service commissions, thoroughly tested and upheld by the courts, are ample for the protection of the public interest in our grain and wheat. It is also to be recalled that good service can be obtained only by just and equitable treatment. No stored horse ever pulled a heavy load. The utilities have been deprived of the power to make unjust in their terms. They must also be protected against unjust losses. If a utility is driven into a position where its credit is impaired and it can obtain no more credit, the public and extensions only at unreasonable cost, the public must share the loss.

Hail is H

When your crop is devastated and you did not carry hail insurance. What would you do about losses? Hail insurance is the only way to protect your crops from being wiped out by hail!

You never before had so much to insure in your crop and you never had such urgent demands of you for money. Where would it come from if you were blighted out? Such losses this year would mean financial ruin to many. You can not afford to take the chances. Think it over and then come in and insure your wheat, corn, etc., before it is too late. Landlord or tenant can insure a share of crop and pay insurance only on the part insured.

THE LITTLE MOTHER

She brings me back to her each year. That quiet, little wistful one I want to see her—have her near. And hear her callin' to me, "Son," it's somehow sweeter said by her. As if the very country air, with summer buds and scent of it had made her voice and speeches fair. She brings me back—from distant lands. No matter where I am—come; God bless those happy, outcasted hands. And lips that ecstasy makes dumb! "My Boy!" My Boy! that's her touch. And in the kindly, wrinkled face I look at me in holy way. And Peace broods in the homing place. Each year, since leaving her, I've made This pilgrimage of mother-love; And twelve months, as the season's fade His eyes bend happily alone, I seem to know that when I'm here Two presences are mine, in truth, A Holy One I hold most dear, And she who taught of Him at youth. The valley lies serene and white beneath its sepulcher of snow; Great flowers burst their tough-bosoms. Yet life still plagues it, I know. The wide, pale panorama brings visions of the boyhood days that were; The map-bears in me blitely rise, How once I'm here with her—with her! —W. Livingston Larned, In The People's Home Journal. DO YOU KNOW THAT— America raises more food, eats more food, wastes more food and that Americans pay higher prices for food than any other people on earth. In Germany, today, no food is permitted to be tried. This is to conserve food. Great food surpluses are carefully gathered up by the government and soaped up as a luxury for millionaires. In our country, surplus surpluses on cans of tomatoes, corn, string beans, apples, pumpkin and other surpluses have grown that cannot be used and are gathered in the forest by remaining in the original tins as long as sixty years after being opened. Good doctors and many public health authorities agree that Americans would be healthier, happier and

NEW YORK, June 25—Lightweight champion Benny Leonard has been doing his bit to help win the war and provide Uncle Sam's warriors with some of the things they need to make camp life more attractive.

The popular little champion started out as a boxing instructor in the east, and as such he was highly successful. His work was praised by army officers, and the spirit he injected into the men under his tutelage was made evident when, on one occasion, a boxing tournament at one of the Long Island cantonments was witnessed by more than 2000 soldier boys and their officers.

But Leonard's work as an instructor has been but a small part of the "bit" after a war, for though he has spent more time at it than at anything else, his exhibition bouts, especially those in one corner, are being a great boon to the army and navy as well.

Leonard's activities in California ration camps have won the approval of 40,000 athletic fans at various camps in the Golden State. In San Francisco Leonard has been successful in raising $20,000 out of one big carnival, and San Francisco was justly proud of that feat, for it proved beyond a doubt that the spirit and patriotism of the fighting fans are at fever heat.

Since returning East Leonard has received many hundreds of dollars to the total which he has placed at his disposal for athletic funds for army camps, and his work in this way alone is more valuable to the army and its services worked in the western front in France. General Pershing has repeatedly spoken of the value of wholesome athletic amusement for the troops, and the benefit they derive from it cannot be overestimated.

YOU AND OUR CASUALTY LIST

Have you noticed our casualty list recently? Do you realize that out of 2,300 of our boys have been killed or wounded or captured by the Hun? That is the total and from that total and accident amount to more than 3,000. The list grows with the days, and will grow the more quickly as the number of the boys in action increases. The casualty list makes you more readily understand, perhaps, why the government of these humanitarian nations is so connected with war work, necessarily for financial support. Funds are needed to keep our men equipped to keep them from being killed or kept cheerless up—to give them something they should have and as quickly as possible, so that the casualties may not be increased because of the lack of anything. And do not forget that the number of men who are provided for increases each day, which means the need of more and more support for you. You are now asked to pledge yourself to the government for the ability and to buy W. S. & C. that there may be more money, labor, and materials to help us to keep up those who fight and die for you. We would do this in sure to remember that in being allowed to do it you are granted a great favor. Others give their lives.

