

MURDER-CHARGED GIRL FOUND SAFE

17-Year-Old Mother Leaves Psychopathic Hospital and Enters Jail

DENVER, Dec. 13 (AP)—Widower by her own hand, Mary Elizabeth Smith, 17-year-old mother, left psychopathic hospital and entered a jail cell last night to await trial for murder in the slaying of her 16-year-old husband and child.

The pretty black-eyed girl was declared sane by Colorado's board of psychiatrists who had observed her for two weeks. Their report automatically brought District Judge Otto Brock's order—that she must stand trial on a first degree murder charge.

Claimed Insanity The shy, submer-haired little girl once lived in the Ozark hills of Arkansas and later saw her Denver school romance end with a bullet wound to the head. Her father, strapping Robert D. Smith, husband of Rodney, the country girl, was shot to death November 23.

Perceived by the inmate legal philosophy of the document, the girl said she thought the action meant "they will take Rodney's name away from him." Enraged, the girl found an old target rifle and marched to the home of her father-in-law, shot her estranged husband, and fell to the floor, weeping.

At his funeral, the girl collapsed and since has remained quiet, attempting to avoid discussing the case.

Take Tips From An Expert on Candies

The type of fondant you make is an index to the sort of candy-maker you are, according to Miss Juanita Suteiff, head of the home economics department of the Twin Falls high school, who this week is sharing some of her candy-making knowledge with the readers of the Homemakers' page of the Twin Falls News. Christmas candies speak of your thoughtful remembrance of a few other gifts do they are appreciated by your family and friends alike.

In making creamy candy such as fondant or divinity, the object is to keep the grains of sugar so fine that they are not detected by the tongue; the candy feels smooth, not grainy, according to Miss Suteiff. Remember the following rules when making candy:

1. Do not stir while cooking.
2. Keep your hands clean by washing down the sides of the pan with a wet absorbent. Crystallization of the whole mixture may be caused by the presence of one crystalline grain.
3. Let the candy cool before beating with rollers.
4. When the back of the hand, which is more sensitive to heat than the palm, can be comfortably held under the plate or pan for several seconds, the mixture is cool enough to beat.
5. By the addition of cream of tartar, lemon juice, vinegar or sour cream, invert sugar or glucose is produced. A little invert sugar in the mixture prevents the entire mass from granulating. Corn syrup or glucose serve the same purpose.
6. Choose a clear day if possible as a large amount of moisture in the air makes the candy sticky and hard to handle.
7. Caramels or candies with a large amount of corn syrup may be stored constantly as they do not crystallize.
8. Wooden spoons are preferable for stirring candy as they do not scratch the pan and are not so hot to handle.

She suggests the following recipe for fondant:

2 cups sugar
Scant 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 cup cold water
Stir until sugar is dissolved, then cool, without stirring, to 100 degrees. Add this quantity, 100 degrees Fahrenheit, of the pan free from crystals by washing down sides of the pan with a wet cloth wrapped around the end of a silver fork. Pour into a platter lined with cold water. Cool until you can comfortably hold the back of your hand under the platter for a little while. Stir with a wooden spoon. When white and creamy, knead in the palms of the hands until smooth. Place in a tin or box with a light cover or wrap in wax paper and put in a covered container. It is more creamy and much easier to handle if allowed to stand at least 24 hours before using.

Flavoring and coloring are kneaded into the fondant as desired. To avoid adding too much color or strong flavor such as oil of peppermint, use a toothpick to dip into the color or flavor and then into the fondant.

Variations

Uses of fondant, as recommended by Miss Suteiff, are:

MINTS: Melt fondant in double boiler or in a bowl over hot water, add flavor and sift into thin enough to drop from the tip of a spoon or a pastry tube. Thin with a few drops of water as it becomes too thick.

Other flavors may be used: such as wintergreen, orange or cinnamon.

COCONUT BARS: Add an equal amount of coconut to the fondant, pour into a mold and cut into bars when cool. The mixture may be dropped from the tip of a spoon.

CREAM LOPAF: Knead fondant until creamy, loaf and add suitable fruits and nuts evenly chopped. Knead as little as possible, or the fondant may become discolored.

HOW a Modern Hostess makes a REPUTATION

No hostess ever made a reputation with a routine "dinner" or "luncheon" routine. To convince your dinner guests that your steward could excel that of any other hostess, they know, Steward can be an excellent dish but it does not excel. If you want to make a life with a which contains color, you must dress up into something like this:

How to Make a Reputable Dinner: Sauté two tablespoons sliced onion in one tablespoon butter for several minutes. Add the contents of a 4-ounce can mushrooms and 1/2 No. 2 can creamy corn, three-fourths cup grated cheese, three-fourths cup chili sauce, salt and pepper to taste. Turn into a buttered casserole, and bake to moderate—375 degrees—for about thirty minutes. Serve at once.

