FAT STOCK SHOWN IN FARM PARADE

Flourishing Condition of Animal Husbandry Indicated

CHICAGO, Nov. 7 (AP)—The fat of the land, to the number of more than 12,000 select head, was entered today for agriculture's big parade, the 36th annual international livestock exposition.

A highly-flourishing condition for the animal husbandry of the nation and a quick recovery from the drought ravages of 1924 was the impression shown manager B. H. Hesse put on the plethora of contestants for the eight-day exhibition. It opens November 30.

With the companion grain show, it reflects also a decided state of well being "down on the farm," he said.

Heads estimated at more than 43,000,000 the value of the great herd of blue ribbon select horses, cattle, swine and sheep which will compete for the rich cash prizes. They will total more than $100,000 for the livestock and international hay and grain show combined.

Entries for the livestock show closed today but grains will be received up to November 10.

The huge amphitheatre, built after 1913's stockyards fire, at a cost of $2,000,000, will again house the show, termed by its sponsors "the greatest on the American continent." But they will complete by Friday 30 another building which will be used as horse stables.

A meat show will be a feature this year.

SEASONABLE FOOD SUGGESTIONS

Serve Waffles as Answer To Sunday Supper Query

Waffles are a good solution to that Sunday night supper puzzle. Fluffy-browned waffles, with plenty of fresh butter, served with maple syrup and milk taste good for breakfast, but better for supper. A friend of mine serves individual pitchers of hot melted butter and hot syrup with waffles instead of cooling the waffle by using cold butter and syrup. Isn't it worth trying next time you make them? She has matching pitchers in assorted colors of bright pottery, and uses pensant linens on the table. Is it any wonder that invitations to her "Sunday nights" are coveted? Creamed pheasant, served in it, is more delicious with tempting bits of chopped mushrooms and pimiento accompanied the waffles at her most recent supper party. Here's the recipe she uses:

- 1 cup flour
- 2 cups milk
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup butter
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup salt
- 1/2 cup yeast
- 1/2 cup oil
- 1/2 cup lard
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup lard
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup lard
- 1/2 cup shortening

Next time you decide to serve your waffles for dessert, be a little more original and serve chocolate waffles instead. Chocolate Waffles: 4 tablespoons butter, 2 squares chocolate, 2 cups cake flour, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1/2 cup vanilla. Melt 2 squares of chocolate, with the butter in a saucepan large enough to use for mixing bowl. Cook until the chocolate is melted. Add to butter and chocolate mixture. Add the remaining ingredients and beat vigorously until smooth. Serve chocolate waffles with whipped cream or vanilla ice cream. Whipped cream to which cottage cheese has been added, makes extra-special topping for gingerbread waffles.

BEER SEALED IN CANS

Beer sealed in cans that take up only half the space of bottles in the refrigerator yet contain the same amount of beer, will do the bottles made its appearance in Twin Falls yesterday.

The first carload of "sealed" cans known as "Dura-cans" was received by the Pacific Fruit and Produce company from Pabst of Milwaukee and the product is now on retail sale throughout this section. According to the Pacific Fruit and Produce company three years were spent and $200,000 expended in developing and perfecting this method of handling beer. Each can is lined so that the beer doesn't touch the metal. The can is so constructed that, after opening, the beer may be drunk from the can when desired. The cans are to be thrown away when emptied, thus eliminating the nuisance and expense of returning and shipping empty bottles.

FAVORITE RECIPE OF THREE GENERATIONS

There is something intriguing about family recipes, usually found in graying recipe books, in the hands of a grandmother, or a great-grandmother. The recipe for mince-meat given below, submitted by Mrs. Alice Wood Egbert to the Better Homes and Gardens "Tasting-Test" Kitchen, was her mother's. Mrs. Wood's recipe will be especially welcome to modern homemakers, brides of a few years, or over a few months, who may not have acquired those "other generation" recipes. It will gladden the dearest course of a Thanksgiving or Christmas dinner.

