FRENCH MAKE FURTHER GAINS WITH BRILLIANT COUNTER BLOWS

ALLIED RETURN STROKES GAIN STRENGTH AT EVERY POINT

German Assaults at Thierry-Paris Road Smashed-Efforts of Crown Prince to Advance on Paris Frustrated-Tentons Throw Forward New Waves in Utter Disregard of Life-Allied Re-enforcements Said to Contain American Units-Foch Maintains Two Reserve Armies.

(Frank Charlton, I. N. S. Cable Editor) Everywhere along the great Aisne-Marne battle front—where the Germans launched their latest offensive last Monday morning—the Tentons are being held at bay. Not only have all the French positions been maintained intact, but on the western flank of the salient, between the Ourcq and the Marne rivers, the Germans have been driven back at several points by a series of powerful and brilliant French counter strokes. The counter pressure of the allies is steadily gaining strength. The Germans attempted to debouch along the Chateau Thierry-Paris road, which flanks the northern bank of the Marne, but their assaults on both sides of the highway were smashed southeast of Boursches by the French fire. (Boursches lies about five miles northwest of Chateau Thierry and it is in this zone that the battle zone lies nearest to Paris). General Foch is evidently maintaining two reserve armies—one on the heights of the Marne and the other between the western flank of the German salient and the city of Paris. Every effort of the German crown prince to extend his gains in the direction of the French capital has been broken up with tremendous losses. The supreme moment of the gigantic engagement seems close at hand. The Germans continue to exert a terrible terrific pressure against the allied lines, but every day sees the allied resistance stronger and the allied counter assaults driven home with increased vigor, thrusting back the Teutonic hordes at critical points on the line. The French have recaptured a number of strategic villages along the western wing of the salient. The crown prince continues to throw fresh troops into the combat with reckless disregard. Heavy allied reinforcements, which are reported to contain American units, are marching to reinforce General Foch's army and the utmost confidence is felt that if the drive is not decisively checked already it will be in a few days. On the Flanders front local fighting developed last night and the British advanced their lines two points. This was the seventy-fifth day of the German grand offensive.

It was also stated that none of the survivors were seriously injured. The number of the crew lost was not revealed. The crew was rescued by the destroyer cutter, the American destroyers assisted in the rescue of survivors which was accomplished through the thorough discipline and seamanship of the ship's company.

SENATORS WANT POWER TO ORATE ON FOREVER

OBJECT TO THE UNDERWOOD MOVE TO LIMIT TIME OF MAKING TALK

First Effort of Kind Since Douglas' Day

Lower House Members Want to Stay in Session Without Becoming so as to Get Credit for Hard Work in the Nation's Capital. WASHINGTON, June 2.—Senators with original tendencies were ready to fight for their right of unlimited speech today. Senator Underwood of Alabama was to call up his resolution in the senate which would amend the rules so that each senator would be limited to one hour of speaking on any bill and twenty minutes to each amendment. The resolution has been endorsed by the senate committee on rules and has the support of many of the administration leaders who first openly acted by requesting that it apply only for the duration of the war. Today's effort by Senator Underwood in the first effort made to limit debate in the senate since 1859, when Stephen Douglas attempted to speak for ten hours on the Kansas, which now has the backing of the administration, is carried into effect. The house rules committee made ready today to report a rule for consideration of legislation to enable the senate to accept the appropriation bill and Canada for the protection of insect destroying birds tomorrow. The appropriations committee was ready to report the sundry civil appropriation bill today and the fortifications bill later in the week. The bill from the general deficiency bill, which will come up at the end of the session, were the only appropriation bills that remained unacted by the house today. The water power bill was still firmly stuck in the water power committee. Only the committee could have to report the bill to the administration can proceed to it. Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo had made no comment to the bill and certainly Postmaster General Burleson purposely overlooked it when he cleared the administration today. He believed this would be more objection to the recent plan put forward by Majority Leader Kitchin and Representative Garner of Texas. Opponents to the plan, that will be removed only when both houses find themselves with absolutely nothing to report in evidence today. They believed this would be more objection to any campaign that could be made against them by those who are attacking the bill. The house ways and means committee planned to start public hearings on the new revenue legislation demanded by the president. The schedule of witnesses before the committee was in preparation today.

TWO SUBMERSIBLES SEND SHIPS TO BOTTOM OFF NEW JERSEY COAST

Ports Closed and Immense Fleet of Destroyers Go Forth in Pursuit—Report of Their Capture Is Unconfirmed—Report That Fifteen American Ships Were Torpedoed Lacks Confirmation but War Department Says at Least Three Have Been Sent Down—Undersea Raiders Believed Same as Those Recently Infesting Coast of Spain—Ordered Crew of Edward H. Cole to Boats and Then Placed Time Bombs Inside Their Vessel—Troops Movements Undisturbed

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Fears were expressed late this afternoon that the German U-boats operating off the Atlantic coast had sunk a much larger number of ocean craft, than has as yet been reported. Unofficial reports reaching here declared that in addition to the schooners which the navy department officially reports have been sunk the underwriter craft had sent to the bottom two other coasting schooners and two tankers while the fate of the passenger boat Carolina was in doubt. The latter vessel, a New York-Porto Rican vessel, had reported to a U. S. port that she was being shelled south of the position where the Edward H. Cole, Haskell and Willey were sunk on Sunday.

