Coal Control Bill Dies As Congress Adjourns

FEDERAL OLD AGE ALLOTMENTS HELP 635,000 PERSONS. Number Receiving U. S. Aid Represents 65 Per Cent Of Needy, Social Security Officials Estimate

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, June 20 — The social security board said today 635,000 persons in 32 states and the District of Columbia were receiving old age allotments from the fund provided by the federal government to bolster state funds.

Officials estimated that this represented 65 per cent of the 975,000 or over who are not cared for by a public institution. In addition to these, plans have been submitted, but not yet approved for New York, Florida and Hawaii.

The federal quarterly allotment now amounts to $78,834, and the total amount spent in the states approved—federal funds plus state funds—during the three-month period is $1,100,000.

Under the plan now in operation, the federal government pays the state a sum equal to half of any amount up to $30 a month which the state pays to a needy person. The amount paid to the state is reduced to $15 a month if the state pays more than $15 a month.

Where assistance is denied, there must be some designated state institution to which the applicant may appeal.

The plan must be of state wide operation and mandatory upon the counties.

There must be one central agency to administer the plan in each state to set up the administrative machinery and select the personnel.

The state must comply with the conditions of the plan approved along with the number receiving aid, and the amount they receive under the plan.

BORAH MAY LOSE LEADER'S SUPPORT

W. Scott Hall Insists On Senator's Acceptance of Entire Platform

MALAD, Idaho, June 20 (AP) — W. Scott Hall, veteran Republican leader and close friend of Senator William E. Borah, indicated today he might refuse to support the "lion of Idaho" for reelection unless Borah accepts the entire party platform.

Hall issued a statement after reading a letter in which Borah expressed a willingness to seek a sixth term.

The letter to state chairman R. P. Parry of Twin Falls, reiterated opposition to any move to "return to the gold standard."

Pontatelo party leaders joined the drive for Borah's reelection yesterday and the Blingham county central committee approved his candidacy today.

Hall, however, said "economics and politics" must be considered.

Idaho's only native-born chief executive in the state's 45 years said he would stress in his campaign the necessity for legislation of direct interest to Idaho, such as reclamation, food control, market regulations, transportation and relief.

Parry said he had finished talking to a dozen men—all pretty close to the governor, and they're all the opinion that he is going to spring a surprise and run for governor again—that Borah has indicated he will seek reelection.

So far, Borah's only announced opposition is Leslie A. Boise, attorney, who is staging a strenuous campaign.

Three Republicans have stated they have aspirations for the Republican senatorial nomination.

They are: R. P. Parry, state chairman; R. E. Whitten, of Grimes Pass; State Representative Tracy Coker of Shoshone; and Ray Nichols, of Boise.

McKee said in Pennsylvania yesterday, however, he was not a candidate for Borah's seat. He declined to say whether he would seek the Idaho district congressional nomination, as hinted by some party leaders.

Florida Business Men Enroll In 'Coastless Club'

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 20 — More than 100 Jacksonville businessmen and professional men agreed today to shed their coats from June 1 until September 21, every year.

The covenant of the organization forbids coats except at weddings, funerals or on such occasions when the hostess, minister, judge or personal satisfaction require one.

It was dispensed by none that the efforts of Franklin D. Roosevelt and John Nance Garner were in strong contrast.

Beneath this solid front, however, ran a swirling discussion of how far the struggle over abandoning or retaining the two-thirds vote rule would extend.

They were: R. P. Parry, state chairman; R. E. Whitten, of Grimes Pass; State Representative Tracy Coker of Shoshone; and Ray Nichols, of Boise.

New Tax Measure Marks Wind-Up Of 74th Session

WASHINGTON, Sunday, June 21 — The 74th congress, which topped off the administration's program yesterday by finally approving the trouble-studded tax bill, adjourned sine die early today after a determined—but listless—fillbuster was triumphant.

Just before midnight youthful Senator Holt (D-W.Va.), one of those who had been filibustering against the Guffey-Vinson coal control bill with a sharp attack on John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, filibustered to Senator Robinson of Arkansas, for a motion to adjourn which was adopted with a shout.

The house, which had been standing by while the senate sought to break the filibuster, followed suit at 11:29 p. m. E.S.T., and the second Roosevelt congress ground to an end.

Galleries were packed with gay crowds. Time and again they had to be warned by presiding officers to restrain themselves.

In the closing rush not only was the Guffey-Vinson bill, designed to replace the outlawed original Guffey coal control bill, filibustered to death, but the controversial food and drug bill "was killed when the house refused to agree to the conference report."

Bill Down Tax Walk Having turned the tax bill estimated to produce $800,000,000 in new revenue over to President Roosevelt in mid-afternoon, the house and senate sat down to hold a wake with the Guffey-Vinson bill.

One last minute flurry broke into the unusual calm which hung over the chamber as the senate voted to pass the bill.

