Corn Justifies Name As "Thanksgiving Vegetable"

Grain Which Kept Puritans From Starvation Still Appreciated

Is it any wonder that corn, which saved the first settlers in the Americas from starvation and helped the pioneers in the struggle to push westward, is usually included as one of the most popular vegetables on the Thanksgiving table? Along with their study of the Puritans and the Indians and the First Thanksgiving, school children are at this season studying the history of corn, one of the most important gifts to mankind of the New World, and homemakers are pondering how to serve it to their families.

The kind of corn Columbus found was developed from a wild grasslike plant by generations of cultivation. It was a crop which had to be harvested, stored and cooked for use. In all this work the Indian woman took the leading role. It was from the squaw that the Puritan woman learned the proper preparation of the corn.

Squaws Originated Recipes
Like women everywhere, the squaw did their own thing and ate together with enough to eat. She put some imagination into the job and had many recipes for cooking corn to pass on to the pioneer. While woman who fed her family with this unutilized grain. The Indians, however, Columbus found made ash cakes or nokaie, the fore-runner of the Johnny or Johnny cake. There were corn puddings or porridges, corn dumplings, corn waffles, corn pudding with maple syrup; parched corn with an Indian name that sounded like "pumpkin" to the English settlers; samp made by removing the hulls of corn by soaking in ash water in a weak (re solution); beverage of ground, parched corn sweetened with honey or maple syrup. The Zuni of Apache Indians was making the first maple candies before the White man came.

Most romantic of all the Hopi tribes had their corn flaked and fried beyond the imagination of modern manufacturers. These were the "popcorn" of the Hopi, made in the brilliant red, yellow, blue-black or white of native corn or dyed with vegetable colorings to a deep orange or a vivid purple.

These early corn-invented labor-saving devices which were ingenious but still left cooking in the hands of hard manual labor. For instance

COOKIE JAR SWEETS PART OF CHILDHOOD

The cookie jar, filled to the top with delicious sweets, still holds pleasant memories for many of us. It seems to belong to our childhood days when, after school was out, we dashed to the pantry for a favorite cookie to munch on.

In the butter cookie recipes which follow butter is used for shortening because of its delicious flavor and good value. Butter cookies do not only appeal to the appetite, but they give the most favorable conditions for digestion.

Chocolate Drop Cookies

- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup butter
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1/2 square bitter chocolate
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 tablespoons milk

Combine like "bain butter" cookies. Add the cooled melted chocolate just after the egg has been added. Dip small balls of dough into slightly beaten egg white. Roll in granulated sugar. Place on buttered baking sheet, press a half-cent or blanched almond in each center and bake at 350 degrees F.

Ice Box Butter Cookies

- 1 pound butter
- 1 1/2 cups granulated sugar
- 1 1/2 cups light brown sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup of lard
- 1 cup broken pecan meats
- 1 level teaspoon soda
- 6 cups flour
- 2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream together, drop in eggs, mix, then add lemon juice, vanilla, flour sifted with soda and cinnamon, then nuts. Work together with hands. Divide dough in half, place each half in loaf bread pan lined with paraffin paper, pat down carefully. Place in ice box to get hard. When ready to bake, have oven hot, (as for quick bread). Cut dough in pan in half lengthwise. Take large, sharp knife, and cut across dough as thin as possible, placing CAREFULLY on cookie pan 1/2 inch apart. The thinnest ones bake quickest—take these off with spatula. Keep dough cold because it is difficult to cut it when soft. These cakes are very crisp when done.

Hot Sandwiches For Sunday Night

Sunday night supper, though they need not be elaborate, should be substantial. There is nothing better for this occasion than hot ham sandwiches served with sliced pickles, or a tart salad. Directions for preparing the sandwiches are given below.

Hot Ham Sandwiches

Place slices of sliced ham between thin slices of bread. Cut in rectangular pieces and hold together with toothpicks. Beat 2 eggs slightly and add to them 1/2 cup cream or milk. Dip the sandwiches into this and fry in hot fat (350 degrees F.) until nicely browned. Remove the toothpicks to serve.

THIS VEGETABLE DISH GOES WITH VENISON

Are you an onion eater? Then you'll prize baked onions with shiitake. Especially good with venison, pheasant or duck, you will discover.

