House Hears Rumble of Discontent Over New Deal Tax Plans

Ohioans To Open Democratic Attack On Administration's Revenue Program; Bipartisan Revolt Threatens

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Rumblings of dissatisfaction in Democratic quarters developed the administration's revenue program tonight and threatened to stir up a bitter row in the house ways and means committee.

Coincidentally, it was disclosed that President Roosevelt had advised congressional leaders by letter to hold appropriations more closely to budget figures or face a request for even more taxes.

His warning was directed especially toward the senate, where the first report on the revenue program will be introduced.

The letter went to Senator Charles McNary (D-Ind.), chairman, respectively, of the senate and house appropriations committees.

Ohioans Leads Attack.—Representative Lammon (D-Ohio) planned the first report on the attack on the new tax program.

These two taxes are estimated to yield $100,000,000 and $100,000,000, respectively. The committee is figuring that $83,000,000 more might be produced from temporary retention of the capital stock and excess profits taxes and $20,000,000 from the new inheritance tax.

Roosevelt's Suggestions.—President Roosevelt had suggested that the tax on corporate dividends and undistributed profits and $30,000,000 over perhaps three years from a surcharge on the income tax.

Among the committee members at the meeting here today were Robert E. La Follette, chairman of the Democratic national committee for Idaho for 10 years.

Party headquarters will be opened in New York on Monday.

RIVERS OVERFLOW ON THOUSANDS OF ADDITIONAL ACRES

Scores of Lowland Dwellers in Southern Illinois Flee to Hills for Safety as Streams Burst Banks

(By The Associated Press.) The Ohio river rose below Cincinnati tonight, flooding thousands of additional acres in Kentucky and Indiana.

Bursting their banks in southern Kentucky, the swollen Kentucky river and other lower valley tributaries threatened serious damage to property.

Scores of lowland dwellers in southern Illinois, adjacent to the Kentucky river, fled to the hills for safety.

National guardsmen marched out of Pittsburgh where the "face washing" of the flood-sold "golden triangle" was expected to be completed.

Low temperatures in the potential Wisconsin flood zone of the upper Midwest are regarded as minimizing the menace of high waters there.

A Series of Historical Sketches of Early Days in Southern Idaho

A DATA HUNT WITH INDIAN

The big game of fifty years ago in what is now the Twin Falls region, bordered on the north by the Sawtooth and on the south by the Snake river, was a different thing from the game of today.

In those days the antelope dealt entirely in the valley and were numerous on the north side of the Snake river, especially between Goose Creek and Rock Creek, in what is now known as the Dry Creek, Murrain and Hansen Butte country.

After the settlement of the north side of the Snake river, and large numbers of them were compelled to stay in the mountains during the winter, and the tall taken by some of the hard winters has been great, but still the Sawtooth mountains are the home of more will game than any of our western ranges, excepting the preserve of Yellowstone Park.

Malad Stage Station In the fall of 1878 I made a visit to my brother-in-law, James Patton, who with his family lived at and had charge of the Malad stage station. At the time the Kelton-Dallas stage road crossed the Snake river at Paine's or Lewis' ferry, which was situated a few hundred yards above the Thousand Springs and after climbing the hill on the north side it was about a mile away from the Malad stage station.

Malad stage station was situated at the crossing of the Malad river. The station and an Indian village of fifteen or twenty lodges situated about a mile up the river from the station, and on the west bank. These Indians visited the station almost daily, and were known to the settlers for protection against Indians.

Through the advice of my brother-in-law I carried a gallon can of venison with me as we were going to the desert, and as the toll me, I carried my sister gave me a lunch that she had prepared, telling me that it would be ample for both myself and Indian Tom. I reached the Indian camp at just a little before sunrise and found Indian Tom up, seemingly looking for me. He pointed to a log of yucca wood, which I had to go in there and wait for him. I had hardly entered the cave when four or five Indian children or parsons, ranging, I imagine, from six to eighteen years, alighted before me, and when I looked in a friendly manner to them they swarmed around me, pecking at my clothing, and when I turned my head they carried a bunch of wild geese, which was made fast to my belt. I hurriedly opened it and when they saw I was contented they glided with delight.