It was the last of the session. The senate adjourned at 11:30 p. m. E.S.T., and the second Roosevelt congress ground to an end.

PRIMARY TO TEST LEMKE'S STRENGTH

BISMARCK, N. D., June 20 (AP) — North Dakota's bitterly fought primary campaign—counted to produce a record turnout of voters Wednesday—look on added importance today from Representative Lemke's projection into the presidential race as a "third party" candidate.

Lemke is unopposed for re-election on the Republican ticket but the size of the vote will be watched as an indication of his following at home. He has the support today of both factions of the potent non-partisan league.

Chief interest within this drought-battered district is in the contest for leadership of the non-partisan league and the Republican nomination for governorship between Governor William Langer.

These two, former friends and political opponents, are expected to meet today to discuss the possibility of a coalition.

A Series of Historical Sketches of Early Days in Northern Idaho

GOLD MINING BY THE SNAKE RIVER CANYON

Spring Town, the largest camp on the river, was the point where hundreds of miners came for their supplies, and either sold their gold dust or through their merchants sent it to the mint at Carson City, Nevada, or to San Francisco, California, where it would be coined into gold dollars, or held and gold certificates issued.

Spring town, in the south bank of the Snake river about a half mile below where the Hansen bridge now spans this river. It was sometimes called "the town in shadow" for from November to February the high canyon walls to the south shut out the sun, while for some time each day the sun when big would shine on the north side of the river. Often men would cross the river and go to the mill race or gain some jagged projection in the canyon to obtain an interval of sunshine.

Last of the camp of the miners was regulated by miners' meetings or courts; while considerable latitude was given, it was matter of his mind that the miners' court could deal swiftly and justly.

The social conditions of Spring Town were about the same as those of all new gold camps; few lasting acquaintances were made and few men knew the neighbors by name. With usually a nickname attached, such as "Pat Bacon Tom" or "Sour-dough Sam" to distinguish them from other Bills and Toms. This was usually done in all good humor, and very rarely did the recipient of one of these names offer much objection. And the name generally originated from circumstances that made it appropriate.

Stovepipe Sam

In the very early days of the camp there arrived a little company of three or four men, among whom was a man his name was Stovepipe Sam. Almost immediately Sam became a character in the camp. He was fortunate in getting a good mine in short distance down the river from Spring Town, where with driftwood, rocks and some canvas he had made a crude shelter.

He had gotten hold of a stove that could be used to answer the purpose but it was short of stove pipe through the roof. Sam remembered that in passing the blacksmith shop at Spring Town he had seen some one else doing just the thing. He went to the blacksmith and made a deal to buy the pipe, telling the blacksmith that he was short of stove pipe through the roof. As a legal tender. Johnny Stewart had built two cabins just a little east of where the Old Oregon Trail and freight road crossed Mud Creek. One of the cabins was used for a saloon and immediately a one-mine mining camp sprang into existence. Three shifts were at work at the bar which was yielding gold abundantly, while gambling and drinking were going on as usual in the cabin. Many reports of outlandish happenings at Mud Creek were circulated along the freight and stage roads, and Johnny Stewart had become a changed man. Gold dust and red liquor had gotten the best of him, and when word came that he had been shot and killed one of his men during a game of cards, the people were doubtful until a stage driver who investigated the matter dispelled the doubt. No action was taken against Stewart.

Stewart Goes Broke. Conditions at Mud Creek remained as ever—drinking, gambling, and mining gold, and as fall approached the Mud Creek bar almost disappeared. It was not until every foot of gravel had been washed and the bed rock exposed for the last color of gold. Believed of his mining operations, Johnny Stewart paid all of his attention to drinking and gambling, not yet realizing that he also was relieved of a handsome income which the mines had brought. Conflictingly greedy, "Stovepipe Sam" made cards than he sat opposite him until finally when the luck was passed to him he had no gold dust to ante; he was broke. Broken in purse and spirit, if his conscience caught him sober enough to torment him for his past carelessness, but operations were kept going his son denuded by strong drink that these messages could not be delivered to his mind.

The winter passed away and spring was with him, but he was alone with spring; he had lost his money and strong drink when he lost his credit, he had to do without. So he was compelled to remain sober, his conscience tormented him, and his associates—abandoned him. He would have starved except for the willingness of the whitefish to take him.

He made many trips to the river, which was in full water. Voices of conversation whispered in his ears, but he was a coward, afraid to die, and without courage to live. In his dreams he was mocked from the grave on the hillside; he was a mental and physical wreck. In his despondency he almost reached a desperate courage to pray; his mind collapsed, and he passed into deep slumber.

Bar Is Renewed. For hours and hours he slept, to finally awoken so dazed that it was hard for him to recognize his surroundings. He went to the river to find that during his long sleep the waters had receded. He traveled over Mud Creek Bar, which looked just as it had when he first saw it, no footman's trail marked the surface and no miners' shovel had sampled its gravel.

