Duce Scores League's Sanctions and Pushes War Against Ethiopia

Britain Anxiously Watches Mussolini After Lining Up Mediterranean Nations' Support Africans Claim Towns Recaptured

Benito Mussolini, contemptuous of sanctioning nations, drew Italy to speed down the war path Saturday. "The advocates of the motor," he said, "spurred my thought of peace in Ethiopia except at his own terms. He pressed the fight against the economic wall his fellow nations and former allies have built about him."

Italy went ahead despite the fact Great Britain was rallying Mediterranean league members to her side in case she is drawn into a war with Italy.

British officials were gravely concerned over the delicate situation, but turned once again to the policy of sanctions—one which she launched at Geneva as vigorously as possible.

Rome's reaction was eagerly studied and officials hoped it would be sufficiently impressed by the lineup of Mediterranean powers to bind Britain in case of a desperate Italian act.

Britain went ahead with precautionary measures. It is securing agreements from Turkey, Greece, Yugoslavia and France to help her meet the Spain danger, but a reliable authority said she would fully support her obligations under the league pact.

Britain's stand was explained by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, in a speech at Birmingham.

"The peace proposals are dead and they have already been buried at Geneva. They will not be revived presently and I do not believe any attempt at peaceful settlement must be considered at an end. We must, therefore, go back to the policy of sanctions."

"I trust the nations of the league will show that they are prepared to meet themselves the burden which will be made on any one of their number."

Ethiopia Claims Gains Although the government in Rome recently said it was from Ethiopia claimed two important successes.

A communiqué said southern troops had captured 2000 square miles from the holy city of Aksum, now in Italian hands, and Dege, Shiga, and Talleh.

"Italian losses were considerable, our troops captured ten tanks," said the statement.

Diplomatic sources in Paris asserted Great Britain may propose the creation of a League of Nations pact to back up sanctions.

These quarters told the calling of a special session of the league council around January 10 for this purpose is being considered.

MINER PHOENIX GOVERNOR'S OLD AGE RELIEF PLAN

Attorney General Sees No Immediate Need for New State Laws in Connection With Security Act

(By The Associated Press) BOISE, Dec. 21—Aged Idahoans, pension prospects brightened and current predictions that the legislature will be called into special session soon to enact social security measures were blasted tonight by Attorney General Bert H. Miller in an opinion which upheld Governor Ross' old age pension plan.

In substance, Mr. Miller said that a plan designed to permit Idaho to share in the benefits of the federal social security law, if and when it becomes operative, should immediately require any new state laws.

Under the plan, Idaho residents over 65 years of age, whose income is not more than $100 a month, would be paid $30 monthly from state, county and federal funds.

The federal law was passed by the United States congress shortly before an appropriation to make it operative failed because of a filibuster staged by the late senator Huey P. Long.

Shortly after the recent recall of his advisor and personal representative, H. Bradley McLaughlin, at a conference in Washington, D. C., with the social security board, Governor Ross submitted this question to Mr. Miller:

"May the governor of the state of Idaho, as commissioner of emergency relief and employment, enter into an agreement or contract with the social security act under provisions of Idaho's old-age relief law?"

Mr. Miller's answer was: "The state of Idaho, as commissioner of emergency relief and employment, is not authorized to enter into an agreement or contract with the social security act under provisions of Idaho's old-age relief law."

WOMAN ESCAPES FROM HONAPERS Police Chief Declares Abduction Connected With Loan Racket

(Continued from Page 2, Col. 4) TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 21—New Jersey's historic court of parsonage, which has been the scene of the crown in old English law, may extend beyond the state, according to a decision of the state supreme court.

The court, composed of Governor Harold C. Hoffman, chancellor Luther A. Campbell and six judges of the court of errors and appeals, is akin to the king and its privy council and is bound by neither law nor precedent.

This court of error—Hauptmann's last chance of escaping the electric chair—has been asked to decide the state or federal jurisdiction in the case of Hauptmann himself and a dozen other witnesses of the kidnapping of Mrs. Constance Diller, 23, presently reportedly housewife, who escaped from the state prison with three men had forced her in Brooklyn and driven her to this city.

