AMBASSADOR RAPS U. S. ALARM OVER SOVIET ACTIVITIES

Russian Counters Apprehension With Reference to Campaigns Against Communism in America

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Alexander Troyanovsky, the Soviet ambassador, tonight countered American apprehensions over Russian communist activities with a blunt reference to anti-Soviet campaigns in the United States.

"Anything said in Moscow by American citizens about the United States," Troyanovsky said in a statement, "is very different compared to the continuous propaganda in the United States against the Soviet Union."

Then he added: "It is obvious that my government will not interfere in the internal affairs of the United States in this or any other matter."

Government to Reply

Troyanovsky said the United States protest against violation of pledges against interference in American affairs would be replied to by the government, but by him.

The ambassador's statement was issued as Father Edmund J. Walsh, charged American communists to be allied with Joseph Stalin and other Russian leaders in framing a "detailed plan for the overthrow of the American government."

Troyanovsky quoted the bible to the United States officials, saying: "And why beholdeth thou the mole which is in thine eye, but perceivest not the beam that is in thine own eye?"

Russian Officials Silent

MOSCOW, Aug. 26 (AP)—Both Soviet officials and the Russian press maintained today for the second day a policy of strict silence with regard to the American program against what the Russians call interference in the internal affairs of the United States.

The foreign office gave no indication.

Mussolini Reported Ready To Exchange Peace For Colonies

Shift From Capital Of Ethiopia Marks Heightened Crisis

(By The Associated Press) The Italo-Ethiopian crisis, heightened by colonial considerations, brought a beginning yesterday to evacuation of the Ethiopian capital, Addis Ababa.

Thousands of natives quit the capital for their villages. The Italian government began evacuating its legation and location archives. Neutral diplomats sought protection for their legations.

LONDON—Diplomatic observers looked for a possible move by Premier Mussolini to seek additional support for a demand that other nations yield their colonies to preserve peace. The new office building in Addis Ababa, which had been promised to Mussolini in evidence to justify his "colonial" aspirations, had been destroyed by a bomb for considering an invasion of Ethiopia as a punitive measure for the Italian government.

BOLZANO, ITALY—Premier Mussolini, taking refuge in the mountains, was expected to give new impetus to negotiations with France and Italy, which have continued in desultory fashion since the breaking up of the Paris conference. The two men are expected immediately to start preparations of the British cabinet session opening September 4 and in the assembly session September 10. Sir Samuel, who is a member of the British assembly delegation, may speed his return to London to participate in some of the council meetings and be in on any final decision there.

While the British government has been represented as feeling the colonial problem is an international one which can only be decided at a conference of the interested powers, there was no sign that Great Britain would permit any sudden change to be called as a result of the present events in Africa.

Duce Seen Bidding For Support Of Germany

LONDON, Aug. 26 (AP)—Mussolini may tell the League of Nations on September 4 that, if other powers will give Italy some of their colonies in Africa, he will call off his threatened invasion of Ethiopia, diplomats heard today.

If he intends to name such a price for peace, said today, he may endeavor first to get from Adolf Hitler of Germany a promise to support his proposal in an international conference.

Baton Konstantin von Neurath, the German foreign minister, told Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador to Berlin, in May, that Germany intends the former allies must resist but that the German officials again before the reich will return to the League of Nations, Germany lost her African colonies in the World War.

Spur Negotiations

The return to the foreign office of the British minister of state, Sir Samuel Hoare and Anthony Eden, minister for League of Nations affairs, was expected to give new impetus to negotiations with France and Italy, which have continued in desultory fashion since the breaking up of the Paris conference. The two men are expected immediately to start preparations of the British cabinet session opening September 4 and in the assembly session September 10. Long's Filibuster During Session's Closing Hours Kills Funds for New Deal

Adjourment Comes At Midnight Following Day Of Wrangling, Conferences And Compromises

Hint of Executive Action Speeds End

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, (Tuesday) Aug. 27.—Congress adjourned an historic session of gigantic legislative labors today, but left buried under a filibuster by Senator Long (D-La) the money for major new deal projects.

The senate quit at midnight Monday under the lash of an administrative warning that President Roosevelt has constitutional powers to order adjournment.

The house closed its first session of the 74th congress at 12:09 a. m. (EST) after turning back the clock while waiting to learn what course the senate would pursue. When Speaker Byrnes raised the flag, the clock in the house chamber read only 11:59 p. m. or 12 minutes earlier.

Maneuvers Nullified

But a tumultuous day of conferences and compromises which maneuvered the administration into re-opening the "cut-back" program—the plan for mollifying southern senators and winning $70,000,000 in cash for the vast social security program—was nullified at the Louisiana's five and a half hour talk.

Bluntly, he was charged by Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, Senator Black (D-La) and others with "deliberately killing" the social security bill, but also funds for the aged and crippled by his "No I Ain't." Long retorted, as he talked.

Downward, President Roosevelt set up late in the White House, going over correspondence and a huge stack of legislative bills. He was informed of the end of the session which began January 3, by Stephen Early secretary, but had no comment on the death of the deficiency bill.