THE GOSPEL AS TO PUBLIC UTILITIES

The Oregon Public Service Commission says: Under state regulation of utility rates it is permitted to increase surplus during good times by which to carry itself over the lean years to help itself, no ahead of it. Rates must be set so that the public is not unfairly treated with the value and the cost of the utility rendered. Justice requires that when rates go up, rates should be lowered. It is time for the public to realize that the powers conferred upon public

A GREAT IMPROVEMENT

Referring to the newly enacted "Overman" law, the "Post" well says: "Until a month ago it could not be fairly said that anybody was responsible for the thriftings of the government departments of the government. Congress was not responsible, for the men who ran the departments were not answerable to it, but to the president. And the president was not responsible, because his hands were guided by congressional interference, congress dictating the manner in which the departments should be organized, and numbered and named. We possess, and various other details. — "The Overman law gives the president, for the first time, a pretty free hand. He can change the organization of the departments and rearrange their personnel at will. For the first time both authority and responsibility are lodged in his hands. "The law's operation is now limited to the duration of the war; but it must be made permanent. "Responsibility for the departments must remain fixed and centered. We believe Mr. Wilson will take such advantage of the opportunity now given him to reform the departments that public opinion will not tolerate a lapse to the old situation. "We look hopefully to the Overman law as the beginning of respectable American government on the technical side."

FEWER SPENDS 80 HOURS ON WRECK

Rescued Man Gives Thrilling Story of His Perils.

ALMOST GONE WHEN SAVED

Ensign Stone and Companion Cling to Wrecked Seaplane for 80 Hours in English Channel Without Food or Water—One of Most Remarkable Incidents of Seaplane Pilot Co-operating With Convoy.

A full report of the rescue of Ensign F. A. Stone, U. S. naval reserve force, who, with a companion, clung to a wrecked seaplane for 80 hours in the English Channel without food and water before being picked up by a trawler, was received by the committee on public information from its representative in London.

Ensign Stone was given up for drowned several weeks ago, but after five weeks in a hospital he was returned to London. The perils through which the two men passed safely constitute one of the thrilling incidents of the seaplane pilot co-operating with the convoy.

"I left our station in a British seaplane as pilot," said Ensign Stone, "with Sub-Lieut. Eric Moore of the Royal naval air service, as observer, at 11 a. m. My duty was to escort the main fleet of the convoy, but having met our ship coming from the westward, we thought we sighted a periscope and turned off in pursuit. We flew over the sea for some time and reached home. But the first, which was white-checked, lit on our machine and would not budge until Moore threw our navigation clock at him. We had probably upset him so that he fell out.

"Heavy seas smashed our tail planes, which kept settling. I saw that they were pulling the machines down by the rear, turning her over. We were two in. We were captured, climbing up the nose and over-the-top to the underside of the pontoon.

"Our emergency ration had been in the observer's seat at the back; but we had been so busy trying to repair the motor and save ourselves from turning over that we did not remember this until too late. From now on for nearly 80 days, our only food was what we had in our pockets, and we were continually soaked and lashed by seas, and with nothing to eat or drink. We had nothing to cling to, and so to keep from being washed overboard we were forced to keep our position and hugged our arms about one another's bodies for the whole time.

"We suffered from thirst. I had a craving for mineral powder. I had a dizziness come on, vomiting the food. We turned on our stomachs and lapped up the moisture, but the pain came off with salt and nauseated us.

"The sea became more and more. "Our limbs grew numb. From time to time the wreckage from torpedoed ships would pass. Once two full barrels came close enough to swim toward us. We were so weak, however, we knew that we would drown if it were to get to them. We did haul in a third tin and broke it open. It was filled with tobacco.

"We sighted a trawler about six o'clock on Tuesday evening. We waved at her for half an hour before she changed her course. We were both too weak to stand up and signal. We could only sit on our knees. Moore's hands were too swollen to hold a handkerchief, but I had kept my gloves on and was able to do so. The trawler moved warily around us, but finally threw life preservers at the end of a line. I yelled that we were to work to grasp it. She finally hove to, lowered a boat and lifted us on board.

"Moore lost six toes from gangrene. In hospital, my feet turned black, but decay didn't set in."

Every machine from the seaplane is now being used in a station of Norfolk, Va., born July 10, 1901. His mother, Mrs. Clara Stone, lives at the Red Gate apartments, Norfolk.