I was inclined to take it away from them, but when I saw with what relief they ate it I was glad to let them have it, and before Indian Tom announced that he was ready, which was only a half hour, the bunch had been entirely devoured, and then we made our start.

Indian Tom says that he had never seen a buck before, and as I was jumped from rock to rock in crossing the Malad I stepped and filled my canteen, thinking that I had an animal which we would have plenty of water. When we reached the east shore of the river Indian Tom started at a break took toward the rising sun. I followed without trouble thinking that we were making haste to get to the hunting ground, where we would have our time and hunt deer, but on and on we trotted it seemed like a severe case of back-sore. It became hard for me to keep my feet from slipping, and I was obliged to stagger along, while I broke through the brush, under my shoes, the ground beneath me, while I broke through the brush, under my shoes, the ground beneath me, while I broke through the brush, under my shoes, the ground beneath me.

Safety Comes First in the Ford V-8

A SAFE CAR helps make a safe driver. There is no compromise with safety in the Ford V-8 for 1936.

Ford safety begins with the desire to make a safe car, regardless of cost. It is carried through every detail of design and construction.

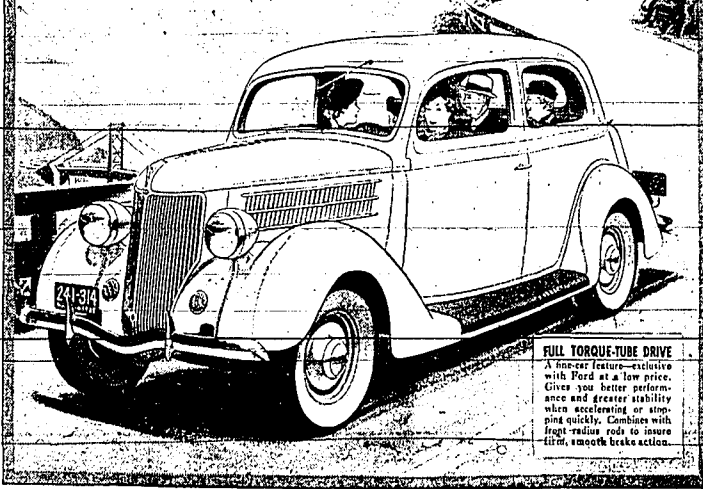

Ford safety, therefore, is not merely the safety of dependable brakes. It goes farther than that and includes a genuine welded steel body structure and Safety Glass throughout at no extra cost. An additional point is that its steadiness and instant response help you to avoid trouble.

Every driver is a better driver in the Ford because of its ease of handling and the alert, capable performance of the V-8 engine.

The 1936 Ford brings you safety, beauty, comfort and roominess as outstanding as its V-8 performance. Many modern features put it in a class by itself in value and satisfaction.

$510 AND UP P. O. B. Detroit. Fifteen body types. Standard and accessory gear, including bumpers and spare tire, extra. Commission economical.

Terms: You can now buy any new Ford V-8 car for the ultra low downpayment and $25 a month. Ask the nearest Ford dealer for complete details of the new UCC 1% per month Finance Plan.

UNIFORM HEALTH RIFES
There was a case of scarlet fever in the Brown family and the house-felt, public spirit citizens should be treated in such a way seemed to

When, however, a little later, an epidemic of measles broke out in a poor section of town, Mrs. Brown's tune changed, she was all for quarantine of every poor family against the spread of the disease, and wanted to insure the strictest kind of quarantine, with every kind of sign and notice to be placed in the end of the street. There were people in the poor section of the town who resented being looked upon as pariahs

SYNOPSIS: Iris Lansing is at the theater after a gorgeous man who has been seen in her Aunt Phina's apartment. Aunt Phina is America's most famous couturiere. Her own designs for her and her friends are in Paris. Phina, brought up in aristocratic penury, who only three days ago did not know whether her collar was blue or gray. Phina and Owen have separated Iris from her mother, Mrs. Wilson, and her Aunt Phina. Iris has met by chance some young things she had avoided with difficulty that afternoon on the train.

CHAPTER 18.