Then Johnny Stewart in fearful excitement with shovel and pan examined the gold-bearing sands, which in their concentrate left a trail, revealing to him Johnny Stewart another chance. Soon word of this unusual occurrence was passed along until every miner on the river knew about it.

Stewart prepared for another season's mining. His old friends drifted back to him; he was again the subject of flattery. Property returned and with it strong drink and gambling. Flattered by the belief that a new and rich bar would be brought in by Snake River waters each year, Johnny became more extravagant and depraved than he had been before. He numbered among his friends the worst element to be found in the country. Among them was one "Captain Jack"—no one knew Captain Jack by any other name, drink or sober.

Two Gun Men. Captain Jack was not a miner, but he had operated a hand ferry-boat in Spring Town up in the canyon, which had been the source of his fortune. He played a good game of poker, but was most noted as a Derringer man, always carrying two single-shot Derringers. His exploits were wonderful, and if the early West ever had a two-gun man, Captain Jack was one. I have never considered Captain Jack the most dangerous man I have ever met. Jealous, violent, extremely sensitive, void of feeling for others, a good shot and no brains.

It was late in the fall of 1876 when Johnny Stewart was at the saloon and regularly and busy cleaning up Mud Creek Bar, when word came to the settlement that Johnny Stewart had killed another one of his men, buried him on the hillside, and cut another notch on his pistol stock.

Rock Creek then had a Justice of the peace in the person of Captain Stewart, a big stalwart Booleman, but in no way related to Johnny Stewart. Justice Stewart insisted that Johnny Stewart be brought to trial, and it was then that Captain Jack saw his opportunity. He immediately arranged with the judge so that he should go and bring Johnny Stewart before the court.

Stewart Escapes. The accused was assured by Captain Jack, who was acting as constable, that the trial would be a mere form only, but that in the Interest of safety Stewart should put the mining claim out of his hands; and Captain Jack persuaded Stewart to turn his over to him on the night anything happened it would be protected. And things did happen. For at the trial the accused's own evidence would have convicted him of murder in the first degree. He was bound over without bail and placed in the hands of Captain Jack, who was to take him to Silver City on the next morning's stage. But the next morning it was reported that Johnny Stewart had made his escape during the night. This caused considerable comment among the better people, and Captain Jack, to quiet any suspicion, formed a posse of men who were really his confederates, and pretended to make a search for the fugitive.

I was told later by some of the posse that they were riding east, some five or six miles from Rock Creek station when they met Johnny Stewart, who was returning on the horse that Captain Jack and friends had given him. They followed when they had directed him to travel east on the Old Oregon Trail and head for the Black Hills, which were the place where they met several hours, then had stopped for a rest and sleep, and upon arising had followed the trail on the horse, and unknowingly had headed the wrong way. He was advised to turn back and keep going.

This posse reported that they were unable to find the escaped murderer, and soon things quieted down and Captain Jack took possession of Stewart's belongings, patiently waiting for Snake River to bring in another gold-bearing bar. But at last the river itself was tired of conditions and instead brought in a mud bar that still remains. When word came that Captain Jack had been shot and killed by Uncle Bill Hayden, a very well-respected old man, and that Captain Jack's body was placed alongside of the other on the hillside; and then a little later when we heard that Johnny Stewart had met a violent death at the hands of the Sioux Indians, we thought that they had both been brought to trial and sentenced by the Great Judge.

WALKOUTS CLOSE RIVIERA RESORTS

Strike Coincides With French Rightists' Move on Idle

PARIS, June 20 (AP)—A general strike of hotel and restaurant workers closed the doors of fashionable Riviera resorts in Cannes today and forced a prince to hunt for his lunch. The Riviera strike coincided with the first move by Paris rightists to elect idle workers occupying their place of employment. The rightists, numbering 20 under the leadership of Deputy Raoul Sabatier, smashed into a restaurant and threw seven strikers into the street.

Sabatier said it was the start of a "counter-revolution."

Since the labor occupation movement hit the Cole d'Azur early in the season, there were few guests, but the strike came just as Cannes heard King Edward VIII of England would arrive late in July for his summer vacation.

It also provided a bad time for Prince Andrew of Greece, uncle of King George, who was living at one of the affected hotels.

The prince had a hard time finding some luncheon, finally obtaining a snack in a small cafe. "The strike spread" elsewhere in the provinces, halting street car and bus transportation in Bordeaux and closing hotels and restaurants in Nancy as the workers sought the same benefits won for labor in the Paris region.

ROOSEVELT-LIFTS WAR RESTRICTIONS

Executive Officially Recognizes End of Hostilities

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—President Roosevelt today lifted the arms and financial embargoes and other war restrictions invoked by the United States against Italy and Ethiopia under the neutrality act, officially recognizing the end of hostilities between the invading Italian conquerors and Emperor Haile Selassie's tribesmen, the chief executive proclaimed the termination of all American restrictive measures applied when he recognized a state of war existed.

