INTERMEDIATE RATE ASSOCIATION IS ACTIVE IN WASHINGTON TODAY

Walter Parker, Assistant to the Secretary of Commerce for Inland Water Transportation Calls Attention to Subject—Denounces Old Railroad Rate System.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The steadily growing sentiment for the protection of inland and coastal water transportation lines is not only being reflected in congress where legislation is pending but Walter Parker, assistant to the secretary of commerce for inland water transportation, in a speech here today has just made calls attention to the preparations now under way to care for the expected increase in such traffic.

"In this connection," Mr. Parker says, "it is timely to state that a genuine victory for inland water transportation has been scored by the government through the development of a better public consciousness and a more conservative use of the canal and lock facilities to the distress of boat traffic, and of the methods by which the potential economies of water-borne commerce may be practically capitalized and turned to account."

In a prior report Mr. Parker set forth that the investigations led to the conclusion that the immediate use of the waterways was handicapped "by a railroad-rate system which gives the railroads lower freight rates than are given inland localities, a system which has only just begun to be corrected."

However, according to officials of the Intermediate Rate Association, the organization of canal and shipping clubs and associations together with several of the state railroad commissions, which is striving to secure a uniform inland rate-making by the railroads against water lines in order to give assurance to prospective shippers that they will not be taken to the old practices after the war, Congress should take immediate steps to pass the necessary legislation. It is thought that the measure of the greatest importance at the present time and if congress will provide laws here after the war there will be no lack of capital to provide the transportation facilities.

The awakening with regard to the possibilities of our inland and coastal waterways as carriers of commerce to relieve the already overburdened railroads is emphasized by Mr. Parker in his latest report.

"Interest in the terminal facilities on our inland waterways is now very great," he says. "In the case of the Ohio river from Pittsburgh to Cairo, I find the people are practically everywhere and town willing, anxious and ready to do everything possible for them to do to restore extensive use of their waterways both for the movement of domestic commerce throughout the Mississippi valley and for the movement of a large volume of import and export commerce to ship side at the Gulf."

"But they are, in many cases, deterred by uncertainty as to the length of the period that must elapse before the remaining locks and dams, essential parts of the waterway improvement projects, shall have been installed. The upper Mississippi river project has made excellent progress in parts of the river. The channels of some of the tributaries of these rivers are now in good shape, the work on others has just begun.

"The people of practically every city and town along every navigable river of the Mississippi river system have in recent months come to understand that a paved levee, while better than a mud levee for commercial purposes, does not constitute the character of boat terminal that economy requires to encourage revived commercial use of inland waterways. They are more municipalities and chambers of commerce generally are now devoting much time, thought, and energy to the problem of providing the most efficient practical terminal equipment."

Advertising Convention In San Francisco, Fri.

Statement of Purposes of the Organ. Inlon Is "Advertising to Victory" Barnum Was An Enthusiast.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 6.—Advertising to victory! This will be the key note of the annual convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, which will be held here in San Francisco, July 10-11. The convention will be presided over by war council of the advertising leaders of the world. Speaking of the subject, Chairman E. Barnum said:

President Wilson has officially approved of our convention and has promised on the instant co-operation on the part of the administration for the purpose of making the convention an unqualified success.

Advertising and public life have made possible food conservation—war gardens—Red Cross drives—three huge Liberty loans and other great contributions.

Advertising is the greatest force in the United States for molding public opinion. It is the most powerful and self-denial with one great aim in view, namely—smashing Kaiserism; all also as our convention will be subsidized in that one great thought "Advertising to Victory."

The tremendous forces of advertising directed toward the war effort and more toward this great purpose, and our convention will be conducted in this spirit. It will give to this movement the most authoritative impetus as will crush Kaiserism and make the world safe for democracy for all time.

Surely no patriotic American should fail to support a convention whose underlying thought is, "Advertise to Victory."

All this is aside from the score of more of brass knuck departmental sections which will be held by the various branches of advertising on two days of the convention. From these sections you can collect free dividends on the investment in time and money you make in coming out here in July.

TUBERCULOSIS FIGHTERS MEET AT BOSTON TODAY TO DISCUSS YEAP'S PLANS

BOSTON, June 6.—Plans for more effective participation of the anti-tuberculosis forces of the country in the war will be discussed at the annual meeting of the National Tuberculosis Association which opened in Boston this afternoon. Prominent physicians and lay workers from every part of the United States are in attendance. About 500 delegates are registered.