SPEERY LIFE

"Having a crowd in tomorrow p. m.," said the girl. "Cocktails, Georgia Blair, in the book. You've got to come. Premiere? Good. Good." Iris smiled. "I'll be there. You know, Owen, but Dicky said strictly, 'Leave it to me, lady. I'll pick 'em up and take 'em home.' Gimme the house address, Slard."

Slard wrote swiftly on a card she gave him. Not so used to cards as the others, Iris found herself caught far behind the other two in the hurry back to the stairs. As before, it was Allan who saw who had taken the group, caught her arm, said pleasantly, "I see your seals; I'll get you there."

"You always help me out of trouble," she said gratefully. "I suppose you could see—I wasn't a

He smiled down at her. "I could see that you had something more girls' haven't; the delightful idea of making a man feel you need taking care of. I'll see you at Georgia's to-morrow. Here's your card." She did not know whether he had heard her hurried, "Oh, I don't know. I don't think so" before he turned back to the others. She nearly forgot the whole episode as, eyes wide, hands tightly clasped, she saw the second half of the revue. But when they came out, Allan and Dick were waiting in the lobby; and it was to Phina that Allan spoke easily and graciously, not to Iris.

"My name's Allan Beckley. I think you know my mother, Mrs. Wilson Beckley—this is Madame Phina Weatherly, I know."

"Aunt Phina's even teeth gleamed." Overlooked Phina. Yes, indeed, your mother's figure is my prize. And thank you for protecting my little girl here. It's actually her first review."

Iris wished that hadn't had to come out—he would think she was unappreciated! But he said with no lessening of interest: "Dick Hamilton's coming to pick up your little sister tomorrow. I wanted to make sure they were coming."

"Dicky came to see my eye on the 'When Allan gets his eye on you, you're Dave Crockett's coin. He may even keep Georgia from coming. You don't know how he handles you?" Phina more or less ignored Dicky.

"My girl's eye they're coming," she said anxiously to Allan. "Thanks a lot," he said, also ignoring Dicky.

"So sorry and as if he had come, he was gone. Dicky remained a moment."

"Don't fall for him. Not safe! Fall for me!" he stage-whispered, and shouldered his way after Allan. "But, Phina, honestly, an didn't see Slard and me?" Iris gasped at they settled themselves in the taxi. Even Owen laughed.

"Goodie, this isn't the Assembly Set in the seventies," he said. "Allan Beckley took pains to make it all right," Phina explained. "Anybody can drift in on party life that. They're charming young people, as I thought on the train."

"It's supposed they're nice. She sat still and stared at the colored advertisements that 'flashed' over and over in a holder. There were nine before she got back to the first one, two kissing people who looked cheeking-sun. They looked very innocent to be addicted to gum. It was all very different, but Phina must know.

She saw herself as she passed the box freemason mirror in the downstairs foyer. She would not have known Uncle Wain's in all this black velvet, with rose chiffon flowing around her slim slipped feet, except for the eye excited gray eyes shining below the polished waves of dusky hair.

As she started Owen's kind gray eyes, black-lashed like her own, met her a little swiftly in the glass. She nestled closer to him on the other side, with a thrill of kinship and comfort. Her very own kinship! She saw, at that moment, that Phina was on his side in the warfare over Slard. Slard's help him as much as the possibly could.

"You have never had to die?" "Oh, good morning. Aunt Phina!" Iris tightened and speeded. Iris who had been laughing and talking together on her pillows, and Honor put a rose like jacket about her. "No never. I suppose coming up and down stairs kept me thin."

"I've come in to discuss plans with you before I go over to the school."

"Phina sat down in the rose and ivory chair, untroubled by its easiness. "I want little girl to have the happiest possible time. So I want you to tell me frankly what reasons you need—that accomplishments you have. Sometimes a lack of equipment makes all the difference to one's happiness. To begin with, I'm sending you to a riding school directly; and you'd better learn to ride a car unless you know how."

"Aunt Phina, you're doing such a lot! I'd love to learn to ride. I can drive, now."

"Oh, yes, all you young things pick it up. What about dancing?" "Well, what you'd learn from the others."

PWA CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS DOUBLED

Publicly Financed Building Jobs Show Big Gain in Year

DOISE, March 28—Publicly financed construction (the class of building and employment financed by PWA) last month was over double that of a year ago last month.