Cut one and one-half pounds of sweet shiitake onions in thin slices crosswise and soak in cold water 15 minutes to eliminate the strong flavor. Add hot water and let come to boil. Drain. Boil in salted water about 10 minutes, until tender. One and one-half teaspoons salt is about right.

Melt 3 tablespoons butter in frying pan and sauté onions until they are well-coated with butter. Add 1 1/2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce; turn into a greased glass pie plate. Sprinkle with 1/2 cup soft bread crumbs and 1/2 cup dried American cheese. Bake 15 minutes in hot oven, about 400 degrees, till cheese is melted and "crumbs" are brown. This recipe serves six.

MISSING MOMENTS

If THERE is something missing in the flavor of the coffee you buy, all the tricky recipes and myriadic coffee-making appliances in the world can't cause what's missing to "appear" in the cup.

Nothing can take the place of flavor in coffee. And coffee that has something missing in flavor had something missing during the blending, roasting, grinding or packing processes. Since no coffee-making magic will restore this missing goodness, the thing you should do is change to Hills Bros. Coffee.

It is a never-changing BLEND of the finest coffees grown. This blend is roasted by an exclusive

PROCESS—CONTROLLED ROASTING—that insures uniform flavor in every pound. This rich, matchless flavor is completely protected by Hills Bros. VACUUM PACK. And the GRIND of Hills Bros. Coffee gives perfect results in any coffee-making utensil.

Enough of It: The Student League for Industrial Democracy appears to be the name adopted by a group of students of the Southern Branch of the University of Idaho at Pocatello.

Because of this fact announcement is made by the school authorities that no further addresses by League sponsored speakers will be permitted on the campus. As a result Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, who was scheduled for an address, is barred from speaking.

Norman Thomas is not an avowed Communist although he is the leading intellectual among the Socialists. When he ran against President Roosevelt he stood upon a platform of pure Socialism and although he polled comparatively few votes he has lived to see many of the major premises of his platform enacted into law by the party of President Roosevelt. He has never been regarded as a radical and the fact that so large a part of his program has been adopted by the Democratic party would seem to indicate that his views are regarded as in no sense dangerous by government. To bar him from addressing a public assemblage while at the same time endorsing his views by adopting so large a part of his program smacks somewhat of inconsistency.

A very fine point is involved in the question as to whether it is better to suppress that type of speech which advocates the establishment of a form of government—albeit in violation of the Constitution or to permit full and free discussion in the hope that the native common sense of a majority will operate to destroy any possibility of the adoption of the views expressed.

The great majority of the American people have not earthly use for Communism while the Socialistic program has been decisively turned down in every election in which it has been an issue. And at the same time the United States is moving steadily in the direction of applied Socialism.

SQUARING ACCOUNTS: Celebrating King Victor Emmanuel's birthday, which came on Armistice Day, Premier Mussolini was more belligerent than would be expected on that festival.

With all their weapons, and especially with their spirit, are ready to defend Italy's interests in Europe, Africa or anywhere else. In one month we have squared two old accounts (meaning the historic defeats at Adua and Makale) and the remainder will be settled later.

There was nothing said about squaring accounts at home. The Italian budget, unbalanced for several years, is now in worse shape than ever, with war expenses soaring and export trade almost stifled by the League of Nations embargo. He would like to square this League account, too, but he cannot do it to half a hundred civilized nations what he does to the Abyssinians.

AUSTRIAN STRONG MAN: From Austria's position, sandwiched in between two big powers, Germany and Italy, each ruled by an ambitious Fascist dictator, that little remnant of the old Austro-Hungerian Empire looks as if it would make just about one bite for either neighbor. But probably neither Hitler nor Mussolini will rule at Vienna while this handsome young Prince von Starbemberg is on the job, even though Hitler may presume on the fact that "bierball punch" is 1933.

The Prince is a blue-blood if there are any in Europe. He owns thirty-six castles and his royal lineage goes back unbroken for eight hundred years. He appeared as a strong man, defending Austrian freedom against German Nazis, at the time of the assassination of Dollfus, two years ago. He showed his metal and purpose more clearly in the recent bloodless purge of the government at Vienna, when as vice chancellor and leader of the Home Guard he proclaimed:

"Undisciplined and pusillanimous grumblers and such who think of their own profit and personal ambitions had better quit before I expel them. I am the person who will decide what political line the Heimwehr will follow. It is for me to say to those at which we have turned our backs toward our aim. I know what that aim is, and how and when it should be reached."

