German Wounded a Problem for Huns

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The situation brought about in Germany by the vast number of wounded returning from the front is becoming serious, according to advices reaching the state department today. It was declared in these dispatches that the wounded (A. L. H. Chappell) all accommodations were already exhausted and that the schools and other public buildings and private dwellings were being used as hospitals.

CONFIDENT THAT DEMOCRACY WILL WIN THE GREAT WAR

Fate of World in the Balance American Armies and Resources Will Turn Scales for Right—Many Plans to be Carried Out—Praises American Army.

Fine All Who Will Not Work

Asked by Council of Defense—Believed Other Municipalities in County Will Follow Action of the County Seat.

Leaflets, rich or poor, are to be under the ordinances passed last night by the city council for the purpose of eliminating non-employment and interference with employment within the city, the ordinance being drawn by the committee consisting of John D. Carter, H. S. Sweetser, James R. Bodwell, appointed for that purpose by President H. C. Hester, of the Twin Falls County Bar association at their meeting Friday afternoon.

The intent of the ordinance is to prevent all-out effort of the kind one of each in the same and sets forth war conditions, the necessity for the employment of all the productive forces of the nation and the desire of some to appreciate this fact.

The penalty in each case is the same, a fine of not less than $100 and costs of prosecution, and the further provision which if this is not paid, the convicted person shall be imprisoned in the city jail for not less than one month.

Speaking generally, the secretary indicated that the cause of democracy will win the present impasse and the secretary's staff who accompanied him declared that the investigations have been most thorough and that he will make a number of specific recommendations to the president.

It was understood that the secretary has been deeply impressed with the necessity of the United States carrying up its aviation program. He received several important recommendations from the British and French aviators which he has reflected in radio changes which will be made in Washington almost immediately.

One of them is to standardize the American airplanes and parts so they will be interchangeable with the best types of the French and British machines.

The secretary will also make certain very important suggestions in connection with the American artillery arm of the service. More and more machine guns of the Browning type are to be made service to arm the American soldiers who are to take their places on the battle front at once.

An Old Subscriber Hails Daily Times

As a fair sample of the kind words (and acts) which subscribers to the TIMES are receiving the new daily edition is interesting news regarding a letter from France as follows:

BRITISH NAVY HITS THE HUN IN CATTEGAT

TEN TRAWLERS SUNK IN RAID BY CRUIZERS OF GREAT BRITAIN

English Suffered No Loss in Fight

Long Lull in Naval Affairs Broken by Brilliant Exploit—Last Previous Move on Sea Was Made by the Tontons.

LONDON, April 16.—British naval forces made a dash into the Kattegat on Monday, sinking ten German trawlers, the admiralty announced this morning. The German crews were saved.

There were no British casualties. The Kattegat lies between Sweden and Denmark and connects Skagerrack from the Baltic through the sound. Some small craft were sunk. On another recent occasion German destroyers made a dash into the North Sea, sinking a number of British and neutral ships. The British fleet frequently appeared off the German submarine base at Ostend, and bombarded it.

The daring British incursion broke a long lull that has existed in sea operations except for the activity of German submarines. One of the latest sea raids was carried by the German several months ago when they tried to break through the British defenses at the eastern end of the channel. Some small craft were sunk. On another recent occasion German destroyers made a dash into the North Sea, sinking a number of British and neutral ships. The British fleet frequently appeared off the German submarine base at Ostend, and bombarded it.

FEDERAL WORKER UNDER CLOUD IN WIRELESS CASE

SENT TO READY OF STATION HE IS SAID TO HAVE DONE POOR JOB

Could Send Messages to Mexico

Operators Arrested Say They Knew They Were Sending Things About Great Lakes but Did Not Know Significance.

CHICAGO, April 16.—Word is being awaited from Washington today regarding action to be taken relative to two secret wireless stations that were discovered here, one on the top of a large office building in the heart of Chicago's business district. One federal employe is reported to be under suspicion it being said that he was sent to "see up" one of the stations some time ago but did a poor job.

