

Bloody Clashes Mark Leftists' Drive For Soviet Rule In Spain

Eight Persons Known Dead, 45 Reported Wounded In Rioting; Government Expected To Declare Martial Law

MADRID, Feb. 21 (Friday).—Eight persons were known dead and 45 were reported wounded in riotous demonstrations in various parts of Spain last night, as the outgrowth of the victory of leftists in Sunday's general elections.

The government was generally expected to declare martial law throughout Spain today.

Madrid continues to be a scene of disturbances directed against Catholic rights.

The province of Cordoba was placed under a state of war and assaults were made on religious headquarters at Alcala, Valencia, Seville, Barcelona, Palma Del Rio and Villa Del Real.

In the middle of the celebrations came a prediction from socialist leaders that establishment of the new government was a stepping stone to a Spanish revolution.

They said they hoped to be able to achieve a union of the two parties within the next five years.

Without cooperation a high percentage of the socialist party stated privately that the socialists have no intention of giving Madrid to the army.

The socialist party, said this percentage, entered the lettings for the new government only as a means of assuring the downfall of the rightist dictatorship.

MUNITIONS PROBE CLIMAX INVOLVES POLITICAL FIGURE

Former Democratic National Committeeman Retained by Aircraft Industry for Influence in Washington

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The munitions investigation closed a twenty-month run as the capital's foremost show tonight with a final curtain disclosure that for the value of his political influence, the aircraft industry retained O. Max Gardner, a former Democratic national committeeman as counsel.

This development capped a reluctant tale by three collectors of old-but not too old—stories revealing how these and other firearms are bought by the pound from the Boeing aircraft company and sold to South American revolutionists and their governments at a bulging profit.

In addition, the final day's testimony included evidence that some airplane manufacturers are accustomed to paying "kick" money in selling their product abroad; that this is necessary for their proposals even to reach the consideration of government officials.

While the committee progressed in a discussion of the problem of a lack of laws governing the distribution of firearms, the senate enacted and sent to the house a measure intended to fill that need, partially aimed at prohibiting interstate shipment of such implements except to licensed dealers.

The disclosure about Gardner, former Democratic committeeman from North Carolina, came with the introduction of a letter, written by James F. Murray, eastern representative of Boeing Aircraft company, to C. L. Egidius, president of the Boeing Aircraft Company.

Assigned From Committee Gardner, a former-governor of North Carolina, resigned from the Senate in 1934 and returned to Washington shortly after which President Hoover sought to purge the committee of members who had been in Washington since holding committee in the committee as well.

Being a representative of knowledge of an anti-socialist agent, Gardner was removed from the committee.

The act will be administered by a five-man committee in each county. The act will be administered by a five-man committee in each county.

Illuminating Gas Causes Collapse Of Two Nurses

WOBURN, Mass., Feb. 20 (AP)—Illuminating gas, a hospital official said tonight, caused the collapse last night of two nurses in the delivery of a baby and severely affected the attending physician. A third nurse attending the patient was unconscious.

Elmer E. Silver, president of Choate Memorial hospital, said the gas escaped from a sterilizing apparatus which had been in use for 25 years.

A new sterilizing apparatus was installed immediately, but tonight the mother, whose identity was not disclosed, was recovering as was her child, an infant, whose mother was not aware of what had happened, doctors said.

RELIEF MACHINERY SET UP FOR IDAHO

GOVERNOR NAMES COUNTY BOARDS TO ADMINISTER FUNDS

BOISE, Feb. 20 (AP)—Governor Ross completed setting up machinery today to administer the old-age and dependent children program of the federal social security act in Idaho.

Already federal funds amounting to approximately $175,000 have been made available for February and March and this amount will be matched by the counties and the state.

The governor estimated that approximately 6,000 aged, 200 blind and upwards of 1,000 dependent children will benefit financially under the new setup.

The need in Idaho who cannot qualify under the setup as they are unable to obtain employment from the work-progress-administration will be cared for by the old-age and dependent children program.

FARM BILL VOTE LIMITS SPENDING TO $500,000,000

AMENDMENT TO PLACE RESTRICTION ON ANNUAL CASH OUTLAY CARRIES IN HOUSE; FURTHER ACTION DELAYED

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Imposition of a $500,000,000 limit to annual spending under the administration's farm bill was voted today by the house, but even as leaders pressed toward final passage by tomorrow night the agricultural problem was revived again in the senate.

The limit to spending, previously voted by the senate, was virtually the only major measure passed by the house after general debate was ended late in the day and the consideration of amendments begun.

