

GERMANY'S CODE ALL POSSESSED BY GOVERNMENT

ENTIRE MEANS OF COMMUNICATION NOW KNOWN TO AUTHORITIES

Was Built From One Used by H. Schmidt

"A Boy Born Yesterday: Both Well" Mourn Remittance of War Loan Bonds—Extensive System Was Utilized by Spies.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 5.—The code used by the German foreign office to communicate with Count Johann von Bernstorff when he was directing the German activities in the United States is now an open book in the possession of the government.

Through the efforts of Attorney General Morton E. Lewis, of New York, who conducted the investigation which led to the execution of Paul Bolo Pasha in Paris for treason, and von Bernstorff who had been deciphered, reconstructed and turned over to the federal authorities.

In addition to the code, Attorney General Lewis has secured from the Washington authorities, with a complete index of names and subjects involved in the investigation of the Hagen-Schmidt-Bonche back negotiations, a summary of the inquiry made into the activities of German agents and the special report on communications by the Kaiser's foreign office to South American countries to defame German propaganda, specimens of which were secured in this case by Hugo Schmidt, who was paymaster to the country of the German foreign office, and which he attempted to destroy by burning the original copy in the Deutsche Verein (German Club)—New York city when he fled to Germany.

Schmidt, it was found, had made it a practice to write to the paymaster wireless messages sent from branches of the Deutsche Verein in South America, where there was no censorship at that time. This was done in the name of Schmidt's name in code was "Sidney Haddock," Bolo Pasha was "Bl. Eagle," Captain Bolo was "Richard Plover," and von Papen "Thomas Hogson."

Supposed Hun Agent Arrives in England

Former War Minister—Only Question is Where—Thought to Have Other Business

LONDON, May 5.—Former Dutch War Minister Col. van der Meulen is reported to be acting as a German peace agent in England, journeyed from Holland to a British port on a Dutch torpedo boat.

The dispatch said Col van der Meulen had been reported to have been in London to secure British cooperation in the shipment of Dutch East Indies products.

It is uncertain whether or not Col van der Meulen is Germany's possible inclination toward peace, but the Dutch premier is reported to have thought that he would be not ripe for any peace movement.

FRENCH APPOINTMENT OFFICIALS ANNOUNCED

RAGING GUNS ONLY BIG EVENT ON BATTLE FRONT TODAY

Successful Enterprises by British and French on Small Scale, Large Operations Being Deferred—Bad Weather Interferes With Movement of Troops, Though Germans Attacked Before in Misty Weather—Germans Poised for Renewal of World's Most Gigantic Struggle.

(Frank Chesler, I. N. S. Cable Editor)

The big guns are still raging along the Flanders and the Italian fronts in France, but the expected German blows have not yet fallen.

There have been successful allied enterprises during the past 36 hours on the Picardy front, before Amiens and the British lines were advanced at three different points between the Somme and Aisne rivers, but there has been no resumption of fighting on a big scale.

The harassed Austro-German drive on the Italian front has not yet developed either and the only reports that have come from that area of battle have told of artillery action.

In Flanders the Germans are switching their artillery attacks from one district to another with the evident intention of keeping the allies from guessing where the next infantry thrusts will be made. Throughout the night the sectors of Rebecq, Locon and St. Julien, all widely separated, were kept under heavy fire, but at dawn the gunfire was suddenly turned to the regions of Meteren and Kemmel Hill. (St. Julien is in Belgium, lying about three and one-half miles northeast of Ypres. Kemmel hill lies just south of Ypres, Locon is three miles north of the British railroad and base position of Bethune. Rebecq is five miles northeast of Locon and Meteren, which lies about midway on the Flanders battle line, is eight miles northwest of Armentieres.)

Bad weather, with heavy rainstorms, has been prevailing over a wide area of the battle zones, but whether this has interfered with the fighting plan is not certain. It is hardly likely, however, for military matters were in favor of the Germans when they began their attacks 49 days ago today.

With the armies poised for a renewal of the struggle another burst of violent infantry assaults might be expected any time.

