealt largely with tests of vision. Fost's co-operating state traffic officers said here last evening.

A 30-cent fee is to be collected for each operator's license issued. Operator's licenses are for two years, and chauffeurs' licenses for only one year.

ADVICE FROM PLYNY

It is always a little startling to us of this modern age to find that the same problems that afflict us now also afflicted them in ancient times.

"A storm of hail, I am informed, has destroyed all the produce of my estate in Tuscany, while that which I have on the other side of the Po, though it has proved extremely fruitful this season, yet from the excessive dampness of everything, turns to small account."

Improvements to the mind can but rarely be converted into food and clothing, either in Pliny's day, two thousand years ago, or ours. But the personal pleasures to be derived therefrom surely are worth as much as many of our present-day necessities.

And who can fail—perhaps a little sober study and meditation by all of us would bring a solution to our material problems; whereas the pursuit of dreams only aggravates them.

GOVERNMENT EDUCATION

Just what benefits will result from extra education if there are no extra jobs in which to exercise it is not exactly clear but President Roosevelt will use fifty million dollars for the purpose of supplying education to youth and when the education is completed jobs, he promises, will be found.

Thus the Presidential programme enters still another phase, and an interesting one. No one will quarrel with the right of young people to an education and the pure altruism of the proposition is sure to render it attractive to a great many but it may be pointed out that for the past two years high school and college enrollment has been increasing by leaps and bounds until populations of educational institutions are probably as great today as they ever were.

This was not the case two or three years ago and it may not be the situation two or three years hence. Just at present however it would seem that there is less than ordinary need for the expenditure of government funds for the education of young men and women.

GARMENT LABELS

Effort is being made through the various consumer groups, particularly women's organizations, to create a label to identify merchandise produced under wholesome working conditions. The NRA label on women's garments became a sort of shopping guide. Not every shopper looked for the label in order to be sure that dress or coat or other garment had been made under decent working conditions and at decent pay. But many did look for it and refused to buy when it was missing.

Such a label, as is now planned would protect buyer, manufacturer and workman. Its use is recommended by the principles of good business as well as humanity.

NATURE TAKES A HAND More and more it is becoming apparent that the business of crop-entailment is being taken over by Nature. Torrential rains accompanied by loss of life in the erstwhile drought regions of the middle west are curtailing crop production in almost every line.

For awhile at least there should be less of the "plowing-under" procedure. The wealth of a people is not measured alone in the amount of gold coin and bullion in the Federal treasury.

THE ALASKA PIONEERS TURN BACK

Some of the Alaskan colonists—moved from their marginal lands to a new empire in the far north as an experiment in rehabilitation under the federal government's program of retiring worn out lands and putting their owners on more fertile soil—are disgusted with the layout and are returning to the "civilization" of the United States.

Peter was in the firm winning the Pete Globe trophy, the individual championship and high average medals. He tied P. A. Some very amusing reports are sent to Washington by the owners of the Olney Club. The question that has to be answered each month is: "Have you had any collisions?" One of the answers: "How the devil can we have collisions when we have only one train?"

Sam: "Lissen heah, boy, jes' what kind o' life is you be livin'?" Rustus: "Oh, ordinary, jes' ordinary." Sam: "Well, it yo pulls any mo' accs out o' yo shoe, yo' ordinary life is goin' to mature."

"Now, we will engrave the young lady's name inside the ring, if you like, at no extra cost," said the jeweler, smilingly. "Well," said the cautious young man, "if it doesn't cost anything you might just put in to my beloved and let 'em go at that."

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 1.—Dairy: Much lullidity over a screw from Gilbert White in France. And he used the word epithumous which never was used before. Meaning same. Also a poetry from William W. Bennett, pleading me vastly because of great admira's for his poe'ting.

On any capital questions you can arrange an argument over theories as to how far we have yanked ourselves out of the depression. Pesalnia put it at 35 per cent. New Deal optimists boost it to 55 per cent. The correct figure probably lies between those computations. But administration is not to be taken in by such a Wall Street none too friendly to the White House cause to scent future improvement, they are confident.

A Wall Street none too friendly to the White House cause to scent future improvement, they are confident. Certain heavy industries are hitting a fast gear. Automobile, woolen, machine and electric power production will run unusually high for June, offsetting steel and cotton declines. Retail sales and new construction continue strong.

