

TRICK PROVES BOOMERANG TO ITS OWNERS

AGAINST DAN M. DENTON, PROPRIETOR OF TIMES

Statement Signed by Eldridge Campaign Committee Declares Denton Attempted to Steal City's Water Rights and Shares From the Canal Company—Canal Board and City Administration Brand Charges as False Committee is Left Floundering by the Kick-back.

WHAT THE CANAL BOARD SAID

This reference to a canal board is addressed by L. C. Salladay, T. T. Wright, J. C. Robinson, J. W. Barker, J. H. Denson, and J. W. Priddy, members of the canal board. With a view to such statement, the canal board has been informed by the city administration, as the statement further forth.

MR. DENTON'S STATEMENT

I regret more than I can say that my name has been dragged into discussion of the city election. I am taking no personal part whatever in the campaign for the city council. My only interest in the case of any candidate is being content to treat the duty of choosing worthy officials with the voters, who are themselves thoroughly familiar with the issues and the candidates.

MAYOR SWIN'S STATEMENT

Mayor A. L. Swin stated in an interview this morning that he had never published articles in which charges were made that D. M. Denton had been guilty of any wrongdoing. He stated that the city administration would approve a hearing of the city's water rights.

May Precipitate Southwestern Arguments in Armed Clash—Englishmen Grow Anxious, Italy Insists on Self-Determination

PARIS, April 21.—The Italian-German dispute over Fiume, which has already threatened to precipitate an armed clash in southwestern Europe, was taken up today by Premier Lloyd George, Premier Clemenceau and President Orlando. The meeting of the four great powers and President Wilson did not attend the session of the premier who are laboring with the question of Fiume.

Unjustified Attack on Mr. Eldridge.

(An Editorial)

The statement of the committee charged with the management of the campaign of Mr. Eldridge for mayor, appearing in a morning paper is so unfair to Mr. Eldridge as to leave doubt as to the honesty and sincerity of the committee.

Mr. Eldridge is a member of the city council. The committee boasting Mr. Eldridge for mayor openly and emphatically, though entirely inadvertently, charge that the present city council, of which Mr. Eldridge is a member, is under the absolute control of Dan Denton. That is unfair to both Mr. Eldridge and to Mr. Denton. But the inadvertence is only the natural consequence of dealing with half truths and trying to present a black picture of bribery and corruption and unbecomingly.

The statement says: "Mr. Denton's interest in the underwriting followed by his recent appeal to the canal board. He sought to have the board transfer to him the city's share and water rights in the canal company. In exchange for these holdings of the city, he offered his fillings on waste waters in Rock creek, the city to bear the expense of lifting the waste water from Rock creek and carrying it to Twin Falls. The canal board refused to transfer of the city's water rights in this manner. Mr. Denton at that time said to the canal board that he would guarantee that the city administration would approve the proposition."

The first absurdity in this paragraph is the supposition that the canal board had the right or power to "transfer to him the city's share and water rights in the canal company." A child acquainted with the rudiments of irrigation law would know that the canal board has no power to transfer rights from one person to another without the consent of the person holding title to the rights. But the canal board was adamant in the will of the man Denton, and it refused to have any say in the city's water rights in this manner.

If the canal board has authority to "transfer of the city's water rights," it is certainly true that Twin Falls approves its dependence upon the canal board. The city might wake up some morning and find the board had been corrupted by some unprincipled person and had actually "chartered off its water rights."

The alleged corruption of the council is contained in the next sentence, where Mr. Denton "said to the board that he would guarantee that the city administration would approve the proposition."

This statement is so grossly unfair to Mr. Eldridge and to the other members of the city administration seeking reelection that it need hardly be considered worthy of refutation. The idea that Mr. Denton had "seen" the administration, and had the deal "all fixed up," so that all that was necessary to carry through a theft of the city's water rights was to get the consent of the canal board, and only reflects upon the intelligence of the members of the committee; but it directly accuses Mr. Eldridge of being particeps criminis of a most gigantic fraud. That a committee of men pretending to manage an election campaign for a decent citizen should thus inadvertently charge their candidate with accepting an indefinite bribe is almost beyond belief. Certain truths are better left unmentioned.

Another striking feature of the "statement" is that such men as L. C. Salladay and L. T. Wright should sign it. Certainly men of their caliber, if they had given any consideration to the real meaning of the statement, would not have been drawn into placing their names to it. If they had analyzed the statement, or if they had known anything that was in it, they would have joined the suggestion that Mr. Eldridge was guilty of the thing therein charged against him and the other members of the city administration.

