COMMITTEE FINDS MISSING WITNESS

House Lobby Investigators Catch Up With Elusive Master Mind

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—House lobby investigators today caught up with Howard C. Hopson, elusive master mind of the Associated Gas and Electric systems.

Chairman O'Connor (D-N.Y.) of the committee, conducting the inquiry, announced a subpoena had been served and the long-sought witness would go before the committee next week.

"Unless he has a physical collapse or something, he will be here as a witness," the New York Times reporter told newspaper men and that was about all he would say.

His Fate in Jeopardy This development capped a day which brought dwindling expectations of an agreement on the public utility bill at the Senate.

O'Connor said he knew none of the details of the successful conclusion of the search for Hopson to a series of questions as to where he slept tonight, where he was served with a subpoena, and who served it.

The senate lobby committee, headed by Senator Black (D-Ala) also had been searching high, low, far and wide for the elusive witness.

Evidence already in the senate committee's record files of expenditures totaling $205,000 by Associated Gas and Electric to influence the defeat of administration utility bills and its abolition of holding companies in the power industry.

His assertion was prompted by a statement by Phillip H. Gosden, chairman of the committee on public utility matters, who is challenging the administration to take the power issue to the people in connection with the 1938 campaign.

It came at the close of an unprecedented session of the senate conference, seeking to adjust the differences between house and senate versions of the measure.

SENATE COMMITTEE BACKTRACKS FROM LOW INCOME LEVIES

Both Democrats and Republicans had questioned whether the bill would require a law which containing the little income amendment.

"It is now more in keeping with the president's recommendations," Harrison added. With the exception of the estate tax provision, the bill now carries out very largely the president's message.

The Finance Committee reported the tax bill after reverting its decision to boost income taxes in the lower brackets.

ADJUTANT GENERAL OF IDAHO TO INVESTIGATE DISPUTE OVER WATER

ADJUTANT GENERAL OF IDAHO (Continued From Page One) the committee, and the irrigation advisory board composed of S. M. McElroy, N. E. Phillips, William Wilson, James R. Hansen and O. M. Hatch.

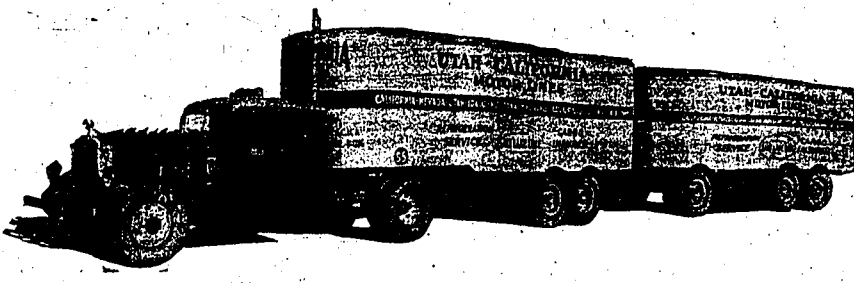

The controversy was believed settled a few days ago after negotiations conducted for the state by Assistant Attorney General Brennan and Commissioner Paris were reported to have resulted in an agreement between water users over waters of the Snake river.

LIQUOR CONTROL IN ATTORNEYS' HANDS

Responsibility for Enforcement Placed Upon Prosecutors

(By The Associated Press) BOISE, Aug. 12.—Admitting that the Idaho liquor control act is being violated by "night club operators and others," Homer Moore, member of the state commission charged with administering the law, tonight placed the responsibility for enforcement of it upon the prosecuting attorneys of the commonwealth's 41 counties.

The quiet-poken, one-time instructor and Mr. E. T. Keenan, third member, were in southeastern Idaho, and did not collaborate in making the statement "because they are afraid they are being watched, or otherwise," Mr. Moore explained.

"The matter of law enforcement has been receiving the serious consideration of the commission," he declared.

"The commissioners some time ago caused a survey of conditions throughout Idaho to be made by two competent, independent investigators. Those investigations were completed Saturday, August 10, and our respective report violations of the law."

Under the Idaho law the state was given a monopoly on the sale of liquor and the state would obtain one federal stamp for each of its 41 counties and one for each of its 41 counties and one for each of its 41 counties.

After noting that the state liquor control commission, since its creation last March 29, has failed to obtain one federal stamp for each of its 41 counties and one for each of its 41 counties.

While it has taken no drastic action on laws which regulate the under way liquor control act, the commission has "faced the threat of a referendum on the subject of liquor control and attack in the courts as to its constitutionality," he recalled.

The truck-haul system, Mr. DeLong said, is to be extended to other producing districts this season.

