EARLY BREAK-UP OF IERA FORECAST

Jacomini Says WPA Will Quickly Assume Responsibility

BOISE, July 3 (AP)—W. Jacomini of Boise, Idaho emergency relief administrator, said today that he has no doubt that the WPA will quickly assume responsibility for the unemployed and their dependents. A new set probably will be invoked to care for the unemployed.

Changes in Progress
"Some of the states already have taken over the unemployment relief burden—the Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio and others unfit for work."

"It is the friend of the federal government that that shall transpire in all states as rapidly as possible, as I get it."

"Of those now on IERA rolls who would come within the terms of a break from a Salt Lake City conference today with the idea that his job now is to 'tear the ship to pieces and keep it floating while doing it.'"

"The IERA is doomed to disintegration," he declared after a conference with federal officials in Salt Lake City.

Fort Hall Falls Join in Annual Sun Dance Feast

FORT HALL, Idaho, July 3 (AP)—Indians of the Fort Hall reservation, young and old, tonight joined in the traditional sun dance feast, which marks the end of the three-day tribal trials of the Shoshones and the Hanocks.

The great dance, which is held annually to give soul and alling braves an opportunity to show the Great Spirit and the sunned they are strong in the face of adversity and de-fearing of "curse," ended this morning as the sun rose over the eastern ranges. The 30 dancers spent the day in real after the colorful closing ceremony. Although some of the exhausted participants rested briefly during the night, the arduous duties required of the warriors well-entrenched all night long, keeping up an almost perpetual dance to the haunting notes of tom-toms and the wailing chants of squaws filled the darkness.

The resting time was awakened at sunrise by the final rites and they arose to offer prayers for health and strength as the first rays of light appeared in the east. All assembled at the outer pole in the center of the enclosure and prayed to the Great Spirit and the sun god who rested in a buffalo skull and bundle of willows atop the pole. The dancers danced their robes in the final file, believing that in so doing their bodies are freed of the evil spirits which make them ill.

The feasting will continue through the July fourth holiday and then the farmer-Indians will return to their fields.

MUNICIPAL POOL AT JEROME TO RE-OPEN

JEROME, July 3—The Jerome chapter of the Red Cross, in cooperation with the city of Jerome, will have the Jerome municipal swimming pool closed for the past two years, open and ready for the large number of swimmers expected at tomorrow's celebration. Rev. J. S. Kennedy, chairman of the Red Cross in Jerome, announced today.

Life guards are Stewart Johnson and Ed Thorne, both of Jerome. Last year the shore-side of water made it impossible to open the pool, which displayed a great deal during the year of inactivity. However, city workmen have repaired cracked walls and leveled the surrounding grounds preparatory for using the pool this summer. The pool measures 66 feet in length by 30 feet in width. In past celebrations the pool has been of major importance as a drinking cup.

TWIN FALLS DAILY NEWS

Published every morning except Monday, by The Twin Falls News Publishing Co., Inc., Twin Falls, Idaho. Established 1894.

Daily edition entered as second class mail matter, April 1, 1915, at the postoffice at Twin Falls, Idaho, under the act of March 3, 1879.

MEMBERS OF ASSOCIATED PRESS: The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use of publication of all news dispatches credited to it, or not otherwise credited in this paper and to act as agent for the transmission of its news to all parts of the world.

MEMBER ASSOCIATED PRESS: Member Audit Bureau of Circulations. NATIONAL REPRESENTATIVES: FRANK W. BRIDGEMAN, New York, Chicago, San Francisco.

The News assumes no financial responsibility for errors in advertisements but in cases where the paper is at fault a correction of that part of the advertisement in which the error occurs will be published without charge.

INDEPENDENCE DAY: Today, the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, is set aside in commemoration of a document containing these words, often, but not too often, repeated: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."

These words never meant that man may practice his rights to the detriment of the rights of others, any more than they meant that men are created identical in appearance and capability. They do mean that government may restrain the freedom of a man only to the extent necessary to safeguard the rights of his fellows. The province of government is to secure the liberty of man, not to destroy it.