Concomitantly one suggested change limit for further action was introduced.

In the senate, meanwhile, Copper of Kansas, a supporter of Governor McLaughlin of Kansas for the Republican presidential nomination, introduced a rural reorganization bill.

It was intended, he told the senate, as an addition to water that substitute for the soil conservation subsidy bill already passed by that branch.

Both Capper and Representative Koger of West, who is sponsoring the measure, were backed by some of the London plan—were backed the portion of the bill which would pay the farmer a subsidy on that portion of his crop consumed domestically, equal to the average price of that portion of the crop.

Late in the day, after hours of session which included a vote on a house substitute its own farm bill.

Weakening of Peace Pact Feared As Diplomats of Italy and Germany Confer

Meeting Of The Dictators Ambassador Files To Rome After Talk With Hitler Von Hassell Busy

(By The Associated Press) BERLIN, Feb. 20.—The possibility of a new agreement between Germany and Italy, the center of interest for diplomats tonight as Ulrich von Hassell, Germany's ambassador to Italy, left for Rome after his second conference in five days with Reichsleiter Adolf Hitler.

Hassell was expressed in diplomatic circles that Hitler and Premier Mussolini were discussing through Von Hassell, the terms of a new treaty withdrawing as a guarantee of the Locarno pact if no sanctions were imposed.

Von Hassell had flown here after a conference with Hitler. Day after day he has been in contact with German officials.

German officials declined to discuss the feasibility of the ambassador's flying trip, and ignored reports from Italy that Hitler and Mussolini were in an agreement to revise the Locarno pact.

Regarding the Locarno pact, diplomats pointed out that France and Belgium were not consulted in the intention to abide by it in case the demilitarized Rhineland were ever again occupied.

Hoffman Sees Futile Grilling As Evidence Kidnap Case Unsolved

New Jersey Governor Comments On Failure Of Attorney To 'Get Something'

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 20.—Governor Harold G. Hoffman said tonight the failure of Samuel S. Leibowitz, New York attorney, to "get something" from Bruno Richard Hauptmann convinced him "more than ever" that the Lindbergh kidnaping case was unsolved.

The governor, who on January 16 gave Hauptmann a 30-day reprieve, said he did not plan another.

A formal statement issued tonight by the governor's office said:

"Asked the question 'do the statements of Mr. Leibowitz influence your position that the Lindbergh case is still unsolved?' Governor Hoffman said 'no. I am convinced that ever. It had hoped that Mr. Leibowitz, in almost nine hours of questioning, would have gotten something from Hauptmann if he had anything to tell."

Wilson said the maximum reduction of acreage privileges for all purposes, including withdrawal for national parks, shall not exceed 20 per cent of the acreage for the ten-year term, and no reduction greater than five per cent for the first year.

THE HAUPTMANN CASE

Withdrawal from the Hauptmann case of the latest recruit to the legal forces for his defense, Samuel S. Yehowitz of New York, is capable of, at one interpretation. Mr. Yehowitz says: "I cannot see how I can serve the interests of justice by any further participation. He might just as well have added in so many words, 'My connection with the case was prompted by a desire to obtain a truthful story from the accused man and as I have been unable to do this I see no occasion to waste further time on the matter.'"

The incident of this attorney's connection leaves the status of the case unchanged. He was not retained by either the State or by Hauptmann but entered the case at the instance of Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, whose interest in Hauptmann's fate has been pronounced from the beginning and whose enthusiasm at one stage led to her giving up something over a hundred thousand dollars in money to Captain B. Means, a Washington crook now serving a prison sentence for his part in the affair, in return for his assurance that he was in touch with the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby.

Such extra legal efforts can hardly be said to serve the ends of justice. They indicate a lack of confidence in the orderly processes of the law and create doubt and uncertainty often where no real grounds exist. Probably Hauptmann could tell a story if he would but nothing which he could say would serve to mitigate his own criminality. He might even be willing to implicate others but this would not excuse his own guilt.

WE'RE SORRY

Again the News calls attention to the fact that one of the rules in connection with the publication of communications in its columns is that such communications must carry a signature.

A number of letters have recently been received, the subject matter of which was all that an Editor could wish, but no newspaper cares to accept responsibility for anonymous letters. Merely as evidence of good faith those who write such letters should be willing to sign them.

THE NEWS REGrets the necessity of such a rule but the reasons for it should be obvious.

