Italians Beaten in All Fights By The Armies of the Allied Nations

ITALIAN FIRST LINE TROOPS FORM A PART OF FOCH RESERVE ARMY

ITALIAN EMBASSY GIVES OUT OFFICIAL STATEMENT ON THE SUBJECT

Decline to Indicate the Number Sent

Italy Rich in Man Power Now Has Munitions and Artillery and Is Prepared to Take Part in Defense of All the Fronts.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Italian first line troops in large numbers constitute a part of the allied reserves formed by the supreme war council at Versailles, according to an official statement made at the Italian embassy today. Officials refused to indicate the number of these troops and what portion of them already are in France.

Such information, it was explained at the embassy, cannot be made public at this time. There is much satisfaction displayed, however, over the fact that the Italians were to have assistance from Italy. It was explained that Italy at the present time is rich in man power. What it has lacked in the past has been equipment and munitions. These now are being supplied by the entente. The Italian government has called to the colors all males between 18 and 45 and has thousands of effective swatling orders. Because of the nature of the Italian front, only very small numbers of Italian troops will be utilized in the operations against the Austro-Germans.

The Italian army is forming the first of the allied armies in France and shortly Italian regiments will participate in the operations in France. Official dispatches to the Italian embassy this afternoon stated. The dispatches added that Premier Orlando's announcement to the Italian parliament created the greatest enthusiasm, the socialist deputy joining in a great ovation to the French official dispatches to the Italian embassy this afternoon stated. The news of Italian participation in the great struggle now going on in France was received with the greatest satisfaction. The dispatch stated, as the Italian feel proud that their soldiers have the opportunity to show their valor alongside the French, British and American troops.

The dispatch points out that it is considered that the unity in military operations will evolve the greatest possible political and social results. It is the hope that nations direct after the war.

Many Italian officers and soldiers are anxious to be incorporated in the regiments sent to France.

Women Spy Bill Is Signed by Wilson

Allen Expects Women and Wives of Interned Germans Under Ban of the Law

WASHINGTON, April 18.—President Wilson has signed the woman spy bill. It was announced today, designed to cope with the problem of the German spies in America. It applies to all enemy aliens and the wives of interned German subjects. To put the law into effect, however, it is necessary that the president sign a proclamation. It is believed that this will exclude female spies of Germany from the various military zones into which unarmamented Germans must not go.

BURGLARS BREAK TO STEAL FILMS OF KAISER

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 19.—Shortly after midnight this morning burglars on pre-German broke into the home of the film of the photo play "The Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin," showing the work.

We have no definite clue as to the identity of the robbers," said the manager of the theatre, "but we naturally suspect the theft was committed by a pro-German party, and the sentiments the picture expresses."

Busy in England in Midst of War

Norman P. Murray Writes to His Grandfather That He Is Getting Ready for Farm Work

A. E. F. England, Mar. 23, 1918.

Dear Grandfather: I received your very welcome letter of Feb. 4 yesterday and was very glad to hear that you are enjoying good health. Do hope I will meet with some of your folks in Scotland, but I have no doubt of it. For I have often had a chance to go to London, and see cousin Nollie, which I wanted to do very much.

Like my work very much, although I wish that I could get a chance to fly. The transport facilities enough for me to doubt in France we shall see plenty of real life.

Am in the very best of health, in fact I have never felt better in my life than during the war.

We all want to go to France and see the front, so that we can see the good old U. S. A. and home.

In closing I wish you the best of health, and also want to say that I enter the paper very much.

Your grandson, Norman P. Murray.

Hope that by now you have received the other letters I have written you.

HUNS SHOW FEAR OF REVOLUTION WITHIN EMPIRE

REWARDS OFFERED FOR CAPTURE OF THOSE Fomenting Revolt

Russian Example Cause of Uneasiness

Speeches of President Wilson Gradually Getting to the People of Germany and Making Them More and More Discontented.

St. Bert Ford, (N. S. Staff Correspondent.)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, April 18.—German military authorities have become actively presenting hostile propaganda at home as they have been in fostering pro-German propaganda in America. The German government has offered a reward of 100,000 marks to the person who first succeeds in implicating any English or American agent in the German spy network. The reward is to be paid in full upon conviction in this district in such manner as may be determined by the courts.

The foregoing is the first indication that the German authorities have come to fear an actual revolution. It is true that there have been labor troubles in Germany, but the German government officials were without any political significance.

The effect of the Russian revolution and the spread of Bolshevism in Germany, has been a great cause of concern to the German government. The utterances of President Wilson, which are intended to open the eyes of the German people to the fact that they were being held in a state of subjection by their military masters.

VARNISH MAKERS FORBIDDEN TO PAINT "INWARDS"

Must Quit Adulteration of Rival's Goods

Federal Trade Commission Takes Ground That Secret Presents or Inducements Constitute Unfair Trading Under Law.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The govt. of the varnish-maker was found today by the federal trade commission. Orders were issued requiring twenty-six companies to "cease the practice of giving or offering to give entertainment, money and gratuities such as liquor, cigars, meals and personal property to employees of customers, prospective customers and competitors' customers as an inducement to them to influence their employers in purchases of varnish and kindred products."