- 1 pound of raisins
- 1/2 pound of currants
- 1 pound of apples, pared, cored and chopped
- 2 pounds of meat, ground or chopped
- 1 pound of sugar
- 1/2 pound of salt
- 1/2 cup of fine orange, lemon and citron
- 1 tablespoonful of mixed spice (cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg)
- 2 drops of almond extract
- 1/2 cup of juice of 2 large lemons
- 1/2 cup of oil

SUPER OYSTER STEW

Do you know how to make your oyster stew "super" in flavor? The secret is, cooking the oysters lightly in butter first, and then adding them to the steamed milk. For 12 pint oysters, scald a quart of milk in a double boiler. Drain oysters for bits of shell, drain liquor from oysters. Melt 3 tablespoons of butter in a frying pan, add oysters. Cook 10 to 15 minutes until the edges of the oysters are curled, being careful not to burn the butter or the oysters. To the milk add salt and pepper and the butter and oysters. Cook together over low heat for 5 minutes, to permit the oyster flavor to permeate the milk. Let stand 10 or 15 minutes in the double boiler before serving. Serve with oysterettes or other crisp crackers.

TOMATOES give

that TOUCH

THE soul of a salad was said by a French chef to be a touch of garlic, but the true salad-lover knows that the touch is a touch to them, either as the main part or as an ingredient of the dressing, which can be obtained in no other way. Take, for instance, brains of lettuce with this "household friend dressing": Mix together one cup mayonnaise, three tablespoons canned tomatoes, one tablespoon chopped green pepper and ten chopped olives.

It is the tomato in this combination that gives it its individual taste. In the following pear and tomato salad, too, the tomatoes give the dish a distinct and delicious flavor which it would not have without them. Pear and Tomato Salad: Slice ripe, chilled tomatoes, and slice one slice in each of eight individual nests of lettuce. Place half a pear from a No. 2 can on top of each, cut side up. Mix one cream-sauce with three tablespoons chili sauce, and pile in the pear cavities. Garnish with strips of canned pimiento and serve with either mayonnaise or French dressing. Serves eight.

Makes Mold Delicous

Mint and Cucumber Mold: Soften one tablespoon gelatin in two tablespoons water and scatter in one cup of boiling-canned tomato juice. Add one teaspoon lemon juice and salt and pepper to taste. When cool and beginning to thicken, add one-half cup mayonnaise, two cups finely cut meat, one cup diced cucumbers and two tablespoons chopped pickle relish. The meat may be one cup ham plus one cup chicken (or contents of a boucane chicken) or equal quantities of chicken and veal, ham and veal or any such combination. Pour into wet oiled mold and chill. Turn out onto platter and garnish as desired. Serve in slices. Serves eight.

Perpetual Open House Is Dream Of Many Hostesses

Most people who own a home wish they could keep perpetual "open house." Though people of moderate and small incomes can seldom enjoy this luxury, a well-stocked refrigerator and a "travels" chest for emergency meals will carry anyone a long way toward easy, informal hospitality.

Some hostesses are gifted with a magic sense of knowing what people like to eat, how they like to eat it, and how to prepare it speedily as suits an occasion. These are called "scissors," such as crabmeat, shrimp, tuna fish, salmon, chicken, chicken loaf, tomato soup, sliced meat and sausages, this luxury, a well-stocked refrigerator and a "travels" chest for emergency meals will carry anyone a long way toward easy, informal hospitality.

MISSING MOMENTS

Cartidges. Where are they? Missing! Nothing can take the place of cartidges in a spot like this!

FACING a cup of coffee that has something missing in flavor, day after day, is a predicament that too many people are experiencing.

Perhaps you are enduring this situation and wondering why the coffee you use never seems to taste right, regardless of your care in making it. Nothing can take the place of flavor in coffee.

When your coffee turns up in the cup with something missing in flavor, it is because something was overlooked in the blend, or the roast, or the grind, or the pack, or all four. And since all the care you take in making the coffee won't correct the trouble, the thing to do is change to Hills Bros. Coffee. It is a never-changing BLEND of the finest coffees grown. This blend is roasted by an exclusive process—

CONTROLLED ROASTING—that insures uniform flavor in every pound. This rich, matchless flavor is completely protected by Hills Bros. VACUUM PACK. And the GRIND of Hills Bros. Coffee gives perfect results in any coffee-making utensil.

Five meals a day, by no greater state of food, are recommended by Howard W. Henshaw, M. D., and Leon A. Greenberg, Ph. How about the physical efficiency and industrial productivity of the housewife who has to prepare them? Ready-to-serve canned foods might help her a bit but think of the dish-washing.

SO SIMPLE - JUNIOR MISS CAN MAKE THIS SCHOOL FROCK HERSELF
PATTERN 2514
By Anne Adams
Some afternoon after school find your "young hopeful" down-town and help her select a pretty wearable chaffis or wool-applique cotton in her most becoming color. This school frock she's been wanting to make. This is an adorable pattern, and one that will be easy for her to follow with her Anne Adams instruction, as a Sewing Guide, even though she may need a little help when it comes to fitting. It's a young, easy yoke that cut in one with the bodice panel, and an action-lying skirt that approximates the center panel pleats. There are long sleeves, too, for warmth, but they can easily be shortened in the Spring.

