GOVERNOR DEFENDS SCHOOL CLAIMS TO SALES TAX SHARE

Ross Asks Special Legislative Session Not to Interfere With Education Department Fund BOISE, July 18 — Governor C. Ben Ross said tonight he will ask the special legislative session July 28 not to interfere in meeting emergency relief requirements with the state education department's claims to sales tax of Idaho.

It will not be necessary to take for relief any part of the sales tax receipts set aside for public schools, the chief executive said. "The state general fund is in the best condition in the history of Idaho," John V. Condie, state superintendent of public instruction, and several other educators opposed reduction of the schools' share of the sales tax.

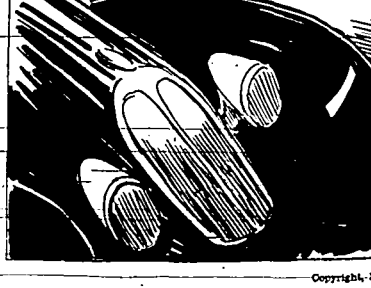

Under provisions of the 3 percent retail sales tax $100,000 is diverted monthly to relief and the balance is divided between the public school income fund and the general fund. The tax produces approximately $170,000 monthly. Ross is asking for $300,000 more for relief, $50,000 monthly, to provide for the increased relief burden until the general session of the legislature next year.

BRAIN FEVER PUTS IN REAPPEARANCE

Veterinarian Reports Disease Spreading Through Southern Idaho

GOODINGS, July 18.—Brain fever has made a reappearance in this section of Idaho during the past week and already has reached its most epidemic proportions, Dr. F. H. Icard, federal veterinarian in this district, stated Wednesday. Fourteen cases were reported in as many days in the Gooding area with one fatality.

During the last two years, since the disease swept into Idaho from the south, more than 350 cases among horses have been personally observed by Dr. Icard with estimates that the mortality at about 20 percent. In other infected localities of the west the mortality rate has run from 15 to 70 percent, Icard stated.

The infected area in Idaho includes—Ada, Owyhee, Payette, Washington, Canyon, Elmore, Gooding, Jerome and Lincoln counties with a small portion of Blaine county heavily hit. There are few cases south of the river in this part of the state and none at all in the mountainous regions, according to data received by Dr. Icard.

Started in California. Since the current epidemic started in California four years ago the research departments of the state experiment stations and the pathological divisions of the bureau of animal husbandry at Washington, D. C., have been able to determine the carrier of the virus. It is a large, black mosquito that appears only in extremely warm weather. Utah, Nevada and California experiment stations have been especially busy with the study of the disease, and it is believed that the mosquito carried it. Laboratory experiments have proven that it can be transmitted from guinea pig to horse by the mosquito.

The spread of the disease has been alarmingly fast, reaching out to California four years ago to Utah and Nevada, then two years ago to Idaho, Montana, the Dakotas and Minnesota. Last year reports of cases were sent in from many states east of the Mississippi river.

Vaccine Developed. A vaccine has been developed by the government and has proven successful in immunizing horses for a short time. The immunization person is not definitely known, but is so brief and the vaccine so expensive that the cost of immunization is too expensive except for exceptionally valuable horses, Icard says.

A serum has also been developed that is reasonably successful in effecting cures. There are many "fake" cures being sold by itinerants, according to Icard, and last year five of them were arrested and convicted for claiming false benefits for their "cures." Veterinarians warn farmers not to permit the use of any "cures" without first consulting the resident veterinarian.

History of Disease. The history of the disease reaches back to 1869 when a maldy whose description fits the modern brain fever killed off scores of horses in Germany. Other outbreaks have been recorded in all parts of the world, the disease going under various names. It is confidently believed that the Kansas horse plague of 1914-15-16 was nothing more than an epidemic of brain fever.

One of the present epidemic started scientists had not isolated the virus nor its carrier and no conclusive information as to its origin or means of transmitting it was available.

