FIGHTING SAID TO BE STILL

Crown Prince of Late Czar Again
Declared Murdered by a Bolshevik Bomb According to a Swedish Correspondent.

AMSTERDAM, July 11.—Fighting between the counter revolutionaries and the bolsheviks is still in progress in Moscow, according to the latest advices reaching here.

It was stated that the counter revolutionaries had barricaded the municipal theatre and were defending themselves against attacks.

General Korniloff has issued a proclamation, informing the Don district that he is near at hand with a large force and asked that he be received as a friend, according to a dispatch received here today.

LONDON, July 11.—The czarvitch, son of the former czar of Russia, and the Russian throne, was murdered by a bolshevik soldier who threw a bomb, said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen today, quoting a Swedish newspaper.

From time to time during the past few weeks there have been various reports of the death of the czarvitch, his wife, the czarvitch and the Grand Duchess Tatiana. The former has been stated that he is still in existence and has died a natural death. None of the stories have as yet been officially confirmed.

LONDON, July 11.—General Korniloff, former commander of the Russian Cossacks has issued a proclamation stating that he is about to recognize the soviet control of the Russian army if a campaign is organized against Germany having the negotiation of the allies help said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Moscow.

General Korniloff was recently reported to have been wounded.

BONE DRY WINS
BUT IS LAID
OVER FOR WIRES

TELEGRAPH MATTERS TAKE PRECEDENCE OF AGRICULTURAL BILL

Unanimous Consent Is Given

Senate Will be in Session Continuously Until the Matter of Taking Over W. U. and Postal Union Is Authorized.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The wire cable vote will be kept continuously before the senate until a vote is reached. Unanimous consent was given this afternoon for the food protection bill, containing the "bone dry" law, and for the amendment to be laid aside in favor of the telegraph and telephone resolution.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—War time
"bone dry" prohibition was still the issue in the senate today with a bare possibility that it would be laid aside for consideration of the wire control and telephone resolution.

"That advocates of prohibition would allow that question to be laid aside only temporarily to consider the resolution allowing the president to take over control for the period of the war of the telegraph and telephone lines of the country, was not regarded as likely, however."

Resolution in the senate was a decided victory when the chair was overruled after sustaining a point of order against allowing the "bone dry" amendment to remain in the food protection bill.

Immediately after the effort to eliminate the amendment was defeated, Senator Phelan, of California, moved to eliminate wine or vinous liquors from the provision of the amendment, and resumed speaking on his motion when the senate convened today.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Telegrapher demonstrations, whose expenses were paid by Newsweek, president of the Western Union Telegraph company, meeting here, have taken initial steps toward the organization of a "Commercial Telegraphers' Union," which, according to D. E. Black of St. Louis, temporary chairman, will be totally divorced from the Commercial Telegraphers' Union.

The step was taken toward the organization following suggestion by the union of labor federations recognition of the organized telegraphers organization of the telegraphers.

"The sense of the meeting was that the Commercial Telegraphers' Union does not represent the Western Union telegraphers because few are members of the union," said Mr. Black.

"Such an organization would be emasculated at the start, for Cardon would represent both company and union," said Mr. Black.

"The union," said Mr. Black,
"is not a union of telegraphers, but of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union."
"And one cannot properly serve two masters."

Cotton and Wheat

Foreign Trade Has Increased—Wages High but Labor Is Scarce—Postoffice and Railroad Receipts Showing Gains.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Business is booming and crops are excellent in practically every part of the United States, according to the federal reserve bulletin for the month ending June 23, issued this afternoon. Business is "very active" and wages are high, but labor is scarce in the following districts: Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond,
Atlanta, Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Dallas and San Francisco.

The cotton and wheat crops are particularly good, the bulletin said.
Foreign trade has greatly increased in all districts, but construction, except for war purposes, is dull. Postoffice and railroad receipts have increased, but construction receipts have fallen. The bulletin showed.

Austrians Confess
Albania Retreat

Claim to Have Organized New Defensive Positions—Rome Awards Glories of Great Import

VIENNA, via London, July 11.—Another admission that the Austro-Hungarian lines have been withdrawn in southern Albania (western end of the Balkan front) was made by the Austrian war office today. It was officially announced that the Austro-Hungarian forces had organized new defensive positions. A French attack in the sector of the Devoll valley was repulsed. It was said.

ROME, July 11.—The line of advance of the Italian army in Albania and French forces in Albania is as important in proportion as the Piave route on the Italian front. It was declared today in London by military circles. The allies in Albania have now advanced from 18 to 25 miles at some points.

A great amount of booty has been captured from the Austro-Hungarians.

der cover of darkness last night amid a hail of bullets from a number of being an I. W. W. leader and a director of German propaganda.

Seven shots of violence have been six German prisoners, thus deny-

Farmers Oppose
Universal Training

Favor Pending War Measures But Are Anxious Military Service For All
After War

KANSAS CITY, July 11.—The American Federation of Farmers at a special meeting here today, adopted resolutions opposing universal military training at the close of the war.

In other resolutions they pledge their loyalty to the government.

This organization, which embraces practically all grangers, farmers' unions and societies, which was formed in 1889 as the American Federation of Organized Producers and Consumers. The name was changed by a vote of the members at today's meeting. H. N. Hope of Fort Worth, Texas, is president. The fourth annual convention will be held in October, the scene to be selected later by the executive committee.