There were:

1. An outright embargo on shipments from the United States of arms, ammunition, and implements of war to either of the belligerent nations.
2. An outright embargo against any American financial assistance to either country.
3. Standing warning to American travelers that use of any ships of either country would be at their own risk.
4. Standing warning to American businessmen that those engaging in any transactions with the belligerents did so at their own risk.
5. Moral pressure to prevent American exports to either country of so-called "war materials" such as steel, iron, copper and oil, in quantities exceeding normal peace time levels.
6. All except the financial restrictions were invoked on or shortly after October 5 and 6, 1935, soon after Italian troops marched into Ethiopian territory. The ban against credits and financial assistance was established under a new law passed by congress to void the temporary neutrality statute enacted last August.

Question of Fact — "When it was ascertained that a state of war existed between Italy and Ethiopia, I performed the duty imposed upon me by legislation therefore enacted by issuing proclamations making effective an embargo on arms, ammunition, and implements of war from the United States to the belligerent countries and admonishing American citizens to abstain from traveling on belligerent vessels."

"In doing so I was standing upon a question of fact. Having now ascertained that, in fact, the conditions which led to the issue of the prohibitions have ceased to exist, I have, in conformity with the duty imposed upon me by legislation therefore enacted by issuing proclamations revoking my earlier proclamations in respect to commercial transactions with the belligerents are no longer applicable."

Hoover Continues In Campaign for American Ideals

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20 (AP)—Herbert Hoover, taking cognizance of published reports that his political career had ended, quickly served notice today that he would continue the fight for American ideals in government.

"The news story of this morning that I have retired to professional work," he said in a statement, "may be misinterpreted."

"For the last three years I have done occasional professional work. I have found it necessary. I shall continue that."

"But I have not quit the fight for American ideals in government and for decency in American life. I do not intend to for one moment."

The former president, mining engineer by profession, did not indicate the extent to which he would participate in public affairs.

Less than two weeks ago Hoover in his dramatic appearance before the Republican national convention at Cleveland delivered his valedictory as titular head of the party.

Quota Almost Filled When McClusky-Camp Starts Summer Session

BUHL, June 20 — McClusky health camp opened Saturday with almost the entire quota filled for the camp. During the afternoon a number of women interested in the camp acted as hostesses and showed the guests through the camp and served tea.

Several donations were received and it is hoped that there will be more materials for the girls' project work, which is to be carried on during the camp term. The camp also wants games and picture puzzles.

Kern Thurman, working under the health youth administration, will give three hours daily to the recreational activities.

The committee expressed appreciation of the cooperation of the local citizens, and expects this year's camp to be of great benefit to about 60 children. Children for the younger boys' and girls' camp already are backing the committee for entrance. It is estimated that there will be 20 from outside the county this year for which the other counties will pay the necessary expenses.

Twin Falls on Itinerary for Safety School

Johns-Manville Safety school, touring the country in an effort to impress safe and sane driving on the nation's motorists and cut down the appalling yearly automobile death toll will stop in Twin Falls Thursday, June 22.

Chief feature of the safety school is an apparatus by which individual drivers can determine the constant danger zone in their car. The apparatus measures the time it takes the driver to get his foot on the brake after viewing a signal such as a red light.

To stop this time is translated into feet which, added to the number of feet required to stop cars at various speeds, gives the total amount of feet required to stop at any speed under ordinary conditions and with good brakes.

"It is this reaction or reflex time that can be held accountable for many accidents," stated E. J. Ziegler, director of the Stop-Then Auto parts, in making the announcement. "I don't think the average driver realizes that he does not do anything but brakes the very instant he sees a necessity to stop and that the car will stop in the length of time there are many times when a few feet are the difference between life and death."

MURDER TONIGHT

BY LAURENCE W. MEYNELL

SYNOPSIS: While the Reeves entertained a gay party at dinner, the village miser is at home with his money. The village life, high and low, flows quietly by, and the miser—Squire Arthur Barrett, he holds so much power in his hands, and administers it so badly, that even the rector cannot exercise the proper Christian charity where the Squire is concerned.

Chapter Five MURDER

The Doctor paused, cherry decanter in hand, a picture of complete astonishment. "Come home early," he cried. "That's not like you, is it?"

"No, I wasn't very fit, that was all. "Not fit?" Chambers made no effort to hide the anticipatory keenness in his voice. "Says like a job for me. Anything wrong?"

"No, a bit off my date, that's all. The gilded clock on the mantel-piece which the last hour and the parlor maid appeared in the doorway and announced that dinner was served."

"But Mr. Shipley hasn't come yet," Nellie said, and the maid retired with every show of long suffering.

Nancy Featherstone missed the next two sentences he had directed at her completely. She turned smiling to Captain Reeves. "What do you say?" she asked.

"Isn't Dale a nuisance?" Mrs. Reeves put in. "He usually comes too early."

"Was he out today?" the Doctor asked. "No, he hasn't got a horse at the moment," Nancy said, "but I believe he's buying one."