National Air Plan.

Here is the "National air" plan, the newest plan for farmers to help fight the flue:

Set aside one acre of your farm to be planted and cultivated as the "National air" plan. The acre will be used in buying thirt stalks. The idea is spreading over Georgia and South Carolina.

Cows Drank on Apple Pulp.

Apple pulp shipped from a client of Yalkey, Wash., and fed as an experiment to dairy cows on a Tieton ranch a few days ago made the animals so drunk that few of them were able to stand up and many of them staggered about the intoxicated ranch.

BRITISH SUPERIOR IN TANK BATTLE

Enemy Land Ships, Flea, Badly Beaten, After Rough Fight in Picardy.

German tanks which made their first appearance on the western front during the recent German offensive came off second best in their encounter with the more powerful and better managed British tanks.

Full accounts have just reached the British general staff in London of the first pitched battle between German and British tanks, which took place in the area of German land ships was routed completely by the British. The battle occurred on April 24 near Villers-Bretonneux, south of the Somme in Picardy.

Six German tanks appeared in front of the British line shortly before noon and started to roll up the flanks of the British infantry positions. A call for help was sent to the nearest British tank camp and a squadron, including both "male" and "female" tanks shortly appeared on the scene. A rough-and-tumble combat ensued.

The British female tanks, which appeared first, were outfought, but the arrival of the heavier male tanks completely changed the situation and the Germans fled after receiving a bad beating.

Despite the British had brought up seven of the new fast cruiser tanks, called "Whippet tanks," which dived and attacked the enemy's infantry positions on a ridge, rolling up the German line and cutting it off. It developed that this ridge was held by a line of machine gun posts, while beyond the crest a large German force was "muzzling" in the open for an attack. The Whippets ran from shell hole to shell hole, inflicting terrible casualties and completely disorganizing the enemy's preparations for attack.

These enemy tanks, each with a full crew of twenty men, inflicted more than four hundred casualties on the enemy in this engagement, while the casualties on board the tanks were only five men. The tanks left the field shortly before noon and were back at their base again by three o'clock in the afternoon.

BROTHERS REUNITED AFTER MANY YEARS

The war has brought together in New York city two French brothers who had not seen each other for ten years. One is Rene Humbert, a member of Pershing's army in France, now home on furlough, and the other is Marcel Humbert, a member of the division of the famous French Alpine chassours, now visiting the United States. Both Rene and Marcel Humbert were born in France. Ten years ago the Humbert family emigrated to America, Marcel remaining behind. He joined the famous "Blue Devils" at the outbreak of the war and has been in many battles. Marcel also joined the regular American army and went to France with Pershing's 43rd division, returning two weeks ago with a detachment of Americans who were sent to the United States to aid the Liberty Loan drive and also to boost army recruiting. The two brothers were attending an outdoor meeting in New York city ten days ago when they recognized each other. The reunion began right then and there.

River "Soaked" With Liquor.

The Leavenworth will emptied more than five hundred quarts of beer and whiskey into the Missouri river in one day. The bottles were broken on the bridge railing before the liquor was consigned "to the muddy waters. The liquor was sold in raids and from bootleggers bringing it into the state from Missouri and was used as "evidence" in trials in court.

Invents Flying Torpedo.

Thomas G. Aultman, a mechanical genius of Farmington, Mo., has perfected a flying torpedo which may be the answer to the German 75-mile gun. The torpedo, the inventor claims, can be sent any distance and dropped at will. It is controlled by a radio signal. The torpedo is propelled by a small gasoline engine and has a lifting capacity of 1,200 pounds.

Democratic Party with Woodrow Wilson at Its Head to Do It

Alexander was introduced and made a stirring speech in which he said that the political discussion was abjured by the President and the convention might as well make it unanimous. The Democratic party ought to be proud of its great achievements as God Almighty had written its platform which month the carrying out of the principles of Thomas Jefferson throughout the world and led selected Woodrow Wilson to see that it was done. He asserted that criticisms of Woodrow Wilson had proven unfounded, and praised his accomplishment of the several departments which had triumphantly refused the detestful prediction of their critics. He deprecated peace talk, saying that he would have the sense of peace that is demanded before we would quit the war whether it would be in six months or five years and Woodrow Wilson would write the treaty of peace for the world.

The address evoked the greatest enthusiasm. Former Senator Fred T. Dubois made a carefully prepared speech in which he urged harmony in the interest of the country before political divisions and arguments were presented when he said: "Let us choose for this campaign, not a presidential candidate, but a national candidate. Let us nominate candidates on our respective tickets, selecting the most worthy, then go forth for a high-minded campaign!" He lauded President Wilson.