REGISTERINGS LARGE ITEM OF WAR EXPENSE

GENERAL CROWDER APPEARS IN COMMITTEE AND ASKS APPROPRIATION

Will Go After All the Slackers
Chairman Dent Will Ask House to Recede From Attitude About Credits and Produce Letter of President Regarding Matter.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The necessity for quarterly registrations of the war effort is being urged by the War Department. The demand for more increased will be pressed upon the house military affairs committee today by Provost Marshal General Crowder.

He asked for an appropriation of $15,000,000 to cover the work of his department during the next fiscal year. Some of the items were made larger than seemed absolutely necessary because of the possibility that quarterly registration will have to be resorted to, he said.

Last year a total of $19,000,000 was appropriated for the next fiscal year. Of this amount $7,000,000,000 remained unexpended.

The provost marshal general informed the committee that his department is about to begin a national-wide campaign through the second, third and fourth classes to eliminate slackers from those classes.

He asked for a large appropriation for carrying on the work of his department. The cases of Nelson Morley and Robert Scripps were thoroughly discussed by the committee. The committee voted to support Chairman Dent to ask on behalf of the committee that the house recede on its amendment to the quota bill providing that credit be given volunteers.

The conference report will be called up for action in the house in two days.

LONDON, May 5.—The British front has been advanced in three different localities between the Somme and Aisne rivers (lies east of northeast of Amiens on the Picardy battle field). PARIS, May 5.—The heavy artillery duels continued throughout the night and early morning of the 4th and 5th. The French front, apparently with an evident view to keeping the British guessing as to the next infantry thrusts will be made.

There was great activity on the part of the British in the north and south of the Aisne river. The enemy delivered several coup de mains west of Montdidier and in the direction of the Aisne, Arras and Arras, but all were broken up. We made some prisoners.

The Times took the view that the point at issue cannot be settled finally.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Three American newspaper correspondents are to be placed on trial in Mexico City on charges of writing a derogatory article to the Mexican army, the state department was informed today.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Headed by the names of thirteen men killed in the "Christmas" attack, the names of three were announced by the war department today. Three died of disease and two were the victims of accidents.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—An exceedingly heavy rain storm was reported in New York today, and a news association report from that city. It is commented on by a local paper that the heavy rain is a sign of a "big" day in progress when the dispatch was written.

To any community which is favored with such a high school as Twin Falls in point of numbers, of faculty, and of management, all its interests and activities must be of profound importance. Klein Tells How It Happened To Him

Famous Clown Gives Graphic Account of His Experiences of the Gas of Junkerism.

Bert Ford (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent) WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, May 7—Speaking of Charles Klein, the clown who was recently...

...other commentators, the following is his own account of "how it happened":

"I was sitting in a dugout when suddenly shells started screaming and hitting overhead. They made me happy and I laughed because they reminded me of our Fourth of July at home. I put on full steam and my motorcycle leaped ahead like a kangaroo."

"Bang! A big shell burst into ten feet from my machine. Bang! Another shell exploded to the left of me and I put on more steam. Then still another whizzed directly over my head and burst close by."

"Say, I rode a white mule in the circus that no one else could ride. I broke my arm and injured me with cuts and bruises. The mule's name was 'Snowball' and that animal seemed to have a hundred tricks. I tried to get on my back. But believe me one loco shell hit worse than a hundred 'Snowballs'."

"The fellows soon heard that I had been a clown in a circus and about had me doing my stunts. Among other things I amused the boys by blowing a tune with two spoons."

"Yes, army life is a great life if you don't sneeze. The head doctor wants me to stay here."

"The orderly says my grin wakes up with the sun and sides along with it."

"However, I shall never forget that motorcycle ride. Those loco shells are still humming a lullaby in my ears."

"Talk about bad mules in a circus! Mustang gas is mighty rough stuff. I'm telling you. And I don't hope to avoid speed on a motorcycle now."

