POWERFUL ARTILLERY PREPARATION BY HUNS IN PICARDY AND FLANDERS

Bélief Growing That Germans Fear Increasing Strength of Allied Armies and Are Making Tremendous Efforts to Endeavor to Offset It—Small Engagements at Different Points but No Big Action.

(Frank Charlton I. N. S. Cable Editor) The Germans are making stronger artillery preparation for a renewal of their drive on the Picardy and Flanders fronts than they have in any of the preceding grand offensives on the various battle fronts.

This circumstance, coupled with the continued lull in the big scale infantry operations shows that the Germans are coming to fear more and more the strength of General Foch's allied armies...

It has been over two weeks since the Germans launched any great attacks on the Flanders front while nearly three weeks have elapsed since the last big German assault on the Picardy line.

The last grand assault on the Flanders front ended in an ignominious defeat for the German armies that were trying to break through the hill positions held by the Anglo-French armies southeast of Arras.

Since the break down of the German operations late in April the big guns have been roaring all along the two battle zones.

The report is again current that Germany is waiting for the Austro-Hungarian armies to strike in Italy before recommencing the drive in France.

This was the fifty-fourth day of the German offensive but for the past few weeks it has been resolved into a big gun offensive.

White-house officials were frankly puzzled over the exact significance of the advice that American troops were to be held back and it was said that steps had been taken at once to secure further information.

Upon the return of the three patrol planes to the United States today the result is not yet known.

LONDON, May 13.—German artillery continues to bombard the British positions with great violence in various sectors, but so far there has been no further serious assaults against them.

CRAWLS 3 MILES ON HANDS AND KNEELS TO PAY DEBT

OAKLAND, CAL., May 11.—Crawling three miles on his hands and knees to the auctioneer's stand, a man with a white beard and a look of despair, pleaded with his wife and the beautiful woman of his wife's company to pay the penalty that H. A. Hooper, vice president of the Central National bank, had to pay in settling a loan bet with William Cavalier, well known banker.

"I bet I can beat you and do the whole eighteen holes in 76 this morning," was the challenge made at the Grand Hotel.

Cavalier lost no time in taking up the wager. "I'll take you bet, but be sure you can't" slip, he said. "You lose you must crawl the entire course on your hands and knees and buy a thousand dollar Liberty bond."

This terms were accepted. Moments later, Cavalier and his opponent were lost, strayed and sought the road.

WIFE SAYS HUSBY, WHO IS 78, WANTS TO WED "CHICKEN"

LEAVENWORTH, KAN., May 11.—James H. Hayes, seventy-eight years old, of the Civil war, was refused a divorce by the local courts from his wife, Janet Hayes, seventy-six, who he alleges deserted him. They were married in Illinois in 1866. They have five grown sons.

Mrs. Hayes told the court that her husband had told her he wanted to marry a younger woman—a "chicken."

She also said that she was willing to live with Hayes, but she did not believe a word he said, he had broken so many promises to her.

"Unto the Least of These"

ONE WAY THE RED CROSS HAS TAKEN TO DEFEAT THE KAISER'S GAME

1,000 Ragged, Sick and Homeless People Are Daily Dumped at Evian.

At the first onslaught of the Hun, before the French were able to withstand their invasion, the Kaiser secured a quagmire section of France. With the captured cities and villages he acquired many thousands of Frenchmen.

True to all the rules of Teutonic efficiency, the noble German worked and starved these French close to the point of death, then gave to it that impressive number of them "ready" to be sent to the front.

He simply dumps them in Evian, on the French-Swiss border. If it were not for the American Red Cross, the lack of caring for these straggled, ragged, sick, homeless, terrorized men, women and children would be more than the French government could handle.

THE DAILY TWIN FALLS TIMES

Published Every Day Except Sunday by the TIMES PRINTING & PUBLISHING COMPANY Twin Falls, Idaho News of the World to the Hour C. L. Longley, General Manager J. D. Whelan, Associate Editor

The TIMES is an Independent Democratic newspaper, but it knows no party lines. It is the most unselfish and vigorous presentation of the war that is possible. It is not a party organ, it is not a Democratic or Republican organ, caught blowing hardware into the machinery—either with the hammer or with the pickaxe. If this be "partisan," make the most of it!

