CHANGES LOOM IN NEW TAX MEASURE

Special Treatment for Debt-Ridden Corporations Proposed

WASHINGTON, April 3.—A strong sentiment for giving debt-ridden corporations special treatment in the new tax bill was expressed tonight when the American Liberty League announced the president's revenue proposals as a "dangerous use of the taxing power to accomplish social ends."

Both Democrats and Republicans of the house ways and means committee were talking of opposing a flat tax rate for corporations which are forced to retain certain amounts of their income to meet existing obligations.

That has been the one point on which business spokesmen have pointed out in the hearings on the $79,000,000 tax plan, Chairman George (D-N.J.) said he thought the idea deserved "careful and close study."

Representative Vinson (D-Ky.), said there was "strong sentiment" in the committee generally agreed.

Declaring in a formal statement that a "genuine breathing spell" was now being given to business by the new tax measure, the Liberty League said the "Hauptmann" program had proved "highly disastrous."

It said the "Hauptmann" program had proved "highly disastrous" because it had made no provision for the relief of corporations in financial straits.

The president's program, it said, was "part and parcel of the debt-ridden program."

STATE ABANDONS LAMSON CHARGES

Judge Dismisses Murder Case on Motion of District Attorney

MAN JUNE, Calif., April 3.—(AP) David A. Lamson, wife free but still under investigation today when the state abandoned nearly three years of effort to convict him of murder in the death of his wife, Ellen, an Alameda county resident.

The bitterly fought case was dismissed by Judge J. J. Tynan on motion of District Attorney Fred Thomas.

The prosecutor said he would be unable to prove any new evidence for a fourth trial and that it would be impossible to get a jury that would convict the former Alameda county resident.

"This is the greatest moment of my life," exclaimed Lamson as his wife, Ellen, was released.

"I have been waiting for this day for a long time," he said.

Lamson's 5-year-old daughter, Alene, was with him when he was released.

SAULT LAKE CITY, April 3.—(AP) President Herbert J. Grant of the Latter Day Saints church counseled members of the national women's relief society at their annual conference today to keep charity, long suffering and forgiveness as the essential spirit of the organization.

"If there is any demonstration, the offender will be removed from the death house. There are rumors someone will put a full one."

"If Hauptmann wants to say anything, I will handle it. I'm the warden and no police officers or the press will take precedence over me."

depart shortly for Los Angeles, where they will be in the hands of the federal place of the Townsend organization and take certain depositions before the committee.

This action followed receipt by the committee of what was termed a "hot tip" on the part of the Townsend organization heretofore unknown.

Representative McCarthy (D-Calif.), the author of legislation to put the old age pension plan into effect, who recently broke with Dr. P. E. Townsend, told newspapermen that he feared the current house investigation might "shatter the plan" but it did not seem to be the case.

He predicted, nevertheless, that a "very large bomb" still would be exploded.

A jury in the district court here last evening held a motor truck carrier liable for a $400 loss on account of delay in hauling of a shipment of wool, and awarded the plaintiff a judgment of $400. The jury found that the carrier, L. L. Langdon of Twin Falls, for the full amount of his $400 claim from the Consolidated Truck Lines, Incorporated.

Langdon claimed delay in transportation caused a loss of 2 cents a pound on his 10,000-pound shipment of wool between May 21 and June 17, last, while the Consolidated Lines was hauling it to market in Portland, Oregon.

The jury returned its verdict at 10 o'clock last evening after four-hour deliberations, following a two-day trial.

All jurors were excused by District Judge Adam B. Barclay for the remainder of the court term.

SYNOPSIS: Iris Lanning is being shown the glided side of New York by her influential aunt, Phina, and her next but charming brother, Owen. Quile by accident, she is taken up by Alan Beckley, who is "somebody" and obviously fond of Iris. But now Iris learns that the uncle and aunt back in Pennsylvania almost forgotten in the whirl of events, are both ill. She tells Phina she must go home, and Phina is furious that she is willing to forego a good opportunity to "break in."

Chapter 24

UNCLE WILL

"Owen says Alan Beckley is planning to give a dinner for you. Phina went on, 'You can't miss that. It's just what you need. I told him I told him to go.'"

"Phina spoke with controlled annoyance."

"Iris, you realize just who and what Alan Beckley is? So far as any genuine society lady is concerned, he is at the very heart and powerhouse of it. You have the incredible luck to run into him practically as you come into the city and to have him immediately plan to give you a dinner-party; and you, my dear, are just what he needs. He has the grippe, and I have to go home!"

"I am sorry. But he has, and I do."

Phina, reaching a long capable arm to a neatly ironed depression in the silver mantel said, "I'll have Honora get him."

Who or what she meant Iris did not know until Honora's violet face and wise smiling lips face appeared.