At the other end of the Capitol building, the senate representatives sat up late in the day, performing to navy band times in the customary practice of the senate. The galleries echoed the fun.

Snags New Deal Project

Wrapped in the $100,000,000 deficiency bill Long talked to death was money not only to start the social security program, but also for the neutrally arms embargo, the national labor board, the utilities and electric program, but also for other outstanding measures.

Though some had contended Mr. Roosevelt had the money from the work-relief fund, Robinson said Comptroller General J. R. McCall had held otherwise in and reported the AAA's revision of its appropriation for the "aged" would be lost if the senate could not vote by midnight.

Schwelbensch (D-Wash) charged Long with showing off to the press.

"I stand on my own feet and my own judgment," Long replied, insisting that the house should vote on the bill for at least an hour to start adjourned.

Stroke Of Midnight

Just before 12 o'clock Senator Robinson called a recess and adjourned Long with a "parliamentary inquiry."

The president told a bunch of us down at the White House this morning, and it's suppose it's no secret. I had hope to say here about the hope, the aspirations and the desires of millions of people who are waiting for the AAA's revision of its bitly-announced 8-cent loan plan.

ARREST OF YOUNG REFORMER SOLVES 24 DENVER FIRES

Effort to Rescue Girl From 'Life of Shame' Revealed by Firebug; Examination by Alienists Planned

(By The Associated Press) DENVER, Aug. 26.—A youth whose story frightened him as grand as any firebug, and who said he set 24 fires in five days to "reform" the girl he met in a roominghouse, was in jail tonight and Denver's wave of incendiarism was at an end.

Detective Captain James E. Childers said he was under guard, however, as police sought another firebug.

Dr. Harry R. Bremer of Oakland, Calif., was preparing to fly to Denver to give authorities the "background" of the youthful Denver firebug, who was in jail tonight and Denver's wave of incendiarism was at an end.

EDUCATIONS PREPARE FOR ITALIAN RAIDS

Ethiopian and Mussolini's Officials Begin Evacuation of Addis Ababa

ADDIS ABABA, Aug. 26 (AP)—Ethiopian officials and the Italian government today began evacuation of the capital today amid rapid developments indicative of a battle in which hostilities were almost at hand.

Prices of the scanty food commodities soared; the Italian government began evacuating its citizens and legation archives; and other diplomats acted for protection of their legations in the event of air bombardment.

Acting on Premier Mussolini's orders, the Italian legation ships 60 cars of official archives to Djibouti, on the Red Sea.

Suggests Special Zone of Safety

This action was followed immediately by the Italian minister as dean of the diplomatic corps, that Emperor Haile Selassie incorporate the British, French, German and Belgian legations into a special international zone immune from bombardment.

The Italian minister also asked the emperor to give the American legation a special zone of safety.

The emperor increased the imperial guard, which protects the city, from 3,000 to 6,000. The capital police force numbers were raised from 3,000 to 5,000.

CCC FIRE FIGHTER WIKED IN FOREST

Battle Against Flames in Washington Claims Life of Chicago Youth

SEATTLE, Aug. 26 (AP)—One fire fighter, William C. Maxwell, 16, of Chicago, CCC worker, was killed today when he was wrenched from a tree by flames in a forest fire.

Maxwell was killed at Vnder when a large snag struck him while he was engaged with a crew fighting the fire, which by noon had swept to within a mile of Vadr.

Work Stops

Logging companies ceased operations today when Washington firefighters advised of the Washington Fire Association and the West Coast Lumbermen's association.

The fire association reported 11 blazes burning in forests and brush in Kittitas county, one sweeping into 25 acres of green timber near Hanover. It was under control today.

Fires were also reported at Eaton. Three fires closed parts of King county in smoke.

ROOSEVELT SETS RELIEF DEADLINES

Executive Makes New Attempt to Speed Spending of $4,000,000,000

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP)—A series of deadlines, the first scarcely more than two weeks off, was filed by President Roosevelt today in a move to complete the allotment of the entire $4,000,000,000 work relief fund by September 24.

This latest attempt to speed up the lagging program was interpreted as eliminating almost all heavy construction projects on which applications have not been submitted, and barring numerous PWA and housing projects earlier slated for December.

Increased emphasis on Harry L. Hopkins' work program administration, with wider delegation to local administrators, was foreshadowed.

The President's final letter, notifying cabinet officers and other work relief agents of this latest change, gave these final dates:

September 12. All applications by both local and federal agencies, submitted in final form.

September 17. Final meeting of work relief allotment committee.

September 24. All allotments actually made available through approval by the president as well as the treasury and Comptroller General J. R. McCall.

October 22. Sporn-order agents "prepared" either to begin work projects by the end of the month or to have asked for bids on those to be built under contract.

December 15. All contracts to be awarded.

RECLAMATION WORK TO AID THOUSANDS

Dr. Elwood Mead Points to Magnitude of Program in West

YAKIMA, Wash., Aug. 26 (AP)—Dr. Elwood Mead, U. S. commissioner of reclamation, here tonight, described the federal program of irrigation development, which he said would aid thousands of people in the west.