ALLIES GAIN ON SEVERAL FRONTS SINCE LAST REPORT

British Win Opposite Amiens—French Take the Village of Corcy—Italians and French Capture Strategic Points in Albania, in the Balkans—Austrians Lose in Small Fights in Italy—Little Activity on the American Front.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Successful Italian operations on a large scale continue in Albania, according to dispatches from Rome received at the Italian embassy this afternoon.

Italian infantry, advancing from Vojussa carried all positions to a depth of thirty kilometers on a front of one hundred kilometers, running from the Adriatic sea to Tomar. On the left wing Italian cavalry propelled by British monitors, commanded by Fieri, Austrian aviation camps and large quantities of material were captured in this movement. The Italian right wing, after violent fighting moved forward, taking the strong Bera positions, assuring Italian command safe possession of
Bera city and the Devoll river valley.

(Frank Charlton, I. N. S. Cable Editor)

Further gains have been made by the allies on nearly all of the battle fronts during the past 24 hours.

Briefly they may be summarized as follows:

Piavly.—The British improved their positions east of Villers-Bretonneux, (opposite Amiens) extending their lines.

Marne.—The French captured the village of Corcy in a storm attack, taking nearby ground and beating in the northern wing of the German salient that has its apex at Favellies.

Balkan.—In southern Albania French and Italian troops have advanced in the Dekoli and Semet valleys, occupying high ground of great strategic importance.

On the Italian front there have been minor operations and artillery duels, but the Italians have contented themselves chiefly with reorganizing and strengthening the newly captured positions on the Piave.

Even interest continues to be directed towards the allies operations in the Balkans. This is probably the most obscure theater of war in all Europe and news of operations there dribbles out slowly.

The allies have advanced their lines in southern Albania to an average depth of about fifteen miles and the important town of Berat (30 miles northeast of Valona) is now surrounded on three sides. The Franco-Italian detachments that reached the middle of the Semet river are now far to the northwest of Berat while the allied detachments that are fighting in the Dekoli valley now stand northeast of the town.

Unless there is some unforeseen eventuality Berat will probably fall very shortly.

It is not at all improbable that the allies may attempt to land troops north of the present fighting line in Albania if a suitable harbor can be found for the purpose.

The Austro-Hungarians could be taken on two flanks then and be compelled to withdraw from the coast into the interior mountains.

Events in Russia are still commanding much interest. General Korniloff, who was great distinction during the fighting days of the Russian army, is again reported to be leading a counter revolution.
Korniloff has twice been reported dead and not long ago was said to be suffering from a severe wound and living on public charity.
Consequently it can be seen that "news" coming out of Russia must be treated with considerable reserve.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Decreasing activities in all the sectors held by American troops is noted in General Pershing's communique of July 10, made public this afternoon by the war department. The respite of enemy raiding parties that tried to enter the American lines is recorded. The communique also announced the names of fifteen officers and men who were awarded the distinguished service cross for gallantry in the actions of April 10 and 12.

ROME, July 11.—Heavy artillery duels continue along the Brenia valley, the Italian war office reported today.

There were patrol activities elsewhere.

The Austro-Hungarians made attempts to advance in the Anafro-Cor-one sector, but were repulsed.

LOXON, July 11.—Again the British have improved their positions east of Villers-Bretonneux on the Piave front.

The British war office in its official statement today announced the British success in the Villers-Bretonneux sector and also reported successful raids in the sectors of Meris and Pesbroux.

Artillery activity continues on the Somme.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—New prisoners captured by the Italians along the Piave place the Austrian losses in the last offensive at 25,000. Rome dispatches said this afternoon. The prisoners said the Italian offensive was a complete surprise to the Austrian high command.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Now reports of food shortage in the Austrian empire reached Washington this afternoon from official Italian sources.
Severe cold weather in Austria has caused a failure of crops, on which the government was depending to relieve the situation. In Pilsner and adjacent districts.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Italian troops, cooperating with the French in the Albanian offensive, which now includes the attention of the world, have captured four towns and 1,200 Austrian soldiers.

SAYS NONPARTISAN LEAGUE WANTS TOWNS TO PROSPER

Editor Times,
Twin Falls, Idaho.

In an editorial a few weeks ago the Times advocated harmony between city and country. This, of course, is a desirable thing, particularly in a republic. But, at times there arises a political issue in which it appears that the interests of the city and the country are not the same. Now, whether or not this is the case of this issue, or if only apparent, is an important question.

In Montana the farmers have organized in the Nonpartisan League and have announced a political program which has for its purpose the cutting of the cost of middlemen service. Naturally, the people of the cities, whose business men perform a part of the middlemen function want to know how far it is proposed to carry this program out.

If its adoption means the destruction of the cities, the cities would of course be against it. But let us look at the Nonpartisan League's proposals to have the state perform the larger function of marketing, now handled by the food trusts. The Nonpartisan League does not propose to have the state go into the drug, hardware, grocery and wall paper business. It wants the people to have the right to sell their products in a free market, and cutting down the cost of the same.

