

LOYALTY IS OUR ONE GREAT DUTY

Now Is the Time to Stand by Our Traditions.

BLISS CARMAN POINTS WAY

Treachery of Doubt and Pacifism Germanism Must Be Stamped Out—No Close Between Striker and Profiteer, Both Are Equally Despicable—National Unity Must Be Passed on to Unimpaired Posterity.

By BLISS CARMAN of the Vigilantes.

If the whole duty of man could be told in one word, that word would be loyalty, the duty of standing by our traditions, loyalty to the past, loyalty to the present, loyalty to the future, is something that is obligatory on all of us.

Our duty to the country is this: that implies a loyalty to an ideal of freedom and high-hearted justice which were fought for by our forefathers which have been preserved for us as a heritage, we may as well acquiesce to enjoy all our thoughtlessly until now. Now is the time to stand by them with every word and deed.

Loyalty Our First Duty.

Our duty to the first trenches, and to every other American at home, means loyalty to the demands of the present. In the first place our loyalty to the man in the trenches implies honesty in his conduct. Not only must we send him constant words of cheer, but the demerit of treachery of doubt and pacifism and Germanism, which keeps trying to spread itself through the present, must be stamped out utterly, swamped in patriotic enthusiasm. Whenever you hear of doubting whippers of disloyalty, nail the whippers to the wall and be certain, and know you are doing your country a service.

Part of our duty to the men in France is to make the profiteer and the striker understand that they are equally despicable, and to be despised and disgusting game by any means necessary. There is no choice between the man who is willing to profiteer and the man who is willing to strike for more pay in the present article. They are equally despicable, the lowest of the low. If anyone will not restrain them, they should be drafted and set to work at a decent wage and profit.

Our duty to American posterity, our loyalty to the future, must consist in passing on to the coming generations all the national ideas and traditions of freedom to keep the institutions of freedom which we ourselves have found invaluable. What they may do with those institutions under new conditions is their affair. But at least we must leave them as good as we found them.

We are fighting now to preserve our national life, our civil rights, and our homes and families to the next generation. When we have succeeded in that, I believe we can best serve the world by preserving the United States as a nation, with its laws and institutions, and its customs and traditions, undisturbed by the ignorance of those nations of refugees who wish to flee to us after the war.

REGIMENT SPEAKS FRENCH

Camp Greene Claims Most Cosmopolitan Unit in National Army. The personnel of the First army headquarters regiment at Camp Greene in North Carolina is comprised of men of every speaking nationality in any regiment in the American army. Its function when it goes abroad is surmised by the fact that it is headquarters regiment and that it is made up of members of every nationality.

The working of the melting pot in America is exemplified in a study of the regiment. Every European nation is represented in the ranks, including peoples with those countries now at war with America and men who are at least descendants of people of the central empire.

Members of the French-speaking members of the regiment are many French-Canadians from the border between the United States and Canada and many "regens" from the French-speaking portions of Louisiana.

RED CROSS ON TRANSPORTS

Workers Will Look After Comfort of Soldiers.

At every train the American soldiers are finding the Red Cross representative on hand and ready to serve him. The latest development of this service is upon the transports which carry our boys to Europe.

Every transport leaving for England or France is to have aboard a trained Red Cross worker whose special business will be to look after the comfort of the boys. These representatives will carry the supplies of the soldiers as regards their home affairs and will underwrite commissions from them to adjust conditions to a satisfactory basis.

What's in a Name?

What's in a name? One block at Twin Falls, Ind., is a veritable mecca for those who love a name that is a story and a crowd. That they're boys, a name is a fortune dealer; Julius Wolf is a butcher; P. H. Croft, Harry M. Croft and another Crane are in business with Fox.

German Holds Woman on Level of Dog Or Horse, Declares Washington Speaker in Address Before Federation of Clubs

HOT SPRINGS, ARK., May 1.—"The German thinks of women as little nearer than his horse or dog. American woman must leap to the colors and defend her honor as she would defend her child. Her duty is to defend her child from the German. This was the gist of a ringing address by Mrs. W. S. McCreevy, president of the Washington State Federation of Women's clubs at today's meeting of the National Federation of Women's clubs which opened here yesterday for a twelve-day session.