The Times has no interest, direct or indirect, in the result of the city election. The one desire of the Times is to build up a bigger and better community. It is a good feeling among the people here. The Times regrets the scurrilous attack upon Mr. Eldridge by the committee, purporting to be charged with the management of his campaign for election as mayor. It would be unworthy even of his enemies, if he has any.

If the ability represented on the ticket headed by Mr. Eldridge, hoisted in the political advertisement, could create a favorable public opinion, some of it should be displayed in getting up "statements" which, though intended to hamper the character of political opponents, at least do not stand with a black record the very men they seek to knock into office.

THE WEEK IN EUROPE

One of the hypochondriacal developments of the week in Europe is the reported strict observance in the terms of the peace treaty which is being concluded with Germany. Many would refuse to sign, the condition would seem to place Germany in the same stultifying position of opposition held by certain Central States. It is believed that those oppositionists of all leagues of nations even before the provisions of the league covenant were known.

It is thought that covering the purported severity of the terms, although Premier Lloyd George in his address to the house of commons failed even to intimate what those terms are, on the ground that advance publicity would tend only to stimulate German opposition to signing.

With the rumors came more or less well founded statements covering some of the vital points to be covered by the treaty in relation to Danzig, the Saar valley and the Italian claims on the Adriatic.

Major Paderewski presented the Polish claim to Danzig, but developments indicate that if his pretensions depend upon securing Polish control of Danzig, his political career is doomed to a short life, for the decision seems to be that Danzig shall be a free port.

The Saar valley will remain German territory, but the mines will be under French control until the French mines of the Lorraine district, destroyed by the German invaders, have been restored.

Italy stirred up a hornet's nest by permitting it to become known that she would insist upon the Italian position regarding the Adriatic sea without regard to the rights of other nations, and if her imperialistic policy were frustrated upon, she threatened to withdraw from the conference and conclude a separate peace with the central empires. This threat was immediately met by the declaration that Italy's economic position would be rendered untenable by allied economic pressure, whereas the threat was withdrawn and the conference continued.

Japan's participation in the conference is one of the disturbing elements in the discussion. Baron Okuma, former foreign minister of Japan, in an interview declared that the American delegates to the conference recognized the complete justice of Japan's attitude, and insisted that the position would be maintained to the end, certainly Japan could not enter into a league on the basis of equality if inequality were written upon the face of the document binding the nations in loving sympathy.

The progress of Bolshevism seems to have been arrested during the week, and reaction against the obscurities of that particular branch of socialistic or communistic doctrine seems to have set in. However, there are indications that the signatures of France are planning the overthrow of the Clemenceau government as soon as the peace treaty is signed, if, as rumors more or less well founded indicate, the inability to be charged against Germany will not be sufficient to pay France's war bill without added taxation on her profits and industries. France has been insistent upon an heavy indemnity from the central empire, but the decision of the conference seems to be that that question shall be submitted to an allied commission to be determined within two years after a thorough investigation of Germany's ability to pay.

Time for calling the German into conference is still indefinitely set for the latter part of the present week, or the early part of next week. The slogan, "Peace by Victory," has lost its potency by the passing of the holiday without its consummation of peace. Reports that Germany would refuse to sign unless the London principles of President Wilson were strictly adhered to is no longer common talk here.

The political significance of the communist control of the principal city of Bavaria is difficult to estimate when it is coupled with the conflicting reports regarding the advance upon Munich of armies from Prussia and Switzerland, and the decision that the two attacking armies will not be permitted to join forces. Labor disturbances continue to menace the peace of the large cities of Germany with possible overthrow of the government. Fighting and looting has accompanied these disturbances.

It is asserted that America's reputation will be appreciated by the negotiators of a billion dollars, an amount so small as to appear insignificant in comparison with the demands of France and Great Britain. It is believed, however, that the payments to those powers will be not really less than the demands. This latter fact would seem to place the negotiators of the transactions in a peculiar position after attainment of the peace conference.

Although the progress toward peace during the last week would seem to merit the statement that it is coming to America, and not disconcerting to any other nation in the conference, unless it be Italy or Japan. Hence is held on that the r-puzzling problems involving those two nations will be cleared up within a few days.

