

AAA EASES POTATO LAWS PROVISIONS

Automatic Tax - Free Allowment Increased to 50 Bushels

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP) - Merely to ease some of the drastic provisions of the new potato control law, the AAA has today announced a tax-free allowance from five to 50 bushels.

Mr. Hoover announced the national tax-exempt allowance of 50 bushels was approximately 200 bushels more than the national average potato sales from 1924 to 1934.

The law provides a tax of three-fourths of one cent on all potatoes sold in excess of the national allowance. Individual allotments are made from the national total. The act provided that farms which produce five bushels or less annually were exempt from the tax.

Under the new regulation, upon application, the grower automatically will receive a tax-free allowance of 50 bushels during the years 1935-36, up to 50 bushels. If a grower wishes to sell more than 50 bushels, he must apply for a sales agreement to be approved by county and state allotment committees.

POPE REBARS U. S. AS BUSINESS RIVAL

Senator Sees Rigid Regulation Or Government Competition

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho, Dec. 5 (P)—Congress may be forced to make government a competitor to private enterprise, the present apparent trend toward complete concentration of industrial control in a handful, Senator James P. Pope (D-Idaho) warned tonight.

Speaking to members of the bar association here, Senator Pope declared that since the obvious movement is toward centralized control "no stretch of the imagination is required to anticipate that one day congress may be faced with the alternative of rigidly regulating all business or competing with business to establish a yardstick of fair prices, practices and methods."

Turns on General Welfare
"In my opinion, the courts will, in the very near future, find it necessary either to sanction the government's business or to place limitations on legal rights and acquire powers of private industry," Mr. Pope asserted.

This sentiment has crystallized, he declared, because the trend in private finance during the past several years indicated "that by 1930 85 per cent of American corporate wealth will be dominated by giants entirely unmanageable or minority control."

Social Control Lags
"Social control has by no means kept abreast of industrial development and private industrialization of the capital structure," Mr. Pope said, pointing out that certain reforms in business and financial methods would serve to alleviate the condition in which we found ourselves.

"To bring about such reforms congress has to regulate business in some fashion, and be back to do so through regulation of private enterprise, and something is soon to find could not be done."

The result has been the gradual encroachment of congress in fields historically thought the province of individual or private achievement.

"Economic depressions can no longer be explained by the failure of individuals," Mr. Pope said. "Depressions now must be met by reorganization of business and industry, and congress must absorb the unemployed."

Reason for Regulation
The reason for business regulation by the government lies in the fact, he said, that in 1929, when the downward plunge to a very serious depression, there were 200 corporations practically dominating the American business structure, and with each of them "controlling by and through their having little or no property interests" in them.

Mr. Pope observed that "a few corporations have already been created by the government to provide standards for American business."

"Since the corporate structure of private enterprise seems to be definitely moving toward a complete concentration of industrial control, no stretch of the imagination is required to anticipate that one day congress may be faced with the alternative of rigidly regulating all business or competing with business to establish a yardstick of fair prices, practices and methods."

Metes Court Ruling
"In my opinion the courts will, in the very near future, find it necessary either to sanction the government in business or to relax its concepts of private property and contract rights."

"The entire question depends upon the construction of the constitutional power of congress to provide for the general welfare of the United States."

Congress is now acting upon direct competition as a method of meeting supreme court ruling that direct regulation of business is, for practical purposes, unconstitutional.

IF YOU'RE GIVING BOOKS—HERE'S A SUGGESTION LIST

BY JOHN SELBY
NEW YORK—Books pack so easily, and although unwrapped they sometimes tear even the best hung stockings, they always can be left unopened, on the floor.

For father, who can't get much out of this weather anyway, you might even Christmas with some of these: "It Can't Happen Here" (Sinclair Lewis) if he's not read it; "American Menials" or "Our Lords and Masters" (unofficial obscenity) if he likes smart comment on world affairs; Henry Elmer Barnes' "History of Western Civilization" if he's serious; "I Write as I Please" if he's interested in Russia.

For Mother, "Lions Stare at Naples" (John Fabricsius) if she likes laughing with a lump in her throat; "Europa" (Robert Briffault)

For Uncle Murgatroyd, who has a sense of humor, bigness, and likes to travel: "Life With Father," by Clarence Day, to show what might have happened to him had he married "Big" Mike; "Larry Barrett" to amuse him; "The Bear" (twice) by Horacewitz; "Bored Blades of Donagel" (Susan MacManis) for the days when they feel energetic, and it's raining.

For Bob and Betty who are very young: "The Turf-Cutter's Donkey" (Patricia Lynch) to teach them Ireland; "Adventures in Puddle Muddle" by Mary Graham Bonner and William Krollner, to amuse them; "The Bear" (twice) by Horacewitz; "Bored Blades of Donagel" (Susan MacManis) for the days when they feel energetic, and it's raining.

For Aunt Hepzibah, who's not so funny as her name: "A Few Polish Ones" by Gladys Hasty Carroll, since it is one of the best of this year's Maine novel crop; "Pleasant My Son" by John Erskine, because it will give her a new slant on the Bible; "The Deadly Deceit" by Edwin Greenwood, because it's funny; "Frenchie the First" (Francis Hackett) because... he's lecturing

Red Meat for Bill
For Big Brother Bill, who likes reasonably red meat: "We Are Beavers" (Vivian Fisher) for his intense mood; "Tortilla Flat" for his unbuttoned mood; "Personal History" (Vivian Fisher), to bring himself when young and maybe later; "Honey in the Horn" (H. L. Davis) for just any time.