The twenty-six companies admitted the charges, but one, and presented to the commission make its findings without the taking of testimony. In addition to the giving of gratuities the Essex Varnish company of Newark, N. J., admitted that it had been "secretly giving or offering to give" that it "enter the paper very much."

Among the companies affected by the order are: Adams & Elting company, S. F. Thurston Company, Citecay, Ault & Wilborg company, Black-Thorn company, Cincinnati, Columbia Varnish company, Columbus, Ohio; Varis Varnish company, Glendale, Varnish company, Advance-Varnish company, Cleveland, Ohio; Italy Varnish company, Chicago, Ill.; Varnish company, Philadelphia, Pa.; Varnish company, Shelbyville, Ind.; Louisville Varnish company and Sun Varnish company, Louisville, Ky.; Marletta Paint company, Marletta, Ohio; Grand Rapids Varnish company, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Pratt & Lambert, Butler, Ohio; Mayer & Lowenstein, Melroe Schumann company and Valentine & company of New York.

Descendant of Kings Figures in Court

Common Law Husband of Spanish Ballet Dancer and Singer Wins $2,000 for Her Affections.

DENVER, COLO., April 18.—During fore letters, the story of an illegitimate child of a king, who is the father of a Spanish beauty who professed to be a descendant of Kings featured the trial in district court here today. The child, Thomas Russell, Chicago structural engineer, Ralph Frank W. Keeler, Denver millionaire banker, who is the father of the child, was the subject of the trial.

It was revealed at the trial that the child had been born to the wife at the time she formed an alliance with Keeler. Before becoming the companion of Keeler, she had been the wife of William Rodgers, who is still living in Chicago.

She was a concert singer and member of the Spanish court ballet when she married Rodgers.

Keeler was the father of two children before he met Mrs. Russell in 1912. He is 41 years old. Mrs. Russell has a brother, Conrad, still for $20,000 pending appeal, split for $10,000 pending appeal.

Said Keeler's fore letters exchanged between Rodgers and the woman have furnished Deaver, with a five-day session.

OVERMAN BILL BATTLE TO GO TO THE FINISH

DEBATES BEGIN NEXT WEDNESDAY AND WILL BE LIMITED TO HALF HOUR

Robert B. Smith (N. S. Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The end of the long controversy in the senate over the Overman bill is in sight today. By unanimous consent talk is to be translated into action. Beginning next Wednesday speeches on the bill are to be reduced to thirty minutes. This arrangement is expected to bring the measure to a final vote by next Thursday.

The fight has narrowed down to an effort to make the bill specific. In the present form the measure extends blanket powers to the president to reorganize the war management as he sees fit in the interest of higher efficiency. No department is exempted. Debate on the measure is expected to be limited to one hour.

Approximately half a dozen of their members are "off-the-record," holding against the Overman bill. The measure is expected to pass by a vote of three or four Republicans. Indications today were that the opposition by concentrating their strength upon the Overman bill, and not specifically naming agencies affected by the proposed reorganization would be able to muster sufficient strength to materially change the bill.

The House-Senate amendment would limit the application of the Overman bill to the war and navy departments, the shipping board, the emergency corporation and the bureau of mines. Amendments are also pending to specifically exempt the interstate commerce commission.

Senator Overman of North Carolina rejected all suggestions of compromise today and declared his determination to stand firm to limit the operation of the bill. Any re-iteration written into the bill, he declared, would simply imply a lack of confidence in the president.

KAISER DITS SOCIALIST PAPER FOR RUSSIAN ARMY

REBUTEL, April 19.—The Kaiser's efforts to establish a "socialist" paper for the German army to further government propaganda. It is called "Der Sozialistische Kampf" and is a daily paper of 16 official arguments, essential to the government's propaganda. The paper is to be published in the maintenance of the morale. The paper hangs impressively on the Kaiser's efforts to establish a "socialist" paper for the German army to further government propaganda.

CONFLICTS IN LAST 24 HOURS ALL FAVORABLE TO ALLIED COUNTRIES

Repeated Assaults on Kemmel Ridge Fail—Tentons Completely Repulsed North of La Bassée Canal—French Follow Up Their Attack on the Salient at Thennes-Mailley-Raineval Front and Take Many Prisoners—Reported Arrival of Italians Cheers the Allied Armies.

(By Frank Charlton, I. N. S. Cable Editor)

Although the Germans continue their ceaseless pounding of the British lines on the bloodsoaked plains of Flanders, the developments of the past 24 hours have been of a most favorable nature. Again the Germans tried to storm the strategic heights at Kemmel (just west of the lower end of Messines ridge in Belgium) and again they were beaten off. The attacks were made at the cost of heavy sacrifices and yielded nothing. Only at one or two points were the Germans able to secure a limited footing in advanced defensive positions.

In the Givenechy sector, immediately north of La Bassée canal, (on the southern end of the Flanders battle zone) the Germans were completely repulsed, although they delivered assault after assault and pressed their attacks home with desperate energy.

The same good news comes from the Plearly battle field where the Germans first commenced their offensive thirty days ago. Following their attacks on the Thennes-Mailley-Raineval front, where important gains were made at the apex of the German salient, the French repulsed another intensive bombardment destroying a number of German machine gun nests which had been giving the pillu much trouble. The scene of the fighting in this district is from eight to nine miles southeast of Amiens on a vital part of the battle line.