Mrs. Ritter broke away from her captors here when the auto stopped for a red light. The car sped away in the direction of the city and she had been kidnapped.

She and her husband, Victor, appeared in court yesterday. They were questioned by boulevard police and department of justice agents.

Chief William Clancy of boulevard police said: "The 'Red' force are convinced the 'Red' force is connected with the loan racket."

Police sought a motive for the abduction in Mrs. Ritter's story that she had borrowed $70 from a man for whom she had worked for some time in the city.

Federal Court Finds Basis in Constitution For New Deal Labor Measure

Judge Merrill E. Otis Declares Wagner Act Treats Individuals As 'Recently Emancipated Slave'

(By The Associated Press) KANSAS CITY, Dec. 21—The Wagner labor dispute act, new deal measure giving employees the right to organize and bargain collectively without company interference, was held unconstitutional tonight by Federal Judge Merrill E. Otis.

The opinion was the first federal ruling on the legality of the law enacted by the last congress. Judge Otis granted the Majestic Flour Mills of Aurora, Missouri—a temporary injunction against a national labor relations board complaint.

Which cited it for alleged refusal to bargain a wage and hour agreement with a union of its employees.

Declaring congress had exceeded its constitutional right to regulate commerce with its act, Judge Otis declared that the Wagner act treats individuals as "recently emancipated slaves."

He said the act interferes with the freedom of contract and the right to organize unions and create the labor relations board to mediate disputes growing out of it.

NEW DEAL CLINGS TO POWER TO FIX VALUE OF DOLLAR

Reduction of Silver Content Offers Possible Method of Reaching Buying Program Objectives

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Dec. 21—Plans for continuing the new deal's effort to fix the silver dollar value were disclosed today, thus leaving available a possible method of ultimately reaching objectives of the silver buying program.

The program calls for continued purchases until the maintenance of the existing $1.29 an ounce or until the treasury's monetary reserves consist of one fourth silver and three fourths gold.

Revaluation of the silver dollar to the extent that the gold dollar was devalued nearly two years ago would automatically increase the value of the treasury's silver to a point on the basis of today's figures, that would approach that ratio.

Power Near Expiration However, unless extended by proclamation of the president, this power will expire on January 30. It was contained in the Thomas amendment to the stabilization act which attached the AAA bill of 1933, and reaffirmed with the time limitation in the gold reserve act of 1934.

The latter passed a two-year limitation on authority to cut both the gold and silver contents of the dollar currency and life of the stabilization fund, a $200,000,000 fund with which the treasury has sought to purchase foreign currencies.

All these powers may be renewed and extended by proclamation of the president.

It is believed that the new deal will extend the power, by proclamation of the president. It has been strongly hinted that this would be done by the stabilization fund and the expectation is that authority over the silver dollar will be renewed.

Stanford's Mentor Radiates Confidence As Team Tunes Up

'Tiny' Claims Palo Alto Machine Better Prepared Than In Either Of Two Preceding Trips To Bowl

PALO ALTO, Calif., Dec. 21 (AP)—Stanford's football team will be better prepared to meet Southern Methodist in the New Year's day Rose Bowl game than in either of its two preceding trips to the Pasadena classic.

The opinion was expressed today by Coach C. E. (Tiny) Thornhill after reviewing his troops in a fast workout.

"Our morale is tops, you couldn't ask for anything better, he said. "And this time we have had the benefit of an extra week of practice, because classes were dismissed earlier than in previous years. That extra week of work has developed the team very satisfactorily."

"Predictions for the match are made," Thornhill said when informed Coach Matty Bell had said his S. M. U. team has a chance in any game, if the boys in blue are in shape.

"Moscip were in shape now," he said.

Thornhill was cheered by the return to practice of Moscip, star end whose field goal kicks won three games this year. The latter, wearing from a knee carriage and nursing a fracture of the jaw bone, continued his practice by jogging and bending exercises.

Moscip's value to the team against S. M. U. Dr. Fritz Roth, team physician, said only one team would determine "the strength of the weakened knee, adding Moscip's value to the team is possibly more but probably less."