"The magnitude of the program for construction scattered over the entire west," he said, "and it will work with the aid of people from all over the world on the Grand Coulee dam."

"Thirty thousand acres are ready for settlement in the Hiram project in Wyoming and this fall there will be 20,000 acres available on the Snake river project in Idaho. The Valley Three lands are being settled by thousands of farmers who have been waiting for a long time."

Dr. Mead will leave tomorrow for Portland.

OMAHA STRIKERS' LEADER ARRESTED

Police Mobile Unit Squads Nip Plans to Establish Picket Line

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 26 (AP)—Swiftly moving police mobile unit squads today nipped the plans of strikers to establish a picket line in violation of state laws.

Police arrested the strikers' leader, H. N. Nelson, just a few minutes before 4:30 p. m. the hour picketing was to begin at the Twenty-fourth street and Ames avenue car barn, one of the main terminals of the street railway company.

Fatal Fascination

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho—Dr. John T. Wood of Coeur d'Alene vows that strange and fatal fascinations and automatism for death.

He told of killing one and barely missing another on a trip into western Montana.

His car struck full grown cow, bewildered by the headlights, near Missoula, he said, and the animal struck him in the chest. The front of the car was smashed.

The next day, at dusk, he barely missed another on a trip into western Montana.

Second Thought

LOS ANGELES—Married for 35 years, Mrs. E. F. Williams was on the witness stand, testifying in an attempt to obtain a divorce from "Slim" Williams.

"Slim" was dominating," his voice lilted and tears came to his eyes.

"I love my wife! I can't go through with this!" he suddenly shouted, and walking from the witness stand, he placed a check for $10,000 in her hand. A motion for non-suit was entered by attorneys, and the case was dismissed.

LAWS OF CHANCE Aid Hopi Tribe's Rainmaking Ritual

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26 (AP)—Arizona's Hopi tribe has always followed the unyielding efforts for centuries, are aided powerfully by the laws of chance.

Dr. Ford C. Coville, meteorologist, said today.

Dr. Carpenter refused to scoff at what he termed "psychic phenomena," but he pointed out that now is the season for thunder storms in Arizona and that the Hopi shakers would be unlikely to succeed if showers did not come during or immediately after their elaborate rituals.

Storms Every Fortnight

"A study of the rainfall conditions of that region shows thunderstorms are coming every fortnight," said Dr. Carpenter, former head of the United States weather bureau, and director of the local chamber of commerce.

U. S. TO CONSTRUCT TETON RIVER DAM

Congressman Clark Says Plans Completed for Storage Basins

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP)—Representative D. Worth Clark (R-Idaho), today said that the bureau of reclamation would start work on $100,000,000 dam on the Teton river in Idaho next spring.

Clark said plans had been completed for the dam and a project from the $1,000,000,000 investment of about two years ago, the construction of supplementary storage basins in the upper Snake river valley would be used. The project would be the first reclamation dam of the department of the interior to be built in Idaho.

The new dam will provide for the storage of about 50,000 acre feet of water, he said. It will be located on the Teton river just above the mouth.

The bureau expects to start actual construction work next spring, Clark said. The preliminary surveys and estimates having been completed, he said final design and contracts would be gotten out of the way during the coming winter.

AAA WRAPS DRIVE TO COLLECT TAX

Farm Administration Finds $152,466,000 on Hand at Years' End

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP)—Settling up operations for the fiscal year, the AAA today reported it has carried over a $152,466,000 balance into the new fiscal year which began July 1, 1935.

Over 500 inspectors of the AAA were being taken today to seek dismissal of 1,332 processing tax suits which had led up in the courts since the AAA's inception.

Michael J. Johnston, district attorney at Chicago conferred with Attorney General Cummings today, said he expected to be dismissed of the 1,332 processing tax suits...

Both house and senate met at noon, and quickly resumed while the leaders were in the unusual tangle. The senate leaders assumed themselves five hours to complete the task and scheduled the session to begin at 10:30 a. m.

The noon time session was preceded by a gloomy conference in the office of Senator Robinson, the senate leader, with a dozen senators from the cotton states.

The dispute in its essential features reduced itself to a row over the responsibility should rest on adjournment with the cotton-wheat loan stipulations unmet.

Three possible solutions presented themselves early in the day as the basis for compromise. The president could increase the 9 cent loan to 10 1/2 cents or three cents and satisfy the southern cotton to the extent that they would withdraw from their position and make such legislation unnecessary.

The president could stick to the 9 cent loan with an additional promise that cotton farmers would be given adequate additional assistance if the need should arise before congress reconvened.

In neither house did the Republicans take part in the row. It was strictly a Democratic affair, with daily involved on both sides of the tangle were members from the cotton states.

Kimberly Rancher Held to Trial for Felonious Assault

BIRCH R. BROWN, 30, Kimberly ranchman, was held to answer in the district court to a felony charge of assault with intent to murder, after his former wife, Juanita Murray, 21, whom he is alleged to have shot through the arm and body, testified at a preliminary hearing in the probate court here yesterday that Brown shot her as she grappled with him for possession of a revolver after he had placed the weapon against her left breast and pulled the trigger, but that the gun missed fire.