No Sticky Chocolate Now!

Have you had the experience of making a perfect batch of fondant, and then had the chocolate dipping turn out a minor tragedy? Miss Suteiff also tells you how to avoid that. In dissolving chocolate dipping, the correct dipping temperature is the streets proper temperature.

To prevent dipping chocolate. Proper temperatures are necessary to prevent chocolate from becoming grainy, streaked and speckled. Milk chocolate, if used, should be melted. The water should not be more than 100 to 115 degrees Fahrenheit. This takes about an hour for melting one to two pounds of chocolate. The chocolate should harden as soon as possible so that the temperature of the chocolate dipping should be between 90 and 95 degrees Fahrenheit. The room temperature should be cooler than ordinary room temperature, 65 to 68 degrees Fahrenheit. Centers should be about the same temperature. Keep dipping hands well-dipped while dipping. Use hand-dipping chocolate. The dipping tool may be used if times are the proper dipping apart. All parts of the bonnet should be well coated and the centers will come out. Be very careful not to get water in the chocolate as it spoils the centers. Dip the chocolate, then by re-heating.

Gelatins Dainties

Among the cleverest concoctions that can be made for the holidays are Gelatin Dainties. They are for bridge parties and colorful additions to the candy boxes that will be packed and sent to friends and relatives. They are simple to make and will be delivered Christmas eve or Christmas morning to your favorite friends in the city.

Radiant Holiday Homes

By MARGUERITE NOBLE KEE

(Editor's Note: Mrs. Marguerite Noble Kee, home decorating consultant, believes that the entire home should say "Merry Christmas." When asked by the department for ideas on holiday interiors, she offered a number of attractive suggestions by putting the house in holiday mood.)

Simplicity is the keynote of charming Christmas decorations. Candles in varying heights, used in profusion, add greatly to the gay effect. Ground pine and holly as the base and background for red tapers is a more effective trim than paper rose and garlands. The old but ever-lovely holly wreath tied with a gay red bow is always effective in the main windows of the home. Such a wreath, chosen up the residence and called a "Merry Christmas" to every passer-by.

The more modern red wreath and electric candle throws its light gleam out to the wayfarer, telling of the Christmas spirit abiding within. The huge holly wreath on the front door bids welcome and the hallway brightly trimmed invites one to join in the holiday spirit exuberant beyond.

Christmas Dream House

Let us imagine an ideal holiday setting. Through the archway one glimpses the living room fireplace with a mound of pine boughs and blue poinsettias, or a plant of the candle, tall in the center, radiating to much lower ones at the ends, standing upon the boughs. On the radio is a similar treatment, while on the table by father's favorite chair is an attractive vase of Christmas trees with their trim and myriad colored baubles stands by the large front window for all to enjoy.

Tomatoes Stuffed with Corn, Celery and Cucumber: Cut stem ends from eight firm tomatoes. Scoop out centers and dump into a bowl with salt. Sauté one-half cup dried celery and one-half cup corn for several minutes. Add one cup creamy canned corn, and, if low fat, add two or three tablespoons cream. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Fill tomatoes with this mixture and top with buttered crumbs. Arrange each tomato wrap a slice of bacon. Bake in a moderate oven for about thirty minutes, or until tomatoes are done and corn, serves eight.

Lightful Gifts

Place cardboard or wax paper between layers. Cross partitions may be held in place by slitting each piece half its depth before fitting together.

Arrange artistically as to color and shape. Stuffed cherries, dates, figs and prunes rolled in sugar; bonbons, mints and candied fruits and orange peel—rolled in sugar and wrapped in the full, add interest to the box. Miss Suteiff reminds candy makers:

When the red and green are used, the red and green do not lend itself.

Ode To Fruitcake

Are you "all caught up" with your Christmas preparations, or are you still considering whether you'll have a fruit cake late as it is, to serve New Year's day and the days immediately following? Or are you the person who does your Christmas baking early? In that case you won't be especially interested in a fruit cake recipe, but you may get the inspiration for a lot of verse to accompany your fruit cake gift.

Here is the obsequy rhyming that Mrs. L. L. Threlka is sending with her fruit cakes:

"Here I am so plump and sweet, fit for any man to eat. May I bring to you some joy As you will my crumbs destroy."

Fruit Cake

1 cup butter
1 cup sugar
1 cup raisins
1 cup currants
1 cup dates
1 cup walnuts
1 cup candied peel of lemon, citron and orange
2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon each of nutmeg, cloves, cinnamon, allspice
Beat in two loaf pans 1 1/2 hours.

