RICKARD GRABS SHEKELS AND WORRIES NOT

TOLLEDO, O., May 12.—With the very onset of his labor with the Toledo Reds, the "champion promoter" of the "Whed-Thru" Fourth of July battle here, refused to be worried as to the selection of the third man in the ring. Approximately $17,000 has already arrived for choice.

The well-known gambler George C. Hunter, the French heavyweight; also, he might consider "Nelson, former heavyweight champion, who has secured "service rights" further, Tom would consider Matt Hinkel, but Rickard is looking after the details and the money.

There has 2500 "ringside seats" which he plans to dispose of at $50 per seat. These are not occupied by men, officials and a few friends. The other seats are offered at $10, $15, $20, $25 and $30. The 110 seats are approximately 250 for the "Whed-Thru."

Despays is expected to arrive here late tonight or tomorrow from New York, bringing with him the "Jack" will lose no time in selecting ticket quarters and Toledo title fans will then be permitted to exchange tickets for the "Whed-Thru" on a line on the championship aspirant.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

PITTSBURGH, May 12.—The Cubs led before Pittsburgh today, 3 to 2 in a hard, close, hotly contested game. A single and a double proved the winning combination that footed them in his first year of the season.

McGraw Insists Early Openings Are Better Plan

NEW YORK, May 12.—Late in the afternoon McGraw, who is in charge of the baseball openings, says that the early season openings are all right if you wish.

In other words according to Manager John McGraw, of the Giants, the opening of a baseball season is merely a matter of the weather. If the Spring rains in New York are after a good start and with a lot of weather almost ball plays. But if the rain comes to the city and the players continue to linger around, with you lose.

This season's opening is given additional weight to McGraw's earlier contention that the early opening is the better plan of the two. The late opening avoids the risk of nothing or nearly all teams are held back by the rain and rain, so where was the season?

McGraw can point out ideal baseball weather, avoiding the opening days and seasons to argue that at least a part of the schedule could have been played during these ideal days.

Then, again, McGraw says the opening gives a fair opportunity to getting into a "whed-Thru" of 140 games before they take a lot of doubleheaders.

If there is one feature of the baseball game these managers and owners have not hit is the doubleheader. It is hardly hit rarely. It would be better to the owners that it could be brought to the fore as a regular feature of the game. And she played 12, not only as a feature of the game but as a double header as he is at the near-end of the season.

McGraw won 3 to 2.
Heckler won 3 to 2.

PUNCHING THE BAG

With Jack Vinick, (N. S. Sports Editor)

Miller Huggins, the main body of the fight, was in the ring. He has his body as a player, it should be only natural, then, to suppose that Huggins might attack another important person in the baseball world, if asked to name the most important part of a ball club's defense.

But Huggins is far from being prejudiced in favor of infielders. After receiving up the question to "Hug" and the little manager replied that the success or failure of his club depends first and last on the line-up on pitching.

"Pitching," said "Hug," "means everything to a ball club. It means hitting, fielding and base running. Play their part, and a big hit, too, but without good pitching what do they amount to?"

According to an observation the average ball club can be just about as good as its pitching staff. If it has good pitchers in other cases it may maintain the pitching staff but the ball club will be in the percentage column.

Walters and Hight and C. A. Hoyer represent the plaintiff.

ment of my life was to miss seeing the Twin Falls boys with me on my trip to Germany," he said. "I had looked forward to the keen pleasure of greeting the boys on their return home and to see them as a group of young men who were independent of my father, and many of them friends of my son, Fred."

We reached Colneville, the headquarters of our army of occupation late in the afternoon and called on General Smith at the commandant's office in the district. He gave us permission to visit our constituents.

W. G. and Mrs. G. H. Anderson of Ontario and Lester of Louisiana, were placed in charge of a captain who had instructions to explain the organization of the army to the citizens of Colneville. We did not know the names of various towns where they were placed and the information from headquarters was depended on him to take us to the different places. We had to wait until the morning when they were to depart. We were to spend the whole day driving through the country in our effort to locate the boys. At 1 o'clock we learned we were to go out of town at once. At the office was constantly studying his map and was assuming, to know the business we naturally traveled him. He evidently had the map and the notes which we met in the various towns. We were to leave at 10 o'clock. When we returned to Colneville late in the evening we learned that the boys had not yet returned. We had to leave at 10 o'clock. We were to leave at 10 o'clock. We were to leave at 10 o'clock.