FIVE-DAY WEEK

The five-day working week, a novelty before the depression, is already pretty well established in American life. A survey made by the National Industrial Conference Board shows two million seven hundred sixty-seven thousand employees out of four million five hundred thousand, working for one thousand four hundred four out of two thousand four hundred fifty-two business establishments, now on this basis.

The short week prevails less among the very large and very small companies than among those in between. Thus seventy-one per cent of the five-day workers are found in companies with five thousand to ten thousand employees. The grouping is largely geographical. The five-day week has started in the East and North, and makes its way gradually southward and westward.

HAND AX VICTORY

There was some nifty wood chopping in Handle-Washington, recently. An eighty-year-old woodsman and a man half that age were contestants. The older wanted to prove that he could hold his own in a "now-forged age." He used only a hand ax while the younger man used a motor-driven saw and an ax. The two worked rapidly for an hour. The one used his saw to cut and his ax to split the wood. The other used his hand ax for both purposes. It was a close race, with the two men piling up sticks at a fairly even rate. Finally the judges declared the old man the victor "by a few sticks." It was a greater victory to the old man than it seems to the uninitiated. At any rate, the winner was moved to climb a stump and recite a poem he had composed. And he will "Washington woodsman abandon the motor saw for the hand ax? Hardly."

VULCAN IN THE U. S. A.

The city of Birmingham, Alabama, contributed to the St. Louis Fair a 60-ton statue of Vulcan, god of fire and iron. It seemed an appropriate statue for an iron and steel center, as it was taken home again after the fair. Only recently, however, has it achieved a permanent resting place after being moved around for thirty years. The figure, which is second in size only to the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor, has become worn and discolored.

Now it is to be repaired and placed in the center of a five-acre park on the top of Red Mountain, where it will be visible for twenty miles. Its battered surface will be covered with aluminum. Floodlights will illumine it at night. Staircases and observation platform will enable visitors to observe the statue at close hand and to view the scenery in the distance.

We hope no archeologists, digging up American cities some centuries hence, will write any treatises on Vulcan-worship in the United States in the early twentieth century.

"EXCESSES THE GREAT DID DIE"

(New York Times)

A once well-known couple in the New England Primer ran:

Excess the Great did die And so must you and I.

But the further finds in Persepolis reported in yesterday's Times make him live again as a king of kings, ruler of an empire the greatest in the world of his time, extending from what is now Afghanistan to the borders of Ethiopia. He is called in these newly discovered tablets as Darius the Great, and as an "Aryas of Aryas lineage," but is identified by most modern scholars as King Ahazertius, who showed such great kindness to Esther and her people. His father, Darius, had left him to take up the reins of the Greek for the defeat at Marathon, but he was slain before he had been attempted when the stone slabs were inscribed by a wandering soldier in a "bar-streaching cart" the fontana that "dwell in the sea" and those that "dwell beyond the sea." He died, however, complete the "most splendid of the imperial residences of ancient Persia" forty years after it was begun by his father—the palace whose double gateway was approached by a spectacular double flight, with 300 steps of rising colonnades, in which armies of twenty-three nations are depicted as bearing gifts and tribute. But the Persian defeat at Salamis and Plataea only enhanced the glory of the Greek victory at Marathon.

Even more interesting than this news from the ancient world is that news from Greece that a number of letters have recently been received, the subject matter of which was all that an Editor could wish, but no newspaper cares to accept responsibility for anonymous letters. Merely as evidence of good faith those who write such letters should be willing to sign them.

The News regrets the necessity of such a rule but the reasons for it should be obvious. Probably Hauptmann could tell a story if he would but nothing which he could say would serve to mitigate his own criminality. He might even be willing to implicate others but this would not excuse his own guilt.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Thoughtful stroll: Impossible heading rich-American. Jimmie a Midway. Dumbest invention: The porcelain evening ship. Lee Keedee suggests a cricket's chirp. Add sure-fire comic relief: Henry Armetta, the pud-gled in her entrance, which was, by course, lacking a phase of stage craft and an accolade of applause was especially attracted. Then she weaved to the center of the stage and her speech was thick and funny. Valiantly her fellow players tried to gloss over her dereliction. But it grew worse and worse as the audience squirmed. And mercifully the curtain went down on a play and a career.

If there is anything more beautiful than a winter birth in the airy white splendor of school moonlight I have never seen it. Added to this vista in a turn of the compass, near Darden the other night was a soft, slow fall of snow. Put on an slight snowfall a little further on a "lonely white cottage," its windows gleaming yellow, though from "himmed" branches, with a sheepfold and dovecote. And only a little spin into the city with news of a rural peace which most city dwellers look forward. And look to it.