The French increased the number of prisoners in their hands to 650 including 20 officers.

Italian troops are going to take their place on the western front for the first time.

Official announcement to that effect was made by the Italian embassy in Washington today.

The number of Italians to be sent into France and the exact part of the line they will take over has not been disclosed, but the opinion is general that they will replace French troops that are to be used against the Germans on the Plearly and Flanders fields.

The fact that the Italians are going to the aid of their allies in the north indicates that General Foch believes that the Teutons will not renew their offensive in Italy—at least for the time being.

With an Italian army on the western front ten nations might be represented in the vast armies that are locked in the life and death struggle. The allied lines will then be held by British, French, American, Belgian, Portuguese and Italian soldiers. They will be opposed by German, Austrian, Bulgarian and Turk.

While increasing his forces General Foch is making his masterly strategy felt, and is gaining absolute domination of the situation. The task he has in hand is a hard one, for the Germans have massed all their armies on the western front and are attacking without regard to their losses.

In the fighting which raged along part of the Flanders front on Thursday the Germans used at least 1,250,000 men.

This was the tenth day of the Flanders struggle.

PARIS, April 19.—French artillery carried out a heavy bombardment of German positions east of Amiens during the night, destroying a number of machine gun emplacements, the war office announced today.

A somewhat violent bombardment occurred at different points in the Castel-Mailley-Raineval sector throughout the night," the official communique said. "The French destroyed a number of machine nests from which the Germans had been firing on Thursday.

"The German prisoners in our hands now number 650, including 20 officers. The French launched a successful surprise attack in the Bezonvaux sector (Verdun front)."

Regiments from more than one German division are now known to have been engaged in unsuccessful attacks in the Givenechy-St. Noyon sector.

"The fighting at Givenechy, and elsewhere on the front on Thursday in this front ended in a complete repulse of the enemy, who at the end of most determined and costly assaults was able to gain only a limited footing at one or two points in our most advanced trenches. The enemy is known to have suffered heavy casualties from our artillery fire previous to the opening of his assaults.

"The losses to the enemy during his preceding attacks were equally severe."

KIEHOVERHER WTS IN SECOND GAKE

LONDON, April 19.—Swinging pressure to the southern flank on the line the Germans finally attacked Anglo-French positions in an effort to widen the bridge. The assault in this district had been forecast by the growing intensity of the artillery fire between Locre and Bezeze.

At the same time that French reinforcements reached the Flanders front General Foch threw his troops against the apex of the German salient opposite Amiens and was ground there. The French attacked on a two and one-half mile front between Thennes and Mailley-Raineval and after hard fighting extended their lines to the village of Castel-Mailley.

Further south came the dominating ridge overlooking the Arve river. The French were able to gain only a limited footing in the developments of the past 24 hours that General Foch was waiting until the night to make a final dash.

LARGE NUMBERS OF OUR TROOPS AMONG THOSE SAVING THE DAY

Were Prominent With "Carey's Chickens"

General Pershing Gives High Praise to Men Who Helped Hold the Line When It Was Badly Threatened.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE, April 10, the general staff of the army has received word to your assistance that the enemy's "Carey's Chickens" was the high tribute paid American engineers on the Pleadary front by the British commander of the sector in which the Americans first entered the great battle.

General Pershing's statement follows: "The army commander wishes to record officially his appreciation of the excellent work your regiment has done in assisting the British army to resist the enemy's powerful offensive during the last few days. It has been largely due to your assistance that the enemy is checked and I rely on you to assist us still further during the few days still to come before I shall be able to relieve you in the line. I consider your work in the face of the enemy during the last few days to be greatly enhanced by the fact that for six weeks previous to taking your place in the front line your men had been working under high pressure on the heavy bridges of the Somme."

General Pershing's warm thanks to you for (Signed) "HAWKINSON." The spirit of close co-operation and feeling was strikingly revealed when, upon being congratulated for the stand of his men, the British general commanding a cavalry division proudly sent a letter to the general praising the American engineers were fighting side by side with his men and deserved equal credit.

Bert Ford (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent) THE BRITISH AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, April 10.—(Special Cable) Collected at general headquarters show for the first time that American troops in large numbers were in the forces hastily assembled from all units available to save Amiens.

ing, and operating, field railways and constructing bridges when caught in the German advance. They showed the same fearlessness and aggressiveness as the American engineers who recently fought with the British when the latter caught by the Germans.

They were ordered to retreat. One of the companies was with the royal engineers assigned to the task of destroying materials that may be useful to the enemy. The work was quickly done and the men caught up with the group and promptly resumed the work of laying out trenches.

These operations lasted from March 23 to 27, when owing to a more powerful German attack General Carey recalled all the railway men, cooks, artificers and other available personnel.

In the emergency the men were heavily armed with rifles, machine guns and fought in the first line. General Pershing has given high praise to the Americans who took part.

Premier Lloyd George recently gave a graphic account of how General Carey's American troops were captured and how General Carey recruited a non-descript force and hastily armed it closing the breach.

Senate Committees Under Reorganization

General Switching—Around of Senators on Account of Several Deaths in Upper House.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Important committee assignments were announced in the senate this afternoon. Senator Loomis of Wisconsin, was assigned to the department of coast defense, the committee on commerce, forest reservation, national banks, public buildings and grounds.