All indications, Stanford will continue on a once-a-day practice program from now on. The next workout will be held Monday afternoon.

McGuirk's Tackle Ends Mat Match

Oklahoma Scores Victory Over Dude Chick in Salt Lake Arena

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 21 (AP)—Leroy McGuirk, 17, of Oklahoma defeated Dude Chick, 174, of Cleveland, Ohio, last night in a wrestling match at the local arena.

The Oklahoma won the first fall in 25 minutes with a reverse headlock. Chick came back to take the second with an airplane slip 16 minutes later. A flying tackle won the third fall for McGuirk in six minutes.

Rod Penton, 174, of Canada, defeated Paddy Nolan, 160, of Detroit. Nolan took the first fall in 10 minutes with a Boston hold. Penton made quick work of the second with a knockout blow on the head that sent the Canadian to the mat in four minutes. A hammerlock accomplished the victory for Penton eight minutes later.

George Bennett, 172, of Oklahoma, defeated Jly Sherman, 157, of Salt Lake City in a one-fall match. It took 15 minutes for Bennett to pin the Utah with a reverse body drop.

Bak Eaters, 178, of Honolulu, defeated French Leavitt, 175, of Montreal, in a one-fall match. A flying head scissors ended the tilt after 14 minutes.

Three others qualified par for the tricky Oakland layout. They were Ralph Gutland, Dallas, Texas, Paul Joyce, La Habra, California, and Mike De Marsco, Modesto, California.

The feature players for the most part, had to be content with much higher scores. The best of these was Lawson Little, Berkeley amateur champion, who put together 27 and 24 for 71, a score achieved by John Winters of Oakland, who shot 27-26 and 27-26.

Harold McElaie, of Kansas City, Missouri, winner of three California tournaments last season, was to be content with 72 and that California Southern Amateur champion, Smith, shot 72. Outi Datta, a Berkeley amateur champion, took 71 strokes, as did Willie Hunter, the defending champion of the Southern California Open, who shot 72-71 and 73-71.

Datta's round, however, was a 35-37-72, which was bettered by Bing Crosby, the crooner, who shot 71 and 72. The picture picture colony, Richard Arden, suffered extreme stage fright and shot 80.

new stars flashed in the track firmament in 1935, among them Jesse Owens, the Ohio State Negro, who bettered three world records and matched another, all in one day. Owens, however, was beaten in both the broad-jump and 100-meter sprint by another Negro youth, Fulace Frazier of Temple University, at the national meet in Ann Arbor, Mich., last May 28. His performance that day ranks as just about tops for a one-day stand by one man in the history of track and field sports.

Three World Records

Owens unlimbered his legs for a breath-taking leap of 26 feet 8 1/2 inches, far beyond the world record of 26 feet 2 1/2 inches credited to Chetum Nambu of Japan; he shared the world record of 206 yards with a 1200 performance; he bettered the accepted world record of 23 seconds for the 220-yard dash by four-tenths of a second, and he matched the world mark of 9 3/4 seconds in the 100-yard dash.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 21 (AP)—Charley 'Cy' Rigler, veteran National League umpire, who started his career in the days when players rode to the parks in horse-drawn busses died in a hospital today. He was 53.

Rigler became ill at his North-east, Pa., home shortly after the baseball season closed. Physicians advised him to come to Philadelphia. His illness was diagnosed as brain tumor. His condition apparently was improving until a relapse several days ago.

Although Rigler umpired more than 6150 ball games, he never was a player. He was born in Massillon, Ohio, May 16, 1882. He took up the machine trade, but his love for sports drew him to the Central league as an umpire in 1904.

The late Harry Pulliam brought him up to the National league two years later. He had been in the league nine years.

MERGED GERMAN VILLAGES FINISH PREPARATIONS FOR WINTER OLYMPICS IN ALPS

GERMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany (AP)—After two and a half years of planning, these two villages are merged into one town and everything is ready now for the Winter Olympics, February 6 to 16.

The first test of the unimpeded progress of the winter games is sanctioned even when the worst possible weather conditions are taken into account.