Austria will continue Fascist, but it will be the Starbemberg brand of Fascism. And before he gets through, Austria may be a monarchy again—small, but ambitious to expand to something like its old dimensions.

TOURISTS BIG SPENDERS

(Salmon Recorder) According to Montana's first tourist traffic industry survey, conducted by the state highway commission, there were 1,205,000 automobile visitors to the Treasure state during the summer. They spent more than 25 millions of dollars inside its borders, which is more than one-third of Montana's entire investment in the state.

From the standpoint of publicity, Idaho is dormant. In the east practically nothing is known of the wonderful beauties of the Gem state as a recreational center. As a Chicago woman in a feature article in the current issue of the Bolte Statesman said: "All that people in the east know about Idaho is Senator Borah and the Idaho potato."

Idaho is losing millions of dollars annually by failing to nationally advertise the natural wonders of this state. The beautiful lakes and forests in the northern and southern mountain ranges, the Snake river country with its millions of acres of mountain country, the Stanley basin with its picturesque lakes and the grandeur of the Sawtooth mountains, in the background; the amazing volcanic formations of the Craters of the Moon, send many other attractions that this state possesses of the Gem state as a recreational center.

THE PUBLIC SHOULD KNOW (Idaho Falls Post-Register) The decision of the Texas court of criminal appeals that newspapers have a right to publish court trial proceedings is a welcome reaffirmation of the right to a free press.

It is possible to admit that the judge's fears of the effects of publicity on the later trials may have been justified, and at the same time to insist that this is not a valid reason for a larger principle.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Everyone now and then should mugger by from the deep fathoms of a slumber between the hours of 4 and 5 a. m. It is the climactic hour when a slumber seems to pause as though awaiting some sudden, bewildering stimulus. The slumberer is poised to plunge or go on.

Hospitals recognize it and nurses become especially tippy. It is the hour when the slender coils of life often snap. The hour when the city grows restless from the slow melody of the muffled jazz. The hour when night throws off its shadowy cloak to become another day.

Nothing seems portentous. One is not aware of a word-chaucery and a word being born. No column is so exquisite as that sustaining slumber of an approaching day. The slumberer is poised to plunge or go on.

It is a cruel cloud that ordinarily would pass unnoted took on the quality of wonder, changing from sea to sea water green to brilliant pink in a cliffing burst of splendor to the blood-red poppy. A melodic note of a polka-dotted paper that is the sun.

Facing incidents. Faces. Drifting in out of the past in arabesque array. The crumpled at the Monte Carlo Sporting Club, a Chicago newsboy who knew Dick Ritter, so long chronicler of his spirit against a blue sweep of ocean. And Broadway, the seat of rurs, gleaming white like the creatrix of an ancient and homage a schillidrug addict.

And swirling across from some forgotten attitude a dinner at Tony Fausst's in St. Louis. And Lillian Russell, on tour, in a sweep-of-mink.

Woman Held In Doctor's Slaying

Guiding Your Child

FALSE PRIDE: "But why not take him to the clinic on the next block, or to the dispensary at the hospital on 'Y' street?" Mrs. Jones had been listening to Mrs. Brown's description of the Brown baby's symptoms. They were quite serious enough to warrant medical attention and probably a specialist's care, but Mrs. Brown, while worried and anxious, was not doing anything about it.

There was no money for doctors, let alone specialists in the Brown household. But to get free medical advice they felt was beneath their dignity. That was accepting charity, and they would let their child suffer or even die rather than lower their pride.

Of course they rationalized that. "You never get something for nothing. These free places don't really give you any attention. They keep you standing in line for hours and then barely look at you when your turn comes."

The clinics are over-crowded, the staff over-worked. As to waiting lines—the poorest patient with an appointment made days before with a high priced specialist, may have to wait for two hours in a doctor's office. Of course he has an easy chair and magazines to read, but he cannot hurry a doctor. No one can be sure how long a case may take.