This doctrine that the state is created to serve its citizens replaced the old principle, that men are born to serve their king over most of the world. But now the old doctrine, that men are born to serve the state, is raising its head again, most conspicuously in Russia, Italy, and Germany.

Such philosophies of government as communism and fascism, that take the ant hill as their highest ideal of achievement, may find a place in the Old World where the fabled glories of the kingdoms have not been forgotten, but in America it is not possible that they gain a foothold while we remember the principle upon which our nation was founded.

It is this principle which Independence Day commemorates. May it ever remain unshaken and unchangeable.

TO SOUTH AMERICA: The greatest seasonal hegin of Americans to foreign lands has long been the summer rush to Canada. It is still so in actual volume, but this year the surprising thing is the trend to South America. All expectations have been surpassed since the first of the year, and the increase in tourist travel at present is averaging 100 per cent more than last year. Liners are sailing with capacity passenger lists and expect to continue doing so for several weeks yet.

No less interesting is the fact that the "business travel" to South America has doubled along with the tourist travel. Commercially, socially and otherwise the two continents are turning toward each other again as they have not done for many years. It begins to look once more as if the old Pan-American dream of solidarity on this hemisphere may not be empty sentiment, after all.

Abandonment of imperialistic policies and an effort on the part of government and business to deal with Latin-America on a basis of equality and mutual respect has had much to do with this improvement. Our southern neighbors are human enough to respond to fair and courteous treatment.

TROUBLED DRIVERS

The domestic quarrel should be added to the list of motor hazards. Says the head of the police traffic detail at Denver, "A man who is having trouble with his wife is a menace to safety when he is behind the wheel. He drives without seeing. His mind is on his troubles, his eyes see nothing but a vision of his wife. Such a man is an intoxicant driver. He is as dangerous as a drunkard."

That is probably true, and takes in any angry driver or any tremendously worried driver. What is to be done about it? It certainly isn't possible to go around checking on drivers' emotions and forbidding them to drive until they've cooled off or cheered up or otherwise returned to a normal mental attitude.

For the present, at least, the remedy will have to be left to the drivers themselves. Their efforts should be directed in the first place to avoiding violent quarrels and other emotionally upsetting matters, and in the second place to restoring mental peace before taking the wheel. Perhaps prospective drivers should have courses in psychology which teach them why they get stirred up about some things and how not to do so.

LEGAL OF COURSE: Congress can, of course, prevent any redress in the courts to private citizens who think they have not been treated fairly by their federal government and seek to sue for whatever damages they might believe themselves to have sustained. That's congress' privilege.

It isn't, however, a very nice attitude for the congress, acting as protector for the official government, to take. The supreme court has said that the government has no right to deny to its citizens gold coin in payment for bonds which it has sold to its citizens for gold coin. Or for the United States to refuse to pay a Panamanian in gold coin in fulfillment of its rental agreement on a strip of land through which the United States has dug a huge inter-oceanic canal.

The government, however, can say that no person, corporation or corporate group can sue the government. Congress now proposes a blanket statute to prevent any more suits over the gold decision of the supreme court. And only governments can so gloss over wrongs to make them right.

NAMING POLITICAL FACTIONS (Baltimore Sun)

Regarding the descriptive term "Grass Roots" applied to the recent political conference in terms of its rendering to the Times staff, we suggest its origin and meaning. If no one were able to establish either, the case would merely repeat that of other political appellations in our past. Whether or not the "grass-roots" will be heard of hereafter, in our political history or vernacular, the fact that the title caught the popular imagination because of its suggestive picture, more or less distinct, would apply to a series of similar names for parties or factions (usually minorities) which cut their figure in our past political history. All partial description of the half dozen years after 1845 recalls the factions known as "Hunker" and "Barnburners" into the political arena.

As far back as 1833, a faction called the Democratic party, calling itself the party of "Equal Rights." But they were long known as "Loose-locks" for the origin of which term the only explanation suggested is that, when their opponents had turned out the gas at an Equal Rights party meeting, the bolters got along with the newly invented "loose loco matches." This is not entirely convincing. The minority faction which, in the following year, described itself as the "Native American" party, was then an afterward so exclusively referred to as the "know-nothing party," that even political historians seriously narrate of 1855 that "Know-nothing" governors were elected by New-England states. Apparently the title was invented from the fact that adherents of the party, when they were asked to give their political purposes, replied that they knew nothing about it.