There has been a condition grown up in this country by which the marketing of almost all of the products of the farmers of Idaho are handled by a few food trusts. These trusts, by reason of their position, have set aside the law of supply and demand and have instituted a system of artificial prices, which the farmer calls "the law of unrestricted greed." They follow the product from farm to consumer and are largely responsible for the high prices of living. It is estimated from government statistics that every dollar paid by the consumer, but 35 cents goes to the farmer. The other 65 cents goes to the middlemen and the profiteers. This 65 cents is entirely too much. The farmer has no other way to get his product to the consumer except at the cost to the benefit of both producer and consumer.

The prosperity of every city in a farming community depends on the prosperity of the farmers around about. If the farmers are making money they will prosper. If they are not making money, they will fail. It is a fair return for their work. They naturally spend more money in the cities than they do if they are cramped and hard up.

We have an example in this in the government's wool program, which is under the direction of a Montana man, the Honorable J. H. McMillan. He is taking the entire wool output this year, allowing the commission men only four per cent of the gross proceeds. He is marketing the product. This move was made because the speculators made between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 profit from the wool crop last year. As the price is fixed by the government and will be the same this year as it was last, almost all of that $25,000,000 or $30,000,000 will go to the sheep farmers. Now, the share that goes to Idaho farmers will help them to live better. It will give the farmers more money to spend. If the same thing could be done with wheat, cattle and other farm products, Idaho would enter on an era of unprecedented prosperity.

The packing trust and the flour trust have been a fear to the Nonpartisan League but the business men of the small towns have not. Their interests lie with the farmers and not with the capitalists. They are anxious to keep these two elements apart is not one founded on intelligence or material interests. The farmers and the men of the small cities should get together and talk things over, as you suggest. They will find that, after all, they are not so different as the drummers tell them they are.

Why should farmers not love their country and people, and be proud of what they helped to build? Their interests are ours? It is the city's play and cowardice of man to call them cowards. Why should we call them cowards? They are a Christian, God-loving people. The Nonpartisan speakers have proven to be as loyal to the defense of our homes and country.

It is quoted in the issue of the 7th inst. that the mayor of Twin Falls said he would call the police and stop any sedition preached at their meeting. We hope he will likewise stop any violation of our state constitution and preserve law and order.

Yours truly,
MRS. M. H. BARNES,

CATCH 'EM ALIVE IN NOW
THE HOGAN AT YASSAR

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 11.—Yassar farmettes have received their latest instructions. After arriving at a school in the morning and holding for eight hours or so, with the necessary recess for meals, the workers are to go to the college lake and catch frogs for the training camp.

This new bit of recreation is not compulsory, but it is merely an more evidence of the spirit of friendliness existing between the training camp and the farmettes. As a sport it is very interesting, with enough chance to make it interesting.

The "only materials needed" are an old butterfly net and a large bottle. One wades along the edge of the lake until there is a splash. Out flies the net, and a large frog is trying to climb six inches or so of mosquito netting. The transfer to the bottle is always exciting, especially when there are several lively ones already in the bottle.

The farmettes also have been asked to save all the mice they catch for the biological use of the nurses. Now the "catch 'em alive" sort of trap is more popular than those that snap to kill.

WILD BOY FROM SIBERIA IS HARMLESS 7-YEAR-OLD

CHICAGO, July 11.—"Captured in Siberia—the only real wild boy in captivity"—that has been the cry before a circus tent at a local amusement park where came the little boy who rolled in. When his "trainer" spoke to him the "wild boy" would snap and bark and would argue as the curious ones thing for their money.

But the "wild boy" is no more, for members of the Humane society here have taken the fact that the boy is seven-year-old Julius Graubert, "rented" to the park concession for $25 a week. The wild boy has been placed in an institution and legal action is expected against parent and park.

CANADIAN BOULDER TOURISTS NOT FORCED TO REGISTER

CHICAGO, July 11.—Canadian government officials here have received emphatic denial of the report coming from Toronto that American tourists going to Canada must register. In a letter to the United States Canadian registration board declared that bona fide travelers, American citizens and citizens of allied or neutral countries who come to Canada as tourists and are assured of courteous treatment and a welcome. They may enter and leave Canada without difficulty, according to a recent amendment to passport laws given out at Ottawa.

WOMEN CAN KEEP SECRETS!

LONDON, July 11.—Women can do so keep secrets as well as men. This statement was made recently by the Bankers' Magazine relative to the employment of women as bank clerks. British bankers were skeptical when the employment of women was first considered, believing customers would withdraw for fear that their financial affairs might become the subject of gossip.

The magazine said that after three years of experience with women clerks all ground for fear of such a "catastrophe" has been dispelled.

REINFORCED SHIPS TO BE MADE AT SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—San Francisco has given the world the concrete ship, the catamaran tractor, and the aerial torpedo; now comes an idea which will revolutionize the shipping industry. It is a reinforced ship, which will prove a great aid to shipping. Backed by New York capital, reported to be over $25,000,000, a group of local shipping men are arranging to proceed with the construction of reinforced steel-hulled ships. The vessels will be constructed from the hulls and keels from Mount Lassen Volcano in California.

In order to demonstrate the new vessels, the designers have ordered two were constructed, one of concrete, one of pumice and steel. When subjected to tests it was found that the craft built from the volcanic material was stronger than the concrete and could withstand lighter. The test is given as 52 to 100.