The conference will open with an address by the president, Dr. Charles L. Minor, of Asheville, N. C., and a report of the year's work by Dr. Charles H. Hadfield, executive secretary of the association. His address before the Prevention of Tuberculosis in France; Colonel George E. Bushnell of the Surgeon General's office, and Captain J. H. Elliott, of Toronto, will show how France, the United States and Canada are handling the tuberculosis war problem in their respective countries.

"Tomorrow morning the various sections of the association—clinical, sociological and pathological—will turn down to detailed discussions of their particular topics. The sociological section will devote some attention to a discussion of the ways in which the tuberculous individual can be

CONSERVATION STRENGTHIENS THE MOBILE OF OUR ALLIES

The enormous importance to the morale of our allies of a continued supply of meat and wheat from America has emphasized Mr. Hoover at the recent conference of the woman's committee of the council of national defense in Washington. This statement brought vividly to the minds of the delegates the connection between their own efforts toward the conservation of food and the great issues facing our allies abroad. Mr. Hoover said:

"The meat question has been and remains a serious one. The English found themselves confronted by a critical situation and had to reduce their consumption to one and one-fourth pounds per week per capita as against a normal consumption of about three pounds. Now they are able to increase the ration. That has been not only of physical importance but of enormous importance to the morale of the nation, because of the bread and meat ration existing in the early part of March if some alleviations had not been made. The fact of the discouragement of the German drive, the results might have been much more serious."

"I like to think that my state helped to make possible the increase in the English ration," said one of the chairmen in discussing Mr. Hoover's talk. "And why should I not think so, since our women have followed the instructions of the soldier's ration card, have planted gardens, cabbaged and preserved. In thousands of our homes a complete revolution has been made in the food diet, so there might be a saving in the food stuffs that are needed by our allies abroad. I am going home now and will tell our women that they must put all their own womanly power into the saving of wheat, since the bread has become a symbol of life of all western European nations. We are not to feel that we can abandon our program of conservation because the military conference has not decided. The food problem is not ended. It may become more severe. We cannot relax that psychology of devotion that has been throughout the whole period of the war." Mr. Hoover said and it heard him!

DESTROY CATHEDRAL

Writing from Solonson, Walter Johnson, a Y. M. C. A. war work secretary says: "I have seen a beautiful cathedral that had been shot away. I have been where the Germans had a railroad right in the middle of it, and they had shot it to pieces. It was one of the famous cathedrals in France. In one corner of the interior it had been completely destroyed, a French priest was holding services for a few French soldiers."

Recently one man, the last to leave his hut before the soldiers retreated, was involved in the fighting, and for three days lay hidden with 10,000 francs to buy food. He made his way to Abbeville and collapsed.

Some Results of Scientific Light Work

It is an American trait of character to accord recognition where it is due. Sometimes our public are slow in reaching correct conclusions, but all that is necessary is to have patience. In the long run the truth will triumph—the right will come into its own.

Every year the United States sees some striking illustration of this truth established. Perhaps as important an illustration of truth triumphant of which we have knowledge in recent years has to do with the motor car industry and motor car use.

It seems unfortunate that all manufacturers have not accepted this manifest fact, but that also is true.

The common sense of the American people within the past two years has turned against the heavy weight, non-scientifically constructed motor car.

It has demanded lightness, strength and flexibility for these things mean comfort, safety and economy.

Will the reader contrast for a moment the Franklin—America's Greatest Car—with any other car, no matter what its price.

The Franklin of all models, weighs but little over 2000 pounds. Other cars of relatively the same grade, weigh anywhere from 3500 to 6000 pounds or more.

They all have practically the same passenger capacity. Which is more likely to be comfortable, safe and economical?

It doesn't take an expert to answer that question. The Franklin—of course.

That is the conclusion which the American people have reached.

Even the car makers are admitting that the heavy car, is going out of fashion. They are talking light weight, and implying tire and gasoline economy. But they quote no figures. The Franklin does.

Hide in one—drive one—contrast its performance with that of any other car. The salesman doesn't have to recite the car's good points. The Franklin is its own convincing argument.

BILL STAGGS Says:

"Our foreman of print, Sam Hines is plain a little try for the boys in the office, and he says we're going to have the lion of the office. But you can't say that as I wonder what has become of the old fashion woman that use to wear long dresses and a color 'read her back'."

Five Major Pilots Have Landed Flags

Mack, McGraw, Jones, Staggs and Rowland All Were World Leaders in Baseball World.

By Jack Veleck (I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, June 6.—Five major league managers in the big show today have guided teams to a world's championship.

They are Connie Mack of the Athletics; John J. McGraw of the Giants; Fletcher Jones, of the Boston Braves; Staggs of the Braves, and Clarence Rowland of the White Sox.

