PEACE PROPOSAL IF HONORABLE WOULD BE HEARD

MINISTER BALFOUR MAKES STATEMENT IN ANSWER TO QUESTION IN COMMONS Asquith Warmly Endorses Government

"If Belligerent Should Put Forward Proposal Seriously It Would be Dealt With in Confidence"—War Aims Unchanged.

LONDON, May 15.—It is useless to discuss peace terms now because it has already been announced in unmistakable language both countries the peace aims for which the allies are fighting, Lord Curzon stated today before the foreign press association.

"First the peace must be honorable, second, it must insure the security of the continent, and third, it must be a peace which generates no devastating wars."

LONDON, May 15.—Replying to a question today put to a question put by R. G. Gifford as to whether Prince Sixtus had twice visited England in connection with Emperor Charles' peace proposals.

BERNE, May 15.—The food situation in Austria is desperate. Displaced persons are being sent to the front, and the situation in that part of Austria is being held up by persons of German blood who have been criticized for their three-months' food standstill.

AMSTERDAM, May 15.—Soup made from potatoes is the only food many Russian prisoners of war in Austria are receiving and large numbers are dying of starvation.

LONDON, May 15.—Water Runciman, former president of the board of trade, gave notice that he would bring up the subject of Austria's peace proposals in the house of commons this afternoon.

It was expected that the discussions would touch generally on foreign affairs. The Liberal war committee has adopted a resolution calling upon the government to insist on the withdrawal of the fifth British army and to "take the necessary measures."

The fifth British army bore the brunt of the German assaults when the Teutons began their drive against Amiens on March 21. Under the German blows the army was broken up and its members afterwards retrained and his actions are now under investigation by the proper military authorities.

"VICTORY WITH POWER" SLOGAN URGED BY TAFT

FORMER PRESIDENT REPEATS WILSON'S PLEA FOR FORCE TO UTMOST

Rolling Class of Germany If Unconquered Will Disregard All Pledges—Scathing Denunciation of International Bad Faith.

PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—America's full strength in the great world will not be felt for at least two years, he said today.

"But thank God," he added, "the will of the people as this war through to German defeat is growing with irresistible force."

"But," he continued, "it will take fully two years—perhaps three—to fulfill proper plans of preparation."

"The former president declared unqualified optimism, saying: "We should see the facts and should realize the task that is before us. We should set our faces stern and undeviating to our purpose."

Here Mr. Taft reiterated President Wilson's declaration that "force now must be met with force," and then to round out a warning denunciation of Germany's actions in Roumania, Russia, Poland and Belgium.

"We must, therefore, conquer the Germans if a just and lasting peace is to be secured, and the slogan must be 'victory with power.'"

Austrian Battleship Is Sent to Bottom

Italian Detachment Penetrates Chief French Army Base and Torpedoes First Class Vessel

ROME, May 15.—Commander Pellegrini's Italian navy, accompanied by three picked men, successfully penetrated the defenses of the Austro-Hungarian navy base at Pola and torpedoed an Austrian battleship of the Viribus Unitis type on Wednesday morning. The starting enterprise was made quite official today.

The destruction of a great first-line battleship by four men aroused intense national enthusiasm. The Glorious Italia is commencing upon the wonderful achievement that the men who took part in it, including the commander, Pellegrini, won the Military Cross, the Italian Cross, Francesco Angelini and Giuseppe Nello.

AMERICANS TO PLAY IMPORTANT PART IN BATTLE SAYS HUN CRITIC

Colonel Gaedke, Noted Military Expert, Points Out Danger to Germany Following Admission of Government That Many of Our Boys Are in Europe—Reports of Fights on British, French, Belgian and Servian Fronts All Show Victories—Germans Gather Powerful Fleet at Kiel and Naval Battle Is Anticipated—Belgium Filled With Hun Troops—Fierce Gunfire Heard in England and Bombing of Zebrugge and Ostend Is Believed in Progress—Germans Prepare to Draft All Boys of Sixteen Years Into Army.