"Get me Petula five-o-two-J. Honora."

When Honora returned with the news that she had the number, Phina rose and went to the sound-proof telephone in the next room.

Shortly she came back. "I have told on the wire. He says he will be coming back now. But you'll better talk to him yourself."

"My dear little girl," said Phina, "I'll be sure to tell him. But you mustn't think of returning and losing your educational advantage."

"We mustn't waste Owen's money," he went on. "Only tell me, and you will be happy and having a good time. And how is Owen? Owen's a fine boy."

"Yes, darling, and Owen's a fine boy. He's as like you as I am. It's all wonderful. I'm awfully happy. Are you sure I'm not selfish? You're right. I'm selfish. I'll tell you later."

"It was little more than a bad cold. I must have caught it in the spring. Tell Iris I'll send the package as soon as I can find time."

"I'll be sure to tell him. But you mustn't think of returning and losing your educational advantage."

GOVERNOR ADVISES GROWING OF BEETS

Ross Takes Toga of Solent-Trip Farmer and Urges Crop Diversification

G. Ben Ross, addressing 180 Twin Falls county farmers in Twin Falls high school auditorium here last night, said aside the roll of governor of Idaho and assumed that of a "highly successful scientific farmer" urging that "a scientific program of reclamation and diversification be adopted on every farm in the state of Idaho."

The meeting was called jointly by Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce and Twin Falls-Jerome Beet Growers' association in an effort to secure additional sign-up for beet growing in the county this season.

The governor delivered a bold stroke at high freight rates. He urged maintenance of the Amalgamated Sugar company's plant in Twin Falls as a means of eluding these rates, saying that "the farmer thereby escapes paying tribute on a ton of beets but instead pays only on 300 pounds of sugar."

The governor described the present administration as "the first administration that has made any effort to aid the farmers" and said that the beet sign-up this year will set the acreage for Idaho's allot-

"It ain't fair. We don't have, feed chickens unless we have company, and when we have company I can't pick it up to get the meal off."

ment in the future.

"For the Farmer"

Going into a discussion of the long and short haul, the governor said: "I'm for the Idaho farmer, first, last and all the time. So far as the long and short haul is concerned I'm not prepared to say that I'm against it, because I'm for you farmers. Take this example. If a transfer man charges $50 to haul a truckload of any commodity to Boise, but the farmer sending the load across in the state house, The other 100 of the price, and the trucker agrees to give that farmer half of what he hauls for the return trip, then I'm for the long and short haul. That's what the railroads should do and under this example the farmer would receive $12.50 and his load would only cost him $37.50.

"Go behind the barn and think it over for five minutes. If the railroads would give the farmer one half of the price back for a return load then I'm for the long and short haul and so are you: I'm just a business proposition.

"Farm Then Lose"

"I believe that it would be better if we would do away with the interstate commerce commission and the public utilities commission and let the railroads start out on a competitive basis. We'd get our freight hauled for less money. I say cut down the bars and turn them loose. I also say to quit paying legislation against the railroads and give them a taste of competition. We'd have more railroads to ship our products on, and at a lower rate."

The governor said that his resolution to be a scientific farmer dates back to the time that his mother died, when he was 12 years of age—he wanted to farm scientifically to make things easier for the "hard working farmers of Idaho and their wives."

Agriculture and Idaho

He said: "Agriculture with me comes first and Idaho, second. There are the two big things in my life. I have a lot of experience and claim to know something about farming. I have a 300 acre farm down at Parma and I farm 140 acres of it myself from behind my desk in the state house. The other 100 acres is rented. My farm makes a success of the money because I farm it scientifically. No farmer can make a success of his crops if he doesn't farm scientifically and keep up the fertility of his land.

"The main reason that I want to see sugar beet planting in Idaho is that it will keep your sugar factory going. That sugar factory is a great asset to the community in that it brings in a large return to the community and provides work for a considerable number of men. It is a manufacturing plant and I'm for more manufacturing in Idaho."

"There is no man in Idaho who fought sugar companies more than I did down in Pocatello. I called a meeting which forced the company to give the farmers a participative contract—a 50-50 contract so that the company and the farmer would share the profits. Before that the company got all the money."

"I've Been Growing"

"Average sugar beet production in Colorado and Nebraska is 3200 pounds to the acre. Idaho land produces 5000 pounds to the acre. I want to see you grow beets, but not just to make money for the sugar company."

"I've said that only two things were against successful beet growing—wind fly and poor farming—and said that scientific efforts were now being made to put an end to the wind fly. Poor farming, he said, can be overcome by a crop diversification and proper fertilization program and urged that the farmers put their land in condition to "make Idaho the kind of a country God intended it to be."