Symptoms include partial paralysis, particularly of the tongue and tongue and of loss of co-ordination, indicated by staggering. Death usually follows the slow but definite paralysis, Icard states.

More Than $1,000,000 Spent in the Past 12 Months by Idaho Power with Local Business Firms

THE many different kinds of supplies, materials and services required by our business are purchased whenever possible within the territory we serve.

Our expenditures helped stimulate local business, increase employment and pay rolls, build and maintain local business. Add to them the past year's expenditure of our employees—wages and salaries of $1,182,000.00—and our 1935 tax bill of $920,000—and you get a picture of how much we are a part of the communities in which we live.

This is only a part of Idaho Power's contribution to the territory we serve.

In the last 12 months alone, we paid to local firms and individuals more than $1,000,000.00. This huge sum of money was spent for supplies, materials and services ranging in size and variety from the purchase of a box of rubber bands to a carload of lumber.

MURDER TONIGHT

BY LAURENCE W. MEYNELL

SYNOPSIS: Inspector Hyllon has just about finished the murder of old Arthe Burdett on Burdette's youngish half nephew when suddenly his suspicions are confirmed by Paula Shipley's flight to London. Hyllon is darting away from Dale's house to issue a pick-up order when Nelson Macintosh, the old man's nephew, tells Hyllon that his quarry is at her house, drunk. Hyllon returns with her, and she is locked in a strong room. Meanwhile Sergeant White, earnest but not particularly clever, is supposed to work on the same case. And of course, Dale is not at Nancy's house.

Chapter 30

FAMILY AT ODDS

At one o'clock White came back to his cottage and went thoughtfully through into the kitchen where his wife was taking something out of the oven.

"How's Mr. Hyllon this morning?" Alice asked lightly.

"Not there? Where was he?"

"I don't know. I don't quite know. He told me to meet him at twelve and said particularly I was not to be late. They told me at the Hyllon's that he was in the village this morning early, and then came back about half past ten and they haven't seen him since."

"Why can't you find out who did that old fool in," she said irritably. "We might get a lift then and be able to afford a decent oven."

"No one can expect me to be over at Hyllon and at Enderston Court at the same time."

"It wasn't much good your being at Hyllon's morning, the poachers were out just the same."

"How do you know that?" White asked quickly, and it would have bitten the end of her stupid tongue off. She ought to have learned by now, she reflected, to be doubly careful with a man as madly jealous as her husband.

"I just heard somebody talking about it somewhere in the village here this morning, oh I'm sorry Jimmy, this blessed shepherd's pie before it gets cold."

She cut him a piece of bread and put the bottle of Yorkshire Gellish in his reach and filled his glass with water. The police investigations he received with that macabre matter of course indifference which not infrequently a woman finds the most maddening thing in the whole world. One or two sharp comments came to her tongue but she repressed them. Jimmy had a regular job with good money and a pension, she wasn't going to be fool enough to fall out with him unnecessarily, especially when she could put the wool over his eyes so beautifully as long as she was careful.

"What's that?" he said. "What's that?"

Did his duty and afraid of no one—out-up nearly most likely if ever he found out, Harry Small's smile broadened, after all what was life worth without a bit of a risk to give sauce to it; and Alice was worth it any day, more than worth it. He stretched his big body in pleasurable anticipation, and so quickly that even his phenomenally quick ears gave him only a moment's warning she came up to him from behind.

"Harry."

"You've come, my dear."

"I am baffled, it's an awful pull up that banner."

"You're late."

"Late? You ought to be damned glad I've come at all."

Small's eye ran over her flushed, handsome face and her generous body.

"So I am," he allowed.

"Sergeant White go to the picture?"

"He does sometimes."

"Not often, I'll bet."

She sat down on the log by him not breathing quickly. He made no effort to caress her, there was plenty of time yet.

"Nice day," he said.

anyway—and put you down where I've a mind to."

"I like your cheek."

He slipped his arm through hers and they began to walk away together.

"Can't we stay here?" she protested. "It's lovely in this bit of sun."