As to the quality of the treatment, there are better clinics and worse, just as the ability of doctors and all professional men varies. Taken by and large, however, the public-apprised men who serve in these free clinics and dispensaries are giving

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

(NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS) (Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

WASHINGTON (Editorial will be in a position when SUCCESS. Liqueur happens to be the inspiration for the radiant smile on Henry Morgenthau's face these days. He is a busy man.

The Secretary of the Treasury has taken a lot of backhanded kidding for his handling of the liquor problem. Even President Roosevelt has jeered him now and then. Mr. Morgenthau was accused of a backhanded bootlegging by his refusal to lower foreign and domestic duties. He was charged with placing taxes on liquor behind the thirty reach of the poor man. Until Mr. Roosevelt muffled him, Mr. Morgenthau chose to go on audibly that the Morgenthau policy was New Mr. Morgenthau feels the way on the road to vindication. Prices of whiskey will be about 25 percent higher than they were in 1934. The government will be a surplus of 200,000,000 gallons of whiskey aging in its cellars by January 1. Morgenthau indicates he will collect $500,000,000 for the 1936 fiscal year. He insists he will eventually suppress illicit distillation of such a nature that the areas in the South where they were rampant of prohibition were in Carey Nation days.

RELIEF. Promise of an annual payment of a half-billion will be made to the southern and western Congressmen. Many traditional drags in the field for the southern and western Congressmen. President Roosevelt wanted it. But they warned Morgenthau, Morgenthau and Roosevelt that such a thing would be a disaster. It would be a disaster. They assuaged their constitutional feelings with the pledge that a bonus return would help to cut taxes and end the depression. Most of them mumbled the good sound figure of $500,000,000.

It was Mr. Morgenthau who slipped them their estimate of executive hearings on Capitol Hill. They had frequently reminded him of his responsibility for their political lives. Many of the southern and western states have shivered over the chances of making good. What made it worse is that Appropriation Chairman Buchanan of Texas, who has the drop on all Treasury requests for funds, took Mr. Morgenthau more than a little to task. He is still doing anything about it.

PRESSURE. In dumping the relief problems on cities, counties and states, Harry Hopkins has been trying to dig himself out of a hole. He is not a man who is used to being so much alone in the ground. If it happened so that the administration decided to shift the burden to states at a time when most legislatures are not in session. The problem of responsibility is shifted by which states can profit, the extra funds needed to feed and clothe the hungry. The Commission call special sessions. Warrent workers throughout the nation protested to the White House against the shifting of responsibility. The communication was pigeonholed.

Somebody's Harry's brown eyes, however. Some die in shifting gears may be due to natural difficulties. Mrs. March 4, announced the birth of a baby on August 15 as a gift from God in my time of distress. At that time the face of the baby was so much like my face that I was charged with which she was subsequently acquired. Miss Wart's baby was born August 17.

ENGINEERS ASK AID IN WATER SURVEYS

Association Convention at Salt Lake City Elects New Officers

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 10 (AP)—The Association of Western Engineers closed its annual convention here yesterday by electing Thomas M. McClure as Santa Fe, N. Mex., president, and adopting resolutions calling for federal aid in conducting water surveys and investigating possibilities of small reservoirs in arid states.

Tomorrow the engineers will turn their attention to annual meetings of the National Federation of Engineers to be held under the direction of Marshall N. Dana of Portland, Oregon, president.

Mr. McClure was elevated to the presidency, succeeding R. W. Park of Boise, Idaho, and J. S. James of Helena, Montana, was named vice president. T. Humphreys of Salt Lake City was named to the executive committee. The secretary will be appointed by the president.

Financial Aid Requested

The resolutions asking federal aid requested financial aid as well as administrative help. One resolution suggested a federal appropriation for research on the recharge, movement and natural discharge of ground water, while another urged that funds be set aside for geologic surveys in western states, extending to weather bureau service provided in mountainous areas as a means of controlling floods, and a larger appropriation for use in exploring and publishing water records.

The need for a supplemental water supply has become so urgent that irrigation projects with water supplies for lands now under irrigation, on which there are build-up good homes, schools, churches, utilities and roads that will have to be wholly or partially abandoned unless additional water is provided. The resolution asking a study of small reservoir projects declared:

FARM SECRETARY ARGUES FOR AAA

Wallace-Traces Move From Temporary to Permanent Adjustment

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP)—Food processors have a common interest with farmers in the adjustment of farm production to market needs, Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, told the Associated Grocers' Manufacturers of America yesterday.