TAKING THE LITTLE FELLOW

The Senate finance committee cannot be accused of bowing to political expediency in its efforts to widen the tax bill to boost taxes on the smaller incomes.

But unpopular though it may be to extend the income tax in such a manner, it is probably a wise move. If the national budget is to be balanced, and it must be, it will be necessary to increase greatly the government's revenue.

Politically speaking, the indirect taxes are the easiest solution. Men seldom stop to think what proportion of the price of everything they buy is tax money.

It has been argued that it is unfair to place income taxes on families of small income because such families already pay more than their share through indirect taxation.

And it can be only for the country's good that the great bulk of the people come to realize the extent of our growing tax bill, and thus to develop an interest in the matter of the spending of their money.

CLEAN CITIES

General Smedley D. Butler, who tried to reform Philadelphia, says no large American city wants to be cleaned up.

It isn't merely because of professional politicians and crooks either, he thinks. "People like to play, and you can't do much playing in church."

This sounds very pessimistic. It is hopeless, though, only to those who expect perfection. The blunt Marine hints at progress when he says he doesn't regret his Philadelphia failure, because it was interesting, and he "educated the children."

It's a problem not so much of political conceit or bossism or crooked police as of decent and intelligent citizenship. There can't be perfection, but there can be improvement.

It seems to be a question of training a generation of young people not to tolerate dishonesty or incompetence in public life, and not to seek special favors for themselves or their friends.

FIFTY YEARS OF HOT TIMES

This is the jubilee year of that lively song, "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight," and there have been celebrations honoring the composer.

Which of today's tunes will be held worthy of a jubilee celebration fifty years from now? A middle-aged listener would hesitate to say.

Styles and tastes change in popular music as in other fields. But the "Hot Time" song really has a good time. It has vigor, simplicity, and a good rousing swing to it.

WILD DUCKS

A census of wild ducks, to be taken this month by the United States and Canada, isn't necessarily boondoggling.

Sportsmen of both countries are engaged locally to make the count. The ducks themselves ignore boundary lines.

Our government plans to buy about one million acres of marsh lands, with a fund recently voted, as refuges for migratory fowl and other game.

It is an interesting and reassuring fact that, on the whole, wild game in the United States has begun increasing again.

GREENWICH MERIDIAN (New York Times) Timothy Healy once said in the house of commons, in reply to Lord Hugh Cecil, that "no one, not even the noble lord, would die for the meridian of Greenwich."

But this does not mean that the meridian of Greenwich will be changed or that it will cease to be the basis of the computation of time and distance.

But this does not mean that the meridian of Greenwich will be changed or that it will cease to be the basis of the computation of time and distance.

Stranger—What is the standing of the Spenderre finally this time? Native—Well, I should say they is sort of bazaar and between. They ain't exactly nobody and yet they ain't really anybody.

Peewee—What does elevator fell with you I suppose all your aim flashed before your eyes? Polio—Well, not all—we only dropped five stories.

Hokier—I wish I knew how to make some money on the stock market. Skinker—That's easy. Just watch what I do—and then do just the opposite.

"Madam," said the hobo, "I can't had a wife and family of my own—but I couldn't be contented I might get into a jam at anything—and finally I'm home."

"Well, here's a chicken sandwich for you, sir," said the housewife. "Mighty few husbands are as considerate as that."

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—In the manner of Arnold Bennett's journal: A bright day turns milder. A day to be lost in a mystery story. Something by Gaboriau. It was nothing one of those magnificent captures by French this morning. So European.

Yet he hails from Lima, Ohio, named after the late Ray Rohn.

And who has not been wretchedly struck by those lightning-like ensembles of Flagg in characterizing minutes et volles! Mark Twain must have had the ideal here for sketches. Bryan for caricatures.

A striping named David Murray has been sending columnist contributions over a period. The point: He kept on writing with no reward save occasional recognition. I see he landed the other day in a national weekly. An accomplished stylist sauntered off the Raquel club this morning.

Suit, shirt, collar, dove gray in a looting deep blue polka-dot. In a roomy morning after a blurry night dresses up like a last act Billy Cogan, goes to the Biltmore and breakfast on chilled grapes and thin brown bread smeared with cream cheese. Puff goes the hangover!

A lady in St. Petersburg, Florida, writes of the fashions which she backs ally with his clarion slogan: "Fish die mawwin! Nice fresh fish. Caught 'em alive, sell 'em dead. Attabor, the fish man comin'. Fish man got 'em, you take 'em, take 'em away." Literate poets have done worse.