Undraped Greek Art Shocks Amoy

Chinese Moralists Force Owner To Clothe Classic Statues

"Before and after" photographs of what moralists in Amoy, China, decried as proper for a street exhibition of classical Greek art: The goddesses at their work—Japanese kimono—white as cloth. Parsian truck hides the charms of the other.

AMOIY, China (AP)—What was art to a street Greece, is plain indecency to this south China city. And that, briefly, is why Amoy has put clothes on its two centuries of Greek statuary. The undraped female figures were brought here from Europe several years ago by a wealthy merchant who wished to contribute to the cultural fame of his town. He kept them behind the high walls of his estate and no one complained. But recently the statues were sold to a photographer. The new owner saw in them a splendid opportunity to advertise his business and set them up at the entrance of his shop. Great crowds gathered to stare at the classical forms, the like of which had never been seen in this part of China. Then Amoy's moralists got busy. They decided, were they not flagrant violators of the code of decency promulgated by General Chiang Kai-Shek's new-life movement. The photographer was warned that unless he removed his statues or put clothes on them he would be prosecuted. So today one of the marble pairs wears a Japanese kimono and the other is covered from neck to knees by a dainty orange frock of Paris cut. The transformation is highly satisfactory to the guardians of civic morality. The photographer, too, is content, for in their changed status the Greek goddesses draw bigger crowds than before.

JENKINS SHOWS NEW 1936 CHEVROLET CARS

Initial showing of the new 1936 Chevrolet cars by the Slatkin Implement company of Twin Falls for $1568 on account of allegedly unpaid salary, secured judgment for $4000 in favor of Mr. Jenkins who reported that he already has ten of the new machines on the floor.

The showroom was prepared for the occasion yesterday and a large crowd is expected to view the machines during the initial day of showing. Shows today will be afternoon and afternoon meetings. The cars are in the standard car-lawn sedan, sport sedan and coupe.

These cars will be not only for display purposes, but for everyone interested in testing the performance and riding qualities of these new lines of cars. Mr. Jenkins said, "Due to the early start on Chevrolet production, we have cars on hand for immediate delivery and the assurance of prompt service on orders." Principal improvements on all of the new models are hydraulic brakes, solid steel turret top, no-draft ventilation, high compression valve-inlet engine and shockproof steering. Kneec action can be obtained on motor models.

JURY AWARD FOLLOWS LENGTHY COMPUTATION

A former employe, F. L. Davis, who sued the Slatkin Implement company of Twin Falls for $1568 on account of allegedly unpaid salary, secured judgment for $4000 in favor of Mr. Jenkins who reported that he already has ten of the new machines on the floor.

In evidence, by agreement of both sides, was the report of an audit of the Slatkin company's accounts made by H. C. Edmunds, Twin Falls public accountant.

In dispute was the amount of the Slatkin company's net earnings during a period beginning May 15, 1933, and ending June 1, 1934, during which Davis was to have been paid on a profit sharing basis. The Slatkin company alleged that Davis had been paid in full, except for $2476, which amount was tendered to the court.

POCATELLO WARS ON SCARLET FEVER

Seven New Cases Bring Total Under Quarantine

POCATELLO, Nov. 1 (AP)—With seven new cases under quarantine today, physicians of this city quipped themselves for what they termed a "battle to the finish" against the spread of the dread scarlet fever, a disease which is sweeping this section.

The seven new cases reported by Pocatello brought the total number under quarantine here up to 32, with one death occurring during the week. Although a majority of the cases are said to be of a light nature, city and county physicians, issued a direct warning to citizens that all quarantine laws must be obeyed and extra precautions taken regarding the habits of children to prevent the spread of the disease to be stopped. A meeting of all physicians, called Thursday night by Dr. H. H. Huchard, chief county physician, discussed methods which will be used in the united attack.

Pocatello, a community north of Pocatello, and Inkom, south of this city, report "over 25 cases under quarantine" in their communities. The school at Inkom has been closed since Wednesday after several of the students became ill during their classes.

Rigid morning inspection has been ordered at the Pocatello schools and also the school at Tylers, Teachers, under the direction of Hazel Dobson, district nurse, are being urged to tell parents to keep their children at home "should the least symptoms of the disease be noted."