FOOD STORES REDUCED—WASHINGTON, May 11.—With the object of gradually reducing the cost of foodstuffs for the American forces "forever" for the first time the department has made the establishment of contracts for meat, flour, etc., like a normal market contract, and the price of foodstuffs will be reduced accordingly. It is estimated that the price of foodstuffs will be reduced by 25 to 30 percent. It is estimated that the price of foodstuffs will be reduced by 25 to 30 percent.

ORDINANCE IS AGAIN DELAYED

Regulation of Offensive Odors Positioned Another Week to Allow Addition in Regard to Fly-Hatcheries Within City.

Action on the ordinance regulating business concerns, with regard to offensive odors or unsanitary substances, was again postponed when it came before the city council last night. The addition of new sections and the amendment of others caused it to fall over until next Monday for a final reading. "Proponents of the Ordinance," Messrs. J. J. Scavling, who had rendered careful consideration of the ordinance, and Attorney Galtree, who had presented it, were present last night with legal representation. Mr. Scavling and his attorney were also present. They discussed the ordinance with the council.

Attorney Galtree for the Central Market mentioned the fact that the ordinance covers the case of a fly hatchery in the courts and that he believed the council would be justified in suspending action until the court decision was reached. The market owners were contending in this case, he said, that if the building owners would put up a partition, the situation complained of would be removed. It wasn't fair, he thought, to saddle the matter on the city as long as it was before the court.

Mr. Scavling suggested that an ordinance be passed which would curb such a situation as that in question.

Attorney Galtree, representing Messrs. J. J. Scavling, the ordinance, and the fact that private matters were being settled in court need not affect any "allotment" or action on the ordinance. If it is passed, it will curb such a situation as that in question.

M. O. Stevenson, proprietor of the market, declared that a partition could be placed to relieve the situation entirely and that he thought the city was being asked to settle a private dispute. He suggested further that the head of the county board of health had investigated the situation and informed him that the condition was not a public health hazard of anyone. He also remarked that the ordinance resulting from the reading was obsolete.

City Attorney Galtree remarked that a brick partition was removed a similar problem for a local cafe, which Judge Dolecek had threatened to sue. He also stated that the ordinance was a measure to curb such a situation as that in question. Mr. Stevenson wishes to avoid the file.

Give the Kids Water—E. L. Macvicker addressed the council, saying that he has been informed that the children of the city are suffering from lack of water. He suggested that the city should provide water for the children of the city.

Little Bernice Towler Was Helpless She Could Not Move Without Assistance

To all who are sick Dr. Telford extends an invitation to call for a demonstration of his painless, drugless, scientific method treatment. He will give you a spinal analysis without charge, and tell you what causes your sickness without asking you a question.

Dr. Gilbert Telford, D. C.

110 1/2 Main Avenue North.

Read Mrs. Towler's Statement of How Dr. Telford Restored Her Daughter to HEALTH

My little girl had a severe attack of infantile paralysis, which left her completely paralyzed in one side and partially so in the other. She lost her memory, could not move without assistance and even walked with pain at the slightest touch.

For ten days she lay in this helpless condition, and then we heard what chiropractic had done for others, so Dr. Telford was called. After the first treatment she showed a decided improvement for the better. Each day she continued to improve and after taking 21 treatments she was able to walk. She is now in better health than ever in her life. Her cheeks are rosy and she is the picture of health. Her memory is restored and she is as quick and bright as ever.

It affords me great pleasure to tell what Dr. Telford has done for my little girl. It has brought me so much happiness that I feel that I am doing a good deed to humanity by my story to others who may be suffering as my little girl did before we heard of Dr. Telford.

SOMEBODY GOT THE WIRES TWISTED

Only a few weeks ago a number of the "unfriendly opposed" senators got together in Washington and signed a "joint resolution" in which they set forth their position in regard to the League of Nations. Immediately some of the signers wanted to forge it, some did not and only one has publicly asserted that he is still standing pat on the "unalterableness" of the position then assumed. Notwithstanding the weak-kneed backing down from their high and lofty "protection" of a public association, personally and collectively the Republican national committee, and other colorful, bluish-gray confederates of the "Second Declaration of Independence." It was a beautiful piece of work. Embodied in the text were extracts of the senators who sought imperishable fame—and votes—by their own assertion of untrammeled freedom.