McGraw piloted his Giants to 1914 to the only world's championship he has won as manager of the New York club, though he has annexed three National League pennants as manager.

Connie Mack, whose record of winning three world's baseball titles never equalled by another manager, coupled his first pennant and world's title in 1916, repeated the performance in 1917 and came back for a third time in 1918.

Fletcher Jones, whose "Hitless Wonder" of 1909 was the world's championship from the Cubs in the only modern world's series played between two clubs representing the same city, achieved all his glory in one short season.

George Stallings, whose success in winning pennants in a number of clubs or leagues won him a wide reputation as a capable manager, annexed his only big league pennant and world's title in the same space of time that it took Fletcher Jones to accomplish the feat. The season of 1914 is still fresh in the memory of fans everywhere.

Clarence Rowland, of the World's Champion White Sox, came up to the big show with no previous major league experience either as a manager or player, and within three years reached the goal that every major league pilot strives for.

Huggins a Wizard Handling Pitchers

By Jack Veleck (I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, June 6.—Mittie Miller Huggins, boss of the Yankees, is an Hinto when it comes to getting work out of his pitchers.

His manipulation of the sharpshooters, more than anything else, has been responsible for the show of 1918, and while the heavy-lifting is done by the team he has done their share in the way of making runs. It has been the pitching staff which turned back the opposition.

Huggins was a stranger to the members of the Yankees when the squad landed in New York. He had never seen the players before and he had to make his calculations regarding the value of this or that player on comparatively short notice.

Then, just as the team was all ready to get a jump and start northward, Bob Shanerky found that he had been placed on the roster of the national army draft, and left the team to enlist. The loss of Shanerky was a hard blow, but Huggins grinned, set his jaw and went after the remaining members of the pitching staff determined to mold them into a combination of winners.

The secret of it all lies with Huggins and his generalship in handling his hurlers. In Caldwell, Huggins, Lore, Russell and Sherman. Huggins can't be said to have a world-beating corps of winners by any means, yet he has made a great deal out of them. Lore, has awakened new ambition in the erstwhile erratic Ray Caldwell, and handling the rest of his men with a master hand.

FARMERS HOLD SPURS FOR HIGH PRICES—ARE DUEY

SHAMOKA, Pa., June 6.—Farmers of that State who have been holding their potatoes for better prices were finally swindled. A man representing himself as head of a Philadelphia commission house lured the farmers and offered high prices for the spuds.

When the stocks arrived at the freight house there was a great commotion. The complaint of the grade, but agreed to ship them and realize what he could.—The potatoes were shipped, but there have been no word of restoration from the strangers.

SEA CALLS TO OUR COUNTRY'S YOUNG MEN

Never Was Need Greater to Carry Flag to Foreign Ports.

By HENRY HOWARD, Director of Recruiting Service, U. S. Shipping Board.

The sea call to our country's youth today is clear and strong. At no other period of our national life has there been greater than now for fearless men to carry our flag through abysses of war and storm to foreign ports. The American merchant seaman of today takes rank in the greatest of all wars—the ultimate struggle of liberty with force—the honored brothers of the army and navy, an exemplar of the strength and plenty of this free and glorious new world. In his hands we trust our trader, but more than this, we trust our honor, too. Neither shall perish so long as our mariners sail the seas. Their call is a cherished legacy from God-fearing forefathers who in their day sailed hand and far on errands of peaceful commerce, while ever ready to fight for freedom. The descendants of such men do not fail in their duty when the sea calls them in this time of war. The work of the sailor may have been lost to them in generations of peaceful land pursuits; but the salt is in their blood, and with steady purpose they say to the sea: "Take me and show me what you would have me do." This response, from men so brave of a mighty land, makes possible the new, great things America is doing on the sea to end the war. On a thousand white ships and far on errands of our shores American merchant sailors by tens of thousands will go forth, without fear. Veterans in sea service will have trained the newcomers to the sea—so will be wrought a strong, close-knit, all-American personnel for our reborn merchant marine.

RE-ENFORCEMENTS

By MARY PERRY KING of The Vigilante.

Stand fast, our valiant! Hand in hand, A bleeding but exultant hand, Each for his own beloved land, And all for Liberty, we stand.

Majestic England, glorious France, Belgium, who led the brave advance, And all the knightly of romance, Have summoned our uncovered tunic.

The weal and woe of Home and Right—
The threat of Darkness and Light—
The need to hold the Truth with Might—
These are the watchwords of the fight.

From town and country, field and farm,
We come with pride to bear our part, In every battle the biggest start, The warfare of the high in heart.