The president will refer the matter to the committee to find a solution acceptable to the navy department, the department of justice and the interior department has held up the important oil leasing bill for more than three months. By leaving the problem up to the president the committee will avoid weeks of further controversy and will be able to report the bill probably late this week.

ALL THE NEWS ALL THE TIME. There are just three great corporations furnishing daily news service to papers in the United States. Of these the Associated Press is the oldest, and still stands first, although in some departments its work has been—and is being—excelled, especially so in the foreign field by the International. There is no question among those who really know and are also honest, that the second place is occupied by the International News Service, now used by the TIMES. The International has the highest paid men and every facility of capital and organization; and its daily reports will bear comparison with those of any other service any time and all the time.

Four brick buildings, formerly occupied as a slaughter house, were destroyed. The premises had been vacant for several years. Two thousand head of cattle in the yards were removed to safety. Several shipments of hogs became mixed in the transfer.

Bonar Law, replying to a question asked by former Premier Asquith, stated in the house of commons this afternoon, that he proposed to invite two judges to investigate statements made by Maurice. TO ALL "TIMES" SUBSCRIBERS

The Mid-week and Sunday editions of the TIMES in the late past have been favored with a large and rapidly growing list of subscribers. Having determined to change to six issues each week the publishers propose to show appreciation of such favor by sending the entire six issues of the new daily edition to each of its present subscribers at the same rate heretofore paid for three—namely, $3.00 per annum.

To secure the paper at this rate it will be necessary that, before June 1, 1918, all arrearages be paid and advance payment for not less than three months be made on the daily. All amounts now outstanding to credit of each subscriber will be applied in payment for the daily upon the basis stated. So soon as the clerical work can be done, each subscriber will receive a statement of his subscription account with full explanation of the new arrangement. Should any member only the same number of proportionately received papers at the same price, instead of six, he will please notify us at once.

That all may be democratically served alike, new subscriptions for not less than three months will be received at same rate ($3.00 per annum) if paid in advance prior to June 1, 1918. After that date and other than as herein specified, further notice will be given. To the numerous subscribers who have already paid at a larger rate the excess will be refunded.

TO ALL "TIMES" ADVERTISERS

Although the consolidation of the "Twice-A-Week" and the "Sunday" Times subscription lists will give a larger circulation than was before reached by either edition, the advertising rates will remain for the present as per the "Twice-A-Week" schedule. As the basic principle of one cent per column-inch for each hundred subscribers is believed to be equitable, an increase may be demanded in the future.

Advertisers will find a great advantage offered by the six issues each week, all reaching the entire Times audience. They will now be able, not only to get quick action when desired, but also to bring any particular article, or line of goods, to the notice of consumers at the psychological moment.

It will be necessary that all display advertisements be filed not later than the night preceding the day on which they are expected to appear; and any other advertisement must be in hand by 9 a. m. of publication day to insure its appearance.

THE DAILY TWIN FALLS TIMES

Published Every Day, Except Sunday by the TWIN FALLS PRINTING & PUBLISHING COMPANY Twin Falls, Idaho News of the World to the Four G. L. Lesley, General Manager J. D. Whelan, Associate Editor

(Entered at the Twin Falls postoffice as second class matter as a daily publication, April 11, 1918)

THE TIMES is an Independent Democratic newspaper, but it knows no politics as opposed to the most united and vigorous prosecution of the war that is possible. Therefore, it is not a party paper. It is not a party paper, it is not a party paper, it is not a party paper.

"HICH MAN'S WAR"

The cry that this is a rich man's war is a false German canard. As shown frequently, in this paper, the intimation that the taxation levied for the purpose of raising revenue bears lightly on the wealthy is without foundation. Schools of wealthy houses have volunteered, and where they failed to do so, have been directed to rich and poor have shared alike in bank and treasury. Some have given up immense profits to act as "dollar a year men" for the government and performed their work with rare ability and disinterestedness. They have, as heretofore suggested in these columns, subscribed immense sums to the Red Cross, to the Y. M. C. A., to the R. C., to the Hoover fund, to the national fund, and to other funds for the spiritual and recreational benefits of the boys. They have bought liberty loans, where they could make more on their money invested elsewhere. They have, of course, bought war saving stamps. They are patriotically interested in the winning of the war.