Senator Francis of Maryland, was re-assigned to the committee on expenditures in the department of agriculture and railroads, and assigned to the committee on agriculture.

Missouri Politics Upset by Death

Passing of Senator Nemo Leaves Position Open For Many Candidates.

JEFFERSON CITY, MO., April 18.—The death of United States Senator Nemo in going to complete usual political affairs in this state regardless of who Governor Gardner appoints to succeed him. This was revealed in the legislature yesterday while the body of the late senator was lying in state in the rotunda of the state capitol.

Many leaders say Clark is likely to be a candidate for the United States senate for some years past.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The senate this afternoon passed the Pittman silver bill. The bill authorizes the payment of the balance of the silver debt.

ALL RESPECT POWER OF MACE

Emblem of Authority Raised in House of Representatives Has a Marvellously Quieting Effect.

The American house of representatives raised its mace, modified, closely after the house of commons, and at the time of its organization the mace was also used as its symbol of authority.

This is the emblem of the house and whenever that body becomes unruly or restless, and the speaker is unable to restore order, the mace is summoned and lifted from its place on the pedestal, raised in aloft and carried up and down the aisles.

"Such is the power of the mace," every member must respect its authority, and should any fail to do so, he is instantly restored to every member sinks into his seat and absolute silence reigns.

Declares Right to Criticize Administration Should Be Preserved—Denies Acts of Congress.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 18.—(Special Cable) A speech in support of the right to criticize the administration was offered here this afternoon by Senator William M. Caulder of New York, speaking before the Rochester Ad club.

"Every day we hear criticism of congress," Senator Caulder said. "I think it is the duty of congress to criticize the administration, and I think it is the duty of the administration to defend its acts."

"The trouble has been that congress has given the president all of the most necessary to carry on the war, and the executive branch has failed until quite recently to keep congress informed on the progress of things."

There are just three great corporations furnishing daily news service to papers in the United States. Of these the Associated Press is the oldest, and still stands first, although in some departments its work has been—and is being—excelled, especially so in the foreign field by the International. There is no question, among those who really know and are also honest, that the second place is occupied by the International News Service, now used by the TIMES. The International has the highest-paid men and every facility of capital and organization; and its daily reports will bear comparison with those of any other service any time and all the time.

AERIAL MAIL AT 100-MILE GAIT

Planes Perfected by United States Post Office Department.

DUO TO WRIGHT'S DEMERITS

Every Airplane Must Carry 200 Pounds of Mail Not Less Than 200 Miles Without Stop at Maximum Speed of 100 Miles an Hour—Regular Air Lines Across Atlantic After War Predicted.

It is within the memory of high school boys and girls of Dayton, O., that Wilbur and Orville Wright were contemporarily referred to by "hot air" writers because they had invented two "accident" boys. For the Wright brothers possessed the bright days of spring and summer fairs on their backs in the suburbs and woodlands making little birds as they flew from tree to tree. The Wright boys didn't amount to much fifteen years ago, except to their own estimation.

Add today, among other things, the fact that the Wright brothers invented a flying machine that would fly. The United States post office department has perfected plans for carrying mail by airplane between the cities of Washington, Philadelphia and New York. A feature of the contract the aerial mail carriers will have to obey stands out as a direct development of the war, the greatest achievement of which was the establishment of the superiority of the airplane. This feature is that every airplane must carry at least 200 miles without stop at a maximum speed of 100 miles an hour. Forty miles an hour faster than a mile a minute!

Routes to Be Permanent. The post office department insists the routes are to be permanent. The confident announcement that "it is no experiment," having been officially made. Bids have been called for by the department for five airplanes for this air mail route. Truly, it is a feat of wonderful and amazing progress.

Speed and a higher percentage of safety are the two salient points of advantage in the aviation for which Mars takes credit.

"Safety first" is a Dayton slogan in all industry. It is natural that Orville Wright, who survived his brother, should have been the chief in making the product of their genius as safe as might be. He worked out a standard, that, operating automatically, kept the machine, under ordinary circumstances, from what is called an even keel. Also he helped to balance the weight of the machine to better advantage.

An ingenious method of airplane manipulation was adopted, and it is interesting to observe how it dovetails into human psychology, if one might call it that. To drive an airplane, the flyer foregoes the usual control of the car as the natural impulse of the body.

For piloting, for higher altitude, the flyer pulls the steering wheel toward his chest. This is a leaning backward which points the wings of the machine toward the earth. Steering to the right or left is done with the feet placed upon pedals beside the steering post, and turning the planes to the left when steering, the planes to the left and to the right in vice versa fashion.

Incidentally, it is in another part of development of the airplane. Arrangement was necessary on the bodies and heavy machine guns were mounted on planes designed for fighting. And the plane had to carry a pilot and an observer, which increased the size of the plane beyond that used for years in exhibitions, though the plane that could carry one or two passengers has been in existence for some time.

The most wonderful development in this direction is seen in the achievements of the Caproni brothers, Italian airplane builders, who have developed a machine that would carry as many as 50 passengers.

Air Lines Across Atlantic. They predict that after the war great air lines will be made in airplanes for commercial purposes. Regular air lines across the Atlantic, they actually will be established and maintained.

Next to the Wrights, the Caproni brothers have been the chief in the development of the airplane that anybody else interested in the scientific progress presented.