For Sister Patricia, "King Lear and the Gilded Age" (Elizabeth Drexel Leitch) to show how little is "Society"; "A Musical Companion" (John Erskine) to prepare her for her symphony concert; "The Murder of My Aunt" (Richard Hull) to amuse her; "Vein of Iron" by Ellen Glasgow to show what a girl can do.

PHARAOH'S CURSE: A good deal of interest has been aroused and much speculation indulged in in connection with the death of Dr. James H. Brewster, noted Egyptologist, who years ago actively engaged in the opening and exploration of the tomb of the famed Tutankhamen.

PHARAOH'S CURSE (Continued): Seven of the scientists who participated in the work of entering and dismantling the tomb in nineteen hundred twenty-two have since died. None was particularly young at the time of death and there is little warrant for the thought that the end of any was in any manner hastened by the experience.

PHARAOH'S CURSE (Continued): Dr. Brewster died as a result of an infection following an attack of malaria fever, according to the verdict of his physicians, but there are those who cling to the curse theory as the cause of death and who are perfectly willing to admit that an infection was responsible, but the infection according to this was contracted during the handling of the contents of the tomb away back in nineteen hundred twenty-two.

PHARAOH'S CURSE (Continued): In this connection the following paragraph from Volume One of the Standard History of the World is of interest: "It is said that more than four hundred million mummies of human beings were buried in Egypt. In recent years many of these mummies have been brought from the land of the Pharaohs to our museums. Tombs have been opened revealing thousands of them in rows one on another without coffins. Shiploads of them have been transported to England and ground up for fertilizer for the soil."

PHARAOH'S CURSE (Continued): Not exactly a pleasant thought but suggestive of the idea that if there were anything in the germ theory as applied to mummies England's population might by this time have been wiped out.

NATIONAL MADNESS

It is inconceivable that Italy would have started the war of conquest against Ethiopia if she had foreseen that the League of Nations would crack down on her. It is inconceivable that Mussolini himself would have dared start any such adventure with the world leagued against him.

It was a bold, ruthless gamble and Mussolini has lost, and through him, possibly, the Italian nation is lost. For the leader's madness grows with desperation, and his people seem to turn mad with him.

LAST STAND OF ANCIENT CARS

Our English cousins have an amusing race which the New York Herald Tribune thinks ought to be copied in this country. It is called the Old Crows Rally and is a run from London to Brighton by ancient automobiles. This year the Rally was won by a nineteen hundred threes Lanchester which covered the fifty six miles in one minute less than two hours.

There have been various parades and mock races for motor antiquos in this country in recent years, though nothing quite like the Old Crows Rally. Ancient cars appear at homecomings, at the National Air Races, at World Fairs, and so on.

Old rattletraps, however, are becoming scarcer. Whether they are going to junk yards or to museums is hard to say. In either case, they would not be available for a sixty-mile rally without a lot of repairing and some special training of drivers.

The elegant contemporary cars are so comfortable and easy to handle that motorists have lost the knack of operating the antiquos.

MILLION-DOLLAR BABIES

At 17 months the Dionnes are regarded as old enough to start their careers. They have been some preliminary dabbling with camera effects, but now a contract for a moving picture has been signed by their guardian, the Ontario minister of welfare. Motion pictures have regarded the babies as tempting bait ever since they were taken to New York and practiced the market demand thought they must accept in justice for the babies' fund. They are already worth about $900,000 and that obviously is only the beginning if they keep their numbers intact.

As wards of a state they are as strange legally as they are biologically. Law based upon English development does not ignore the natural family claim as the Dionnes have. The right of the parents to their children would have been protected from the first court to the last unless inability to make a proper home had been proved. That the parents were not in position to give the babies the special care which would grant them the best chance of survival was almost self-evident in their beginning. They could not have been taken into a family and kept family intact in any means certain. The parents can see as well as anybody else that their daughters as they grow older will make a great deal of money if permitted. Of this the family will receive a share, but no such share as would satisfy the parents of one prodigy upon whom Hollywood looked with favor.

Every once in a while some irate gentleman whose son was "written up" for drunken driving or whose lodge notice was omitted, advances the proposal that newspapers should be taken from the hands of their owners and placed under government control. It is not government ownership.

Government control of newspapers is well demonstrated in Russia, Germany, Italy and Japan where the public is being scientifically misled by its dictators through the press, and also the radio, the magazine and the moving picture. In fact, miracle is observable over the length of time only when the press is subservient to the state and its bosses.

Consequently, it is easy to understand why the Democrats are making an unparalleled attempt to convert American newspapers into press agents for the Roosevelt administration. The propaganda sent out by Hugh Amick, Kansas publicity director for the W.P.A., is an example. His bulletins, prepared at government expense and sent through the mailing and censorship, do not hesitate to attack viciously at London, a potential presidential candidate, or to extol the merits of the New Deal.

But Amick is only small fry and his methods are blatantly stupid compared to those of the vast propaganda machine which has been functioning at the taxpayers' expense since the Democrats came into power. Every federal department has its own publicity department which annually sends tons of franked material to editorial offices. State college extension departments have been no exception, often disguising propaganda as "farm notes."

Unfortunately, privately owned newspapers have thrown most of this daily New Deal offering into the waste basket, where of course it belongs. But the administration controlled the newspapers, what unmitigated humbug would fill their columns!