THE UNSEEMLY "SAMMIE"

The protest against the designation of American soldiers in Europe by the name "Sammy," voiced by Bishop Fallows and re-enforced by the attitude of the Mother's Relief association, strikes a responsive chord in the breasts of Americans everywhere. Nobody in America beyond a very few newspaper paragraphs refers to the boys by that term. Whether some other name than "Yankees," which he suggests will ultimately be adopted or not, is another question. That the boys in the trenches recent being called "Sammites" is indicated by the following editorial from a recent issue of "The Stars and Stripes," the official organ of the American expeditious forces, which, under the heading, "Down With 'Sammito' says: A Sammy may be defined as an American soldier who appears in an English newspaper or a French daily. It is a name which makes no sense, does not like, never uses and will not recognize. When he sees it in the papers, he reads it, and he is sick. The American dough boy has had his baptism of fire, but he has not yet been christened. The name "Sammy" was, in fact, first used only in the trenches, and it was not until they arrived in France, "The French soldiers had been christened with the British 'Tommys' since long before 1914 but like the Australians, the Americans had been named in France. It was not long before the arrival of the boys from the Southern Cross had been known in the trenches as the "Anzacs," but this was used so fulsomely after Gallipoli that the boys themselves acquired a dislike for it and of late have taken to describing themselves as "Ausies," "Ausies," then, is now the fashion and some day A. E. F. will literally make a name for itself. Some day it will find a substitute for the unsatisfactory, the really painful, "Sammy."

When, in the fulness of time, the American army has been welded by shock and suffering into a single fighting force, with one mind, one heart and one spirit, the American soldier will find his name. It will be the inspiration of his life, the driver, perhaps, or the outburst of some eloquent cook. It will strike the fancy of a passing guard and be carried through the ranks, and spread like a sentry's call. Wounded boys will carry it back to base hospitals and ammunition dumps, and it will spread it to the base ports. Some reporter will hear it at some distant bar and put it into the story he has written that night. It will be printed in America. Paragraphs and cartoonists and vaudeville comedians will use it. It will be caught up, and home and in the training camps. The name will be fastened on. The American soldier will have been christened. Some day we know not when, his name will be "Sammito."

THE LUSITANIA ANNIVERSARY

Three years ago the drilled world was stricken with horror at the announcement that a German submarine had sunk the Lusitania without warning and had murdered 1100 helpless non-combatants, men, women and children, in the Atlantic. Today the names of another Lusitania massacre would astonish nobody. It would be caught up, and course. There would be astonishment only if the German government stays its hand and refused to take advantage of the opportunity to slay the weak and defenseless if any immediate military advantage could possibly result. What seemed unbelievable three years ago is now so wholly in accord with the manner in which Germany makes war that it is accepted as one of the commonplace activities of righteousness in action. That is the attitude which President Wilson has brought a nation which even three years hence is first in many of its standards of civilization. Four the rank that the German government employed to justify slaughter of the Lusitania victims are now recognized as characteristic of the imperial government and of Berlin diplomacy. The claims that the Lusitania was sunk, and that she was sunk with high explosives, that it carried passengers only so to disguise its real function as a naval vessel, are found to have been the character of the imperial government and of Berlin diplomacy. WITH APOLOGUES TO FIGS

The report that the food administration has taken up with the department of justice certain cases wherein people are reported to have used their substitutes to feed pigs and chickens, in order to eat only white flour, will give great satisfaction to all patriotic people. Without intending to insult the porcine family by associating their names with undesirable people, it is possible that those arrested could receive the penalties which may be provided in such cases by providing as they might easily do, that the swine were better Americans and more useful denizens of the country than they, and relatively deserving of the consideration received.

CLOSE-UPS IN SPORTSDOM

Allan Markley (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent) NEW YORK, May 10.—The Woodlawn Year, America's most famous competitive turf trophy, will be offered by Edward R. Bradley, of the Idle Hour Stud, of Kentucky, in the Franklin handicap, to be run at Pimlico next Thursday. This will be the feature of the Maryland Jockey Club card. The race has been increased in many ways this year and is, with the exception of the Kentucky Derby, the richest race in America. Both of these events are $15,000 races. The track is limited to three-year-olds and promises to be the most important spring test for the class. Among the potential starters will be the greatest thoroughbreds of the eastern stables that have been parading in the meetings at the Idle Hour Stud, as well as the unusually large collection of the best imported horses that have been under colors last year and some that have long been for the first time this spring. The District of Columbia, Pennsylvania and Long Island stables will be represented this year. Some of the better known of the imported thoroughbreds, many of which raced well in this country as two-year-olds last year, are: Bur Brian, Nelwood, Tombo, Holter, Man of the Hour, Bonnie Dance, Fargood, Wingstone, Corn Exchange, Casso, Grey Eagle, Mary Dublin, King Arrippa, Mary Maude, Ureates, Golden Soldier, Zuluani, and George K. War Cloud and Night Wind. In spite of the large list of foreign horses entered the race will not be altogether a contest of imported blood. At least, there is a chance that the home runner will again lead the field of horses in many respects among the runners bred in this country. Among the local favorites are: Sails O'Grady, the best two-year-old of the east last season; Jack Haro, Jr., and Papp, winner of the Belmont Park Futurity last year.