WORK HARD AND DON'T WORRY

If There May Be Said to Be a Recipe for a Long and Happy Life, Why, There It Is.

America is anxiously scanning the country—these days—politely receptive to the dream possibilities of war. Yet, if we paused to think, we should find, as the Equitable Life Assurance society has deduced from its vast experience in mortality data, that "worry kills more men than war and disease put together." We read of those killed in action, dead of wounds, accidents or disease at the front, and our hearts are aching for the loss of these brave boys, but day by day a large number of men are dying of worry. Some are spoken of as victims of heart work, of overwork, but if the truth were known, it would be found it was worry that had killed them. It is worry that kills.

A young man, for instance, rises to the head of a good business or to some other responsible position. Perhaps he begins to shiver, to ease up a little, and leaves the details to his subordinates. Things do not move as fast as he wishes, and he begins to find he has lost his grip of affairs and begins to worry. His friends think hard work killed him, but it was worry that killed him. While he is worrying, his work is being done by others, and he is being engulfed in it, as it will any man capable of a career. Work left him no time for worry. Keep pecking away. Carry on the grip of duty that upsets the balance of a man's mechanism, brings loss of power, slacking down the engine and ultimately racking it to pieces.

But in mind that "worry kills more men than war and disease put together" and do shape your life and habituate your mind that you cannot be a victim.

UTILIZE COMBINGS OF DOGS

English Women Making Articles for the Red Cross From Somehow Odd Materials.

The picturesque spinning wheel is coming into its own again in England, but in certain instances an unusual material is employed to work upon. The they get dogs, so very often the fine combings of dogs are used. "Doing their bit," Watch the spinner at the wheel and guess what her soft and fluffy raw material is! Just study the combings of Flots and Plo, and a host of similar pets. The softness of these combings suggests the fore-thought Shetland, and the wool produced provides for jerseys, mufflers, bedcovers, and operation stockings, of which the Red Cross say they can never have too many. Of course these doggie-combings receive special treatment before they reach the spinning wheel. It seems that the use of dog's hair for wool manufacture is not new, as a lady in England tells of her mother having a fleece suit years ago, the material for which was contributed by a favorite Chow. Goslop has been in London that only the fear of looking ahead prevented the women's branch of the industry of national service from instituting a scheme for collecting dog's hair. Perhaps the little dogs are trying to justify their lives, in the face of suggestions that their food is more needed in England than their presence.

Every Tooth Valued

"All right, here they are, look at them." This was the reply of a local manufacturer whose health has been unsatisfactory and who went to a local doctor for examination and treatment. Said the doctor: "You are ordered patients to have their teeth extracted when rheumatism or other aches fail to respond to treatment. Some perfectly sound teeth have been extracted in the past months of illness and they say the loss of all the teeth has in some cases shut off the poison which poisons is said to supply to the circulatory system. This particular man suffered from a thorough eye examination and the doctor then said: "I can't find the cause of the trouble. There must be something wrong in your teeth. Let me look at them."

And then the accomplished dentist pulled his mouth and handed the astonished doctor an upper and lower plates—Indianapolis News.

How "Johnny Cake" Got Name

One brave coming into its own is a repetition of the story of Civil war days in the Confederacy. At that time the bread situation became acute and throughout the South the people suffered. Some of the four articles with corn pone, later creating what we today know as corn bread. Southern soldiers saw very little other bread during the war. These fighters sold their corn pone to the army and were known to the "Yankees" as "Johnny Cakes" and when it was learned that they ate corn bread the federal soldiers at once named it "Johnny Cake."

Duck of the House.

The "Duck" man had called, and asked the housewife for the name of the occupant.

"What is his Smith," he asked briefly, then, pointing the sudden glare in her eye, he added, "If you are married, it's your husband's name."

"Oh, he will, with?" exclaimed the housewife, with some indignation. "Well, if he's the head, then I'm the neck, and he's a headless neck, so I think it is best to call him a neck to wag it."

FRANKLIN

Differences and Distinctions in Automobiles

Something a good many people never understand is that there are Differences and Distinctions in Automobiles, not only between cars of different makes and makes, but also among models of the same make.

As has been pointed out the Franklin is a different car from all other cars of American manufacture, and a better car than any other.

It is distinctive in every way. More comfortable, more economical, easier to drive and control, safer and retaining greater value under use.

But the three models made by the Franklin Company are also different and distinctive when compared with each other. Each of these models is designed for definite service, and each the nearest to absolute perfection for that service that human ingenuity has so far accomplished.

The newest model and the one least known is, to many people the most attractive of them all. This is the four-passenger Roadster.

Thought and experience were used in its designing. It is true, fine and graceful. It is noticeable and the subject of universal admiration. It is COMFORTABLE. Franklin patent design makes it so—comfortable to get in and comfortable to ride in. The seats are real seats, not makeshifts.

It is fine looking and at the same time it is economical. Twenty miles to the gallon of gasoline and 10,000 miles to the set of tires, is something worth looking for in a car. It is in this way the Franklin has answered wartime demand for saving.

We have four-passenger roadsters and other models of Franklins on hand. It would be well to investigate now before there are further price advances. Don't be afraid the salesman will bore you. He lets the car tell its own story.