The great increase reflecting throughout the country in the execution of the PWA program, was revealed in the regular monthly report of the F. W. Dodge Corporation to Public Works Administration today.

The summary of the report as written by the Dodge Corporation follows:

Publicly financed construction jobs undertaken during February in the 37 states east of the Rocky mountains was somewhat more than twice the total reported during February, 1935.

The total amount of $128,500,000 compared with $72,800,000 for February, 1935. The January, 1936, total was $139,101,000.

For the first two months of 1936 public financing construction in this area amounted to $218,170,000 as against only $93,384,000 for the corresponding two months of 1935.

"Privately financed construction undertakings during February of this year amounted to $127,000,000 in the area west of the Rockies; this was a substantial gain over the $107,000,000 reported for February, 1935, and was only slightly below the January, 1936, total of $127,200,000.

"For the first two months of 1936 the volume of privately financed construction totaled $128,332,000 as against $82,437,000 for the corresponding two months of last year."

GROWERS ASK U. S. SURVEY OF BEANS

New Price Rise Expected When True Situation Is Known

Prices of southern Idaho's Great Northern beans, which have advanced 50 cents, from $2.40 to $2.90 per 100 pounds, since last March 11, will record another sharp advance as soon as federal government figures are revealed downward to show actual stocks on hand, according to Twin Falls growers.

Spokesman for the local growers, W. F. Alworth, it was announced last evening, has been advised by United States Senator James P. Pope (D-Idaho) that Secretary Wallace will be required to direct the federal and government figures for Idaho to make "an actual count of beans in warehouses in Idaho and publish a report thereon."

Widespread news is being given that a local dealer last evening said that an actual count last March 11 showed 559 carloads of Great Northern beans in this district's warehouses last March 11, and that the federal statistician's report at that time showed "there were at least twice as many."

Eastern buyers are inclined to be guided by government reports and for that reason, according to local growers and relatives in this district, the actual shortage of Great Northern beans that exists in this district may be as great as 500,000 bushels.

Since March 1, local dealers said, some eastern buyers have sensed the situation and have increased their demands resulting in the price advance already recorded.

The quantity of beans reported actually in Idaho warehouses on the first of March 11, was less than the quantity on hand last September 1 and the new crop was still six months away.

L.D.S. Choir To Assist Pianist In April Recital

The Latter Day Saints choir of 40 voices will appear on the Wednesday evening program Wednesday evening, April 1, at the L.D.S. tabernacle, Adelaide Anderson, who will be presented in piano recital that evening, will be accompanied by the following concert from the Portland Oregon Journal when she appeared in Portland last season:

"William is the word that must be used to describe the art of Adelaide Anderson, pianist. The Chopin Scherzo in C-sharp minor was played with the required dynamic strength that made it stand out boldly in contrast to the gauze-like texture of Ravil's 'dram d'ean,' which was played with an exquisite evenness of touch and tone, and a technique truly brilliant."

GROWERS ASK AID FOR TRUCK LINES

Caldwell Meeting Calls for State Legislative Subsidy

CALDWELL, Idaho, March 28 - Southeast Idaho unit of the Idaho Vegetable Producers, Incorporated, meeting here today declared for a legislative appropriation to subsidize independent truck lines in marketing Idaho farm products to market.

Such a subsidy, resolutions adopted, said, was necessary to "prevent railroads taking over transportation facilities on the highways." Since the railroads have secured an amendment to the transportation act putting trucks under the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission, the resolutions said, independent truck lines will soon be driven from the highways unless they are given protection.

Resolutions urged Idaho business men to do as much shipping as possible by independent truck lines. L. E. Newcomb of Melba, H. H. Young of Parma, C. F. O'Brien of Caldwell, Charles E. O'Brien of Hamlet and Roy Skejdt of Caldwell were elected directors of the southwestern unit at today's meeting.

The others are L. L. Hurst of Caldwell, H. C. Peckman of Wilder, and Don Tolmie of Parma. Ed Petrygore of Hansen, president of the state association, and Carl DeLong of Twin Falls, secretary, addressed the group.

IDAHO POTATO RATE BOOST STARTS FIGHT

Idaho's public utilities commission and Idaho Vegetable Producers, Incorporated, have requested the interstate commission to suspend a new and higher freight rate that is to be made effective April 1 on Idaho potatoes shipped to southern California markets.

