FORMER OFFICER IN U. S. NAVY GUILTY OF SPY CONSPIRACY

Jury Returns Verdict On First Ballot, Taken After Brief Discussion of Sale of Defense Secrets

(By The Associated Press) — LOS ANGELES, July 3 — On the first ballot, taken after five minutes of discussion, a federal court jury today found Harry Thomas Thompson, former U. S. Navy officer, guilty of conspiring to sell the secrets of his country's defense to a high-ranking officer of the Imperial Japanese navy.

Conviction carries a maximum sentence of 30 years in prison. United States Judge Leon Frankich said that in his opinion, this was the first espionage case ever tried during peace times.

Monday morning was set for sentencing of Thompson.

The former yeoman of the navy heard the verdict without change of expression.

He himself was his only witness and the court told the jury "your quick verdict indicates that you consider the defendant guilty."

Thompson's defense was that he acted merely as a "slipping bureau" for Lieutenant-commander Toledo King who was in command of the ship until 1934 and 1935 as an observer.

Received $700 or $800

He said that over a period of several months, he clipped articles relating to the national defense from newspapers and the navy magazines, and mailed them to King.

In reply to a question regarding his pay, during that time, he said he thought he received $700 or $800.

The government's case against Thompson, which Judge Frankich later said he considered "air tight," was based on two letters, a check and the testimony of Thompson's ex-wife, Mrs. Helen Hayes Victor.

One letter, from "Frank" Willard Thompson to "Thompson," declared in part:

"I will send you January salary before I start here. Will you send

Helen Hayes Victor In 'Heart Balm' Suit

Stage, Screen Star Scores Complete Vindication

CHICAGO, July 3 (AP)—Helen Hayes, diminutive star of stage and screen, emerged a victorious heroine tonight in a real life drama that cast her as defendant in her first court role on or off the stage.

A $100,000 suit that charged her with alienating the affections of her husband, playwright Charles MacArthur, from his first wife, was dropped in Cook county circuit court before the tiny actress had entered one word of defense.

Three times the plaintiff offered to drop the case before the defense accepted.

HELEN HAYES

Insists on Fighting

Mrs. Hayes, her attorneys said, insisted on fighting until MacArthur's first wife took back all the money she said about "Clara"—those wickerbacks about hocking "my mother-in-law's diamond ring" and "giving on the beach getting 'lively' while" Miss Frink worked, and making love by sleeping on her feet, and moving from "the bed was too small for my money."

Not only did Miss Frink sue, but she also sued Helen Hayes.

Thompson's defense was that he acted merely as a "slipping bureau" for Lieutenant-commander Toledo King who was in command of the ship until 1934 and 1935 as an observer.

Borah Delivers Brief Non-Political Address

Enthusiastic Welcome Given Senator At Pocatello

(By The Associated Press) — POCATELLO, Idaho, July 3 — An enthusiastic homecoming welcomed here today for Senator William E. Borah, as the veteran statesman did not drop even a hint as to his future political plans.

Among the 500 persons that welcomed him at the railway station here was Governor C. Ben Ross, Democratic candidate for Borah's senate seat.

The two smiled, shook hands, exchanged pleasantries, rode through green-lined with several thousand spectators to the senator's hotel, and parted.

Ross had no comment to make; he only smiled.

"I am not concerned with the Governor's plans."

Before an audience of 2,000 persons at the Bannock county fairground he spoke briefly, giving a typical Fourth of July address.

"We need have no fears as to the continuance of constitutional government so long as the general level of our citizenship is maintained," he declared.

"It is up to you and to me to see to it that the great heritage which is handed on to our sons and our sons' sons."

His closing remark was: "I may be back here later on to

NEWSPAPERMAN AT LEAGUE ASSEMBLY COMMITS SUICIDE

'Want To Die As A Public Protest To The Way Germany Is Treating The Jews,' Gaspes Stefan Lux

(By The Associated Press) — GENEVA, July 3 — Death climaxed tonight a dramatic pistol shot of protest, fired in the assembly of the League of Nations.

Stefan Lux, Czechoslovakian Jewish newspaperman, died of the bullet wound he inflicted in the assembly hall today while speaking and exposing this proposal and that to ward off European war.

An internal hemorrhage, caused by the wound just above his heart, proved fatal.

Lux fired the shot into his chest while standing in the gallery addressing the benches of the delegates, and slid to the floor.

He gasped to a colleague, "I want to die as a public protest to the way Germany is treating the Jews. I am not sorry. My mind is completely lucid."

Stefan Lux, 37-year-old salesman, shown above with his wife, confessed when he was arrested at Los Angeles last evening, officers said, that he clubbed to death his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Snyder, and grandmother, Mrs. Emma Scott Rose, 80, at Ogden last Tuesday. Mrs. Mortensen's 8-year-old deaf-mute daughter, Betty Beck, or slept through the brutal scene and was unharmed.

Predictions Of Rain Cheer Drought Belt

Showers Soak Some Fields In Dixie And East

(By The Associated Press) — CHICAGO, July 3 — Hopes for drooping crops revived in many seared areas of the drought belt tonight with a weather bureau prediction of showers and wider scattered showers.