ENGLISH AND IRISH GIRLS NIGHT OFFICERS, BUT THEY
LIFE THE ENLIGHTENED ONE

NEW YORK, July 11.—American men, who have said goodbye to Jim with each big bear rolling down your cheeks, cheer up! Because, if you only knew it, pretty Irish girls and English girls are meeting him when he lands on their shores and being just as kind to him as they know how. Of course, they're doing it in a perfectly proper and common sense sort of way. That ought to help, too.

Mrs. James Scrimmer, of London, while visiting here recently, told the girls in England and Ireland had preferred the American soldiers to the officers because of the recent stories about their daring and bravery.

These girls have come to believe the American enlisted men are the only ones doing the fighting," she said, "and they will have very little to do with your officers any more. Whenever there is a battle of American troops English and Irish girls line the sidewalks and the buildings and take down flowers over the heads of the young men in khaki and notes with their names. There will be many a red little British girl when your boys come home."

ILLUMINATING FISH IS USED FOR SEARCHLIGHT

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 11.—Captain Cicerella, of the fishing boat Lena, who fishes for the market in waters south of this vicinity, reports the capture of an immense Coryphaena (lemonhead), sometimes called the red sea devil, or mullus, or mullus.

This fish was caught, says Cicerella, in the usual one night and almost caused a fit among the crew, so they had visions of a submarine when they discovered they were hauling aboard a large light.

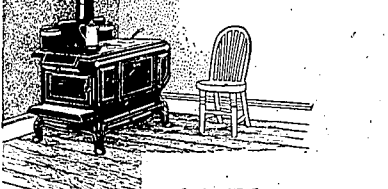

Captain Cicerella reported the fish which was about the weight and size of a June fish, was thrown into the salt bath, where it was kept alive by aid of the pumps.

The boss of the smack avers by use of a common mirror he was able to watch the fish as a searchlight, but the further north the vessel sailed the weaker the light became and finally went out entirely.

The death of the light-giving fish is attributed by experts to the fact that northern waters do not furnish sufficient phosphorus to sustain this species of sea monster.

THE DAILY TWIN FALLS TIMES

Published Every Day Except Sunday
By the
TWIN PRINTING & PUBLISHING CO.

Views of the World to the Hour
James D. Whelan Editor

(Entered at the Twin Falls postoffice as second-class matter as a daily publication, April 11, 1913.)

The TIMES is an Independent Democratic newspaper, but it knows no politics as opposed to the most unbridled and vigorous protection of the war that is possible. Therefore, it is AGAINST any man, Democrat or Republican, caught throwing hardware into the machinery—either with his hands or with his mouth. If this be "partisan," make the most of it!

IS COAL-RATIONING COMING?

Second warning by the national fuel administrator concerning the impending coal shortage next winter should have a more impressive effect upon consumers than did his first warning in July a month ago. Even in the west, where the people repose so confidently upon their unlimited and inexhaustible supply of fuel, provided the railroads can only be induced or cajoled to haul it, there should be a keener sense of the gravity of the situation. The past year's experience of these communities in the restriction of their use of coal, oil, kerosene and other products, of which there is usually an abundance, ought to convince everybody that a system of rationing in view of the fact that coal is a commodity as coal is a possibility easily to be contemplated.

A month ago Mr. Garfield made it plain that for the next twelve months the country would need eighty million tons of coal more than it used during the past year; yet the figures of probable production, based on the labor return from the mines and on the transportation facilities, do not justify the hope of more than about twenty million tons of increased output. One need not be much of a mathematician to discern that this simply means the necessity for saving somewhere and somehow during the ensuing twelve months the large amount of sixty million tons. The increased consumption is due almost wholly to the seething activity in the nation's war industries, and in this direction there can be no thought of relaxing the effort. The disappointing small increase in the output of the mines is due to the shortage of labor, and this also appears to be a matter beyond present remedy. There is no visible escape, therefore, from the dilemma: this sixty million tons of coal must be saved. But how?

Two plans suggest themselves. First, rigid economy on the part of users; and this is very clearly the inspiration of Dr. Garfield's present warning, with the slight suggestion that if consumers will not economize voluntarily they may be compelled to do so. And second, the restriction of coal consumption by districts not essential to the conduct of the war. In this direction, Dr. Garfield's bureau has already taken one long step, that is, in reducing by 25 per cent the amount of coal that may be consumed in the manufacture of pleasure automobiles. Other similar steps in the same line, and even more drastic in character may be ordered before the country sees its way out of the present really gloomy fuel prospect for the coming winter—Deseret News.

Just how far the interference of the government must go is a big question. All hope that a golden mean can be found where the most satisfactory results will be attained with the least possible regulation, but since the ordinary processes of business have been thrown into confusion by war, regulation as a lesser of evils must be extended as far as necessary.

Many forms of regulation divert from the channels of normal production a number of people in order to carry out the regulations. In a sense, they, too, are producers, insofar as their regulation makes for conservation: profited that they conserve through their efforts more than they would otherwise produce. It is to be hoped that the people will co-operate voluntarily and effectively to render unnecessary the diversion of many from the field of production to the occupation of regulation.

In some cases regulations are intended to secure uniform and universal observance of rules that have previously been established by the majority of those engaged in business, for instance the new rulings about the closing of stores at four o'clock where in these colonies today are already voluntarily enforced by nearly all the mercantile establishments in this city, and very largely throughout the state. In such cases the difficulties of enforcement are negligible, and differ greatly from those encountered in other lines where the obstacles in the nature of things are very great.