BREAKFAST FOOD

An elderly man with flowing locks and a somewhat unkempt appearance lived a secluded life in a noisily cottage, and it was his habit to take morning walks through a "bromeliad" tract near by. On one of his "bromeliad" morning strolls he was met by three of the young students who succeeded the idea of being facetious and, as they thought, "funny" at the man's expense. They followed one another, a few feet apart, and the first one inquiring him said, "Father Abraham!" the second one, "Good morning, Father Isaac!" the third one, "Good morning, Father Jacob!"

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Thoughts while strolling: Memories: Grasshopper bugle and collecting Battle Lake last year for a winter. Artist: Rockwell Kent. Nobody writes more entertainingly of Manhattan than this Baltimore boy. Punctual: The name: Rita. Total: Total wives in Radio City. Writing a few steps behind husband, peering at his watch. A conversation I'd like to overtake.

O. O. McIntyre Zasu Pitts and Stan Laurel. Helen Morgan filling that night club with Texas Guinan. Treated. Kidding the night hawk. Study in detachment: Bernard Baruch. He's coming to catch Louis. Beebe dining in one of the dirtiest restaurants. Add natty dresser: Roe Van Duren. Bertoni Bialy. Shingles along the back. Just look his job. Self pity note: Mickey Mouse.

Look alert: Maury Paul and Zasu Pitts. O'Brien, Paul Baldwin and Mrs. Irving Berlin. Five years ago that night. Paul Whiteman sides in. "Jumbo" would have been crying out loud. Jules Bache could be out. Dr. Phillip O'Connell in a dim light. Society's latest: attending Major Dorey broadcast.

The town's oldest youth: Daniel Frohman. Dinner up: Col. Greighton Webb. Bruce Barton. Lee O'Brien and Meador Kendall in an eyebrow plucking contest would be. Dark cloud of grave wisdom: Florida La Guardia. Herbert Spock always looks as though he'd speak electricity if you touched him.

One of the exciting stories of the season has been the red and top: Heald Burgess Meredith. He kept his top-eyes open while by their feet. Of dramatic vitality. He has never appeared in a real hit yet in over production made. They'll cut with canno clearness. In his role on the street he is a ringer for one of those ruffian hoodlums usually bailing cops, snatching auto tires and generally indulging the juvenile rascality of the wharf ends. His nickname is "Buz".

D. D. Knowles adds to the when-asked talk with the tale of the Celt, who heeded at a studio, slipped off his coat, flung it to the floor and cried: "By hell with you, that's was you. And I'm just the way you can do it!" However, I still think the top is the one of 180 vintage Bill Hoag used to sell of the pausing pedestrian who yelled at the owner of the baying: "Call off your dog off of my knock off his head off!"

And there's a single in this letter from a foreign born who hopes to become an American citizen: "Salute the flag! Sure! My flag! I don't object to attention and mentally recite a liany to her glorious past; but somehow I find my hat in hand, head up, when Old Glory comes flapping down the street. This flutters through my mind: The right to

Lord Decies' Daughter to Wed

Miss Decies' society greeted with interest the recent announcement of the engagement of the Hon. Catherine Mary Brereton, daughter of Lord Decies, and the Hon. Patrick Bellaw, son of the late Hon. Richard Endace Bellaw, and nephew of Lord Bellaw, seen here in a recent portrait by the artist.

Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness. Translated into the factual language of the day: I suppose it really means—the right to live if you keep off the highway—and if you know someone and happen to be in a saving sense of humor. But I ain't the flag to it. I like this country and flinch at what they are trying to do to it!

Then the Old Jules type of attitude in Nebraska who almost touches off one of my Gay 90 cartwheels in referring to his favorite weed. He calls it "squidrin' tobacco."

The bald-headed boys who used to scrimp front press at the Pollard office. They're still out there and that for a back stage bouquet containing perhaps a 400 lb. and weighing. "How about a bird and cold bottle after the show?" Now range the big floor shows up by several. They're still out there and that for a back stage bouquet containing perhaps a 400 lb. and weighing.

Parents who have ungovernable tempers must expect to find them in their children, not because their children inherit them, but because they learn them. Even an adult can control his temper if he wants to, and certainly he must love his children enough to wish to see them free of the burden which he has borne.

For a temper is a burden. It is a frequent cause of ill-health. Digestive troubles and high blood pressure often are aggravated if not caused by temper tantrums. The man or woman who indulges in a momentary lapse, why hand on such a curse to those one loves?

The fatalistic point of view which the heredity theory produces gives the child a momentary lapse in the face of his parents' example is useless. The only cure which will produce results is for the parents to take themselves in hand, and by striking at the root of the trouble, which lies in themselves, eventually to stamp the child's background and give him an example of self-control to live up to.

The child, seeing his parents' struggle, is inclined to follow their example and overcome his own temper.

(NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS)

WASHINGTON BY RAY TUCKER SCOTLAND, YEAH, REE Chairman Jones and Federal Reserve Chairman Hoover are publicly at odds. Hoover is beseeching them to stimulate recovery with more generous treatment of the business. Hoover is a message compared to the scoldings they administer behind the soundproof walls of their assembly. Hoover's remarks, bankers are still asking Uncle Sam to take over loans which he is not carrying out. Hoover is a load of no commitment. The first question the federal financiers ask is the amount of the begging banker's excess reserves. If they happen to be large, Hoover's words will be a mere wind-blown seed. Hoover is here you are attacking us for justifying the government into competition with the banks at your competition. Hoover is a message deeper when you get us behind closed doors.