OUR MONEY SYSTEM. Much of the strength of a nation lies in its finances, that is to say its currency and the related agencies which support this.

There have been a good many changes in the American monetary system during the past three years and while we still have a silver dollar of the same old weight and thickness and bank notes which correspond in size and texture to the old ones, we do not have the same coin or the same currency.

This matter of a nation's money is not exactly an open book to the average man, in fact the entire subject is very largely shrouded in mystery. But there is a description of our money situation which at least has the merit of frankness and which, rightly or wrongly, sends up the picture in such a manner as to render it comprehensible to anyone. Neil Sparke, nationally known economist, speaking:

"We have reached a stage where we do not have any recognizable money-system whatever. It is not knowing what our money system is or where it is going. We are on an irredeemable paper money basis. This paper money is a miscellaneous lot of bank and government promises to pay. But the man who has one of these notes cannot redeem it. There is a huge pile of gold and silver lying dead in the government vaults. The gold dollar is cut down to fifty-nine cents but you cannot get one of these dollars and you do not know when the fifty-nine cent dollar will be cut down again. The silver in the vaults is a great mass of useless metal of shifting value and uncertain legal standing. We have no standard money and the volume of paper money is constantly increased by the issue of new notes."

Another very discouraging picture but a true one on the basis of facts.

A general stabilization of this chaotic currency situation is one of the things which most eventually be brought about if America is ever again to occupy her old place among the nations.

SACRIFICIAL GOLD. It is rather a pitiful gesture that is required of the Italian people in raising the national gold fund. Wedding rings and other personal possessions, turned over to the government in special ceremonies all over the country, do not contribute much to the total, while they deprive their owners of articles of great sentimental value.

All the gold thus far turned in, from the rich cities as well as the country districts, comes to only a few millions. It can't possibly balance the billions of lire in gold which have left the banks of Italy this year to purchase war materials abroad.

Perhaps Mussolini knows this already and is urging the gold fund not as a practical measure but for its psychological value. The sacrificial spirit involved in parting with wedding rings and other loved treasures will enable citizens to bear other hardships and losses uncomplainingly.

CIRCUS PARADES. The good old times are really coming back again. A big circus outfit is planning to revive street parades again next spring. There was a partial revival of this fine old institution a year or two ago in a few American cities, but now the revivalists promise to do a thorough job. They will restore the parade to all its old dimensions and grandeur, and exhibit it all over the country, with steam calliope, brass bands, elephants, giraffes, camels, horses, clowns "in" everything.

But there will be one very modern touch. The circus people say they're spending fifty thousand dollars to equip the wagons with rubber tires and the horses with rubber soles. Even circus parades now must run on rubber. They have to do it because cities object to having their pavements ruined by iron horseshoes and steel-tired wheels. Except for a few old folks who have a reminiscence love for the clump-clump of iron-shod steeds, this innovation will not be resented.

As for the parade itself, a dramatic writer breaks into this vein: "It is a revival that will be received with public gratitude and acclaim. A circus parade was one of the few good things that you ever got for nothing in this cynical world, and the memory of it lingers pleasantly. It was not merely the children who missed the circus parades. Their elders liked them because they stirred the nostalgic remembrance of a fading glamour and a brave, lost world."

THE PRESIDENT'S FRIENDS

It would be interesting to trace a compilation of the writings of the New Deal derived entirely from the criticisms and speeches of "key men" once associated with President Roosevelt.

There is, for example, Lewis W. Douglas, the first Roosevelt Director of the Budget, who is writing a series of articles for the Atlantic Monthly later to be brought out under the name of "The New Deal." Mr. Douglas pretty effectively demolishes the New Deal theory that it is possible for the federal government to spend the country out of the depression.

Then there is James P. Warburg, one of the President's early advisers on economic and currency problems, who recently wrote a book devoted to the purpose of showing that an every important campaign promise the President has executed a complete about-face.

Then there is, also Donald Hebbert, the former NRA administrator and "Assistant President," who told reporters he had been mistaken about the Supreme Court's NRA decision and that the abolition of the NRA has brought more of the dice thrown to assure a few months ago would be insignificant.

And finally there is Gen. Hugh B. Johnson, the good old general, who has just announced that out of "unwavering loyalty to the President and his ideals" he is going to stump the nation "to discuss the vital aspects of this administration," and particularly to show the people that "this WPA and FERA staff is the bunk."

If those so close to the President so frequently are so convinced his policies are wrong, what are the rest of the people to think?