Young and Skejdt were related the other's replace L. L. Hurst of Caldwell, H. C. Peckman of Wilder, and Don Tolmie of Parma. Ed Petrygore of Hansen, president of the state association, and Carl DeLong of Twin Falls, secretary, addressed the group.

Suspension of the proposed rate and the hearing were requested on the grounds that the rates had been given; that the proposed new rate would close to Idaho potatoes the southern California market which would again turn to the Klamath Falls, Oregon, district for potatoes; and on the further grounds that the new rate penalizes producers on branch lines and that most Idaho producers are on branch lines.

ELROD TO RESIGN AS LOCAL POLICE CHIEF

S. B. Elrod, Twin Falls, chief of police for the past three years, will resign next Monday to join his son, Raymond Elrod, of Idaho Falls, in an electrical appliance and second hand store, he announced last evening. With Mrs. Elrod he expects

Theme Song Prize Awards Close Successful Opening

"First prize, 425" is going to be Melvyn's "Spring Song" by some lucky person, man, woman or child, when winners of the window-cutting contest are announced at the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce offices tomorrow afternoon.

It may be one of those ambitious individuals seen at 3 o'clock Saturday morning, flashlight in hand, inspecting the displays in the contest window, and scribbling the numbers as rapidly as cold-cramped fingers would permit.

Or one of the thousands who are seen at business districts in the city and around Thursday, Friday and Saturday, reading in every display window a merchandise message of "win" the 425.

It might even be one of the collectors, home for spring vacation, checking the displays in a last-minute hurry, or yesterday afternoon, explaining "Got to take 440 worth of Twin Falls money out of town with us tomorrow. Be a pal and tell us the answer to this confounded sticker."

Or even the politician with the "golden eye" who excused them, saying he stayed up until 4 o'clock in the morning catching up on the latest news, the better to "rule" the 425.

But it certainly won't be any of the tinders who knew all the answers, for it seems there were one or two that nobody knew, not even the merchants' wives.

Finals to the annual Spring Opening, sponsored by the merchants' bureau of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, will come at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon when in the name of the "theme song" window contest winners will be "picked" at the offices of the Chamber of Commerce, checking will be completed today in judging the 620 collection lists submitted by merchants. Several thousand prize blanks were issued by participating contestants and the Chamber of Commerce, indicating the scope of interest in the contest.

The person submitting the most correct lists will receive a cash prize of $25; the second, $15; third, $10; fourth, $5; fifth, $2; sixth, $2, and the next 15 prizes of $1 each. Those in charge of the contest announced that there will be no duplicate prizes. In case of a tie, the first list submitted will be awarded the prize, numbered official blanks being compiled as received.

Breaking for the participating merchants, John Keizer, chairman of the special committee on arrangements for the opening, last evening voiced appreciation for the exceptional response from the public adding that the success of the spring opening exceeded expectations, particularly in view of the inclement weather that prevailed throughout the three-day event. The event was regarded in merchandising circles as one of the most successful ever staged in Twin Falls.

Commissioner of public safety, O. L. Coleman said last evening he was unprepared to announce Elrod's successor.

Mr. Elrod has been a Twin Falls resident for 13 years, and was engaged in the transfer business here prior to his appointment as police chief in May, 1933.

Local Aviators Airplane Hunting Trip Described

In the March issue of the magazine "Western Flying," Lloyd A. Dean of Twin Falls describes a deer hunting trip made by airplane last October. A party of four men in two airplanes, consisting of Mr. Dean with George Montooth as passenger and Vic Kelley with Leon Martin as passenger, made their way from Twin Falls to the W. H. Woolley ranch at the north end of Stanley basin, where they had gathered a supply of a station gasoline. From there they flew to Thomas creek, on the middle fork of the Salmon, where each of the four had bagged and dressed his deer in the first three-quarters after lunch.

Mr. Dean, in his article, speaks of the extreme beauty of the mountains and lakes of the Sawtooth as seen from the air, and he tells how they solved the problem of landing and taking off at the small field in a narrow canyon, which they had chosen as the destination for their flying deer hunt.