To serve by land or sea or air,
With any weapons, any war,
Take but our manhood strength, and when
The fight is thickest—put us there!

NATURE OPENS INLET

Storm Brings Improvement Farmers Had Sought in Valn.

In a few more hours nature has done for the rich farmers along the Indian river in Dolaware what congress has failed to do in more than fifty years, when the recent storm cut an inlet 300 yards wide and eight feet deep where the river and lar flow into the ocean. For several years the fact has been slowly filled until navigation has been stopped, and bills before congress for appropriations to build jetties have all failed.

Several times farmers have attempted to dig the opening larger, but to no avail. When it closed even smaller this winter and no fish were coming in another attempt was made but the sand shifted as fast as the farmers dug it out.

Then storm came and in a few hours scooped the inlet so that a two-masted schooner has been waiting for the day and swarming into the quiet waters of Indian river and Rehoboth bay.

CROOKED FINGER CUT OFF

Man Submitted to an Operation to Entail

Some men "lose a finger" to keep out of military service; but not so with Thomas Thomas, Denton, Tex., who had one taken off so he could get his.

Thomas tried to enlist as a scout-ranger, but examination disclosed the little finger on his right hand was crooked and stiff.

"This finger will have to come off if I am to go," he was told.

Without a word Thomas left; half an hour later he returned.

"Well, sergeant, I had her cut off," he said.

He was accepted.

Memphis Has War Baby

Memphis has its first "war baby." It is a little girl. A feminine voice called out head and shoulders that search be made for water lost in the park. The search was made. No water was found but the little baby, but a few days old, was discovered wrapped in blankets. The infant has a happy home now.

LIFE PRIMITIVE AND RUGGED

Scenes on Bosom of Russia's Mighty River Cannot Be Duplicated Anywhere on Earth.

The days on the Volga are as like as the white towns strung on the Volga chain, and all laden, with a seas of life, sluggish and primal and potent. The scent of pine, of new-mown hay, of drying nets, and the fragrance of lilacs; by busy red-shirted fellows shouting and splashing each other with water as they scrub the decks; the whistling of gulls; the sound of hammers from barges rattling along the shore; another chains rattling as we drop into the wharf where fishermen are unloading their shining catch. It is a robust river life, not fainter, but transposed into strange keys and steeled livers.

The rafters seemed the most essentially Russian part of the Volga. We had seen them before—Gargantuan yellow rafts, a delicious looking raft, dragged from a forest in Tver and bound together with saplings, each raft bearing a tiny hut for the families who make the journey with the rafts to the sea. Now we met them on the river, peopled with rollicking figures, who balanced themselves with long poles and laughed and shouted unintelligible cries to us, as the surge of the steamer threatened their foothold.

The trackers, borkini, we never say; debased men of herculean strength, muscles knotting in their hairy throats, their striding like horses against the wind, the hair of the beard and the head had patted them. They have passed with the axilla. But the other forces on the river, peopled with rollicking figures, who balanced themselves with long poles and laughed and shouted unintelligible cries to us, as the surge of the steamer threatened their foothold.

FIRST THOUGHT IS ISOLATION

Aviator Longs for Sound of Human Voices When He is Soaring Far Above the Earth.

I became conscious of a feeling of loneliness, writes James N. Hall, in the Atlantic. I remembered what J. B. Morgan said once morning. There was something unpleasant in that isolation, something to make one look longingly down to earth; to make one wonder whether or not he ever felt really at home on the air. I too, longed for the sound of human voices, and all that I heard was the roar of the motor and the swish of the wind through wires and struts—sounds which have no human quality in them, and are no more comprehensible than the lapping of the waves would be to a man adrift on a raft in midocean. Underlying this feeling, and, no doubt, part of its responsibility, it was the knowledge of the futility of that seemingly perfect mechanism which rode so steadily through the air; of the quick response which demands arrangement of an inanimate matter would make to an eternal and inexorable law. If a few frail wires should part, or the equally quick, but living, pliant response of a living mechanism, capable of registering horror, enable it, in spite of passing its part life in review in the space of a few seconds, and then—compared to becoming equally inanimate matter.

Determining Age of Planets.

A novel idea in estimating the physical condition of planets was put forth by M. Vermeut before the Academic Societies at a recent meeting in Paris. He based it upon a calculation of the quantity of water rocks such as granite and porphyry absorb before becoming perfectly dry.

It is said that on the moon all water has been completely absorbed by slow diffusion as the rocks gradually cooled. Venus is still surrounded by a thick layer of vapor, while no water has yet been detected on Mars.