By witnesses after trial opened in the district court here yesterday in a suit brought by E. V. Molerander against the estate of James McClinton, who was killed in the collision. Both trucks were damaged and their respective drivers, Molerander and McClinton, were both injured in the collision, according to pleadings in the case.

Awarded Carnegie Medal

(Continued From Page One) after Martin went down. The commission gave the medal to Martin's widow along with a pension. Miss Stewart tried to save Emily McDougall, 31, from drowning in the ocean near Bar Harbor, Maine, on August 2, 1934. The two were standing on a rock with Edna Conroy of Cambridge, Massachusetts, when a wave swept Miss McDougall into the sea. Miss Stewart, fully clothed, jumped into the water. Forty minutes later rescuers pulled both in with a rope. Miss McDougall was dead. Miss Conroy, who also dived in and was rescued after ten minutes, received a bronze medal.

The commission awarded nine pensions. Five of them, totaling $110 a year, went to the dependents of five men who died in heroic acts. Parents of two other victims and the children of another received sums aggregating $500 to be applied as the commission sees fit. The awards in 14 cases carried $700 for educational purposes and in 23 others the commission provided $17,260 for purchasing of homes for other worthy purposes.

Pennsylvania, with nine heroes, led the list of states. Awards were made to residents of 17 other states and Canada.

SYNOPSIS: If Anna Farnsworth had been legally adopted by her "parents" would her father have had their large fortune. As it worked out however, Anna's relationship with her father was not the Farnsworth's sudden death. She is now with the family of her old nurse, Teela Bork, in Union Falls. She is trying to find out who she really is, and what certain plans had been in Luke Farnsworth's mind when he was killed, which apparently has cut her father daughter out of any share in his wealth.

Chapter 24. DRILKERS AHEAD

Anna awakened early the next morning, but even then found the two older boys just leaving, and with them John Neuman.

"Nikki," he said, "will you run up to the kitchen and get me a moment to my mother. They climbed the stairway, to stand at the top of the wall, watching about them, tanning the first rays of the sun, and the other two, following clouds until they floated along the horizon like balloons."

"I forgot to tell you I'd stored your things in our basement, and sent the truck on to Portland. I managed to have more room than Teela, and I knew the house wasn't ready for them yet."

"That was nice of you," Anna assured him and waited. He hadn't called her up to tell her just this.

"Nikki," I talked to the fishermen last night. I don't like to bother you so soon, but do you happen to know whether Luke Farnsworth reached a decision on the fish trap yet?"

Anna was able to answer this promptly. "As far as he was concerned, the fish trap was made."

He didn't know until he reached Astoria, that there was a change in his method of running things."

"He talked to Uncle Leo, Tom Parley and Rob pretty straight. He said he'd always kept faith with the men who'd worked with him, and always would. Why, what has happened?"

"I believe he returned the morning before you came here."

Anna nodded, and a sharp pain cut through her at the mention of the day of his return, proving she was still able to suffer at mention of his name.

"He said he was now in charge of things and he intended running them as they had been run, whether whoever brought his load to the weigh-in first would make the sale, trap or fishermen."

"I don't see the men they're forced to wait until the trap buyers are cleared, even though the fishermen are there first."

"It wasn't matter so much now, as the cannery can run everything brought in, but with a good run in the public market."

"But John," Anna seemed as unconcerned as calling him by his first name as she always had done with Nikki. "Knowing this so far in advance, can't they sell to other canneries?"

"That isn't so easy. We've more fishermen than necessary, about like every other line of business. Of course the cannery is more controlled by the government, but even that, without proper distribution of some fishing gear, some canneries, some fishermen would have to suffer."

"Naturally none of the men working to buy your fish are going to step out and give the old Farnsworth fishers their place."

Suddenly Anna remembered the letter from Judge Kellogg. He said there had been something in the will concerning the fish trap. Surely with Luke's view of the subject, it would have been an order to give the fishermen preference.

"John," she said, "let them to rest easy. Don't you see, Rob thought he was going to control the fish for me—and that was what gave him the authority he used on that trip. Since then he has learned that Luke is in charge, and Uncle Leo is working under Luke's orders left by father, by written."

"Yes, and he answered, and I wish, would either happen before I leave for Alaska, or hold up until I return. The fishermen will be the next to suffer because they have no legal right to interfere."

"Then you don't believe they're being treated fairly?"