State Council Goes After Prevaricators

Arrests Dunder Minister of Treason Who is Reported to Have Misrepresented Conditions. JOISE, May 12.—Misrepresentations regarding either the army of the United States or its allies will not be tolerated in the state of Idaho, the state council of defense has decided. It has therefore reported to the United States District Attorney J. L. McClellan, the name of James Haro, Dunder minister of Treason, Idaho, who in sermon is said to have alleged in substance British soldiers were forced to drink rum before going into action and that in one instance a soldier so forced went to sleep at his post of duty, was court martialed and shot. The Clearwater county council of defense first investigated the charge and summoned Haro before it. At the conclusion of the hearing during which a number of witnesses were examined, resolutions were passed condemning the acts of the minister and branding the charge made by him as untrue and detrimental both to the armies of the United States and the allies of this country. The United States district attorney has been making a separate investigation of the same case. The executive committee of the council decided that in the future all such cases will be promptly turned over to that official with the request that a thorough probe be made and if found from the federal laws be enforced against them. The evidences of success of the reverend gentleman, reported above, in the distasteful teachings reported to him is to be found in the fact that the local members of his church, although financially able to do so, have not been able to secure democracy and freedom against Prussian brutality and military despotism. Their blood already consecrates the soil of no France. Who can think of their sacrifices without emotion? We must support our patient sailors and soldiers. We must make them aware of their debt to the nation. We can do it if we at home strive to increase the supply of patriotism that animates our men in the trenches. Conservation Letter a Stirring Appeal

Under date of May 10, the county food administrator has sent in every retail grocer an epistle which he calls "Weekly Conservative Letter No. 4" and which is evidently to be followed by others. It is as follows: To the retail grocers, Twin Falls county: One million eight hundred thousand of America's brave sons are now serving in the army and navy of the United States. Thousands of them are already upon the battlefields of France, fighting and dying to save the liberties of those who stay at home, and to secure democracy and freedom against Prussian brutality and military despotism. Their blood already consecrates the soil of no France. Who can think of their sacrifices without emotion? We must support our patient sailors and soldiers. A Correction.-In the TIMES of last Wednesday we said that the representatives of The Home Realty & Investment company would be back to this section shortly to put on another round of articles about the company. The visitors from Boise, of whom there were twelve, including two substitutes players, and the coach, Mr. Filer, were in excellent condition of the American high school boys, which means that they were all right over the trip.

people tried to make it pleasant for them throughout their visit-the massive army of entertainment, being a dance at the Hotel Helix, being arranged. They made the trip in auto and started on their return Saturday evening here today. It has been felt for a week that the allied lines in the west were holding and that the greatest force of the German drive had been met and resisted.

That bold truc, and General Foch having retreated from including a general counter offensive, officials here who were closely watching the situation became convinced that the allied plan would be to maintain their present line and force the Germans to continue their offensive at great cost. Meanwhile the partly trained troops who were going forward from the United States and Italy would be completely trained ready to take their place in the big offensive which is expected to be undertaken by the entente late in the coming season. However, officials pointed out here today that the allies are still in the American forces now operating with the French in Flanders, nor for the moment are they expected to be withdrawn. Nothing of the sort is contemplated. These forces will continue to perform the tasks that have been assigned to them and imported by trained American reinforcements on the "accident."

In simple terms, officials here assume that the national army divisions, already overseas or going, will fall back and behind the lines and will be organized into a new army of American commanders for such work as Foch shall map out for them. Foch as a matter of fact has a reserve of some 200,000 men who have not been thrown into action by the allies, and according to official sources, received by the troops where they can be utilized when needed should the German army become a menace anywhere in the absence of Secretary of War Baker, who is on an inspection trip in the west and France. It is felt that the world makes them lose their identity. However, it is now assumed that they will continue to be so brigaded under French command, and it is felt that when the great force now being moved across the water, is ready for the fight it will be supported by well organized as American fighting army under lieutenant general and under the supreme command of General Pershing.