Hoover's side can't afford to blow off steam publicly. It must shake the "breathing spell" just the same. Hoover is a message deeper when you get us behind closed doors. SPINDS. The farmers at Washington have hanged the upward push of a class between the hay and the lettuce which few people realize. They may have spoiled this measure in the Senate. FATALISM "Yes, I know Sam has an ungovernable temper. I am sometimes afraid of him. But what can you expect? He inherits it from both sides of the family. His father always has had frightful rages that he sees red, and I am ashamed of the way I fly out when I get mad."

Hereditary seems, perhaps, but for the most part, a sheer case of environment. All his life Sam had been surrounded by people who still had a "childish reaction" to what displeased or annoyed them. He has no other form of expressing a disagreeable emotion than screaming and throwing things about. He started it as a baby and it came to be a habit.

KNOWLEDGE ENOUGH TO CURB ACCIDENTS

Specialist Tells How to Save 10,000 to 15,000 Lives

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—A traffic expert contended today that sufficient knowledge of the causes of highway accidents is available today to save between 10,000 and 15,000 lives yearly.

Dr. Sidney J. Williams of Chicago, Ill., a director of the National Safety Council's public safety division, told the annual meeting of the highway research board that only application of that knowledge stands in the way of curbing the automobile's death toll.

The three things wrong with drivers or pedestrians which contribute to sudden death or injury, he said, are defects of mind or body, such as epilepsy or poor vision; lack of skill; and the faulty attitude—"the taking of chances, the optimistic belief in good luck, the assumption that the other fellow will get out of the way."

Corrective measures which are certain to produce phenomenal results, he added, are the proper building and maintenance of automobiles and highways; "honest and intelligent" traffic law enforcement; insurance of mental and physical health of the driver and pedestrian; and "a fair degree of foresight, caution and consideration for others." Any individual having these qualities "can insure himself against possibility of accident except those which result from other wrong things entirely outside his control," he added.

Dr. Williams urged the extension of highway safety campaigns among "unreached groups," such as children and operators of large fleets of motor vehicles.

The greatest need today, he said, "is to arouse all our public officials and other leaders, and all our people, to do these things that we already know."

CHICAGO, Dec. 5 (AP)—A national newspaper advertising campaign to exceed $500,000 in 1939, Paramount Pictures, Inc., was announced today by Neil F. Annew, vice president in charge of advertising.

"The most effective selling medium we have," Annew said, "medium was also 'most economical.'"

Where we outline an advertising campaign calling for expenditures of better than a half million dollars in three months, careful buying is most important," he said.

Unusual Film at the Idaho SPECTACULAR WESTERN FILM AT ROXY THEATER

The many persons who have attended the current showing of "Stormy," the spectacular epic drama of the open spaces produced by Universal and now playing at the Roxy theater, have returned to see "The Great Air Mystery," which figures prominently in the story, would enjoy talking to Jack Lindell, the man who "trained" the eagle as well as his father, flier king of the wild horses.

The colt, according to Lindell, has not been trained to use the word "in-flight" as a few days before the picture was started in Arizona, where it was filmed in entirety. "Stormy" as the company named it was brought in from the rear range for Director Louis Freidlander to view. It was so wild and unmanageable that Freidlander despaired of using it in the film.

Lindell made friends with the colt the first day; playing with it, petting it and otherwise winning its confidence. Four days later the colt was ready for its first scene. It had been trained to obey simple commands to go and to stop, stand and had become accustomed to a halter. There his training ended and its "acting" in the picture is perfectly natural and undirected for it was permitted to do as it pleased before the camera.

CONGRESSMAN RAPS FEDERAL EMPLOYEES

D. Worth Clark Says 'Young Squirts' Man-Responsible Set-Up

BOISE, Dec. 5 (AP)—Federal district officials of the rural reclamation corporation in Portland, Ore., are sending "a bunch of young squirts" who do not understand Idaho conditions, to this state to direct the work of the organization, Congressman D. Worth Clark (D-Idaho) declared here tonight.

"We are not getting our fair share of funds and what we are getting will be dissipated by expensive red tape unless a Alop is put to present results," Congressman Clark said.

He mentioned no names and did not hint at any prospective action that might be taken.

Ray Lyman of Boise, recently appointed by Rex Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture, to the directorship of the Idaho corporation "should be given a greater hand in determination of the policies and organization in Idaho," Clark declared.

"The rural reclamation organization look up the work that formerly was done by the rural reclamation corporation of which T. J. Long was director when the latter organization was abandoned."

Director Aimeers Portland, Ore., Dec. 5 (AP)—Water Duty, regional director of the Rural Reclamation Administration, said here tonight "the most competent men available" are being sent to the Idaho corporation.

Congressman D. Worth Clark (D-Idaho) has declared to Boise that federal district officials of the Rural Reclamation corporation in Portland are sending to Idaho "a bunch of young squirts" who do not understand conditions in this state.

Ray Lyman, as director of the rural reclamation work in Idaho, has the full powers of a state director and is to be the same as others in similar capacities throughout the nation," Duffy said.

Congressman Clark said that Lyman "should be given a greater hand in determination of the policies and organization in Idaho."

Mr. Lyman is co-operating closely with this office and with me personally," Duffy said. He declared Congressman Clark's statement concerning the personnel sent to Idaho was best answered by the fact that federal civil service requirements have been met.