SWISS MILITARY SYSTEM

One of the rather curious things resulting from the terms of war is the supposition that the so-called "Swiss" system of military training kept out of the war, and rendered the hills of the mountain-bound republic immune from attack, even by the great German military machine. So deeply impressed is this notion that a delegation of Americans has gone to Switzerland to study this marvelous "system." The Swiss army was reported at the beginning of the war to have had 400,000 men, while the German army numbered some twenty-five times that number. Imagine a system by which military efficiency is so well developed that one can stand off twenty-five in the German system, therefore regarded as the most perfect in the world, and then imagine a delegation of United States soldiers and members of congress going there to learn about it. Truly, marvels of efficiency are found in spots where least expected.

Doubtless the reason Switzerland escaped invasion by the Germans was because a current of Switzerland was regarded as inviolable inasmuch as the Germans were loathe than a belligerent Switzerland. As a result of her neutrality, Switzerland has benefited much to Swiss, despite the loss for a of deluged manors and depredated fields. So the benefits of the 400,000 army trained under the Swiss system which guaranteed freedom from attack during the war is impossible of securing for them from attack after the war. It seems the perfect system has some defects that need remedying before it is adopted in America as the best method for compulsory military training. It would be desirable to have the army take care at the after-effects of war as well as rendering the nation immune from attack. Let it be hoped the American delegates work the system to the proper perfection before it is fastened upon the nation.

THE SUNDAY TIMES

Yesterday, for the first time in the history of Twin Falls, a daily newspaper got out on a six-page paper and that paper was The Times. The size of the paper was justified by the enormous advertising demands upon its columns. As a matter of comparison, it is interesting to note that The Times carried 916 inches of paid display advertising, while the original Sunday morning paper carried 392 inches. The record is interesting as showing the outstanding position of The Times as the leader in this field. Circulation, advertising, news give The Times the prestige it enjoys. You must "Keep Up With The Times."

THE COMMUNITY KITCHEN TODAY

Local workers for the Victory Loan express confidence in the outcome of the drive for the Twin Falls cent. Monday, from State and national workers, and confidence was in the outcome. At the Washington Saturday announced that the country was ready to go over the top for the Victory Loan for victory—complete and forever.

Incidentally, Washington pointed out that while the American people were lending their money to the government as the price of victory, the most powerful military nation of Germany is facing the necessity of dipping into almost untold millions, also, billions of dollars in the price of defeat by her cherished plans.

After all, things, however expensive, defeat is more so. America enjoys the privilege which the enemy faces the necessity of paying.

WHEN DEATH FUNERARIED

ALTONA, Pa., April 21.—When an obituary notice is published in the morning paper, it is customary to place a check for $200 in the name of the deceased, to be used for funeral expenses. This is the custom in this city, and a government check for war time insurance, the young soldier was sitting in his mother's lap, and she was weeping.

The community kitchen project of an unprecedented character of food available for the city of Altona, Pa., is being carried out by the village of 2,200 houses in 2,000. That the 200 houses are being prepared to receive a number of the city's population.

In an effort to conserve energy of the "community kitchen," it has been suggested that one shop be allowed for the fellow, past fifty years of age, with two others in the house, may, however, need them more.

ADULT CASSED TOMATOES HELD BY THE ARMY

Tomatoes to the effect that prices for tomatoes in Canada will be lower this year because canned tomatoes are being purchased in large quantities on the market are said to be current in some producing sections. The army, however, has just announced an increase in the amount of canned tomatoes needed as a part of the army ration and has added the following catch words to the regular ration: "Dried, string beans, peas, pumpkin, oil, spinach, etc." The effect of this increase is that the price of the stock held by the army and that none of these will be available.

THE LEFT HAND

IN HELLS, April 21.—Paris has been expressed that the general government, however, may interfere with the plans of Major J. C. W. Forster for his flight to Canada. The general government has an objection to the flight, particularly in view of the fact that Major Wood had announced that he would return to the general government.

This would require the recognition of the left hand as a separate entity of the left hand and it was said that Major Wood had not done so, and that he would return to the general government.

THE HORSE BELIEFS

TO BE LEFT BEHIND

MILWAUKEE, Pa., April 21.—"Bargler," an extra horse of Truck No. 1, was left behind at the latter end of the firehouse on Madison avenue when firemen responded to a fire in the city.

"Bargler," a beautiful bay, packed his way out of an incredibly tight stall and with his hind feet held up, he was the last to be pulled through the door. He was pulled by the firemen with the aid of a horse.