TIMES APPRECIATES

APPRECIATION

The TIMES appreciates the many compliments it is receiving for the interest it has shown in its effort to get the town and country together more effectively for the upbuilding of Twin Falls county and southern Idaho.

lo. The proprietor of a clothing establishment said last evening that any co-operation he could give would be gladly extended. A banker remarked, "You are certainly doing the right thing, as we all want to unite with the farmers to push their interests, on which the prosperity of the city depends." A grocer said: "There is no difference between the farmer and merchant. I understand and appreciate the way that you folks are doing things and I am sure that if there is any misunderstanding you will find out what it is so that it can be corrected. Another said: 'I tell you butlers, one thing is certain, and that is that even the dearest of the dead, the most jealous of the jealous, and the smallest of the small, will give you a vote of thanks for what you are doing for him through bringing about a better understanding.'"

The TIMES feels that it owes it to southern Idaho to secure the harmonious relationship of the people. As its circulation grows, so it must grow in service and usefulness. A newspaper plant is a business. The principle of business is exchange of services for services. It is the motto of sound political economy. Those who serve only themselves, without thought of or help to others have failed.

RECOGNIZING "DANGER"

The Puget Sound Tribune "views with alarm" the present condition of Idaho politics and sees in the stars the possibility of two Democratic senators from the Gem state. Here is trouble indeed. And the worst of it is that the thing is feasible and will likely come to pass. As a matter of fact, if it does the extremists in the Republican party "have themselves to blame." Months ago they executed a bi-partisan agreement, which existed only in their own heated imaginations, and elected the fact that some Democratic newspapers had gone so far as to intimate that while they did not have any confidence in Borah, yet in the interest of the war, conditions might arise where they would think it advisable to consider the proposition of leaving him none unmentioned. Talk of trade there was none of the Democratic side. But the Republican side, or a good part of it, at once began to throw its. Although there in three consecutive campaigns those papers talked big about Idaho being a solid Republican state and about the "certainty of carrying" it for both Republican nominees. Things look now as if two good Democrats, in line with the president on the great issue of international adjustment will be found in the U. S. Senate and J. H. Hawley, who will be elected, and so the organs of the G. O. P. have begun to deplore the partnership of it all.

Solomn Procession at Mitchell Funeral

Famous Former Mayor Takes Last Ride With Many Noted Men In Last Journey—Strikes Lines

NEW YORK, July 11.—With three squadrons of military aviators dropping flowers from the sky on the cortege and the entire city paying silent tribute, together with national and international dignitaries, the funeral of Major John Purroy Mitchell, ex-mayor of New York, who was killed in an airplane accident at Lake Charles, La., was held today with full military honors.

The body of Major Mitchell was carried from the ruins of the city where it rested in state since yesterday afternoon, noon after 8 o'clock this morning, and placed upon the sun caisson which carried it to St. Patrick's cathedral for funeral services and later to burial in Woodlawn cemetery.

A solemn multitude of citizens thronged City Hall park and stood in silent homage to the departed aviator as the funeral procession started. The military decoration of three thousand men stood at attention and saluted as the flag draped caisson was borne down the steps by eight khaki clad army sergeants.

Prominent representatives of every branch of civil, military, social, religious and political life fell in line behind the body. More than 10,000 persons joined the procession, forming the most impressive funeral cortege ever witnessed in the city.

Preceding the caisson walked the honorary pall bearers, a group of men of national reputation, including Col. Theodore Roosevelt and prominent military officers. Following the caisson came the city officials, headed by Mayor Hylan and representatives of every friendly foreign country.

Alfalfa and Grain are Big Money Makers at CAPAY RANCHO

Rich Land with plenty of water, fine climate and close to Markets, $175 an acre

Here's the place for the farmer who is ambitious. From grain crops alone it should be easily possible to completely pay for your land at Capay Ranch in two or three years at the outside. Experienced, successful farmers from all sections of the Pacific Coast, including the Dakotas, say they never saw such marvelous growth of alfalfa and grain.

The peculiar richness of the soil, the climatic conditions and constant abundance of water combine to make this one of the most remarkable alfalfa producing sections in all California. The yields average from six to ten tons an acre per year.

A good deal of the barley on the ranch will go 30 sacks to the acre this year—without irrigation. What crops are looking splendid. Even volunteer barley, oat and buckwheat lay cut this year run about two tons to the acre. This hay is bringing now $10.00 and more per ton and will probably bring more than twice that this fall.

Individual Electrically Operated Pumping Plant on Every 80 Acres Included in the Price of the Land.

Electric Light on every Farm, Good Roads, Close to Markets.

The way this land has been snapped up by thrifty farmers from older sections of the Pacific Coast is the best evidence of the unusualness of the opportunity that awaits you here. Some of the finest orange, lemon, almond and prune orchards in the state are in this immediate district. A good many of the farmers are going in for fruit. Some for dairying and some for hogs and chickens. Almost any crops you mention will make money for you here. It will pay you to look into the proposition, because the price of the land is away below its intrinsic value. But look into it now. There is comparatively little of the land left. If you delay it may be too late. Use the coupon below.