The station was said to be capable of sending messages into Mexico. One man taken in connection with the work is said to be an alien enemy.

The receiving station is on the north side of the city and is believed to have station messengers from the Great Lakes naval training station and relayed them to the downtown office building.

Two operators who were arrested at the station said they did not know the significance of the messages. They said they had some knowledge that the "stuff" they were sending was being picked up by the government.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The fact that the secret production board is to be taken over by the war industries board, it was limited to official circles. It was suggested that this step is one of several planned in the process of bringing about an adequate production of fighting machines for use in France. It has been put directly up to the president and that it has met with his approval.

DESPERATE BATTLE FOR GREAT TRANSPORTATION CENTER EXPECTED

Loss Would Cause Readjustment of Entire British Line—Bailleu of Little Importance Itself and British Military Experts Say the Line Will Hold Against Attack—Desperate Fighting at Wyszchaete—English Capture Prisoners at Robecq—French Win Small Fight at Pierremande—Struggle for Messines Ridge Proceeds Unabated.

LONDON, April 16.—Military experts here today shared the British view that with the capture in their hands the Germans will immediately essay the capture of Hazebrouck. The importance of the big transportation center is well recognized here and bitter fighting for its possession is looked for in the very near future. Its loss would necessitate the rearrangement of the entire British line in that neighborhood, officers say. They look upon the gravity of the situation as unchanged but are still confident the Germans can't break through.

(By Frank Charlton. I. N. S. Cable Editor) The battle of Flanders took on fresh intensity last night when the Germans attacked in the Bailleu sector with 36,000 fresh picked troops and after a desperate struggle compelled the British to retire to a point north of Bailleu.

At the same time the Germans renewed their drive in the Wulverghem district where the British after gallant resistance, fell back to strong new positions to the north of that Belgian village.

Indications are piling up that the Germans planned their real grand offensive in the north, and that the drive towards Amiens, while carried out on a scale of great magnitude was a diversionary movement to draw British troops from their positions defending the channel coast, between Arras and Ypres.

Bailleu was one of the chief local objectives of the Germans on the road to Hazebrouck. The town, which had been battered to pieces by artillery fire, is six miles northwest of Arras; between eight and nine miles southeast of Hazebrouck and four miles from Noyon. It is also in German hands now. Bailleu is only 27 miles from Dunkirk or the English channel coast.

The town was gallantly defended and the British war office in its official report today dwelt upon the ferocity of the struggle which raged around it. The Germans attacked the heights to the west in a "pocketing" movement such as they carried out at Arras. They were successful in overrunning the high ground but lost heavily in so doing.

The loss of Bailleu is of secondary importance to the allies. The town had been battered to pieces by German guns and is of little strategic consequence as a military railway point.

Further to the north, on the Flanders fighting line, the Germans have renewed their direct frontal attacks against the famous Messines ridge, the most of which is still firmly in British hands.

Beginning this morning the Germans began assaulting in the Wytechaete section of the ridge, but the outcome of the fighting in that zone is not yet known. Wytechaete is between five and six miles north of Arras, lying directly north of the town of Messines.

The British carried out successful counter operations southeast of Robecq and captured some prisoners during the night.

(Hoey is about 11 miles southwest of Bailleu and the sector has been the scene of intense artillery dueling for the past few days. Blasts of heavy artillery firing have marked job operations on the Picardy front, east of Amiens. For the past week, however, the Germans have concentrated all their infantry operations on the Flanders plain.

LANDING OF U.S. MARINES DENIED BY OUR CONSUL

PARIS, April 16.—French forces made some progress in a local enterprise in the sector of Noyon, on the southern flank of the German salient, opposite Amiens, the war office announced today.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—No American marines were landed at Vladivostok, it was stated by the state department today. The Japanese had been reported to have taken possession of the harbor.