Dr. Karl Winter von Hall, president of the committee for the Winter Olympics, said when he announced completion of preparations.

Despite an abundance of lakes nearby, all ideally suited for skating events, an ice stadium which will be the scene for figure skating and ice hockey competition was built in the center of the Olympic village.

Modern apparatus for manufacture of artificial ice makes the layout of the ice rink possible. The rink's surface will be crackles and steady. Neither sun nor rain, therefore, can influence the quality of the ice.

The stadium can be illuminated and has seating accommodations for 10,000 spectators.

Speed skating competition is scheduled to take place on nearby Rössler lake.

The stadium, downhill and combined run and jump courses, with one small and one big jump, are united into a tremendous ski stadium on the Garmisch mountain where 80,000 spectators can observe the start as well as finish of the events.

A few meters from the stadium other with a 90-foot steel tower between. On this tower the Olympic fire will burn during the games.

This start is a wooden structure of the larger jump is 120 feet high.

It is predicted that only about 4000 spectators will be able to have a chance to finish in front. The record is 232 feet.

Prepared for Warm Weather

If a sudden rise in temperature should make progress of the ski competition impossible the events will take place in the highly mountain range.

WARD was a standout this year when breaking into the open, making at least one sensational run in each game. His most spectacular sprint was an 80-yard dash for a touchdown in the Montana game.

Idaho's "Mad West" coaching staff, the Hillelith all season, head line coach Percy Glapp commended Theron Ward, considered Ward an exceptional blocker.

As Ward runs the 100-yard dash in 1936, he will add record-rapid speed in the Western halfback, which is already has the following Chicago share of U.G.L.A. Ward will also have a record-rapid 200-yard dash, weighing 200 pounds and standing 6 feet 3 inches.

Experts Consider Movement For Frankness In Treatment of Football Subsidization Third In Importance

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 (AP)—An echo of pre-depression days rang through the sports world in 1935. Many old-line sports hit the comeback trail; additional interest was displayed in others, and such innovations as night baseball in the major leagues shaped the year's principal sporting trends in the opinion of more than 100 observers participating in the 45th annual Associated Press sports poll. Rivaling these developments were the movement for frankness in bringing college football subsidization into the open; the spread of gambling in all sports, especially in football and racing; a tendency toward a more "open" game in football and the rise of Negro athletes to national prominence, particularly in track and field and on the gridiron.

Duke the Sheriff, Ex-King of Waves, Retires From Olympics

HONOLULU (AP)—Axe has lifted the legs that drove Duke Kahanamoku to international swimming glory, and next year the famous Hawaiian star will be absent from the Olympic games for the first time since 1928. Plainly unexcused in the light shirt that covered his brown shoulders, Duke sat in his office and virtually ended his competitive career by announcing he would have no time to train sufficiently for 1936 competition.

"If I could throw everything aside," he said, "I think as hard as I did before. I think I could compete. My legs are stiff though; they would take a lot of practice. I have no time for that. A man has to work in his own way, and I have to be a bachelor. Duke is 45. His stroke still gives him a little trouble, but the time has slowed the legs that brought the "flatter" kick to swimming. He has not competed since the 1928 Los Angeles games. By persistence, he won a place on the Olympic team for the fifth time with that "flatter" kick. Duke still swims well, but he keeps in "condition" and his "flatter" kick is still there.

WHEN DILLON GRAHAM When a bold front fails to get results the government frequently resorts to strategy to smash rings of illegal duck shooters. Here's a story of how the government turned to strategy to bring down the illegal market in duck hunting. Federal authorities, learning that Smith and Zanier Islands in the Gulf were the centers of the illegal market, decided they would watch the islands could be watched at their lawless occupation, was necessary. A government agent, in the guise of an ornithologist, went to Smith to obtain specimens and study bird life of the Chesapeake Bay islands, says the Washington Star. He detected, death awaited the agent. Threatened With Death When the "ornithologist" arrived, he was met by suspicious islanders, who seized and searched him before they would allow him to remain at their water-bound stronghold. Several of the villagers guided the agent on his hunt after rare birds. He trapped, skinned and mounted various specimens under their surveillance. Certain fishermen watched the agent's coffee night and day. They warned him that death lay in wait for him if he proved to be a federal agent. Two-Hundred-Pound Weapon The purported ornithologist eventually gained the confidence of various villagers, who allowed him to accompany them on their duck shooting trips. He saw ducks shot by the thousands, as many as 125 flocks at a single discharge of the huge, belted guns used by the poachers. These guns weigh more than 200 pounds, have barrels 10 feet long and throw out 1 1/2 pounds of scatter shot. In addition to solving the secrets of the illicit gunners, the agent also learned the measures and methods used by the duck trappers in catching the birds alive. It took about eight months of daily visits to complete the dangerous mission, and led to the arrest of the duck bootleggers.