Jim Quirk used to rattle off the come-on spiel a cruising night cabman, sheltering near the Lenox in Boston, delivered to roaming drunks in a brouge as thick as a Limerick, puff, venomous with innuendo but strung together with Irish banter. Zigzagged wanted to spot it in a folio. With Quirk as the cabdriver, Leon Zroll as the drunk.

I wonder if there's a happier writing pair than Rupert and Pat Hughes. They work at night at adjoining desks in their Hollywood home. Often into dawn. Rupert staples notes and then to walk up and down, puffing stercorally black cigars, and drinking scalding potions of coffee. He rivals Damon Runyon as a jaw addict. The Hughes sleep talk, and then dress for a showy luncheon place inviting from one to ten guests. That is their relaxation. They are inseparable when Rupert gets off on his hobby—the peccadillo of George Washington—the puts her on her lips: "Now Mr. Hughes! And be subsided. Flushed and joyfully confused.

Guiding Your Child

By ALICE CLARIBSA RICHMOND BREEDING JEALOUSY

How can I prevent my child from feeling jealousy?

There is no answer. If he feels at all, he is almost certain at some time to experience this emotion. Even the simplest feel it.

But feelings and showing jealousy are very different things. In its expression, and in the consequent suffering it entails, it can be controlled and certainly should be.

If this expression is to be directed, however, the treatment should begin in infancy. Preference for one person, especially for one child in a family, should never be shown. The remark so often made to the youngest of a big family when a new baby comes is "Now your nose is out of joint."

Jealousy should never, by word or deed, be suggested to a child. Let him feel the unwavering love of those about him. Let him be sure of his own special place in the world. Make him feel his importance by depending on him for certain duties. Whatever the world in his ignorance or indifference may say or suggest, let him know that in his home and especially with his parents he is forever safe in an abiding love which nothing can change.

WASHINGTON By Ray Tucker DECISION: The fate of the holding company bill now lies in President Roosevelt's hands. It will die in conference committee unless he agrees to the House provision for an organized abolition of holding corporations.

The Senate is now in a mood to accept the House version and halt it as "only a beginning" in the move to put holding companies out of business. Then, if the anti-utilities reaction Mr. Roosevelt expects does not set in during the congressional recess, he will be in a position to re-act.

What he does will depend upon the White House. VETERANS: The faces of Wright Patman and Elmer Thomas are certain to smile the next day. They have substantiated strong reports that these old soldiers have negotiated a new message of the bonus bill next January.

Mr. Patman calls it a "compromise," but the winks when he refers to the fact that Democratic agreement to place the bill on the calendar next January. Nobody in the anti-expansion Congress will slip the program in the face of the coming election, despite a presidential veto. That's not politics. There's another fact: That fact is that Democratic close to the White House are cooking up a measure which won't call for straight-out inflation.

There is no answer. If he feels at all, he is almost certain at some time to experience this emotion. Even the simplest feel it. But feelings and showing jealousy are very different things. In its expression, and in the consequent suffering it entails, it can be controlled and certainly should be.

HEARING POSTPONED IN KNIFING-PROBE

Defense Counsel Secures Addition Time to Prepare Case

BURLEY, Aug. 12—Holding of the preliminary hearing of Ben Gambill, Idaho Falls taxi driver, charged with first degree murder, scheduled to have been held Wednesday, has been postponed until Monday, September 2.

The case is an outgrowth of an affray at Artesian a week ago Friday morning, when William Hubbard was fatally stabbed. Hubbard died the following morning in the Twin Falls general hospital.

Postponement of the hearing, said Prosecutor A. H. Nelson, was agreed to by request of defense counsel, W. Orr Chapman, Twin Falls, to allow sufficient time for preparation of his defense.

COMMISSIONERS TO STUDY COURT HOUSE

BURLEY, Aug. 12—Cassia county commissioners, H. Parley Matthews, John C. Darrington and Arthur B. Pierce, convened Monday morning in regular monthly session. Chief among items on the agenda were those before the board at this session, said Chairman Parley Matthews, will probably be the filing with the court of the county and Arthur B. Pierce, a federal grant involving 43 per cent of the cost of a proposed county court house. The data is being assembled, said Mr. Matthews, and will likely be placed before them today.

Cost of the structure selected by the board is estimated at $75,000, for 55 per cent of which it will be necessary to vote county bonds. For this purpose a bond election will be called in the near future. It is felt by the board that now is an opportune time to erect a court house, in view of the assistance which can be secured under the WPA act-up to the extent of 45 per cent of the cost and that the savings from county quarters will meet the annual payments of both principal and interest on the county building. L. E. Fisher, Idaho Falls architect, has been employed by the board to prepare and furnish the plans and specifications of the proposed edifice.