CALVES CHEAPER THAN COWS

Last issue of the Kimberley Advance contained an editorial on the question of the 60-acre homestead law. In that editorial we quoted mainly from the Country Gentleman of March 21st, 1918, from the article "How Shall We Have Meat?" by George Frederick Stratton.

We have to use more from that article today, and by way of opening the subject on calves. Let us examine the following: "Professor J. T. Cain of the extension division of the Utah Agricultural college, and experienced cattleman, born and bred in the west and thoroughly acquainted with all the peculiarities of range and farm feeding, and one of the most popular stock experts who ever crossed a horse or his herd," displayed on a large poster, statistics showing the gain in meat there might be to the nation and the gain in dollars to the grower, by killing calves instead of yearlings or two or three year olds. His figures refer to four herds of the same breed, 100,800 pounds, marketed at same conditions; the marketing being of three-year-olds, two-year-olds, yearlings and calves, respectively:

119 Cows	31 Yearlings	77 Three-Year-Olds	77 Three-Year-Olds - average 1140 pounds -	67,700 pounds beef, marketed at $10	$670,000
161 Cows	103 Yearlings	101 Two-Year-Olds - average 940 pounds -	34,740 pounds, marketed at $19	$660,000
210 Cows	145 Calves - average 700 pounds -	145 Calves - average 700 pounds -	101,500 pounds, marketed at $17	$1,725,000

All the weights given are those of range feeders and the prices quoted are from the prices at feeding stations in the week the figures were published.

"And yet," continued the man from Wyoming, "were absolutely honest from giving our country twenty-five per cent more meat and giving ourselves fifty per cent more income, which we could secure on the same range, by the food administration's order against veal. Many of us have never killed calves, none of us like to do it, but our patriotic duty over that trail - had as it is - it wasn't for those gentlemen from New Jersey and Louisiana, who've got some thing yet to learn about production. Gus Kendall, of Rock Springs, showed about as much loss in meat by shutting out the lambs. But what's the use? If you or I or anyone got up on our hind legs and called the attention of one of those agricultural experts to those figures, he'd come back at us with 'Calves are not lambs.'"

TO ALL "TIMES" SUBSCRIBERS

The Mid-week and Sunday editions of the TIMES in the late past have been favored with a large and rapidly growing list of subscribers. Having determined to change from three to six issues each week the publishers propose to show appreciation of such favor by sending the entire six issues of the new daily edition to each of its present subscribers at the same rate heretofore paid for three—namely, $3.60 per annum.

To secure the paper at this rate it will only be necessary that, before June 1, 1918, all arrearages be paid and advance payment for not less than three months be made on the daily. All amounts now outstanding to credit of each subscriber will be applied in payment for the daily upon the basis stated. So soon as the clerical work can be done, each subscriber will receive a statement of his subscription account with full explanation of the new arrangement. Should any one prefer only the same number of issues previously received per week at the same price, instead of six, he will please notify us at once.

That all may be democratically served alike, new subscriptions for not less than three months will be received at same rate ($3.60 per annum) if paid in advance prior to June 1, 1918. After that date and other than as herein specified, further notice will be given. To the numerous subscribers who have already paid at a larger rate the excess will be refunded.

TO ALL "TIMES" ADVERTISERS

Although the consolidation of the "Twice-A-Week" and the "Sunday" Times subscription lists will give a larger circulation than was before reached by either edition, the advertising rates will remain for the present as per the "Twice-A-Week" schedule. As the basic principle of one cent per column-inch for each week is maintained, it is believed to be equally an increasing benefit as demanded in the future. Advertisers will find a great advantage offered by the six issues each week, all reaching the entire Times circulation. They will now be able, not only to get quick action when desired, but also to bring any particular article, or line of goods, to the notice of customers at the psychological moment.

It will be necessary that all display advertisements be filed not later than the night preceding the day on which they are expected to appear; and any other advertisement must be in hand by 8 a. m. of publication day to insure its appearance.