On these grounds there is scant room for complaint. That business is business, with some inclusion, some who are willing to sacrifice, and it occasion requires, to fight and win. No doubt the packers possess as many men, proportionately, who are willing to sacrifice life and limb as any other class, but because "business is business," the federal investors are averted many things of a very uncompromising nature. This is only one of the lines of business in which things of an unsavory nature have been uncovered. People reading the newspapers from day to day will recall others.

Men engaged in big business often get the idea that their lines are entrusted to special privileges, to favored and exclusive relations. They take it as a patriotic duty to it that men are elected to office who will give such to them. They call men of that sort, who give advantages worth millions a year, without open position, thread of regulation, "public opinion," and those who in lieu of proper regulation, or in cases where applicable government operation is averted many things of a very uncompromising nature. This is only one of the lines of business in which things of an unsavory nature have been uncovered. People reading the newspapers from day to day will recall others.

legislation in favor of themselves and regard it as a right, applying to their own benefit the test, "to him that hath shall be given," and "from him who hath not shall be taken away," forgetting that only an Altruistic Creed has the proper discrimination to apply this rule with justice.

Hence, not all who seek privilege are lacking in what they conceive to be public spirit. The continual keeping of this in mind will explain many things otherwise inexplicable. Men may become so confident that the granting of special privileges to their own class is the right way to make the nation prosper that they look through colored glasses everything done by a president who does not believe as they do, assuming that they alone are competent to run things. They believe that they are performing a public service in interfering with war plans, which, because of their lack of confidence in the administration, they assume before-hand must be wrong.

"Like master, like man." Politicians raised in this school, and affecting a fine scorn for college teachers of political economy, which they sometimes rally too, readily fall into a state of mind where they believe they are performing a public service in getting rid of "the impracticables," who think that legitimate labor and union are like, go made up of millionaires who are of consideration; and who have "queer" ideas about taxation.

Out of this state of mind has grown up every aristocracy and despotism that has cursed the human race. Aristocrats and despots are not necessarily, personally, intentionally, bad men. Good men, who risked lives and fortunes in the Revolution, were so pleased by class feeling as to regard justice as an unworthy doctrinalism.

Men of the higher financial circles who faced the British armies in the war of 1812 afterwards stood by Nicholas Biddle in this fight with Jackson, when he wanted special privileges for his bank.

The naming agencies, who try to make out of this case by indiscriminate abuse of "the rich" personally in doing things which are following a blind trail, which will lead us followed to powder.

showing the proper spirit of putting patriotism above party, where the dispositive incumbent should be a diplomat to do the same and where his record and acts are satisfactory. A good senator of either party should be retained where his "speeches and votes show him to be on the right side. There may be times when it is well to see a horse with its mouth open, especially if he is "mouthing in the middle of the river, but it is poor policy to trade a good, tried horse for an untried animal under such circumstances.

ANY MAN TO ANY MAN

By GERALD STANLEY LEE

I DO not know how other men feel about it, but I find it hard; with all that is happening to the world today, to look a small boy in the face.

When a small boy looks trustingly up to me and I see his world—the world he thinks he is going to have, in his eyes, I am afraid.

The look in his eyes of the world he thinks he is going to have cuts me to the quick.

I have always felt I had an understanding with a small boy before.

But the last four years when he looks at me in that old-way and I think of his world—the one I see in his eyes—the one I had myself—the one every small boy has a right to, I see suddenly instead of the one that is being left over for him by me, by all of us, the one he will have to try to put up with, have to live in, have to be a man in, when you and I have stopped trying.

Then when I face the small boy I want to go off in a wide high place alone and think and ask God. I want to go down into the city and fight—fight with my money and with my hope, go over the top with my religion and then come back and face the small boy.

There are days during this struggle when my soul is spent and all the world seems made of iron and glass and all these crowds of people flocking through the streets who do not seem to care.