(By International News Service)

German submarines are again in American waters off the Atlantic coast. One American schooner—the Edward H. Cole—has already fallen a victim to Kaiser Wilhelm's unrestricted submarine warfare and three other vessels are also reported to have been sent to the bottom. First news that Germany had brought the war to the very doors of the United States came today when Captain Newcomb of the Cole and eleven members of his crew arrived in an Atlantic port after his vessel had been sent to the bottom off Atlantic Highlands, N. J., yesterday afternoon by two German U-boats. Captain Newcomb also reported that one of the U-boats was pursuing an American steamer as his vessel went down. The fate of the American steamer is not known. Shortly before noon it was announced at the Maritime Exchange of New York that fifteen vessels had been sent down by U-boats but later in the day an official of that organization stated that verification had been received of the sinking of but one vessel—the Edward H. Cole. He admitted, however, that three other vessels are reported to have been torpedoed by submarines. Reports from Washington stated that the naval department had been informed that three American schooners had been sunk, and that every available warship on the Atlantic coast was now combing the waters for the submarines.

The naval intelligence bureau of New York received telegraphic instructions from Washington at once to not give out any information whatever regarding U. S. vessels. It was said that all information must come from the Bureau of Public Information at Washington. Naval officers were inclined to believe that the submarines operating off the coast were of the super-submarine type, one of which was lately sunk by a British submarine off the coast of Spain. It was said there was also a decided possibility that the submarines were operating in conjunction with the German raiders which had slipped through the cordon guarding the North sea. The fact that the vessels so far sunk were schooners was puzzling to officials here who declared that if a serious raid had been intended these submarines would have done much better to have waited off the entrance to one of the larger Atlantic ports until the big cargo carriers came along. There was much comment on the boldness of the raid but there was no apprehension or fear anywhere. Naval officials looked for the news of the bold work of the enemy craft to stimulate naval recruiting to a very high degree. Officials declared that the presence of the submarines in this side of the Atlantic would not halt our troop movement. All precautions are being taken everywhere. All the anti-submarine craft of the Atlantic fleet were operating in accordance with plans made long ago for the instant such an emergency. It was positively stated that there was no danger of a raid on a large scale but of course officials were naturally reluctant as to the precautions they had taken to prevent such a raid.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The New York representatives of the Porto Rican steamship outfit that that vessel had been attacked by German U-boats and that the passengers have taken to the boats.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, June 2.—One of the German submarines operating along the Atlantic coast, has been either sunk or captured, according to unverified reports received here this afternoon. The report which is absolutely without confirmation, was to the effect that a steamer was nearing this port with the members of the submarine's crew aboard.

A British steamship which came alongside late last night here today reported having picked up wireless appeals for help during the night from two American tankers which had been attacked by German U-boats operating off the Jersey coast. Both tankers reported that they were sinking. Because of British admiralty restrictions which forbid a ship with passengers aboard to answer wireless signals for assistance, the liner made no response to the wireless call, rebuilding her speed ahead instead.

SUNSHINE SPECIAL RECORDED ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 2.—According to dispatches received here the Sunshine Special on the Iron Mountain railroad, bound for St. Louis from Texas today, after an open day's run, was stopped in Hope, Ark., early today. The engineer and fireman were reported killed and many others injured.

NEW YORK, June 2.—After the machine exchange here had furnished a transportation that fifteen American ships had been sunk off the Atlantic coast by German U-boats, an official of that organization in this city said this afternoon that the attack that authorities believe was made

NATIONAL DEFENSE COUNCIL

BELLWETHERS OF HIS GREAT ACTIVITIES

A Year of Work Has Resulted in the Accomplishment of Many Great Things—State Councils and County Councils Help Form a Chain Which Assist in All the Movements of the Pushing of the War and the Relief of the Suffering, as Well as the Tracing of the Seditious.

The following statement is authorized by the council of national defense, today:

To inaugurate the system of state councils of defense, a conference of the states was called by order of national defense in the early days of the war and held in Washington, on May 2, 1917. It was attended by many governors and leading citizens from all states, appointed by their commonwealths. The state councils of defense of the council of national defense have been established on the 44th day of the war was declared by America, April 6, 1917.

The result of this history-making conference, which was addressed by the president and several members of the cabinet, was to get rapidly under way the activities of the national defense council of the nation. In the period immediately after the conference, the national council of defense set to work on the organization of state councils of defense, with the result that in every state a council has been created as an efficient and emergency organization of that state.