MOTOR EXECUTIVE WARNS BUSINESS

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., Declares for Broader Responsibilities

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors corporation, warned American business that it must become active and assume broader responsibilities or face the alternative of increasing government interference.

Addresses Warrenton Congress

Sloan's warning, coupled with a critical analysis of current government trends, was made before a dinner audience before the 1935 congress of American business and the 40th annual meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers.

"It is my firm conviction," he declared, "that any form of government regulation of industry is bound to result in an ever-increasing interference with the broad exercise of initiative—the very foundation of the American system."

"This is the natural evolution of bureaucracy. If that, he so might not the ultimate logical result be the necessity for the socialization of industry through the breakdown of the profit system induced by the increasing effect of government interference in political management."

"We do not need to go far afield to see definite evidences of that possibility. I am convinced that industry should stand united and adamant against such a proposal."

POPE ON RECORD FOR SANCTIONS

Idaho Solon Praises Former Secretaries of State in Burley Address

BURLEY, Dec. 5.—Honoring Senator James P. Pope a dinner under the auspices of the Catholic Democratic club was held at the Club cafe Wednesday evening. Mrs. John P. Mackay presided. Secretary introduced the speaker who was accompanied by Mrs. Pope and his secretary, Ralph Olmstead.

The senator spoke of the European situation relative to war and peace and referred to his personal services with that regard. He mentioned the Ethiopian and Italian delegations at Geneva when the address on sanctions was made against Italy.

"Unless the United States co-operates with the League of Nations in shutting off war materials by embargo peace cannot be restored," Senator Pope said, giving as his opinion that peace can finally be restored by meeting at the conference table where differences and taken up in mutual consultation and understanding.

The senator paid tribute to Henry Shimmon, former secretary of state, and also to former Secretary Kellogg relative to the Kellogg-Briand treaty. He also paid high tribute to General Woodrow Wilson.

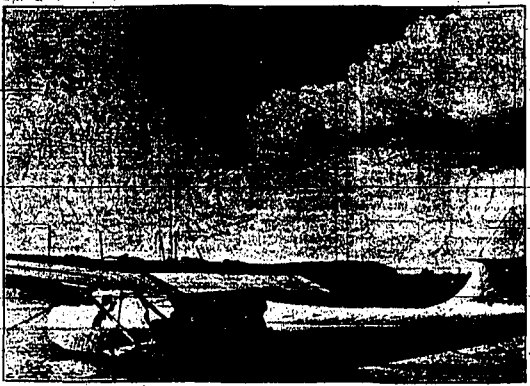

He referred to two former Burley students of the Burley high school, Joy Skiles and Miss Virginia Kear who are making marks worthy of mention. Miss Kear is employed in the department of agriculture in Washington, D. C. and Mr. Skiles is a student at the U. S. Naval academy.

Piano selections were given during the dinner by Miss Jane Owen. Following the dinner Senator and Mrs. Pope and Mr. Olmstead left for Zootello.

CHILDRESS, Tex. (AP)—Adolph Klühr, cotton planter, wasn't troubled by leafworm this year. He was pleased instead when the worms stripped all the vegetation except bolls from the cotton stalks—a real benefit, for there was too much sap on the bolls to open. Klühr is making the harvest a "set up."

Prison's Peak 'Enrollment'

LEAVENWORTH, Kas. (AP)—It's crowded, but it wouldn't be healthy for any of the residents of the federal penitentiary here to make a move to move. Warden Fred Zerbst said there were 2,924 prisoners, 600 more than a year ago, and more than at any time since the 600 was opened in 1922.

SOUTHERN BRANCH INSTALLS AIRPORT

Aeronautics Replaces Golf at University at Pocatello

POCATELLO, Dec. 5 — Aeronautics is replacing golf at the University of Idaho, Southern Branch, with the installation of a landing field on the location of the former university golf course. The first airplane field landed Saturday when E. L. Anderson, manager of the municipal airport set his plane down at the "back door" to the campus.

With two runways cleared, another airplane and four wind indicators to be erected, the new airfield will be used as an emergency landing base as well as testing grounds for pilots repaired at the aviation shop of the university. The shop is rated by experts as one of the best in the northwest.

Flown from the municipal field, Mr. Anderson made the first landing on the new airport with no trouble. The new airfield will be placed West of the plane. It is possible to land and take off with a multi-engine airplane, however, it is pointed out.

Dillard Hamilton, former department of commerce inspector and later U.S. National Parks Airway instructor in charge of aviation at the school, Mr. Hamilton said one complete plane, now in service at Twin Falls, has already been turned out at the school, and another ship will land here in the near future. This plane, coming from Boise, will be completely overhauled and equipped for blind flying.

Mr. Hamilton said plans may now be laid on the field and be wheeled directly into the repair shop.

The longer runway, running from the southwest to the northeast, extends 3000 feet and is 150 feet wide. The other, running north and south is 1500 feet long and 100 feet wide. In the future another is planned to run at an angle with the longest runway, making a huge "X."

With the new field available now, planes flying over the city and descending trouble can glide to a safe landing with ease, he declared. The municipal airport is about five miles west of the new university landing field.

Autumn Has Own Idea ABOUT HOLIDAY VITLES

MUSK, Texas (AP)—Aunt Eda, 92, once a Negro slave, has her own idea about "good vittles" for the holidays.

No modern food, she said, could compete with sausage pointed out to perfection in wooden mortars, or chivald-bred, picked in the old-time way. She has found memories of this breast-of-wild-turkey, sliced and dipped in a stew like like fish.