It seems as if I would not turn over my head to save a world to live in myself. . . . It does not matter about me—and some days the people I see go by almost make me think it does not matter about them.

Then suddenly I go by, troops of school children at four o'clock pouring out into the streets, . . . pouring like fire, pouring like sunshine out into the streets!

It is as the roll of drums for the Liberty Loan! I want to ring great church bells to call people to the Red Cross!

My rule for a man's finding out just how much he should subscribe to the Red Cross is this:

Put down your name and address on the blank and leave the amount open to think. Then try going past a schoolhouse about four o'clock when the children are pouring out.

Or in the evening when the house is quiet, put down your name and the best figure you dare on the white paper.

Then go upstairs a minute and look in the crib. Then look at your blank when you come down once more.

THE WAR'S RECOMPENSE

The original of this verse was found on an American soldier who bravely fought and, as nobly died. The man is yet unknown.

Ye who have faith to look with fearless eyes Beyond the tragedy of a world at strife, And know that out of death and night shall rise The dawn of ampler life.

Rejoice, whatever anguish rend the heart, That God has given you a priceless dower, To live in these great times and have your part In freedom's crowning hour.

That ye may tell your sons who see the light High in the heavens—their heritage to take—"I saw the powers of darkness put to flight, I saw the morning break!"

A MESSAGE FROM EDWARD N. HURLEY

Chairman of the United States Shipping Board.

EVERY dollar that has been appropriated by the American Red Cross in this war has welded closer that relationship between the United States and the nations of the Entente, a relationship that will have a marked effect upon the peace council that is coming.

If this work of spreading the gospel of mercy is to continue, every man, woman and child in this republic must give the American Red Cross his fullest support in its second campaign for $100,000,000.

Our boys in Europe are looking to us to back them up and I know of no better means of supporting them than through the instrumentality of the American Red Cross.

The good it has already accomplished and the comforts and welfare it will provide later when the stress of war becomes greater for the United States forces, make it imperative that the second fund of $100,000,000 be a spontaneous gift on the part of the American people.

PURE FOOD MARKET

BUCKWHEAT AND HONEY

Buckwheat is one of the spruces from which the bee draws honey. Perhaps that is why buckwheat cakes and biscuits go so well with honey.

Buckwheat baked into crumpets is a favorite dainty among Dutch children and "buckwheat hot cakes" in this country have become a national dish.

Buckwheat can be grown with great ease and rapidly. Housekeepers are finding that the delicate flavor of buckwheat makes it a very acceptable ingredient in the baking of cakes, biscuits, muffins, etc. Combined with vegetable oil, water supplies what buckwheat lacks in fat. It becomes one of the very acceptable partial substitutes.

The housekeeper who sends us this recipe, which she uses for her oatmeal, mixes the biscuits with water only, but milk or half milk and half water may be used:

1-3 cup flour.
1-3 rounded tablespoon Coffee.
1-2 teaspoon salt.
1-2 cup cold water.
4-level teaspoon baking powder.

Mix together the flour and baking powder and salt. Chop in or rub in the coffee. Mix to soft dough with the cold water. Roll. Cut with small biscuit cutter. Bake in hot oven 10 to 15 minutes.

Our friend tells us she serves these biscuits with honey only. They are so good, she says, you don't need butter too.

Butter wrapper headquarters in at the TIMES office, where they will be printed at any time, in their turn, like any other job.

Try One of These Salads

Crisp, green salads should play an important part in planning the early spring menus, as not only are they appetizing and wholesome, but they may be utilized as the main course for the evening dinner when preceded by a good soup and followed with a hearty dessert, thereby effecting a material saving to the hostess's bill.

On Tuesday and Saturday such dinners are planned. The crab meat salad for Wednesday's luncheon can be made from a quarter of a pound of flaked crab meat for the canned crab meat can be used. Add one and a half quantity of shredded lettuce, with a tablespoonful of chopped dill pickle, moisten with bottled or mayonnaise dressing and serve in halved peppers that have been boiled for ten minutes, then drained and chilled.