While here in regard to ordinance committee work in which Bureau has a commissioner, former Senator Dubois is believed to voice to a great extent the sentiments of the administration. He is understood to be strongly for the reorganization of Senator Nugent.

Former Governor Hawley was then introduced and introduced as Idaho's grand old man. He stirred the Democrats to wild applause in his vigorous demand for enthusiastic support of the President in his great war policies. Turning to local state affairs he said that if any man or party should be especially denounced and the seat of disapproval placed upon it, he said that any man who at this time and going up and down trying to stir up class hatred and individual job representation and vituperation and trying to build up a party on class lines instead of the lines of principle should be strongly condemned. He pleaded for full support for the sons who are fighting in France.

Democratic party with Woodrow Wilson at its head to do it. The speech of Dr. Richard von Kuehlmann in the German Reichstag did not meet with an enthusiastic reception in Germany, said an Amsterdam dispatch to the Express today.

The pan-Germans are unlikely to forgive the reference to Germany's wish to live within their historical frontiers" although for the future this would include practically the whole world, the telegram stated. The Liberals and Socialists are sure to reproach von Kuehlmann for his hypocrisy regarding Belgium.

The Express labeled his comment on the speech "burglars' swag." This paper said:

Von Kuehlmann's speech was a naive admission that Germany has rifled the orchard in eastern Europe and is eager for peace to eat the apples. But the allies are not ready to discuss peace and leave a Germany master in the east, thus abandoning the Russian people to perpetual German servitude. Woodrow Wilson has made it clear that the allies still demand peace that means freedom."

Dr. von Kuehlmann apparently addressed the Reichstag twice, the first before the chancellor spoke and then again afterwards. His second speech was evidently an explanation of the first.

Von Kuehlmann associated himself with the opinion of Count Westarp, the Conservative leader, that the "word must bring peace" adding: "A military success is the first condition for the basis of diplomatic negotiations."

The speaker's terms were so vague that he was constantly interrupted by the Conservative questioners.

APRIL LIVESTOCK MOVEMENT.

Increased receipts and shipments of cattle, hogs and sheep at 57 markets (April 1918 compared with April 1917, as shown by the final stock reports for April, issued May 11, by the bureau of markets. Receipts of cattle were 216,154; sheep, 1,132,822; and hogs, 33, 234, and 5 per cent, respectively from cattle, 74,704,285; hogs, 1,265,215; and sheep, 438,644; the respective increases over April, 1917, being 37.1, 53.4, and 33.4 per cent.

Shipments also show increases for the four month period of this year compared to 1917, the percentages at 45 markets being cattle, 20.3; hogs, 21.2; and sheep, 18.6.

The total receipts of sheep in April, 1918, are increased by the returns from 31 markets, which receipts jumped 1,132,822 over April, 1917.

Local slaughter figures at 46 markets for April were: Cattle, 1,232,049; hogs, 2,265,443; and sheep, 700; an increase of 30.8 and 12.1 per cent for cattle and hogs and a decrease of 4.5 per cent for sheep.

Receipts of hores and mules at 45 markets in April were 40,633 compared to 39,661 in April, 1917. Shipments for the same months were 41,183 compared to 41,521 in April last year. The figures on horses and mules will continue and after a few months, however, show only slight decrease.

PENCIL PUSHERS GET FACETIOUS

The American press humiliate its position in Chicago Monday, with the American army was on the run, ready to give 'aid and comfort' to an enemy of the United States—but they do not fear trial under the espionage act. Considering the high cost of leather, and the effects upon shoes of long distance marathons, they being resolved as follows: 'Whores, and so forth and by any name, and all that sort of thing; let the rest of that organization pay the running expenses of the Austrian army.' And the vote was unanimous.

MR. DELANO RESIGNS

WOULD GO TO FRANCE WASHINGTON, June 25—Governor Harding of the federal reserve board today tentatively accepted the resignation of Frederick A. Delano, a member of the board. Mr. Delano's resignation is contingent entirely upon his obtaining a commission as major of engineers with General Pershing's forces. In his resignation, Mr. Delano expressed a desire to see active service, having had 29 years practical experience as a railroad engineer. He was president of the Moon Route of the Chicago, Indianapolis, and Louisville railroad, and afterward president of the Chicago Burlington & Quincy railroad. Mr. Delano has been in touch with General Pershing. It is known, having requested a commission with the corps of engineers now constructing railroads in France. His resignation will not take effect, however, until he is ready for overseas service.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Do you wish something you can enjoy that tends to banish all things which annoy.