"American agriculture, with or without federal guidance must adjust itself to a radically changed market and to the producing feature of which is a lessened opportunity to export," said Wallace at a luncheon.

"American farmers," he said, "must cease to produce for a market that has disappeared and must adjust their output to a market that exists or can be created. This necessarily applies equally to the food processors. Neither processors nor farmers can prosper unless working for a vanished market."

Shows Processors Benefit

Secretary Wallace said food processors will benefit as much as farmers from the AAA program, which he said would stabilize the "substantial factors of the world trade situation."

Food research is basic to the adjustment program, the secretary declared.

"We move from emergency to permanent adjustment, and correct the shortcomings that developed inevitably in the emergency stage, we shall draw more heavily than ever upon research," he said. "In the emergency period, with surplus removal the immediate aim, the government entered into contracts with farmers for flat percentage reduction. This method, though effective for the immediate end, tends to violate the canon of good farm practice, to freeze production in the accustomed mold—to discourage efficient management and to prevent desirable crop shifts. In permanent adjustment, which must allow for certain increases in production and for flexibility in cropping systems, much greater refinement is necessary."

Research Problem

"This permanent adjustment, he continued, is a problem of 'ecology of resources—particularly food research."

Science is the one means of solving our agricultural problems, Wallace declared, but the science required must bring together the findings of economics, political science and sociology, together with chemistry, physics and biology.

"The whole body of science must be fashioned into a working agricultural program, and the scientific progress must, to do us any good."

RELIEF LABOR FOR HARVEST REQUESTED

North Idaho Chamber of Commerce Speaks on Many Issues

WALLACE, Idaho, Nov. 15 (AP) - The North Idaho Chamber of Commerce urged revision of relief, distribution in this state to make labor available for harvest and cultural projects at the closing session of its winter meeting today.

Other resolutions included: Approval of a proposed state constitutional amendment regarding consolidation of scattered state-owned lands through exchange with the federal government; protest against retroactive trade agreements with other nations which will endanger interests of workers; resolution urging use of zinc and lead base paints by the state instead of metallic insecticides on highway bridges and guard rails.

New Deal Draws Fire
New deal policies drew criticism from a power company spokesman and a Grange leader today on the opening program of the session.

A. T. Taylor, chief of state, master of the Grange, county Pomona, Grange, criticized production control policies and the potato act.

He said the Grange endorsed the principle of high prices for farm products, but added "the organization never had approved the program of crop destruction. Turning of little pigs into fertilizer of the kind of brown does a means of bringing higher prices.

Revisits Reclamation
Taylor said Idaho farmers are opposed to the potato restriction and that North Idaho farmers have united in addressing the secretary of agriculture, this will refer to abide by it.

The farmer revisits reclamation, government snooping and regulation and company membership in crop allotment programs, Taylor said.

Frank T. Post, Spokane, president of the Washington Water Power company, charged the "new deal" are trying to seize the private power industry and substitute government ownership.

He said the government should sell its power to private companies who would pass on to the consumer any economy in production cost.

Florida Rushes New Construction, Preparing for Tourist 'Landslide'

By J. F. MCKENIGHT

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—You can ride this "Sunshine state" from one end to the other today, and everywhere there'll be signs for "1935" as the biggest season since 1929.

Several building, lending and other "boom" signs all Florida as new construction is pushed to completion, hotel and apartment managers make ready for expected holiday trade, and sports promoters plan programs to complement the season.

Last year, J. R. Sullivan, state hotel commissioner, estimated Florida had 1,500,000 winter visitors. Hotels and travel agencies predict this season's figure will be 15 to 20 per cent higher.

Backing up better in an unparalleled "rush" of tourists are food, furniture, and other "boom" signs. Sample—Indians are these:

8000 New Miami Units
Miami has added 8000 units representing an expenditure of almost $10,000,000, to the hotel and apartment facilities that came during the last 12 months for an estimated 1,250,000 visitors.

Miami Beach has issued nearly 40,000 permits for construction of new hotels, restaurants, and other buildings this year, more than in any year since 1925. Twenty hotels and 60 new apartment houses are being built.