INERT THE CAMPAIGN BEGINS

While poultry raisers in the north are busy with the task of hatching eggs, the lifeless-egg campaign has been begun in Florida by poultry raisers in the marketing men of the United States department of agriculture, starting in cooperation with the state agricultural colleges. The marketing campaign began with the close of the hatching season and will develop into a nationwide movement. Just as soon as the first eggs are required for incubation the rooster should be parted apart from the hens or killed. It is not to be expected that the specialists say, for eggs are hard to keep in hot weather and infertile eggs keep longer.

HAVE STOOD TEST OF TIME

Quotations With Which All Are Familiar Acquire Popularity Only Because of Their Merit

The quotation worthy of the high title of "timelier" must have stood the test of time and passed unscathed through the shifting tides and fashions of sentiment. In its lull on its humble way it must show that, like Shakespeare, it "was not, for an age, but for all time." I need the word "timelier" because the figures of childhood, of the nursery, fulfill the requirements of age. In a quotation worthy to be called familiar, their intrinsic, their abstract merits may appear slight, they may even seem to be mere sentiment, but they are cherished by mothers and nurses and by the children themselves, from generation to generation. The same is true of those that they would not thus have lived and prospered if they had not possessed some quality, however slender, of genuine worth, of real humor or imagination, which gave them permanence.

There are the popular sayings, the folk tales and ballads and the songs of the people with an approval that is the mark of enduring, which, stored in human memory and kept alive only by human lips, have come down across the centuries with their endless variations until at last they have been gathered up, transcribed and the antiquarian and made safe from oblivion by print and paper. These tales and ballads are often, rife in form and expression, but no curious faculty is needed to explain their long life and lasting familiarity. In them you find wit and wisdom, words struck from the heart there of experience by men and women struggling unknown through what we call life—Henry Cabot Lodge in Reviews.

FORTUNATE IS HOMEY MAN

If Unusually Attractive, the Unhappy Man Seems Doomed to Misfortune All His Life

I have an objection whatsoever to children, being beautiful, or to young girls being beautiful, or to a woman of whatever age being beautiful. But I do insist that for a man not to be homely is his misfortune. Irvin S. Cobb writes in American Magazines. The handsome man starts with a handicap at the very cradle.

Women of all ages insist on cooing over him and talking baby talk to him and chucking him under the chin and kissing him—especially kissing him—and saying that he is just too sweet to appreciate those attentions the whole procedure "just annoy him carefully. Should his beauty last into his boyhood the chances are that he has the sort of mother who will make him wear the blue suit and dress him in so about publicity in a broad-brimmed, and a black velvet suit with a sash about his waist, and that means other boys will call him by sobriquets and nicknames and generally make his young life a burden to him.

Most woeful of it all, if all this beauty sticks to him after he has arrived at man's estate, only a "few friends" and "well-meaning" struggle against the odds of destiny and of circumstance can save him from drifting into the ranks of the millionaires, the movie picture stars and the floorwalkers in the department stores.

Concrete Oil Tank

Rising oil in concrete tank is the invention of an Australian. A tank with a capacity of about ten gallons was recently made with a completely treated concrete aggregate, and after being allowed to "weather" for seven days nothing was filled with petroleum oil. Thus filled, it was placed in a shed, where it remained for 15 weeks; at the end of this period it was carefully examined. With the exception of evaporation, no loss had taken place; there was no sign of leakage, and the entire weight of the tank was free from the smell of its contents. Upon removal from the spot on which it had been standing no trace of petroleum could be detected, nor had the upper side of the tank acquired any smell. This is probably the most severe test that could be applied to any container.

Wonderful Island

White Island, 50 miles from New Zealand, is probably the most extraordinary island in the world. It consists of an enormous mass of rock nearly three miles in circumference, rising 200 feet above the sea and is perpetually enveloped in dense clouds, which are visible for almost a hundred miles.

The island is rich in sulphur, which for some reason has not yet been adequately utilized. In the interior is a lake 500 feet across, the water of which has a temperature of 170 degrees Fahrenheit, and is already impregnated with acids. Great quantities of steam escaping from crevices on one side of the lake form the cloud that continually envelops the peak.

Children's Fancies

Children live in a world of fancy. Whatever may be the real cause of the things they see these things to them are real. Remember that the child has had an experience by which to judge the importance of mental relations of what they see or imagine. Even men and women sixty years old will not recall, unaided, the details of their lives, attach absurd importance to their imaginations. How could it be with a child who has not been long enough to test his senses by the standards of observation and experience—Harvard.