That will make you glad and feel much stronger.

And make you think you want to live longer.

Brighten your bills and lessen your work.

And make you friends out of all your foes?

We are sure, be wise and secure it. We're positive, friends, our paper will do it.

The following is taken from the book "Hundred Years Ago," written by Walter D. Stevens, of Columbia: An old settler, T. S. Scammond, of Minner Springs, remembers when he and his brother were chased out of a field by deer because they ventured too near a doe. In his backyard he built traps to catch quail which he sold for fifteen cents a dozen at the hotel's shop. I recall in those days we killed our birds in the woods, where they were eaten on acorns, and we could have all the honey we wanted by going into the timber and chopping down a beech. And just think of it! There was a rise in the price of wheat, and it got to be worth thirty cents for $1.00 cash. The kind of oats the Lincoln made cost thirty-seven and one-half cents per 100—that is the price for making them, not the price paid for them. I recall that in the month and two sulls of cotton or linen clothing, and two blankets. The best class of clothing was made for $4 a month. All of our shoes and clothing were hand-made, and yet there were our dresses made. I recall we did have biscuits only once a week and that on Sunday morning. Venison and wild turkey, with old-fashioned cornbread, johnnycakes and trimmings were good enough for us and made life worth the living.

When a person gets something for nothing, said something usually contains a joker or has a string attached to it. Firsthand a certain name in Ohio, received from a patent medicine company an offer to provide his church with some books free of any charge. It was explained that there would be a few ads in the front and back of the books, but that these ads would not be offensive to the members of the congregation, since the books were being secured for nothing. The preacher gave the order and the books arrived. He read them and he was mildly worried and decided to use the books. He explained from the pulpit how the books had been secured and announced that they would cost No. 214. Imagine the people's surprise when, on reaching the second verse, they found themselves alone. "Hark, the heavenly angels sing, Johnson's pills are just the thing; angelic pills mock and mild—two for man and one."

A fellow in a neighboring town recently gave notice to his wife, a grey whip was returned to a certain place, the name of the person who took it would be published in the paper. The following morning he had a serenitent luggie whips in the place designated.

Tearing another's character to pieces will not help you no matter how dirty the other man's may be. Pointing out the weakness of your neighbor's yard will not make those in your own yard more beautiful. The white cottage and brown mansion each hide trouble from the other. People talk and know not where they speak. They retail stender to show how foul is the dish most suitable to them. Let us walk straight along. Let us each mind our own business and we will never be out of employment.

Our citizens should take pride in their homes. The word "home" next to that of "mother" is the greatest ever uttered by human tongue. Next a refuge the home is when darkness gathers. How glad you should be to get a glimpse of home when time and you have separated from it only for a period. There seems to be a rivalry here in an effort to make "our home" look a little neater and thus to the more inviting to the occupants than all others. Such rivalry is certainly un-American.

A farmer near our town recently hired a lad to help him do chores. One morning he told him to take some salt and salt a calf out in the pasture. The boy took a quart of salt with him and thoroughly salted it all over the calf, working it into the hair. A gang of cubs in the pasture scented the salt and got after the calf. They licked all the hair off the calf and licked the hide off too.

If perchance a copy of this paper should fall into the hands of any man in search of a new location—a place where you can live the quiet life of number of years without the fear of pestilence or famine, we say, like one of old, "Come thus with us and we will do you good," with emphasis on the "do."

If before every Fourth of July all cities and towns were given a thorough cleaning of rubbish, and all use of explosives then restricted as to time and place, and all of the public wardens might have at least a fighting chance to minimize the disastrous results of our public folly during the years it may require to locate in our people a desire for a national day of celebration. And such a desire must be inspired. It is the duty of every citizen to arrange for his people's suitable amusements or exercises, definitely calculated to educate them in a rational observance of this historic holiday. Habits of folly can be most easily eliminated by a substitution of something better. The things a city can do to interest its citizens in a national and wholesome celebration are unlimited, and the municipalities which in the

VICTORY OR DEFEAT WHAT THEY MEAN

(Contributed by Hamilton Frye to the National Security League's campaign of patriotism through education.)

The victory of Germany means to Americans, first of all, bitter personal humiliation. It would mean that for the first time in their history Americans had failed in a task to which they had set their hands for the advancement of human dignity and freedom.