For the present the chief interest is confined in relation to the steps which the war department is taking. Thousands of civilians for war work in the air, and the production of the famous Liberty motor holding the country in the best in the world, is declared by experts that the Liberty motor is the best in the world, and so doubt will be used on the machines soon to undertake the maintenance of the San Juan air line and other air mail routes.

TOOK OVER CENTURY TO GET THIS OPPORTUNITY

After 102 years of listening to the arguments and reasons why women should vote, Mrs. Gold, who is two years over the century mark, registered for voting the first time. Mrs. Gold is not a feeble woman despite her age, and she still takes an active interest in all things, especially the activities of women. She wouldn't think of withholding her chance to vote after a hundred years of waiting. She is shown here washing.

Glasses weren't necessary when she signed the books, for Mrs. Gold had never worn them; her eyes are still keen.

"I'm glad I've lived to see women vote," she commented to those around her. She registered in the thirtieth election district in New York city.

RED CROSS WOMEN ACT AS SHOPPING GUIDES

Help American Boys in France in Their Tins With French Shopkeepers.

The American soldier in France is a good fighting man. But when he gets the tins, he is a good customer. He is a good customer, sharp-eyed little woman who never winks an eye as she can while her husband fights—he is glad enough to have an American woman beside him.

So the Red Cross women at the line of communication endeavor to help the boys. They take American boys out shopping.

There are a string of towns along the railroads where it is a common sight now to see a hundred American soldiers hurrying about the streets, seeing their precious quarter-hour, or so, while they wait for connections, or lay in a stock of tobacco or a score of newspapers. They are all well, and all American women, shepherding into the whole crowd, marching them into the shops, translating their wants into shopkeepers' French, counting their change for them, and generally serving as guide, interpreter, and guardian. There is usually a group of youngsters bringing up the rear, chattering, and giggling and scrambling now and then for the corners that the soldiers throw among them.

"It's just like going shopping with my sister at home," said one grateful warrior.

NO SHORTAGE IN SALT

Rumor of Famine Declared Baseless by Washington Authorities. The rumor that the United States some time ago was threatened with a famine in salt was baseless, according to a report on the technology of salt making in the United States, just issued by the bureau of mines, department of the interior. W. O. Phelan, mineral technologist, the author of the bulletin, reviews the industry, and draws certain conclusions from visits to the operating plants in the United States. One of these conclusions is that there is an excess of plant capacity as compared with domestic requirements.

POETESS OPERATES LATH

Employed in Airplane Factory and Pleased With Her Job. Mrs. McCar, a poetess who translates French and Italian, is charged with operating a lathe in an airplane factory at Swisvale, Pa. When patriotic American women registered for war services, Mrs. Carr responded. Soon after she was offered a job in the factory and she accepted. And she is happy. In her own words: "It's very nice. The shop is big and clean and smells—and immensurably better than the stuffiness of a home."

Vandever Questions Jury for the I. W. W.

CHICAGO, April 18.—The defense in the trial of 113 I. W. W. men on trial in the U. S. Land Court charged with violation of the espionage act began today the questioning of the 12 tentatively accepted jurors.

Attorney George Vandever for the I. W. W. preoccupied a long argument when he asked the prospective jurors what they would think of conditions if they were shown that two per cent of the people of the United States controlled most of the wealth. The men are Roy, R. C. Shatt, leader of Attorneys General Frank Nebeker, who is aiding the government, contended that Vandever had no right to ask such questions as they were based on "evidence that could not be introduced here."

Judge Landis did not give a decision but intimated that the defense would be given the widest latitude in the presenting of evidence.

The Imperial Valley of California

WHERE CROPS NEVER FAIL

WOULD YOU LIKE TO OWN LAND WHICH WILL WORK FOR YOU 365 DAYS EVERY YEAR?

Where you can raise from seven to ten tons of alfalfa per acre per year and receive $20 to $25 per ton for your hay.

Where you can raise one to one and one-half tons of milk maize per acre which is now selling for $78 per ton, and in the same year also get an equal amount of barley which is now worth $60 per ton.

Where there is plenty of cheap water, where crops never fail and where failure can only come through neglect; where there are no killing frosts.

This valley is equal to the famous delta of the Nile, the rich alluvial soil being hundreds of feet in depth and inexhaustible in fertility. It is the poultry, the milkhouse, the battery, the chicken yard, the hog and cattle feeding and fattening pen, the all-the-year-round growing field, orchard and garden of California, and will grow bigger crops and support more people per square mile than any other place in the United States.

Forty acres in alfalfa will feed forty cows, a bunch of hogs and a drove of turkeys. The forty will bring in at least $7.50 every week, the hogs will buy the groceries for the family, the turkeys will pay the grocery bills.

The climate is so healthful that the doctor need not come unless the stork does.

This land lies near the Southern Pacific Railroad and is only five hours' ride from Los Angeles.

Prices range from $75 to $135 per acre, except a few close-in tracts which are priced up to $200 per acre. Very liberal terms of payment are offered, making it possible to pay as you go.

If you desire a farm home in the richest valley in the United States, do not waste any time before consulting with us; this land is selling rapidly and the choice tracts will probably be out of reach inside of 30 days.