TABLES. Capital is still in mourning and holding. It may continue to do so for some time. The index figures show that the industrial sector is still in a state of depression. The following tables give the index figures on certain basic factors which reflect industrial health.

Reports come from London that the veteran David Ward Griffith is likely to reestablish himself conspicuously in the cinema world with his filming of the old classic, "Broken Blossoms." An indication of his financial success is that the world was symbolized by a two hour interview to which reporters subjected him on arrival in England. They don't suspect genius so quickly in perilous old Abilene.

Arthur Brisbane in the first flush of his tolerance for the unprofitable journalist, he has become the most traveled. His zig-zags to Florida, to the coast and various far points are accomplished with apparently no more bother than the commuter's daily trip to and from Rahway. His acquired adaptability to write wherever he may be, of course, responsible for such calm mid-air constant gliding. Another columnist writer, the late Edgar Wallace, was able to write any hour, day or night, on train, shipboard or airplane. Sinclair Lewis, too, can crank out his typewriter in any surroundings and immediately become oblivious to the world. H. G. Wells likes to scribble aboard ship.

Guiding Your Child by ALICE CLARISSA RICHMOND. The speed sign at the side of the road is a familiar sight. But how many parents had said 35, but some bright child had used a black crayon to fill in the number 40. The child had not only self very clever for doing it. In that same boy's room was a collection of signs stolen from about the countryside. Stoop of them were "Private Property" and "No Let" signs, but there was a scattering of road warnings mixed in.

The custom is old as the hills. No doubt the cave man's children did the same thing in the dawn of history. But now it is more than many signs, or signs of such importance to public welfare as today. The signposts of the world are being torn down and the spoils of their destruction are being sold for a part of cities in this day of automobiles as the care of parks and roads. Schools and houses should be torn down and the signs of their destruction should be sold for a part of cities in this day of automobiles as the care of parks and roads.

Had the children's hobby been collecting purses, or teapoons, or anything else, it would not have been so conspicuous. Such things are private property, and no one has a right to tamper with them. Signs, however, are a matter of public concern. They are a part of the public domain, and it is the duty of every citizen to protect them.

But the children's hobby had been collecting signs. They were a part of the public domain, and it is the duty of every citizen to protect them. The children's hobby had been collecting signs. They were a part of the public domain, and it is the duty of every citizen to protect them.

IDEAL BANK FUNDS AT ALL-TIME HIGH

Basic Accumulating for New Record Credit Expansion

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—Idle bank funds touched a lowering all-time peak last night, surrounded by a bitter dispute over methods of preventing their possible transition into a runaway boom.

Closely allied, the treasury's vast gold hoard climbed again to a new high, due, some economists thought, to the receipt of the last shipments of that metal acquired in the government's recent rally to the defense of the franc.

Capital for which the member banks of the Federal Reserve system could find no acceptable borrowers stood at a point officials estimated at a little more than $2,600,000,000. All reserves on deposit at the reserve banks totaled $3,750,000,000. The gold stocks amounted to $1,100,000,000. Both figures showed big increases for the past week.

Battle Royal Near

Meanwhile the omnibus banking bill, by which the administration hopes to provide a strongy central control over the banks, is turning the $2,300,000,000 excess reserves into bank loans, finally was approved by a senate banking committee at a point officials estimated at a little more than $2,600,000,000. Of the $3,000,000,000 reserve deposits, approximately one half cannot be touched by the member banks. They are required by law to keep a percentage of their own deposits on deposit with the reserve banks. The other half—the excess above such reserve requirements—they may tap at any time.

Most economists agree that, once the omnibus of credit boom starts rolling, the excess $2,500,000,000 in credit or more $2,500,000,000 more than all the combined loans and investments of the member banks during the hey day of the 1920 boom.

The banking bill, the administration contends, would provide checks assuring an orderly transformation from a credit boom to a credit boom would establish controls that could be used to prevent a repetition of the disaster of October, 1929.