We will be glad to refer you to farmers in your very locality who have bought at Capay Ranch.

Big Dairy Meet at Park Yesterday

Gathering of Else Counties to Work for the Interest of Southern Idaho.

Seventy-five persons, representing five counties in this state attended the dairymen's picnic in the City park yesterday. The picnic was sponsored by President George Kunze, of the Bush Pioneer Contesting association, who gave a warm and sincere address of welcome, making the visitors and local men feel closely allied in their common task as dairymen.

HENRY R. WALTHALL
In the G-part feature now showing at the Orpheum theatre

Fervent of the western dairy division of Salt Lake gave a technical talk on the subject of dairying, and the difficulties confronting dairymen. The speaker was Joseph Hansen, secretary of the state council of defense, gave an especially appealing review of his life since coming to America from Denmark. His father, who had been an apprentice in a shoe shop, but very low wages, returned to Denmark after he had spent a number of years in free America in that dairy but one who had worked with him had died while carrying on a same occupation, this one, who had a position as assistant in a postoffice for very low wages. Through his story, Mr. Hansen succeeded in drawing the contrasting pictures for his hearers.

of the Dane who stayed at home and the Dane who came to America. Joseph Goldman, a Jewish rabbi who lost his parents, wife and six children in a massacre in Russia, told how he had rescued his one son from the Russian army when they disbanded after the Germans had disrupted Russia, and brought him to America. This son is now in Camp Lewis, proving that he has adapted this for his country.

After votes of thanks to the speakers and those who helped to make the meeting a success, they disbanded.

The purpose of the gathering was to encourage the raising of more dairy cattle in southern Idaho. The increased cost of feed and war conditions have temporarily resulted in a stacking up of the development of the live stock and dairy business, and an organized effort is now being made to get up the enthusiasm recently manifested to again make them possible.

CASTLEFORD IN LINE FOR CO-OPERATION OF THE PEOPLE

Spirit of Getting Together Manifested in the Thriving Inland Village—Merchants and Farmers All Standing Together to Build Things Up.

About noon yesterday the "Cub Reporter" landed at Castleford, and after a good meal, we took in the sights of that thriving little town, which is situated so that the farmer can reach it easily, and the citizens that we had the pleasure of meeting were a set of good fellows socially.

The nerve took advantage of the treatment accorded him, and asked the merchants as to how business was—and as to the way they handled things in their thriving little "borg," and without an exception, the response came: "We believe in co-operation." This is the spirit that seems to prevail all over the tract where we have been, and the Castleford section is one of the best for farming in all Idaho, and we were glad to learn that the farmer and the merchant had a gentlemanly understanding, whereby they were living as one happy family.

If you have never been over the farm lands that go to make up the section that surrounds Castleford, it will pay you 500 per cent. on the investment, if you will just take a peep at this valley, where everything is a reward and a gain.

The word "Co-operation" never sounded better than it does today, in these times when every citizen of the United States is putting forth their best efforts to assist in the great war effort—and in handling up the present for a democracy that stands for something.

Below will be found a partial list of what we saw, and the names of those that were glad to meet and mingle with representatives of a newspaper that is doing all it can for the territory that it covers like a blanket, and for the betterment of mankind.

On the ranch of Otis and Claude Kelley we learned that they had 120 acres, which was all with wheat and berries, and while we did not meet either of the owners, Mr. Kelley, the father of the boys, said in answer to many questions: "We are all well pleased, and as we have been blessed with plenty of water, why should there be any kind of trouble. When the new manager took charge, it seemed to us as though the water started to flow at once, and it has been coming right along ever since."

—UB—
In our travels we ran into M. C. Glodowski, and when we told the gentleman that we were writing up the farmer, he seemed to become alarmed, and before he got through stammering up, he had pictured us up as the nastiest, meanest, and when he looked over and saw our Ford, he clasped us with "John D." After convincing him that the large (7) car was looking at him was all in name grass, and I do not believe that a crow ever flew over it—I looked to poor for a buzzard to land on. I stayed with him, and you will not find better producing land than this. If at all of the boys are as well pleased as I am, they certainly do feel like singing the "Old Ship of Zion" for our crops are better than we were looking for."

—UB—
In our travels we ran into E. O. Spielberg, the merchant-farmer, who has under his supervision 140 acres in wheat, alfalfa, clover and beans, which looks as though he is going to draw down the "biggest" 140 acres in the harvest season. He seemed glad to see his newspaper friends from Twin Falls, and said: "I had the finest trial crop of alfalfa that I have ever gotten off of this land since I have had it, and all the crops are good. I see that you boys in The Times are trying to do something for the farmer, and I like the way that you are going about it. This is the best alfalfa about the farms in this good old state of Idaho—they are a loyal bunch, and all they want is co-operation, and if they get that you will see every city and village in southern Idaho, grow and bloom as the rose." The merchant and the farmer have the same interest at stake, and say, boys—well, you just ought to see how things are handled here around Castleford. The Times is doing a great work, and I hope that you will keep it up until you have accomplished what I believe that you started out to do—make a bigger, better and more prosperous farming country, and a united country and city folk. Keep up the good work."