Quelling Otto Kahn, she declared, "Germany is Faust. She has made devil's bargains with her people; in return for certain certain comforts she demands the surrender of their souls. Her address follows: "The club women of Washington state are facing the present national crisis squarely. They hope also to play a leading part in helping our non-club women to do the same.

"First of all, they have given their hearts to their country, realizing that they have done a colossal deed, but that is not enough. Having given their hearts to their country, they are resolved to back them up with confidence and courage. As a young soldier said: 'You may find the reserves that are best of you, then they are the men of confidence.'"

How "Black Fritz" Was Sent Over

Meantime Joy Tells How Famous German Soldier Got Too Gay and Then Went Away.

By Dor. Ford (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent) WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, April 23.—"Black Fritz is dead," a word clear through by Lieutenant Joy on the American front.

"The German seemed to bear a charmed life until the lieutenant took a hand at sniping. But the lieutenant himself told the story: "No, Fritz was not killed on account of his complexion. It was because he hung up to much rope potting our fellows.

"No amount of observations could be made to his credit. But he was a prize target for every American sniper in the neighborhood. He had a very ingenious sniping rope. "Following the battle of Selebrepey we thought that hunting the Huns on the American front was a new sport. And it was more sport than the training camp, any way. "I had a lot of fun. I was home, but I wasn't home for two years ago that I would be hunting men in Europe. I would have laughed at him, but it was three years ago. "This year, I winged my first German on St. Valentine's day and a week later I got another.

"My first shot, every American soldier ought to 'cop' at least five bullets to keep up his record. "That's the best record I ever had. I got a lot of practice in the art of knowing you have done your job."

"That is the only way to shorten the war. "Well, this 'Black Fritz' became a terror, owing to his accuracy and the secrecy of his location. An American finally reported an antiprimer, but we watched the place for hours with no result.

"A young German, who could not have been more than 16, was seen south of the top of a trench day after day. He was a white of face and had a great time. None of our fellows wanted to shoot him. They felt it a pity to put such an innocent school boy.

"I never saw such a kid in the front line. Our fellows called him 'Poodle' because he looked like a dog and carelessly. It seems that 'Black Fritz' had been shot by the kid. "One day my attention was directed to the wreck of a German airplane near the enemy's front line. The pilot had been shot. I kept my glasses on it and pretty soon I saw 'Black Fritz' head come up. I slipped him right between the eyes. Never will I forget the light of his eyes as they looked into mine. I kept my glasses on it and pretty soon I saw 'Black Fritz' head come up. I slipped him right between the eyes. Never will I forget the light of his eyes as they looked into mine. I kept my glasses on it and pretty soon I saw 'Black Fritz' head come up. I slipped him right between the eyes. Never will I forget the light of his eyes as they looked into mine.

"When 'Black Fritz' bobbed up, I snatched my rifle and fired. I kept my glasses on it and pretty soon I saw 'Black Fritz' head come up. I slipped him right between the eyes. Never will I forget the light of his eyes as they looked into mine. I kept my glasses on it and pretty soon I saw 'Black Fritz' head come up. I slipped him right between the eyes. Never will I forget the light of his eyes as they looked into mine. I kept my glasses on it and pretty soon I saw 'Black Fritz' head come up. I slipped him right between the eyes. Never will I forget the light of his eyes as they looked into mine.

"The foolish kid had not shown himself otherwise. In fact there has been no more of him in the front line. Well, there is one more notch on my record. Some game!"

FAIR AND FEATHER RIGHT INSISTS HE RICHMOND BONDS WICKSBORO, MISS., May 1.—(Wearing a coat and a hat, William A. Hunter, aged sixty-eight, a planter living on the Mississippi river near Vicksburg, arrived here complaining to federal authorities that his neighbors had accused him of disloyalty and had treated him to tar and feathers. He told the authorities one of the charges brought against him was that he would not buy liberty bonds. He explained that recently while at his old home at Williamsport, Tenn., he had invested $5,000, all his savings, in second liberty loan bonds and consequently had no cash investment in the third liberty bond.

FREE FRUIT FOR TOURISTS BRAZIL, IND., April 30.—Tourists who pass along the national highway through Clay county are being treated to a plan worked out by local citizens materials. Dr. J. E. Baker, William P. Luther, T. W. Englehart, postmaster, and H. C. Lanning have volunteered to set out apple trees along a mile stretch of the road if the county commissioners will endorse the plan. Dr. J. E. Baker, orchard expert, has agreed to keep the trees in condition along the apple tree line, which is about a mile long. The plan also provides shade and "lunch" for tourists.