THE COST OF DEBT

Baltimore Sun: President Roosevelt is beginning to think about the budget for the fiscal year 1936 and conference about it has begun. It appears, at the moment, that the President will ask for a budget of $5,500,000,000, a reduction of two billion from the figure submitted to Congress last year. Of this $5,500,000,000 the sum of $1,500,000,000 would be devoted to the servicing of the public debt.

How does this huge indebtedness compare with that of previous years? That for 1929 was $1,200,000,000. That for 1930—a prosperous decade during which the public debt was greatly reduced—was $2,374,513. It was during that fiscal year that the crisis came. Thus the cost of our public debt today is just twice what it was in the last prosperous year before the depression and $2,800,000,000 more than it was just after the war-time peak.

- BREAKFAST FOOD

THE PROVERB. The square gave the little school children a treat, and after tea he said he was going to perform a feat, actions to represent a proverb, and the child who guessed it right would win a prize.

PROGRESS. "A telegram from George, dear," "Well, did he pass the examination this time?" "No, but he is almost at the top of the list of those who failed."

POLITICIANS. "Ay, the waltzers are awful," related Dave on his return from London. "This is a waltz that shakes hands 'til one waltz I left the tables."

A BIT OF PEACE. Mrs. Flynn: "This neighborhood seems pretty busy." Mrs. O'Brien: "The only time there's any peace here is when the trucks don't stop the nose."

CHAFER. "Water: 'Would you mind setting your bin, sir?' We're closing now." "Patrol: 'But I haven't been started yet.' Water: 'Well, in that case, there'll only be the case charge.'"

New York Day by Day

By O. V. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—This will not be a run of the mine effort today but the parade of a personal sorrow. Nothing is as in my thought but the loss of my dog Billy. Every part of the house throbs with the aching emptiness of his going. It's quite outside but shades are drawn on the horizon.

O. V. McIntyre

My dog Billy was widely traveled. Far more than the average dog because he could not be left with strangers. With that marvelous canine instinct, he sensed the prospect of journeys and he was never without his suitcase. He was alert to every move, watching, waiting, trembling. And when trunks and luggage were brought in he was fairly beside himself, either eating nor sleeping until he became a part of the entourage for the boat or train so enormous was his dread of being left. But once in transit he was never troubled. He craved Europe eight times, California more than a dozen and had friends in both places he was always happy to see and who were glad to see him.

Environment made him a pronounced city dog. He enjoyed nothing more than a drive along Broadway when lights were on, his paws on the arm rest, nose to the pane watching with unutterable fascination the swirl and zig-zag of lights. This evening I was—"Madison Square around, where he loved to park. The crossing cop struck his head in the window. "Who's the other pup?" he asked. He saw our dog out and knew "The very, he murmured and I think he was right."

Six months ago we were awakened at dawn as Billy jumped from the bed with an almost human scream, spun about and felt exhausted. We thought it a nightmare but he insisted it was real. Billy's bed was with valor and fortitude he began to drop. He became nearer than ever and our devotion cut us off entirely from theater, cafes, travel and friends. Two days left him alone an hour. Two weeks before the end he tried to eat. Not one did he whimper. As the sun was sinking, he gave a soft little sigh, his beautiful brown eyes gleamed, a slight twitch and he was gone, leaving in the arms of one he loved best. Ome, my faith convinces me, to something better. But man is selfish. Billy is not the dog to wrench my heart and I have listened to all the tales of dogs who are anxious to cushion the jolt of his departure. But I want him back, which is the only thing for which I have ever longed. I want Billy, my brave, loyal Billy!

SERVICES AT DECLAU FOR O. H. GRUBBY

BURLEY, Dec. 13.—Funeral services for Orvil H. Grubby were held in the First M. E. church Thursday afternoon with Bishop Hurst officiating.

The opening number was by the Declo male quartet, "Nearer My God to Thee." Prayer was offered by Clark Darrington. Carl Olson sang as solo. "Able We With Me." John Darrington was the first speaker and Byron S. Lewis was the second speaker. Carl and Barbara Olson were followed by the third speaker, Bishop Davis Green of Blaine, Idaho.

Philomena were George, Leland and Floyd Olson, Harry Darrington, Jack Morris and Lawrence Ziermer. Flower bearers were Betty Tennant, Rex Patton, Benjamin Perrod, Aina Kidd, Helen Darrington, Nylene Tanner, Vennie Sammons, Mamie Pughler, Betty Beck and Joyce Bundenfaden.

Interment was in the Paul cemetery beside the graves of two children, who preceded him in death. Bishop Hurst dedicating the grave.

