Penitents Of Southwest Tread Way Of The Cross

(By The Associated Press) ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., April 9.—Strong young men, solemn in aspect, staggered beneath the weight of the cross as they walked in the annual penitential procession of the Southwest re-enacted in dreadful words the ordeal of Christ's march to Calvary.

Their muscular backs were caked with the gore of repeated lashings. Their heads were bowed under crowns of cactus thorns. The bitter cold of high mountain fastnesses seemed to be the blood which dripped from their stone-lacquered bare feet.

They made no outcry, and struggled against any sign of weakness. By reaching the summit of El Capitan, they would prove themselves worthy of the highest honor which their cult can bestow—worth "Crucifixion" of the Brothers of the Blood.

Behind them trailed a strange procession, the rank and file members of the El Capitan Brotherhood of the Blood.

Fifty scouts representing seven of the nine districts in the Snake River area council, Boy Scouts of America, met at Twin Falls high school auditorium last night with Arthur Hill, council president, in charge.

Amby Frederick, area scout executive, traced the history and experiences of the council, during the past two years and urged that more attention be paid training, troop organization and to the district committee as a functioning unit.

The meeting was divided into three groups: court of honor, finance and troop organization. The court of honor met was presided over by J. H. Widdison of Paul, area chairman and Bruce Requa of Kimberly presided over the financial session.

Frederick was in charge of the troop organization session and it was decided that any troop registering or registering must be represented in application before the district committee and that the committee will be responsible for training of troop officials.

Borah's Wisconsin

Campaign Costs $10

PEORIA, Ill., April 9 (AP)—Senator William E. Borah's successful Wisconsin primary campaign set him back just $10, some of his supporters estimated last night.In that sum was included, they said, the cost of one round trip railroad ticket for the senator's jaunt from Chicago to Milwaukee for his speech of the campaign and a night hotel bill.The senator asserted his adher-ents went into the Wisconsin fight with barely enough money to hire a hall for the one speech."The state (Republican) committee on the other hand," he asserted, "even spent money, which was raised under the auspices of the Republican national committee, to be used in the November campaign."The Wisconsin central C.O.P. committee backed the uninvited delegate group which lost out in a majority of the contests, resulting to Borah pledged delegates to the Cleveland convention.

She put on the dark "Show Boat" dress; she thrust her hair down over her forehead like Helen Morgan's—and she ran down the stairs, across the room to the piano. She dropped the music before Owen, and sprang on to the side of the piano.

She never knew how well she sang. All her longing for Morgan—all the passion of her anger at the girls and men who had ridiculed at Georgia's bidding, all her narrow hatred of the passion and pathos of that one song.

They were silent first; then ran

FUTURE

The bright light shone on her slim quivering figure, its air of brave carelessness that covered only too imperfectly abandonment and hopeless grief. When she finished there was a hush; then applause, applause, more applause. She had won out. She had made them take it—and like it.

"I want you for my charity performance this summer," she said. Iris could not think why there was a sudden stunned hush after Allan broke the silence after old Mrs. Morgan's invitation, speaking in Iris's ear, behind her, as she stood ready to move away from her position in the spotlight of ap-

"Dickie Hamilton's on the edge of doing the worst soft-shoe routine in God's earth," he said. "Come on up and see my Hallases."

~~He maneuvered her with a woman's ease behind the others.~~
It opened an unexpected door which opened up a steep flight of dark stairs, and another which led to a quiet low-lit room.

The walls had been so painted as to make them seem to curve in a concave. Instead of the old-fashioned chandeliers of the rest of the house, this place was swept bare of everything which reminded one of anything but the man himself. Tall lighting posts of a sort she had not seen threw a clear indirect light over a desk in one corner; on another wall were hung the collection of modernist painters; there was a long wide couch covered with furs and a collection of horns and heads which told her that Allan collected more things than odd paintings.

The draperies were few, more skins lay on the floor. It was an odd room. It said, "Anything which does not concern and interest me does not matter in the least." She looked up at Allan, with the gentle limpness and equanimity about him and

"Like it?" said his soft, light voice.

She smiled at her. The pink spots on his face were deeper than usual, as if something excited him. She sat down on the low, broad couch, with its cover of dark silky fur.

"Yes, I do." She felt suddenly that she must rise, move about, look at the pictures, talk about them—anything but sit there, low on the couch, in her black Helen Morgan dress, with Allan, flushed and quiet.

NEW YORK, April 9 (AP)—Major league owners, optimistic to the last, agreed today that Tuesday, opening day, would be one of golden sunshine and estimated that 201,000 persons will be in the stands.

In the event of inclement weather, they will settle for 150,000, they admit.

Largest crowd of the day is expected to watch the Giants and Dodgers at the Polo grounds. All reserved seats have been sold.

Unreserved seats will be sold Tuesday. This will take the crowd to 30,000.

In Cleveland, Reds' officials are not even taking a chance on the weather. They have sold over 25,000 tickets for their game with the Pirates and the capacity of 33,000 is anticipated.

St. Louis, where the Cardinals are expected to draw 25,000, also is expected to be a big day.

President Roosevelt, just back from the South, should be in fine condition to witness the game between the Senators and the Yankees, but even this fact is not expected to fill the park. Only 20,000 to 25,000 fans, they estimate, are anticipated.

When Connie Mack takes his Athletics to Boston for their annual game with his old players, 20,000 probably will look on.

The Philadelphia Phillies, who are expected to draw 25,000, are not given much chance of breaking any attendance records.

Philadelphia estimates a crowd of 20,000.

Canzoneri Wins Over Jadick in 10-Round Duel

Lightweight Champion Decisions Old Rival in Non-Title Battle; Tony Meets McLarnin Next

NEW YORK, April 9 (AP)—Lightweight champion Tony Canzoneri today won a ten-round decision over his old rival, Johnny Jadick, by knocking him out in the tenth round.

Canzoneri, who is now ranked as the best lightweight in the world, was not at stake. The fight was for a $10,000 purse.

Although on the short end of the betting odds, Jadick, who holds two ten-round titles, put up a surprising fight, but he was unable to keep his head in the hot kind of water. He was roundly cheered when he left the ring, where Canzoneri got the Razzberry for twice pushing the falling Philadelphia warrior to the canvas.

Jadick, a plucky battler with the ten-round titles, captured the Tony Junior welterweight title in 1930 and successfully defended it a year later.

Tony Takes Seven Rounds. The Associated Press score card tonight gave Canzoneri seven of the ten rounds. Jadick was credited with two and one was called even.

There were two knockdowns. Jadick hit the floor for a count of four in the eighth round and again in the tenth but bounced back to his feet before the count began.

Canzoneri's last ten-round bout, before his over-weight contact with Jimmy McLarnin, former welterweight champion, in Madison Square Garden, May 1, 1935, was a charity affair in which a Los Angeles sanatorium received the major part of the profits. A crowd of 4,000 attended.

Although annoyed a little by the contact, Canzoneri, who is now ranked as the best lightweight in the world, was not at stake. The fight was for a $10,000 purse.

Canzoneri got off to a fast start and won the first three heats despite a flurry by Jadick in the middle part of the cut-over.

Italy's first fight. Tony apparently was shooting for a knockout. He hit Jadick with a shower of rights and lefts in the third drive Jadick into the ropes and the fourth into the ropes.

Promoter Keeps All Records And Plans Under Hat

NEW YORK, April 9 (AP)—Meet Mike Jacobs, once a newsmonger on the sidewalks of New York and now the promoter of the heavyweight boxing industry.