ILLEGAL SALE OF LIQUOR ALLEGED

Three Local Establishments Close Under Court Orders

Three Twin Falls establishments where liquor allegedly was kept for sale were closed Sunday morning by Sheriff E. F. Frater served district court orders directing proprietors and owners of the premises involved to show cause in the district court here next December 27 why they should not be enjoined from re-opening and resuming alleged liquor sales.

The court order also directed the sheriff to close the establishments and seize liquor, furniture and fixtures pending the outcome in the injunction proceedings.

Establishments against which court orders were directed last evening were:

Courtesy Club, Incorporated, on second floor of building at 153 Main avenue west; Everett Rogers, manager or proprietor; Ed Calhoun, 141 E. B. Bower, owner of the property, and Thomas M. Robertson, her agent.

The O'Gar Store, 118 Second avenue south; Steve Baltes, proprietor; P. B. Johnston, property owner. Bismarck Club, Incorporated, 219 Shoshone street north; W. R. Cameron and O. C. Coleman, managers or proprietors; H. P. Barger, property owner.

Asks Seizure and Sale
Complaints against these establishments were lodged late yesterday by Prosecuting Attorney Edward Babcock, and were supported by affidavits by the sheriff and three other persons.

District Judge Adam D. Barclay signed the temporary closing orders and the orders to show cause why permanent injunctions should not be granted.

In the complaints the prosecutor asked that the establishments named be adjudged liquor nuisances, and that the sheriff be directed to close the establishments and confiscate and sell their liquors, furniture and fixtures to reimburse the state for costs of prosecution and to cover fines, and that permanent injunctions be issued restraining the operators from re-opening the establishments for the purpose of selling liquor.

REVIEWING THE 1935 SPORTS PARADE

Ows Negro star, and Owens, in the 100 meters, and following up with a smashing triumph over the Buckeye star in the broad jump. Aided by a slight breeze, Peacock took the dash in the better-than-world-record time of 12.2 seconds. He cleared away from the takeoff board 20 feet 3 inches in the jump to conquer Owens by three-quarters of an inch.

The season produced other grand performances. Keith Brown of Yale's famous pole vault dynasty cleared the bar at the world record height of 14 feet, 8 1/2 inches in the intercollegiate A. A. A. championship.

Three far western stars, Phil Cope and Roy Stanley of Southern California and Tom Moore, led the world figure of 14.2 seconds for the 120-yard high hurdles.

A prep school youth, Leroy Kirkpatrick, of the Montezuma, Calif., boys' school, did the 110-meter high hurdles in 14.2 to equate a world mark.

Glen Cunningham, Kansas' stout middle-distance star, who holds the world record at one mile, whose great duels with Bill Beaman highlighted the 1934 season, was as good as ever, but lacking competition most of the time, was lost in the glare of Owens' brilliance. With Bronson devoting but little time to thorough foot-racing, Cunningham won all the chicle mile and 1,500-meter races. His best race of the year was the 4:09.8 Baxter mile indoors.

Holler notified in the magistrate's court yesterday that he was arrested by police officers and held in jail for about six hours after he had fallen asleep in a local car store. He said he had suffered for lack of sleep for several nights before on account of a bolt or carbunkle on the left knee. His testimony was supported by that of three other witnesses.

Testimony in support of the police complaint was given by Police Chief S. B. Elrod, sergeant Jack Empey and Night Desk Sergeant William LaVon.