The Reception Committee Is Patiently Waiting

Four new teachers have been elected to fill vacancies in the Burley school. The young men who have been elected in public school will fill the vacancies by the restoration of Clifford Aultman who has accepted a position in the Alton State Normal school. Mr. Hyde has been instructor in music in Preston, Utah, which will be in the winter of 1936.

Miss Ethel Skirris of Jerome has been named school Latin and English teacher, succeeding Mrs. R. D. Armstrong of Rupert, who has been filling the position temporarily. Miss Skirris is a graduate of the University of Washington and has taught in the Burley school for several years.

Whitena Catkins of Burley will teach the first grade at the Alton school. Miss Bode, district deputy grand officer of the Elks lodge at Bonanza, has been elected ruler of the Elks lodge at Bonanza. O. E. will make his official visit to the Burley Elks lodge Wednesday evening of the 13th. The new officers are: Joe Lynch, exalted ruler. WASHINGTON BY RAY TUCKER. WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The story of 1934 income tax returns reveals that there are 57 U. S. millionaires rather than thirty-two, as misleading surface figures indicate.

Webster's dictionary defines a millionaire as a "person whose possessions amount to a million dollars or more." whereas the President, Franklin D. Roosevelt, has been frequently highlighted by the White House, although he used to be FDR's partner.

On the other hand, John is popular with fellow-members. He stood up for their prerogatives in several clashes with the Senate at the last session. He is also blunt and courageous. He told FDR several unpleasant truths which otherwise were withholding during parliamentarianism.

TAMM. President Roosevelt is taking no chances that the U. S. tariff commission will make faces. Edward Davis Duran, a slightly offbeat economist, but he is a Republican "liberal" of the Minnesota type, has been named as the new public servant for many years as an economic subordinate.

As now organized, the commission consists of a majority which will bow to presidential will in these matters—two low-tariff principals, James H. Doolittle, of Chicago, and Dan Durant. Their original function these days is to dig up material for use by the state department in negotiating reciprocal agreements.

DEBTS. Although the Democratic platform has pledged a moratorium on the national debt, the administration has not done so. The administration has not done so. The administration has not done so.

NOTES. Correspondents in all important news centers are being represented by special correspondents in the press gallery of Congress.

1936 4-H SEASON DRAWS TO CLOSE

Statistical Summary Shows Improved Records Over South Central Idaho

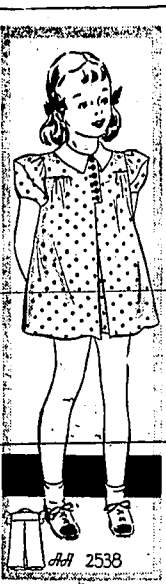

BURLEY, Dec. 13.—The 1936 4-H club program in south central Idaho has come to a close with club members compiling their projects and sending in record books to the office of Earl R. Starnes, district club agent.

A statistical summary prepared for the club agent's annual report completed November 30, shows that 784 different club members carried 82 projects, 451 members turning in reports on 853 projects. The completion of a little over 70 per cent and an improvement of five per cent over last year's record.

These projects represented 84 standard clubs and seven general project clubs led by the district. Seven counties had the following club, different members, projects and completions: Cassia—2 clubs, 19 members, 23 projects, 100 per cent completion; Camas—13 clubs, 78 members, 98 projects, 81.8 per cent completion; Blaine—14 clubs, 121 members, 128 projects, 82 per cent completion; Jerome—21 clubs, 234 members, 278 projects, 85.4 per cent completion.

NEVER MIND THE LADY

by David Garth

SYNOPSIS: Terry Willis met in the tropics, where Terry was trying to find up and about. At the highest possible speed, Terry went back to work. Terry found his father was dead and had had to be buried in Virginia. And Allaire set sail for America thinking even that he wanted to think of Terry. Allaire has been killing time at the bar of the Armand, which is a high class gambling joint, talking with a friend named Charley.

SPEED

"They all ran as nice as you, Charley's hand stood up hands on hip and repaired the polished interior of the Armand speculatively. "We really can't blame the Times for that. Why should it be any miles an hour when it's just as satisfied to sleep and eat?"

"That's what Charley is 'm no buxanist. Or is it biologist? Say, where are you going?"

Allaire turned. He leaned forward and patted him on the shoulder. "She never got drunk, but when she wanted to blow it out she pulled the throttle wide open in bursts of sheer heading speed. She'd been driving that ever since she came back from South America. Probably plenty angry at somebody or something, although she'd never choose to let you know it."

He gave up. Much easier to deliberate on the why and wherefore of the trigger than what was on the bottom of the aquarium like a rock. What an existence for a fish. Charley was convinced it was the stupidest existence had ever seen.