I will have a party from Twin Falls and Gooding leaving for the Imperial Valley on April 28th. Party from Twin Falls will connect with train No. 18 at Minidoka and will reach Los Angeles the afternoon of the 29th. Arrive in Imperial Valley next morning. Fare for round trip is $10.74. Phone or write me at Gooding for reservations.

Heavy Rains Cause of Quiet on Front

Limited Aerial Activity Shows—Interest in Own Coils.

Bert Ford (U. S. Staff Correspondent).

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, April 17 (6 p. m.)—Heavy spring rains have brought a period of comparative quiet to the American sectors, except for violent artillery duels. The weather has thus far been activity, although the enthusiasm of the Americans, however, is growing stronger daily. The first report of the front.

Lieutenant George F. Patton of New York, a sergeant attached to the infantry, is one of the latest Americans to win the French war cross for bravery.

It came about this way: The Americans were working in a wood that was suddenly flooded by the Germans with mustard gas without any warning. Patton, finding that his men were being gassed, pulled it off. He was overcome by the fumes but recovered when taken to a hospital. He is now in the hospital, but he is now idolized by his troops.

Another American lieutenant, who sports more medals than a Russian general, as a result of his marksmanship, lay in ambush for many hours to shoot an sniper who was annoying the Americans.

He sighted the German climbing a tree and the German fell at the first shot.

An Irish sergeant who had witnessed the performance exclaimed: "Sure, that's the fall would finish him, anyway."

This American officer has seen seventeen years service in the regular army.

German snipers have been very busy against the Americans; they killed one prisoner and a sergeant. The Americans are taking their toll in reprisal. Every day fresh acts of bravery on the part of the Americans are revealed. In a recent skirmish a Tanker private finding his part of the front too quiet to suit him, went out on a night flank, where there was brisk fighting and killed two Germans. He was wounded on the side, but not seriously. Wounded German prisoners are kept separate from wounded Americans in the hospitals. They all say they are glad they were captured. Most of them are rugged and sturdy that thereby any lack of food in the German army. They say that American prisoners are well treated and that their captors are not allowed to take even a button from their German uniforms. One prisoner, a hand grenadier, was captured, tried to throw back an American grenade before it got to his hand and was blown off. "Americans are full control of the 'Iron Land' in the Lorraine sector and have been playing havoc with German patrols.

HER GOOD TASTE

By KITTY PARSONS.

Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

With her mother's disapproving approval, Betty Van Ness became engaged to a very nice, but very poor young man. He was only a sergeant in the army. It was a bitter blow to Mrs. Van Ness, whose other daughter was about to marry do less a person than a colonel—a rich middle-aged man old enough to be Althea's father.

"I'm more disappointed in you than I can say," exclaimed Mrs. Van Ness, a few days before Althea's wedding. "Here you are, rich, well dressed and quite as good looking as your twin sister, and you have selected your advantage shamelessly! I refuse to consider your marriage at all, unless you choose another man. You haven't an atom of your sister's common sense!"

"I don't care a bit for society advantages," forced the girl. "Ned has made his own way. I know, and I'm proud of him for it!"

"We will not discuss the matter further," said Mrs. Van Ness. "You had better see if Althea's wedding gown has returned from the dressmaker—there's not too much time."

Betty went immediately, glad to have the interest of her mother.

When she entered Althea's room, she found her sister reading a magazine. A large unopened box lay on her bed.

"Althea Van Ness! Do you mean to say you haven't looked at your dress? What a girl!"

Althea laughed. "Well, you see, the story was interesting so I didn't bother with my dress. I'll see it when I see it fit. We're exactly the same size and I'm so tired of trying things on."

Betty obeyed, and in a moment she was a victim of envy and spiteful advice. She looked at herself admiringly in the glass. "Oh, dear," she sighed. "I'll never look like this if mother has anything to say about it, for I simply won't marry anyone else!"

The wedding was to be at eight o'clock in the evening and by eight in the morning of the great day, the house began to show signs of preparation, while they were at the lunch-table, Colonel Gould came in, greatly excited.

"Something very unforeseen has occurred," he began to announce. "This is the most urgent order I have. This afternoon and we will have to be married at once! I cannot explain very much, but it is unavoidable and there must be no delay. The minister in the drawing room and Sergeant Moore will act as best man. I met him down at headquarters as I was leaving, and brought him along. You'll forgive me, please, Mrs. Van Ness, but he's a fine young man, and it was impossible to find anyone else at this hour."

"I do not understand the army at all," Mrs. Van Ness exclaimed indignantly. "They must have known it would be a terrible inconvenience for us—I shall be mortified to death trying to explain to people. Imagine! Hundreds of guests and no wedding! It's the most impossible thing I've ever known."

Mrs. Van Ness was fairly purple with anger. The idea of making herself ridiculous was terrible to her—nothing could be worse.

The ceremony was performed, however, with Betty and Ned Moore as the only attendants and the entire party in mourning dress. Then, with everybody's help, Althea and the colonel made the five o'clock train for Washington and Mrs. Van Ness, in a blind fury of rage and disappointment, gave way to hysterics. "Only think that of the guests' gloom! It's hopeless—perfectly hopeless!"

Betty and Ned came back from the train, flushed with excitement. Even Mrs. Van Ness had to admit that he was a very good-looking young man.