For more than a year, therefore, the council of national defense has been constantly guiding the growth and work of the new great system of state councils, to the end of making them all effectively available as a chain of action to assist in all the spontaneous activities to meet the needs of its state, and to act as a field- and flexible- communication agency between the federal departments and war administrations on the one hand, and the state councils of defense themselves on the other.

At all times the council of national defense has recommended that the various state councils of defense should be constituted as advisory bodies, should have specific financial appropriations. To date twenty-three state councils have been established by statute. Twenty-six have been established by legislative appropriation, the amount varying from $1,000 to $5,000,000. Most of the other state councils have obtained funds for their work from available state funds or private subscriptions.

The council of national defense has worked for the creation by state councils of smaller subordinate councils, has sent out various orders defining such organization with the result that forty-six state councils have organized county or township councils of defense, and forty-four states have adopted the program for the organization of community or similar sub-county councils. The program of community councils organization has been given by the department of agriculture, American Red Cross, committee on public information, bureau of education and commission on training camp activities.

The state councils in the several southern states have organized state defense organizations for the Negro population.

Twenty-six state councils have published war material on one kind or other, and of these sixteen issue at regular intervals a state council war bulletin. Thirty-eight states have formed speakers' bureaus, which are directly related to the speakers' division of the committee on public information, and are closely allied with its four minute men organization.

By resolution of the council of national defense, all state councils have been requested to communicate with the state councils only after presentation of their plans to the council of national defense and to the secretary of the state councils section.

The council has, through its bulletins, been successful in having obtained special assistance for the various federal departments and war administrations in their important campaigns.

At the request of the department the state councils have been active in aiding the local- recruiting, drill and camp training programs. The most recent activities along this line has been the assistance given to local boards in transcribing the occupational cards of the drafted men.

Acting upon the suggestion of the council of national defense, thirty-two states are forming or have already legal committees in order to give legal aid to the men in the service of the army or navy. In sixteen states legal handbooks have been published. The state councils have been a large part of the work relating to the men in the training camps in the direction of the commission on training camp activities, especially in the training of the war camp community recreation fund, and in establishing local police, and arranging recreation for the men in the camps.

The navy department received the assistance of the state councils for collecting the material needed to carry out the Americanization program of the immigrant education division of the bureau of education of the country. The federal department of labor. The bureau of mines makes use of the state councils members upon its state committees or committees.

The council of national defense works with the federal departments along all general lines of food production, and many state councils have established close connections with all state agents of the department. In almost every state a definite program is being worked out jointly by the state council and the state agricultural colleges and the agents of the department of agriculture. "Acrid" eight district hospitals have been sent out on the subject of food conservation, and the aims and work of the federal administration. In addition to the numerous campaigns to stimulate production and conservation, the state councils have dealt with the following: anti-hearing, fertilizer, extermination of pests and diseases, financial aid to farmers, farm labor, germination and restorative economy, home-bred economy, farm implements, increase in acreage, market, crop irrigation, livestock, seeds, and transportation.

Special emphasis has been given by the state councils at the request of the federal government to the United States employment service and the United States public service reserve. Several buildings have been sent out from the section giving definitions to its mobilization program. Boys aged from sixteen to twenty years of age for farm labor. The establishment of employment bureaus throughout the states has also done with by this section.

The state councils have also done effective work for the treasury department and the federal reserve banks in the country. The federal reserve banks have either aided through news medium, master cards, or their machinery for the use of campaign literature, or handled the entire campaign in their state. Further service has been rendered in the collection of income tax returns.

In the recent campaign of the slippage board's committee on labor for the purpose of raising the minimum wage, the state councils responded effectively to the bulletin sent out by the council. Thirty-five reporting card results from the states have been established. The state councils have been asked to give consideration to the men about the yards.

The prevention of fire has been undertaken by many state councils in connection with the national board of fire underwriters.

The national council has secured effective cooperation between the state councils and the local divisions of the American Red Cross. It is at present aiding in the Red Cross campaign for funds and in investigating the personnel of applicants for its over-seas service.

The council of national defense has sent out numerous orders to the various state councils constitute themselves the official agencies for supervising the collection of funds for war relief. Thirty-two states have established some means of conducting such supervision, either by the use of approved societies, by employing solicitors, by establishing war chests, or through proper news channels.

At the request of the commercial economy board of the council of national defense, the state councils have established in twenty-two important campaigns on for the return of unspent bond, and another for the curtailment of retail discounts of $100,000,000.

The medical section of the council of national defense has asked and received the assistance of the state councils in the preparation of bulletins including the arrangement of meetings for drafted men for the presentation of questions of social hygiene. The state councils have sent out numerous bulletins asking the state councils to undertake work for the health of the nation. The council of national defense in motor truck transportation and the establishment of return road bureaus. At the request of the federal department of labor, the state councils have been asked to help in the development of a method which provides for the co-ordination of all federal agencies and departments, and the state council officials and the state agents of the various federal departments and war administrations. The council's suggestion as to the creation of such boards has met with excellent response from thirty-five states.