But it has become evident that these senators fear this particular brand of immortality. It threatened to become anything but immortal. Unlike the signers of the first Declaration of Independence, these senators have not continued steadfast. They have begun to weaken and qualify and apologize. And now the "declaration" is printed in Old English text, illuminations and all—has been withdrawn from circulation. Copies of it will be more inaccessible in a few weeks than the original declaration is after 143 years. The signature of Senator Peorose is thus denied the chance to grow as familiar to the eyes of American school children as John Hancock's is!

The withdrawal of the new declaration of independence, because of the general opinion that it was an exhibition of ignominious and a vote killer rather than a vote getter, leaves the opposition to the League of Nations floundering around in uncertainty as to which way to jump. Borah's loneliness is not at all attractive to politicians, who would rather be right than be president. Some of them are satisfied to retain their jobs as senators, and they would rather have their jobs than be altogether alone in the world.

THE "ISSUES" IN THE SPECIAL SESSION

With the extraordinary session of congress convoked for next Monday, the politicians in the congress at Washington are preparing to manufacture a set of "issues" upon which they will take definite stands to which they can point with pride when they are forced once again to go before the people for re-election. The two centers of most importance to the country are the disposition of the treaty of peace and passage of the appropriation bills session by session than four billions which were allocated at the last session by filibuster in the senate.

Effort by Senator Borah last week to get the republican Republican leaders to announce their position regarding the peace treaty was evidently without very much effect. The senator's blow off his excess exuberance to no purpose, so far as telegraphic news dispatches indicate. His colleagues were afraid to make the treaty an "issue," as their previous attempts to embarrass the administration in the conduct of the war, the making of peace and the League of Nations proposal netted them nothing but inopportunities.

Now the tariff looms prominently on the horizon, and it is likely this threshold "issue" will be turned up again for the playing of the same old tunes, with "economic retrenchment" as the latter cry—all of which will make a delightful banquet for the progress of the bond issue.

The "issues" to be developed are so ill defined that political prophets in Washington say the outcries will likely be in almost no longer session from now until the convening of the Sixty-seventh congress in March, 1921, with short vacations, perhaps, to give the members opportunity to attend the party conventions to "keynote" during the summer of 1920.

GOVERNMENT ENDORSES ADVERTISING

The United States government was one of the biggest advertisers in the world when it went out in the nation to collect the billions of dollars for its bonds. If anybody has any doubt of the efficacy of advertising, let him consider the results which followed the government's efforts.

Doubtless it was the results following the five campaigns carried on by the nation to sell its bonds that has led the information and education service of the department to commend advertising as a means of putting the country back on a sound financial basis. The volume of newspaper advertising in the last few months in the United States has been unprecedented. National advertisers are using more space than ever before, and the newspapers are carrying more local advertisements than at any time since the destruction of war.

During the war the department of labor and other government agencies were compelled to ask people not to buy anything actually essential, because the war had to go on; but now, when it is of the greatest importance that the whole of industry start running and be kept running, the same agencies recommend advertising to stimulate trade.

By advertising extensively the seller informs his market what goods are likely to be bought. By careful reading of the advertisements the purchaser is enabled to choose discriminatingly; in order that his own needs may be best met and in order that his money may be utilized to best purpose.

ATTORNEY GENERAL DELIVERS OPINION ON NEW DEMOCRACY

The war has so filled our thoughts that we are apt to forget the great issue which has been before us, said A. Mitchell Palmer, attorney general of the United States, in an address delivered in New York recently.

The four years immediately preceding the war were crowded with events which have changed the very course of the ship of state, events which marked a new phase in the government, which nothing but a new philosophy could have brought about. There were recited a crushing defeat of the Teutonic power, which long have of power brought an answer to the cries of the people for relief from conditions which that party's interest in special privilege had made almost unchangeable.

The income tax was passed as a permanent feature of our revenue system, as part of the tariff law which has made almost unchangeable the heavy burden of taxation on the poor and placed them upon those most able to bear them and whose property class in the government was to be the question of tariff and tariff taxation was taken from the arena of politics and placed in a non-partisan tariff commission, and the power to destroy that commission was allowed the protected interests to write their own rates in the tariff law, and in the days of McKinley, Dingley and Payne, will create a resentment among taxpayers that will destroy the party that makes the attempt.