I used to think there was no more exciting moment in New York than when Frank Trout tapped his foot against his desk, or the light beam on the New Amsterdam theatre, lavish and successive curtains slowly parting, and another "play" was on. Here was a glossy, bejeweled audience representing every phase of the celebrity circuit—the 400 Wall Street players, relating authors, famous painters, librettists, composers and that inevitable "circle" of "rich" dressed creatures first might have been deplorable, standardized. Name the producer and 'til his year audience. One whetted to a contagious single, they sit in wooden-fringe Broadway. Not since the "pre-Bronte" days have there been many better shows, as good as it was late.

The most agonizing first night in the memory of critics and first nighters was about 18-1900-00. A popular star in her zenith falter-

WASHINGTON By Ray Tucker "SCAR" When you mention "Scar" to an old-line Republican in Massachusetts and elsewhere, he looks on passively but coldly and disapprovingly. He says "Scar" is a name that is never likely to be heard again. Just starting seems to be a start. New York offers the best example of Mr. Borah's trouble-making-potentialities, although the situation on the national level is not so clear. Charles D. Hilles have provoked a quiet demand that the national committee man step down and out. These come, not from the liable laborer's enemies, but from his friends. The politicians are willing to window-dress to rob the Idahoan anti-old guard philippic of its force. The movement will stir up dissentions and leave scraps of life from somewhere. Even so, his fund is supposed to come from New York, where wealthy enemies would like to cut Mr. Hilles for purely local political-financial reasons. Every man of faction nursing a grudge against existing leaders would see the man from Idaho as a friend in need, if not in deed. Their interest in his fortunes is only the politician's. But he's shrewd enough to know it.

Guiding Your Child

By ALICE CLARISA RICHMOND

"BEHIND THE TIMES" In their youth both Mr. and Mrs. Brown had been looked upon as radicals. Both came of conservative families, and were a source of embarrassment and annoyance to their friends and relatives. But after marriage, and still more after their children began to arrive, they became conservative. The year in the advanced theories which they had held, forgot to notice that the world had left them behind in their radicalism. When their children grew up they in turn went to the left wing, but they were not so sure. They were somewhat fanatic. Arguments were continuous. The parents felt that the children were threatening to undermine the very foundations of civilization. The children accused the parents of narrowness and intolerance, and a backward-looking block progress. The parents quoted authorities which they had known 20 years before—and were outraged at being told that their authorities and ideas were out-dated. Even advanced thought grows old-fashioned. Parents who wish to keep pace with their children's new thinking and doing, and who cannot afford to rest secure in what they learned at school, must give their superior their education may have been. What came advanced to one generation, conservative to the next, and the opinions had theories of one's youth cannot be held without modification through life. Parents and mothers may just begin their real education when they have their children. Experience of child-bearing, however, is not enough. Parents must study as much as the child and keep broad-minded and tolerant and understand in touch with what the new world is doing, at least to enough in the modern world who is living in the modern world.

White Offers Bill For Orchard Loans

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Representative Compton White (D-Ill.) introduced a resolution yesterday to authorize the War Relocation Administration to make loans to fruit growers for rehabilitation of their orchards.

The measure would appropriate $1,000,000 for orchard loans and would require a first lien on all crops during 1935 to 1940 to secure them. White proposed to restrict the use of the loans to first-year crops to a $25,000 limit for any one borrower.

Grace Moore's life is cut out for her till next fall, that's how busy she is.

Spain and at her villa in Cannes. Grace will leave here February 20, the day after her current and unnamed picture is completed.

She could be her concert tour in several southern cities during March, vacation enough. And so would you if you got as much money for singing as she does.

Ducks Eat Parallels. The reason Grace Moore's work for many studios instead of just one is ducks. It's her friend of a century because he might be advised to a picture during the dark hunting season. One thinks he has shot more ducks than all other hunters in Hollywood together. Moore said, "Shut up." Incidentally he's playing his 100th picture part now.

The native girl, Cigarette, in "Under Two Flags" in no wise compares with any role Cigarette Colbert ever has played before. She replaced the French lass Sibylle Simon, who said she couldn't play the part, after dacting in her own of Illinois. The picture sells fellow Outlaw's original in at least one respect: Cigarette will be killed after the life of the Legionnaire (Ronald Colman).

