Huns Aiming Blows in General Direction of Paris and Making Terrific Drive Against the British Lines—Another Great Stroke Impending in Flanders Is Belief—Crown Prince Sends Men to Slaughter With Reckless Disregard of the Lives of His Soldiers.

So far there has been no slackening in the German pressure against the Franco-British lines on the Aisne river front—where the Germans launched their "surprise offensive" on Monday morning—but the allied lines are holding intact.

There have been retreatments by both the British and French but they were carried out in perfect order despite the frantic effort of the boches to break through.

By a series of powerful but costly assaults west of the British held sector the Germans have succeeded in forcing a crossing of the Aisne river (probably in the district of Pont Arcy).

New battles are developing all along the 33 mile front from Brimont (which is north of Rheims) to the sector of the forest of Pionon between seven and eight miles north of Soissons. It seems, however, that the Germans are exerting their strongest pressure south of the Chemin des Dames at the point where their battle line lies nearest the Aisne river.

Evidently the Germans are attempting a flanking operation against the British army which reinforced the French in this new important theatre of combat in the hope of separating the allied forces.

A salient extends into the German lines north of Rheims, the apex of which (Berry au Bac) is held by the British forces, or was held by them at last reports.

The British front which has been bearing sledge hammer blows with traditional gallantry, originally extended from Bernicourt, which is five miles north of Rheims, across the Aisne river at Berry au Bac to Craonneville, according to Monday night's report of the British war office.

This gave the British approximately ten miles of front to hold, but since the Fifth British retirement, it is likely that the British line has been shortened and condensed for strategic reasons until it is now less than ten miles long.

Berry au Bac, which lies on the Aisne river, is about four miles from Bernicourt. Craonneville is approximately six miles west of Berry au Bac. Pont Arcy, to which sector the French retired, is from six to seven miles southwest of Craonneville, but only about four miles due south from the Chemin des Dames fighting front as it extended yesterday morning. Pont Arcy is twenty miles east of Soissons and sixty miles northeast of Paris.

In view of the efforts which the Germans have been making—aiming their blows in the general direction of Paris—there is little doubt that the boches intend to carry out a drive no less vigorous than those launched on the Pionon and Flanders fronts.

At the same time it is believed that another great stroke is impending in Flanders. The British war office reported today that there has been a renewal of local operations in the hill country east of Lake Dieubouche (in Belgium southwest of Ypres), where the Teutons are striving for high ground now held by the French.

For the time being all public interest centers in the situation on the Aisne to the exclusion of comparatively minor events in the north.

The German crown prince is employing enormous numbers of men and heavy masses of men and is sacrificing his soldiers with characteristic German brutality and callousness.

This was the 69th day of the German grand offensive—which has now developed into a triple drive—and the second day of the Aisne offensive.

Mr. Atkinson, local chairman, announced today that Kimberly had over-subscribed the quota for the second Red Cross drive. The quota was $1700 for the two districts. Kimberly district No. 2 and Pleasant Valley school district No. 4. The total of $1984.50 was raised, of which amount the Kimberly district raised $1575.20 and the Pleasant Valley district $309.30. Over half of the amount raised was contributed in cash to the amount of $2170.90. Local officials feel well pleased, and the people in general have said that no one was requested to give very much.

SPECIAL HONOR TO LOCAL H. S. GIRL

Miss Hunt is the first post-graduate student to receive a certificate from the commercial department. This is a special privilege accorded to the local graduates only. Van Houten is the first one to take advantage of this. For some reason, though, the committee has not given the certificate in private. However, she should have the recognition of graduation, as did the rest of the students.

THE HOME RULE PROBLEM

There is under discussion in Great Britain now a scheme which has frequently been suggested here as a solution of the intractable Irish question, namely, to adopt the American plan and give to Scotland, Ireland, Wales and England each a separate legislature, kindred to those which exist in our several states, with the parliament of London to continue only for such purposes as touch the empire.

Such central-organics might propose to include England, Canada from Australia, from India. Thereby all local matters would be relegated to the local law-making body just as the legislatures of our states are for the people of the respective states. In all matters of purely state interest, Congress or our parliament would be the government of the 45 subdivisions which we style independent states. Neither would the imperial parliament in the Thames interfere with local government in Ireland or Scotland or Wales or England.