Allaire operated independently of the separate establishments maintained by her parents. Her home was in Washington, and her father's country place in Virginia, with little side excursions and disappearance of her own thrown in for good measure.

And she was driving like hell again. She whipped down to Washington in the couple of days, and then took to the open road again.

It was thirty miles to sunrise when her long blue sedan burst through a quiet Virginia countryside in the hub of early dawn. Allaire read the first faint glow was touching the hills, and her father's country home was thirty miles up the valley.

A police motorcycle picked up her trail and chased her down a lone stretch of open pavement in a duel of rubber tires.

Then the policeman won. He drew up abreast and careened about a curve with the car in a hair-breadth partnership of burning tires and screaming brakes.

"Get over!" he yelled frantically. The girl flitted and had brought the car to a stop. The police car was streaked with dust and her bright hair bound by a purple ribbon was fluttering from temples from the aridity of her terrific speed.

"Hello, Murphy," she greeted lazily. "Well, this is a pleasure. It's been a long time since you greeted me."

The officer shoved his vestages up on his brow and stared.

"Well, for the love of Mike! Miss West."

"It is," said Allaire. "And one of these days Miss West is going to get a car that will make you think you're peddling a tripe. See if I don't."

"You've got away from me plenty," Murphy said. "I still can't figure out how I lost you in Middlebury that time last spring."

"I can't either," she smiled "I put it down to masculine gaffs. How are you, Murphy?"

"O. K. But listen, you hadn't ought to speed like this, Miss West. You'll crack up some day, so help me."

"I'm trying to get home by sunrise. It's perfectly beautiful here."

"You always go too damn fast," said Murphy.

"That's what I like to drive at night. No traffic."

"There is a carcase in a pasture of truce between two friendly enemies."

"This ain't night," insisted Murphy. "It's early mornin'. And there's milk wagons and such. Say, where you been? This is the first time you've come through here in months, ain't it?"

"I've been in South America," said Allaire.

"What?" said Murphy.

"What kind of a place is it?"

"Dangerous," said the girl. "Murphy, I nearly fell in love with that awful!"

"Oh, yeah?" said Murphy, being obligingly to the delirium of the male sex. "Taken one of these days, you'll be in a fix."

Allaire smiled and flicked her cigar out into the road.

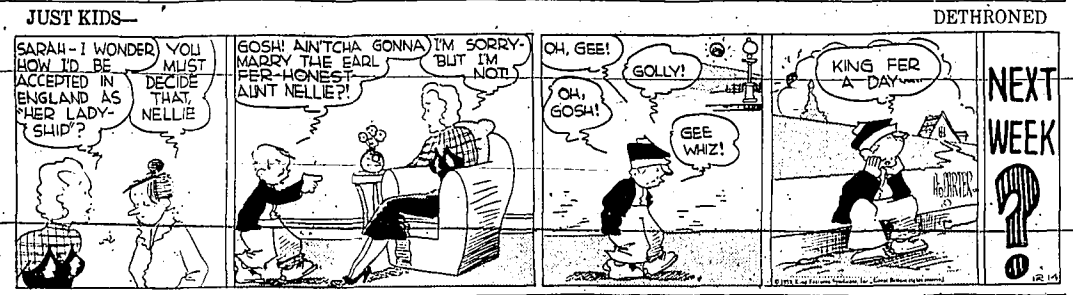

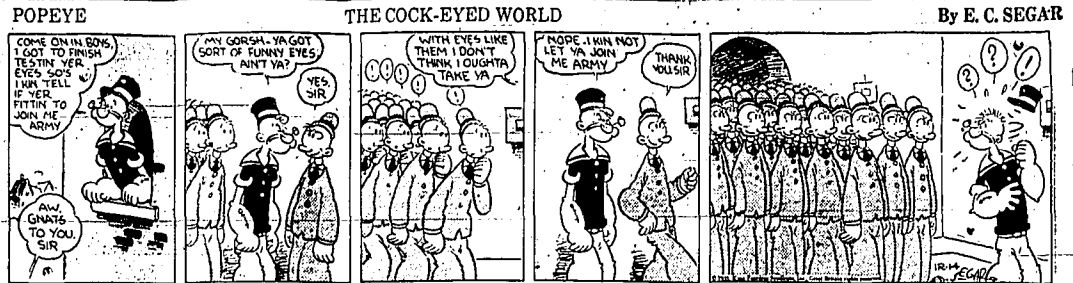

"I'll be on the lookout for a tall, thin stranger on a motorcycle," she promised.

This reminded Murphy. He fumbled awkwardly for his book.

"I'm going to see you, Miss West. You'd better take it kind of easy the rest of the way and I'll let you off. Buckle, it's still pretty early."