COAL WALK TO ENCOURAGE

EARLY ORDERS BEGINS TODAY

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Today marks the beginning of "Coal Week," inaugurated by the fuel administration to encourage early ordering of fuel. With the bulk of the year's supply of coal already in the hands of the fuel administration has stated, the various distributing agencies of the government will be better able to effect a suitable distribution of fuel among different sections of the country. Production is steadily increasing. It is stated, but it will be further increased if a shortage of fuel now winter is to be avoided.

Already in many communities one-third of the coal orders have been placed by both industrial and domestic consumers, the fuel administration reports. In the eastern part of the country the demand has been practically overwhelmed with early orders for anthracite, but to west of them a shortage of coal will not slow in coming in as to lead to a increase in production, and, as a matter of fact, there has been some shuttling down of mines for lack of orders.

Consumers Urged to Buy Coal This Week

Increase of Eighty-five Per Cent Required and Mines and Roads Must Work in Complete Harmony.

OGDEN, Utah, June 3.—Herewith a statement from the national fuel administration with reference to "Coal Week," June 3rd to 8th, which is self-explanatory.

"The week of June 3 to 8 has been designated as 'coal week' by the United States fuel administration. While for several weeks special efforts have been made throughout the United States to urge the early ordering of coal there will be no such intensive drive on early ordering during 'coal week.'"

"It is felt that, with the bulk of the year's supply of coal orders well in advance, the various distribution agencies of the government will be in a position to adjust quickly and promptly the demands as between different communities. It will be possible for the fuel administration to space accordingly its increased demand, and properly apportion the available supply."

"Together with the urgent appeal to the industries as well as to the domestic consumers to order their coal early there goes the request that those consumers who are unable to supply their deliveries. It is being pointed out that, of course, the entire coal output of the country cannot be absorbed with a single week. It is equally true that those orders that are first in the hands of the dealers will be filled first. It is a matter of fact that there has been some shuttling down of mines for lack of orders for the product."

"In every state of the Union production of the entire United States must be increased eighty-five million tons for the coal year April 1, 1918, to April 1, 1919, over the year ending April 1, 1917. In order to meet the demands of the government and to prosecute the war to an early and successful close."

This can only be accomplished by keeping the mines operating fully and by the conservation of fuel, both by the industrial and domestic user. It is pointed out that the United States is suffering from an inadequate fuel supply, and this condition must be met by a more efficient use of coal and by the various drastic measures called for.

The coal companies in dealing direct with the mines to the consumer through retail yards, will put forth a strenuous effort to assist in averting a coal famine in the towns in which they are located.

"However, the consuming public, to insure themselves protection, should order their coal orders promptly and accepting delivery at any time that it is possible for the retail dealers to make same."

OBDER REGULATING USE OF FIREWORKS IN WISCONSIN

MADISON, Wis., June 3.—The industrial commission order regulating the use and storage of fireworks in Wisconsin became effective today. The order prohibits the storing of fire crackers, rockets, torpedoes, Roman candles, bonfire, or other works, pistols, cannons, explosive cans, blank cartridges or other similar appliances or displays in any place near to a house or building, or within 500 feet of any building, and in 250 feet from any building. The order also provides that no fireworks shall be fired within 500 feet of any building and in 250 feet from any building. The order also provides that no fireworks shall be fired under the direction of town or municipal authorities, except that no fire station shall be stored or used under any circumstances.

The purpose of this order is to reduce the number of fires caused by the use of fireworks. It is pointed out that the fire department will be better able to effect a suitable distribution of fuel among different sections of the country. Production is steadily increasing. It is stated, but it will be further increased if a shortage of fuel now winter is to be avoided.

With Our Armies In Europe

Dr. Lincoln L. Wirt comes to Chautauque Straight From Visit on Western Front.

Coming to Chautauque directly from the western front, Dr. Lincoln L. Wirt, noted war correspondent and publicist, will bring the latest word on conditions abroad. He is called for Chautauque February 13th as a member of a government observation party for the sole purpose of bringing to our chautauque audiences an up-to-the-minute story of the western front. Being commended by Washington and traveling under military escort, he will be able to penetrate every section of the fighting zone and receive a view "close up" accorded to but few.

This was Dr. Wirt's third trip across the Atlantic since the outbreak of the war. He has served as a war correspondent and as a member of the American ambulance corps. He will show many interesting relics acquired while he was in the front lines. He witnessed the heavy early fighting of the war near Dunkirk and "Belle Isle 1915," visited the Alpine regions of northern Italy, was in London during three Zeppelin raids, and witnessed the dropping of bombs from the clouds upon the sleeping city.

Dr. Wirt's lecture "With Our Armies in Europe" will deal chiefly, however, with Pershing and "our boys," as seen in the American section of the front. He will describe the trenches, dugouts, barbed wire entanglements—the use of hand grenades, bombs, liquid fire, gas warfare—every phase of the development of war that our men will use and will face.