"Please, mother dear, let us take their places and be married tonight! Please, please, mother! Betty can't handle her mother's chair and looked up at her imploringly. "Althea's dress just fits me, and—err—err—will be so surprised and so clever to think it all! Please, mother dear!"

"This was the final straw, and Mrs. Van Ness had to give in. She could not live to have her best plans upset, so she made the concession for second lieutenant, too, so it will sound better," added Ned, and Mrs. Van Ness consented to let her hand be contemplated, him.

"What a beautiful wedding!" exclaimed one of the guests that evening. "And how charming the groom is—quite an addition to the family!"

"My father, Napoleon Foch, was a Bonapartist and secretary of the prefecture at Tarbes under Napoleon III. There also were born General Foch's brothers. One of these brothers is a lawyer and also bears the name of Napoleon. The other brother is still a priest in the Society of Jesus."

The general and his brothers attended a small college in Tarbes and then left home to take up their respective military, legal and religious studies. After his service as a subaltern in the Franco-Prussian war of 1870, young Foch began rapidly to earn a reputation as a student and military scientist among his colleagues in the army. When twenty-six years old he received a commission as captain in the artillery and steadily rose in rank un-

BE WARNED!

Protect yourself from the arguments advanced to you for patronizing the out of town houses. Any community that harkens to their arguments is stunted in growth and its development is retarded.

If you will make an honest endeavor to get an intelligent comparison you will find that the so-called bargain of the catalog houses are mostly "on paper" and that your local merchant "has the goods" and he doesn't ask you to pay until you have seen and thoroughly examined them.

You serve your own interest best by keeping your money at home.

BE LOYAL TO YOUR COMMUNITY

Says Mrs. A. to Mrs. B.: "I've just received a new catalog from Blank's Mail Order house and the prices seem most reasonable."

Says Mrs. B. to Mrs. A.: "Oh, do let me see it. Are the styles very different from those shown in the last catalog?"

Whereupon these two women, not knowing that they are traitors to their own interests and those of their home, proceed to send in their order to Blank's Mail Order House, together with a cash payment—cash that was earned in their own community. The receipt of their order finds them disappointed with their purchase—"It looked much better in the catalog"—and they resolve "never again"—until the next time.

Send your money at home; buy home products, inspect your purchases before you buy and be satisfied. It benefits yourself, your neighbor, your merchant, your home—not the Mail Order man. BUY AT HOME!

ECHO FROM DISASTER

From far across the seas comes an echo of the Halifax disaster. Lieut. Donald B. Warburg, of the Eleventh Squadron, Aviation Section, United States Signal Corps, writes to his father in Grand Rapids, Mich. and the letter is printed in the Grand Rapids Herald. He says:

In your letter you spoke about a recent Halifax disaster and wondered if I had heard of it. Yes, I not only heard of it, but I saw something of it myself. We arrived at the place where the disaster occurred just two days after it had happened, and we remained there a week. I didn't see much of it, however, as we were not allowed to participate actively in the rescue work. As a matter of fact, we were not allowed to leave our ship, but we helped financially to the extent of $2,000.

My personal contribution was $700 and I am only sorry I didn't feel able to give more. It was a most deplorable accident, and the worst part of it was that it was so unnecessary. It was rather hard for us to sit passively by and not be allowed

Gen. Foch's Career the Man of the Hour

Brief Sketch of the Life and Service of the Man Now First in Eyes of the World

General Foch was born October 2, 1851, in the town of Faries in what is now the Department of the Hautes-Pyrenees within four months of General Joffre whose birthplace was only four miles away. The N. Y. Sun says of General Foch's career:

His father, Napoleon Foch, was a Bonapartist and secretary of the prefecture at Tarbes under Napoleon III. There also were born General Foch's brothers. One of these brothers is a lawyer and also bears the name of Napoleon. The other brother is still a priest in the Society of Jesus.

ill, while a brigadier-general, he went back to his old Ecole de Guerre as its director.

Following his five years as head of the war-college, he was placed in command of the Thirtieth Division of the French army. Next he commanded the Eighth Corps, at Bourges, and from this command he was placed at the head of the Twentieth Corps at Metz.

When the great conflict between his own country and Germany (finally was begun by Germany in August, 1914), General Foch was in the Lorraine district. Then when the Germans had ravaged Belgium and were tearing down upon Paris he was hurried from his post to stand side by side with Joffre in the great counter-attack which culminated at the Marne.

And on September 9, 1914, it was General Foch who, reasoning that there must be some sort of reprieve between the Prussian Guard and the Saxon army, "found the enemy's weak point." He promptly assembled a sufficient quantity of artillery to smash the Guard in the direction of St. Quentin—Stron-From-Prestern—and so forced the Germans to fall back.

Again he was in general command at Ypres, fortunately, when once more the Germans made a great onslaught. At the head of the British and Belgian as well as the French forces which met that onslaught General Foch, again outflung and outgeneraled the Germans. And once more he stopped their drive, which this time was headed toward Calais and the English coast.

By this time General Foch was hailed, even by the greatest of military experts, as one of the foremost military geniuses of the whole war. He had known now as one man who could act impetuously and yet, always with scientific calculation—with "clear thinking impulsiveness," as one British military observer of note put it. As tactician as Joffre on occasions, he showed always a nervous dash and boldness method of attack never observed in the more cautious but very able Joffre.