REBELS AT NAME "GERMANISM" BICKNELL, IND., April 30.—"Call me Fritz, or Budy, or Goodson, or anything else but Germany," is the word passed out by H. H. Osterberg, proprietor of a local hotel. Osterberg explains that he was dubbed "Germany" a few years ago and that conditions are such that "I despise the name and I demand that it be changed to my place and my friends cease calling me by that name." The restaurant has voted $1,000 to be devoted to that purpose.

THE CITY COMMISSIONERS have agreed to purchase the building owned by the city, and to maintain the supply. It was in this city that Mr. Patton began his nation-wide campaign of saloon, smothering many years ago.

Publication of Case Caused Continuance

Washington Newspaper Lets Out Bit of Story and Jury is Dismissed by Court.

ROCKVILLE, MD., April 30.—Because a Washington newspaper published in the issue of the 27th of the $70,000 note of Mrs. Johanna Roth, of Georgetown, against Mrs. Charles E. Roth, both notes to recover $70,000 of Mrs. Frank's alleged unlawful husband's consent, Frank, son of the ruler of a German province, was held in custody in this country. The trial was halted. Attorneys for the defense asked that the jury be dismissed and the case continued. The judge has prejudged against the defendant because of her relations with a member of the German nobility.

Close-ups in SPOONHEAD by Allan Markley (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent) BALTIMORE, Md.—Major August Belmont's Hourless and his greatest rival, Omar Khayyam, will both start in the third spring handicap, a race of one mile and seventy yards.

Ever since three crack runners Belmont and Khayyam started a decided victory, many of the followers of racing have credited him as being the fastest horse. The judges have no means universal, and there are many who declare that Omar will conquer the favorite during the summer months.

Among the best three-year-olds that will be seen under colors during the spring meeting of the Maryland Jockey club, is K. Macomber's War Cloud, another imported horse of high breeding, who is already booked for the Kentucky Derby and the Kentucky Derby and although not a favorite over Sun Star and another Kentucky Derby winner, the big Kentucky derby at Churchill Downs.

Last Year War Cloud created a sensation when he made his first appearance at Saratoga. He was a consistent winner at first and became known as the "Horse of the Year." He finished well up in the big field, but proved a disappointment to many. He was runner-up in the Kentucky Derby and he was runner-up in the Kentucky Derby and he was runner-up in the Kentucky Derby.

At a three-year-old War Cloud is probably one of the most promising runners in America and guided by a good rider he should be a big money winner.

CONVICED THREE GIVES GOODBYE KEEPER IN JAIL SPRINGFIELD, ILL., April 30.—With the toast, "Sit, drink and be merry, for tomorrow I leave for the penitentiary," the keeper was sentenced to jail penitentiary for stealing automobiles, gave to the keeper the keys to the penitentiary. SURVEY SPARKS TODAY WITH ULTIMATE OBJECT OF EXPLOSIVE MATERIAL

INDIANAPOLIS, May 1.—A survey of Indiana geological resources, which may lead in winning the war was begun today by Edward Barrett, state geologist for Indiana and H. Buchler, Missouri state geologist.

Mr. Buchler has obtained leave of absence to conduct surveys in Indiana for the United States geological bureau of mines, and he and the Indiana geologist already have inspected the coal fields of the state. They are looking for coal for pyrites and sulphur, both of which are greatly in demand in the manufacture of sulphuric acid. The acid is needed for making explosives.

Last year 15,000,000 tons of coal were produced in Indiana, and there were probably 400,000 tons of iron pyrites in it. A survey of cement raw materials also will be made.

"LENNIE IS KING, AND HAD IS A PALACE" FRANKLIN, IND., May 1.—Loisne in King of England. Halp is a palace in Georgia in Lord George to a prince in France, and a parlor to a large gun used in heavy artillery. These somewhat startling bits of information were found in such sheets of Franklin high school pupils. None of seventy-five pupils who tackled ten questions on the war made passing grades. Other bits of news, likewise startling, found on the papers are: Holmwood is a German name for a paragon is the stem of a submarine. A U-boat is one that runs under water and is shaped like the letter "U," and a machine gun is a large one moved from place to place by machinery. More nearly correct is this: An oiler is the vessel that carries oil to the front for killing Red Cross nurses.