TAX-INFESTED NATIONS (Pacettile Tribune)

The American citizen who regards our tax burden with "quantity" anxiety because it is less than that visited on some European countries, may be due for a rude awakening. An exhaustive survey of national budgets throughout the world, made by the New York Trust Company, shows that the tremendous increase in our public debt and the increasing incidence in tax to burden us with greater taxes than those of any European nation in paying the ultimate cost of the measures taken to cope with depression.

In other words, the spendings of the past five years, to banish depression are likely to continue depression indefinitely because of the vast sums that will be taken out of the future national income to pay the bill it is the old story of nations which have attempted to spend themselves into recovery—and have then found that recovery was getting farther away all the time.

Politics cannot be trusted to reverse the present trend because the politicians are far from working for a tax-infested nation, continually wants more money for the present, irrespective of where it comes from or what it does to the sources of productive wealth. A dire is now on to tap new wells of capital for tax revenue, by passing new "nuisance" taxes, by increasing the levies on the income tax, by increasing taxes, etc. This takes money that would be used for jobs, for homes, for farm building, for industrial development and for investment in all lines of private endeavor.

The nation faces a financial crisis, forced on us by exorbitant taxation which continues to capitate and therefore destroys the source of future earnings. Only the public, which in the long run determines all national policies, holds the power to save itself from destruction.

TRIUMPH SEEN FOR ACADEMIC FREEDOM

Chicago University President Assays Results of Senate's Quiz

CHICAGO, July 3 (AP)—President Robert Maynard Hutchins today predicted that the recent state senatorial investigation into charges of communistic teachings at the University of Chicago would "act as a brake on further assaults on academic freedom."

"The 36-year-old head of the Midway Institution asserted in an interview, 'I feel that, as a result of the quiz by the senators, we have cleared the air of some unpleasant attacks on higher education and academic freedom.'"

"Independent thinking has scored a victory over hysteria," Hutchins said, referring to almost complete acquiescence of the university in the majority report of the state senate committee which held three hearings last month on charges that "communism was taught and countenanced."

"There has been a great deal more sense of proportion of boards of trustees to attacks made on their institutions than ever before. There has been an unprecedented wave of suppression of student activity everywhere, which is in fact an attack on their privileges of meeting and discussion."

"There has been a concerted drive to pass 'teacher's oath bills.' This action is based on the supposition there are disloyal teachers. And such, I can tell you, are difficult to find."

"The Chicago educator ended his remarks with the statement that 'Democracy rests on universal comprehension of facts and ideas, and upon intellectual and spiritual, as well as political, leadership.'"

Depression Seen As Booster for Music Education

WASCOB, July 3.—If the depression has done nothing else, it has proved beyond question the necessity of music in education, Dr. Edwin J. Stringham, New York composer, recently told summer school students at the University of Idaho.

"Music instruction was one of the first to suffer curtailment when the depression began," he explained. Some schools even abolished it entirely, arguing that it was an educational fluff. Such drastic measures woke people up to the fact that music is necessary and has a rightful place in education."

"The depression has been responsible for its recent rise to heights in schools the country over that it never reached in the affluent days before 1929."

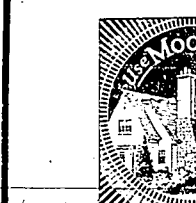

"Appreciation of music should be stressed above every other aspect of music instruction," Dr. Stringham contends. Nine out of ten students are taught how to utilize music for mental stimulation and relief from trouble, only one out of ten how to play; that is, in a serious or professional way.

"Unless schools fulfill this basic requirement, then music instruction is missing its true purpose, and cannot be justified on educational grounds," Dr. Stringham emphasized.

Dr. Stringham made his first trip west this summer to join the Idaho summer school faculty. He teaches music theory at Columbia University in New York, and composes music which has been played by the New York and Philadelphia and other symphony orchestras.