"It'll be lovelier still where I've a mind to go," he said, "there's a bit of a bank the other side of the ride where the turf's so soft you might be sitting on a bed."

"All right Harry," Alice said quickly.

They had emerged from the side of the wood and overlooked an unexpected and charming little valley. Its slope lay to the southwest and formed a perfect trap for the afternoon sun, so that January and all the bleak things of the year seemed further off than ever.

With a sudden but unheeded movement he lifted her off her feet. (Copyright, 1936, Laurence W. Meynell)

Legal Talent Lines Up... The government on the west side were rich. They came to Diamond-Field's assistance with means to procure legal talent.

New Trial Denied... An appeal was immediately sought from the government established grounds of new evidence was made. But this was denied.

Preparations were made for the execution... The scaffold was erected. Diamond-Field was interested in the work and said after examining the scaffold, that it would do the work intended.

Jack Admits Procedure... Excitement ran high. Diamond-Field Jack was greatly interested, not in the outcome of the trial which would spell his death sentence.

Day of Execution... In the little town of Albion, excited people came from their beds and through the streets to the single light in the death chamber at the county jail.

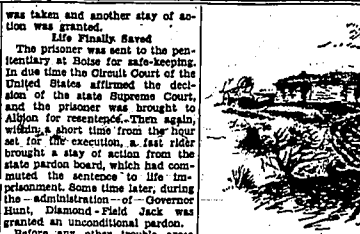

How would the time be spent?... The larger of the two robbers was big fellow with steady nerves, and he handled two guns in a manner that gave one confidence.

Abbi Argued... The distance from the place of killing to the Bear's Bend was claimed by the cattlemen to be twenty-five miles. On the night of February 4, these two men stayed at the Middlecracks ranch.

Violations Of Olympic Training Rules Bring Warning Louis' Manager And Agent File Suit For $100,000 Damages

Brundage Delivers Ultimatum to All Athletes on Ship

American Committee President Receives Reports of Drinkings; Majority Hold to Regulations

By ALAN GOULD. (Associated Press Sports Editor) BOARD S. B. MANHATTAN, Enroute to Berlin, July 18 (AP)—Disciplinary problems among members of the American Olympic team, which arose today when rain cut short the ship's crew, drew a sharp warning from Avery Brundage that further unexcused violations of the training rules would result in the dismissal of offenders at the first port of call—Cobb, Ireland. The American Olympic committee president delivered his ultimatum to all of the Olympians after receiving reports of late hours, drinking and other violations of the rules. Brundage stressed that there were only a few violators and that the majority were holding to the regulations and maintaining good discipline, but the managers of the women's swimming, field hockey and fencing teams were charged specifically with the responsibility of enforcing stricter adherence of the training rules. Salute Adopted. Much official debate developed over the decision to have a salute to be used in the Olympic parade. It will take the form of the men in their right hands, holding the right arm forward parallel to the ground. The girls merely will extend their left arm forward. Officials denied the suggestion that this was a "modified Nazi salute" and said it had a distinctive gesture as a part of the opening ceremonies. Fencing. The American weight lifter from York, Pa., bettered his own world record in practice by hoisting an aggregate of 700 pounds in the 150-pound class. The 1,600-meter man from Kansas, skipped a rope for an hour and looked to be in fine condition.

Mehlhorn Leads Tournament Field

Kentucky Star Leaves Trail of Birds to Shoot 68 at St. Paul

ST. PAUL, July 18 (AP)—Decked out in a large sombrero and oblivious of a huge gallery, "Wild Bird" Mehlhorn, the Kentucky star, led a stringing trail of birds behind him today to shoot 68 and lead the field into the final day's 36-hole of the St. Paul open golf tournament. He has a two-day total of 138. Ky. Leflorn, and Abe Espinosa, Chicago, also veteran campaigners, were only one stroke behind him with 137, after taking 69's today and 69's the next day. Mehlhorn's striking distance of the title today held by Harry Cooper, Chicago, wide open.