"HARVEST WOMAN IN WAIR" DENVER, COLO., May 1.—Miss Eudice H. Beaton, known to officers of the military as "the girl who will kill a man," has returned to her home in Denver after two years' service in the Red Cross ambulance driver. After a brief rest, Miss Beaton again will enter the service of the government by training women as ambulance drivers.

Miss Beaton is known in the west as a typical "outdoor girl." She excels in tennis, golf, horseback riding, motorcycling and horsemanship.

On the western front Miss Beaton was under fire a score of times. She has been twice wounded on the western front and was driving an ambulance from a hospital to the front when the car was wrecked by a shell.

DRINKING FOUNT TO BE BARRIE NATION'S MEMORIAL WICHITA, KAN., May 1.—The Kansas Christian Temperance Union will erect a drinking fountain near the Union station as a memorial to the late Carrie Matton. The state association has voted $1,000 to be devoted to that purpose.

The city commissioners have agreed to purchase the building owned by the city, and to maintain the supply. It was in this city that Mr. Patton began his nation-wide campaign of saloon, smothering many years ago.

The TIMES is an Independent Democratic newspaper, but it stands for politics as opposed to the most unbridled and vigorous prosecution of the war that is possible. Therefore, it is AGAINST the man, Democrat or Republican, caught through hardware into the machinery—either with hands or with money. This is "partisan," make the most of it!

MONOPOLY PLANS BIG CAMPAIGN IN IDAHO

Powerful influences are at work to try to control the Democratic and Republican parties in behalf of monopolies during the next campaign and to so manipulate things within the Non-partisan League that organization will theoretically adhere to radical principles, will find its members in the immediate neighborhood, or the party of its own membership. Two great immediate objects are in view: To control the legislature so as to prevent state legislation that will run counter to the combines; and to elect a Republican who will oppose the legislative policies of Woodrow Wilson, to take the place of John F. Nugent in the senate. This information is authentic.

The influences seeking to manipulate things do not especially like Senator Borah and will work in the campaign in such way as political agencies may dictate so far as concerns the senior senatorship. Should a fundamental Democrat be a candidate on the Democratic ticket, they will support Borah. Should a trust Democrat be nominated on the Democratic ticket, they will support him. If they think he can win; otherwise they will "double cross" him and point to his record as an evidence that the Democratic party of Idaho is standing in with the "interests," and in this way try to weaken Nugent.

The monopolistic influences believe that they can control the Republican party by the nomination of a good and well-organized revolt should be started against them, and they do not anticipate this.

With the Democratic party they expect more trouble but it is a fact known to all who are "on the inside" that a tentative organization has already been formed in most of the counties of the state which has for its real object the control of the party and the interest of reaction. If this organization succeed in getting hold of the committees it can stir up voters with "friendly" leanings to attend the primaries and thus lay the foundation for the control of the legislative ticket. Should they succeed and should the plans with reference to Republican management then prove as satisfactory as it is hoped, there would be nothing to prevent the Democratic parties so far as really vital legislation is concerned.

With reference to the Non-partisan league, extensive plans have already been mapped out for attempting to direct and divert its activities into channels that will render it harmless or even useful to the purposes of monopoly, and these plans are generally along the conventional lines utilized by monopoly in "taking care of" new reform political parties.

It is necessary in this case for them to study the men to be used in handling the organization. They are principally of four kinds. In the first place are those men of ability who have made some financial success who pass as honest by their fellow men, who are honest by the ordinary relations of life, but who in big things are weak, where the danger of detection is small and the wrong indirect in character. They are to be urged to run for public office indirectly by the monopolistic elements and can later be handled where there is some sensitive provided for their conscience. In the second class are the honest men, who successful financially, who have good ideas in regard to private affairs but are unfamiliar with politics and can be misled. In the third place, and most useful of all to the big monopolies—is the honest-but-superficial ultra-radical, who sees sentimentally and gush about the rights of man and who always wants the most extreme thing conceivable as an attempt. This man usually has a tremendous contempt for the constitution, commensurate with his ignorance of the contents and meaning of that document and is always ready to do something to add to it. He is ready to be president. By a judicious weaving of red tape, the monopolistic mauler can make this sort of reformer charge at anything. With the aid of the first class named he will insist on inserting unconstitutional provisions, of a non-essential character into the most important measures, and thus lay the foundation for, their rejection and for the wearing out of the reformers at home. In the hope, after well known, they will gain in disgust, eventually. The fourth class consists of those more or less openly self-seeking, but venal, but those are not so great a menace as the other classes. They, whether inside the now party, or simply professed friends outside, are principally useful to their masters as suggesters; influencing, that is, those who talk of reforms, this (the fifth class) who do not want, and thus creating a sentiment for the men wanted by the trusts.