Miss Murray was called as a witness for the defense, as also was her sister-in-law, Mrs. Dolph Murray, who testified that she was an eyewitness to the alleged shooting in a store at Kimberly July 15.

Mr. Byron Boyes returned Sunday after several weeks absence in Utah and Nevada, trucking.

A check for $322 was received by the city of Ogdén this week. The city of Ogdén has paid its 1934 pioneer days sales tax bill but still is in default on this year's contribution, the state tax commission revealed today. A check for $322 was received today by the commission in payment of last year's taxes, which had been contested vigorously by Ogdén. A protest was made on the ground that the tax was an improper levy on sales made in carrying out a civic event.

Taxes become delinquent after the fifteenth of the month following the sale of any taxable items. Taxes covered wagon days committee of Salt Lake City has not yet paid a sales tax on the celebration here this year, the commission announced.

Aged Woman Tied In Sacks, Left To Die

SHERIDAN, Wyo., Aug. 26 (AP) — Mrs. J. E. Sharkey, 61-year-old wife of a banker, was rescued after she had been wrapped in gunny sacks and tossed into a gully to die.

Her feeble cries attracted farm children to a ditch where she was found with a crushed leg, severe arm and internal injuries, and brought here for medical attention.

She told authorities at the county hospital she was struck by an automobile early last night and retained consciousness later but was unable to free herself from the sacks, she cried for help until after dawn when the children found her.

HOUSING SHORTAGE AT CRAIGMONT DEVELOPS

CRAIGMONT, Idaho, Aug. 26 (AP) — A housing shortage has developed here following the arrival of 15 new families. The influx followed opening of the old rock pit west of town by a Spokane contracting company, and the moving of their headquarters for their road work here.

'UNITE AND CHALLENGE': President Roosevelt invites American youth to "unite and challenge." The invitation is not addressed to young Democrats alone but to young Republicans as well and presumably youth of all other political persuasion is also included.

It is an intriguing idea but why confine it to any one age classification. There is no good reason to believe that a unified challenge would be any more effective if the middle aged and the elderly were excluded from affiliation with such a movement.

If there is basis for a united challenge, presumably to be directed against the old order of things and aimed to bring about a better type and administration of government, an invitation to join it should be extended to the rank and file of the American people, and if this is done it will be found that the element of challenge is not alone confined to the youth of the Nation.

Germany and Italy have all organized youth movements which constitute a perpetual challenge to any deviation whatever from the will of Hitler and Mussolini. Their organization was brought into being through an invitation from on high to "unite and challenge" but with this difference. They will do their challenging precisely where they are directed to do it and nowhere else.

In America every single element in our population should be ready at all times to challenge those responsible for the evils and the problems of conditions as they now exist in a spirit of unity and strong determination to bring about a different and a better order of things, political and governmental. But we don't like the idea of confining such a movement to youth alone. It smacks too much of the methods of European dictatorships.

AN IMPORTANT RESOLUTION

If there are to be changes in the American Constitution these should be made only in the prescribed manner. This is the gist of one of the most important resolutions passed by Republican delegates from eleven Western States in session last week at Yellowstone National Park.

The resolution deals with a point of far more than passing import and sets up a principle in politics which has long been lost sight of. The Constitution of the United States can be amended by a vote of the people alone. It cannot be amended by the President or the Congress or by the passage of laws or in any other manner. The method of amendment is set forth in the Constitution itself and until this feature of the Constitution is itself amended the Republican delegates at the convention referred to condemn any other method.

They are eternally right. Unless the Constitution itself is to be scrapped and some other form of organic act placed in its stead, only trouble and confusion can arise from failure to adhere to the principles by it laid down.

If a majority of people believe the Constitution is actually outmoded and rendered out of date by economic and other changes of recent years, if it can be shown to actually stand in the way of orderly progress and is, in fact, a hindrance rather than a help in the march of progress towards a higher and better era of national development, let's amend it by all means but let's do it in a Constitutional way.

It's the only way.

COOL HEADS

When, last week, a backstage fire broke out in a Los Angeles theater there were several hundred people in the audience. It was not a small fire—it stopped the show and caused damage estimated at ten thousand dollars while firemen occupied the stage in a battle against the flames.

But the audience, instead of trampling each other to death in a wild rush to escape the theater, remained in their seats, enjoying and applauding the unexpected spectacle. Had the fire made it necessary for them to leave, so cool-headed an audience undoubtedly would have found the exits in an orderly and intelligent manner.

It is an illustration of the value of popular education. Nearly every theater-goer has learned enough of the history of fires in amusement houses to know that the greatest danger is not from the flames but from the people who become, through fear, hysterical and panic-stricken. Equipped with that knowledge, a man's first thought in case of fire is to retain his human intelligence. Thus tragedies may be averted.

WHAT MEANS IN IDAHO

Every newspaper member of the Associated Press is proud of the fact. Reference is repeatedly made in editorial columns to what the Associated Press has said about some timely subject. Accuracy and reliability have become fundamental parts of the Associated Press policy that it is rarely necessary to supplement the authority of this widespread newswriting organization.