Davis Cup Teams Get Even Break

WIMBLEDON, England, July 18 (AP)—Australia and Germany broke even today in the opening singles matches of the Davis cup tennis tournament. The American team, led by a 17-year-old youngster, Helen Henkel, defeated the veteran Jack Crawford and the Australian won the first two sets, 6-4, 6-3. However, head Baron Gottfried von Cramm, equaled his opponent in a close fight, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, 11-9 triumph over the formidable Adrian Quist. Meanwhile, the British Davis cup team concluded its final practice in preparation for defense of the crown next week against the survivors of the Germany-Australia series. Playing at Eastbourne, N. W. Quist, Australian, defeated Bryan (Chay) Grant of Atlanta, Ga., 6-0, 6-2, 6-2, and Don Budge of Oakland, Calif., took the return of

'CREW WITH A KICK' DEFENDS U. S. OLYMPIC TITLE

UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON OARSMEN, Champions at Foughkeape and winners of the Olympic trials, at 2,000 meters, they'll represent Uncle Sam in competition over the

By CHARLES GRUMICH NEW YORK—A crew of collegians with an amazing "finishing kick" and a blue-printed plan to maneuver it on his way to Berlin to defend the Olympic 6-oared title the United States has won ever since it entered the shell competition with a triumphant Navy eight in 1920. The oar-wise men tell you the two outstanding characteristics of this Al Ulbricksen-coached crew of Huskies from the University of Washington are (1) its great speed and (2) its adherence to a carefully devised stroking schedule. The more enthusiastic among the Olympic overloads like to think of this crew, even as the best ever assembled anywhere, better than the University of California outfit that beat Italy by a fraction of a row at Long Beach in 1922. But this team is pooh-poohed by Coach Ulbricksen himself, a typical strapping westerner, with graying hair and deep-set steel-blue eyes, who measures his team's words with deliberation and metronomic precision as a good crew man would. Al stroked the Huskies to Poughkeepsie triumph in his undergraduate days and he saw his 1926 Huskies stamp themselves as Olympic timber on the Hudson this year with a finishing sprint from 'way back, comparable only with Red Train's dash from 17th place to first in the Saratoga horse track last summer. "It is no optimum. In fact, he's a bit on the pessimistic side in a cynical way. Paradoxically, confidence emanates from him, too. He has great pride in and respect for his Huskies' boatload, but he won't concede they're the best combination ever. Ulbricksen tells you that the principal opposition in the Olympic games will come from a Byrle crew representing the Zurich Rowing Club, winner of the gold challenge cup and the Stewards' trophy at the Royal Henley regatta in England recently, and from the Italians. "They will have another dangerous squad, such as the one that gave California a struggle at Long Beach four years ago," Ulbricksen says. "And you can bet Germany will make its best showing in home waters." Now about the blue-printed attack. At the final Olympic trials over the 2,000-meter course (13 yards under a mile and a quarter) the Huskies figured to sprint the distance in 5 minutes. It took a different plan than on Princeton's Lake Carnegie than the one mapped for the Poughkeepsie 4-mile, varsity race; so the Huskies simply used their sprinting power. They rowed without doubt one of the greatest sprinting combinations of all time. They stroked 28 to the minute for the first two minutes, dropped to 24 in the third and fourth minutes, and slowed up to 40 beats through the finish, timed at 6:04.6. And this amazing U. S. Olympic crew rowed back to the boathouse just about as fast as it crossed the finish line, which says something for the stamina of the Huskies. The crafty part of the plan is that the Huskies encourage the opposition to shoot its bolt in the beginning, with Washington seeming to lag hopelessly behind. The opposition has learned now about that terrific finishing kick. And another thing, the Huskies stroking at 34 get two to five feet more than the average college crew stroking 36. Thus, Washington has the power, rhythm and coordination to pull through the water at a lower beat and keep up with another crew pulling its heart out. "And so they rule," Ulbricksen's "side"—that's what he calls them—as a crew that none can outstrip. The Olympic distance of 2,000 meters being figured "a sprint" looks pretty good for our side in the 6-oared event.