The state hotel commission has issued permits for $4,000,000 of new hotel, apartment, resorting houses, and restaurant construction since January 1, though it estimates there are 70,000 hotel rooms now available.

The state examining board for real estate operators is believed to have announced it will limit the state to 4000 salesmen.

Transport Inquiries Increase
Passenger agencies for railway, steamship and airway lines report inquiries and reservations heavier than ever before, while chamber of commerce and advertising lines, Miami included, have announced inquiries double last year's.

Hotel receipts throughout the state are soaring as newspaper circulation and advertising sales. Yachmen, earlier than usual, are requesting arrangements for berth-one indication that Florida expects the biggest season since 1929. This winter is the remarkable increase in new construction. The works above are about building a cottage at Miami Beach where 20 hotels and 60 new apartment houses are going up. The beach scene below was taken at Miami Beach.

Commissioner Sullivan, who said "I think the coming winter season will be better than any we have had for many years—are so decided in 'bigger and better' than ever, and their expenditures of optimism.

EVIDENCE LACKING IN BOISE'S AUDIT

Prosecutor Finds Insufficient Basis for Action

BOISE, Nov. 15 (AP)—After studying the audit of Boise municipal records, recently completed for the 10 years ending in 1933, Willis Moffatt, Ada county prosecuting attorney, today announced that "it does not seem that there is sufficient evidence to prosecute."

"The auditors specifically stated that they did not wish to imply any complicity of any individuals with the city clerk in her defalcations," he recalled.

"The city clerk, Mrs. Angela Hopper, was removed approximately $100,000 of the city's money, which was charged. In the audit, it is now serving a sentence for embezzlement.

"Most of the other losses were caused by grossly incompetent mismanagement, which is not criminal negligence," Moffatt concluded.

The audit was recently accepted by the city council.

RECLAMATION DEMANDS PART-IN GOVERNMENT'S GENERAL LAND PROGRAM

For Broader Program

Mr. Dana's report as president included the recommendation, "that reclamation be fitted to a national and far-reaching national policy of water and land use. Further, he urged that the supporters of reclamation broaden their own view to consider the reclamation of land in relation to other factors of economic progress and the social advancement of the people, also that auxiliary agencies, whether federal, state or local in character, be fully re-evaluated. Here can be of maximum aid in forwarding a national program or may be re-organized or re-operatively helpful."

Dr. Gray declared "we are becoming increasingly aware that a single geographic or economic goal can benefit or suffer without a re-evaluation of the national economic life"—and added:

"To this rule reclamation policies no exception. Its eventual success will be measured by the minimum of reclamation. James C. Mear of Boise, Idaho, assistant engineer of the division of irrigation of the federal bureau of agricultural engineering, field of work in snow survey and stream flow measurement, Edward Hyatt, California state engineer, described the Central valley project—in California—first declared since 1914 of more than 200,000 acres of sub-marginal pasture lands will be purchased and that the actual irrigated acreage will be reduced by the project.

Albion's Light Team Captures Grid Title

South Siders Annex Championship By Defeating Glens Ferry, 6-0

Out of the south and unbeaten this year, the Albionites defeated the Ferry men at their own game after their spread passing attack was stoppied cold by the Ferry backfield. The tiny invaders plunged the line on every tangle with the powerful back and held the Ferry power attack at bay within the 30 yard zone.

Albion's big chance came in the fourth quarter when Newman, center, blocked a Ferry pass to Amendto. A pair of passes were in complete and a placekick failed. Glens Ferry took the ball on the 20 yard line.

LOCAL RED CROSS EXTENDS SERVICES

First Aid Stations Added to Chapter's Philanthropic Work

Since the organization of the Red Cross, its history has been one of outstanding gallantry both in spirit and in deed, and it is in relieving distress in time of war, but in its was organizing ability to meet emergency in the days of peace.

Everyone is familiar with the manner in which it has rallied when the forces of nature have created widespread disaster and the conservation of human souls and property has depended upon the resourcefulness of its admirable altruistic body and the expedition with which it could render assistance in the hour of need.

This year the American Red Cross has extended its services even further, adopting a program of farm first aid stations, and it is hoped that this will reach into the homes of citizens everywhere.