INDIANA MINISTERS TO TALK ON WAR-WINNING PLAN

LAFAYETTE, Ind., June 3.—Ministers and laymen of every denomination are being invited to the Indiana corners of the state to attend a war conference at Purdue University. The speaker will be Dr. J. PITCHERS STAGING UNIQUE COMEBACKS

Jack Velock (L. N. Sports Editor.) NEW YORK, June 3.—Several major league pitchers have figured in unique comebacks today, but the most unique attracted more than usual attention.

Perhaps the most spectacular of all was that of Tom Hooton of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and now—now—Jack tar in Uncle Sam's navy. Hamilton was a castoff of the St. Louis Browns. His work last year stamped him as a win-warrior, for he did not succeed in winning a game for Fielder Jones.

In Columbus, in the American Association, Hamilton showed little better form, but despite this fact Joe Eicker sold him to the Pittsburgh club, and had to stick with the Pirates he might rank as the leading outcast of the National league in baseball. Hamilton won six straight games for Hugo Bezdek's team and then sold goody-by to his clubmate and left the team to enter the navy.

Another comeback is Dan Griner, of the Hoising. Griner is also St. Louis pitcher, though he was with the Cubs instead of the Browns. Miller Huggins asked for waivers on him last fall, and Brooklyn refused to waive, so he became a Doctor. Hamilton a right hander with a good spitball, and Uncle Wilbert Robinson is so well qualified with his work that

MARGUERITE SNOW

The heroine of "THE EAGLE'S EYE" will be remembered as the noted actress who played a leading part in the famous production, "The Million Dollar Mystery."

The American Nation is passing through the most crucial period of its history. The President and our Government have never needed more than NOW, the loyal support of every citizen, both in act and spirit. Presentation in pictures of facts exposing the Imperial German Government's spy system in America will bring the people to a fuller realization of the formidable secret power of the enemy implanted in our midst and the necessity of all standing solidly behind the President and the Government to win the war.

WILLIAM J. FLYNN.

The entry of the United States into the world-war led me to make the disclosure of facts embraced in this social photodrama. The early events of the great conflict brought official recognition of the motion picture as a powerful medium of public opinion. I therefore felt that the screen would prove the most convincing and broadest medium through which to present the perils we have gone through, as striking indications of what may happen at any time through enemy spy activities.

THE CRIME OF THE AGES

The Sinking of the "Lusitania"

When, on May 7, 1915, the news was flashed across the world that the great ship "Lusitania" had been sunk by a German submarine, the whole nation was stunned with horror and indignation. So distinctly a crime as the murder of 1,500 non-combatants—men, women and children, many of them neutrals—was at first unbelievable.

But the American people had yet to learn of the base treachery which inspired the outrage. Chief Flynn uncovered the fact that while the naive and smiling German Ambassador spoke sympathetic words of sympathy to the American press, treating the tragedy as a deplorable act of war, he was the man, his was the mind that planned and executed the execution of the Crime of the Ages.

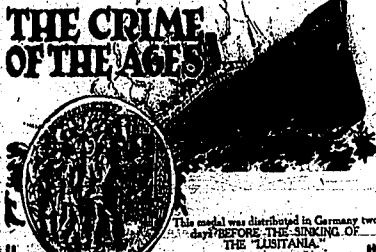

Through his honest activities Chief Flynn secured one of the "Lusitania" medals (shown below), designed by Germany, and distributed to commemorate the sinking of that gallant ship.

The Medal is dated and was distributed in Germany TWO DAYS BEFORE the sinking.

The "Lusitania" was sunk off the Irish Coast on May 7, 1915. She had on board at the time 1,501 passengers and crew, of whom 115 perished. That the plot was hatched in America at a time when we were at peace with Germany indicates the true feeling the German War Lords endeavored to stimulate in Germany, and is proof positive that such crimes are not merely regarded favorably, but are given every encouragement in the Land of Kultur.

Graphically presented in the first episode of "THE EAGLE'S EYE" this scene led up to a gripping portrayal of the work of the plotters exactly as they happened, though necessarily fictionalized, from the records of Chief Flynn.

It is the patriotic duty of every American to learn the inside history of the war against antecedy, and it is our opportunity to present these facts to you, through the medium of "THE EAGLE'S EYE."

This medal was distributed in Germany two days before the sinking of the "LUSITANIA."

Recently Retired CHIEF OF THE U. S. SECRET SERVICE

Today the first episode of this wonderfully thrilling serial of international importance begins. Written by Chief Flynn, based on facts, many will not be surprised, if this great two-reel picture shows with startling realism and truthfulness the intimate inner workings of the Imperial German Government's spies in America. The plot to destroy the "Lusitania," the conspiracy to dynamite the Hotel Ansonia in New York the night of the American Naval Day, the plan to torpedo the Adriatic, the review before President Wilson in New York Harbor—bomb plots, labor agitation, and a multitude of other ruthless plans, all told in Chief Flynn's own story. Don't miss this first episode. The actual details of how the torpedoing of the "Lusitania" was planned and executed by Imperial German agents in America.