The proverbial "old time politics," is scarcely worth noting. Broken-down politicians do sometimes try to nose into a new political organization, occasionally successfully, but it is in the interest of the trusts to create the impression that the direction of affairs lies in that direction alone. That the most elaborate and subtle machinery will be put in motion before the campaign opens to "assist" the league, is the information received in outline by THE TIMES.

Whether correct or not, it is in harmony with the past methods of monopoly in such cases. Of course, there is intelligence and patriotism among the "people" to detect and nip it if its workers can be located.

THE TIMES wishes to see a policy of state, progressive reform pursued in this age. It wants to see the Democratic party take a truly democratic position without reference to the attitude of any other political organization. It has nothing to add at this time to what it has already said regarding the United States senatorship. When the power bill is finally passed by congress it believes it is probable that there will be legislation needed by the state law makers. It believes that it is of paramount importance that monopoly shall not receive vast and uncontrolled interest in the horologe. Should the legislature meet in special session, it thinks are in such a nature as to intelligently act on it, it should like to see this Democratic legislature enact a law which will protect the people adequately. In this respect, it believes that the retention of the power in the hands of the state would be better than turning it over unregulated to private corporations.

At any rate, "incomplete" and "unfriendly" interests and their might regard the scope of legislative action to be strictly limited. THE TIMES believes that should the legislature be convened the judicial committee of both houses, in conjunction with the office of the attorney general should make a searching study of the constitution in order that, if inadequate to the needs of the people in the respect of their rights on the question of a constitutional amendment, may be supplemented.

THE OVERMAN BILL

The passage of the Overman bill on congress Monday night, by the overwhelming vote of sixty-three to thirty, was a victory for the country, and was a triumph for the Non-partisan League. It is the hope of the Republicans who voted for it to be so constituted, albeit some of them, as well as certain "knocking" Democrats did it with bad grace.

The measure promises harmonious operations of all branches of government for the one great purpose of winning the war. It is better in order, way than the millions bill of the war cabinet bill because it is wider in scope and permits the definite concentration of more force on a single point. The war cabinet bill provided no safe-guard not secured by this measure. The appointment of the war cabinet was left to the president, by the terms of that measure.

Were it true, as his bitter critic assume, that he is often mistaken in his choice of administration, might have appointed the wrong men, and while confirmation by the senate was required, it is quite certain that all those appointed would have been confirmed. Once in the war council, competent or incompetent, would have had supreme charge of many war activities, with only a negative veto by the president, at least in the first instance, were incurred with responsibility. Thus, the president could remove a member and appoint another, again with the consent of the senate, but this would probably have created more disturbance and confusion than securing of the confirmation of the original appointees did.

The war cabinet would have resulted in the most flagrant inefficiency and friction since morally certain president had its attempt to deprive the president of the power expressly granted not been unconstitutional, as the ablest lawyers contended. Opponents of the Overman bill were divided on the power of perception of President Wilson. Senator Braddege implied that the appointment of a man by the president was presumptive evidence of his inefficiency, while Senator Kio read a list of recent appointments, on whom he bestowed the highest praise, to show that President Wilson did not need the powers granted in the Overman bill in order to get efficiency and good results.

Jack Veick, (I. N. S. Sports Editor).

—About Mickel Doolan "You are old, Mickel Doolan," a young player cried, "And you saw your best days—long ago." "So how can you manage to come back again?" "Is something I'd sure like to know." "I may be a has-been," Mike Doolan replied.

"And that, at my best any one would say, a lot of us old birds are in de-moralized now." "And it's all on account of the war."

The Reds did not leave any run on the bases yesterday. Outfit two in one day by the Cardinals—they went with Brester in the box.