BUHL GIRL BRIDE OF HAGERMAN RESIDENT

BUHL, July 3.—A pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of Mrs. Nancy Barron, Sunday morning at nine o'clock when her daughter, Mary, became the bride of Leland Grubbe, son of H. and Mrs. Walter Grubbe of Hagerman. Elton Roy Wood read the couple their vows before an impromptu altar made from roses and other early summer flowers.

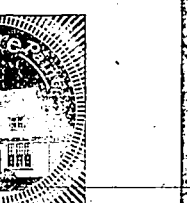

The bride was dressed in a white ensemble with white accessories to match. She wore a corsage of rose buds. Mrs. Nancy Barron and Mrs. Roy Wood were the only witnesses.

The bride's gown, ivory tulle with a burnt orange silk sash with brown accessories, was made immediately before an impromptu altar made from roses and other early summer flowers.

Fifteen years of age this month, Roy has served as patrol leader in his troop for the past three months, and has been active in the community service projects carried on by the troop. He attended Camp Sawtooth in 1934 and has been on several trips to the Wood River mountains since.

VANDERBILT CHILD'S MOTHER CRITICIZED

Appellate Judges Deny Dashing Widow Full Claims of Parenthood

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP)—Bluntly ascribing merely mercenary motives to Mrs. Gladys Meyer Vanderbilt's fight for custody of her beleaguered daughter, the appellate division of the supreme court today denied the dashing widow of Reginald Vanderbilt the full status of motherhood upon 11-year-old Gloria Meyer Vanderbilt.

In a unanimous decision of the appellate judges the court upheld the decision of Supreme Court Justice John P. Carson awarding principal custody of the child to Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, her paternal aunt.

The reason which the selector (Mrs. Vanderbilt) offered in explanation of her conduct seems to us entirely unconvincing and unavailing," said the opinion given by Associate Justice Irwin Untermyer.

Allowance Endangered "Not until the allowance, which was provided for the child's support, appeared to be endangered by the fact that the mother was engaged with her does the relation appear to have manifested any strong desire for her daughter's companionship," Justice Untermyer stated.

Justice Undermyer, in his dissenting opinion, said that Justice Carson "adopted what appears to be the only possible course."

The appellate judges then dropped a word of advice to Mrs. Vanderbilt.

"In the meantime, if the relation should ever be fully or partly restored, the order we will spend more time with her child than, for many years past."

Justice Carson, adviser of the decision upholding him, smiled and declared, "then it must be right."

Month With Mother The terms of the lower court's ruling which made Mrs. Gloria a ward of the state gives Mrs. Whitney custody five days a week and the month of May, since the seasonal seven weeks custody hearing Mrs. Vanderbilt has been awarded her annual allowance of $10,000 from her daughter's $1,000,000 fortune.

The appellate decision came just as Mrs. Vanderbilt began her July stay with her mother at a Long Island estate rented solely for the purpose. Except for the week end visits, Gloria has been living at Mrs. Whitney's Woodbury estate at Long Island, her home since 1922 when Mrs. Vanderbilt went to Europe.

The appellate ruling, while containing no allusion to when the child lived in Mrs. Vanderbilt's care, drew out the leading testimony of Mrs. Vanderbilt's personal maid, Marie Carillo, making admissions of misconduct against Mrs. Vanderbilt and Lady Miffaldraven, wife of the British peer.

ORDINARY GREENS GIVE UP TO KING PATENT LONDON, July 3 (AP)—Using a mouse gun, such as can be obtained at any garage, an English surgeon claims to have given a full and normal diet to a patient unable to eat.

Writing in the "British Medical Journal," R. Rutherford, of Longtown, Cumberland, a fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons, states that by means of a special nozzle issued by a motor mechanic he was able to force food straight into an opening in the stomach of a patient suffering from an ulcerated condition of the throat and unable to swallow.

PARDONED CONVICT FACES NEW CHARGE

Idaho Board Releases Clarence Boggie to Spokane Officers

BOISE, July 3 (AP)—The Idaho pardon board found away this afternoon on 115 applications for reprieves, pardons and paroles before it after, it had pardoned Clarence Boggie, an inmate of state prison here since June 15, 1934, so he could be returned to Spokane, Washington, to stand trial for murder.