PARIS, May 15.—The steady arrival of American troops in France is causing great uneasiness in Germany. Following the admission in the Berlin reichstag that it is not known how many troops the Americans already have in Europe, Colonel Gaedke, the military critic of the Vorwarts, says that Americans may yet play the most important part in the great battle.

"Artillery duels have developed north of Monastir and in the sector of Delva," the French office announced last night in a statement dealing with operations on the Balkan front.

An artillery battle was blazing over approximately 200 miles of the western front today, from the North sea to the southern reaches of the Picardy lighting zone.

Amsterdam reports that "Belgium is seething with preparations" for a general renewal of the offensive apparently on both the Flanders and Picardy fronts. Troops continue to arrive in Belgium from Roumania—a country that now lies helpless under the heel of German militarism and that the Belgian hospitals are being vacated in preparation for the fresh number of wounded that will inevitably fill them when the great battle is resumed.

The Germans are reported to be concentrating their entire fleet at Kiel which increases the probability that a sea offensive may be launched simultaneously with the renewal of the grand assaults on land.

The defection of Russia has made it possible for the Germans to withdraw their sea forces from the Baltic and to concentrate all their sea strength against the British. The fate of the Russian Baltic fleet has never been revealed and it is possible that the Germans may have seized the Russian main of war to reinforce their own high sea fleet.

Whether or not it was a land bombardment or whether it was a combined-land and sea-operation could not be told. The official war office reports today located the heaviest of the land cannonading in the sectors of the Somme and Aeneo river (Picardy front), east of Arras and at various points on the northern end of the Flanders front as well as in the sector of Hallue and Castel, the battle.

Buhl Man Killed in Action in France

George W. Lee, Taken on First Draft Is Reported Dead—Another Idaho Man in Casualty List

George W. Lee, of Buhl, was killed in action May 8, in France, according to word received by his mother, Mrs. Lee, today. He was killed by a shell last evening and by THE TIMES through the International News Service dispatches. He was called on the first draft and served five weeks in military camp.

PARIS, May 15.—Artillery activity on the Picardy front, in the district around Hallue and Castel, was reported by the French war office today. (Hallue is eight miles southeast of Amiens and Castel is less than two miles south of Hallue.)

SLAV AND CZECH MEMBERS OF REICHSRATH LAUNCH HOSTILE MOVEMENT

Hun Publicist Ridicules Mitteleuropa Plan

Declares It Runs Counter to Austrian Policy—Secret Peace Offer of Emperor Last Year Before Parliament.

BASEL, Switzerland, May 15.—The Slav and Czech members of the Austrian reichsrath have already launched a hostile movement against the new Austro-German compact, according to the Vienna correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung.

AMSTERDAM, May 15.—The peace treaty between Germany and Austria is called a "humbug piece" by Maximilian Harden, well known German editor of the paper Die Kultur, Harden ridicules the plan for a Mitteleuropa and says that the Austro-Hungarian Reichstag is diametrically opposed to such a "scheme."

LONDON, May 15.—Replying to a question today put to a question put by R. G. Gifford as to whether Prince Sixtus had twice visited England in connection with Emperor Charles' peace proposals.

BERNE, May 15.—The food situation in Austria is desperate. Displaced persons are being sent to the front, and the situation in that part of Austria is being held up by persons of German blood who have been criticized for their three-months' food standstill.