"Good Dale," he had imagined money to buy anything," Chambers said bluntly.

"Nancy," asked Lois Reeves, and Reeves, scowling darkly in the background, said: "Some people have got a damn sight too much of it."

"Meaning me?" Lois inquired blandly.

"Lord, no, Lois, of course not. I was thinking of something else entirely."

"Oh, don't pay any attention to Pat," Nellie cut in quickly. "He's in a foul temper today because—"

"Mr. Shipley?"

"Very little confusion showed on Dale's handsome face. "Sorry," he walked over, and didn't give myself quite enough time."

"Dale was just introduced to Lois Reeves, but for a young man of his not undevoted reputation he showed singularly superficial interest for once in his backbones and blood red nails."

Whatever seeming melatrons of conversation went on in the kitchen, Nellie Reeves was usually able to congratulate herself on the finished product when it reached the dining room. She was able to glance round the table and feel reassured.

"Big—could have wished that, Pat," she muttered to herself. "Dale's a little more talkative, but he was in one of his rare moods, and whenever the table catch his eye to cajole him out of it he resolutely looked the other way."

"Doctor—Chambers—ate an excellent meal which did not interfere in any way with his flow of talk and he told three really funny stories and generally added the conversation—less with skill and accuracy—when that uncertain steed showed signs of flinching."

"What's the matter, Dale?" Nancy asked under cover of the general conversation.

"Nothing."

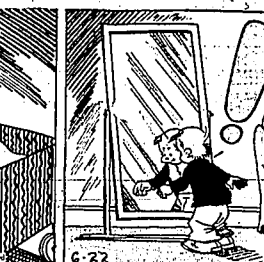

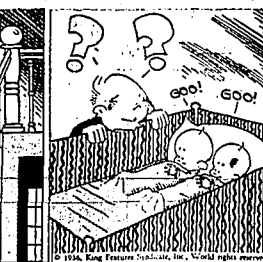

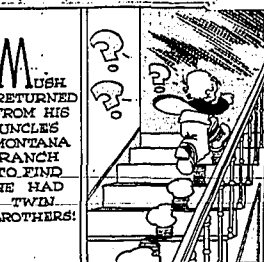

"Which way did you walk here?" she asked.

NEW DEALERS SEEK PLATFORM BREVITY

Reference to 1932 Pledges Among Possibilities in Declaration

PHILADELPHIA, June 20 (AP)—Awaiting the arrival of an official new deal platform leader, Democratic leaders tonight confined their discussion of the prospective 1936 party charter to statements that it would be brief and to the point.

Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York, chairman designate of the resolutions committee, remained the clearing house for platform suggestions from all sources.

National Chairman James A. Farley said today he expected a document little longer than the 1932 platform adopted at Chicago. That ran about a column and a half in news print and established a modern record for platform brevity and compactness of statement.

Executive OK

That the Wagner draft platform will reach the convention circle stamped with presidential approval was not to be doubted. The New Yorker has been engaged in conferences with party leaders in congress and, presumably, with the White House in preparing it.

The only intimation available as to preliminary platform work was a veiled suggestion that a plan containing a roll call on 1932 party pledges and a record of legislative performance under such pledges might be included. Farley and his aides maintained today that such a review would show an extraordinary record of achievement as against the many charges of broken platform pledges.

Some speculation arose here as to what significance might attach to the timing of the Lemke third-party ticket announcement in its bearing on the platform-making activities in Philadelphia. The announcement was made on the eve of the convention and before any disclosure of administration plans as to the 1936 money plank or any other had been made.

You can never know how clean clothes can be until you try SANTONE

The licensee of SANTONE in your city makes this amazing new "Beauty-Treatment for Clothes" available to you at no added cost.

- FIBRE-DEEP CLEANSING — SANTONE cleans clothes cleaner than they have ever been cleaned before by any cleaning process whatsoever:
 - removes all dirt — inner as well as surface dirt — in one gentle, all-cleaning process. This has never before been possible;
 - preserves the life of garments — refreshes them — brightens and enriches the colors;
 - is easier on clothes than any other method — causes them to look better and wear longer — not a trace of odor.
- INTENSIFIES JADED COLORS — SANTONE is two things: It is a solvent — the first and only combined solvent for dirt and stains. It is a process — a gentle process that revitalizes as it cleans, keeping the shape of the garment, restoring the bloom and brightness of colors, refreshing silks, restoring wools, cleaning and gazing furs.
- FOR MEN'S, WOMEN'S, CHILDREN'S CLOTHES — From silken web to heavy homespun — whatever the texture or nature of the garment — soft, delicate, heavy, coarse . . . SANTONE gently penetrates to the innermost fibre, dissolving those microscopic atoms of grit that grind the life out of clothes. Hopelessly soiled and spotted garments come out fresh and clean beyond expectation. Of course, no cleaning process which can be used for draperies, etc., compares with SANTONE.