THE EAGLE'S EYE

Produced by THE WHARTONS

In presenting, in a vehicle of fiction, facts showing the secret aggression of the Imperial German Government in America, the purpose is not only to disclose what the spies actually did, but what would have resulted had not their plots been detected and frustrated. WILLIAM J. FLYNN.

THE EAGLE'S EYE

FOREWORD

The Kaiser's Secret Army In America, and Its Activities.

WHEN the "War Dogs" of Europe were unleashed in August, 1914, all America received the news with horror and regret. As the War progressed, the United States, in particular, learned of the carnage of battle and the sufferings of the people with profound sorrow and sympathy. Our President showed extreme patience in his efforts to prevent our country from becoming embroiled in the conflict of a world's War and submitted calmly to many unfriendly acts.

The Imperial German Government interpreted the Administration's attitude as one of fear of the consequences of War. It, therefore, proceeded to acts of even greater disregard of this country's rights as a friendly nation.

Maintaining strict neutrality, the Administration showed no favor to any of the warring nations. Treating all without partiality, our President merely demanded strict adherence to international law.

Under such conditions, we were privileged to trade with and sell to all nations such materials as this country produced, whether necessities or luxuries, foodstuffs or munitions of war.

The Imperial German Government, through its accredited agents, and also through secret avenues, purchased unusually large quantities of both foodstuffs and munitions of war. These purchases were made before it declared war against the Allies and long after the War was in progress.

Such purchases far exceeded the shipping facilities available to the Imperial German Government, even to the extent that the seas were safe for her vessels. As much as possible of the foodstuffs was shipped in neutral vessels to neutral countries—to which Germany had access—and enormous quantities were hoarded in warehouses here, causing a shortage of the necessities of life and high prices for these commodities in United States.

Unable to ship munitions (contraband of war), through the same channels, the Imperial German Government placed large contracts with American manufacturers and tried to purchase gunnion plants, in an attempt to prevent the Allies from obtaining such supplies from this country.

FAILING to reap the benefit of its foresight—by reason of the mastery of the seas by the Allies, the Imperial German Government sought to prevent our trafficking with the enemies of Germany, although it was quite willing to buy from this country for its own account.

Meanwhile, the United States Government was acting for and protecting the interests of Germany in all countries with which the Imperial German Government was at war. Accredited officials of the Imperial German Government, were sent to the United States and enjoying our hospitality. This hospitality and protection they abused by resorting to intrigues, espionage, and propaganda against the United States, contrary to their obligations as the guests of a friendly nation.

Moreover, through their conspiracies to invade Canada, to embroil the United States in a war with Mexico and to blow up the Welland Canal, through their unwarranted sinking of ships with the consequent loss of American lives; through their destruction of commerce on the seas; the exploding of powder factories; the breeding of class hatred; the manipulation of politics; the fomenting of labor troubles and the browbeating of capitalists, etc. the paid and protected agents of the Imperial German Government, for over two years, actually carried on a form of secret war against the United States, tantamount to invasion, while outwardly assuming a friendly attitude.

These events, so serious to our peace, safety, welfare and prosperity, occurred with appalling frequency. The Administration was loath to believe them, largely by the Imperial German Government, preferring to credit them to irresponsible partisans of Germany. Not until undeniable facts were presented, proving the Imperial German Government's direct responsibility for these crimes against friendship and humanity, did our President relent.

The United States Secret Service was mainly responsible for securing this conclusive evidence of actual crimes perpetrated, and also in preventing other more serious ones from being consummated.

CROEL DESERVES HEARING

CONSIDERING HIS POSES

The defense of his own attitude and work by George Croel is certainly worthy of consideration, even by those who may, not without reason, regard some of his early acts and his utterances, both early and late, as lacking somewhat in discretion.

Croel has certainly been indiscreet on occasion, and at times rather unskillful in the choice of his words...

Way last year, the TIMES ventured to say that a systematic campaign, not necessarily partisan in character, was being planned having for its object the discredit of President Wilson at home and abroad.

It was stated then that there was not necessarily any intentional unpatriotism in this course, as those educated to believe the principles of Thomas Jefferson to be chimerical, and to think that special favors were due those who were already their beneficiaries, might easily believe in a patriotic duty to use every means in their power to wrest government from them.

not. For instance, Taft criticized the Overman bill in some respects, on grounds with which this paper thought incorrect, but he did it fairly and without misrepresentation or malice, and all those named here to some extent taken exceptions, to things done by the administration, which was not only their right, but their duty, since they spoke within reason.

None felt it necessary to leave their own party, and in this they were right, for they were in company just as patriotic as they would have been with the Democracy, no more and no less.

But while it is true that the majority of their party feel that way, there is a possibility that the other element will predominate in the Republican primaries this fall, because the masses of the party are not thinking of primaries at all and the great leaders named, who are capable of effective work in organization, are too busy helping with the war to bother with politics.