OLD TEAM MATES VIE FOR OUTFIELD BERTHS

Jack Velock, (N. S. Sports Editor) NEW YORK, May 15.—Three outfielders with the Boston Braves this year have been playing a merry fight for regular jobs. And the strange part of it is that the three were former team mates in the major leagues. Joe Kelly, who once had a fling with the White Sox, and later played with the Pirates and Cubs, is one of the trio. Rabbit Powell, secured from Providence last season by Manager Stallings, is the second, and Al Wickland, who came to the Braves from the Indianapolis club through the draft, is the third member of the triangle. Out west some seven years ago Kelly and Powell were team-mates at St. Joseph, Mo., under John Hollander. Wickland played the outfield for them and played it like flashes. But later they became separated, and finally Powell drifted into the International league, while Kelly landed at Indianapolis, where he became a team mate of Wickland after the Reds. Hollander, Wickland was a member of the Chicago Cubs before joining the Indianapolis club under Jack Hendricks. So Kelly has been a team mate of both his rival outfielding recruits—and it would be hard to find a faster or better matched trio than these jacks. Wickland has shared the fortunes of managerial whims with the other two, as all three have been played in outfield positions at different times by the Boston management.

IF MOTHER LIKES COD LIVER OIL SO DOES BABY

CHICAGO, Ill., May 15.—One strange thing in baby nature is being observed at the baby welfare clinic here being conducted in the interest of Uncle Sam's campaign to get better babies. It is this: No baby, however small or unformed, will not eat anything which does not appeal to the taste of its mother. If mother won't eat oatmeal, neither will the baby. If mother will take cod liver oil, the baby will lap it up pacifically.

La Follette Case Again Stirred Up

Effort to be Made to Dispose of Senator at Beside of Sick Son for Many Months

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Pressure is being brought to bear to bring a final disposition of the disloyalty charges against Senator Robert M. La Follette today. Senator Fomerone of Ohio, chairman of the senate committee on privileges and elections, called a meeting of the committee today in an effort to reach some sort of an agreement as to the action to be taken in connection with the charges which grew out of an address made in St. Paul last summer by Senator La Follette.

Since last September the charges and the senatorial investigation have been hanging fire. For various reasons all efforts to make way for final action have failed. Several times the committee has been called together to attempt some action and there has been no quorum.

For the last few months Senator Fomerone has declined to ask the committee to act because of the serious illness of Senator La Follette's son. The senator has been constantly at his bedside. For the last three months Senator La Follette has not been in the senate chamber nor in his office, but has spent his entire-time with his son.

He has made a study of the malady with which the youth is suffering and, according to the physicians it is the most delicate case of the father that has kept the son alive. The chances of the lack of a quorum were in sight today although the committee call has been out for several days. Senator Reed of Missouri, in his home state and Senator James of Kentucky is in the city. A question whether several members of the committee will be able to be present.

Reports have been circulated to the effect that the Troy Laundry is not doing their "bit" toward the Red Cross and war work. The management of the laundry wishes the public to know that they have subscribed to all government drives and are ready to give their share in the one opening next week. The Troy Laundry has done its "bit" and stands ready to do more when called upon.

THE LAST MAD RUSH OF CORNERED LEOPARD

Unless all signs fail, the German military machine is prepared to risk everything on a single cast of the die or rather on three simultaneous casts of dice, consisting of tremendous, titanic assaults on the French and Italian fronts and on the sea as outlined by Henry G. Wales, I. N. S. staff correspondent in London in THE TIMES Tuesday or at least a double blow, as suggested by Fjord Macguffin, the other I. N. S. staff correspondent in the English capital in THE TIMES Monday. Despatches from London this morning regarding a naval concentration at Kiel indicate that the first hypothesis is probably the correct one.

Apparently victorious to some extent, and in certain ways to a great extent, the Junker class must and does realize that unless it can gain a strategic triumph it must speedily yield the most far-reaching reforms at home and the most tremendous concessions abroad.

For the tension in the central empires must be awful. Emperor Charles has yielded all that was demanded by the kaiser. This, in itself, is a symptom of desperation. For Charles is no willing captive and the Hun chariot. Last year, having internal upheaval and confronted with the possible alternative of revolution or abandoning the kaiser and making peace with the allies, he chose the latter, but failed to make concessions enough to win peace. At that time, Neumann, the German economist who elaborated the "MittelEuropa" (Central Europe) scheme, announced that he considered the impractical, because of the wide divergence of races in Austria to be reconciled and because their hatred to Germany would prevent its being carried into effect. Charles now yields to the pressure of the kaiser and agrees to try the perilous experiment of permitting William to force this unwelcome plan on the people of the Danubian basin. Only a few weeks ago, we heard of Austrian troops who refused to be moved to the French front, but who would fight against the Italians.