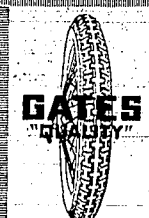

The exploitation of children in labor was stopped; a Federal Workman's Compensation law was passed and is being administered; and the department of the government was organized as the special guardian of the interests of labor.

The Federal Farm Loan System was established for the relief of the farmers, who found themselves unable to finance the agriculture of the country under the old system and special education was provided.

And last, but probably first in importance, the organic and inorganic system of finance, whose industries and failures the republican party had dominated for forty years, was reconstructed into the Federal Reserve System upon which no political party, however jealous of our achievement, will ever dare to lay its ugly hands.

We heard much, in the days preceding our entry into the war, of our superciliousness. I deny it. In the narrow military sense, of course, we were not ready. A peace-loving people, wishing only the happiness and well being of all the world, could not be the same as the most unscrupulous other peoples, hallowing war as a religious obligation, nor did our aim for the advance of Christian civilization along the paths of peace. But the war was fought not by armies but by the mind. The line of defense stretched from the front line trench to the banks and warehouses in the cities, to the factories and mills in the country, to the quiet farms in the valleys beyond the western horizon. When the time came for the nation to arm, the nation was well to the ramps and across the seas, while behind them on every side there were multiplied the great supporting columns from capital in finance and industry, from labor in mill and factory, from the soil in farm and garden patch, from the sea ready and they met an army of a hundred millions strong.

They were ready because their country had prepared to do so, and because the new system of finance, the new consideration for labor and the new support to the farmer. These were the measures which marked the real preparedness of the nation for any crisis. If such measures had not been adopted, the country would have been unprepared indeed. The reforms enacted into law during the first world administration constituted an un-

What Have You Done About Tires?

HOW 400,000 CAR OWNERS HAVE SOLVED THEIR TIRE TROUBLES

You, like every other motorist this spring, are thinking about your tires—and the kind you will buy.

For 400,000 other motorists the problem is an easy one. They have learned how witty can out their tire bills in half.

These motorists are taking advantage of a new scientific principle in tire construction. Because of this new principle of construction, they are using tires which are sold under a stronger guarantee than any tire now on your car; they have all the advantages of 20 per cent oversize and at only 1/2 the cost of ordinary tires.

These car owners are using Gates Half-Sole Tires.

Gates Half-Sole Tires are the invention of Charles C. Gates, E. M., and with five acres of factory working constantly night and day, we are now erecting additional buildings to double the capacity this year in order to keep up with the demand.

With these tires on your car, your tire troubles will be over—they are guaranteed puncture proof, and the largest business houses in the country are included among the 400,000 users who endorse that guarantee.

To you, Gates Half-Sole Tires mean better tire service than you have ever had before—end the cutting-up-of-your-tire bills once-hall.

There are over 1000 authorized service stations where you can investigate this remarkable tire economy. Trained experts located in this territory are listed below:

Most War Contracts Allotted to North

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Assessments made by Republican politicians that although the northern states have the heaviest burden of taxation for the war, the southern states obtained the larger share of contracts, are refuted by partial official figures here obtained by the war department. These figures show that expenditures by districts and account for nearly $4,000,000,000 of the total output of contracts for material and other ordinary requirements.

Of a total of $1,535,000,000 allocated through the thirteen ordinance districts of the country, $1,300,000,000 went to the eleven northern districts. The balance of the expenditures for ordinance purposes, aggregating $235,000,000, were allocated through the war department at Washington.

Owing to the character of the contracts made at Washington it has been difficult to ascertain those expenditures, and experts say it will be many months before the final figures by districts will be obtainable. Many of these contracts are already the subject of war claims.

The Washington office included the fourteenth ordinance district, comprising the states of North and South Carolina, where little or no ordinance work was done, and the state of Virginia, where the recent blow only "was" plant for the manufacture of smokeless powder and nitrocellulose, and where a leading plant had to be erected. The "overhaul" for ordnance work throughout the country, the way for ordinance personnel in all ordinance districts and plants, and the purchase of sites were met from the total of $7,500,000,000 allocated through the Washington office.

PRESIDENT WILSON IS GREAT SHEPHERD LEADER

BOSTON, May 12.—The great leader of the suffrage movement, the individual who has done more to advance the cause of suffrage in this country than anyone else in the last 25 years, is President Woodrow Wilson, declared Mrs. Antonio Park in an address in Symphony Hall which concluded the New England Suffrage Conference.