The TIMES is an independent Democratic newspaper, but it knows no politics as opposed to the most united and vigorous prosecution of the war that is possible. SHOULDER TO SHOULDER WITH BRITISH NATION

The statement of Mrs. Charles Thatcher Guernsey, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution: "The heart of old England was in sympathy with her colonists in America, but it was the Hanoverian King George III. who could not speak English without a German accent, who tyrannically imposed unfair tactics upon the Americans; during the American revolution who were fighting a German king and his German hirelings against the fighting Germans today. It is of historic interest, for 23,687 Germans were hired by George III. who was Hanoverian king as well as king of England, and his ministers, Lord North, to help fight America. But after all, we should stand with the troops of the British empire on account of the fact that they are struggling, as our boys are struggling, for the cause of democracy and freedom and humanity TODAY.

What the great, great grand-fathers of Britons did in 1776 or in 1812, cannot be intended to stand in the history. But the fact that today the descendants of the British of the eighteenth century are spilling their blood that liberty shall prevail, is something to arouse enthusiasm of the American people with whom they are associated.

We hear regrets expressed for the passing of the German of Godesby, who declared that America had chosen the better part, and Schiller and Kant, and these regrets are natural and worthy. But the fact that they men and the revolutionists of 1848 stood for right and good things in international relations, should not and does not blind us to the other fact that today the German people which produced these great men and heroes in the cause of liberty, stands for everything which the men of intellect, Germany and revolutionary Germany opposed.

Because England and France and Italy and Portugal and Brazil and Cuba and Japan and China are fighting the battles of civilization today, we should stand with them. Nor should we remember the past against England, granting that she erred 140 years ago. To do this; to remember the feuds and quarrels of past generations when the cause was with them who have disappeared, and when the people connected with the wrong of the dead past have passed away, signifies not, as fundamentally a recognition of the false principles of aristocracy and autocracy on which the tyranny of czars and kaisers are built and against which Thomas Jefferson wrote, and to destroy which bleeding Continentals fought and suffered at Trenton and Valley Forge.

To ally the fighting against Great Britain, which has been handed down from one generation to another, and which not many favor, is no more "wasting the lives of the young men of this country," is quite entirely commendable. So far as text books have encouraged or perpetuated untrue conceptions of the conditions in revolutionary days, they should be corrected, or at least be so abridged and corrected as to be truthful and substituted. A recent writer in "The Nation" showed that many leading text books failed to mention the long list of great public leaders in England that took the side of the colonists in their fight for their rights. To be sure, even if nobody in England had stood for the colonists, it would still be wrong to hold that fact against England of today. Nevertheless, failure to recognize the existence of a wide-spread feeling in England that the colonists were right, and failure to note that many public men there voiced that feeling, has, no doubt, perpetuated a prejudice against England that should be eliminated.

But we should never forget that the man who was should stand shoulder to shoulder with Great Britain in this war, is because she is right NOW.

TRUE PATRIOTISM

After accidentally commenting, in his own forced way, upon the matter in which both great parties in Wisconsin have been striving to gain political advantage from the situation without regard to effect upon war measures and accomplishments, Col. Harvey, of the "Review," makes an appeal for union in the one vitally great matter of the hour which should be read by no one without a kindling fervor: Listen...