A Perfect Butler. Eric Blore, who's in the picture, one of the screen's two or three perfect butlers, was given his stage start by the late G. F. Huntley, Sr., an English actor. Huntley's son, G. P., Jr., and Blore, who call themselves brothers because the elder Huntley took such a fatherly interest in Blore, are working together for the second time, with Joe E. Brown, in "Bobs O' Fire." They were in the stage version of "The Gay Divorcee."

Clay Bates Post, who starred in numerous pictures 10 years ago, has one of the important roles in "Reunion," a spy story. The picture is being made by Paramount.

The stage was United Artists' then. It's Paramount's now. It's "Clay" who has retained best-dressed-lita, thinks Hollywood is demoralizing from a fashion standpoint. She says there aren't so many women wear informal attire for formal occasions. Only one woman out of 10 in Hollywood, she complains, adheres strictly to the standards of correct dressing.

Don Cordingley Faces Stiff Competition on Snow-Packed Course

Celey Baum And Lloyd Van Sickle Bid For Championship At Ashton With Finely Trained Strings

ASHTON, Idaho, Feb. 20 (AP)—Some 15 dog teams, trained for the 24-mile grind by weeks of mushing through deep snow and over beaten trails, were ready tonight for the 20th annual running of the American dog derby Saturday afternoon.

The prize for the winner is $400 in money and a leg on the new all-terrain cup. Don Cordingley, the champion who will defend his title Saturday, took final possession of the old cup a year ago by winning his third race. Three hundred dollars additional will be distributed among other finishers.

Beginning at 1:15 p. m., Mountain standard time, the opening whistles of five dogs will start over the first lap of the track at intervals of one minute. The order of starters is determined in a draw shortly before the race.

The rules require that each entrant finish with all five of his dogs, or more or more than become incapacitated, they can be out of the string and hauled for the rest of the way on the sled if desired.

The course, leveled and smoothed by tractors and snow plows, is regarded as one of the best in the history of the dog derby. Through the main stretch of the town, where the snow starts to melt, it is a back fire trail, high, hounding the spectators a good view of the panting dogs and their drivers.

Cordingley is expected to be given the competition this year from at least two directions. Celey Baum, his closemate and rival for race honors, has a finely trained team of six setters as his entry. Lloyd Van Sickle, driving a string entered by the Porcupine Dog camp, will probably have the largest rooster section of any contestant in the 250-Kentuckians who comprise the camp.

Pepper Martin To Get Bonus If Cards Have Cash

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 20 (AP)—John "Pepper" Martin, 29, is to receive a $100 bonus if his card team wins the 1936-37 season with the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I'll get a raise, I'll get a bonus," said the pitcher, explaining that the contract he mailed differed from the previous two he refused to sign, in that it provided for a $100 bonus if the Cardinals decide they have enough money at the end of the season.

The basic salary will be the same as last year, reported to be approximately $11,000.

M-Men Triumph Over Bull Quint

Additional entries developed today when the 20th annual Twin Falls M-Men triumphed over the Bull Quint in the 1936-37 season. The M-Men, led by Van Sickle, defeated the Bull Quint, led by Van Sickle, in a thrilling race.

Drivers continued to sign up as the season progresses. The list included Jack Drew near. The list included Jack Drew near. The list included Jack Drew near.

To add to the festivities that announced the opening of the season, a program of dog races for boys and girls, all racing behind horses and a boogie and reading, card, will be presented.

The big question tonight was whether the M-Men would be able to hold their own against the Bull Quint. The M-Men, led by Van Sickle, defeated the Bull Quint, led by Van Sickle, in a thrilling race.

'Whopper' Ranks As Strong Contender In Santa Anita Handicap

Backers Of 'Discovery' Hear Conflicting Reports; Hal Price Headley's Huge Horse At Home In Mud

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20 (AP)—The big race is still 48 hours away, but the din, clatter, speculation and guesswork rolled into high gear today after the outcome of the Santa Anita handicap.

Up to now the experts—and they include any man, woman or child who has ever seen a horse run around a race track or pull a man's wagon down the street—had concluded that Discovery was a certain winner.

The only point of controversy hinged on how far in front Alfred G. Vanderbilt's great champion would finish to pocket the $100,000 prize and its added money.

Top Row, A. A. Bacon's mighty Whopper, and Mrs. F. A. Carver's Time Supply were considered to be great hopes of course, and dangerous. But Discovery, Hal Price, shine or mud, looked the best.