Her dark eyes rested on him, amused.

"Better give me the black spot,

THE PAYOFF SHOWING LAST TIMES AT IDAHO

Filled with thrills, romance and plotless comedy. First National's latest drama of suspense life. "The Payoff" is being shown for the last time today at the Idaho theater. The program also includes Chapter No. 14 of "Miracle Rider" with Tom Mix and Tony, Jr., a musical, cartoon and news.

Thinking along with the impetuous speed and power of an old-time buffalo stampede, the thrill of Paramount's "Along Comes Casey" series, titled "Bar 20 Rides Again," which opens at the Idaho theater Sunday, contains every element that is needed to make a first class western drama. It surpasses those completely successful sitcom dramas not only because it is a better-rounded story, but for the reason that the action, so vital in a western, is fast-moving and realistic as it is realistic for directors to compare with William Boyd of course, is back as the slow-spoken but sharp-tongued "Hopalong Cassidy" with Jimmy Ellison and his young riding-mate, and lovely Jean Rowell in the feminine lead. The program is completed with a musical, comedy, novelty and news.

MURDER CHARGED
YOUTH TAKES TIME TO ANSWER CHARGE

Douglas Van Vlack, Alleged
Slayer of Three Persons,
Makes His First Appearance
in District Court

Douglas Van Vlack of Tacoma, 31-year-old alleged triple slayer, asked postponement of his plea to a first degree murder charge when he was brought into district court here yesterday, and the date was set for next Monday morning.

Van Vlack is charged with the murder of Fontaine Cooper, a traffic officer, in the slaying of which Van Vlack was charged by officers of the slaying of Deputy Sheriff H. C. Owens and of Van Vlack's former wife, Mildred Lott of Tacoma.

After the brief hearing yesterday during which Van Vlack read the information charging him with Cooper's death, his attorney, E. V. Larson of Twin Falls, said his defense will enter a plea of not guilty to the murder charge, but that it will first request adjournment of the information filed by Prosecuting Attorney Edward Babcock, holding to the possibility of error in the proceedings.

Nearly clad in a dark suit, Van Vlack, who is 5'10" tall, was brought by officers of the slaying of Deputy Sheriff H. C. Owens and of Van Vlack's former wife, Mildred Lott of Tacoma, to the district court here yesterday, and the date was set for next Monday morning.

THREE-FOLD HELP
FOR NEEDY FARMER

Loan and Debt Adjustment
Service Ready, Supervisor Says

In a three-fold service to destitute or low income farm families in Teton county, Idaho, the Federal Farm Loan Administration is offering complete self-support, insurance for complete self-support, is available through the Rehabilitation Administration, and a loan and debt adjustment service which is being organized by the Federal Farm Loan Administration.

The rehabilitation administration estimates that about half the rural families in Teton county are in or facing serious financial difficulties which can be helped through the rehabilitation program.

Not Better Plan - Not a relief plan, but a business proposition both for the client and the government, declared the supervisor, "It offers a plan for the client and the government, and it is self-sustaining again, he can buy necessities, join community activities, and educate his family. Then he becomes a decided asset."

Dr. Crowland Hill - Dr. Emma Crowland, who has been actively engaged in her home, is gradually recovering.

On Legal Business - Frank Martin, Boise attorney and former Twin Falls resident, was a visitor here yesterday on legal business.

Child Seriously Ill - Kenneth Martin, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Martin, of Main street, is seriously ill with pneumonia, following measles.

Recovering At Hospital - Mrs. Asher B. Wilson, who underwent an emergency operation Thursday evening at the Twin Falls county general hospital, is satisfactorily recovering, according to hospital reports.

Here From Salt Lake - Mrs. Russell Holcomb, Salt Lake City, who has spent the week in Twin Falls visiting friends and relatives, is returning today to Utah. Mrs. Holcomb was formerly Miss Rose Beckwith.

Creedy Trade Name - A. J. Mackrack and Warren Starkey are the owners of the Idaho rehabilitation loan is decided on several points, said the supervisor. "If he must have money, and cannot borrow it anywhere else, if he is a bona fide farmer, competent and willing to cooperate in the farm management plan, and if his farm is of adequate acreage and quality, he is eligible.

Loans may be made for capital goods, such as stock farming equipment, taxes and rent, and for such immediate needs as repairs, fuel, household goods, fuel and food in some cases, grants are made while farm plans are being completed and proceed on by county and state committees.

Farmers wishing to apply for rehabilitation loans may interview William J. Twin Falls, who gave impressions of movie stars, accompanied by Mrs. William Jacklin.