With the bitter and sweeping attack on Croel isolated, the idea might seem reasonable that it was personal in character and was against the man rather than the administration. But Senator Sherman linked Croel's name with that of conservative Democrats like Duracion, on one hand, and leaders of the I. W. W. on the other, calling them all by the common name "Socialists," and branding most leading Wilson appointees in the same way.

It is in the view of the character and intent of some of his assistants it is well for the people to suspend judgment until the investigation he asks has been completed before accepting the statements of his more disreputable allies regarding his more important alleged short-comings.

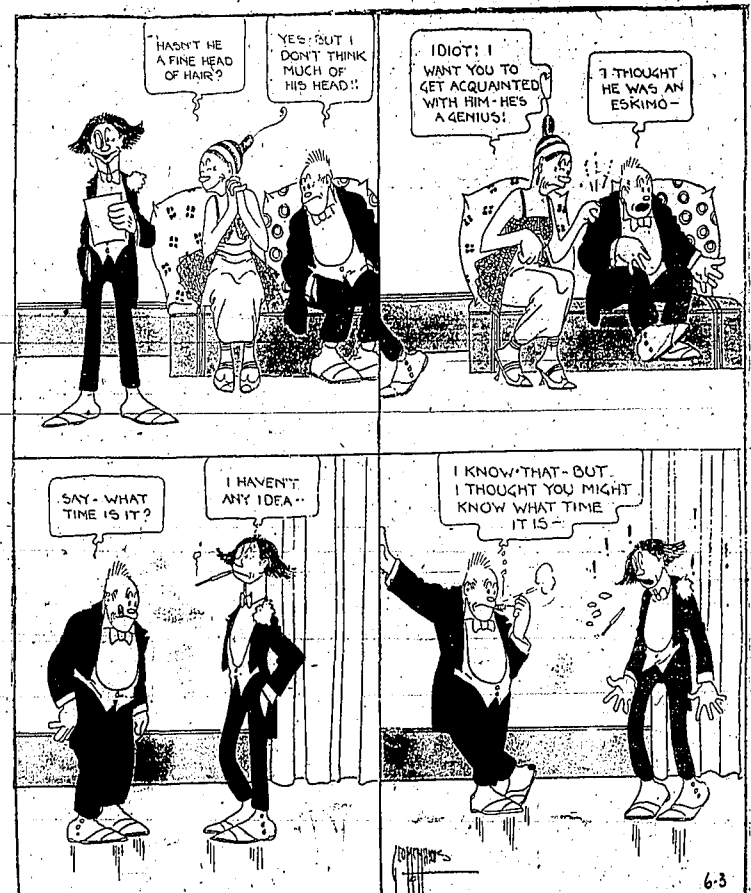

HUNT AND PROSECUTE ALL OF THE SEDITIOUS

The appeal of the department of justice for every man to consider himself a committee of one to hunt down and secure the punishment of seditious acts should be heeded, and every American should participate as a matter of duty.

When the war started the laws against seditious were few in number. The first national law enacted developed many loopholes. These have been located and closed, so that hereafter, especially when fortified by the laws of the state regarding seditious and the law regarding insults to the flag, it ought to be easy to secure conviction for any word or act contrary to patriotism and to loyalty to country.

A falsehood has been maliciously spread over this country, partly by means of so-called patriotic organizations, to the effect that the attorney general was inclined to be unduly lenient to the seditious; which perhaps in some instances, was the case.

BRINGING UP FATHER :: :: By George McManus

official organization published a statement which appeared in New York papers and throughout the country, to the effect that, since the declaration of war, arms and munitions had been shipped from this country to Germany and that fourteen spies had been shot by the United States government.

The statement was generally printed that in a certain government factory in New York City where gas masks are being produced for our men in France more than 100 employees had been discharged because they had intentionally made the masks defective.

The statement has been made hundreds of times that the government has been paroling German spies against whom cases had been made out. There was no foundation whatever for such a report.

should be seen to that officials are backed by popular sentiment until he is hanged if a traitor or imprisoned if seditious.

BRINGING IT HOME

The striking of a number of American vessels at our very doors ought to bring home to the people who have had indefinite ideas of the war, because of its distance, the fact that we are in the fight.

The following telegram was received this morning from F. N. Dickleit, state food administrator, by C. E. Musson, county administrator:

"I do not wish to create the impression that there is no danger from German spies and German sympathizers. There are, however, especially when the laws governing the matter were weak and indefinite, but the most outrageous lies were deliberately spread broadcast and accepted as true by a lot of good people, because of the air of confidence with which they were stated.

CLOSE-UP IN SPOITSDOM

Allen Markley, (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, June 1.—Three months ago a "snapper" was arrested, apparently from a second lieutenant of an engineer regiment doing duty at a permanent post back of the lines in France for athletic equipment to outfit five teams was mailed to Clarke Griffith, Mr. Griffith responded to the call.