There is just as much reason for according home rule to the Scotch as to the Irish, just as much reason for Wales to claim separate entity as for Ireland. The British Empire, since 17th century. It is best for the British empire to continue, with the right of its component parts to exercise self-government in all matters not distinctly cognate to the government of the whole.

Ireland would not be better off were she to be cast adrift from the association of her neighbors. She would still be materially dependent upon them. The old notion that the English people are holding the Celtae as a subject race is passing. The old notion that because the people differ in color and belief they cannot live in harmony is not in consonance with this age of religious liberty.

Germany is proud of her Irish citizenship. If they can live harmoniously among the descendants of Englishmen here, they assuredly can continue so to do at home. Superior nationality for other Scotland, Wales, Ireland or England is pure sentimentality—Penderic Tribune.

THE WISDOM OF THE FOOLHARDY

(By V. G. Beckman)
History is composed largely of foolishness, plain and simple, and the twentieth century is no exception. One of the craziest things done in the name of humanity, Germany has long boasted to the world of her superior wisdom, and the rest of the world was for a long time foolish enough to believe her boasts, but now we see things in a different light.

Germany teaches that a nation becomes greatest when the so-called upper class of its citizens dominate the interests and ambitions of the masses, and calls that wisdom. It seems that a child could understand that a nation would become greater if the superior class were to give their power to the end that the inferior man might be uplifted and given a chance to grow. Surely there is greater strength when poor and rich, learned and simple co-operate in furthering the interests of each other. Germany calls it wisdom and "Kultur" and the weaker, to break her sacred trusts, to mislead and mislead nations. Now she is called the wisdom of the fool.

Russia, break treaties with her, humiliate, and embarrass her. "Germany's ruthless methods are increasing the conviction that the Bolsheviks betrayed Russia into arranging the "made in Berlin" peace, and there would be little surprise should another very sudden change in government come in Russia." Perhaps when Russia robs under the yoke of Prussia, and the Allies have put Hitler to flight, and the Kaiser's imaginary world monarch crumbles beneath the reality of defeated ambitions, and the American superiority in affairs of war as well as affairs of peace, and General Goetz's superior intellect backed by a great internationalism have proven to the world that democracy and freedom united is stronger than the strongest autocracy, Germany will observe she was not so wise after all.

The TIMES is an Independent Democratic newspaper; but it knows no politics as opposed to the most unaided and vigorous prosecution of the war that is possible. Therefore, it is AGAIN any man, Democrat or Republican, caught throwing hardware into the machinery—either with his hands or with his mouth. If this be "partisan," make the most of it.

THE BOISE SEEN EXPONDS

The Twin Falls Times, speaking for that minority which voted for Mr. Nugent for the nomination in 1914, thinks that Governor Hawley should have a clear field for the nomination for the short term when the election of Governor Hawley's friends there has never been a time when he was not the overwhelming choice of the party membership and they think that he is still the choice of a large majority of the party and are willing to put that issue to a vote. The fact that the wishes of a large majority of the Democrats were set aside in the appointment of the present payment of a political debt does not give such fearful momentum to what The Times calls "the horrid proposition" as to saddle Senator Nugent to a clear field, when a majority of the voters favored another man before this "horrid" act in its work. The Times' editor having favored the nomination of Mr. Nugent over Governor Hawley in 1914 still favors him, but in the vote of a large majority of the party the friends of Governor Hawley have not the least doubt that the vote of confidence given in the primaries to two candidates for governorship and in one for the senatorship will again be accorded to Idaho's Grand Old Man.

In any event the contest is on and the Democratic masses will speak for themselves—The New Freedom.

The above editorials are in view of the facts in the case should acquit the New Freedom of all culpability in any instance wherein its facts and acts seemed rather unorthodox and unorthodox, and it should be given a clean bill of health on the grounds of incapability of ascertaining real conditions, as all its statements are due to be as far from the facts as those relative to the TIMES. The real truth of the matter is that the editor who is placed in the Nugent column in 1914 did not set foot in the Gem state until October 23 of that year, about two months after the primary election contest referred to, and a few days before the election; at which he was not, of course, a voter.