—UB—
H. W. Wolter, the bustling manager of the Idaho-Pacetic Hotel, gave us, handed us the glad hand, and said: "I am glad that you came out here, and it will save me a lot of a stamp. I was going to order The Times, and here is the money, start it at once. I have been reading what you had to say about farmers, and you have started something that will be of benefit in every section, where the soil is producing, and you will have to take the whole old fellow to get out of the farm belt in southern Idaho, for this is the best farming country in the West. Every man out here treats his fellowman as a brother, and they seem to know nothing but co-operation. The rancher tells me that the crops are better than they were last year, and they were bumpy—well, with a solid community of happy people, like they are around Castleford, we are preparing to raise enough grain to feed our boys who are doing so much for us—and down the ladder. The manager that has charge of the water, is sending it over this way, and you can bet that they are happy as can be over the coming harvest of wheat, and there will be some corn, and a good yield."

—UB—
G. L. Evelev, manager for Reynolds Brothers at Castleford, was found in his praise as to the outlook for the farmer, and said that he had never seen conditions better.

—UB—
George Wade has 160 in wheat, barley and hay, and said: "This is growing weather for the farmer, and my crop is better than I expected it would be. You see, we have had plenty of water, and there is no reason why that we should not have crops when we have water. I could ask for no more than a fair yield, and I am going to beat that."

—UB—
Martin Miller is preening over a new tractor, and he is wheat, alfalfa, and barley. When asked as to crop conditions, he said: "No complaint—they are fine, and while I do not know the new manager who has been giving us such good service in the way of water, I want to meet him, for he certainly has given us good service. It seems to me that there should be no kick coming out this way, for the crops did fair to go 'Over the Top' in large and bountiful."

—UB—
H. L. Conrad, who presides over a school in the school, alfalfa, and clover. Mr. Conrad was not at home, but we learned that he was bothered a little with aphids, but was not alarmed.

—UB—
At the ranch of Carl Miller, we were informed by the foreman that Mr. Miller had just left for the city, and we did not have the pleasure of meeting him. Mr. Miller has in the crops of wheat and alfalfa, and if the informant is right he will get a large yield.

—UB—
W. M. Quigley was found at home on his 240, and it seemed to the writer that everywhere he looked there was nothing but the finest of crops looking up. Mr. Quigley said that he would commence his harvest about August 15, and that he expected to reap a rich harvest from the seeds sown.

—UB—
J. Becker, of Opden, who has 250 in his tract, was found at the ranch and seemed in the best of spirits over the final results. He said: "There is no cause for alarm as to what this land will do, and I just came over the other day over the crops grow." I will be in Twin on my return to Opden, and I will drop in and have The Times follow me. You are getting out a good paper, and I will enjoy it this winter during long cool months."

—UB—
F. A. Irigoiner has two tracts of 160 each, and they are in wheat, beans and alfalfa. He also has a bunch of fine sheep. He said to the writer: "I am an old-timer. I came to this section when it was all in name grass, and I do not believe that a crow ever flew over it—I looked to poor for a buzzard to land on. I stayed with him, and you will not find better producing land than this. If at all of the boys are as well pleased as I am, they certainly do feel like singing the 'Old Ship of Zion' for our crops are better than we were looking for."

Double Up Takes Where Possible

New Revenue Bill Cannot Add Hundred Per Cent to Highest Income or Profit Tax.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—In writing new revenue bill the house ways and means committee will, so far as possible, double the taxes levied in the last revenue bill. It was stated on high authority today. The last revenue bill returned income over $40,000,000; the new measure must produce $50,000,000. Some of the taxes it will be impossible to double. Income and excise profits taxes ranging up to sixty per cent and higher obviously cannot be doubled. They will be radically increased, however. Luxury taxes will be levied to make up the amounts lost on commodities whose production cannot well be increased. The luxury list sent by the treasury department to the committee probably will be disregarded, members said today. Some of the suggestions it contained were already in the minds of some committee members, however, and they will be followed.

The committee had reached few definite conclusions in specific problems today. It had decided that taxes on tobacco must at least be doubled; that taxes ranging from 1 to 20 per cent on the purchase price of automobiles must be set; that no taxes should be levied on oil or sugar.

Clothing for both men and women costing more than $40 probably will be taxed up to twenty per cent. Cattle at more than $20 will be taxed on the same scale. Taxes on jewelry probably will range up to ten per cent, with perhaps a 500 per cent tax on the platinum stamp.

The committee has not yet considered wheat, cotton or lumber as possible sources of revenue. Those will come in for consideration later.

Huns Spent Thirty on Propaganda

Arrest of Dr. Himmely May be Followed by Many Others Alleged Implicated.

NEW YORK, July 10.—Following the information that the Evening Mail of this city had been purchased by agents of the Imperial German government, it was reported today that Germany had agreed to pay $200,000 to Germany for propaganda purposes in this country and today federal agents are said to be making a nationwide investigation to determine how this sum was disbursed.

The arrest of Dr. Edward A. Himmely, owner of the Evening Mail, on a perjury charge and his subsequent release on $25,000 bail, may be followed by the making of a nationwide investigation to determine how this sum was disbursed.

The primary purpose of the German government in attempting to gain control of the country for propaganda purposes was to keep the country out of the war, but the chief side issue was to disseminate powerful peace propaganda.

The grand jury is making an investigation, but so intricate is the path through which the German agents controlled their negotiations that developments are expected to move slowly.