In Idaho the little (P) which heads every news story provided facilities of the Associated Press has become fundamental. Most of the Idaho daily newspapers are Associated Press newspapers. A list of them will look something like this: The Pocatello Tribune, The Idaho Falls Post-Register, The Blackfoot Bulletin, The Twin Falls News, The Statesman, The News-Tribune, The Moscow Star-Mirror, The Lewiston Tribune, The Sandpoint Bulletin.

Geographically every part of Idaho is covered by the Associated Press. From Jackson Hole in Wyoming to the Idaho Panhandle, the day's news in Idaho is gathered and sent on by this group of newspapers, part of whose responsibility is to see to it that the rest of Idaho knows what's going on everywhere. Thus the Associated Press acts as Idaho's reporter. Wednesday, for instance, when T. A. Walters arrived in Pocatello and said something about the necessity for power development in the west, it was the Associated Press alone which passed that story along.

The Associated Press and its member newspapers in Idaho have reason to be proud of the job they are doing in keeping Idaho people informed of Idaho's news.

MOTHERS AND TEACHERS

New Bedford Standard-Times: David Snedden, formerly commissioner of education in Massachusetts, has a message to teachers' education in New York, for once the time when child training now intruded to the schools will be restored to the mothers of the land.

By 1930, he estimates, the great majority of women will have had such training in schools and junior colleges. He says that a professor in teachers' education educational needs long past the age at which they now go to school. Even today, he thinks, children under nine are better off under their mother's care than in schools under paid teachers.

For a great many years many observers have viewed with disfavor the tendency to transfer the rearing of the child from the home to other agencies. The principal one of these agencies, of course, is the public school, but there are others that offer to relieve parents of responsibilities that in an earlier day they never thought of shifting to others. There has been a question as to whether the schools and other agencies have not encouraged parents to turn children over to them, although their explanation of the gradual taking over of parental duties would probably be that fathers and mothers were neglecting them.

Changes in economic conditions, mode of life, house-keeping methods and the like between now and 1930 may revolutionize child-rearing practices, but no one can say. After all, the date set by Prof. Snedden is fifteen years distant, and who can prophesy that far ahead?

IT PAYS TO BE FAIR

Duluth Herald: Dollars-and-cents-creeds—treating others fairly because it pays—is not a very high type of virtue. It is utterly alien to true kindness, which must be unselfish. Nevertheless, it is far better, in a practical way, than brutality, and perhaps all that mankind can hope for until a better process of education is inaugurating to read that Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, the German economics minister the nazis have not dared to dismiss because they need his brilliant mind, has told Germany that foreign reaction to her persecutions is hurting her economically. This may bring about an awakening there, for even she has a pocketbook nerve. Whatever the motive behind it, the reappearance of tolerance in Germany would be welcomed by a weary and angry world.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Sidney Franklin, Brooklyn bull fighter, is returning to the rings of Spain and Mexico shortly after being out of commission for 18 months as result of a goring. Franklin made the mistake of turning his back on a dinosaur bull after the death thrust and was flung 30 feet.

O. O. McIntyre

Soft-voiced indeed, almost feminine, Franklin is a strange combination of matador and equestrian. He is enthralled by the excitement of the bull ring and the goring of the gorgeous colorado.

Franklin has the actor's reticence about age. Some say he is only 30. He says 29. He has purchased a large cattle ranch in Mexico with his earnings that "sometime reached $100,000 a year. He will fight for two more years and retire to this ranch.

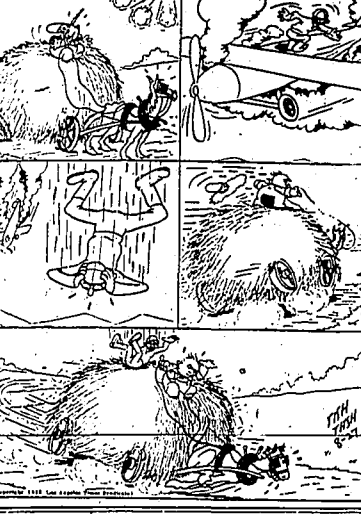

One of Franklin's intimates is another of America's reckless adventurers, the Denver born Eddie Egan who recently fought his way around the world as an amateur boxer, won a Rhodes scholarship and is now an assistant U. S. district attorney with a fixed ambition to shine as a criminal lawyer. Among intimates and is a relaxing mood. Egan and Franklin sometimes stage a burlesque bull fight with Egan as a red bull and Franklin as the matador. A climax in parlor diodes.

They buried Roy Barton—a whop of his former self, the other day in Paris. For 12 years he has been singing playing the piano and pacing the lat in the stuffy, windowless basement room of Harry's New York Bar in rue Danou. For a time he teamed up with Tommy Lyman. And now and again come over to the Chicago Loop where he hangs out. But always he went back to the tiny life that began at midnight and ended at sun-up, his "Montmartre Bar" was dedicated to the French girl he married.

Few realize the astonishing mass of indigestible that slide down the collective sium gland in a day. Each block has its candy man who assures the tormenter that for his colored ice, candies on a stick, slow dissolving jaw breakers and other almoniac horrors, from morning until night the children seem in constant gorge. How they take up the pennies is another mystery of East Side squallor.