Vermeut calculates that the rocks of our earth now contain absorbed water which would cover the earth to an average depth of about 400 meters.

Tilted Lady as Shoemaker.

It is an interesting fact that, although the women of the United Kingdom have invaded most employments that formerly were followed chiefly by men, the shoemaking trade has not experienced much change in this respect. Yet, something over a hundred years ago, shoemaking was one of the "employments of high society" in London.

It is said that in a letter to his brother, written about the year 1803, says, "In the evening we divided our time between music and shoemaking, which is now the staple trade of the family. I am today in a state of great anxiety, for I have made a pair of shoes there is news for you. So if all other trades fail I shall certainly establish myself, cross-legged, at the corner of any town, village, public square, or market of leather, awls and hammers."

Don't Have a Double Chin.

An investigator declares that the double chin is controlled and very largely mitigated. It depends largely upon the carriage and pose of the head. The person who has a repeated chin, he is threatened with one, should read the book by Dr. Edward Everett Hale's famous advice: "Look up, not down." The person who sits, bows, or walks, with an erect body and keeps the chin up-tilted, can defy the crease and the fatty ridge.

Changes Making Previous Statute More Stringent. One of Many Strong Measures Knelted.

In compliance with several requests the Times herewith publishes the new amendment to the Espionage Law. This is only one of several striking measures enacted this spring to curb sedition.

Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled: That section three of the title one of the act entitled "An Act to punish acts of interference with the foreign relations, the neutrality, and the foreign commerce of the United States, to punish espionage, and better to enforce the criminal laws of the United States, and for other purposes," approved June fifteenth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, be, and the same be hereby, amended so as to read as follows:

Sec. 3. Whoever, when the United States is at war, shall willfully make, or attempt to make, any statements with intent to interfere with the operation or success of the military or naval forces of the United States, or to promote the success of its enemies, or shall willfully make, or attempt to make, any statements, or any act or do anything, or give of bona fide aid and disloyal advice to an inventor or inventor, shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than ten years, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Whoever, when the United States is at war, shall willfully make, or attempt to make, any statements, or any act or do anything, or give of bona fide aid and disloyal advice to an inventor or inventor, shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than ten years, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Approved, May 16, 1918.

ALABAMA POLITICAL POT BOLES

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 6.—Polls is nothing in Alabama. The paramount question is that involving around the proposal to elect a legislative legislature pledged to adopt a resolution ratifying the federal prohibition amendment. The anti-amendment led their first battle last month when they failed to have the prohibition amendment thrown into an election.

State Meet of P. Called Off

Expense Money Will be Invested in Stamps and Bonds to Help Win the War.

The state meeting of the Idaho Grand Lodge of the Knights of Pythias will not be held this year, as was planned, and instead the money which it would cost to get the delegates here for the meeting will be invested in war saving stamps, according to a telegram received by City Clerk W. A. Blinck, of the reception committee today.

"Notice received that reduced rates for convention have been cancelled. Full fare would add $60 to the cost which would have to be borrowed. The annual session is hereby waived. Give statement to the newspapers, that the session has been waived to help win the war by purchasing war saving stamps and bonds. Hope you will hold the Dohy ceremonial."

The TIMES is an independent Democratic newspaper, but it knows no political party and is the most useful and vigorous proponent of the war that it is possible. Therefore, if you are any man, Democrat or Republican, caught throwing hardware into the machinery—either with his hands or with his mouth. If, like his "parlous," make the most of it!

TIME FOR HARMONY BETWEEN THE CITY AND COUNTRY

There is growing up between a number of good people in this city and a number of good people in the surrounding country a feeling bordering on hostility which is liable to create a great deal of loss and a great deal of nervous trouble unless it is allayed by a more complete understanding on both sides.

It is a matter of common knowledge that there exists in this state an organization known as the Non-Partisan League which has, at least for its avowed objects, nothing in it that is certain to offend the sensibilities of a platform. This platform has been published in the TIMES and discussed at length in several editorial. Until other plans are added, or the old demands are changed, or until new light is thrown on those demands, this paper does not feel it necessary to discuss these matters further.

From the political and economic point of view the TIMES is interested in a constructive policy—anything that it conceives to be democratic, and while not surrendering its individuality or independence to the keeping of any political party or political organization, it believes that notwithstanding its many human limitations, the Democratic party under present leadership is the best and most efficient vehicle for the carrying into effect of that policy. Unless the evidence clearly demonstrates something to the contrary, it is fully determined to adhere to and work through that political organization. A party, or political organization whether it calls itself partisan or not, is useful only insofar as it is an instrument capable of being effectively used in the carrying out of its policy. Now the TIMES' idea of its policy is a mission from a political point of view is that it should labor to secure the endorsement by the Democratic party of the democratic principles in which it believes, and then keep that party in line with such doctrines. Hence, its interest in some other organization, so far as economic principles are concerned is somewhat incidental. Principles can only be carried into effect through the vehicle which it called partisan or not.