Victory For German Sustains Braddock's Judgment Of Louis

Madison Square Garden May Wage Promotion Battle With Mike Jacobs; Schmeling To Meet Champ

By ALAN GOULD (Associated Press Sports Editor) NEW YORK, June 20 (AP)—Leaving unsettled for the time being the question as to whether Joe Louis, the bombed bomber, was more shell-shocked today than the survivors of the 99.9 per cent wrong club, the flistic world surveyed the results of the upheaval created by Max Schmeling's smashing 12-round knockout victory.

Between alibs and headaches it was determined: (1) That Schmeling will fight champion James J. Braddock for the world's heavyweight title, probably the last week in September at the Yankee stadium.

(2) That it's still uncertain whether Madison Square garden, with Braddock under contract, will give a promotion battle with Mike Jacobs, who has signed Schmeling, or whether the rivals will patch up their differences and jointly conduct the match.

(3) That Schmeling will return to Germany and the Zeppelin air-liners, Hindenburg, leaving here next Tuesday night to receive the plaudits of his countrymen and see the Olympic games.

(4) That Braddock, with his judgment of Louis and the Negro's vulnerability sustained, stood at the head of the heavyweight class with out-an-apologies being offered for him, for the first time since he knocked a crown off the early head of Max Baer a year ago.

(5) That Louis, despite the shocking unexpectedness of his downfall, still means "through" and will start a comeback campaign, possibly by August, with a view to fighting his way back into the championship ring by 1937.

(6) That the sports-writing fraternity, while ungrudging in its tribute to Schmeling for his great fight and freely admitting the error of under-estimating the German's comeback prowess, stuck by his guns with the choice of "if we would do it all over again, we would still pick Louis."

A somewhat foggy round-robin at conferences between managers and promoters during the day failed to develop any definite line on the script for the Schmeling-Braddock battle that the world assumes will take place as the climax to the most startling half of form reversals in heavyweight history.

The Garden has until July 20 to make good on its contract obligation with Braddock to produce the signature of the No. 1 challenger, Schmeling, meanwhile, the German promoter, who has not yet read back to any one logical conclusion: That the boys will bury the hatchet and get together.

Max Schmeling talked with Joe Gould, Braddock's manager, as well as Joe Jacobs, the German's fighter pilot. They all agreed the match "must be made" but came to no conclusion other than Schmeling agreed, except Schmeling and Joe Jacobs, had been so convinced that Braddock would emerge as the title challenger that it was necessary to go back and start negotiations all over again.

Braddock, posing with Schmeling during the post-mortem proceedings, took the German's right hand in his own, and said: "The myth of Louis invincibility—and said: 'Take good care of that, Max, until September. You will need it.'"

His left eye still tightly closed behind dark glasses but his battered, smiling face, Schmeling conferred quickly. "Don't a word, Jim. I take care and I expect a will use it."

When the experts shake their heads sadly over the belated discovery that Louis was a "hacker" for a right hand punch, "Schmeling's opportunity to rub in his pre-battle statements.

"From the pictures I knew Louis could be hit as well as a right-hand punch," Schmeling said. "I was sure he would be a short right, delivered from a crouch," replied Max.

"So do what I concentrated on," Schmeling said, "and I know I could take from Joe's left but I was willing to gamble."

"Why should I be afraid, boys?" As Joe took so many a right hand or left, no matter how happy, no fighter who makes fighting his business should be afraid of a right hand or left hand. Did you ever hear Doc Corbett, Plattsburgh, New York, or Dempsey was afraid because he was afraid of fighting? It is a right hand or left hand."

Trojans Of Southern California Flash To Second Championship

Western Athletes Sweep Over Field Of Prospective Olympic Performers To Amass 104 1-3 Points

By CHARLES DUNKLEY (Associated Press Sports Writer) CHICAGO, June 20 (AP)—Sweeping over a field studded with prospective Olympic stars, athletes from the University of Southern California ran rampant in the national collegiate track and field championships at Stagg field today, in which four world's records—two today and two yesterday—were collapsed.

The Trojans, scoring in 14 of the 16 events, amassed a total of 104 1-3 points to annex their second successive championship. Ohio State, led by the sensational Negro star, Jesse Owens, who won 50a events himself for 40 points, was second with 73 points.

Indiana was third with 42 and Stanford fourth with 32. Thirty-two teams entered the meet. Ten thousand spectators witnessed the thrilling races and field events.

Complete In Finals The winners of the first two places in each event, plus others whose performance warranted, will compete in the finals at New York in next month when the team to represent Uncle Sam in the Olympic games next August will be chosen.

Bettering the world's mark in the 100 meter run, Owens was the individual star. He opened up his afternoon's performance by winning the broad jump with a leap of 25 feet, 10 1/2 inches, captured the 100 meters in 102 seconds and won the 200-meter run in 2:13 and concluded with a victory in the 230-yard low hurdles.