Rains already had bathed withering fields in Dixie, portions of the east, and some farm belt sections but they missed North Dakota, one of the states most severely stricken by the $250,000,000 drought, as well as other badly hit regions.

The new predictions, however, included the northeastern section of that state, which continued to

Ogden's Bludgeon Slayer Captured In Los Angeles

George Mortensen, Accused of Triple Killing of Wife's Parents and Grandmother, Confesses

Mad Act Attributed to Jealousy

(By The Associated Press) — LOS ANGELES, July 3 — George Mortensen was arrested here today and confessed, Detective-Lieutenant P. N. Erickson said, that he killed three persons in Ogden, Utah, last Tuesday.

Erickson, who with another officer took Mortensen into custody in a downtown rooming house, said the prisoner made a complete confession that he beat his parents-in-law to death with a pick handle, fatally wounded Mrs. Emma Scott Rose, 80, and wounded his wife, Grace.

"I'm glad to have it over with," Mortensen was quoted as saying in his confession. "I don't know what happened in Ogden. I must have gone crazy or something."

Mortensen's parents-in-law were Mr. and Mrs. Adam Snyder. Mrs. Rose was Mrs. Snyder's mother.

Sixth Husband

Mortensen confessed, said Erickson, that yesterday over his wife, Grace, he had a fit of jealousy, which drove him to distraction. He is her sixth husband, he said.

Excerpts from the prisoner's alleged confession:

"We were married three months ago at Salt Lake City. Since then I had been supporting her parents and her grandmother—to say nothing of my own three children and my wife's daughter. I gave them $100 since January 1. Then Grace left me two weeks ago.

At Ogden, Mrs. Mortensen, nursing me, told me she was the slayer of three persons, told police her husband drank to excess and that she died at her parents from Salt Lake City.

Charges Thrown

"Finally, I went to Ogden to reason with her. She would not let me. Mortensen's alleged confession continued: "There her father threatened to murder me. I went to her father to get a pick handle. Well, I settled that argument and we went to bed."

"About 3 a. m. Monday I awoke to find Mr. Snyder breathing on me with the pickhandle again in his hands. I was very angry because it wrenched it from him and struck him once. Then I ran into the kitchen and got some beer. I must have been my grand-mother-in-law. After hitting Grace, I ran in after her. She was lying in bed, I

Mortensen said he would waive extradition and face trial at once in his native Utah.

Exhausted and covered, Mortensen told of desperate flight, by motorcar, to the mountains of Nevada, Mexico, and thence to Los Angeles.

Concerned For Children

Mortensen expressed concern over his children. When his wife left him he was alone with his sons, George, 15, and John, 10, he said. His daughter, Norma, 11, who is in Kimberly, Neb., are children by a former marriage.

"I don't know what I had done wrong," he said. "I thought I was washed up near a power dam near Gonzales."

The Heavy Losses Suffered

One-fifth of Victoria's richest farming area was a total loss. In addition, the crop and livestock losses were suffered in the wide area from Gonzales to the coast. Thousands of head of livestock were covered, and a survey showed at least 400,000 acres of farm land under water.

Half the sheep and cattle were a standstill in the Victoria section.

Strangely, Gonzales farmers who suffered heavy damage when 15 inches of rain fell in the Guadalupe pouring over their crops wanted more rain today. It was the general belief that another inch or two of precipitation would wash salt from cotton and corn crops left standing.

Warnings, printed in both English and Spanish, were dropped from airplanes in isolated coastal sections, notifying farmers to evacuate their food-messaged homes.

AVIATRIX DIES IN FLAMING AIRPLANE

Woman Flier Burned Beyond Recognition At Omaha Municipal Field

OMAHA, Neb., July 3 (AP) — A woman flier, believed to be Mrs. Ruth Barron Macoy, Rochester, N. Y., crashed in her flaming plane as she prepared to land at Omaha Municipal airport late today and was burned beyond recognition.

Investigators said identification was so difficult that only fragments of papers found in the wreckage.

While the plane was circling over the airport about 800 feet up, it suddenly burst into flames and was burned beyond recognition. Every part of the ship burned except the motor and metal framework.

Investigators said they could not determine what caused the blaze. By the time airport attendants reached the ship, its pilot was a charred corpse.

"When it caught fire the ship was too low, observers estimated, for the pilot to attempt a parachute jump."

Among papers found in and about the ship, investigators said, were a transport pilot's license and other documents, all badly charred. Part of a telegram inviting Mrs. Macoy to the air races at Denver, Colo., was also found, along with several pictures, apparently of this plane and its woman pilot.

Grounded for Standing

Mrs. Macoy, 35, was always a daring, thrill-seeking flier, took her plane to the Cleveland air races last year, but was grounded for standing on a wing.

She began her flying career at her home in Rochester, N. Y., and although only 25, was already a veteran of the sky.