All through his military work and studies Napoleon has been his idol. He has studied the campaigns of Napoleon since his boyhood days, varying these studies with a thorough study also of the campaigns of Caesar, read throughout his career he never has forgotten that it is the "man behind the gun" who must be depended upon to win the battles, not the "how great is the gunnarium displayed."

General Foch is credited with being among the hearts of his fighting men and with knowing more of their thoughts, their desires, their most insignificant longings than any man in France. And although he never possesses of familiarity that would endanger discipline, he has learned to know the heart of the French soldier by mingling with them in the trenches, talking to them at first hand, being of them, but always above them.

Food Will Win the War

THE LARGE part of the world is coming to the position that Belgium is in the stage where the primary and important things are food, food, food.

Food has now taken a dominant position in the American public mind. The American people must prepare themselves to sacrifice far more than was at first thought necessary.

The world's food is being produced in Italy and England have just enough food to keep them going for twelve weeks. When America's food is stopped...

The allied nations begin consuming into this slender store and begin a swift march into actual famine conditions which would mean a definite and almost certain...

Save your food. Save your life. American's food is being produced in Italy and England have just enough food to keep them going for twelve weeks.

NAVAL BUDGET URGED TO VOTE BY PADGETT

CHAIRMAN COMMITTEE SAYS ITS PASSAGE AT ONCE IS IMPERATIVE

TROOPS MUST BE SENT AT ONCE AND MONEY IS NEEDED BY LEADERS—MARINE STRENGTH TO BE MORE THAN DOUBLED BY LAW.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Warned that the "troops must be sent abroad" the house set aside congressional precedent this afternoon and prepared to vote within 48 hours.

The bill carries appropriations totaling $1,350,000,000. All of the appropriations although made for the next fiscal year, are made immediately available in a general provision in the introduction of the measure.

Chairman Padgett called the bill "the most important bill passed in the history of the house." He said that the bill must be passed within 48 hours.

ARGUMENT FOR PRODUCING MORE MANURE

During the past few years it has been demonstrated that soils of the Potatoe region are "nitrogen hungry". The question now arises and in fact has been repeatedly asked: "Shall we buy and apply artificial fertilizers or our land to supply this required nitrogen?" Our answer is "No, until we have had time to gather more data upon the matter."

However, we do advise the conservation of all of the nitrogen that comes from the soil. In nitrogen the manure produced by a single horse of average weight, say 1,200 pounds, is worth nearly $8 per year. We should pay that much to it if we had to give us commercial fertilizer—all animal manure of nearly equal value.

Leaving out of consideration all other substances except the one we know our soil needs, it is economy to throw away the manure? Shall the farmer who has a dozen head of horses and cows buy commercial fertilizer at a value of $100 and in the same time throw into the country drainage the same thing of the same value? Better keep what you have and learn to apply it, then when you have to buy that thing, begin to think of buying there.

Manure Argument. This is not alone an argument for conserving manure but it is also an argument for producing more manure. The manure produced by a single cow (the potatoe farms is actually worth $7 or $8 per year, a value that will increase in value "boarded up" into a product if we take this product into consideration. Not arguing to get boarders but to get-into-into-the-farm-put-the-best-manure-on-the-land.

Not alone are the attacking German columns repulsed, but they lost over 200 prisoners as well. Great fortresses marked the course of the struggle in the Great district. The Germans drove forward with determination but were caught under a withering fire from their machine guns and artillery which raked them back, leaving the field carpeted with dead and wounded.

In the afternoon the Germans again improved their attacks against Kemmel in Belgium, but were unable to make any progress. Kemmel ridge, which is dominating height, of military importance, is firmly in the hands of the British.

The check of the Germans all along the line shows that the French reinforcements that went northward from Picardy to Flanders were in great force and the true importance of their transfer is now being seen.

The Germans employed huge forces to bring them into the British front position at Bethune, upwards of 125,000 men being used. The divisions functioned as hard dets from attacks, but found the British defence which granted a wall through which they could not break.

Confidence today was higher than ever in London and Paris over the brilliant stand being made upon the Flanders front by the British army.

The artillery firing along the extreme northern end of the Flanders front, north of Ypres, indicates that the Germans may essay a drive against the British army, which is holding the line along the Iser river.

There are also indications of an allied attack against the southern German flank in front of Amiens. The French have opened a bombardment of the German positions from the 50 mile front, which is carried out with utmost severity with guns of all calibers.

The Canadians have played a brilliant part in the fighting on the Flanders front, fighting with admirable success against the German positions.

Conscription Talk Postponed in Canada

OTTAWA, Ont., April 19.—Because of the war tariff, asked for a postponement of debate on the new conscription act, which was not ready to discuss it, Premier Borden did not.

Vigorous Policy Planned in England

LONDON, April 19.—Public opinion today was that the changes in the ministry will be followed by a more vigorous policy with General Pershing.

There is no disposition to underestimate the gigantic efforts that England is expected to make in the future.

Wheat Prices Are Discussed in House

Many Congressmen Oppose Any Price Fixing While Others Want All Prices Held at Present Levels.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—With the attention of congress now being directed to the fight over $2.50 wheat, a growing demand was evident today that the government go all the way and fix the price of many commodities or else abandon all effort at price fixing.