The present general manager of the TIMES was then a resident of the state but for a short time and took no part on either side in the contest, neither did now owning a majority of The TIMES' stock nor those constituting a majority of the directorate of the company. The institution, whether intentional or not, that the TIMES' took part in the Democratic fight in 1914 is peculiarly annoying, since the paper was then owned entirely by a different set of men from those now owning it, its entire editorial and managerial forces were different and it was owned by Republicans and run as a straight Republican paper. Consequently it took no part in the Democratic rumpus. Nor does The TIMES now represent the minority which voted for Nugent in the primaries that year. Nobody outside the general manager was consulted regarding the publication of the editorial in which the paper took its stand in favor of the nomination of Senator Nugent this fall. The TIMES had absolutely no personal feeling in this contest and has none. It is in favor of the Democrat who can command the most votes to retain the senatorship, provided that he is in favor in the concrete as well as in the abstract, of the policies national and international, of Woodrow Wilson. It knows that Senator Nugent is and assumes that Governor Hawley would be in favor of the Wilson policies. Hence, when the matter of an appointment to fill the short term was before the governor the paper took no stand for or against either. It believed that Governor Alexander was in position to judge between two great Democrats. It believes that it is a better position to judge the feeling of the voters of Idaho than any man whether pro-Nugent or pro-Hawley who have been through three contests in the past. These contests were no doubt important enough while taking place, but they are past and none and of no more significance so far as the great policies of government now at stake, than the question of who discovered the north pole. The TIMES cares nothing about such trivial historical things. The great majority of the rank and file of the Democratic party are nothing about them. We have talked to enough Democrats to know that. The result of the primary of 1914 was important at the time, but as an index to present conditions it is about as reliable as the statement of "facts" in the New Freedom.

The TIMES is making no fight on Governor Hawley. It has nothing but kind words to say for him personally as a great Democrat. It will not be led into a contest of personalities with small men or small newspapers. The issues involved today are too great to allow such trifling things to count. It regards as absurd the assertion that any sort of courtesy should impel Senator Nugent to do the unprecedented thing which the New Freedom says that he ought to do; stop out of the line where he is to take place in another line; even though Governor Hawley for a perfectly honest purpose announced that he would adopt such innovation were he appointed for the short term. It is convinced that Senator Nugent who is a Democrat of unquestioned ability and probity, and who is elected by the administration, can be ousted beyond a doubt, if nominated, and is convinced that the majority of the Democrats believe as this paper does that such being the case it would be quite improper to turn him out of the short term senatorship which he holds and give the nomination to another, however good or able. If the New Freedom is right in its implication that an overwhelming majority of the Democrats of Idaho are going to vote to do this very unusual thing, why, of course, Hawley will be nominated, and The TIMES will support him against whomever is nominated to oppose him, which will be Governor Gooding.

For The TIMES' faith in the correctness of the New Freedom propositions has been materially weakened by its apocryphal history of The TIMES activities. It does not believe that "the sinister forces" working against Gooding's nomination, of which the New Freedom speaks with an emphasis, can defeat for nomination the efforts which this paper and others are making to pick for the Republicans the man whom they will be the strongest candidate to run against Hawley if he is nominated. And for the same and other reasons The TIMES shall not believe until shown that the Democratic voters will defeat Nugent in the primaries.

Indiana Point of Political Focus

Senator Harry New Will Make Keynote Speech Which Will be Watched With Interest.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The political eyes of the nation this week will be focused on Indiana.

On Wednesday the Republican state convention will assemble at Indianapolis, with Senator Harry New, former chairman of the Republican national committee, giving the keynote speech.

The Democrats will watch every move made in Indianapolis as it will furnish a line on the tactics to be adopted by the Republicans.

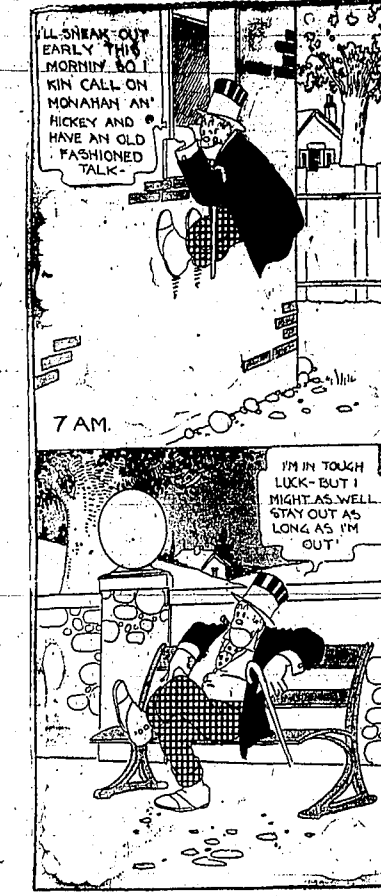

State Republican leaders everywhere will also watch the proceedings closely so as to keep step. Particularly so in the case of the Indiana convention because of the fact that this is the home of Wm. H. Hays, chairman of the Republican national committee.

Whatever tactics are adopted at this convention will undoubtedly have the endorsement of Hays, who has a great deal of interest in the platform, because it will show the disposition of the Republican party towards using the war and its conduct as a basis in the coming campaign and the campaigns that will follow up to 1920 when there will be a presidential election.

Senator Harry New, former chairman of the Republican national committee, will make the keynote speech of the convention. Senator New has been one of the most active members of the Indiana state committee for many months and has plenty of material on the conduct of the war to be used as a party issue. If he feels disposed to give the keynote speech at the convention and speak.

Members of congress who have campaigned on their hands are slowly getting into action. It is expected that the Indiana convention will start the political ball in motion and that June will see campaigns well under way in the many states.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 23.—Indiana Republicans frocked here today for the annual state convention which will open in the state house tonight. The 1886 delegates will meet for business and will start the preparation for the opening of the convention in Indianapolis hall at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

speakers scheduled to address the convention performed on her new night morning.

The convention will nominate candidates for state auditor, secretary of state, attorney general, clerk of the supreme court, state geologist, two judges of the supreme court and two judges of the appellate court.

O. E. Carlson, county commissioner of Inyo, who is in the hospital and is expected home tomorrow.

Walter F. Graham, formerly clerk in the Twin Falls postoffice, has gone to Callonia to make his home.

A. L. Swin has been ill the last few days with a severe attack of tonsillitis, but is really improved today.

Mrs. W. H. Patton will leave tomorrow morning for Shook, Kansas, where she will spend the summer with relatives and friends.

Mrs. Charles H. Mull and children will leave tomorrow morning for a six weeks visit in Kansas, where they have friends and relatives.

L. T. Wright, manager of the Consolidated Wagon and Machine company, went overland to Kemmer, Wis., Saturday, to attend to business matters.

Miss Helen Strober and Miss Stella Quinn, accompanied by Miss Quinn's mother, will motor to Salt Lake tomorrow where they expect to remain for two or three weeks.

Paul Hinchliff, who has been attending the Iowa State Agricultural College, is stopping in Twin Falls for a few days looking over the work of the local farm bureau, and is enroute to his home in New Plymouth, Idaho.

Mrs. R. A. Baker returned Saturday from Grant Falls, Montana, after a nice week's visit with her daughter and family. The friends of her son-in-law, T. H. Reed, will be glad to hear that he is much better, having been very ill with pneumonia.

Hoover Appeals For Wheat Saving

Situation With Reference to Flour and Wheat Most Tense of Any, Declares United States Food Administrator.

The following appeal for food conservation was received last Saturday by Food Administrator C. E. Munn, from National Administrator Hoover, through state administrator Dieckhoff, to be read in the churches Sunday and published thereupon.

"The confidence of the United States food administration that the people of the country would respond enthusiastically and whole-heartedly upon presentation of the facts to any necessary request for reducing the consumption of food has been fully justified. We have demonstrated our ability not only to think together but to act together. The response of the people is the reason for the present appeal.

"Our work is not yet completed. In spite of the encouraging results of our efforts, in spite of the fact that our exports of foodstuffs are constantly increasing and are approaching the minimum requirements abroad, the need for renewed devotion and effort is pressing. While the requirements of the food administration should be constantly observed there are certain matters which I desire to stress at this time.

"In the case of meat and meat products the necessities for equipment increasing and are approaching the minimum requirements abroad, the need for renewed devotion and effort is pressing. While the requirements of the food administration should be constantly observed there are certain matters which I desire to stress at this time.

"The situation with regard to wheat is the most serious in the food supply of the Allied world. If we are to satisfy the minimum wheat requirements of our armies and the Allies and the suffering millions in the Allied countries, our consumption of wheat in the United States until the next harvest must be reduced to approximately one-third of normal. It is inconceivable that we should fail in this crisis. For each of us who can personally contribute to the relief of human suffering it is a privilege, not a sacrifice. All elements of our population cannot bear this burden equally. Those engaged in physical labor need a larger bread ration than those in the sedentary occupations. Those of the constant daily employment of women and the lack of home baking facilities many require a food ration already prepared such as the baker's standard Victory bread loaf. Furthermore we must constantly maintain the special requirements of the children and invalids."

"To meet the situation abroad, and to prevent serious suffering at home, it is imperative that all those whose circumstances permit shall abstain from wheat and wheat products in any form until the next harvest. It is realized and deeply appreciated that many organizations and some communities have already agreed to follow this plan.

FILM STAR'S SON PREFERS HANDLING GAMING ACTORS

Klute Baggett, the veteran dramatic favorite of the screen, took his star-year-old hopeful to see the first episode of the serial "The Girl in the Red Dress" which he is being starred, and after the performance, questioned the child as follows: "Well, son, how do you enjoy your daddy's acting?" The little Baggett turned a candid look upon his father. "I like Charlie Chaplin much better," he replied. The reason for this natural preference can be understood by anyone fortunate enough to obtain a seat at the Orpheum theatre where "A Dog's Life," the first of Charlie Chaplin's new $1,000,000 comedies, will be shown today for the last time.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Formal notification of the withdrawal of Mexico's diplomatic representatives from Cuba was received by the Mexican embassy today from the secretary of the foreign affairs. The notices differed in no material particular from those previously received by cable and there were no new developments in the situation here today. The feeling here was that the step little affects the United States.

CHINESE NOYAK NO NOTICE WITH ANKERS

CHICAGO, May 27.—What to do with the Chinese is bothering the police authorities considerably here. That she is a combination of a French "blue devil" and "Judy of Hell" is the conviction of all who have attempted to deal with her. She is in the county jail today for want of a better place. Since her arrest for shooting she has knocked out two detectives, taken the gun away from another, knocked out a court bailiff and sent a man rushing for police court who got out there to marry him. She was taken to the House of Good Shepherd and before being there five minutes started a riot. She tore nearly all the clothes off the matron before she was overpowered.

OLDEST DYNASTY IN WORLD

Distinction Undoubtedly Belongs to the Reigning House of Japan—Began With Emperor Jimmu.

The present Japanese dynasty is by far the oldest in the world, for Yoshitomo claims to be the one hundred twenty-second monarch of an unbroken line, dating from the second century before the Christian era, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. The early history of Nippon, as recorded in the holy book, Shinto, begins with the dynasty of the gods and is wholly mythical in nature. The dawn of real history begins with the reign of Jimmu Tenno, whose memory is revered today by all the sons of Nippon.

Jimmu the Great forced the savage tribes to accept civil institutions and extended his beneficent sway over the entire country. He established his capital at Kioto. He formulated a code of laws, established courts, encouraged industry, and laid the foundation for that marvelous advance made by the Japanese during the nineteenth century.

The title of mikado, which means "monarch," was derived from Jimmu. From the days of this ruler Japanese power in the Orient increased. The successors of Jimmu—the great emperor himself, were not without success in war. Women were never excluded from the succession in the throne, and there are many famous empresses in the history of Japan.

JUST WHAT BECAME OF POND

Foolish Questioner, It Is to Be Supposed, Was Satisfied With Explanation Offered Him.

Speaking at a dinner, Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois referred to the propensity of some people for asking foolish questions, and told the following story:

"One day a city man happened in a country community, and while mulling around he ran across a depression in the earth covering several acres. Some people, as he concluded the native clime, and was told that it was the bed of a lost lake.

"You don't really mean it?" returned the city man. "Whatever became of all the water?"

"It was this way," readily explained the native. "There was a picnic out here last August, and when night came on they had nearly a barrel of pretzels left, which they didn't want to cart home, so they threw them in the lake."

"Yes, I see," interjected the other as the native paused, "but what had that to do with it?"

"Everything," answered the native. "The fish ate them, and the salty diet made them so thirsty that they drank all the water."

Women in Britain Cut Logs

A quarter of a million women in England are now working more or less regularly on the land, says the London Observer. The great majority are village women who go out from their cottages and work for the farmers. Seven thousand are in the new Land army, which employs women who are recruited for a certain term and sends them wherever they are required.

The women in the Land army enlist either for twelve or six months. In case of twelve months they receive two complete outfits free, consisting of a dress, corduroy breeches, atrop boots, leggings, overalls and hat. They also get for the year one year's laundry, a hat, a sack, a pair of overalls and a pair of shoes. Their pay on the farm ranges from $2 to $5 a week.

For a girl who joins the army for six months there is no training. She goes straight away to the land and begins on the work requiring little or no special training. The women in the land army are available for timber cutting and hay making.

The Goose That Walked

A Canadian soldier, whilst serving on the western front, received a parcel containing amongst other articles, portions of a cooked goose as a special luxury. By an error, the parcel was sent on to Italy to another sector of the same unit. In the fullness of time it was returned to France, having been some weeks on the trip. The soldier, on getting home, recently said: "I had a big surprise today for the parcel you posted to me in November last turned up in great style, having performed the latter part of the journey to God. When I opened up enough courage to open it the noble bird simply turned fairs and departed at the double. I should not have been so stupid as to believe that the walking journey round Italy and France."

Limited Choice of "Ginks"

The late Father Stanton, one of the most loved Anglican prelates of the latter part of the nineteenth century, once entered into a conversation with a visitor to St. Alban's, Holborn, who had attended the service for the first time. Stanton asked him what he thought of the service. The stranger replied that he liked it very well except the "incense," to the use of which he strongly objected.

"An sorry for you, my friend," said Mr. Stanton.

"The other, not unnaturally, asked "Why?"

"Well, you see," said Mr. Stanton, "there are only two sticks in the next world—incense and brimstone—and you must take your choice between."

Though Within Few Miles of Great Battle, U. S. Officers Knew Less of It Than We at Home

NEWTON C. PARKE (U. S. Staff Correspondent) WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN PICARDY, April 25 (By mail)—All day today—in fact for the last forty-eight hours—one of the big battles in this great war in the history of the world has been raging just miles from the village where headquarters of a certain American organization find their temporary American officers leaving their mess in an almost deserted two-story village tonight saw the flashes of gunfire in a wide crescent curve along the horizon. The windows of the ramshackle old house in which I am writing this dispatch by flickering candle light shone just over the heavy rubble from the hell of fire only thirty minutes since, actually now.

Yet we were within a few miles of that great battle actually know less of what has happened along that curving line of fire in the last twenty-four hours than somebody's butcher in San Francisco, a merchant in Pekin, China, or the newspaper readers of Sydney, Australia.

The wireless failed today. The French, British and German communications daily picked from the air failed to come through the fog for some reason designated by the wireless men as "interference." Three newspapers printed in Paris at midnight last night and brought to our town by automobile from a neighboring city at sunset tonight furnished news of activities up to last night. The British had held on to the last twenty-four hours had fallen back slightly at another.

This is all we know. And four hours ago every newspaper reader in the United States had digested the official statements and the news stories from the British and French fronts that we do so eagerly seeking.

Tidians of Chile. The Araucanians are the primitive race of Chile, and one of the finest of all the American Indian tribes. Although the remaining Indians are victims of the government but unlike those in this country, the tribe is said never to have been formally conquered.

Furthermore, the blood of the Araucanians is widely disseminated and great to the Chilean people their distinctive character. The Twin Falls Times has all the latest news up to the time of going to press—fresh from the loaves wire which is employed in our office.

DYING, GIVES ALL 90 U. S.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 27—'I am going to die in a few weeks,' said a man plainly broken in health as he signed a bill on the contract of a Liberty loan bank here. 'I drew that money out of the bank to go to Uncle Sam. I don't want bonds—the money is a gift. The doctor has told away without leaving his name.

CAN'T ALWAYS SIZE THEM UP

Former Acquaintance One Meets in New York Must Not Be Judged by Their Appearance.

You never can tell who is who when you meet them in the White Light section. The other night a Pittsburgher ran into a former Street Cityite who was wandering along the big line. He wasn't so glad to see him, as he feared a "tough," because back home the man never seemed prosperous, neither was he down and out. His appearance hadn't changed since his residence here.

"How long have you been living in New York?" asked the visitor.

"Oh, about three years," replied the former resident.

"Then you know the town pretty well?" was the next query.

The former Pittsburgher admitted that he did, and gave the visitor some advice and warning about the big city. He listened. Then he asked: "What are you doing here, Bill?"

"Working for a bank down town," replied the other man.

The Pittsburgher didn't press his claims for details. He thought that Bill had one of those jobs down town where one is cleared so as to be able to stand the wealth of the nation—do of first upon the fountain's brink.

"What you take lunch with me?" he asked, and Bill said he would be delighted to accept the offer.

The next day the Pittsburgher went to a bank down town to see about a check of a friend of his which had gone astray. "You will have to take the cashier," he was told, and there was the former Street City man. He was in an office marked "private" on the door and his name in gold on the side of the door. He was cashing one of the largest banks in the world.

CAN WIN BATTLES AT HOME

Housewife Finds Joy in Thought That She is Helping to Defeat the Hated Boche.

"It's a funny thing," said the Man to his wife the other night, "you used to be the cooing as I remember it. Breaking a new man in was always a time of great trial and tribulation. But every night I come home to dinner you come from the kitchen and say as though you hated the waster-plees you have evolved long enough to greet your hard-working husband properly. What's the reason?"

"What?" said the wife of her husband. "It's like this. It's a sort of game. I may not ever see any fighting, but I feel that out there in the kitchen we are helping France, England and, last but not least, our own blessed boys. Every time I make a loaf of rye bread I feel like waving a flag. Every time I make my allowance stretch a little bit I feel as though I had won a battle. And so I have. I've beaten old General Highcostliving. Every time I squeeze my War Savings stamp out of the food allowance I feel that I personally have won a shot at the Boche."

"Good girl," and the Man patted his wife gently. "Since I can't go and we have no one to give the best we can do to play the game over here as though we were!"

Dog's Death Led to Suicide.

Mrs. Margaret Dugdale, wife of Norman Dugdale, J. P., of Buhl, Minn., near Blackburn, was found dead with a bullet wound in her forehead in a field near the grave of her favorite dog, which had been destroyed on account of old age. Depression caused by its loss was suggested at the inquest as the cause of her suicide, says Lloyd's News, London. When found she was grasping a humane cattle killer, at her feet was a mallet with which she had discharged the weapon, and a loaded revolver was in a basket near her. She had fired a mirror to the fence, and a note pinned to her dress gave instructions for the disposal of her body. Mr. Dugdale said he thought the dog's death, which his wife had taken great pains to hasten was the cause of the tragedy, and the jury's verdict was that Mrs. Dugdale shot herself while of unsound mind.

Sardines Shortage Expected.

Shortage of sardines this spring is expected to result from the severity of the past winter. Storms and great masses of floating ice have destroyed hundreds of sardine vessels, according to Henry S. Culver, United States consul at New Brunswick, who says in a commerce report that even the vessels wholly destroyed are so badly damaged that it will not be possible to use them this spring.

There will be practically no catch of sardines this spring on the New Brunswick coast. The water is too cold in condition for use until summer, and the catch for the year will probably be smaller than in any recent years. The past winter is said to have been the worst for the New Brunswick country his seen in 40 years.

Tibet Takes Up War Game.

Tibet is engaged in a footing expedition, just as she has been centuries. She has invaded Szechuan, a border state of China. The only significant this has during the present world war, according to the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, is that some thousands years before Solomon was born, Tibet hunted of a high state of civilization, as did her neighbor Szechuan. But signs of warfare have made Tibet the domain of half savage marauders. Tibet boasts the sacred city of Lhasa, the seat of official Buddhism, which peculiar art, religion and high pretensions are mixed in incoherent confusion.