Whether Owens' performance in the 100 meters will be applied for as a record is questionable. His time equals that established by Ralph Childs of Maryland in 1935, which never obtained recognition. The accepted world and Olympic mark is 102 1/2.

A new world's record went up in the discus when Ken Carpenter of Southern California threw the plate 192 meters, 10 1/2 inches, better than the mark of 171 feet, 11 1/2 inches set by Harold Anderson of Sweden in 1931.

National collegiate records were established in the 1,500-meter run, the javelin and the pole vault.

Alton Terry, Abilene, Texas, champion of the Texas and Drake relays, tossed the spear 230 feet, 2 1/2 inches to break his own American mark of 222 feet, 8 1/2 inches. The N. C. A. A. record is 221 feet, 3 1/2 inches set by Charles Gouffort of Pittsburgh.

The sky-sailing "win" from Southern California, Earl Mardawa and Bill Beffon, soared 200 feet in the air in a tie to clear the bar in the pole vault at 14 feet, 1 1/2 inches, to beat his own American mark of 14 feet, 1 1/2 inches, which they jointly set last year.

Archie Ben Romani, Kansas State's Teachers college, broke Kansas romped to victory in the 1,500 meters run in 3:53, erasing the mark set by Oleg Cunningham of Kansas in 1932.

As usual the ace, Willis, will be on the mound for both with Dunlop in the game at Kimberly and will be to break Wendell, with Krall on the mound.

Kimberly is rated above Hagerman in the game at Kimberly and will be to choose from. Neither has scored a victory this year.

America's Youthful Polo Team Triumphs

International Champions Successfully Defend Cup On Hurlingham Field

LONDON, June 20 (AP)—Blowed-down-by-a-spongy-turf but clutching magically when it counted most, American youth polo club successfully defended the international polo cup today, winning the second and deciding match, 8 to 6, on the famous Hurlingham club field.

Repeating with two first period goals after Heskeith Hughes, England's sharpshooting No. 1, had electrified the crowd of 12,000 by scoring on a pass from Gerald Baiding in the first.

The victory was the United States' tenth consecutive, and marked triumph since 1914 and enabled the Americans to defend the trophy for the fourth successive time.

A final game will be played Wednesday to complete the series, but it will be only an exhibition. The "silver" cup was presented to Great Britain by the British polo club.

The match fell to the Americans 12 to 6. The American players had it not been for the excellent defense work by the English and their own over-aggressive play, a mixed twelve scoring chance would have been the British.

Ralph Guldahl, the Day-Don's champion, was the most extremely threatening power in the game and the ace is paid 100.

DENVER, June 20 (AP)—Patty Berg of Minneapolis plied an knockout one-putt today at the Denver country club course...

Less than 24 hours after she had set a new women's course record of 73, she smashed that figure to bits with a brilliant 36-36 one stroke under men's par for the 6,688-yard links.

Thus, twice in two days, the 18-year-old chatterer shattered the record that had stood seven years—the 73 scored by Mrs. Opal B. Hill, Kansas City, Mo., in 1919.

Miss Berg, playing a practice match with two other tournament entrants, Opal B. Hill and Betty Dorrill of Salt Lake City, was nine under women's par, the difference reported by the ladies. She one-putted six greens.

BROOKLYN, June 20 (AP)—Young Kon O'Dea's pinch single in the ninth with the bases loaded gave the Chicago Cubs a 6 to 4 victory over the Dodgers today, stretching the Cubs' winning streak to 14 straight.

Up to that time, Larry French and Tom Baker had cruised in a tight pitching duel, after relieving Bill Lee and Lefty Clark, respectively, in the second inning.

The victory, coupled with the Giants' triumph over the Cardinals at New York, advanced the Cubs within one game of the National league leaders.

Golden Bears and Huskies Favorites At Poughkeepsie

Bookmakers Rank Washington and California Oarsmen at Top at Even Money Against Eastern Boats

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—Undaunted by the fates of recent short favorites, the rowing clans that descended upon this famous Hudson "river regatta" today cast an almost unanimous vote for California's Golden Bears, and rated all other six varsity crews, which added with California crossing the finish line barely ahead of a powerful Cornell crew on the Interstate Rowing association regatta as also-rans 46 hours before Monday's four-mile race.

A few outliers, upon whom recent happenings have made an impression, predicted another east-west battle, a repetition of last year's varsity race, which ended with California crossing the finish line barely ahead of a powerful Cornell crew on the Interstate Rowing association regatta as also-rans 46 hours before Monday's four-mile race.

The cautious experts—and there are many of them hereabouts along the Hudson's banks—have refused to join the stampede for California. They have been watching all seven well-conditioned regatta crews and concede four of them a winning chance.

Huskies Top List The professional, who make books on the famous test of strength and speed, are even more cautious. They have put the Washington Huskies on top of their list along with California, both even money against the field, and the most generous quotation they will give on Cornell is 5-1.