Incidentally, since Myra Kelley, there seems to be no writer to fictionalize the peccant horrors of the tenements and especially the against-odds fight of the young.

VAN BORING (He never says a word)

Magazine editors and book publishers are in constant hunt for such material but most of the attempted rick only of soundness and despair. No one has been able to pluck the literary lilies from the box, so shining and serene, as Miss Kelly did. Bruno Lessing's Ghetto stories were also vignettes of chuckle, philosophy and cynicism among people who had undergone economic depriv. But when he took to a roaming assignment in daily journalism he has had no time for the short story.

Guiding Your Child

By ALICE CLARIBSA RICHMOND

FASTIDIOUSNESS: Most children are by nature communists and lacking in fastidiousness. To them, towels, handkerchiefs, brushes and combs, toothbrushes and hats are merely useful accessories to life, with no individuality of their own as possessions of individuals.

One small boy was even found brushing his pet goat's teeth with the family brush, his own toothbrush. His claim was that the goat was being neglected, and he was trying to repair the error.

It requires long and patient training to accustom little children to the usages of a civilization which, for hygiene as well as personal reasons, insists on individualism and exclusive possession of intimate articles of use.

The first thing to do is to give the child toilet articles of his own, and arouse his pride in them. His first tooth-brush may be smaller than the others or of a more vivid color, and it must have a special hook or container where he keeps it. It would be a good idea also if he were given a special set of towels—at clean as his own likes—but if possible marked with his name or initials. Let him keep these on a hook or bar which he can reach.

Brushes and combs are a harder matter, and only repeated explanation and insistence on the contagion of their diseases is going to teach him to stick to his own and eschew the lending or borrowing of these articles back and forth. The same is true of hats. That dandruff, for example, is catching and injurious to the hair does not occur, even to many adults.

Handkerchiefs are an important point, but, because of the prevalence of colds and their unpleasantness, the careless use of handkerchiefs is a common fault if teaching is unsavailing.

Fastidiousness is an acquired characteristic and requires long and patient training.

WASHINGTON: By Ray Tucker: DOMINATION: President Roosevelt's 75th birthday celebration is playing a sick game in re-arranging the gladiators over the Federal Reserve System. To paraphrase Omar they are taking the cash and letting the credit go to Carter Glass, who would be permanent Federal Reserve administrator, like so many predecessors, still believes that the United States has a high mission to perform in behalf of world peace. The Senate, even more so than in 1917, believes that we should mind our own business.

FRRIEND: The nomination of George Sweeney for a Federal Judgeship in Massachusetts in place of the late Judge Lowell attracted almost no notice, but it had a special meaning for those who are watching closely the Judiciary's anti-New Deal trend. Mr. Sweeney is only 39 years old—and probably the youngest federal judge in the country. Before 1932 the best hope of New Deal supporters for economic planning was in the hands of the final bill, but the idea persists. Only New Deal bankers need apply to the Senator. Mr. Roosevelt's strategy got around to naming the board's members next February.

PRESSURE: Mr. Glass doesn't think the administration outsmarted him. But the 1936 story revolving over superior authority will be held by Congress can change this central fact. The administration will dominate the money.

Mr. Roosevelt means to wield that power. The Eccles declaration that the bill is a plan of Roosevelt's economic planning is a far cry from the final bill, but the idea persists. Only New Deal bankers need apply to the Senator. Mr. Roosevelt's strategy got around to naming the board's members next February.

There were, of course, many candidates for the Lowell vacancy, including Wesley of Alabama, who included the bill for the White House, intended to balk at changes demanded by the Glass coterie.

But when he submitted the final draft to the House, he praised the Senator. Mr. Roosevelt said it was impossible to get up safeguards which would prevent present 1936 abuses. "Please accept this principle of accusation little children to the usages of a civilization which, for hygiene as well as personal reasons, insists on individualism and exclusive possession of intimate articles of use."

Mr. Roosevelt intervened personally when Carter Glass looked on the provision permitting banks to underwrite security issues. Writing to the Senator, Mr. Roosevelt said it was impossible to get up safeguards which would prevent present 1936 abuses. "Please accept this principle of accusation little children to the usages of a civilization which, for hygiene as well as personal reasons, insists on individualism and exclusive possession of intimate articles of use."

POLICY: The Senate's last-minute change of the Federal Reserve bill marked the beginning of a new American attitude toward the rest of the world. Everybody on the continent of the world is watching and far-reaching.

The State Department has lobbied for the bill, but it is not clear whether any legislation which would tie the President's hands by making mandatory a general arms embargo would be passed. The President wanted discretionary power so that it could exert influence for peace and stability in the world.

PREMEK-33

MORNING STAR

BY MARIAN SIMS

SYNOPSIS: Emily Felton has lost her heart to Judith Carroll, a handsome romantic and a good man. But she has promised to marry Judith's brother David, only to find that the Carrolls have lost their beautiful plantation. David has disappeared into the interior of China, and Judith has married a man who is a plantation but not much hair on his head. Now Charlotte, Emily's new roommate, has taught her the value of thought and aspiration.