Secondly, the victory of Germany would entail upon democracy, the principle of the government of the people by themselves and for themselves, a disabling wound. It would disastrously strengthen the opposing principle of irresponsible autocracy or oligarchy, the rule of one man, or a few men, against which every American has since the founding of this nation, felt his duty and privilege to fight.

Thirdly, the victory of this principle would cast down the Monroe doctrine, for the autocrat would surely stretch out his covetous fingers towards South America and would establish himself as the paramount power in that continent.

Fourthly, it would result from a German victory that the freedom of every American in commerce, in industry, in travel, and in the daily life, fair even of life at home, would be endangered. The pursuit of German "culture" as announced by one of Germany's war aims, the "kultur" which Nietzsche has so aptly described, declared to be "surrounded by the spell and atmosphere of the middle ages." Their methods of making war have proved the justice of the hostile criticism. Their victory would be at once followed by the attempt to impose militarism upon the world, the defeat of Germany will mean for every American the personal satisfaction of having destroyed another Germany; of having freed the world from a misleader, and the German people themselves from the incubus of absolutism of having cleared the ground for that better principle which alone can ensure the right of each and all to live peacefully according to their own ideas of having fought bravely and successfully once again in the liberation-war of humanity.

Don't be a chump. Give your trade to the merchants who keep store the year round. Buy of the man who stands at your side at the tax collector's counter. Buy of the man who is your neighbor, your acquaintance, your friend. Buy of the man who is a factor in the town you live in, who helps to make a market for the things you have to sell. Buy of the home merchant that advertises in the newspaper.

One of our local secret societies has the following motto which it would be well for all of us to have framed and hang in a conspicuous place in our homes: "There is so much to be lost of us, and so much good in the worst of us, it hardly behooves any of us to speak ill of the rest of us."

The man who cannot keep a 24-hour in decent shape is usually quite successful in half hearted management.

The American Lumberman has some timely advice on that subject that is as applicable in our town as anywhere else. It says that if you want to see this town grow you should remember that a part of it and that part of it grows depends as much on you as on your neighbors. Don't get the idea that the future prosperity of this town rests with a few, for it is the business of the many. Above all, don't criticize those who are building up the town and praising yourself. They at least have the proper spirit and just as long as you deny them your support, just that much harder their work will be. Be a booster for the town and lend your co-operation to those who had the nerve to start first. It is never too late to begin.

Among the new farm tractors one should be the one that is made in so arranged that implements used with it are essentially integral parts of the machine when in place. The fore part of the frame shaped like an inverted "U." This permits a steel box with hinges and a chain-wagon capacity to be unloading. By removing the latter a special built binder may be coupled in position. The operator is seated in a position independent of that of the tractor so that their speed may be increased, and the progress of the machine retarded, when a light or heavy grain is encountered.

When you go to a boarding house to eat you select what you want and don't kick because a man eats everything on the table and pays the same bill as you. You make a rear if something in the newspapers doesn't suit you. It always places doesn't suit you. Don't be a philosopher about your stomach and a fool about your head.

A counterfeiter ten dollar bill is often sold to be hard to detect. We have no fears on our part—don't handle that kind of denotation.

What is laughter? asks a scientist. It is a sound you heard when your hat blows off.

Girls Enthusiastic Take Place of Pittsburgh Bellhop

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 26.—Girls were taking the place of the bell boys in this city. One of the leading hotels has a score of pretty young women engaged and ready to employ if it is found necessary. "In many cases the girls can render more efficient service than the boys," declared the manager. "The girls, when mildly ardent in the morning and wishes to have her head freed for the day she telephoned her order to the captain of the hotel. The captain of the ushers is trained in the art of attending the coffee."

HOW FAR BEHIND THE BOYS ARE YOU?

One of Perahing's men, returned from France, was speaking: "When I got home," he said, "the boys over there were feeling pretty blue, because they thought that you here in America were not keeping them up as you ought. We had a pretty good feeling over here. The weather was the coldest France has known in years. Many of us were without shoes and, and many of those were worn without shoes. None of us were complaining, though, but the feeling that when we were doing no more for you here, you were doing everything in your power to back us up sometimes bit in pretty hard."

"The boys over here," the Irishman blurted in a Y. M. C. A. hat one evening. A bunch of us had gathered there to listen to a speaker from America. During the course of his lecture he said: "We in America are behind you here."

"Then my little Irish friend got up. 'Yes,' he said, 'you're all behind us all right. 'H—' of 'w—' behind—4000 miles."

Are you that far behind 'the boys'?