The board heard friends and relatives of prisoners and their attorneys this afternoon, and expected to complete its work Friday after taking off the holiday tomorrow.

Boggie was pardoned, his extradition was approved by Governor Ross and he was turned over to the sheriff of Spokane county, Washington, H. Alderson, and A. E. Alkins, chief of detectives at Spokane.

He was wanted for slaying an aged man during a robbery with which he is charged.

Boggie was convicted at Shoshone, Idaho, last year for robbery and was sentenced to spend 5 to 6 years in state's prison here.

Attorney General Ross, Attorney General Bert H. Miller and Secretary of State Franklin Olford were present at the hearing.

Boggie's case was the principal one considered today.

READY MADE WIFE

BY CORALLE STANTON

SYNOPSIS: Laurie Moore has found the man of a man's thought. Now that Rex Moore has returned, the mind keeps up the work. Rex Moore is a man who no that he may hold his job with Mark Albery—for whom she also works. Rex is in their list when Rex was announced. Rex is Wanda Steele, and she seems to recall disturbing memories to Rex.

Chapter 12 PAST HISTORY

"Rex, how badly you treated me!" Wanda Steele's great dark eyes reproached him through the happiness of seeing him again. "How could you do it? Going off like that without a word! Leaving me in that fearful anxiety, not knowing whether you were alive or dead! After all I had done for you! You were more of an inhuman. I never got over it. Nothing mattered to me any more after you had gone and left me alone with my grief, and I thought of you every day!"

"How did you find me?" he asked in a dull voice. "Two months after you left me in a dull voice. I've been traveling for the last six months. And I saw in the paper this morning that Mark Albery had given you a luncheon. You were back and were waiting for me. I rang up the Albery offices and they gave me your address. Rex, why do you look at me so strangely? Aren't you glad to see me? Have you forgotten everything?"

"I was looking at her strangely at the woman who, with her husband, had reacted him in their youth when he had crashed in there, lonely, in the Pacific, who had taken him to their home in California, looked after him, nursed him, devoted her life to him, and he had never comforted him when he awoke blind."

"He had done for him all that human hands could do, and he had kept his rescue a secret, as he had asked them to do. They had treated him as an honored guest; they had included every reasonable whim of his broken body and his darkened soul. They had lapped him in the greatest luxury and paid enormous sums to the greatest specialists in the hope of restoring his sight."

"At last he had been cured, and only a month afterwards he had slipped out of their gates during the night, because he knew they would not let him go in the way he wanted to—and because he knew he could not think them for what they had done."

"And because this woman had told him that she loved him and that without him her life would not be worth living."

"Of course, he realized afterwards that it had been a little crazy. His brain must have been unbalanced by the joy of regaining his sight."

"I can only think you must have been mad," the woman said.

"I was," he answered. "What I did was unforgivable. There is nothing worse than hypocrisy."

"It doesn't matter now that I've found you again," she said. She was holding his hands, standing very close to him, looking passionately, exultantly into his eyes.

"She was not beautiful. Her features were too large. But she was attractive, with her eager, wide red lips, her long pale golden face, powdered with freckles, framed in the thick platinum hair, with thickly pointed lashes."

"She was supremely elegant. Her severe tailor-made costume, her little grey turban, with a single large pearl in it, her necklace, her costly emerald and diamond bangles, the grey moire pochette, with the tiny diamond initials, all was perfect. The unparellel combination of wealth and taste."

"Rex Moore's face was grim, as he clattered his hands and put her gently into an armchair."

"Her eyes filled with reproach again."

"Rex, I hardly knew you! Tell me about it. What did you do it for? Why did you never send word?"

"I am sorry," he answered. "And I couldn't go on living on your kindness and your husband's generosity. I'm afraid I can't find words to explain. But I had to get on my own feet again. I went to New York. It took me two months to work my way there. And I picked up a living in one way or another. And then, I suppose my mind got well again, like my body had done, and I wanted to come back to England and get on with my job. That's all."

"All?" she echoed. "It tells me nothing." But she did not seem to mind, or to be particularly interested about what he had done during those months. It was plain that all she cared about was that she had found him again.

"Is that your husband?" he asked. "Dead?"