Mrs. Park drew an interesting comparison between the attitudes of the Democratic and Republican parties toward suffrage, declaring the balance distinctly in favor of the Democrats.

Mrs. Park's assertion, that the "most vicious opposition to woman suffrage in the entire country exists right here in Massachusetts" was greeted with prolonged applause, as was his reactionary attitude in this matter.

"What has been done for suffrage would never have been accomplished but for Woodrow Wilson. I predict that the Federal suffrage amendment will go through the most congress—and then it will be up to the women to select their party, for the ballot is useless unless it is the ballot of a particular party; the speaker, instead, concluding with an eloquent appeal in behalf of the League of Nations.

CROWN PRINCE LEARNS FUTURE THROUGH MYSTIC CARD READER

Told He Would Never Reign, But Fortune Teller Lacked Nerve to Foreshadow Disaster in Affair of the Heart—Kaiser to Die of Trouble in Head, Another Prophecy of Seeress.

(By Henry Jacques. Exclusive cable to the L. N. S. from the Petit Journal, Paris.)

CHARLEVILLE, France, May 12.—That the former crown prince of Germany, attempted to commit suicide at Charleville, last before his flight into Holland, was learned here today from a fortune teller known as Madame Emma, whose chief client during the German occupation of this part of France was Wilhelm's heir.

At the same time the ex-crown prince tried to shoot one of his numerous sweethearts, but was unsuccessful.

"You will never reign," was one of the sentimental predictions made by Madame Emma at one sitting she gave Frederick William.

I have just had a long talk with Madame Emma and the picture she paints of the former crown prince is far from that of a swash-buckling, victorious warrior.

Early in the winter of 1916 he entered her home in a side street of the town and without giving his name handed her a small number of pictures belonging to his wife's children.

"Where do they come from?" the imperial heir asked hesitantly.

Madame Emma, who had immediately recognized her visitor, had no difficulty in giving the correct answer to this question.

"Now read the cards and tell me what the future has in store for me," was the next command.

The fortune teller spread her cards upon the table, studied them closely and replied calmly:

"You will never reign."

Never questioning her prophecy, the then crown prince gazed with wide eyes and shoulders level the house without saying another word.

Madame Emma had better never depression upon him and later he called on several occasions to consult her, not about affairs of state, but concerning some of the love intrigues which made him notorious in this section. He confessed he had grown really "battered" with a girl in his teens" whom he called "Dolly" as soon as I saw her, I fell in love with her," the former heir confessed. "Then he asked her what the outcome would be.

LOCAL FRUIT NOT HURT IS REPORT

Orchardists Near Twin Falls Say Crop of Peaches, Pears, Apples, Cherries and Plums Were Undamaged by Recent Cold.

Fruit in the vicinity of Twin Falls is unharmed by frost, according to reports from several farmers near the city which show that first appearances following the recent cold may have been due to the extent of the damage.

W. M. Richardson, residing here, who has been in the Twin Falls section of the Times today, says his fruit crop was practically unharmed. He has peaches, pears, apples, plums and cherries. In the case of the peaches, he says a Crawford of Idaho-Wyoming also states that his crop of apples, pears, peaches, cherries and plums has not been damaged by the cold.

Similar report is given by a Washington of Home City ranch, three miles west of the city, all of which is in and in fine condition at present, he says.

DRINK CURING SANITARIUMS ARE HIT HARD

CHICAGO, May 12.—Two hundred drink-cure institutions throughout the United States will go out of business as a result of prohibition, James E. Bruce, an official of a large "drink" cure organization, estimated here tonight.

Prohibition already existing in the various states has caused a decline in the number of patients, Mr. Bruce said. Business is expected to decrease for a few months immediately after national prohibition becomes effective he said.

"Some of these institutions will rapidly decrease. A few years ago our organization had six hundred institutions in operation. Now we have 250. Drug cures constitute about 25 per cent of our business. It would not pay, however, to run the institutions for that class of cases.

Business picked up during the influenza, he said. It has been fairly good since. Other drink cure men expressed the belief that they could continue for a year after prohibition became effective.

The Great Explorer, MARTIN JOHNSON

PRESENTS HIS WONDERFUL PICTURES

THE CANNIBALS OF THE SOUTH SEAS

THE WAR DRUMS ARE SOUNDING

Through the cocoanut groves, the warriors, naked black giants, brandishing huge spears and gaily decorated with nose rings and human teeth, charge down through the village of thatched huts. The Devil-Devil man has rolled another skull in dried leaves and placed it over the fire to cure.