It is time that true men in all parts of the country were awakening to a full realization of the duty that this hour has put upon them. There is only one thing that matters about the next coming, and upon this one thing we must all stand in the way of it, we must forget party. The one thing that we must have in a congress that is determined to win the war—a congress that will not flinch from the task whatever the coming months, the coming years, if it shall be, may be, the end. There is only one part of our duty in the mighty struggle that is in now physically impossible to fulfill for us, we have no ships, or aircraft, or guns, or trained soldiers in the numbers in which they are needed at this time, or in the numbers in which they are needed next fall. But there is one thing we can do. We can show that we are in this war with their hearts and with all our strength. There is no limit to the completeness with which we can do this duty, except such as is set by our own over-zealousness. And if we do it completely, we shall not only, so far as in us lies, indicate to the world that we shall not only be preparing for great deeds on land and sea in the coming months or years. We shall be instantly putting into action a mighty force that makes for victory. When the stupendous battle now raging in the air has come to its end, and the mighty hosts again confront each other in the open, it is of America that both sides will be thinking, and that they will turn to in the future. America, allied with England and France as firmly and as indissolubly as they can be with each other, means to them the assurance of triumphant deliverance; it means to Germany the conviction of impending doom. This assurance means to our friends, that conviction and was throwing the various girls together in a beneficial manner. Mrs. Montague is one great contribution that it is in our power to give! Shall we let it through slowness of mind or meanness of spirit? Or shall we rise to the occasion and forget all lesser matters in the presence of the one great issue?

Older Girls Hold Banquet in Kimberly

Gathering in M. E. Church—Organization Attends Sunday School Convention—Other Notes.

Saturday evening at 6:30 p. m. the Older Girls' conference held a large banquet in the basement of the M. E. church. Cores were laid for about forty guests, visitors such as Mrs. L. M. Ormsby, Roy K. Roadruck, Dr. Alice Hasbald, Senator Althorn and Mrs. Grace Heartfield and Bishop Sidswoke, being the guests of honor.

The room was prettily decorated in the conference colors and the menu of the evening was of special "Hooverized" variety.

After the banquet the constitution was read by the president, Miss Harold O. Wood, and new signers were pledged. Then we were favored with a short talk from the "Girls' Friend," Mrs. L. M. Ormsby, of Boise.

Following this was the initiation of new members, which was the famous "test and reading" by the various new members. Then "all-around" reports were given to listen to the speeches of the evening.

Thursday evening the Older Girls' conference of Kimberly, together with the young men of the town, were invited by the state and Twin Falls county association of Sunday schools to be present at a banquet prepared by the Baptist ladies of Twin Falls. They planned on meeting at the M. E. church of this city and go from here in care.

About 6:30 all were in a hurry to be at the meeting place, and in a short time the banquet was in progress.

All returned at a late hour, declaring the Twin Falls people to be loyal entertainers.

First the various girls were asked to give opinions on the organization and the work. Miss Jean Hill, first of the program, spoke in a highly complimentary manner of its influence upon the lives of its members.

Then Miss Hilly, who was who organized a girls conference, saying it was the girls something to do with gave us strength through organization and was throwing the various girls together in a beneficial manner. Mrs. Montague is one great contribution that it is in our power to give! Shall we let it through slowness of mind or meanness of spirit? Or shall we rise to the occasion and forget all lesser matters in the presence of the one great issue?

Older Girls Hold Banquet in Kimberly

Gathering in M. E. Church—Organization Attends Sunday School Convention—Other Notes.

Saturday evening at 6:30 p. m. the Older Girls' conference held a large banquet in the basement of the M. E. church. Cores were laid for about forty guests, visitors such as Mrs. L. M. Ormsby, Roy K. Roadruck, Dr. Alice Hasbald, Senator Althorn and Mrs. Grace Heartfield and Bishop Sidswoke, being the guests of honor.

The room was prettily decorated in the conference colors and the menu of the evening was of special "Hooverized" variety.

MAYOR HOAN IN INAUGURAL IS RATHER DEFLIANT

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 16.—(Daily) W. Hoan, Socialist mayor, today delivered his "second" inaugural address and threatened to reorganize the county council of defense if it turns its activities into political channels.

Mayor Hoan at one time was chairman of the council, but was ousted because of his socialistic ideas on the war. Mayor Hoan will be backed in any veto action he may take by 13 councilmen who are Socialists.

Two bombs were found this morning at the home of District Attorney W. C. Zabel, who conducted the prosecution against the defendants in the recent bomb outrage at the police station in which 10 persons were killed. One of the bombs was an acid bomb and the other a fuse bomb.