All this indicates that should victory fall to come to the central powers very soon, revolution must erupt. It means that the desperate experiment of holding out until Russia and Poland, but Austria itself in line with Prussian bayonets must be tried, if necessary. Hence, the advisability of a triple detente in Italy, France and on the sea, must seem expedient to the kaiser and his military machine.

The German grand high sea fleet would be quite as effective for Germany at the bottom of the ocean as cooped up in a harbor. When the crucial moment comes the Junkers have absolutely nothing essential to lose by a naval engagement involving either the loss of the fleet or control of the seas. The odds are overwhelmingly against them, but should they by any chance win, the final stage of the drama of war would be played on the western continent.

On the other hand, should the Germans crush the allies on both fronts, where again the odds are greatly against them, the war would still be fought to a finish in Europe, but would continue for a long time. A real German victory on either front would produce the strategic situation for several years, but in this case, too, the chances are against their success. But in the last analysis, by making any effort they have nothing to lose which they will not speedily lose through internal convulsion if they do not make an effort.

The dream of imperial control which the kaiser contemplates, entails the immediate, big, one or two prohibitions for kings under his control in surrounding nations. His plots for the virtual annexation of Russia as a subject power. His vision reaches out into Asia and across the seas into South America.

Truly hath Satan taken him up on a high mountain and shown him the kingdoms of the world and he hath fallen and adored, forgetting that the Devil had not power to deliver the promised goods.

Still, this vision of the imperial ruler must be taken into account, and what he hopes to win and what he stands to lose must be taken into account by the allied forces in considering the desperate measures to which the Teutons will resort in this campaign.

Should they fall at all points, the present war will collapse like a punctured balloon. Should they temporarily win, which is only remotely possible, but still is imaginable, the war must go on and will go on, until their final defeat; but its termination will not be in sight for years.

HUGHES APPOINTMENT FITTING

Nothing could more surely satisfy the country as to the completeness and good faith of the airplane investigation that is to be conducted by the department of justice than the appointment of Charles D. Hughes to cooperate with the attorney general and virtually control the inquiry. Leader of the Republican party by reason of the action of the last national convention, a lawyer of the greatest eminence, who won his place in the eye of the American people through ability displayed in conducting the graft investigations in New York, a former justice of supreme court of the United States, the only governor of the Empire state, he has all the ability, experience and lack of prejudice, which will enable him to go to the bottom without fear or favor.

The people of the United States will rest assured that the charges of graft will be fully probed, and will be still further confirmed regarding the good intentions of the administration.

On the other hand the presentation of the senate committee on military affairs in attempting to set itself up as a permanent committee on the conduct of war is worthy of commendation for its superlative impudence. THE TIMES last week called attention to the fact that this committee, having previously investigated the aircraft program only last month and having brought in contradictory reports, after discussing legislation to conduct further investigations, rushed in ahead when it discovered that the house committee and the office of the attorney general were both about to probe into the Borchgrevink charges, and that in so doing, Chairman Chamberlain in a statement practically gave a verdict of guilty before taking the evidence. This is in keeping with the entire attitude of the majority of that committee since last December.

At no time has it shown a disposition to be reasonably fair in its conduct. Secretary Baker announced in a letter that he had no objection to a further investigation of the aircraft charges by this committee, and notwithstanding its manifest intention to be unfair, nobody would have objected had it taken up from time to time such matters as might have come before it. But when it attempted to resolve itself into a committee on war conduct, so as to preclude investigation in fact, it not technically in theory, its attitude called for the just rebuke administered by the president.

Let the senate committee investigate the same things over and over again as often as it wishes, just as it is doing in the case of airplanes, but let other and more impartial bodies have a show.