Since they know little or nothing about Navy's chances they are playing safe by pricing the Midshipmen at 4 to 1. Any wagerer out for a killing must take Columbia at 8-1. Ten favored much light for four miles, at 12 to 1, or what appears to be the weakest Syracuse crew the veteran Jim Ten Zerk has turned out at 20-1.

Guy H. Shearer of Twin Falls Elected State Association President

SPOKANE, June 20 (AP)—Guy H. Shearer, president of the Fidelity National bank of Twin Falls, Idaho, was elected president of the Idaho Bankers association today, succeeding C. E. Allison of the American Trust company, Coeur d'Alene.

As chairman, Wallace was elected vice-president, E. L. Miller, Boise, secretary, and E. W. Porter, Boise, treasurer.

The world's largest corporation, the Reconstruction Finance corporation, has collected 61 per cent of the money to help up to June 30, to the board of RFC, told the bankers. The corporation has committed a total of $100,000,000. Johnson said, but $1,100,000,000 was cancelled.

"Total disbursements, exclusive of congressional allocations and allocations to other governmental agencies, had been $6,194,000,000 of which repayment of $3,751,000,000 or 61 per cent has been made," he said.

"This has been accomplished in no instance by forced liquidation, but in all cases under orderly liquidation."

He said loans in excess of $2,000,000 have been made to 746 banks, 88 per cent of which has been repaid."

YEAMANS LAUNCHES ATTACK ON CLARK

Blind Buhl Lawyer Announces Own Candidacy For Congress

Harold Yeamans, blind Buhl attorney, announced yesterday for the second district congressional nomination in the August Democratic primary.

He sought the nomination in the 1934 primary for the position now occupied by Congressman D. Worth Clark, a Democrat, who has announced he will seek reelection.

In his announcement Yeamans said:

"In response to a wide-spread demand for someone to oppose D. Worth Clark, I have decided to run for congressman at the Democratic primary."

"There is a growing feeling among the Democrats of Idaho that D. Worth Clark has represented the interests and power companies better than he has represented the people. His activities in support of these utilities on the holding company bill and related issues has provided abundant grounds for the belief."

"Having spoken over the radio at Twin Falls each Sunday for more than a hundred weeks in support of the president and his great program of recovery and reform my views are pretty well known. However, I shall not hesitate to let the people know where I stand on every issue during the course of the campaign. I predict the reelection of Roosevelt by an avalanche of votes this fall and he is entitled to the support of congressmen who are in sympathy with his program."

PRISONER SLASHES WRIST WITH BLADE

Suicide Attempt Attributed To Man Held Here For Virginia

A prisoner in Twin Falls county jail, awaiting return to Virginia under extradition proceedings, Everett Wilhite, alias H. E. Skyles, 25, yesterday slashed his arm with a safety razor blade severing an artery while he brandished a milk bottle to keep other prisoners away. Sheriff P. F. Wray said this evening.

"The other prisoners' shouts attracted attention and Wilhite was brought to Deputy Oris Cryder and Police Officer Lee McCracken before he was dragged from his cell. A physician was called to close the wound."

Earlier in the week, the sheriff said, Wilhite was discovered sawing through bars at the window of his cell on the fourth floor of the court house.

Jail Break Leader

He was the asserted leader of a jail break two weeks ago in which the prisoners pushed a hole through the roof and lowered themselves to the ground by means of a blanket-rope. They were recaptured after a few hours.

Wilhite was arrested here in connection with alleged thefts of dentists' gold and was held for trial in a felony charge.

Local authorities did not resist the claim of Virginia authorities who sought Wilhite's return to that state where he is alleged to have about his way out of a prison camp several years ago.

Extradition was approved by Governor Ross last Wednesday but Virginia officers have not arrived here.

No WONDER EVERYONE IS SAYING:

"My next refrigerator will be KELVINATOR"

We, too, say the 1936 Kelvinator is a fine refrigerator. We like the way the company has answered the questions that wise buyers ask—about temperatures, operating cost, and Kelvinator has answered them definitely and emphatically.

It has answered with Visible Cold—a food in Thermometer shows you that your food is being kept surely, safely, dependably cold.

It has answered with Visible Economy—for not only does the new Kelvinator use one-half to one-third the current—but a Certificate of Low Cost of Operation shows you, in advance, that current consumption will be amazingly low.

It has answered with Visible Protection—for a 5-year Protection Plan gives you signed assurance of long years of service.

And the 1936 Kelvinator is a beautiful refrigerator, designed with the aid of Count Alexis de Sakhnoffsky, Luthermote, it has dozens of conveniences to lighten the work of preparing meals—such as flexible rubber, automatic defroster, automatic defrosting switch, vegetable crisper, and many others.

To those who have old-fashioned automatic refrigerators, we suggest that you compare Kelvinator's operating cost in light that of yours. Quite possibly the difference will amply pay for the new 1936 Kelvinator.