In making all green salads, the vegetable must be washed and thoroughly dried. For it an moisture adheres to the leaves the dressing will not coat the leaves properly. Many of the vegetables, such as the cucumbers, are best easily made by placing the ingredients in a small fruit jar, adjusting the rubber and cover and shaking briskly until slightly thickened.

Making the Salads.
To make the asparagus and tomato salad, wash and slice the asparagus a circle from the center of each slice and lay on lettuce leaves.

Place in the opening of each circle three or four asparagus tips (either freshly cooked or canned) and dress with the following:—Half a cupful of the vegetable oil, the juice of a lemon and half an orange, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of Worcester-shire sauce, one teaspoonful of grated onion and half a teaspoonful of mixed mustard. Blend in a jar as just described.

The combination salad that forms the main course for Saturday's dinner consists of sliced olives, cubes of celery and bits of cooked carrots, in a crisp jelly. Moisten with oil, cut in squares and lay on lettuce leaves.

Fortunately, eggs are now fairly reasonable in price, so that they may be generously used in making all salads. Be sure when cooking them for this purpose that they are boiled for twenty-five minutes, cooled in cold water and chilled before the shells are removed. Treated in the way they may be cut in even slices of quarters.

Purchases for the week will include at the butcher's one pound of beef liver, one pound and a half of stewing mutton and two pounds of rack of veal.

At the fish market two pounds of halibut, one-quarter of a pound of crab meat, one package of salt cod, one pint of olives, half a pound of any firm white fish for the Japanese salad and two pounds of flounders.

One pound and a half of butter for table use only, half a pound also, five quarts of bulk milk, one-quarter pint of cream and three dozen eggs will be required to follow the menus as planned.

Recipes for the salads appearing in the menus are appended.

Chicken and Nut Salad.
This is such a hearty salad that it may furnish the main course for a spring dinner. One of the two cans of boned chicken, costing 40 cents, will serve four persons generously. Remove the contents of the can, rinse in cold water and chill; then cut in dice (do not chop). Have ready crisp celery, cut in dice, measuring about one and one-half times the amount of chicken.

Add one tablespoonful of chopped walnuts, two chopped hard-boiled eggs and six chopped stuffed olives. Sprinkle very lightly with salt, blend with a mayonnaise dressing and serve, heaped on a salad platter. Mask with a little additional dressing and garnish with slices of hard-boiled eggs, capers and bits of pickled beet.

Stringing Fruit Salad.
Mix equal parts of peeled chopped radishes, sliced celery and pineapple cut into cubes. To each cupful and a half of the combined ingredients add one sliced banana and the drained yellow pulp of two oranges. Moistened with half a cupful of bottled dressing (made without mustard) to which has been added, two tablespoonfuls of fresh whipped cream. Sprinkle in equal portions on lettuce leaves and garnish with halved Maraschino cherries. A fruit salad may combine the salad and dessert courses.

AMERICAN SLANG
FOOLS UPON SPIES

German Linguists Bewildered by Yankee Talk.

TELLS AN AMUSING STORY

Official Relations How He Conversed With Brother Officer in Presence of German-Slang Provided Trackless Country on Which They Could Venture With Safety for Baffling of Inquisitive Ears.

Clever as the German spy may be, great linguists as they claim to be, Americans have found that their vast and rich range of slang completely baffles them.

An American officer who is in Belgium working with the Relief Commission before American entered the war was at the American Officers' Institute in London, where he had the great success of amusing little story of the difficulties he and his fellow workers had in holding any sort of conversation with their German captives.

"We couldn't talk English without being overheard, somehow, and our conversation was very funny and generated beyond recognition. French was no better, but we found that we had a trackless country, a real No. Man's land on which we could venture with absolute safety for the baffling of inquisitive ears. I'll explain what I mean."