She was born a slave at Little Rock, Ark., and the bill of sale for the purchase of her mother and two brothers for $1,300 when "Aunt Eda" was 7 in the possession of the estate of Justice Boone, manufacturer of the purchaser, William Roark.

A.F.L. SPLIT AND LEWIS' BOLT MAY BE AFTERMATH OF NRA

By KIRK HAMPSON WASHINGTON.—Intimate relation between the national political situation and the American Federation of Labor split over industrial unionism is difficult to dissect. It can be argued, however, that the "new deal" advent of NRA did something to raise the issue in Federation circles to its present pitch.

Looking back to the organization days of NRA, when General Johnson was applying his "guilt" simile to what is now proposed to set up under the code, the question of vertical vs. horizontal labor organization to get results out of Section 7A, the last section of the act, was much discussed.

The General and his then chief NRA aide, Donald Richberg, bluntly favored the vertical union plan. It was a highly academic discussion, however, in view of the solid objection voiced by President Green and other Federation high commanders.

Johnson, Richberg, et al, quickly dropped any notion they may have had of fostering general industrial unionism.

Liked at Atlantic City As a matter of practical experience under the code, before NRA compiled by court decree, employees of the industrially unionized industry got most of the news headlines. They displayed an effective power. Possibly the Gutley code bill, the "Little NRA" for that stickler industry, is an illustration. To some onlookers, the widening breach between the industrial unions and the A. F. of L. intensified by the resignation of John L. Lewis of the coal miners' as federation vice-president, is explained by such circumstances. Lewis and industrial unionism were not elected in the federation's Atlantic City convention last summer; they rolled up by far the largest vote. More they were here, achieved.

Effect of Lewis Bolt Whether Lewis designs his move to free himself to press the campaign among unions generally in preparation for the next federation convention or there is to be offered a move toward industrial unionism from the federation into an outside organization of its own, does not clearly appear at this time.

Along with the industrial vs. craft union fight at the federation convention went that of political policy. The question was the old one of abandoning the traditional non-partisan attitude of the federation for electing recognized friends of labor on any political ticket in favor of attempting to set up a definite labor party with nominees of its own in all offices. It is possible that industrial unionism would tend itself better to labor party politics in the future.

Ivy League Officials Consider Measures While Echoes of Year's Disturbances Reach National Rules Committee

By ALAN GOULD (Associated Press-Boston Writer)
NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—Colleges throughout the country have welcomed increased interest in football this year, especially as reflected in mounting box-office receipts, but this proletem of confining the spectators' enthusiasm to the stands has become an acute and critical issue.

The Associated Press learned today that athletic authorities of the so-called eastern "Ivy league" are considering drastic measures to curb the increasing tendency toward riotous attacks on the goal posts or other encroachments by spectators on the playing fields.

Six Lettermen Return to Buhl Basketball Wars; West End Aggregation Loses Piper, Popplewell

Buhl, Dec. 5—Starting the hoop season out with six lettermen back in suit, Coach Floyd Luft is drilling his Buhl high school Indians nightly and will open play here Thursday, December 15, against Coach A. V. Corles' Marburg team.

But year in and year out St. Mary's football team, known as the Galloping Geels, are the most popular in this section with the mill run of fans. Other teams may have ten or twenty times as large an alumni group but none has more enthusiastic supporters than the Geels.

The answer is to be found in the personality of Edward Patrick Madigan, St. Mary's football coach which everybody from St. Mary's major to the newest member of the city's street cleaning department calls "Slip."

Others who may be playing here before the close of the season are James Carter, James Shields, Merle Brown, Bill Atkins, Everett Cox, Grant Bankhead, Rex Woodard and Francis Cobb.

The Buhl infernos journey ended this week with the Juniors scoring a 17 to 14 victory over the Sophomores in the final battle.

SCOUTING western SPORTS

A VERY POPULAR MAN IS EDWARD PATRICK MADIGAN
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—St. Mary's college will show an increase in football attendance, unless the public pocket-book is badly depleted before the Geels play their last game here December 14.

This information is not unusual, except for the fact that St. Mary's has a student body that could be hidden in one of the huge buildings on the University of California campus.

There are some 400 undergraduates at St. Mary's. The college is located in a somewhat remote district, 18 miles from San Francisco on the east side of the bay.

Cranney to Open Basket Practice For Oakley High

Gorringer, McMurray, Hardy Return to Banks and Form Nucleus for Hor-net Hoop Aggregation

OAKLEY, Dec. 5—First call for basketball has been announced for next Monday afternoon at Oakley high school when Coach H. C. Cranney will set out to fashion a combination around a nucleus of three veterans from last year's brilliant aggregation.

The bright lights from last year's team will be on the floor when the season opens. Red Croninger at forward and Ray McMurray at guard. Such stars as Lewis, Smith, Elliott, Hale and Martindale, however, will be missed by graduation.

Workman Madigan was given a few second hand looks to work with but to speak, but in the intervening years he has built a monument that will live long in the records of St. Mary's. There were 85 students at St. Mary's when "Slip" took charge. He could barely recruit a football squad. To make the squad look more imposing he had non-players wearing uniforms on the bench.

Comparatively, for the last several years his varsity turnout has often reached 85, as many as were students enrolled when he took charge.

Madigan is the "Slip Smith" of football. In 14 years he has built up an individual following among the town.