'Air Tunnels' To Pacific Isles Plotted By Huge Clipper Ship

Alameda Clipper ship, shown above, on its first flight to Honolulu, has sought to minimize the hazards of Pacific flying by charting "air tunnels" from Alameda to Honolulu to Midway. To make the necessary observations, the Clipper flew a zigzag course (indicated above by broken lines) on its first flight to Honolulu, and cut graceful S's on the second flight. (Solid line indicates route of second flight.)

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—They're plotting "air tunnels" between California and the Pacific islands along the line of Pan-American projected commercial plane route to China.

This, an official of the company says, explains the why and wherefore of the zigzag nature and other peculiarities of the exploratory flights of the huge clipper ship.

As a further factor of safety, preliminary to inaugurating regular flying between the two continents, the clipper crews have developed blind flying until they can make water landings in darkness as deep as the inside of a cup.

The "tunnel" between Alameda and Hawaii is an imaginary tube 300 miles wide, 16,000 feet high and 2500 miles long. It will be completely plotted when the company's navigators have observed, analyzed and charted weather and air conditions on the 200-mile lane at altitudes ranging from near the ocean surface to about three miles in height. Similar tunnels will have been surveyed between the various other islands before the route is opened.

With each zone mapped and familiar to the fliers, forced detours up to a reasonable distance off the direct course will not take them into strange areas. They will be conversant with air, weather and water conditions and having been trained to alight on the surface in daylight or dark, in fog, clear weather or storm, the hazards, it is stated, will be little greater than that of over-land flying.

Four years of study of Pacific ocean weather preceded the actual exploratory flights. On the first westward trip to Hawaii, the Clipper flew a meandering course, circling and recrossing the great circle route and "Mercator's line," the former being the course taking advantage of the earth's curvature which ships usually follow, and the other a straight projection.

Returning from that trip, the winged boat described about 120-mile arcs, cutting graceful "S's" to cover a wider plane than that on the outward trip.

On the Alameda-Hawaii-Midway island trips, special attention to elevations below 4000' and above 8000' was planned.

ROAD EXPENDITURES IN IDAHO COMPUTED

Various Projects in 1934 Program Take $2,081,000 U. S. Funds

BOISE, June 29 (AP)—J. H. Stenmyr, state director of highways, reported today that the Idaho department of public works spent $2,081,000 of federal funds on various road projects in what is technically known as the 1934 program.

This amount included jobs that have been finished and those now being completed, he explained.

Of the amount, $69,000 was spent on market roads, $283,000 in municipalities and $1,309,000 on federal roads.

The work included grading and gravel-surfacing 65.2 miles of second road and 75.3 miles of federal aid highway, a total of 141.4 miles of new construction and reconstruction; $30,000 used for bridges; $402,000 on grade crossing elimination; 1.4 miles of roadside beautification; one mile of concrete paving and 12 miles of oiling.

ENGLISH COTTAGE'S ROOF LINES DISTINCTIVE IN RIGHT SETTING

Low roof lines and central chimney distinguish this English cottage, while its square design allows for the most economical type of construction.

Especially desirable is the accessibility of various rooms from the hallways.

On the second floor, each of the three bedrooms and the bath open directly on a hall. On the first floor, the kitchen and living room are reached from the front hall, while the dining room can be entered from either room.

Most of the rooms are cross-ventilated. Basement stairs extend from the kitchen, which is spacious.

Brick or variegated stone is recommended for the exterior, with gray-weathered wood for the front door. The entire terrace in the rear may be closed or open.

Construction costs of this practical, yet attractive home, are approximately $8000, including plumbing and heating.

Epworth Leaguers of the Methodist Episcopal church gave a summer picnic social on the lawn of the Methodist church Friday night. Individual tables were set on the lawn and the league members served the tables and conducted car service at the curb in front of the church where ice cream, cake and pie a la mode, coffee and tea was served. A radio furnished music for the occasion. The proceeds of the social will help to defray the expense incurred in connection with the summer institute to be held at Camp Sherman, above Ketchum.

The league held a rummage sale in the Ma-Way Plumbing shop on Saturday, the proceeds of same to aid the institute.

An old-fashioned box supper was given at the Christian church Friday evening, by the Endeavor society of the church. Games featured the entertainment of the evening. Miss Christina-Bowers having charge of the games. The boxes were auctioned off to the highest bidder by J. E. Meyer.