Action Against Sleuth Follows Story of 'Bope'

Julian A. Black and Aide, John W. Roxborough, Alleged Characters Defamed by Detective's Charge

CHICAGO, July 18 (AP)—Charging their characters had been defamed by statements that Joe Louis, Negro boxer, had been "doped" prior to his fight with Max Schmeling in New York last month, Julian A. Black, Louis' manager, and John W. Roxborough, Black's agent, filed suit for $100,000 damages each today against Sheridan A. Bruceaux, a Negro private detective.

A story which gave Bruceaux as authority for the charge Louis was "doped," printed this week in the Chicago Evening American, was the basis of the suit. Irving G. Molten, attorney for Black and Roxborough, said. "In it Bruceaux was quoted as saying that a sister of Louis, Mrs. Estella Gaines of Detroit, had charged Louis was given a hypodermic injection in his arm before the fight. Mrs. Gaines later denied the statement credited to her. "We're playing just an exhibition between ourselves. CHANCES are slim. Germany looks too strong. BOOCER... Golfer Ty Cobb Lives Life Of Country Squire

At least four rounds of golf each week keep him in shape. An occasional hunting trip does a part. In a spreading house of English architecture he is enjoying life to the fullest. The Cobb of today is only a few pounds heavier than the Cobb who retired from the game in 1928, after 24 years in the American League. He weighed 192 pounds when he played his last game. He scales 202 today. Golf is his present day love but he never will be to golf what he was to baseball. When he suik the diamond he left behind a record of 3,023 games, a grand batting average of .367 and 892 stolen bases. Other "leg" important marks. Ty continues to follow baseball at distance but he has a few more than a dozen major league games since he retired.

SPOKANE, Wash., July 18 (AP)—The Spokan-Review said tonight it had learned from "reliable unofficial sources" that Fox, a former freshman basketball coach at the University of Southern California, would succeed Rich-Fox on the University of Idaho coaching staff. Fox, basketball and baseball coach, active record in the United States. Dr. M. O. Neale, university president, was reported to be at his summer home at Hayden lake and could not be reached for an official statement. George Horton, graduate manager, said any confirmation of details would have to come from the president. Ted Bank, head of the athletic department, refused to make any statement.

Iowa Graduate Troop had been U. S. G. fresh basketball mentor for seven years, with record of 111 victories and nine losses, the paper reported. He is a University of Iowa graduate and was an athletic star there. He played with the St. Louis Cardinal after his graduation in 1929 and left them in 1931. An arm injury kept him out of baseball after two years with Toledo and part of a season with Cleveland.

Hansen Meets Kimberly in Exhibition Duel; Tilts at Buhl, Hazelton

Hazelton's top-notch diamond combination stands the barest of chances of breaking into the for first place in Southern Idaho league standings today, but two other teams have different ideas on the subject. Hazelton meets Wendell in a twin bill at Hazelton this afternoon and will have to win both games to stay in the lead. Hazelton is the leading team for the playoffs and in addition to make this possible, Jerome would have to defeat the heavily favored Buhl team on the Buhl diamond.

SUMMONS COMES TO EARLY SETTLER

Charles A. McMaster, Farmer, Livestock-Dealer, Dies at Home

Charles Allen McMaster, one of the Twin Falls country's first settlers who has been credited with much of the construction to the development with his importations of fine horses and cattle, died at his home here at 10 a. m. yesterday following illness since last December. He was 70 years of age.

Funeral services, to be announced last evening, will be held at the family home at 411 Third avenue west at 10 o'clock Monday morning, and interment will be in Twin Falls cemetery. Services will be conducted by Rev. E. L. White, former pastor, and Rev. R. S. Rader, pastor of Twin Falls Methodist church.