Both Sides Predict Victory As A. A. U. Delegates Assemble

Battle Over Proposed American Boycott of Games in Germany Threatens to Split Amateur Athletic Union

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—With both sides looking for victory, a close fight on the question of participation by the United States in the Olympic games at Berlin next year appeared imminent tonight as upwards of 200 delegates arrived for the 47th annual convention of the Amateur Athletic Union starting tomorrow.

Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic committee, flew in from Chicago today, and said "this battle began seven years ago," but declared himself apprehensive that an open fight on the question on the convention floor Saturday "might very easily wreck the structure of the A. A. U." If this issue is discussed at the general assembly, Brundage expressed confidence the A. A. U. would vote in favor of participation.

Claims Boycott Favored
Bullion-holding representatives of distant sections as they checked in, Jeremiah T. Mahoney, president of the A. A. U. and opposition leader, said "there is a preponderance of sentiment in favor of a boycott of the Olympic games," like Brundage, he was also confident his side would prevail.

The question will be thrashed out tomorrow at a joint star-chamber meeting between members of the A. A. U. executive and foreign nations committee. Brundage stated plainly that the issue has no place in the convention and indicated that to go and his scored a 16 to 10 victory over "oo" in "Red" division game. Ganca in the White division went to 106 for an 8 to 18 win over 212, and to 118 for defeating 216, 18 to 6.

VAN VLACK TALKS TO VICTIM'S SON

Considered Suicide After Killings, Elmer Tells Slayer Givens

Douglas Van Vlack of Tacoma, accused of two murders, told his story late last evening to Elmer Givens of San Francisco, eldest son of Deputy Sheriff Henry C. Givens in Twin Falls who was severely wounded by bullets allegedly from Van Vlack's gun.

Charged with murder of State Traffic Officer Pauline Cooper who was slain in an attempt to overtake Van Vlack on the highway near Naha two weeks ago last Monday, Van Vlack told the wound officer's son today that he had opened fire because the officers "made me nervous."

The local officers, on request of Tacoma authorities, attempted to also Van Vlack as he sped through southern Idaho in the company of his wife, Mildred Hood, whom he allegedly had kidnapped from the home near his home in Tacoma, the evening of November 23.

His father, "Van Vlack told Givens yesterday, "told me twice to get out. He said he didn't want my arrest. I asked him twice what for. He didn't answer. I was watching the store from the top of the car. He seemed to be reaching for his gun. I raised my gun slowly and aimed at Cooper's right shoulder. He didn't see the gun until I raised it almost to the level of the car door window. Then he turned toward me and I saw his nervous and excited. I don't know yet whether I shot Cooper or Givens first. Of course I am sorry I shot the officers."

Continuing his story with occasional prompting on the part of the wounded officer's son, Van Vlack stated that after the shooting of the officers his former wife had urged him to go into town. "I didn't trust her after that," Van Vlack said. He told of their wanderings through the night over a course of several days until they abandoned their car, and of their coming into sight of the lights of Twin Falls. "She urged me again to go into town. I told her I would take her to town by a short cut and we started walking along the railroad track away from town. We were cold, and crawled into the culvert to get away from the wind. "You were cold and you knew you had no chance to get away so you shot her so nobody else could help her," Givens suggested. Van Vlack answered, simply, "Yes."

Considered Suicide After he had slain his former wife in the woods near Van Vlack told Givens, he considered taking his own life. "He was excited after I shot her, and suddenly I became warm and felt like going on. I decided to take another chance."

SCHOOL PRODUCES CHRISTMAS PLAY

Dramatic and Music Departments Unite in Ambitious Undertaking

Dramatic and music departments of the Twin Falls high school are combining to produce a Christmas play that will be one of the most colorful and elaborate holiday programs ever given at the school.

The play, "The Christmas Eve," is being directed by Mrs. J. W. Givens, and the orchestra will participate in "Bright Star," a Christmas play featuring three actors, the country chorus and the English Chorus and County dramatic plays. Miss Martha Parry, principal of the school, is the director of Kurt Baur von Weislingen who wrote the play, says the play is typical of the author's best work.

Definite preparations have been arranged, but it will probably be given three times during the Christmas season, one each for the junior high, senior high and the public.

Story of Nativity Beginning with the prophecy, "A Bright Star shall burn upon the heavens and a sign shall be depicted to bear a son, and this child shall bring us light into the world," the play tells the story of Mary and the Annunciation angel, Joseph and Mary on the road to Bethlehem, the shepherds who must kneel to the kings of the orient, bringing their gifts and the birth of Christ in the stable.

Considerable attention is being given to the preparation of the costumes and office affairs. A puppet, Christmas tree, candles and bells will be arranged to lend the atmosphere.

Ickes Disapproves Black Canyon Job LEWISTON, Idaho, Dec. 5 (AP)—Rep. Condon T. White (D-Idaho) said today he has disapproved the proposed million-dollar Black Canyon irrigation project on the Payette river in south Idaho.

BROTHERS FREED AT SECOND TRIAL

Jury Finds Fay and Oscar Cox Not Guilty of Cattle Theft

A second trial brought victory last evening to Fay Cox and Oscar Cox of nearby brother-in-law, who were freed after conviction on a grand jury charge of theft of a steer belonging to M. J. Perkins, Murtaugh the evening of August 27, 1933.

The verdict of not guilty was returned shortly after 3 o'clock last evening by the jury which had received the case two and one-half hours before. The trial occupied four days.

A group of nearly two score persons including several women who had been in the courtroom observed the verdict with evidence of relief and approval.