The TIMES believes in keeping the Democratic party democratic, and then, should a non-partisan organization, or another partisan organization for that matter, wish to endorse its platform and ticket well and good; otherwise, let it go, "let it go," as the saying is. For instance, Governor Alexander espoused the cause of prohibition in a message to the legislature when he was first in office and that body acted on his recommendation. The TIMES is sure that he was not looking for the endorsement of the Prohibition party, yet he got it at the next election. It was up to the Prohibition party to do as it wanted to. The point is that he did right as he saw it. That is what the TIMES wants the Democratic party to continue to do, and if as a result, somebody wants to do what the Prohibition party did for Governor Alexander, well and good. If all parties want to "make it unanimous," well and good. So much for economic issues.

It is no secret that charges have been made against patriotism of the Non-Partisan League. So far as these charges are of a general nature and relate to the organization as applied to its membership, they are quite obviously false. The personal patriotism of nine-tenths of the membership is absolutely above all question. In fact the percentage named is conservative.

With reference to the personal patriotism of the original organizers, some of them have been arrested on charges of sedition, and in some in-

Old Soldier Fiddlers Rousing Chautauqua Attraction

Fiddling Old Tunes As They Did in Civil War Days

Four veterans of the Civil War—two former wearers of the blue and two ex-confederates, and a young soldier to thank—constitute the feature patriotic attraction which opens the Chautauqua this year.

"We don't read any music," says Col. John A. Patton, spokesman for the Old Soldier Fiddlers—"we simply saw away at the old tunes and our general average isn't very bad. We start in together and we manage to find our way together, which is pretty good for old folks like us. We favor the old tunes, the ones that folks hummed and whistled before and during the Civil War."

The four old soldiers saw active service, and three of them were wounded during the war. The youngest of the veterans is 75 and the oldest over 80 years young. The Chautauqua committee and Hillman-White management invite all G. A. R. veterans, their wives and widows to attend this program free of charge.

stances convictions have been secured in lower courts, from which appeals have been taken. So far as President Towney is concerned, he has been indicted and his trial is. The TIMES believes, still pending. The TIMES stated its position sometime ago when charges collected for such purpose. Pending the final determination of a criminal case, the TIMES believes that the benefit of the doubt should go to the defendant regarding the particular offense for which he is placed on trial.

All this has been said by this paper before and it is somewhat beside the purpose of this article. For, even if Towney and all the original organizers should prove to be pro-German spies and hanged; and if they should be so proven the TIMES trusts that they will be hanged, the majority of the members of the organization would still be personally patriotic.

Therefore, the question of the personal character of Towney presents an entirely different issue from that presented by the fact that farmers are organized in a society in which they are intensely interested, which they expect to manage themselves and the maintenance of which they feel is for the best interests of the community.

Their right to get into an organization, is, of course, unquestioned. Their ability from a purely financial point of view, to get along somehow, all by themselves, is also unquestioned. But the fact that man is a social animal precludes the best ethical end in the long run the best financial results from being attained without harmony and co-operation with neighbors. As an abstract proposition the country can get along without the town while the town cannot exist without the country. But this is practically untrue when anything like the best results are to be attained by the rural community.

"It is quite certain that, aside from the question of Towney and the original organizers of the league, there is a growing spirit of suspicion in some quarters rural and urban, which is very largely unfounded on both sides. Not wholly unfounded, perhaps, for the people on both sides are human. But most differences spring from misunderstandings. Now, if the merchants and the farmers could meet and thresh out their differences. The TIMES believes that they could come to a common understanding in a business way. Take a concrete instance: the use of "tin money" was abolished in this city on the representations of the farm bureau. The city council put in stickers, racks when the Women's Federation of local clubs called attention to the lack of such conveniences. The TIMES is convinced that there is not a merchant in this town who does not wish to do what he can to co-operate with the farmers; actuated in some degree by selfish motives, but also largely because he wants them to sublimely happen and triumphant German armies march, through Paris and London, she would still be defeated by America, which has aroused forces which armies cannot kill, or long enslave. The event will verify the prediction made by the TIMES Monday, June 4, in London—Europe today, that the raid will intensify war feeling in the United States.