"John looked down at her. 'Knowing them, Nikki, I'm afraid that unless there is a party which they're defying these instructions, they'll ignore them. Lee will be willing to take the word of the other two men and he'll struggle his shoulders and twist his hands out palms up.'

"I wonder," Anna mused. "I wonder if Luke anticipated trouble with Rob Crocker, before his death?"

"I wonder, that, too, well."

most happy, or that brother of mine will find me. I hope I'll find you. I was shocked, and was glad to help with the house."

"That's nice of you," Anna answered, wishing he would tell her the Farnsworth's sudden death. She then looked up at him and smiled. "Only, I'm afraid I'm having to depend upon you too much, John."

John, who had started down the steps, paused and looked back. "Not too much to please me, Nikki. I'm pleased that you're dealing with me as a friend."

"Rob and Tom would invent a new kind of fishtrap to beat us out of them," she chuckled, and was glad to learn she could laugh at the men who had caused her so much heartache. The laugh brought her the confusion his words had brought her.

She stood awhile, looking down at the tall figure in sweater and high boots, and then she stepped down until the figure had crossed the highway, walked down the wharves and disappeared over the side."

Anna opened the morning writing to Judge Kellogg. She sent him a signed check about seventy times, to withdraw the money from her bank and deposit in another under the name of Nikki Nielsen, enclosing the check and a signed letter in detail of her plans. Then asked him to please try to review the will, especially that part dealing with cannery operations."

Lila returned from town soon after lunch with samples of everything from wall paper to roof paint, and Anna, surprised at her sudden interest, forgot the past for several blissful hours.

Together they went to the old house, and looked up with their own key and looked upon it with possessive eyes. This they would do, and this, they would be paid in full to brighten the many grey days. The windows would be curtained in dull plaid crash. The kitchen would be done in yellow and black. Anna chose pale blue and silver for her room and Lila, after changing her mind several times, decided upon a paper that carried the entire solar spectrum.

"With plain green net window curtains, thought. I'll probably give it a job."

But cleaning came first, to make way for the house-raising next day. This was a new experience to Anna, and by sundown she discovered an amazing number of muscades she hadn't realized she possessed.

"The trap will be out of the arch," Lila prophesied as she made ready to go to the Panhandle with her car, with a basket containing a feather, soap, soap powder and fresh clothing.

Arm in arm they started down the stairs, and Lila, looking at the house, who had stayed close to the house since her arrival, there was a feeling of adventure in going to the Union Town. There was little danger of meeting anyone she knew, or of anyone recognizing the carry-

GRANGERS DEMAND AMERICAN MARKET

Idaho Farmers' Organization Raps Importation of Products

Idaho's Grangers are insistent upon maintenance of the home market for American producers, they declared in resolutions adopted at annual meeting of the Idaho State Grange which concluded four-day sessions here at 2:30 a. m. yesterday morning.

The state grange's executive committee yesterday called for a mass of adopted resolutions that gave expression to Idaho Grangers' views on a wide range of subjects and issues, and last evening made public the text of more than two score of these declarations.

Incorporated in the adopted declaration for maintenance of the American market and opposition to importation of foreign farm products was the thought expressed in resolutions proposed by a dozen or more of members and subordinate granges. It called for legislation to "restore the home market to the American farmer" and prohibit importation of "foreign farm products from those countries where they are produced with low-priced labor and under inferior living conditions."

Demands Tax Relief

In the national field the state grange also urged support for the policy of taking marginal lands out of production, urged congress to fix a maximum rate of interest on federal farm loans at 4 1/2 per cent, and recommended government payment for public works and relief programs by issuing non-interest-bearing treasury notes to be retired at a given rate per year.

It opposed the adding of tax burdens by the adding of new sources of revenue and called upon federal, state and county administrations and local taxing units to immediately reduce the unbearable load of taxation now engulfing us.

Dealing with state taxes, the Grange declared its opposition to calling a special session of the legislature to authorize tax increases "for any other purpose at this time" and instructed Grange executives to "do everything possible" to provide an "emergency" fund to enable people to vote on the sales tax at the next general election. It recommended also the submission at an election of two proposed amendments to the state constitution, defeated in the senate at the last session, which would advance public power development in the state.

Challenges Land Concentration

It called for "appropriate laws or resolutions" to prevent further concentration of farm lands in the hands of mortgage companies and banks; declared for a state-wide school tax and demanded reformation of "as large a proportion of available gas tax money as possible" in building farm-to-market roads.