At the present time Great Britain has undertaken to maintain forty per cent of American forces sent overseas, from her reserve supplies, this country to replenish the used supplies when the great troop movement is ended and the transport facilities get back to a cargo carrying basis.

Meanwhile the American heavy artillery is declared to be doing excellent work on the other side. Advice reaching here today confirm the report, carried exclusively in the International News Service-Washington dispatches last Thursday, that Yankee artillerymen had a surprise for the Germans. It is now admitted that the American heavy guns-the nature of which cannot yet be revealed-are wrecking the German supply lines with a deafening roar on the western front. These guns are mounted on great steel railway cars properly braced and can be rushed from one position to another with almost dispatch. And ordnance officials who know what is going on declared today that only a small beginning has been made and that there are other surprises in store for the Hun which will show him that his boasted Krupp steel guns are not only to be outranged but out-speeded.

AMERICANS IN RESERVE UNTIL MILLION OVER

GABINET ANNOUNCEMENT WASHINGTON

Those Now in Trenches Will Remain Do Good Work-Today's Dispatches Confirm I. N. B. Exclusion Report of Last Thursday.

WASHINGTON, May 13.-That the United States forces in France and England are to be maintained in reserve until they number in excess of one million men, is indicated in the summary of operations cabled by the British war cabinet, was the cause of the confusion here today. It has been felt for a week that the allied lines in the west were holding and that the greatest force of the German drive had been met and resisted.

That bold truc, and General Foch having retreated from including a general counter offensive, officials here who were closely watching the situation became convinced that the allied plan would be to maintain their present line and force the Germans to continue their offensive at great cost. THE JEROME BAKERY BUILDING

THE FARMERS GRAIN AND MILLING CO.'S ELEVATOR

Jerome Goes Over the "Top"

Raise $9,000 in Red Cross Sale. The American Flag Brought $1,450. The Patriotic Spirit of '76 Was in Evidence and the Bidding Was Brisk.

Having heard of the quiet city of Jerome, Idaho, that lies just across the dividing line, after passing over the Blue Lake's winding stairs, the Times Man was anxious to know and mingle with her good citizens; so, Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, in company with a friend, we started on our "over-land" trip, and was not long in hitting the grade that carries you on—to Jerome!

In entering the city we were amazed at the mass of machines that seemed to circle around the busy city of the "North Side," and as we approached the business center, it did not take long for it to dawn on us that a "Red Cross Sale" was on—and that the limit of bidding was the sky.

There were at least 4,000 citizens from over the county, who had come to make the "Red Cross Sale" a success, and how well they succeeded will be told later in this story.

Jerome is located in southeastern Idaho, a section of the country that has been so fortunate as to receive God's most gracious showers of blessings in the way of natural resources, combined with the energy, push and "pop" of the best set of citizens; men who had picked this spot as the coming section, and who had given up home and friends in other states, to try their luck and fortune in what was, a few years ago, a "City of Sage Brush," and as to the future they knew not, but they put their trust in Him, that always guides one in the right direction, and we find these same men, who struggled for several years in this field, now enjoying life in all its glory. Jerome has today some of the biggest, richest and most conservative business men of that section of Idaho, and we are informed that these same citizens, who only a few years ago were struggling to "make it go," are now heavy owners of city and farm property, as well as supplying hundreds of thousands of dollars to others who want to come their way and invest. When one steps to think of the amount of money that has been dug out of "Old Mother Earth," within so short a time, it is no wonder that they have as their motto: "All Roads Lead to Jerome."

The farming interests in the Jerome section are as fine as can be found anywhere, and we met and mingled with many of the tillers of the soil, and they are as prosperous a set as any one would want to see—or we have missed our faculty of sizing up a citizenship.

The Jerome banks are enjoying a business that any community might well be proud of, and they are taking care of the business interests of that section in a way that speaks success from every point—and the banking interests of Jerome are a credit to a city of 100,000.

On the Jerome tract last year was produced in farm products and stock, more than $3,500,000, and each citizen in turn has contributed his part in trying to make a "A Bigger and Greater Jerome."

From a patriotic standpoint this section has most any place in the United States "skinned." They have furnished more than their full allotment of soldiers, Liberty loan, Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. subscription. In the Third Liberty loan drive we were informed that they were the first to "go over the top" in the state, and had enough subscribed within the first twelve hours—but did not stop at that—but just kept on keepin' on, and landed safe on the upward grade.