Flier flying instructor was Lieutenant George Stokerson, World War pilot. At 19 she already was doing

Mackey had arranged for the policy with the representative of a British insurance firm (Lloyd's), and the couple had agreed to pay $11 against the appearance of twins in the Mackey household.

Mackey, 34, said he was prompted to take the policy because his wife, Helen, 26, is a twin. If Helen, Arizona, has a twin, the extra expense, he explained, if not, they will be out only $18.

Alplane Carries Flier To Death on Ranch Field in California

HOLLISTER, Calif., July 3 (AP) — A blimp, which was carrying a flier, crashed in flames after striking a ranch field near here today.

The plane, from which Haring had been "dusting" vegetables with the sulphur burst into flames after striking a tree, Marvin Norton, 16, the only witness, said.

Young Norton said the burning plane struck the ranch house of his father and crashed several hundred feet away.

The pilot called his father and they ran to the wreckage but were unable to reach the pilot because of the blimp's furious heat.

Haring, employed by a crop "dusting" company, held a transport pilot's license.

CARLSBAD, N. M., July 3 (AP) — The world's first rattlesnake derby closed to being the last today as Peco, strictly a dark horse, came through a free-for-all fight to win by a fank.

The winner was Peco, a 400-gram Peco's backer, "Chance" of El Paso, who had the purse was temporarily held up while Merwin Campbell, racing steward, studied immediate determination.

Joe Louis Ready To Strike Out Along Comeback Trail

Baer, Haynes, Ettore And Brubaker Listed As Likely Opponents

Detroit Negro Seems Surprisingly Fit And Cheerful Visits New York

By EDIE BRIZZY (Associated Press Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, July 3 (AP)—Joe Louis, completely mended in both mind and body, is ready to strike out along the comeback trail he hopes will lead again to the top of the heavyweight division.

The 22-year-old Detroit Negro paid a hurried visit to New York today to appear on a radio program and discuss an August comeback bout with promoter Mike Jacobs.

Belted back into the second flight by Max Schmeling only two weeks ago, Louis seemed surprisingly fit and cheerful.

His face, cut and badly swollen from Schmeling's pulverizing blow, is normal again and Louis' sprained thumbs give him no more trouble.

Ready in Two Weeks
He says he'll be ready to fight in two weeks and the same Jacobs throws him in there, the better he'll like it.

Lash will be selected as Joe's next opponent is problematical. Max Baer, the former champ, would be the No. 1 choice, but Baer wants to fight Louis unless he is guaranteed at least $150,000.

Leroy Haynes, Philadelphia Negro, also is being considered, as are Ettore, who holds three decisions over Haynes, and Phil Brubaker, the younger son of the Puerto coast.

Personally, Joe would prefer a return to Max Schmeling, but he isn't set for this until the Cincinnati fight, his scheduled crack at Jimmy Braddock's title.

Don Lash Races To New Record

Indiana Speedster Shatters American Mark For 10,000 Meters

By ALAN GOULD (Associated Press Sports Editor)
PRINCETON, N. J., July 3.—Running the fastest 10,000 meters ever achieved by an American, Don Lash of Indiana, defeated himself as a competitor distance racer this evening by running away with the combined A. A. U. national championship and Olympic final tonight. Lash spread-eagled his field and negotiated the distance, approximately six and one-quarter miles, in 31 minutes, 6.8 seconds.

Competing on the famous Palmer stadium track, where he broke Paavo Nurmi's world two-mile record three weeks ago, the 22-year-old Indiana collegian clinched his place on the 1936 American Olympic team with a superb performance. He wasn't quite equal to the task of dislodging another of the flying Finn's cherished foot-racing standards.

Finishes Like Sprinter
Lash finished like a sprinter, but his time was slightly more than a full minute slower than the record of 30:02.2 set by the great Nurmi in 1924.

The long-legged Hoosier never-theless wiped out the mark of 31:24, set by Tom Donohue of the Boston A. A. at Cambridge, Mass., in 1932, and the best previous performance ever recorded in the American distance race. The record was made by Jan Kuscinaki, Polish star, in winning the last Olympic 10,000-meter race, at Los Angeles.

On his way to triumph Lash passed the six-mile mark in 30 minutes, 0.8 seconds, thereby making the longest American record for the distance.

Lash's sterling performance topped off the first half of the two-day championship athletic show in Princeton's clustered premises. Seven men events were featured during the complete National A. A. Junior title program, which paved the way for the senior national track and field stars to shine tomorrow in the national senior championships.

Betty Robinson, 100-meter Olympic champion from Pullman, Wash., dashed from obscurity more than a year ago by defeating Stella Walsh of Poland, the Olympic 100-meter champion and record holder. And now the 18-year-old Missouri miss is Uncle Sam's best hope in the 100-meter sprint and discus throw at Berlin. She eloped a full half-second off Stella Walsh's record for the 100-meter with a recent sprint time of 11.2, and has run it numerous times.

By PAUL MICKELSON (Associated Press Sports Writer)

to accomplish that goal is to win 46 out of their remaining 83 games, proceeding along a .584 percentage as compared with their madcap present average of .500.