Recommended by the master's address committee to the committee on division of labor for study and report were these subjects: Columbia Valley Authority, bipartisan fish and game control, sales tax in emergency clause, revenue measures, and proposed Grange old people's home.

In Agriculture's Realm

Among resolutions in the realm of agriculture were those that recommended federal agricultural manufacturers to keep surplus materials provided they can be thus manufactured at a lower cost, called for study of the possibility and effect on agriculture of a plan for converting surplus products into alcohol to be used as a blend in motor fuel; declared for a continuation of work on a supplemental water supply for the Boise project and urged the state to take "more active measures in the control and stamping out" of epidemics in horses, and called for at least partial reimbursement for farmers' losses in the campaign against this disease.

A resolution submitted by the taxation committee endorsed the National Grange declaration for use by the president of powers conferred by congress to bring about a rise in the commodity price level through controlled expansion of the currency.

Financial Program

Other resolutions, endorsed by the committee on banks and banking urged congress to establish a "United States governmentally owned, controlled and operated bank of issue with complete control over the issuance and volume of both currency and credit" as "the first basic step in the elimination of currency difficulties and permanent prosperity for the wealth producers of the nation."

The Grange endorsed government guarantee of bank deposits as a permanent policy, and solicited continued support by Idaho's congressional delegation for the Granger Lemke bill for re-liquidating of farm mortgages.

Resolutions bearing endorsement of the transportation committee recommended early development of the Snake-Columbia waterways to provide low cost transportation from Lewiston to Idaho; opposed legislative permits to "create companies" to operate this waterway; commended Union Pacific on its reduction of passenger and dining car rates, and denominated a commendable reduction in freight rates.

BAPTISTS OBSERVE CHURCH FOUNDING

Pageant Written by Pastor Included on Calendar for Homecoming

Observing the organization of the First Baptist church of Twin Falls in 1905, a Homecoming celebration will be held tomorrow at the church commencing with a special sermon at the morning service by Rev. R. E. Bennett, pastor. A number of former residents of Twin Falls, now living elsewhere, have indicated their plans to attend the day's activities.

A pageant, written by Rev. Bennett, entitled "The Ajar and the Flame," depicting the growth of the church, will be presented at 7 o'clock. The large cast of characters has been directed by Mrs. George W. Fisher. The public is invited to attend.

Following the morning service a buffet dinner will be served at 11:30 a. m. at the church. Arrangements for the dinner.

At an informal meeting in the afternoon at 7:30 o'clock, messages from former pastors and members of the church, will be read.

GIESE RETURNS FROM EARTHQUAKE REGION

"Tough" to describe and together to experience was the earthquake at Helena, Montana, Thursday, Frank Giese, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Giese, said last night, following his return from Carroll college, located in the suburbs of the quake-shattered city.

"The first severe shock, lasting 15 seconds, tore to pieces the chimney on the five-story building which houses Carroll college; ripped away approximately a third of the walls, and severely damaged the plastering in all the rooms.

By 8:30 a. m. the last of the 150 students attending the college were out of the city and on the way to their homes, carrying out orders of the president of the school. Packing belongings and dashing for buses added to the confusion of the shock which occurred every ten or 15 minutes, according to Giese.

"Automobiles were dashed in every direction. Cars would drive up to a service station, the driver would head the attendant a $5 bill, and speed on without waiting for change. It was a case of everybody out of the city in the soonest possible time."

MRS. SWEETLEY LAID AT REST IN ILLINOIS

The body of Mrs. Geneva Sweetley, wife of former state senator M. J. Sweetley, will be laid at rest today in the family plot in the cemetery at Albany, Illinois, beside the bodies of her parents and first husband, Harry Lewis. The body was accompanied to Cheyenne, Wyoming, by Mr. Sweetley and from there to Illinois by her brother, Rev. L. V. Slomum, Kimball, Nebraska.

Services in charge of Christian Scientists were held at the White mortuary chapel Thursday morning. Services were largely attended by members of the Ladies and Professional Women's club, the Magdalen club and other quantities of floral tributes bore messages of the esteem in which Mrs. Sweetley was regarded.

"Willon Peck sang 'O Gentle Presence' and 'O Love, Our Mother Ever Near."

Mrs. Sweetley had been a resident of Twin Falls since 1907. She was an official of the Christian Science church; sponsor of the Magdalen club, and prominent in the B.P.W. club. Her death came suddenly last Tuesday evening while she was attending a party for the club which she sponsored.