The native girls are dancing to the weird music of the Tom-Toms and nose flutes. The Virgins painted with vivid yellow, pass on their way to the marriage ground.

Here we see two brothers forty years of age, with jet black bodies and hair—snow white. They are celebrating a two days' festival—they are happy—they just buried their father alive.

Far into the inland where white foot has never trod, lives Chief Nagapaté, the most ferocious, cruellest, handsomest savage that Martin Johnson ever saw. He was fascinated with Martin Johnson's white wife. Imagine thrill after thrill and untold horrors, all of which were undergone by this plucky little woman who so heroically stood by her husband.

THINK A MINUTE!

A picture that brings to civilization, a savage—man-killing, man-eating race of deformed, idol-worshipping people—supposedly extinct years ago— That's the kind of exciting, instructive, distinctly different picture you see in "Cannibals of the South Seas."

Here is a story stranger than any book of fiction, more weird than Jack London's tales of the tropics—more fascinating than Stevenson's imaginative narrative on the wonders of the tropics. It took Martin Johnson fourteen months at the risk and hazard of his life to bring to you the most Sensational, Amazing and Startling picture of the strangest people on the face of the earth—man-eating—man-killing—and Devil-worshipping.

Educational institutions everywhere proclaim this the most instructive and wonderful set of pictures of its kind ever shown—Special prices—Matinee 10, 15 and 25c; Evening 10, 15 and 40c including the waltz.

Noted Attorney Out With Facts

Hon. H. W. Damon Preks 11 Italy To Tell Public His Experience.

Business Men, Professional Men, Farmers, Artisans, in fact people in all walks of life, including innumerable women, are now taking Tanlac, and are testifying daily to the preparation's remarkable value. This incontrovertible evidence is further strengthened by the statement of H. W. Damon, a well-known attorney-at-law, who resides at 2712 Virginia Street, Seattle, Tacoma, Wash. Mr. Damon practiced his profession in the state of Ohio for thirty-five years, and has many staunch friends throughout the west. In relating his experience with Tanlac recently, Mr. Damon said: "I feel it my duty to do whatever I can in behalf of suffering humanity, and I am more than glad for the sake of others, to give this statement about my wonderful improvement since I began the use of Tanlac. I have restored a great deal during the past two years from indigestion and stomach trouble in a very severe form. My food would not digest properly, but would lay in my stomach and ferment, causing gas, bloating and much pain about my heart. At times I was so affected by this gas that I could hardly breathe, and had intense pain all through my chest. Twice I was in such a bad way that I fell to the floor in an unconscious condition, and the second attack put me in such bad shape that I had to be hospitalized, although when I lay for thirty days I would go for two or three nights in succession with only two or three hours sleep, and the following day I would feel entirely worn out. I seemed to receive no benefit from my food, was inclined to be constipated and felt unfit for anything. I, of course, doctored, and took medicines of different kinds, but got very little, if any, result.

"While residing the Tacoma paper one day I came across a Tanlac advertisement, given by a Denver lady, and her case was exactly like mine. So since that time I have been taking Tanlac, and the result have far exceeded my expectations. I have only been taking it for about ten days and have already been almost entirely relieved of the gas and bloating. My appetite is so constant, my weight is falling faster on food that I have to guard myself to keep from eating more than I should. I have gained eleven pounds in weight already, and am still picking up. I sleep soundly every night and get up in the morning as fresh as a daisy. I believe that Tanlac has proven to be just the right thing in my case and I gladly give others the benefit of my experience with it.

"Tanlac is now sold in Twin Falls by City Pharmacy, in Rogersburg by Thompson Drug Co., in Mariaville by Murphree Drug Co., in Piler by A. H. Wood, in Bush by C. D. Barlog Drug Co., and in Kimberly by W. A. S. Stone."

Real War Background For Motion Pictures

LONDON, May 13.—American movie fans will agree that their favorite local attractions of the "Dames Players-Lasky" in productions filmed on the "historic backgrounds" of the old war.

Philadelphia and castles of England, scenes in Paris and other French cities which have become so familiar to eyes of thousands of American soldiers on the lawn punch or empty court house back home, still figure prominently in these American picture old war movies.

A $2,000,000 Anglo-American motion picture corporation, the Famous Players-Lasky Production Company, has been formed here to exploit the picture business opened up by the war.