It is believed by the authorities that the two bombs placed in Zabel's home were the work of the same persons that attempted to blow up a church here last August.

AUSTRIAN MOVE ON ITALY SEEMS TO BE IMMINENT

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Inspired articles in Austrian newspapers which are the usual forerunners of an offensive, and the recent visit of Emperor Charles to the various sectors of the Italian front, indicate that an Austro-German attack against Italy is imminent and will be started on a large scale, official dispatches from Rome this afternoon stated.

The dispatches stated that the Austrian press has commenced to speak openly of the offensive against Italy in order to prepare the Austria-Hungary people for the inevitable losses resulting from a colossal operation as are anticipated. The Mainheimer Anzeiger urges that the German offensive in France be completed with a similarly irresistible drive against the Italians and against the British in Palestine.

FIRST BILLION SCORED IN THE LIBERTY LOAN

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Unofficial estimates on the third Liberty loan campaign indicate that the first billion has been scored today. One-third of the drive has been spent and the remaining two-thirds must fire a continuous barrage of bonds into the treasury to win the over-subscription.

The latest official treasury figures place the national total at $591,611,890 at the close of business Saturday. Two days have elapsed since these figures were sent, and they showed an increase of $53,451,000 over the day preceding. The Minneapolis federal reserve district, yet to be counted, and having progress on a conservative ratio, the loan campaign stands today at approximately $1,600,000,000.

53rd Anniversary of a Sorrowful Day

April 5, 1865, when the Announcement of the Death of President Abraham Lincoln Flashed Over the Country, One of Suggestive History

Mr. H. O. Anderson, of this city, brought to THE TIMES office yesterday an original copy of the daily "New York Herald" that has been in his mother's possession ever since that time. It is yellow with age and broken with handling, but perfectly legible. All column rules are turned on the first page—as was done upon one or all pages by every paper containing the first announcement of the President's death. Three columns are occupied with the details of the assassination, which took place in Ford's Theatre at eleven o'clock the previous evening. Then the press was evidently anxious to add an "Extra" which carries a message from Secretary Stanton to Gen. Dix, dated at 7:40 a. m., saying: "The President remains alive but sinking;" and another at 7:30 complete in twelve words, as follows: "President Lincoln died this morning at twenty-two minutes past seven o'clock."

The paper itself is a measly little four-page six column affair, hardly up to the best efforts of some alleged daily newspapers of the vintage of 1918. But it carries great news—great not only sorrowfully, but gloriously. News of "The Execution of the Hovel Capitalist," of "Jeff Davis' Last Proclamation," of the glad and victorious end of more than four years of civil war—a war then thought to have been both bloody and cruel, but now known to only have been bloody, and that to a minor degree.

Rev. Harman Proved Efficient Pastor

Christian Church Increased and Prospered Under His Leadership of Six Years in Twin Falls.

The announcement of Walter S. Harman, minister of the First Christian church, that he has accepted a call to Atchison, Kansas, recalls the story of six years of steady development, according to members of his church who are familiar with conditions.

It is pointed out that since coming to this city he built up the congregation from 220 to more than 600; that the indebtedness of more than $2000 on the building has been paid; that a good-size building fund has been accumulated; that always succeeded in closing the year out of debt, although more than $23,000 has been expended by all agencies during his ministry; and that during the period named a new church was established by Rev. Harman and his wife in Duluth, resulting in the building of a congregation of 150, with a $5000 church property. Duluth now has a resident minister.

Rev. Harman brought the Organized Moll Evangelical company to Idaho, with the result that the Jerome church was revived and now has 110 members. With Mrs. Gertrude S. Harman, his wife, as minister, The Wesleyan field has been looked after and the church supports Missionary J. E. Randall, at Kingston, Jamaica. Rev. Harman has rejected many offers of good positions during his ministry here and goes to Atchison where he is well known, with its large congregation and fine field, because it presents an opportunity, for effective work.