IDAHO BEAN CROP CONDITION SLUMPS

Indications Now for 48,000 Bags Less Than Forecast in July

BOISE, Aug. 12 (AP)—The condition of the bean crop in Idaho declined from 64 per cent on July 1 to 77 per cent on Aug. 1, and production is now indicated to be 1,312,000 bags, or about $4,000 bags less than forecast on July 1. Richard C. Ross, federal agricultural stationer for Idaho, reported here today.

The development of blight is the cause of the declining production prospects, Ross said.

The blight is reported to be most general and to have caused severe damage in the areas where seed beans are grown extensively, he said.

"Some of the fields of edible beans are also affected, but up to Aug. 1 the full extent of the damage could not be measured."

The United States crop yield forecast at 13,631,000 bags, an increase of 512,000 bags since the first of July.

The Michigan crop was indicated to be 3,774,000 bags, 64,658 bags higher than the July forecast.

"Declining prospects were reported in California, Arizona, Montana and Kansas."

Ideal Marriage Of Joan Blondell Goes on Rocks

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12 (AP)—The once widely heralded "ideal" marriage of Joan Blondell, vivacious screen actress, and George S. Barnes, "ace" movie cameraman, was abruptly brought into the divorce court here today.

The actress sued and listed a variety of complaints, including charges that Barnes immersed himself in a book in the presence of her guests, and that he often drove his automobile against her wishes after he had been drinking.

Hollywood's first intimation of the marital breakup came last night when Mrs. Blondell said she was preparing a divorce suit, but when Mrs. Blondell asked custody of Norman Scott Barnes, nine-month-old son for whom the couple built a "kiddap proof" nursery in their Lookout mountain home, and concern over whose diet often caused Mrs. Blondell to interrupt her screen work to telephone home to the nurse.

Their marriage in Phoenix, Ariz., January 4, 1937, was Mrs. Blondell's first and Barnes' fourth. Studio publicity stories often emphasized that it was an ideal mating, with both as devoted to their home as they were to their work. They separated only last Friday, the actress complained said.

Mrs. Blondell alleged Barnes sometimes went to hours without speaking to her, and refused to answer questions. In addition, she alleged, he accused her unjustly of causing him to lose friendships.

Barnes refused to accept the responsibility of looking after household bills and other business matters, even refusing to discuss them with her.

Emily knew she owed her parents a great deal—in the little Alabama town where the Feltons were so important she was brought up to realize that.

So it wasn't surprising that when Mrs. Felton picked the "right" man for Emily, everybody considered the question of marriage settled and awaiting only such details as setting the date and buying the trousseau.

Nor had Emily any wish to uproot the traditions of this household where duty was thought of in capital letters. Family ties held her fast. How, finally, she is able to free herself and retain the love of her parents is told in "Morning Star," one of the most fascinating romances of the year.

Joe Louis Predicts Knockout Victory Over Max Baer

Bomber Declines To Pick Final Round of Bout With Ex-Champ

'If I Can Hit Him, I'll Kyo Him—And I Know I Can Hit Him,' Declares Conqueror Of Levinsky And Carnera

By EARL J. HILLIGAN (Associated Press Sports Writer)

DETROIT, Aug. 12 (AP)—Joe Louis, who says it was "just one of those things" when he misread calling his knockouts going into training before telling the world when he believes he'll put Max Baer away next month, but the "brown bomber" is none the less confident he can turn that trick.

"If I can hit him, I'll kyo him—and I know I can hit him," Louis drawled today, announcing that he would start training for the Baer scrap about August 20 at a site not yet determined.

"It will be my toughest fight yet," continued the 21-year-old Negro heavyweight sensation. "But I'll take him."

Joe flashed one of his rare grins when he reminded he was off slightly in his previous prediction. He said he would stop Carnera in the fifth but finished him in the sixth. He put Levinsky away in the seventh, he said he would win in the second.

"It's kind of hard to tell, but I try to be close," said Joe, realizing perhaps that the "boys" on Detroit's east side are reported to be making bets on the round in which "their" fighter will knock out the other.

"I'm going to go into training before I say anything about the Baer fight. I know he's good, and I hope he has a lot to give me, so there'll be no excuses. If they ain't in shape, it's his fault. I can't let Baer get away from me. I'll start that fight like I start all of them—I try to finish it as soon as possible. But it's hard to tell when I'll end—you get one punch in the first thing you know it's over."

Joe Baer says he isn't met nobody good enough to see if he can take it. But that's what they all seem to say. I know what I can do, but they say I can't do it.