Old Jack Coombs outpitched Art Neuf of the Braves, and the Dodgers won their second game.

Chick Gandell's batting featured the victory of the White Sox over the Indians. Gandell made four hits, one of which was a two-bagger.

Yank Gregg, the stacked southpaw of the Athletics, and Slim Love, Yankee portlander, staged a real duel at the Polo grounds. Love gave up three hits to Gregg's four and won his game by shutout record.

All the Giants need to do in the National League is to trim the western clubs. Everything in the east is soft for them.

Haso Ruth scored two runs against Washington and led the Senators down with five hits.

Bickel Addition Proving Popular

Bickel addition, the forty acre tract of the city and in the southern part of the city called Blue Lakes boulevard and Kimberly road, has been subdivided into lots and is being sold on the easy payment plan. This addition is owned by Paul E. A. Bickel, well known to Twin Falls people.

It had already been Mr. Bickel's hope that this tract would be sold to be one of the finest building spots in this city and in order to realize his hopes he made certain building restrictions on every lot in the tract to assure the elimination of undesirable structures.

Although the campaign for sales of this addition was not officially open until May 2, a large number of people have already visited the addition and made selection of their lots.

Considerable activity in the building has been going on in that section of the city and the outlook there would seem little doubt but that the number of fine homes will be built in the Bickel addition this year.

Advices from the front today show that the Germans were pressed back a mile in the sector of Scherpenberg, close to the front line.

BACK FROM ARMY

LONDON, April 30.—The announcement was made in the house of commons this afternoon that 6,000 British soldiers have returned from the army work in the Rhineland.

SOCIALISTS APPROVE

PARIS, April 30.—The Paris Socialists have approved the decision of the general labor federations not to hold any demonstrations on May day.

Idaho's Greatest Charity

The Children's Home feeds and clothes 100 every day.

A homeless boy was recently asked, "If there were a God—don't you think he would tell somebody to give you something to eat and some clothes." "He does," the boy answered, "BUT SOMEBODY FORGOT."

Don't Forget The Home Lines

Twin Falls has done great things for all worthy causes and we are justly proud of her. Let this year be an outstanding one for Idaho's homeless.

We have cared for more children from Twin Falls in 1917 than in all the previous eight years.

The state superintendent, Dr. Flesher, is at the Rogerson hotel. The traveling matron, Mrs. Anna Y. Bennett, will be in the city later in the week; she may be called on any assistance pertaining to her work.

SITUATION ON FRONT IS

Belie in that sector remaining in our hands. The conviction that the German offensive now under way will prove another Verdun is taking root in Germany. Verdun was distant from the crown prince, who disappeared for 18 months afterwards. This second effort will leave the Prussian military without any prestige. In addition the light is proving a reaction on other anxieties. With Mesopotamia, Britain and Holland, Germany has her hands full.

The glorious French infantry have more than held the lines under their debt by the receipt of the villages of Loree and Hainard just as they came to our aid at Tross in 1914.

At the Datt's Hill today, commanding over the Flainberg and Picardy battles now in progress upon the western front.

"The men who held at Verdun and who conquered with us at the Somme, are now fighting in a terrible battle. They are being killed, they are being beaten." Exhausted by their fruitless battles on Monday, the Germans were unable to renew their attacks on Tuesday and only local fighting was reported, the official dispatches from Field Marshal Foch. In front of Amiens there was a brief engagement in which the French drove back the Germans from some position they had been able to occupy in the sector of Noyon.

There were violent bombardments on the Picardy front, especially along the southern flank of the German salient.

(Scherpenberg lies among the hills just southwest of Ypres, in Belgium).

The Germans still "duck" towards Kemmel and now are being driven from their original position.

The French troops are engaged in "select" fighting. The fighting has been the spot where the well known Irish statesman, William Rodman, is now "held." At the time the ground over which the grave lies held by the Germans but afterwards it was recaptured by the allied forces.

around Voormere, six miles northeast of the scene of the French victory at Loree, yesterday. British troops held the front at Voormere and the Germans poured in upon them in successive waves. The British held their ground and inflicted tremendous losses. The Germans flowed backward, pulling, leaving combats dead and wounded behind.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The cutting war stocks of the country, including that held by dealers, was tomorrow.