This conflicting report, most of them imported by turban and touring sports writers, filled in. It seemed that Whopper, after a great campaign in Florida, was shipped out here merely to fool the natives with the word colonial really meant in horse language, Hal Price, headley's carrying rock, which carries a 20-pound weight advantage over Discovery in the big mud.

Game Birds Fed By Gooding Men

Blatkin bowlers won three straight last night over the National Laundry quintet, 2601 to 2400. McArthur of the winners scored with a 100.

GOODING, Feb. 20—Gooding county sportsmen are having a good time during the recent severe weather, have fed the game birds in the county. The birds are fed with 500 pounds provided by the state game department, as well as considerable feed donated by various farmers.

J. Taylor Williams, president of Gooding county apartment association, has been superintending the feeding of the birds with the aid of R. C. Prindner and E. O. Hall.

Nearly all of the pheasant crop has arrived and most dead birds are found to have been poisoned. Many have been run down by careless drivers.

Williams reports quail have suffered from the same cause. He has succeeded in bringing through several fine coveys.

U. S. Supremacy In Olympic Field Events Challenged

Facts and Figures Disclose Sensational Development Among America's Rivals During Last Few Years

BY ALAN GOULD (Associated Press Sports Editor) NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)—Despite the fact that the United States has available, America's time-honored ability to capture a majority of the medals in the Olympic track and field sports at Berlin this summer.

A few facts and figures will show how sensationally America's rivals have done in the last few years. The first Japanese to clear 14 feet in the pole vault, finished second last year. The U. S. had taken five of nine gold medals in the pole vault.

Harald Anderson, of Sweden, holds the new discus world record of 111 feet, 11 1/2 inches. A German, Hans Beyer, holds the world record in the shot put since the last Olympics. The Finn, led by Matti Järvinen, holds the world record for the 100-yard dash.

From the homebred standpoint, American rivals have had a lack of amazing improvement. The broad jumping of Eulacio Pascoo, who jumped 14 feet 10 inches, and the shot put of Carlsson, California's latest 24 feet, Einar Mendenhall and William Sifton, both had cleared 14 feet, with something to spare.

Jack Turjan, another American, holds the world record in the 100-yard dash. He has won the world championship of 57 feet 1 inch, but he has lost to the current world holder, a newcomer, "Dimmy," Zalta of Boston, who had cleared 57 feet 1 inch last Saturday.

Wendell, Feb. 20—Latac, editor of the Wendell family that has made basketball history here for the past several years, outscored a well-known Wendell in the last second of play here tonight as the Wendell high school boys defeated the Wendell high school girls.

This, through an excellent chance to rebound the high jump record in Berlin, because the Wendell family has a long history of vaulting honors, but the prospect is that the discus and shot put titles will go to Europe.

Two of our 1932 Olympic winners, Waugh and John Anderson, in the 100-yard dash, were rivaled at the last night by the Wendell high school veteran catcher, who threatened to become a serious holdout.

DEATH INTERRUPTS TRIAL OF LAWSUIT

Court Rules After All-Day Argument That Proceedings Continue

Sudden death early yesterday morning of Dr. John Richard Morgan, when 1934 a Twin Falls physician and surgeon, interrupted trial of a lawsuit in the district court here.

As a witness for Miss Marie Henderson, 24-year-old waitress who is suing Twin Falls county for $50,000 damages for alleged illness, have been caused by a mistletoe in a county hospital attendant, Dr. Morgan testified at the trial late Wednesday afternoon. He corroborated his testimony under direct examination, introducing a number of X-ray prints and records in Miss Henderson's case the past three years, and was to have returned to court this morning for cross-examination.

Court Solves Problem
The physician's sudden death prevented a question which attorneys argued throughout the day and which District Judge Adam B. Hays finally solved with a ruling, over the county's objection, that there be no mistrial, and that trial would be resumed next Monday morning with the same jury, but that all of Dr. Morgan's testimony should be stricken from the records.

Evidence previously introduced was in the effect that Miss Henderson suffered permanent disability resulting from an injection of more than a quart of boric acid solution that was furnished by a hospital attendant when such solution had been prescribed following an operation for appendicitis in the spring of 1933.

Jury members on the panel for this trial were excused for the remainder of the term.

The new medical court term in Twin Falls opens Wednesday, March 11.

LAW MAKES REPORT ON DISEASES MANDATORY

Heads of families and landlords, as well as attending physicians, are required by Idaho law to report certain communicable diseases to public health officials, Edward Babcock, Twin Falls county attorney, said last evening. The law to which the attorney referred says:
