

Hun Advance Within a Few Miles of Scene of Great Defeat in 1914

OFFENSIVE DEMANDED BY LONDON TELEGRAPH MILITARY EXPERT

LONDON, May 31.—Forty German divisions are engaged in the present German offensive, the Daily Sketch estimated today. The next two days, the newspaper said, may see changes in the battle front. The Daily Telegraph military critic wants the allies to take the offensive. "Only one form of action is worth discussing now," he says. "In order to snatch victory the allies must at any cost abandon the defensive and strike at the vital arteries connecting the German posts."

VENT HATRED ON NAVAL PRISONERS

Huns Reserve Their Worst for British Seamen.

TOO HORRIBLE TO PRINT

Sentinel and Guards Encouraged to Punish Summary—Prisoners Being on Bars for Release From Burling Call Are 'Prodded Back' With Bayonets—'The Tree,' a Form of Torture Worse Than Anything Known to Inquisition.

Horrible as are many of the tales which have been published of German brutality to prisoners of war, there are many others still more harrowing if they could only be printed. And the worst tales of all could be told of the treatment of naval prisoners. Fortunately these prisoners are comparatively few in number, but the Boche hatred of their enemies vents itself, for reasons which probably seem good to them, in various measures against the British.

I have been permitted to read some letters from English seamen which somehow have escaped the eyes of the German censors. Some of the stories are so horrible that I do not dare to quote them. They are horrible beyond description, says a writer in the New York Herald.

The silliest of stories or vermin laudatory have been known to the "English seamen" from the sea.

Guards Laugh as Men Die.

Were it not for the parcels of food sent from England by the prisoners and sent to them by the British, they could not possibly live, and even the best of that food often never reaches them. To complain is to risk punishment for insubordination. Sentinels and guards are encouraged by their officers to punish a summary, without any charge or sending them up for court-martial, which is always a farce anyway. And those sentinels, who would seem to be men selected for their lack of sympathy are never slow in taking advantage of opportunities that present themselves of inflicting the most inhuman tortures on their prisoners.

Picture a cat walking fire. Picture the prisoners beating on the bars for release. And picture the sentry, with a sadistic laugh, "sitting" them through the bars with his bayonet. That is what actually happened to two men. And their deaths were officially recorded as having been due to asphyxiation.

It recalls a story I recently heard in the American Y. M. C. A. at Espigo Bay, where a British officer, who had killed a brutal Hun who killed a helpless wounded English soldier by sticking his bayonet again and again into his body, laughing and gloating over the blood as it dripped from the blade.

The naval prisoners of war are forced to work in coal mines, labor for which they are totally untrained. Diseases and hardships are their lot. They do not infrequently receive beatings. But what do the German slave drivers care? The class of work, however, to which they delight in putting the naval prisoners is the most degrading of all. Naturally they rebel. But it is no use! For refusal means for them one of the most terrible of punishments, or tortures—"the tree"—a method of execution which recalls the days of the Inquisition.

Torture of "The Tree."

Here is how the punishment of "the tree" is described in plain and simple language in a prisoner's letter home. "A big lot of these rods, the camp guard surrounded the men (who had refused to work on munition making) and started pushing and shoving them about, and digging them with their bayonets. They were charged, and could speak English, told them that they were only prisoners of war, that they would have to put up with what they could get and do as they were ordered. I saw give them five minutes to get to work or be wound order them to be shot."

"The men were literally starving, so that nearly all gave in. They were marched back to work in which they were ordered to get to work by ten o'clock at night."

"But 24 men remained on the parade ground, refusing to make shells to kill their own people. They were not shot. They were surrounded by the sentry to the wood and ordered them to be tied to trees. Some were tied up, crucifix fashion; some were hung by one leg or one arm; some were made to stand on stools while their hands were tied to trees above their heads. Then the stools were kicked away from under them and they were left hanging at the mercy of the mosquitoes, and the sentry would stand prodding them with their bayonets."

"After a time the German captain came round to view his glorious work. Finding one of our fellows in a faint, he caught him and set him on his feet in the face. Then he ordered him to be cut down, and he fell in a heap on the ground. Left lying there till he came to, they tied him up again."

"After two hours of this treatment the men were made to stand on their camp and get in a bare, without either food or blankets. For three days this treatment of 'the tree' was continued. The men were slowly dying of agony until we saw them for the first time for them to trick it in any longer; so we advised them to give in."

SPEND YOUR MONEY AT HOME

Every dollar spent for goods out of town means money that is sent away for the support and building up of other communities and their industries. If you could follow the money you spend for articles imported into this community, you would find that the manufacturer is very apt to use it for the development of the city in which he is located. He is right. He is an asset to his community.

The support you give the industrial concerns in this community is a support that in the circuit of "passing it on" brings you back properly, success and progress. Not only you, but your children, whom you want to exact their careers here.

Hence, it is surely good business for all of us to "buy at home." Nothing so promotes prosperity, nothing so advances the welfare of the community as a whole as to provide a ready market for articles of home manufacture.

The Home Market is the Best Market.

By Jack Volock (Special Reporter)

NEW YORK, May 30.—Jack Dempsey is a better heavyweight champion prospect than Billy Miske.

The "Cox" laid proved his superiority in their recent ten-round bout in St. Paul and when it is figured that he met Miske under discouraging circumstances, the indicator points more strongly toward him as the better man of the two.

"Unbiased reports from the ring, too, indicate that while the bout in some ways was much slower than had been expected, it was a hammer-and-tongue affair in spots, and an uncensored account of the fight by rounds shows that Dempsey was the aggressor and did most of the heavy hitting.

Miske, fighting in his own backyard and before a home crowd, did a lot of clinching. He clinched time and again to save himself, according to a report of the fight in which the referee gave Miske a shade and the fight by rounds showed that he did not earn it. "But while trying to get an injunction to stop him from fighting, another promoter attached Dempsey's end of the gate several days before the fight. In addition to this, it is claimed, he was too stoutly trained.

The play in question resulted in the capture of the play, "pulling a John Anderson," which means stealing a base that is already occupied; and Anderson pulled the play years ago, while a member of the Browns, in a game against the Yankees.

Today Anderson is a member of the Worcester "Hustle" team, a member of the law and carries a club that is respected even more than the one he staid around, the major league for ten years.

OUR GREAT WORK IN GREATEST WAD

Those who see only the faults of the product of our part of the United States, should read the Official Press Bulletin of the Idaho State Council of Defense issued last Monday which quotes with approval the resume of the first year's activity of all branches of service by Professor Ford, delivered before the recent war conference in the capital. It says:

The record of the United States during the first year of the present war cannot be reviewed with the greatest pride by patriotic Americans. Professor Guy Stanton Ford, of the state committee on public information, demonstrated in his address to the war conference delegates. It is one that can be studied with the greatest care.

"We entered the war on April 6; there was necessity for action—things that had to be done first—what were they? With the declaration of war on April 6 the American navy, of course, was the first thing to which I turned our eyes.

The naval aeronautic corps landed June 2—some month later than the first American military unit safely connected to the front. Its strength had increased from 25,000 to 350,000 men, has armed every merchantman, every mine and every submarine, and other devices; have materially increased their number of U-boats—not a single American transport sunk in a year—an extraordinary record from the standpoint of the American navy. The battle fleet today is double that of the last year. Its armaments of all types built for the navy, they have contracts for 949 more, including 10 submarine chasers.

The next call was for legislation that would give immediate and necessary finances. The special session of the Sixty-fifth congress, in less than a month, work there equalled by the work of any other legislative body, which in normal times would have been called revolutionary. So rapidly did the acceptance of these great measures, so quiet and effective the execution, America transcended herself in the complete way in which she entered into this war. First was the selective service act, making a duty for every man to serve his country. That single act was the greatest shock the German high staff had to undergo in the war.

That America should put that bill through within two or three months and execute it to something like the extent that we have done, they never conceived—that moment put us years ahead. Taxes increased, embargoes on exports, war risk insurance, and other appropriations totaling billions of dollars went into the statute books in connection with the war.

Three great laws representing aid to Liberty bonds, which are not paralleled by what any other nation has done—even the actual aid to England and France, where securities were sometimes accepted by men making munitions and motor for the army and navy. In Germany they simply pyramided loans—accepted and re-accepted loans on first security and piling up in this way so they don't get indently all the income from all the banks and corporations and stock companies in Germany any one equiva. Fifty million dollars burden of the German government's debt at the present time. If they were to take all the income from everybody in Prussia with over $19,000 it would not pay the interest on the German debt.

It is to them to take away from Russia-Warsaw territory, leaving the cultural control of Poland to those who could never get it in this way because of their financial situation. The sale of bonds has not been done through ordinary government channels but by having a Federal Reserve bank. The Liberty Loan committee have made you part of the American government. You have never been before and which I hope you will always be from this time forward—it is the best of all things. This American government having taken into its hands by voluntary action will retain this as a part of our activities—we must never again think of our country as casual by-products but as co-oper-

WANTED TO THANK DONORS

After This, It Would Be Folly to Say That Sailors Do Not Appreciate Gifts.

Mrs. Ann Steve Richardson writes to the Women's League committee: As for knitted garments, I wish you could share even with one day at a certain naval base near New York, when the crew of a ship which had been accidentally sunk, and my very harbor entered the chaplain's office to receive their fresh supply of knitted garments.

Brutal Boches Drop Bomb on Ambulance

Almaaz Shattered American Vehicle, Causing Wounded—Almost Miraculous Escape of Its Occupants.

Bert Ford, (N. S. Staff Correspondent) WASHINGTON, May 31.—Another evidence of the inhumanity of German agents in bombing hospitals and wounded, back of the American lines were put in a German plot to return against Calixta and Giolitti as heads of the British, French and Italian governments respectively.

Three American ambulances were on the train coming from the front, and the boches bombed us and the ambulances along the entire route. I was on the front seat of the first ambulance with Private Robert A. Bowman and two other soldiers.

When we reached the outer yard of the hospital where, on turning a corner we heard the whirr of the boche machine overhead. It sounded like a sawmill. There was a terrific report, followed by a blinding flash. I woke up back of the wreckage, unharmed.

The funniest part of it was that chauffeur Bowman and both occupants of the car escaped, although the ambulance was totally wrecked. We can't account for our luck. Corporal Aubrey C. Jones, of Dallas, with Private Guy W. Showers, of Harrisburg, Pa., had two American wounded on stretchers.

One of the patients was blown into a little grocery store across the road where the front of the building had been torn away by the force of the same explosion.

The other patient received but few additional injuries. The third ambulance was being driven by Roscoe Wiley, of Madisonville, Texas, and Sergeant John W. Miller, of Alton, Texas, and they had two wounded in their car and all of them escaped injury, although the buildings across the street were totally wrecked.

"We pulled the patients out from beneath the wreckage and carried them to the hospital. A woman and two children were killed in a house across the street."

Chauffeur Wiley said: "I looked like the inside of a hot ball of mud. I thought I had been kicked by a mule."

Balked in their efforts to attack the Germans, they have extended their campaign of air frightfulness to nearly every town and hamlet between the American lines on the Western front and Paris, including Red Cross hospitals.