WE MUST COME AHEAD

Twin Falls county has easily raised all her quota in the different Liberty Loan drives but she is far behind in her sales of War Saving Stamps. Up to June 1st the sale of stamps were only $100,000, whereas in that time nearly $200,000 should have been sold. Twin Falls county quota is $400,000 and it must be raised. "We dare not fall down in the critical time. Uncle Sam is depending on us to do our part and it Twin Falls county to maintain its present enviable position in war work in Idaho we must get busy at once buying War Savings Stamps. Have you your stand personally. If you purchased your just proportion to date. Have you kept the pledge you promised to keep in January. Have you been buying regularly ever since?

Sign up the pledge you made in January and then be prepared to go the limit with your pledge in the coming stamp drive during the week of June 20th and 21st. It is your absolute duty to buy these stamps and we must increase our sales and do it quick if we wish Twin Falls county to stay at the head of the War Savings Stamp list in Idaho.

Wake up. Buy stamps today and every day. Organize yourself and buy stamps regularly and constantly.

LEAN YEARS ARE UPON US

Levi and Mary Thelin, in The People's Home, are like straw, who glance at the wind blows. If we glance at some recent items from our West, we will see that we are leaning years are upon us. We shall discuss the food situation with regard to the food situation.

There is nothing to anything, surely it is in a situation similar to that which Joseph's brethren were in Egypt to get food. For we will stay with us at least as long as the seven years of famine that befell them is behind us. For England's wheat crop, in 1917, was only 65 per cent of normal and Italy's harvest only 30 per cent. The result is that we are in a position of acute shortage of food and we must face it.

THE PLAN WILL FAIL

Speculation is rife regarding the reasons why most of the German submarine raiders observed the principles of international law during their excursion to our coast, this week, as well as in regard to the reason for the whole raid. One theory is that they wanted to secure us so that we would be willing to grant peace on easy terms. Those advancing this idea hold that another German peace offer will soon be made. So far as another effort on the part of the central powers to secure peace is concerned, the TIMES believes that it will soon be made, and, moreover, believes that the present raid had direct connection with such offer. It believes that the unusual degree of urbanity shown by the majority of the German commanders had for its object the creating of a more favorable impression of German military methods in the minds of the American people, in order that they might be in a psychological condition to receive peace proposals amply, and consider them more favorably.

'JOE MUST BE DEAD'

The recent death of Rear Admiral Monaghan Smith, U. S. N., recalls an incident of the rebellion which has found its way into print before, but which has been forgotten and forgotten. It relates to a namesake and relative of the deceased, Commodore J. Smith, for many years chief of the bureau of Paris and docks.

The news of the Merrimac's arrival at Hampton Roads and of the day's fight before met, the Monitor reached Washington on a Sunday afternoon. The telegram was brief but complete control of the Roads. Merrimac were hastily dispatched, summoned to the scene by the navy council at the navy department. One of these messengers sent in search of Commodore Smith found that officer had been killed and he returned to know that the commodore's only son was "first lieutenant" of the United States Navy. "Commodore," said the man, "there is a new name from Hampton Roads. The Merrimac has come down from Norfolk, and she has been disabled, the Commodore and his crew are on the pier and she has surrendered."

"Surrendered?" the Congress "haunched down her colors" repeated the commodore. And as the messenger returned to the navy department, "Joe is dead," said the commodore, simply—and that was all. The younger son of the Commodore was a most satisfactory character as to honor his memory before he died. The direct such a tribute as that. "Joe" was in charge against the woman is fortunate, dead, as modest and as brave a fellow.

GLASS IN CORN MEAL Mr. Pittalo came to the sheriff's office Thursday forenoon with a good sized assortment of broken glass which had been sifted from a few plants of corn meal by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Pittalo, who has two children, a son and a half-mile west of Hansen. The glass was not powdered, but broken into pieces the size of a pea, half and smaller, and was especially peculiar. It was evidently from several different sources. Some of the pieces showed the quirkiness of a broken mirror, while others were window and bottle glass.

DESERTERS WERE MOONSHINEERS FLORENCE, Ala., June 6—When the Lauderdale authorities were advised that several army deserters were hiding in the country the sheriff ordered a posse and started a search. "Local" deserters were found, sought in a moonshine still. The still had 1,600 gallons capacity. The deserters fled, but two were shot and wounded. Five-five moonshiners still have been destroyed in Lauderdale county since January 1.

ST. LOUIS MO, June 6—Mrs. Emma Bracken, thirty, of this city, was arrested following a report that she was offering for sale 100 gallons of "love powder" that would enable any man they engaged to "love powder" to win the affection of any woman they engaged. The direct such a tribute as that. "Joe" was in charge against the woman is fortunate, dead, as modest and as brave a fellow.