Student Shares Scholarly Poet's 'Mental Prison'

MADISON, Wis., June 29 (AP)—A prospective bride stood on a threshold of the "phobic prison" tonight, ready to help beat down the invisible walls which for years have confined Leonard of the University of Wisconsin.

Pretty 27-year-old Grace Golden, a university graduate student, was the second woman who—chose—to share the "mental prison" with the white-haired scholar poet. Their marriage is scheduled for tomorrow.

"It will not be a prison for me," confidently commented Miss Golden.

The 59-year-old professor said, "She's not only a poet—she can cook too."

Meat Remains at Home

After a private ceremony, the wife's duty it was said will be to remain at home so that Leonard never will find it empty, or experience the strange fears and terrors of a "distance phobia," which has held him within an area of six square blocks from his home more than 20 years.

Last autumn, however, he extended "his bent" by venturing into the heart of downtown Madison. Since then the barriers have been receding rapidly. The poet recently said his condition was improved but added that by what means he fully recovered.

ROOM FOR RUSTIC HOUSE

Fine Old Pieces Lend Distinction And Charm

The Welsh dresser is practical and decorative. Prepared by The Decorators Club of New York for The Twin Falls Daily News.

The pieces in this dining room are very fine old ones and undoubtedly their beauty and mellowness give the room its distinction and charm. But without question, much of that charm could be secured with reproductions, if cost is a deciding factor.

The walls have a natural plaster finish. At the windows are simple white curtains of very sheer material to permit seeing the view. On the floor is an oriental rug in deep, rich colors.

Because of the rustic type of house, the decorator, Mrs. George Talmy, has selected a rather heavy, rugged style of furniture. The draw-top refectory table is very practical for this small dining room. The handsome Welsh dresser is practical and decorative.

An interesting note is the use of side lighting fixtures of contemporary style with period furnishings. Because of their unobtrusiveness, they do not conflict with the rest of the interior.

JOBS AS GAIL BIRDS GO BEGGING IN LISBON

LISBON (AP)—The Portuguese government wants jobbirds, offering them 75 cents a day and their food with a guarantee that they will not have to work.

The prisons in which they will be confined form part of a reconstruction of the capital as it was 300 years ago, one of the attractions of the "city festival" now being held.

But the jail-birds are not proving so easy to catch. Plenty of real prisoners in Lisbon's penitentiaries have offered their services, but the government has declined these offers, because the facemask jail has both and plaster walls.

READY-MADE WIFE

BY CORALIE STANTON

SYNOPSIS: In order to save herself and her sister Gladys from starvation, Laurie Moore, who is a widow, goes to work for Mark Albery, that she is Rex Moore's widow. But Moore, the airplane pilot, is not dead, and after she has returned to her home, it becomes necessary that Laurie and Rex continue the deception, enable Rex to hold his job. They are about to move into a flat next to Albery, for whom Rex also will work.

Chapter 10 NEW JOB

The morning after Rex Moore and his wife moved with him, Mark Albery discovered that Rex Moore had come back to work, and sent a message to ask her to come to his office.

"I said you were to stay away until you are asked," he told her in the smooth, automatic voice that went with his Oriental type.

"I am quite settled, thank you, Mr. Albery," she said, smiling. "Everything in the flat is so convenient and so beautiful, you have been so kind to us."

"I wish all I wanted your husband near by. And I have some very important plans to make, and the first was to employ a look-alike for my young cousin who has gone into the business, but he has got over to the United States for six months. You are more than welcome, Mrs. Moore."

He was thinking that she did not look as happy as she ought to. Last night, at dinner, he had thought how beautiful she was. But very curious. Of course, it must have been a great shock to her. And, though joy doesn't kill, it may frighten a sensitive nature.

Rex Moore he had not understood at all. He could make no contact with her. The young man seemed entirely without any eyes, his words, his very self. He evidently would not speak of his experience after his death.

To his wife he seemed abrupt, though friendly—so friendly as to be almost artificial. But, alone with Albery, he was full of bland bantering with energy and ambition. And what a hard bargain he had driven for his exclusive services! The fellow had seemed to think nothing but the money. Not a bit like Rex Moore of the old days.