The writer has seen many patriotic demonstrations, but none we have seen compared with the "Red Cross Sale." It seems that the five members—and all of them were livewires—of the Jerome Chapter, gave out the word that the chapter needed more funds to help take care of the boys "Over There," and to down the Kaiser; and a plan was mapped out to have a sale, and every one in the county was asked to make a donation, and from the amount of salable property that was put on the market we do not believe that a single person failed to respond.

Chairman F. D. McGowan with his able assistants, B. O. Hall, R. W. Williamson, "Dick" Williamson, H. G. McGuire, F. M. Ingram, Fay Shannon, C. C. Wilburn and Walter White, who planned the drive, are to be congratulated for the way they handled every detail. The afternoon's program opened with one of the most stirring addresses ever heard in Idaho. Rev. Roberts, pastor of the Jerome Presbyterian church, seemed at his best, and from the way he sized up the war situation, he had given the subject a great deal of study. His opening remarks gave to those present a confidence and a faith in Americanism, that had it been left to them the Kaiser and his followers would soon be put out of business. After the elegant address of this distinguished gentleman the sale opened in earnest.

There were four auctioneers: H. G. Munyan, of Filer; "Bill" Hallenback, of Burley; J. S. Harshorn and R. R. Clayton, of Jerome, and these gentlemen were on the job from the start. Mr. Munyan won the heart of every one present, in a short but well timed talk—and when he unfurled "Old Glory," offering it for sale—the large crowd went wild. This flag was purchased by Grover Cleveland Newman, one of the sheep kings of his section, who was not long in having it "knocked off" to him—and the price paid was $1,450. The flag had been donated to the committee by Oliver Hill, and he was as happy as the purchaser, who would not sell the flag at any price, as he wants to keep it to remember the banner Red Cross day in his "Old Home Town."

The Red Cross flag brought $575, and was one of the prettiest pieces of work it has been the scribes good luck to see, during the many Red Cross drives that he has been in since the war began.

There were 500 automobiles in the parade that preceded the sale, and each machine carried a large Red Cross banner.

The North Side Inn served 1,000 meals for dinner, and this is said to be one of the largest crowds that the hotel has handled for some time.

The business men of Jerome donated $1,000 in cash, and $1,500 in merchandise. The merchandise donated was sold at the sale and brought good prices. The merchants of the city were all on the committees and did as much hard work as any of them.

When the soldier's hat was placed on sale, the crowd seemed to realize that the war was getting close to us, and the hat brought $250.

The Red Cross pillow was sold for $800, and was one of the most interesting sales of the afternoon. When the large Red Cross loomed up—the crowd began to yell, and the spirit of '76 seemed to go through them.

Mrs. W. P. Rice placed on sale a collar that had been sent to her by her son from "Somewhere in France," and when she walked up to the stand to give it to Mr. Munyan, there were very few dry eyes in the crowd. The collar was sold for a good price, and the purchaser presented it to the donor.

Coming in someone found a "spud." This "spud" was put up to the highest bidder, and brought the small sum of $60. This is the best price ever paid for a "spud," even in Idaho, where they raise the finest that grow.

The sale netted the committee, as near as we could find out, $9,000. This sum goes to the local Red Cross committee and they will finish up many pieces of work that they have started, to go to the boys that are fighting for us.

The day is one that will long be remembered by the good citizens of Jerome, and that vicinity, and they should feel proud of the work they have done for the Red Cross, which is one of the most worthy causes that we have at the present time.

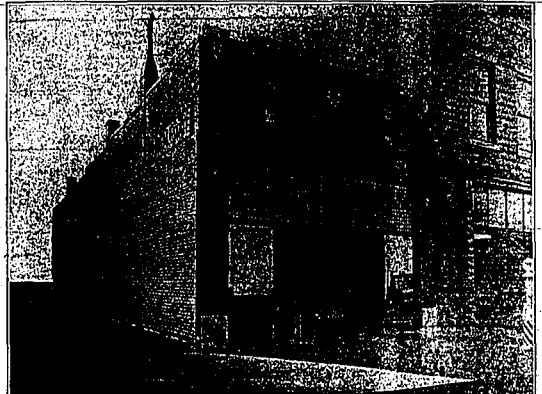

On every side you could here nothing but praise for the members of the Jerome Chapter, and the committees, who worked so hard on the big sale day, have no cause for regret, as their every effort was rewarded.

We want to tip our hat to the citizens of Jerome, and when it comes to doing things they know just what string to pull.

"What's the matter with Jerome?" She's all right!