Los Angeles Man Gets a Sedition Sentence

Released on Parole When Judge is Convinced That He Acted Through Ignorance.

LOS ANGELES—Peter Blankstrom, proprietor of the Pacific Auto & Supply Company, at 445 North Broadway avenue, was sentenced by Police Judge George B. Richardson yesterday to a 30-day sentence in the city jail for seditious utterances, but was released within an hour of his imprisonment.

This circumstance, which came to light yesterday, is being investigated by members of the Auto Industrial team, who are securing subscriptions for Liberty bonds.

Blankstrom was convicted of distributing the peace on the testimony of Kirk B. Waller and Charles H. Little, two bond salesmen of the auto industrial team.

He related that he had refused to buy a bond, saying, "I'm not interested in the outcome of this war; let the best man win, I'll go to jail before I'll buy a bond."

In pronouncing the sentence Judge Richardson observed, "The law limits your sentence to 30 days. I'm sorry I can't give you more than that."

An hour after Blankstrom started serving his sentence, he was released, called at the jail and had his sentence of imprisonment to a suspended sentence.

It appears that Blankstrom, following his incarceration, got in touch with William La Plant, a attorney, and that the latter called on Judge Richardson.

"I told the judge," said La Plant, "that Blankstrom was an ignorant man and did not appreciate the significance of his remarks; furthermore, I was able to produce 30 days of work that he would buy a $100 Liberty bond. On this showing Judge Richardson agreed to have the sentence suspended."

Judge Richardson yesterday denied that he had first sentenced Blankstrom to serve a 30-day term, but later had it changed. "Upon the showing made in his behalf in court," said Judge Richardson, "I gave him a suspended sentence, but only on condition that he would buy a $100 bond."

The records of the latter show that the original sentence was 30 days in prison and that Judge Richardson, upon being called in person with the order for his modification.

Although Attorney La Plant asserted that Blankstrom had bought a bond a member of the war squad of the police department, who investigated the matter yesterday, said that Blankstrom informed him that he had paid $10 down on a $100 bond. When asked to show the receipt the man said his wife had it.

The case of Blankstrom was originally called to the attention of Harold L. Arnold, chairman of the auto industrial team, by H. W. Tuttle of the Howard Automobile company and chief of division in the bond selling campaign.

"Blankstrom had made unapologetic statements to bond head H. W. Tuttle, and in order to learn of the situation at first hand I went with him on a second trip to his home. His statements and attitude were so entirely seditious that I asked for his arrest."

"It is with the greatest surprise that we learn he has been given a suspended sentence, particularly in view of the judge's attitude of condemnation at the conclusion of the hearing in police court."

ILLINOIS WOMEN HOPING FOR FULFILLMENT OF PLEDGE REGISTERATION

CHICAGO, June 6.—The annual Spring conference of the women's committee of the Illinois State Council of Defense closed here yesterday. More than 600,000 women of Illinois have been registered for war service in this organization. Governor Lowden has issued an appeal to every woman in the state to register for war services. The woman's committee is now engaged in a big drive if an effort to get complete registration.

The Twin Falls Times has all the latest news up to the time of going to press—fresh from the news wire which is employed in our office.

Superior Equipment Demanded for Allies

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Superiority of equipment for the allies, regardless of the extent of their losses, is the task that President Wilson's cabinet has taken upon itself.

Means have been perfected at a meeting here to keep equipment rushing overseas to replace that which has been lost during the great offensive on the western front. This will apply especially to machine guns, of which a large number have been captured by the Germans. It is understood.

Optimism was the keynote of the meeting despite the admitted gravity of the situation on the western front. The vital part Americans are playing in the offensive was discussed and it is understood that plans were shaped for sending the men over in even larger numbers than have been transported recently.

An Alarming Situation

We have told you in our advertisements that our business in Idaho last year resulted in a deficit in our revenues of $118,233.76.

Here are some figures showing an even more alarming situation:

So far in 1918 our gross income increased 9.8 per cent over the same period of 1917. But—

The expense of operating our plant during the same time increased 47.5 per cent.

The expense of maintaining our lines and equipment during the same period increased 18.1 per cent, and—

This means that unless some measure of relief is accorded us through increased revenues the year 1918 will close with a deficit of over two hundred thousand dollars in Idaho.

Obviously, our revenue and expense problem is one that will not solve itself—the solution lies in adjustments of rates that will produce revenues sufficient to cover these ever-increasing costs.