Extended First Aid

Twin Falls chapter, American Red Cross, will be one of 2,667 first aid stations in the United States to establish first aid stations in the home of every citizen of highway accidents, Mrs. D. L. Alexander, chapter chairman, stated. This year the chapter will extend its service to be established along highway 30 in this community, and service station attendants will be given courses in first aid. D. O. of the Idaho Power company, will be the instructor. The first aid stations will be established in homes of citizens and other equipment while awaiting the arrival of doctors or ambulances.

Locally the chapter contributes to the safety of our roads, and in addition to her school visitations conducts adult classes in home hygiene and first aid.

The chapter also maintains a lock-up at the Parish hall, in charge of Mrs. Ira Wynn, where bicyclists, motorists and other equipment are available to needy motorists, these may remain for the period of the emergency.

The Red Cross is one of many charity and character building organizations sharing in the Community Chest funds.

Downtown Twin Falls will take on a festive holiday appearance by December 1, when elaborately illuminated Christmas decorations will be installed in the business district, a special committee, with Charles Budrow as spokesman, reported to the board of directors of Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon meeting yesterday night at the offices of the chamber.

Illuminated modern lantern effects will be placed on each of the 69 lamp posts on the principal streets, and garlands of greenery will be suspended from 100 to 200 feet. The Twin Falls Self-Help organization has been awarded a contract for 2000 yards of evergreen festoons.

A giant modernistic tree, 18 feet high with a base 10 feet in diameter, fashioned of tops of greenery and branches of mixed colored lights, flashing on and off, will be suspended at the intersection of Main and Shoshone. The tree will be hung here at Twin Falls and Pocatello, died here late today.

Anyone having such items to donate to the camp is requested to notify the Chamber of Commerce.

SALVATION ARMY MEETS EMERGENCY

Agency Shares Responsibility of Transient Care and Other Services

Establishment of a relief kitchen, in conjunction with the Associated Charities, will be one of the major undertakings of the Salvation Army this winter, according to Adjutant J. J. Lilla. The Salvation Army receives funds for this and other social welfare work through the Community Chest. The kitchen will be operated for transients in an auditorium to keep them from panhandling on the streets, and the men will be required to work one hour in the community work yard for two meals and a place to sleep.

Reviewing the work of the agency locally, Adjutant Lilla stated, "This agency has done much work in visitation of hospitals and calling on the sick, has furnished clothing, food and necessities to those in need, and stressed moral work with young people, securing attendance at several thousand meetings throughout the year."

"Rescue work for young girls and mothers in trouble is an important part of the work. In the past two months four girls have been admitted to the home in Boise from Twin Falls county."

"One cold, windy day recently a family of four, the youngest child but four months old, came to the hall for relief. The children were crying with the cold. The Salvation Army gave them aid and sent them on their way. This is but one of the daily calls for assistance the organization receives."

Haller, secretary and treasurer. Fontaine Cooper, state traffic officer, addressed last evening's meeting, pointing out means for attainment of highway safety.

Miss Margaret Owens sang two solos.

A committee was named by the newly elected president to arrange a program for the coming year.

TWIN FALLS MOTORS TO SHOW NEW STUDEBAKERS

Twin Falls Motor, 254 Main avenue will today place on display the first of the new 1936 Studebaker cars to be shown in Twin Falls. Fred Devis, manager, announced last evening.

On the local dealers here this initial showing are three models of the new cars, a President, eight-cylinder, cruising sedan, and Dictator, six-cylinder, cruising sedan and coupe.

Stressed in the new Studebakers are features of beauty, comfort, economy, performance and safety.

"It's a floor car that the Studebakers which for eight years have held the record for reliability and endurance record from 10,000 to 30,000 miles," Mr. Devis said last evening.

Built like battleships, the new Studebakers have steel walls, steel floors, steel doors, and steel pillars. Heavy rivet machine work joints against heat, cold and noise. Feather touch hydraulic brakes give swift, smooth stopping. Low center of gravity with scientifically distributed weight makes it possible to tip a Studebaker to a 35 degree angle and it won't overturn and tip.

Styled by Helen Dryden of New York, the eye-catching new Studebakers are beautiful with a glowing harmony without a lovely melody within.