Friends may view the body at the White mortuary chapel between 2 and 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Early Settler - A resident of this district since October, 1904, when he came to Idaho after being engaged in farming and in the livestock business in Iowa and at Hopkins, Missouri, Mr. McMaster and his family made their home at first on a farm near Kimberly, later moving to Twin Falls where he built the second large residence on the townsite, which has since been the family home.

He was one of the three members of Twin Falls county's first elected board of commissioners which served for two years beginning in January, 1909.

He was associated in farming and livestock enterprises with the late Nick Smith for 15 years after coming to Idaho, and when that association was discontinued his son, Charles McMaster, became his partner in the livestock business, dealing in Belgian, Shire and Percheron horses, and Shorthorn and Hereford cattle.

His farm land interests in the early days of this district were extensive, and when the Salmon River river valley opened in 1908 he acquired and improved a tract of 2,500 acres east of Hollister which was known as McMaster flat.

A life long and devoted member of the Methodist church, he was a district member of the Idaho State Library association tomorrow.

Funeral Held For - Rev. B. D. Kerlin was paid final tribute at services yesterday afternoon at the Drake mortuary chapel. Rev. Van B. Wright, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, officiated.

Rev. Kerlin died Thursday at the Twin Falls county general hospital. Music was furnished by Miss Ruth Miller and Florence Craig-Donald Miller and Merleand Edwards, accompanied by Miss Mary Wright.

Funeral services were E. A. Moon, O. H. Hermon, Sidney Nicholson, Lloyd N. Nicholson, H. A. Swab and J. W. Norris.

Interment was in Twin Falls cemetery.

Here on Visit - John Bracken, Clayton, Missouri, superintendent of schools, and Bracken arrived yesterday for a few days visit at the home of his mother, Mrs. P. P. Bracken, and brother, Chris Bracken and E. O. Bracken. He was at one time superintendent of schools at Piler.

On Vacation Trip - Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Lawrence are leaving this morning for Denver. Later they will tour the southern states. They will be accompanied to Cheyenne by Mrs. W. B. Cameron, who will take a plane for New York City at that point. Mrs. Cameron will spend the next several weeks visiting relatives and friends in the east.

SPONSORS TELL HOW TO HELP GIRLS SEEKING TRIPS TO CAMP

Appreciative of the opportunity for personally development and inspirational viewpoint that a camping trip to the Sawtooth mountains affords young girls, a number of persons have recently inquired of the Twin Falls community...

Provide campships of $5, or give one or two dollars for sleeping gear, who is having difficulty in earning that last dollar which will assure her a summer vacation—maybe the first she has ever had, in one of the suggestions.

Camp Fire groups have conducted seminars, lawn parties and such to earn money for the camp; funds, many of the girls have cared for needy children, gone on picnics, and sold handcraft to earn at least a part of their camp assessment. Some are at a loss to know just how to complete the necessary budget as Jul. 28, the day for the opening of the camp, nears, according to Mrs. W. A. Van Engelen.

At the Methodist Episcopal church, Mr. McMaster took an active part in affairs of the church when it was established here and was one who selected the site of the present church building.

With him when the end came yesterday were his wife, Mrs. Della Lytle McMaster, who he married at her home at Hopkins, Mo., October 15, 1893, and their two children, Mrs. Lillian McMaster of Twin Falls, and Miss Georgia Graec McMaster, teacher last year at Hollister, who returned earlier in the week from Moscow where she attended summer school.

One of a family of 10 boys and five girls, Mr. McMaster was born at Bedford, Iowa, December 16, 1865, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Crawford McMaster.

Surviving are nine brothers and sisters. They are William McMaster, Bedford, Iowa; Abram McMaster, Robertsdale, Alabama; Mrs. J. C. Beachamp, Twin Falls; George McMaster, Bedford, Iowa; Jerome McMaster, Hagerman, Idaho; Grover Jackson, Bedford, Iowa; Mrs. Wallace Jackson, Hopkins, Idaho; Mrs. McMaster, Bedford, Iowa, and Harmon McMaster, Los Angeles.