When the investigation conducted with the assistance of Judge Hughes gets through, the country will learn the facts relative to the supposed grafting in the airplane line.

POSSIBLE EXPLANATION REGARDING MAIL DELIVERY

Burlinson blames mail delay upon the railroads, and cites recent delays of trains in support of his excuse. But the complaints of slow mail service have been prevalent for two years or more, while the railroad congestion is a matter of recent months. Delayed mail trains have been seen only in recent weeks. How will Mr. Burlinson explain the demoralized mail service prior to the train delays?—Pocatello Tribune. Without awaiting the further explanation of the subject by the postmaster general, THE TIMES takes the liberty to suggest that the volunteering of so many efficient clerks in the military service of the United States will result in a shortage of clerks in the post office. Whether true or not, it was reported that conditions last winter were so bad that westbound mail, which experienced hands would have distributed readily before arrival at Minidoka, was thrown off at that place, thrown on an eastbound train, and distribution finished going back. Thus at that point alone, delaying the mails for a whole day. At any rate, the slump which the Tribune notes correctly as taking place two years ago, began simultaneously with the calling of the guard to the southern border.

Backing the President. "Mother may I go out to swim? Yes, my charming daughter: Just hang your clothes on a hickory limb. But don't go near the water." Something like the above must be the mental terms of these unending folks who are for the president in the conduct of the war, but not for the measures which he favors as a means to that end. Of course, nobody should be a "rubber stamp" for anybody however good or great, but some men of both parties in congress and out are protesting loudly that they are standing back of the president, falling to add that while so doing they are hamstringing him, over the head with a staffed club. A bill of particulars is needed today as never before regarding the kind of backing (and filling) that aspirants intend to do regarding the war policies of President Wilson.

Two Strikes of Teamsters Over

Eight Thousand Go Back in Chicago While the Denver Men Settled Before Quitting.

CHICAGO, May 15—Eight thousand teamsters went back to work today after being out on a one day strike yesterday, during which time such government freight was held up by their action. Federal intervention brought an end to the strike and incidentally marked the first application of the provision of the new sabotage law to a strike.

This was the first time since the beginning of the war that the department of justice has interfered in a local strike. It lacked authority until the new sabotage law went into effect on April 29.

Action from Washington came quickly when it was learned that striking teamsters were holding up transportation of war supplies. "Must" messages read to the leaders of the strike from Washington soon brought about an agreement and the matter of settling grievances will be taken up later.

DENVER, Colo., May 15—The general strike of teamsters employed by grocers, department stores and others, called for 8:00 o'clock this morning, was settled after the strike had been in effect less than an hour. Employers agreed an agreement granting the men's demands and they returned to work immediately. Settlement of the strike of local transfer company drivers was expected in progress for two weeks is expected later today.

The younger set of the city will hold a "May Dance" or formal ball in Collin hall Friday night.

Seepage.—A meeting was held in the farm bureau yesterday afternoon to discuss the seepage problem. Those at the meeting later attended the board meeting of the canal company. The directors stated that there were not sufficient funds at hand to carry on the work as it should be done. Men of the county asked that money might be borrowed for the purpose, but the measure has not as yet been decided.

Alken, and a group of other prominent local Masons will give the last night of the annual gathering of the higher Masonic bodies on the eighth of May at the Elks lodge. The number of those who will be at least seventy-five, altogether, awaiting initiation.

The Greater Twin Falls Club had an impromptu arrangement for a lunch at the Rogerson hotel at 12:45 this afternoon. Dr. E. J. Adams presided at the elegant Salt Lake City dining room to deliver the address at the commencement held at the club on Friday evening, and who had just arrived on the noon train, accepted an impromptu speech. About seventy of our business and professional men were present and the whole affair, as is so common with us here, was impromptu, proved a great success.