Chapter 12

At the end of the first semester Emily found to her astonishment that she had been nominated for the executive council for the second half of the year.

"What on earth will I do?" she asked Charlotte. "I don't want to punish girls for doing things I'd probably do myself if I had the inclination." "They were in the 'Soc.' room at the library, studying for the midterm examination. It was peaceful and quiet, and the green-shaded lamps made pools of light upon the tables.

Emily laughed. "In that case I'd better resign to run!" Charlotte advised. "I'll guarantee to keep you in touch with the common herd and take you down if you get high-hat."

Charlotte grinned enquiringly. "Well, I hung herself upon the couch and contemplated the ceiling. The paint was peeling badly, she noticed, and she wondered idly why even the best of buildings should have to fight so hard against poverty."

"If I had a cigaret I'd smoke it," Charlotte said. "So that's what the special session was about. Was there a definite victim, or was it the general?" "There was nothing, and she's camped for a month."

"Yes. That was my influence. I almost made a scene, and I certainly did make some of the boys who had smoked who they were stung. Emily said it reflected on the school, and she said, reflected what? They couldn't exactly say, because I happened to know that two of 'em smoke free-cadde of cigarette."

"Where it isn't against rules, but where it reflects even more. In the month before the election, she and I were a black eye. I don't believe," she concluded thoughtfully, "that I'm going to be very popular."

Charlotte grinned sympathetically. "As long as you're unpopular there's hope for you. And the culprits, who are the majority, after all, will adore you."

Emily looked affectionately at her. The most valuable accident she had acquired at Ardmore, she thought for the hundredth time, had come from Judith and Charlotte. Commitment that year had seemed once more the end of the world. "What on earth will I do without them?" she demanded desperately of Charlotte.

Charlotte was carefully packing her trunk. "I'll be home in two years," she said. "I'll be home in two years," she said. "I'll be home in two years," she said. "I'll be home in two years," she said.

Like Judith, Charlotte would say goodby casually, without flowers, but the goodby would be none the easier for that. Judith's reaction was instinctive; Charlotte could have put her rather artificial with my hand-wring.

She was right, of course. When the box had gone and the fourteen-year-old Grange stood empty of everything, but its memories and its associations, you knew that you had to treat the empty light in order to bear it at all.

haven't lost you?" Charlotte had looked steadily at her. "Don't you know you couldn't lose me if you tried?" She smiled. "Don't look so mournful. Before you can catch a break you'll be graduating yourself! And by that time I'll have been out long enough to show you the ropes."

The car drew up before the station and Charlotte laid a hand on her. "Don't get out; partly, set on your mouth, and I have destroyed scenes."

And then she was out of the car, and the broad beam of William, which carried her suitcase, almost completely obscured her going.

As usual, Charlotte had been right. The auditorium was incredibly bright, and she remembered its music-lessons with casual pleasure. Wearing a white dress, she had been there the day before you were invested as a farewell to childhood. Investments, when you donated a car and a room for the first time, and complained bitterly about your high school, Senior privileges, when you came in late to be excused, and a bath after hours, when the rest of the school was asleep.

Faculty, who accepted you almost as an equal now. Your dinner-dance in town with a man, even though the men were only there to bring your name out for the Mortar Board, as one of those who had "contributed materially and splendidly to the building of the college," a designation that made you blush with a consciousness of your own unworthiness.

Senior Opera, which you wrote, with three other girls, and which was enthusiastically applauded. "Buttermilk!" Winning the fifty-yard free-style swim, thereby acquiring enough points to give your class the title.

Aud, for the last time, Commencement, when you held for so short a time the center of a crowded stage; when your parents were the ones who as Judith had said so long ago sat around and dozed. An eloquent divine preacher, a brief and altogether charming sermon about the Changing Position of Women in the World, and a gorgeous assembly, tinged with glitter against his snowy vestments and distracted your attention.

And it was being your own mother you realized that the class below you had pushed you off the boards, and that now they were the Seniors, who would occupy the stage and carry on the traditions that you had somehow thought of as your own.

"I'm a ramblin' wreck from Georgia Tech and a helluvan engineer," sang the orchestra leader, and the stage lights flashed brightly and stamped its feet.

In a few minutes the tune would be the Washington and Lee being, and after that the Alabama school would have their turns. And at each rendition the stage lights would stamp and stamp imperially.

Tomorrow the Election Enquirer would describe the dance as "a brilliant climax to the many far-reaching affairs in honor of the college set."

To Emily this dance was solemnly sad. It wasn't that she was unpopular. Her following never attained the unalloyed proportions of some of her friends, but it was almost constant. She danced exultantly, even though she had never "quitted the gift of casual flirtation," and she thought to her as a traveler seeks a clear stream. They told each other that they would never part.

Charlotte grinned sympathetically. "As long as you're unpopular there's hope for you. And the culprits, who are the majority, after all, will adore you."

MAYOR SUGGESTS ISSUE OF BONDS

Officials Prepare Applications for PWA Funds to Improve City

A bond issue which would approximate $128,000 and would provide for construction of a clear well, a public library building and grading, draining, graveling and filling of streets and alleys, was suggested by Mayor Duncan McD. Johnston at regular meeting of Twin Falls city council last night.