In Winning Revue - Miss Helen Painter, Eden, was included in the cast of the Pat Moxley revue, presented recently in the annual college revue at Whitman college, Walla Walla, Washington. The Pat Moxley presentation was awarded first place in competition with acts presented by other women's social groups on the Whitman campus.

Leave Hospital - Miss Marie Plunkett, who was in the hospital for several days, is recovering.

MARRIAGE ANNULMENT,
TWO DIVORCES GRANTED

A 17-year-old girl's marriage was annulled, and two women petitioners were granted divorces by Judge Adam B. Barclay in the district court here yesterday.

Petitioner for the annulment, Shirley Goo, through her mother, Mrs. Elvin Dorton as guardian ad litem, filed a petition for annulment of her marriage to the son of the defendant, A. E. Cox of McArthur, Oklahoma, to whom she said, she was married at Caldwell, Idaho, December 28, 1932, when she was 15 years old. Annulment was sought on the grounds of fraud and duress. Evidence was that she left Cox a few days after the marriage.

On grounds of alleged cruelty, Mrs. Pearl M. Knutson of Castleford was granted a divorce from Leslie R. Knutson after he withdrew his answer to her complaint. They were married at Vancouver, Washington, September 22, 1930, and are the parents of two children, 8 and 11 years old.

Mrs. Rose B. Whitman was granted a divorce from E. W. Whitman of Twin Falls, to whom she was married in Twin Falls last February 2. She alleged cruelty and asked the court to award her property and maintenance as agreed upon last November 21.

MISSING SWINE, TRUCK
RECOVERED AT NAMPA

Thirteen stolen hogs and a stolen truck in which they were carried away from Kimberly, Idaho, last Thursday night were recovered yesterday at Nampa, according to officers notified at Twin Falls county sheriff's office.

The hogs, valued at $200 and owned by Ray McClinton of Kimberly, had been sold at Nampa at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, the sheriff was advised.

The truck, which belonged to J. D. Claborn of Kimberly, was reported stolen the day after the hogs were taken.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mahel J. Jordan, 69 resident of Twin Falls since 1903, who died Tuesday evening, following a lingering illness from pneumonia, were held yesterday afternoon at the Twin Falls cemetery.

"Play Safe!"
Says Joe Cook

Rev. E. L. White, Methodist minister, was in charge of the services, and Wilton Peck furnished musical selections.

Funerals were E. A. Moon, Claude Stewart, W. H. Wrenner, A. L. Swain, J. C. Beachamp and Bruce Williams.

Interment was in Twin Falls cemetery.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mahel J. Jordan, 69 resident of Twin Falls since 1903, who died Tuesday evening, following a lingering illness from pneumonia, were held yesterday afternoon at the Twin Falls cemetery.

DATE FIXED FOR PLEA ON FORGERY CHARGE

Accused of forgery of a $7.00 check with intent to defraud a local department store last November 22, Charles E. Owens, 27, of Bull and Jerome, took time to enter his plea when he was arraigned in the district court here yesterday. District Judge Adam B. Barclay set next Monday as the date for receiving the plea.

Owens is accused of forging the names of two fictitious persons, R. G. Randall as payee and T. E. Martin as names of the questioned check. W. L. Dunn of Twin Falls appeared as his attorney.

ORCHESTRA PRESENTS
ASSEMBLY PROGRAM

J. T. Bainbridge veteran music director of the Twin Falls high school presented the high school orchestra in a student body assembly yesterday. The Twin Falls orchestra has a roster of 40 members.

After Wilson, Jr., played the only solo, the selection was Christine's "Lily Punks" on a trombone solo. Numbers played by the entire orchestra: "Prelude and Adagio from Suite 'Atchafalaya' by Bligny; the ballet suite from 'Boccaccio' by Schubert; 'Cocorona Cadets' in march to Sousa's music from 'Zerkow' by Handel; the tone poem, 'Annie Bonbons' by Kathleen Roberts; Sobata's march, 'High School

As Van Vlack left the court room, unfamiliar with the premises, he started to walk toward the court room, leaving his seat and moving toward the middle of the room in the direction of the judge's bench. The court inquired his true name and asked whether he had counsel. Van Vlack answered that he had counsel and requested the high school orchestra in a student body assembly yesterday.

I was driving a wonderful new car the other day... it's got a safety-steel body...

... and I found out how they test those steel bodies... roll them down embankments and over cliffs.

That steel body isn't the only safe thing about this car. It's got genuine hydraulic brakes that stop quick as a cat cup winks its eye.

... and it's got safety headlights too - with a powerful beam for country driving... and then a passing beam, which not only shoots the light farther down the road than ever before, but also needs it to the right - instead of in the oncoming driver's eyes.