Newspaper a Mystery. "I had just heard that a German in the United States had made an attempt to kill the life of the president and at a time when every organ of the kind was making our participation in the war more certain. How the 'Hav' Bunked out don't know. I shall never know. That was the only one news item in Belgium. You heard no word, but you could trace it to no apparent source."

"In a barber's shop were several German officers. One of the boys of California, who had just returned from a trip to the provinces, and would be likely to know nothing about the report. It would be well if he were informed before reporting at the Base Central. So the information was correct, and the following dialogue occurred:

"This on any of these spangled cattle-stealing getting busy. If there were any willy cutters in his burg they'd be searched about the Cologne who just tried to put over the Helms and the Main and the East."

"A pines, and then back from the hatched lips to the other claim: 'No Chance for Him.' 'I catches, Steve. What's the next act or dinner in this dining car? 'You can search me. But I think it is all to the mercy.'

"Say, when will all these guys stop trying to steal second with the latest fashions?"

AMERICAN SOLDIERS
RESPECT RED CROSS

Do Not Intend to Relativate With Acts of Barbarity Shown by Huns.

"Our soldiers are respecting the Red Cross when worn by Germans, even if the German has the sign of the cross on a Red Cross stretcher bearing and ambulance drivers, as the following dispatch shows:

"Some American soldiers in a cheering post northwest of Toul early this morning discovered an enemy pack staff firing their own wire, and promptly opened fire. The Germans retreated hastily, leaving two of their number hanging on the wire.

"Several hours after daylight a party of the Germans, two machine gunners and three Red Cross workers, emerged from the enemy lines and started for their comrades entangled in the wire. The Americans saw the Red Cross brassards and did not open fire on the party, which reached the 'boiler'."

"Proof is indisputable that Americans have bombed hospitals plainly marked with the Red Cross, have sunk hospital ships plainly plainly marked, have fired upon American Red Cross workers on the battlefield, and otherwise have ignored the emblem that every civilized nation respects.

Forty German Ships
Sunk by the British

England's Submarines Have Wiped a Good Account of the Enemy Fleet from the Ocean Last Week

WASHINGTON, May 8.—British submarines have destroyed at least 40 German enemy warships, according to a statement from the British admiralty received here this morning. The statement says that 26 ships were sunk during the operations occurred. It was pointed out that at the enemy's loss of 40 ships above water vessels out of the confines of his harbors, very few opportunities are afforded the British submarines for work, and accordingly the record is here considered remarkable.

LONDON, May 8.—The sinking of German submarines steadily increases, and Thomas MacNamara, parliamentary secretary for the navy, in a speech in the House, he added that the destruction of merchant ships has fallen steadily month by month. The output of tonnage is now well ahead of that in 1917. The demand for immediate ship production is increasing every day.

ROSS J. PETERSON WRITES HOME FROM OLD ENGLAND

The following interesting letter was received this week by Dr. B. Pettit John of this city, from Private Ross J. Peterson, Battery A, 10th Infantry, England.

England, March 6. Dear Folks: I suppose by this time you have received the card telling of my safe arrival in England. I was a very pretty country, but there is no variety in the landscape or buildings. I saw many fields and small hills and trees and hedges. The town looked very queer to us. The buildings are all of red brick and have a very peculiar style of architecture, and they are crowded together. Women and girls wear long dresses and hats and carry bags. The people of the United States have no idea of what economy life is. This war may teach them a valuable lesson on that subject. The English are not a demonstrative people but one can see that they are very proud of my safe arrival.

We had no mishaps of the trip and a view of a considerable strip of coastline. The English are very complicated compared with our boys. They are not nearly so loud or strong as we are. They have a lovely accent, especially the lower class. I was educated upon much the same English as educated Americans. This is a very nice country. I will write you again. Don't fail to write. My address will be: Battery A, 6th Artillery (C.), A. S. Barracks, British Expeditionary Forces. Mail is very uncertain, but it will be most welcome when it does reach me. Tell me all the news. With love to all. ROSS.

In war there is no neutrality. Humanity will not make it that it can evolve great organizations of men. We engaged in a struggle with the greatest organization in the world."