Although vote of the council on the three items was held up, City Attorney George M. Paulson and City Engineer John E. Hayes were delegated to prepare applications for PWA funds to finance 45 per cent of the three projects.

Total Cost $200,000

Under the public works administration plan, as outlined by the mayor, the government accepts 45 per cent of the burden while the city would be expected to provide the remaining 55 per cent. Approximate cost of the three projects would exceed $200,000.

The three projects, along with three others which are to be undertaken, will be constructed through the PWA, were Friday night approved and presented by Twin Falls city planning board.

Construction of the clear well, which would assure Twin Falls of a pure water supply and would hold between six and ten million gallons of water, would be made at approximate cost of $50,000. Cost of a new public library would be between $40,000 and $45,000 and improvements would approximate $110,000.

Jayces Cooperate
It was suggested that the city sponsor a project for construction of sidewalks, curbing and gutters throughout Twin Falls through the Junior Chamber of Commerce has offered to solicit financing from property owners and the work would be done through WPA.

Other proposed projects introduced include construction of a storm sewer to connect with Orchard street and installation of a sewer system in Blue Lake addition.

W. A. Minnick, 602 Blue Lakes boulevard, presented the suggestion that due to heavy traffic stop buttons be placed on Blue Lake boulevard at Elizabeth boulevard and Sixth avenue east. The matter was referred to Police Commissioner O. H. Coleman.

Permits Granted
Ten building permits were granted. John A. Bales, 21, was given a permit to construct an 8000 brick dwelling at the corner of Addison street and Filmore street. Mrs. Helen Moon was given a permit to build a 4400 house on lots 7 and 8 of block 9 in the Blue Lakes addition. Mrs. Evangeline White was given permits to build a 43450 and a 43550 dwelling on lots 7 and 8 of block 22. A. A. Grant was given permit to erect a 750 house on lot 3 of block 9 in the Bickel addition. Mrs. Emma Clouchek was given a permit to build a house on the rear of lot 13 in block 37 at a cost of $200. Louise Hughes was given permission to build a house on lot 3 of block 26. Mrs. Clara Smith was given permit to build an addition to her home on Alexander street and Robert street. Mrs. A. A. Grant was given permit to rathgrade a house on lot 19 of block 1 at a cost of $50.

TEACHERS OF COUNTY CALLED INTO SESSION

A meeting of Twin Falls County Teachers Association, the first of the new school year, probably will bring to Twin Falls next Saturday all of the county rural school district teachers. It was announced at the county superintendent's office yesterday. Approximately 60 teachers are employed in the county rural district. Mrs. Maude F. Klein-Kopf, county superintendent, said. Purposes of the meeting include organization and plans for the school year, and distribution of bulletins and school supplies. Mrs. Klein-Kopf said. FLORISTS OFFER PLANTING-HINTS

Petunias, Chrysanthemums, and Cannas Show Increase in Local Favor

To Twin Falls flower gardeners, C. S. Randall and Orlo Williams, Twin Falls florists, offer several hints about the planting and cultivation of petunias, cannas and chrysanthemums. All plants are scheduled to make their appearance at the Ascension Flower Show, September 7, and increasing interest in their cultivation is being shown by local amateur florists.

According to Williams, the growing of petunias as garden rather than box plants in this part of Idaho often requires the correction of an alkaline condition which develops in the soil, but when well started require little skill in handling.

"It is well to set the plants out as soon as there is no longer danger from frost," he advises, "then continuous blooming may be expected from June to October."

In discussing out-of-door chrysanthemums, which are proving more popular in Twin Falls gardens in the past few years, Williams says, "If you wish to lift chrysanthemums from the garden to keep in indoor winter blooming, be sure that the buds are well set before the plant is set or it is very unlikely that the plant will produce blooms after lifting."

PLANS COMPLETED FOR ANNUAL M. I. A. DANCE

Plans are complete for the Second Annual Improvement Era Commencement Ball to be held Thursday night at Radliland under the auspices of the central Mutual Improvement associations of the Twin Falls stake and the Bull, Kimbony and Murtaugh wards of the church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, according to Mrs. J. W. Richins, stake Improvement Era director and general chairman of the ball.

The public is invited to the ball, Mrs. Richins states. Tickets for the ball may be purchased from various members of the wards. Anyone interested in selling tickets is requested to contact Mrs. Richins. She announces that any person who sells five tickets to the ball is entitled to a free ticket and a year's subscription to the Improvement Era, church publication.

"The purpose of the ball is to interest the public and members of the M. I. A. church in the 'Improvement Era', Mrs. Richins says. A new editorial policy has recently been inaugurated by the publishers of the magazine and announced, which it is hoped, will increase interest among the readers. Changes in charge of the ball are Mrs. Richins, Mrs. Bertha Brown, president of the Twin Falls Young Women's M. I. A., and Golden Barlow, president of the Twin Falls Young Men's M. I. A. Commencement are the ward Improvement Era directors and the M. I. A. presidents from other wards.