New Evidence The new trial was ordered by the supreme court when the brothers appealed from conviction at the first trial in the district court here nearly two years ago. The jury recommended leniency. There were petitions for parole and counter petitions against leniency.

Both Adam B. Barclay, who presided at both trials, and the brother-in-law of the defendants, in their appeal the brothers charged irregularities at the trial and asserted that new evidence had been discovered. This evidence was admitted at the second trial in the form of affidavits as testimony that would have been given by two witnesses if they had been in attendance. Two of the witnesses were reported to be outside the state.

Evidence adduced by the defense at both trials indicated that the brothers had taken the steer in question to a side of approximately 25 miles in an automobile trailer from the home of the accused men's uncle northeast of Kimberly to Murtaugh to talk over a cattle trade and then across Snake river canyon at the Murtaugh bridge on another business mission, they back to the Pay Co ranch southeast of Kimber.

The asserted stolen steer was alleged to have been taken from a pasture in the canyon near the Murtaugh bridge. Barclay announced after the verdict was returned last evening that jurors would be excused until next Monday.

Famous Conductor

DR. BASIL CAMERON, eminent British conductor of the Seattle Symphony orchestra, whose brilliant direction of the orchestra made last evening's concert in Twin Falls a memorable event.

Dr. Cameron conducted entirely without score, and his presence on the platform was fitted with an intricate "wireless" not only of the orchestra but also of the musical message which he was presenting. The personnel of the orchestra was professional in every respect, each member being an artist.

Violinists Play Following the Johann Strauss number, overture: "Die Fledermaus," the ten first violinists presented "The Air on the G String" by Bach in perfect unison and melodic grace.

The orchestra's magnificent "The First Impression" symphony," Schumann, was deeply moving. Contrasting with this was Tchaikovsky's "Pizzicato" and "Finnale" from Symphony No. 4, played with temporary sparkle, perfect taste and understanding. It was one of the most enthusiastically received numbers on the program. The concert closed with a stirring performance of Liza's "Second Hungarian Rhapsody."

Suite from the "Water Music," Handel, and special arrangements of Irish folk music by Percy Cringler completed the repertoire.

The two-weeks appearance and radiance of the Seattle Orchestra in Twin Falls during the summer, are partly responsible for the high esteem with which the northwest has received the musical organization this winter. The concert tour throughout Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Utah, which is drawing a close, has heightened the interest and support throughout the northwest.

More Concerts Promised The popular reception the Orchestra has received on this first four-state tour indicates that a similar tour may be conducted again next year. Dr. Cameron said yesterday afternoon shortly after his arrival from Logan, Utah, where the musical group appeared in concert Wednesday.

Dr. Cameron has been conducting since 1912, with the exception of the three and one-half years he served with the British army in the West. He has directed the London Symphony orchestra, the Royal Philharmonic, and all major orchestras.

Other articles reported taken from the store included a radio set, 23 culture rifle, electric iron and toaster. The thieves broke the glass out of a door at the rear of the building to gain entrance.

Burglars raided the same store about a year and a half ago.

The program included some of the finest symphonic compositions ever written for orchestra. The Twin Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored the concert.

Dr. Cameron conducted entirely without score, and his presence on the platform was fitted with an intricate "wireless" not only of the orchestra but also of the musical message which he was presenting. The personnel of the orchestra was professional in every respect, each member being an artist.

Violinists Play Following the Johann Strauss number, overture: "Die Fledermaus," the ten first violinists presented "The Air on the G String" by Bach in perfect unison and melodic grace.

The orchestra's magnificent "The First Impression" symphony," Schumann, was deeply moving. Contrasting with this was Tchaikovsky's "Pizzicato" and "Finnale" from Symphony No. 4, played with temporary sparkle, perfect taste and understanding. It was one of the most enthusiastically received numbers on the program. The concert closed with a stirring performance of Liza's "Second Hungarian Rhapsody."

Suite from the "Water Music," Handel, and special arrangements of Irish folk music by Percy Cringler completed the repertoire.

The two-weeks appearance and radiance of the Seattle Orchestra in Twin Falls during the summer, are partly responsible for the high esteem with which the northwest has received the musical organization this winter. The concert tour throughout Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Utah, which is drawing a close, has heightened the interest and support throughout the northwest.

More Concerts Promised The popular reception the Orchestra has received on this first four-state tour indicates that a similar tour may be conducted again next year. Dr. Cameron said yesterday afternoon shortly after his arrival from Logan, Utah, where the musical group appeared in concert Wednesday.

Dr. Cameron has been conducting since 1912, with the exception of the three and one-half years he served with the British army in the West. He has directed the London Symphony orchestra, the Royal Philharmonic, and all major orchestras.

Other articles reported taken from the store included a radio set, 23 culture rifle, electric iron and toaster. The thieves broke the glass out of a door at the rear of the building to gain entrance.

Burglars raided the same store about a year and a half ago.

SHIPPER ASKS DAMAGES FOR DELAY IN TRANSIT

Alleging unreasonable delay in delivery of 11,000 pounds of wool which was sold to a Portland, Oregon, buyer last spring, L. L. Langdon started suit in the district court yesterday for $120 damages from the Consolidated Freight Lines, operating freight trucks between Twin Falls and Portland.

Langdon alleges that he lost two cents a pound on the deal on account of delayed deliveries that were made, he charges, from four to 24 days after the wool was turned over to the truck operators in Twin Falls. A reasonable time for the delivery at Portland, he alleges, would be 14 days.