An interesting letter.—Among a great collection of sources, notes and curios to be seen at the rooms of Judge W. J. Smith, on South Main street, is a copy of the "Congress Gazette," published at Kingston, Ulster Co., N. Y., January 4, 1860. The paper, which the judge has framed, bears a glass back and so that it can be read without injury. It is a curiosity, sure enough. It consists of four pages of four columns each, and no type appears anywhere larger than plain. The first page gives an address of thanks from Congress to President John Adams for a speech delivered in both houses of Congress at the opening of the session. The "latest" account from a war then in progress between France and England and her allies—the "English account of the battle of Zurich," fought not so far from the present battle lines. Europe. Some idea of what time has done will be gained from the fact that this battle took place on August 27, 1799, and this was the first printed account in America and appeared January 1, 1860. Also from the fact that an attack by "at least 6,000 men and cannon" called an "overwhelming force." The advertisements are as queer as the rest. "Out of them announces that 'A red bull' was stranded on both horns. B. P. T." has gone astray and naïvely adds: "Any person having taken up the said bull will be thanked by giving information thereof to the printers." Newspaper men often make a "bull," but seldom has one made a "bull" now-a-days; and in any event, "thanks" seems to have been a better currency a hundred years ago than at present.

The meeting of district chairman for the pending Red Cross drive, as enumerated in Tuesday's TIMES, was held at the Perrine that evening, with every district represented except Rogerson. Headquarters for the drive was established at the Perrine hotel, where suitable room was kindly tendered. A series of meetings at points outside this city were arranged for and the matter taken in charge by Mr. Hal G. Blue—those for this week being announced above.—Dr. A. H. Brand undertakes to see that the cause is remembered in the city churches next Sunday, and four-minute speeches at the theatre was placed in the hands of Judge J. E. Davies, who reports the following for this week:

Idaho—Thursday, H. G. Glass; Friday, E. M. Sweeley; Orphum—Thursday, E. V. Larson; Friday, Guy Hinnay.

Chairman W. B. Priole has organized the Twin Falls district by the appointment of eight supervisors for the army and two for each of the other school districts; and has called a meeting of all of them, together with the entire corps of city workers, at the Perrine hotel tomorrow (Friday) evening at 8 o'clock. The county chairman and manager will also be present, and after stimulating enthusiasm by a "feel" detailed plans for the work will be formulated and all minor assignments and arrangements announced.

The county and district chairmen—in fact all who are giving their time and best efforts to the work—might as well call a demand—that all our people, collectively and individually, make their interest in the matter manifest. Nothing begets enthusiasm like enthusiasm; and this is the time for everybody to get enthusiastic and to show it. Flags and badges may be had at headquarters; and it is especially requested that during next week, Red Cross flags float everywhere from the homes, from places of business, from autos—everywhere! Altogether—Let's Go!

NEW YORK, May 16.—Major league club owners and managers are greatly disturbed over the activities of agents representing several shipbuilding concerns who have made bold attempts to lure away star players.

Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, believes a thorough investigation should be made.

"I believe organized baseball owes it to itself to find out what inducements are being made to players," said Huggins today. "Many of them have been asked to take up shipbuilding in advance of their draft call by the government, and the thing has grown to be a far more among some of the players. It is demoralizing some ball clubs in both big leagues."

The national commission has made it plain that organized baseball cannot give too many of her sons to active service, and if we were assured that the men who go to shipyards were going there in built ships rather than as ball players and star boarders, we would have a greater sense of satisfaction over it."

LONDON, May 16.—Vienna is greatly perturbed over the growth of the Jugo-Slav movement, according to information from a Serbian source published in the Globe last evening. The Austrian government is doing everything possible to sow distrust among the promoters of the movement.

A Serbian political group, headed by Dr. Pucar, has been formed to create a Croatian state within Austria. This is irreconcilable with the Jugo-Slav ideal and the Slovene are denouncing the party for its activities.

The Jugo-Slav movement is for a union of Slavs in one great state that would embrace Serbia and part of the territory now controlled by Austria. The effect of the Jugo-Slav movement is for a "greater Serbia."