Albery was more and more driven to the conclusion that his accident had caused a slight kink in his mind.

Albery felt his new dislike of the alman growing, as he watched him with his wife. The scene came back to him when, on that first night, he had seen the same man in a white wife being in London and employed by the firm.

How reprehensible he had seemed. How strange his manner had been, almost inhuman. Thinking it over, he wondered if Moore was dissembling, or if he was in England. It almost looked like it. Perhaps he would rather he had been in Australia. Perhaps he had formed other ties. Two years was a long time for a man to live alone.

And how excessively anxious he had been to avoid all publicity!

Albery looked now at Laurie's pale, expressive face. Her eyes were shining, but they did not look like the eyes of a happy wife. His own dark ones glowed with sympathy.

"You were determined to come back to work?" he asked. "Your husband was not sure about it."

"Oh, yes, Mr. Albery—I couldn't give up my work." As Laurie spoke, she beamed at him with her animated, interested business self.

"I am glad of it. I think you are wise, too. After all, Moore will be away a good deal. That's inevitable in his job. And I'm happy to find he's as keen as ever. Mrs. Moore, I have a proposal to make to you. If you agree, I will work in very well."

"Miss Dixie came back too soon. It's a pity. Her illness has left her hearing impaired. I sent her to a specialist, and he has ordered a cure and a complete rest. It will take about three months. So I wonder if you would care to take her place again. It would suit me very well indeed. Your work was most satisfactory. What do you say?"

"Oh, Mr. Albery!" Laurie was taken aback. Of course, it was a rise, a big rise in the office. And she had found it most interesting, but it was of two kinds.

A little voice deep inside her said she should take it only if she did not the remote idea why. Except that, perhaps, she had at times felt slightly uncomfortable when she was with Mr. Albery. But that was ridiculous. Her business mind pushed the doubt aside and approved eagerly at the chance. "I can say how proud I am that you should find me suitable," she said in her warm, soothing voice.

"That's settled, then. You'll begin tomorrow. It was a splendid business-like. No one would imagine that his heart was beating fast and the blood pulsing in his veins. Not even his own secret mind admitted that he was in love with this girl and was determined to take her from Rex Moore, in one way or in another, sooner or later.

"It will be suitable in several ways," he added kindly. "Doing my personal work you will be in the zone of your husband's job. All his work with me is entirely confidential. My work is still in a way all three are working together."

It was a wonderful piece of luck, and yet Laurie was in the grip of an unspeakable mental depression, like a vague premonition of evil, as she went back to her own office for the first time.

That evening, when she left work, she collected the last of her personal belongings from her little flat, leaving the key to the woman who would come in now and then to see that everything was all right.

The good woman was naturally excited and bustling with curiosity, and had been enough to say that her husband, the famous aviator, had come back from the dead, and that they were moving temporarily into another flat, as hers was not large enough when her sister came home. But she kept on as if it was for the remainder of her lease.

She hailed a taxi and was driven the new flat. Observe, not on the Embankment, but in a narrow side street, with trees on either side, and with a view of the river from the window in the big front living room.

Business Map

This map represents business conditions in every state of the Union as shown in July, 1935, issue of "Nation's Business," official publication of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Business Conditions As of June 1: Distribution in May was held down by continued weather, particularly in western areas. Heavy rainfall broke the western drought and delayed planting. Strikes and automobile production and cut down lumber production in the Pacific northwest. Bituminous coal production for June was likewise menaced. Stock markets in May did the largest business in more than ten years but early price advances were checked later. The Dun & Bradstreet price index surpassed four-year peaks despite sharp reactions in many farm products, hides, leather and textiles showed chief strength. Grains sold at the lowest of the season. Milk corn selling higher than wheat on occasions. Raw cotton lost two months' gains. Western packing centers reported record low receipts and strikes against high prices closed many meat shops.

Increases in bank clearings and debit balances among the largest of the year. April foreign trade showed imports exceeding exports. Net railway earnings exceeded the peak of last year.

The Barometer The Barometer of Business which is published in May, more slightly lower in May. The line for the first months portrays a leisurely retreat but the current level fully equals the peak of last year.

The Map Agricultural and crop surplus regions display more white while industrial areas take on a little shading.