Up to the present time the Griffith hat and ball fund has given the boys about 45,000 balls, 12,000 bats, 4,000 bats, 4,000 catcher's mitts, 4,000 first baseman's mitts, 12,000 base bags, more than 100,000 pieces of athletic equipment, more than thousands of baseball guides, score cards, sweaters, boxing gloves, shoes and countless other articles. In all, it has amounted to a greater part of the baseball goods that have been sent over there.

Clark Griffith's appeal to President Wilson and the secretary of the War Department and the Navy, as well as other men of influence is largely responsible for the interest that is being taken to keep the soldiers physically fit by athletic sports. "A soldier is only half a soldier until he becomes athletically trained. This is the note of thanks that General Pershing sent to Mr. Griffith for the work that he has done for the American Expeditionary forces.

The Bat and Ball Fund was organized April 20, 1917, and was practically at that time the only war fund of its kind in existence. Since then a great many organizations have come from the work of the government itself is buying athletic equipment for its fighting men.

The sporting goods manufacturers deserve credit for the way they have supported the plan. Not a penny has been made by any of these houses, although the advertising they have received has more than paid them for furnishing the goods at cost.

MEXICO IS PLANNING TO GATHER BIG WHEAT CROP

LAIERDO, Tex., June 3.—Mexico will shortly begin the harvesting of one of the greatest wheat crops in the history of that country, said a prominent Mexican business man of Torreon, Mexico, who is on a business visit to Laredo. "From estimates made," he said, "it is estimated that the wheat crop which is now fast maturing in Mexico will yield approximately 25,000,000 bushels."

Creel Makes Specific Denial of Many Things

Head of Publicity Department Says He Isn't Socialist and Does Like U. S. Government

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Supplementing his statement in an early issue this afternoon, George Creel said regarding the personal charges brought against him: "I am not a Socialist; have never been identified with the Socialist organization in any particular; have never been a Socialist agent and do not believe absolutely from the fundamental tenets of the Socialist faith.

"Instead of holding a contempt for our form of government, I believe in it with all strength of my being. Democracy is a religion with me, and I believe the whole life I have preached America as the hope of the world.

"The articles that constitute my alleged attacks upon the constitution were written in 1910 in Colorado in support of the initiative, referendum, and recall. Every word I wrote had the complete approval of Senator Thomas M. Patterson, owner of the paper, as a fine and legal American as every living and dead three propositions were endorsed at the polls by large majorities.

"Not a single employee of his bureau belongs or has belonged to the I. W. W., Creel said.

"If any proof can be brought that this is not the case I will discharge the person at once." He pointed out that during the year of its existence only three of his thousands of news stories, "have ever been questioned as to absolute accuracy."

The first charge—the charge that the fourth of July statement was a fake—and that United States nationality had not been attacked was fully made to the public by the report of Admiral Gleaves.

The second complaint concerning captions for airplane pictures was largely due, he said, to confusion between training and battle planes.

"The third," he said, "bearing on aerial production came to us with special indignation that we were without right to question."

The committee of his willingness to appear personally to make any explanation desired.

"I beg to assure you that there is not any action of this committee that is not open to any member of congress at any time."

Ocean Scenes Give Viola Dana "Sea-Legs"

"Sea-legs" declared Viola Dana, who appears at the American theatre on Monday and Tuesday, in the Metro all-star series picture, "Breakers Ahead," in the cast has them. Everybody in the cast has them, the bow-legged ones have them the worst.

Miss Dana, who weighs only 94 pounds, was tossed about like a feather on the deck of a big sailing vessel which has been obtained by Metro under special permit for three days of the Golden Gate at San Francisco. During the entire voyage the weather was bad and the seas choppy.

Hardened mariners aboard the ship told her that "she was rolling some" and Miss Dana protested that it was even worse than that, but she stuck to the ship. Tossed and buffeted about the little star bravely conducted her thrilling scenes while the cameraman, with his camera lashed to the deck, shot her in the most dramatic and not extremely realistic. It is no fault of Viola Dana's for they were only too real for her. Her success in acquiring sea-legs had helped her keep her footing.

However, it was only when she stuck to the ship that the Metro star noticed anything out of the ordinary. Then, the sideways seemed to come up to meet her. Her friends called at her in astonishment as she walked, and then Viola told them that she had acquired sea-legs while doing "water stunts" for "Breakers Ahead."

ILLINOIS STARTS MO DRIVE TO INDUCE ALL TO LAY IN FUEL SUPPLY

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 3.—Illinois Fuel Administration today began a week's drive to persuade people throughout the state to buy coal now. The campaign will be thorough, officials announced today. Every consumer, both large and small, will be urged by special representatives to lay in a supply of fuel for the coming winter.

Literature in abundance will be distributed, showing the urgent need for filling coal bunkers, and calling upon the citizens to purchase supplies in advance as a patriotic duty.

If the nation would ward off a second fuel famine during the cold winter months, the pamphlet says, "buy your coal now."

The drive is national. It was planned by the United States Fuel Administration. Every state in the Union has been asked to conduct a similar one.
